FRED THORBAHN THE CHIEF WITNESS FOR STATE AGAINST DIETZ

Former Deputy Takes Stand in Trial at Hayward.

Is Halted During Quiz of Witnesses—Will Impeach Testimony.

Hayward, Wis., May 8.—When the Dietz murder trial was resumed this morning, Former Sheriff William Giblin was recalled to the stand by the prosecution to testify to having been shot at on May 8, 1905, while approaching the Dietz cabin at Cameron Dam with other deputies. Pat McGinn, one of the men with Giblin, was injured, and Valentine Welsenbach, who was with Dietz, was sent to Waupun for twelve years for his part in the affair.

The state gathered up a few loose threads of evidence this morning before calling Fred Thorbahn, one of its most important witnesses to the stand. Thorbahn led the deputies against Dietz on Oct. 8 last.

The Dietz "arsenal" was brought into the courtroom for the first time today.

Dietz Takes Exception.

Dietz was blocked by Former Attorney General L. B. Sturdevant from cross-examining Giblin beyond the facts brought out by the prosecution. He rose to his feet and said to Judge Reid:

"I can't understand why the state's attorney can ask these questions and I am stopped. I must take exceptions to the court's rulings."

Irwin Glauque, one of the men with Giblin, was called. He was the member of the party who was shot through the hat and fell out of the wagon. He testified that Dietz kicked him, and that Welsenbach ordered him to "get out or he would be filled so full of shot he could not get out."

Will Attack Testimony.

Dietz asked Glauque if he was not arrested once in Eau Claire on a charge of murder.

"Why, no," was the reply.

"How many aliases have you?"

"None."

At Dietz's request the judge caused Peter Corbett and William Bohmer to be sworn. Dietz will try to impeach the testimony of Glauque with the two new witnesses.

Fred Thorbahn was called to the stand. He reviewed the material events of the day of the fight from the time the light came over the clearing, and a curl of smoke went up from the cabin chimney.

"I was walking across the flowage," he said, "a good instance from the cabin, when I saw a man at the corner of the house. I thought I was too far away for him to get me, but I kept my eyes on him, sideways. I heard a report and saw the shot strike in the grass about fifty feet in front of me. It was a fine shot—a nice shot, but a little low."

Thorbahn Smiles At Defendant.

"I went down on one knee as I heard another report," Thorbahn went on. "This one struck the grass two feet from me. I swung loose with a couple of automatic Lugers and the man got out of sight pretty quick."

State Closes Testimony.

With the testimony of Thorbahn, the prosecution brought its case to an end today.

Thorbahn testified to a conversation with Dietz after the surrender in which "the old man" is claimed to have admitted firing twice at him. Thorbahn said Dietz told him the scratches on his face were caused by splinters thrown from the roof of the barn by bullets.

The cross-examination was short and apparently netted the defense nothing.

RENEW OHIO BRIBE PROBE

More Indictments Are Predicted By Prosecutor Turner.

Columbus, O., May 8.—With the convening of the grand jury at 10 o'clock today and the meeting of the legislature at 5 p. m., the graft scandal which has thus far involved five members of the legislature will be in full swing once more.

Prosecutor Turner denied the rumor that the investigation will end with the indictment of one more senator and representative. He announced that efforts will be made to summon Harvey Garber, member of the national Democratic committee from Ohio. Mr. Turner also intimated today that there are prospects of a big explosion which will implicate a number of people. Perjury charges will be made and indictments will be returned, he said.

SEEK REDRESS FOR EMPLOYES

Washington, May 8.—In an effort to devise some legal system by which victims of industrial accidents will not be compelled to institute expensive lawsuits to obtain redress, the employers' liability and workmen's compensation commission, appointed by President Taft, will begin public hearings Wednesday. Representatives of the railroads and several labor leaders will be heard. The commission will make a report to congress by Jan. 1 next.

The proposed legislation would affect employes in interstate commerce, in the government service, and in the District of Columbia.

DYNAMITE UNEARTHED

McNamara Bail Question Is Puzzling the People.

Los Angeles, May 8.—An investigation following the finding of eighty sticks of dynamite near the beach on the Malibou ranch, in this county, was begun today.

In the cases of John J. McNamara and his brother, James B. McNamara, who are accused of murder by the use of dynamite, John B. Fredericks, district attorney, and Job Harriman of Los Angeles, attorney for defendants, will confer tomorrow with Judge Bordwell to determine the amount of bail John McNamara would have to provide if he were to be freed on the charge of dynamiting.

Considering that dynamiting is the less serious of the charges against them, there has been a great deal of speculation as to why the defense desires to know what bail would be required on that charge.

RAW WOOL TO GO ON THE FREE LIST

Action By House Is Said to Be Practically Assured.

Washington, May 8.—That the ways and means committee will put raw wool on the free list is revising schedule "K" was declared to be practically certain today and resulted in a caucus of the Democratic delegation from New York at which eighteen members declared themselves in favor of free raw wool and four argued against it. All pledged themselves to abide by the decision of the full Democratic caucus.

SEEK REVENGE FOR MAN'S DEATH

Relatives of Philadelphian Claim Politics Got Slayer Free.

Philadelphia, May 8.—Determined to avenge the death of George Leary, a real estate man of this city, relatives of the dead man today caused the rearrest of Frank McMahon, a saloon keeper, who shot and killed Leary last Thursday and was discharged from custody on Saturday by Coroner John W. Ford.

The case has attracted general interest because of the part the "unwritten law" plays in the tragedy. When arrested McMahon said he called on Leary, who was 51 and a bachelor, to see what he was going to do for his 18-year-old daughter who, McMahon charged, was betrayed by Leary. McMahon said that Leary sneered at him, that he shot him and was glad of it.

No Lockout in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 8.—The general lockout of 900 bricklayers theratened by the contractors as a result of the action of the employes last Saturday when they took a half holiday despite objections from the employers, did not materialize today.

CUNNINGHAM CASE ARGUED

Alaska Coal Land Question Is Approaching Determination.

Secretary Fisher Hears Lawyers in Last Hearing on Claims.

Washington, May 8.—After having been out of the public eye for some time, the Cunningham Alaskan coal lands claims, which brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation because of charges by Louis R. Glavis, a former field agent of the land office, today approached their final determination. Attorneys for the Cunningham claimants appeared to argue their cases before Secretary of the Interior Fisher, Land Commissioner Dennett and members of the board of law review of the general land office. It was expected the hearing would be concluded tomorrow.

Thirty-three Claims Involved.

The Cunningham coal land claims thirty-three 1 number, are so called because it was Clarence Cunningham of the State of Washington, who, while in Alaska in 1902, discovered the coal which led to the filing of claims by himself and thirty-two others.

Opposition to the final granting of the claims was due to the charge that there was a conspiracy to defraud the government.

Glavis, who wrote to President Taft,

MILLION IN GOLD FROM MEXICO

Unknown Parties Send Wealth to New York for Safety.

New York, May 8.—Mexican gold coin to the amount of nearly $1,000,000 has been received at the federal subtreasury and assay office here within a short time past, it was learned today. Substantially half the amount has been melted into bullion at the assay office. The remainder was deposited at the sub-treasury. The gold was all of recent coinage. The shipments were said to have been made through a prominent Wall street bank.

The newness of the coins gave rise to reports that they came from the vaults of some big public or private institution in the Mexican capital. It was reported that some one, possibly a high official of the Mexican government, anticipating a crisis in Mexican affairs, had shipped the gold here as a precautionary measure.

It was said later by the bankers that the shipment was in the regular course of their business as correspondent of a financial institution in the City of Mexico. It was possible, they said, that it reflected the alarm of some private individual over the Mexican situation.

CIGAR LEAF TOBACCO ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Lancaster, Pa., May 8.—The Cigar Leaf Tobacco association began its thirteenth national convention here today with seventy-five delegates present, representing all sections of the United States. There were also more than 100 other persons in attendance from many sections of the country. The association consists of tobacco firms who do an annual business of $200,000,000.

METHODISTS PLAN UNION

Consolidation of Three Divisions of Church Discussed.

Movement Begun in 1894 Theme of Chattanooga Meeting.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8.—Envoys from the three great branches of Methodism met here today to lay a foundation for the unification of the alienated divisions of the church. Plans for the federation of the denomination that were begun seventeen years ago are shaping into complete form. The three branches represented are the Methodist Protestant, Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal church, South. A sub-committee of the joint commission was scheduled to convene here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The joint commission consists of twenty-seven members, each church being represented by nine commissioners, and its first session will be held Wednesday to receive and act on the report of the sub-committee.

Started in 1894.

The federation movement was begun at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Memphis, Tenn., in 1894, when the commission representing that denomination was created. Later similar commissions were appointed by the two other churches and the three held a meeting at Baltimore in December, 1910.

At that time a sub-committee of three from each commission was appointed to inquire into the causes of the alienation of three branches of Methodism and to formulate and present a plan for unification. The committee met at Cincinnati early in the present year and agreed upon a tentative plan of federation which will be submitted to the commission at its meeting here this week. The meetings of the sub-committees are being held behind closed doors.

SAY FRENCH MUST NOT OCCUPY FEZ

Germans Warn Paris Government—News Is Pessimistic.

Berlin, May 8.—Germany has warned France of the dangerous consequences which would be likely to follow the occupation of Fez by French troops.

There is no truth, however, in a rumor published this morning that Germany had decided to send three cruisers to Moroccan waters in order to display the flag at Casa Blanca, Rabat, Mogador and El-Araish.

In view of the hint from Berlin, it is believed here that the French flying column from the southwest, which has been hurrying to the relief of Fez, will be halted outside the capital.

News Is Pessimistic.

Tangier, Morocco, May 8.—The French, British and Austrian consuls received messages of a pessimistic character from Fez today. The dispatches received state that Col. Brulard's relief expedition is still close to El Knitra, the French advance being barely thirty miles beyond Rabat. This column was expected to reach El Knitra on May 1 and to make the intervening 100 miles to Fez by forced marches not later than last Saturday.

Jap Officers in Berlin.

Berlin, May 8.—The Japanese military commission, headed by Maj.-Gen. Yameguchi and Maj.-Gen. Todoye, arrived here today for the study of artillery fortifications.

OFFICIAL NOTICE THAT DIAZ IS PREPARING TO RESIGN RECEIVED BY GOVERNMENT AT WASHINGTON

President Appeals to People to Keep Order in the Country.

Washington, May 8.—Official confirmation of the intention of President Diaz to retire was received today by Senor Zamacona, the Mexican ambassador, in the following delayed dispatch from Foreign Minister De La Barra, dated last night:

"Tonight or tomorrow a declaration of Gen. Diaz will be published in which he addresses the nation, explaining the actual political condition of the country and the efforts made by the government to re-establish peace. The president states therein the reasons which prompted him to refuse the demand of the insurrectos to resign conjointly with the vice president. These reasons are based on considerations having in view the welfare of the nation and the dignity of the government.

Willing to Retire.

"Gen. Diaz further affirms his willingness to retire from power as soon as he is consciously convinced that there is no fear of the country being plunged into anarchy by his act. He finishes by making an earnest appeal to the whole nation to help forward the restoration of peace.

A distinct feeling of optimism regarding the Mexican situation prevails in administration circles today. The intention of President Diaz to retire is believed to be an irresistible step in the direction of peace.

No Stumbling Blocks.

The fact that Diaz himself is to be

ANOTHER FREE LIST BILL.

Washington, May 8.—Another free list bill was introduced in the house today. Its author is Representative Morse of Antigo, a Wisconsin Republican insurgent. It would exempt from duty articles imported for use in the construction and equipment of pulp and paper mills and in the manufacture of pulp and paper.

Washington, May 8.—Consideration of Canadian reciprocity began in earnest today on the senate side of the capitol, when the committee on finance took up the bill. The senate also had a session today, the meeting hour being 2 p. m., under the new rule.

Reservations of time before the finance committee have been made by many interests. Among the first to apply for a hearing on reciprocity were paper manufacturers of Detroit and vicinity. They are to be heard tomorrow. On Wednesday the American Pulp & Paper association is expected to be before the committee. Thursday chambers of commerce of Buffalo, Rochester, Detroit, Toledo and Cleveland are to send two cars filled with representatives to appear before the committee.

Farmers to Be Heard.

A delegation of farmers from Michigan have also asked to be heard at

CLAPP'S NAME TO GO BEFORE CAUCUS

Minnesotan Has Little Chance for Office in the Senate.

Washington, May 8.—A caucus of Republican senators will be held after the adjournment of the senate today for the nomination of a president pro tempore of the senate to succeed Senator Frye, who resigned on account of illness. The place is generally conceded to Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, but his nomination will be opposed by some of the progressive senators, who will urge Senator Clapp for the place.

NOTE LEFT BY SUICIDE

"Notify John G. Layton, Newcastle, N. B., and my brother, James H. Layton, attorney-at-law, Paris, Ont. My body is filled with abscesses. I fear the surgeon's knife and can no longer cope with this world.

"WILLIAM B. LAYTON."

The body of William B. Layton was found in the Omaha slip at Seventh avenue west this morning. In his pocket was a bottle, in which a note had been corked to protect it from the water. The body was badly decomposed and had evidently been in the water for a long time.

Little is known of Layton in Duluth. The city directory gives his occupation as clerk. He had a room in the Dodge block on Third avenue west from May to August last year, but nothing beyond that fact is known of him here.

The body was taken from the slip and removed to Crawford's undertaking rooms. Messages announcing Layton's death were sent to the addresses given in the note and the body will be held pending instructions as to its disposition.

SHOPMEN ON THE B. & O. STRIKE

Action Is Independent of Action of Pennsylvania's Employes.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 8.—Shopmen employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company at Glenwood, numbering more than 200, struck today as the result of a long dispute over piece work, and also the discharge of the master mechanic, which was followed by four foremen quitting last Saturday. This trouble is independent of the Pennsylvania shopmen's strike.

The second week of the latter strike opened today with 100 more men leaving the Ormsby shops, and also 100 men quitting work at Thompson, on the Monongahela branch of the Pittsburg division. Nearly 200 men also quit work at the Pine Creek and Herr's Island shops on the West Penn branch.

Railroad Trainmen Meeting.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—Delegates to the convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen are arriving on every train. The Western delegations came in force today and tonight the Southern delegation will arrive. During the day it is expected that a number of the high officials of the other railroad brotherhoods will reach here.

Business sessions will begin Wednesday morning, Tuesday night being devoted to public exercises.

Atlanta, Ga., May 8.—The annual convention of the Federation of Musicians opened here this morning with delegates from nearly every city in the Union and visitors from nearly every foreign country. Joseph N. Weber of New York, president, opened the convention. The federation has a membership of about 55,000.

Dr. Walters Is Accused of Accepting Bribe for Vote on Ordinance.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 8.—Dr. E. R. Walters, director of the department of public health, was placed on trial in criminal court today on a charge of accepting a bribe of $1,000 for his vote on the bank depositories ordinance while a member of select council.

District Attorney W. A. Blakeley announced that the selection of a jury to try Frank N. Hoffstot, the banker and car manufacturer, also charged with bribery, would commence as soon as the Walters jury was secured.

FIRE DAMAGES OMAHA SCHOOL

Omaha, Neb., May 8.—A stubborn fire which started in the elevator shaft of Creighton college at 2 o'clock this morning did damage exceeding $60,000 and will cause the suspension of classes of 500 students in the building for some time. Twenty-four members of the faculty, all of whom belong to the Jesuit order, were summarily aroused by the alarm and appeared in their night clothes when the firemen arrived. Immense quantities of water were poured into the upper floors and came near playing havoc with the valuable library and physics and chemical laboratories.

All the members of the faculty escaped injury, but one fireman was hurt by a falling ceiling.

FIVE MEN HURT IN CAR STRIKE RIOTS

Oklahoma City Men Go Out to Enforce Wage Demand.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 8.—One man was shot and four others were slightly injured here last night during a fight between special police employed by the Oklahoma Street Railway company and union men. Tom Davis, a spectator, was shot through the hand. Two special policemen and a street car conductor received minor injuries.

The trouble followed the refusal of the street car company to meet the demands of the carmen's union for an increase in wages. An attempt was made by union men and their sympathizers to prevent the running of cars, and when the police tried to make arrests the union men resisted.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city practically went onto a sun time schedule this morning so far as its manufacturing institutions are concerned, over a thousand men being affected.

The matter is being taken up by the merchants and business men with the idea of making the movement general in the city with prospects that it will be adopted within the next few days.

ICE BLOCKADE AT THE SOO

Floes From Lake Superior Broken Up and Drifting Through River.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today the ice in St. Mary's river and at the locks of the gates is the worst it has been at this season of the year for the last fifty years. Two weeks ago when navigation opened and for the following ten days the passage was clear of ice. Since then the ice fields at the various Lake Superior bays broke loose and choked the river. It is delaying all boats in locking from one to three hours. It is expected the ice will be out of the passage tomorrow afternoon.

HERO MEDALS ARE SUGGESTED

Rescue of Crew of Schooner Kate Howard Was Brave Deed.

Vessel men say that Capt. George C. Burt, master of the steamer Bessemer, and the members of the crew, should get Carnegie hero medals for their work in rescuing the crew of the schooner Kate Howard, which was wrecked on Lake Michigan.

A. F. Harvey, assistant general manager of the Pittsburg Steamship company, received the following report from Capt. Burt regarding the rescue of the sailors: "Yesterday afternoon about 5:45 o'clock, coming up Lake Michigan on a course from Point Betsie to Milwaukee and about five miles by Port Washington, wind N. N. E. strong and a heavy sea running, the mate and I noticed considerable lumber floating around. The mate remarked that some boat had lost her deckload. About that time I saw an object on the water about five or six miles to the westward, and decided to go and see what it was.

"We telephoned aft for the cook and second engineer to get everything in shape, as I was going to turn around, for I knew she would roll pretty heavy in that sea. She came around all right and we had gone only a few miles when I could see what it was, and there hanging onto the side of an old lumber schooner was the crew, three men and a boy.

"On account of the heavy sea I didn't think it safe to go alongside, but decided to get a small boat over and rescue them if possible. I was satisfied the mates and wheelsmen could handle the boat, and they did everything that could be expected. We were to windward when they put out in the small boat, then turned around and ran to leeward, turned around again, heading into the wind until they came alongside."

"The other members of the crew were standing by to get the men aboard, and the mate handled the small boat with the skill of a life-saver. After getting the crew aboard our crew hoisted the small boat aboard without any confusion or damage whatever. We turned around and headed for Milwaukee, arriving at dock at midnight.

"The men rescued were in a pitiful condition. They cried like children and could not have hung on much longer, for it was getting dark and how they managed to hang on all day in the cold and awful sea is more than I can understand, as it snowed and blew a gale all day. We did everything possible for them. They left this morning after many blessings on myself and crew, to get a tug and go and look for the wreck.

"The lifeboat of the Bessemer was in charge of First Mate T. J. Caffey, and the other members of the crew that put out in the smaller boat were Second Mate Peter Molitor, William Collins and Hugh McKaliney."

HEAVY SURPLUS OF ORE ON DOCKS

Twenty Million Tons Available at Furnaces—Light Movement Expected.

Lake Erie docks May 1 held in the proximity of 6,000,000 tons of iron ore as against 5,428,000 tons on the same day a year ago. It is estimated out of the 42,600,000 tons of ore brought down in 1910 about 35,000,000 tons have been consumed, leaving about 7,000,000 tons on hand.

A year ago it was estimated that the ore available for furnace use on May 1, 1910, was approximately 13,000,000 tons, and which it is believed is untouched. With the 7,000,000 tons left out of last season's movement the visible surplus is about 20,000,000 tons at furnaces and Lake Erie docks.

During the month of April the shipments from Lake Erie docks exclusive of the ore received from the mines was roughly 1,000,000 tons. During March 880,000 tons went forward, while revised figures show that between Dec. 1 and March 1, 2,186,200 tons of ore were shipped off the docks.

Exclusive of direct shipments during the last few days of April approximately 4,074,000 tons of ore went to the furnaces taking ore from Lake Erie docks during the closed season. There were Dec. 1, 1910, 10,015,000 tons on Lake Erie docks, and on May 1, 1911, approximately 5,941,000 tons. This is the greatest amount of ore ever left on the same docks at the opening of the shipping season which for dock records begins May 1.

If there are, as estimated, 20,000,000 tons of ore available and the average reserve at the opening of navigation is 10,000,000, it will require only 25,000,000 tons of ore to meet the requirements of a year as great as the one closed May 1. Based on these figures it does seem likely the season of 1911 will see a movement from the Lake Superior mines of many millions less than the record shipments of 1910.

What contracts have been made this spring for carrying ore from the upper lake ports have been deals with one or two exceptions between shippers and vessel companies governed by themselves. The ore fleet controlled by shippers can take care of a movement of about 25,000,000 tons and the independent shippers have no reason to expect any considerable business until it is assured that the movement in 1911 is going to exceed that by a large amount.

DULUTH FIRM LOWEST BIDDER ON DREDGING.

The bids received for the work of dredging which it is proposed to do at the harbor at Port Wing, Wis., will be submitted to the war department for final award. The bid of the Northern Dredge & Dock company of Duluth is the lowest, being 13½ cents per cubic yard or $6,345 for the work. The bid has been accepted by Maj. Francis R. Shunk, and when the official seal of the war department has been made, the work on the dredging of the harbor will begin.

The bid of the Duluth Marine Contracting company of 14 cents per cubic yard or $6,580, for the work, was the next lowest.

The Zenith Dredge company placed a bid of $9,517.50 and the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company of Chicago had a bid of $7,520.

HEAR HINES MAN IN TOWING CASE

Great Lakes Trust Probe Is Taken Up at Chicago.

Chicago, May 8.—Capt. Walter D. Hamilton of the Hines' Lumber company was called today as a witness in the inquiry before Special Examiner B. C. Miller for the federal government to discover the relations between lumbermen and the Great Lakes Towing company. The inquiry here is a part of the suit of the government to dissolve the towing company as a trust.

MANY VESSELS RUN AGROUND

Low Level of Water on Great Lakes Makes Trouble for Vessel Men.

Owing to the fact that the water on the Great Lakes is the lowest in history there has been an unusually large number of strandings. The low water makes it impossible in some cases for the steamers to take former courses when near shoal point or where the water is the least shallow.

The steamer J. H. Brown was aground at Lime Kiln crossing from clogged chains. The vessel has been released and is little the worse for the stranding.

The steamer John Stanton struck at Round island and sustained some damage to her plates. The striking of this vessel was due to the very shallow water. It is also reported that the steamer Glenwood of the Montreal Transportation company is aground at the present time on the shoal opposite Oak Point, above Ogdensburg.

Owing to the fact that the buoys had not been set the Glenwood was steered about thirty feet out of the channel course. The vessel is loaded with 80,000 bushels of wheat for Montreal.

NEW TUGS ARRIVE IN LOCAL HARBOR.

The tug Harvey D. Goulder and the tug Minnesota, which came in from Cleveland shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday evening, are at work today. Both of the tugs were in the service of the Union Towing company at Cleveland. They replace the tugs Inman and Superior, which have left for Cleveland under the charge of Capt. "Bill" Pringle. He will return here after he has delivered the old tugs into the hands of the officials of the Union Towing company at Cleveland.

The tugs that came up from Cleveland are steel and will prove a very great improvement over the old tugs. Capt. Charles Green will have charge of the Minnesota and Capt. M. Glockle has been placed in command of the Goulder.

For Waiting Seamen.

A new porch has been added to the quarters of the Lake Carriers' office at the foot of Fifth avenue. The porch is on the southern side of the building, facing the harbor, and will be very pleasant on warm or sunshiny days for the members of the association who make their headquarters at the office. There are many men waiting for employment at the present time, so that the addition to the quarters will be very greatly appreciated.

MANY FIRES ARE RAGING IN FOREST

Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan Fires Getting Worse Daily.

Ashland, Wis., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan are getting larger every day and a high wind would cause widespread devastation. Ten square miles have burned over near the lakes. The employes of the Montreal River Lumber company quit work to fight the flames. Two logging camps are reported burned near Mellen. Seventy section men on the Omaha road are fighting fires near Cable.

Vessels on Lake Superior are forced to come to anchor when nearing land on account of the smoke. The fires are burning in hundreds of scattered places on all sides of Lake Superior.

WORKING ON PARK SYSTEM

Beauty Spots of Duluth Are Put in Condition for Season.

Board's Expenditures Are Limited, Restricting Activity Each Year.

The spring activity in the city's park system is now under way and will continue until all parks have been put in first-class shape.

Most of the regular men have been at work for several days past, and they will have the bulk of the work on their hands. The annual appropriation of the park board is but $16,000, limiting the activities of the board to a considerable extent in every direction. If sufficient funds were available many other improvements would be made. But under the present conditions but little more can be done one year than was done the last.

In some of the parks a great deal of attention is paid to the flower beds. Different varieties of flowers are planted, so that once they start to bloom, the beds will be one mass of color continually, until the flowers are killed by the frosts in the fall. In all parks the pathways are being cleared of leaves and sticks, and the trees, particularly along the streets, are getting some attention.

This season the entire length of the boulevard is in excellent shape for light travel. The West Duluth extension has been finished and constitutes one of the prettiest parts of the drives. In scenery it equals, if it does not excel, that of the original boulevard, which is famous throughout the country. The driveway is being treated this year with a calcium chloride preparation which will lay the dust. It was tried as an experiment last year and was found to give the best of satisfaction. The same will be done with the driveways through the parks.

"HELL AND THE DEVIL LOOSE" IN THE STATE.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Protesting against observance of Mother's day because only one Sunday is set aside, a woman signing her name "A Mother," has written Governor Eberhart to reform Minnesota.

"God pity you if you allow our Sabbath days longer to be desecrated with baseball and theaters," the letter says. "With hell and the devil let loose, what influence can a mother have when you stand there as our governor to help destroy the state? What good will observance of one Sunday as a Mother's day do?"

HUNTING RABBITS WITH FERRETS.

St. Albans Messenger: An addition to game protective laws of the state, enacted at the recent session of the legislature, that will be read with interest in many sections of Vermont is the amendment prohibiting the use of ferrets in hunting rabbits. That the ferret, a member of the weasel tribe imported from Africa and domesticated, was used for the purpose of driving rabbits from their holes is a matter of common knowledge, for the picture of the little animal and a brief history appears in the big dictionary. That the practice of using ferrets has become extensive in the southern counties of the state is a fact that has not been generally known outside of the immediate vicinity.

Nearly every state in the Union east of the Mississippi river has enacted laws against the use of ferrets in taking rabbits, because the method is so destructive. Bunny in the burrow has absolutely no chance to escape from the ferret hunter. If the rabbit remains in its hole it will be killed by the ferret and if it rushes out of the entrance it is either captured in a bag or in the hands of the ferret's master. It is a pothunter's method and is generally condemned by all true sportsmen.

MOTOR CAR CURE FOR WHOOPING COUGH.

The Hospital: The favorable effects of a change of air in the later stages of whooping cough are well known and Dr. Manuel Rodriguez Portillo, in Clinica y Laboratorio, states that these results can be even bettered by ordering such patients to indulge in motor drives.

He imposes certain conditions, however, namely, that a clear, mild day be chosen for the excursion, a good level road selected, a speed of six and a half miles an hour never exceeded and that the child be placed on the front seat of the car, next to the chauffeur. He attributes the beneficial effects of this treatment to the increased depth of the pulmonary respiration thereby induced acting as a sort of sweeper out of the respiratory passages as well as to the tonic and stimulating action of the fresh air breathed. The appetite and blood forming powers of the system are also increased.

CHURCH SERVICE IS CONDUCTED BY BOYS

The services in the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, last evening were conducted by members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

Julius Nolte spoke on "A Boy and His Recreation." The young speaker said a boy has 1,000 muscles to keep him going and none to keep him still. The boys of today are the men of the future. He needs more play and more freedom. It is a problem as to how the boy should be cared for in his leisure moments.

A boy, declared the speaker, needs training of mind, body and soul. Athletic training got a brief from young Mr. Nolte, who thought the athletic field where boys get moral as well as physical training. The boys are brought closer to nature and to each other.

Glen Merritt spoke on "Some Things That Boys Can Do." He thought there is a difference between working for boys and work by them. A generation ago, he said, boys were tolerated, but he believed it has since been found out that there is a place in the world for them. He told what some of the boys of the boys' department had done.

Palmer Bevis spoke on "A Boy and His Religion." He though a boy was a side issue fifty years ago. The nation's future depends on the boy, he said. The boy at one time had no place in the church and not after Sunday schools were organized was his value to the church recognized. Most conversions of men to the church take place when the converts are 16.

Palmer Bevis.

The orchestra, mandolin club and boys' chorus furnished music. Edward Wood and J. R. Bachelor sang and Ludvig Melander played a violin solo.

"THE TRIUMPH OF BETTY"

Maude Leone Players Seen in a Charming Little Comedy Drama.

In "The Triumph of Betty," a four-act comedy drama charmingly told by W. G. Tremayne and Irving L. Hall, Miss Maude Leone and her company of players have one of the best opportunities for effective acting that has been given them since the initial production early in the present season.

Especially effective is Miss Leone in the character of Betty Bartlett, a part that achieved so conspicuous a success for Miss Adelaide Thurston. Miss Leone has done nothing better here. In the lighter comedy scenes she seems to get just the right interpretation from the lines, and in the big scene of the play, the meeting between Betty and the villainous George Wrayburn, Miss Leone does a very good and very effective piece of acting. Her climax is strong and shows good work by Miss Leone and William Donovan, who is the George Wrayburn of the piece.

The triumph of Betty consists in her showing to a community of sunnosedly deeply religious men and women that sometimes soundness of character, loyalty of purpose and true courage of conviction can be found in a person who is light of heart and gay of spirit.

Wilchester, Eng., is the scene of the pretty little play. Years before, when a young man, Betty's father had left the village because of the narrow, bigoted views of the inhabitants. He made his fortune in America and then decided to send his daughter, born in the great western part of America, back to visit the friends of his early manhood.

Betty finds the same conditions that disgusted and drove her father into a bigger and broader field of activity. The neighbors are shocked at her frank ways, and when she slides with the curate, the last degree of scandal is reached.

In the very end Betty saves the wife of Maj. Pierce Bartlett from probable disgrace and dishonor by a charitable and noble act. She saves Mrs. Bartlett from the power of George Wrayburn, who believes he has Mrs. Bartlett in his power because she borrowed some money from him, and also because he had some letters of hers in his possession.

Betty meets Wrayburn in his London rooms, taking the place of the distracted Mrs. Bartlett, and in the game of wits secures the letters from Wrayburn's desk. Betty is saved from physical attack by the entrance of Henry Bartlett, and makes her way out with the letters that Wrayburn has been using as a threat.

Miss Leone has a thoroughly congenial role in that of Betty and is ably supported by William Donovan in the big scene of the play. Mr. Donovan makes his appearance as a regular out and out scoundrel and he does the part well indeed.

Mrs. Anna Adams has a very good part in that of Euphemia Bartlett, wife of Cannon Bartlett. Mrs. Bartlett is long on religion but exceedingly short on the common charities of life. Quick to scent anything that bears the remotest resemblance to scandal, and one of the best little gossipers in the village, the cannon's better half is a first-class trouble maker.

James Nelson gives a very good picture of a gentle and kindly old man of the cloth who has looked on life and solved it to his own fancy.

James Rennie does some of the best work of his Duluth engagement as Henry Bartlett, and Forrest Taylor has a congenial role as the gambling, sneering and utterly worthless Maj. Pierce Bartlett. Mable Cullen as the pretty persecuted wife of the major, does all that the part requires. Ada Daniels as the gossiping, spiteful Mrs. Sheldon, the village "cutup" you might almost say, gets some mirthful comedy out of the part.

"The Triumph of Betty" will be the bill for all of the present week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"THE VISITOR" A STRONG PLAYLET

To be successful, a vaudeville sketch must be either one of two things. It must be one continuous laugh for twenty minutes, with plenty of action and knockabout comedy, or it must present a dramatic plot sufficiently striking to grip an audience with the first dozen lines, and hold them for a real and unexpected climax.

"The Visitor," which is presented by Porter J. White as the headlined feature of this week's Orpheum bill, gets into the latter class comfortably and with a good margin to spare. "The Visitor" is a real littl "thriller" with a real climax. The plot is logical enough to be within the bounds of possibility, and it travels rapidly and surely to its unexpected denouement. Moreover, Mr. White is a capable actor in this line of work, which borders on the demonlacal, and the act as a whole must be classed a little above the ordinary vaudeville dramatic playlet.

The plot deals with a murder trial, and the action takes place in the apartments of the prosecuting attorney, the night previous to the day on which the arguments are to be made to the jury. The prosecuting attorney has a mysterious visitor, but to disclose the latter's identity would be to mar the pleasure of watching the little play presented. It is all well done, and is easily the best act on a very good, well balanced vaudeville bill.

Glancing over the other six acts, the average patron would probably pick "The Three Vagrants" as the best, and judged by the applause last evening, they were easily the hit of the entire bill. The three men, who cut an odd appearance on the stage, are foreign musicians of the wandering type. They play a guitar, an accordeon and a clarinet, using popular selections only. The audience last evening couldn't get enough of them.

With a bright and snappy line of chtter, a little singing, a little dancing, and a lot of clever horseplay, Kelly and Kent more than held their own last evening. They are two clever and versatile performers. Their act is sheer nonsense, but it is the kind of nonsense that a vaudeville audience enjoys.

The singing, dancing and comedy act presented by Lydell and Butterworth was in sharp contrast to that given by Kelly and Kent, but just as enjoyable. it made just as much of a hit with yesterday's audiences. They appear in blackface. The man is a very clever and grotesque dancer, and the woman also does a neat dance in hard-soled shoes. They have a number of good "gags" and the act is clean and pleasing throughout.

William Perry, the original frog man, and the oldest and best known contortionist in the business, closes this week's show with his elaborately staged act. He appears as a frog, and does his feats seated on the stump of a tree and on a giant toadstool in the center of a setting showing a swamp by moonlight. His contortion feats are the last word in the contortion line, for those who like that style of act.

El Cota obliges with several selections on the xylophone, and he succeeds in getting a very good imitation of real music out of this nondescript instrument. The xylophone is generally used as a filler in a musical act, but El Cota plays nothing else, and from the reception given him last evening, the xylophone is a popular instrument with vaudeville audiences.

The opening act is a very good little acrobatic turn presented by Potter and Harris, and the moving pictures as usual close the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

OLD FAVORITE AT THE EMPRESS

Billy Van, the minstrel, is known to almost every theater patron in Duluth, and he has been delighting audiences here for many years, in minstrel troupes and vaudeville. He has starred with nearly every first-class company in the palmy days of minstrelsy, and with the decline of that branch of the amusement business, he has deserted it for vaudeville. He has just completed one tour of the Sullivan & Considine circuit, and so successful was his act that he was booked for a return tour, playing back over the circuit without a layoff.

Van was featured with the famous Haverly Minstrels, Primrose & West, and other well known companies, and was the star of the Billy Van Greater Minstrel company. In his vaudeville act he has some fresh stories and funny songs which he puts across in his own inimitable manner. They made a big hit with the Empress patrons yesterday, the three Sunday audiences giving him a warm reception.

"The Man From Italy" is a well written, well presented little playlet, given by Murray Livingstone and his company. Mr. Livingstone has the role of an Italian street peddler. The little drama is in a serious vein, but there is enough comedy running through it to provide a few good laughs. Mr. Livingstone's impersonation of the poor Italian is well done, and he is ably supported by Virginia Bates and Burnie Lewis, the other members of the company.

A first-class, eccentric acrobatic act is put on by the Francoll Troupe. They have introduced a novelty in the acrobatic line, showing the troubles of a bill poster, who is pestered by some young street urchins. His lithographs come to life as he pastes them on the walls, and during the act some sensational acrobatic stunts are pulled off, by the youngsters who are attempting to help the avenging wrath of the man with the paste brush and pail. It is something new in the acrobatic line, and both the novelty and the cleverness of the acrobats were appreciated by the Sunday audiences.

Some old time ballads are sung by Spencer Kelly—ballads that were popular with theatergoers of a generation ago and are so old as to be new again. The newer generation evidently approved of the musical taste of the "good old days" for Mr. Kelly got a good reception with his act.

Charles Emerald and Maude Dupree have a neat little singing and dancing turn, in which several good Scotch numbers are introduced, it fared well and promises to be popular with the audiences during the week.

The moving pictures complete the bill. It will hold the boards all week, a matinee and two evening performances being given daily.

DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL LATER

Lincoln Exercises at Hodgenville, Ky., to Be Held Next Fall.

New York May 8.—Dedication of the Lincoln memorial at Hodgenville, Kv., has been postponed until some date not yet named, but which will not be earlier than next fall. At the Lincoln Farms association, which has extensive headquarters in this city, it was said today that both sentimental and practical reasons dictated the change.

In the first place, the Grand Army of the Republic wishes to devote Memorial day, the date originally chosen, to the observances for which it was named. Secondly, the railways, believing that they will be called on to carry very heavy traffic on Memorial day, suggested that some other day would be preferrable. A formal announcement will be made in the course of a fortnight.

CORNS HURT; RUSH WEDDING.

Bride Requests Minister to Cut the Ceremony Short.

St. Louis, Mo., May 8.—Miss Adeline E. Craycraft of Evansville, Ind., was evidently in pain Saturday when Rev. S. R. Dillman, pastor of the Methodist church at Clayton, a suburb, was ready to perform the ceremony making her Mrs. Hoerman A. Alber.

"No, I am not sick," she said; "but make this just as short as you can. won't you? I've got on new shoes, and my corns are hurting me."

The ceremony was rushed along and the bride sat down as soon as it was over. She is 23 years of age, weighs 210 pounds and is five feet ten inches tall. Her husband, also from Evansville, weighs about 140 and is about four inches shorter than his bride.

IS INVITED TO ROUEN, FRANCE

North Dakotan Asked to Attend Millenial Celebration of Notable Event.

Abercrombie, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A distinguished honor has been conferred on Dr. H. Fjelde of this city. He is in receipt of an invitation from the mayor of Rouen, France, to be the guest of that city during the celebration June 3 to 11 in honor of the 1,000th anniversary of the conquering of that part of France by Rollo at the head of the Viking forces. The honor to Fjelde is unusual, as it is extended only to distinguished historians and others of a comparatively limited number of countries. The activity of Dr. Fjelde in securing a Bjornson statue for Minneota and a Vergeland monument for Fargo, and his present efforts to secure a Rollo statue for the same city is no doubt largely the cause of the vitation being sent him.

RAILROADS

NEW STATIONS ON LINE OF CANADIAN NORTHERN.

The Canadian Northern will establish about twelve new towns on its Duluth-Virginia line, which will be open for operation early in September this year. The stations have been named by H. T. Hazen, chief engineer of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, subsidiary of the Canadian Northern.

Bartlett is thirty miles from Duluth, and Taft is thirty-six miles distant. Shaw is forty-five miles from Duluth and Whiteface is fifty miles up the line. Dinham is on the shore of Dinham lake, and is expected to be popular with fishermen and people seeking a summer resort. The land around Dinham is especially favorable for agriculture. Bailey is fifty-seven miles from Duluth, Peary sixty-five, Eveleth seventy-two and Virginia seventy-seven. A station may also be established at mile forty-one, as many farmers desire it.

UNION STATIONS IN PACIFIC COAST TOWNS.

Tacoma, Wash., May 8.—Announcement has been made that as a result of a conference of railroad officials of the Northern Pacific and Oregon-Washington lines, the roads are prepared to carry out plans for the development of the territory about Tacoma, Seattle, and Grays Harbor. The conference, it was stated, had to do only with the details of numerous contracts for the construction of union stations at several points and regarding the joint use of certain tracks at these points.

MAKE LAWYERS PAY THE COSTS

Railroads Seek to Make Them Responsible in Rate Cases.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Serving notice Saturday that costs of the rate cases recently decided by Judge Sanborn would be charged against the state's attorneys personally, if a petition to such effect is upheld, railroad attorneys have angered state officials.

It was common tal kin the capitol today that if the courts took this action, the governor undoubtedly would call an extra session of the legislature to make an appropriation of $55,000 to pay the cost of the cases.

"Then," one state official said, "the Lord help the roads at the next session. I wouldn't be surprised then to see all beneficial railroad legislation repealed."

Feeling against the proposed taxing of costs against the attorneys is high in the capitol. Attorney General Simpson said this morning, however, he did not believe judgment would be entered against them.

ACCOUNTS IN YIDDISH.

Creditors Probe Bankrupt's Financial Affairs With Difficulty.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—Creditors of Isaac Goldberg, a bankrupt Kenosha horse dealer, held a meeting in the office of Referee E. Q. Nye and endeavored to glean some inspiring knowledge of Goldberg's financial affairs from a little pocket memorandum book in which, Goldberg says, is the only account book he ever kept.

The writing in the book was all in Yiddish and the referee appointed Herman Schlomovitz, deputy in United States district court, to translate it for the edification and enlightenment of the creditors. Mr. Schlomovitz wrestled all forenoon with the contents of the volume. There will be another meeting later.

Goldberg failed with $8,000 liabilities and no assets. The creditors would like to discover some.

MORE PROPERTY FOR CITY PARKS

The board of public works held hearings this morning in connection with the condemnation proceedings whereby the city will acquire additional park property at Duluth Heights, Fairmont park and Central park, between Eighth and Ninth avenues west and Second and Third streets.

The purpose was to give the property owners a chance to state their positons relative to the value of the property. Bids were opened for the paving of Juniata street between Fifty-fourth and Sixtieth avenues east. The lowest complete bid was that of E. A. Dahl. His figures for crushed rock macadam were $6,$69.50; for tarcon on a concrete base, $8,249.50. The contract will be awarded this afternoon.

MUST ISSUE LICENSES.

Michigan County Boards Cannot Ignore Election Results.

Lansing, Mich., May 8.—The supreme court today issued an order compelling the boards of supervisors of Genesee and Calhoun counties to issue saloon licenses. The two counties, by small majorities, changed from "dry" to "wet" at the April election. The "wets" began the litigation when the supervisors decided to continue the prohibition against saloons despite the election.

This will practically finish the system for the city.

"THE TRIUMPH OF BETTY"

Maude Leone Players Seen in a Charming Little Comedy Drama.

In "The Triumph of Betty," a four-act comedy drama charmingly told by W. G. Tremayne and Irving L. Hall, Miss Maude Leone and her company of players have one of the best opportunities for effective acting that has been given them since the initial production early in the present season.

Especially effective is Miss Leone in the character of Betty Bartlett, a part that achieved so conspicuous a success for Miss Adelaide Thurston. Miss Leone has done nothing better here. In the lighter comedy scenes she seems to get just the right interpretation from the lines, and in the big scene of the play, the meeting between Betty and the villainous George Wrayburn, Miss Leone does a very good and very effective piece of acting. Her climax is strong and shows good work by Miss Leone and William Donovan, who is the George Wrayburn of the piece.

The triumph of Betty consists in her showing to a community of supposedly deeply religious men and women that sometimes soundness of character, loyalty of purpose and true courage of conviction can be found in a person who is light of heart and gay of spirit.

Wilchester, Eng., is the scene of the pretty little play. Years before, when a young man, Betty's father had left the village because of the narrow, bigoted views of the inhabitants. He made his fortune in America and then decided to send his daughter, born in the great western part of America, back to visit the friends of his early manhood.

Betty finds the same conditions that disgusted and drove her father into a bigger and broader field of activity. The neighbors are shocked at her frank ways, and when she slides with the curate, the last degree of scandal is reached.

In the very end Betty saves the wife of Maj. Pierce Bartlett from probable disgrace and dishonor by a charitable and noble act. She saves Mrs. Bartlett from the advances of George Wrayburn, who believes he has Mrs. Bartlett in his power because she borrowed some money from him, and also because he had some letters of hers in his possession.

Betty meets Wrayburn in his London rooms, taking the place of the distracted Mrs. Bartlett, and in the game of wits secures the letters from Wrayburn's desk. Betty is saved from physical attack by the entrance of Henry Bartlett, and makes her way out with the letters that Wrayburn has been using as a threat.

Miss Leone has a thoroughly congenial role in that of Betty and is ably supported by William Donovan in the big scene of the play. Mr. Donovan makes his appearance as a regular out and out scoundrel and he does the part well indeed.

Mrs. Anna Adams has a very good part in that of Euphemia Bartlett, wife of Cannon Bartlett. Mrs. Bartlett is long on religion but exceedingly short on the common charities of life. Quick to scent anything that bears the remotest resemblance to scandal, and one of the best little gossipers in the village, the cannon's better half is a first-class trouble maker.

James Nelson gives a very good picture of a gentle and kindly old man of the cloth who has looked on life and solved it to his own fancy.

Jessie Bennie does some of the best work of his Duluth engagement as Henry Bartlett, and Forrest Taylor has a congenial role as the gambling, sneering and utterly worthless Major Pierce Bartlett. Mable Cullen as the pretty persecuted wife of the major, does all that the part requires. Ada Daniels as the gossiping, spiteful Mrs. Sheldon, the village "scrimpus" you might almost say, gets some mirthful comedy out of the part.

"The Triumph of Betty" will be the bill for all of the present week with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

CHURCH SERVICE IS CONDUCTED BY BOYS

Palmer Bevis.

Glen Merritt.

The services in the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, last evening were conducted by members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

Julius Nolte spoke on "A Boy and His Recreation." The young speaker said a boy has 1,000 muscles to keep him going and none to keep him still. The boys of today are the men of the future. He needs more play and more freedom. It is a problem as to how the boy should be cared for in his leisure moments.

A boy, declared the speaker, needs training of mind, body and soul. Athletic training got a brief from young Mr. Nolte, who thought the athletic field where boys get moral as well as physical training. The boys are brought closer to nature and to each other.

Glen Merritt spoke on "Some Things That Boys Can Do." He thought there is a difference between working for boys and work by them. A generation ago, he said, boys were tolerated, but he believed it has since been found out that there is a place in the world for them. He told what some of the boys of the boys' department had done.

Palmer Bevis spoke on "A Boy and His Religion." He though a boy was a side issue fifty years ago. The nation's future depends on the boy, he said. The boy at one time had no place in the church and not after Sunday schools were organized was his value to the church recognized. Most conversions of men to the church take place when the converts are 16.

The orchestra, mandolin club and boys' chorus furnished music. Edward Wood and J. R. Bachelor sang and Ludvig Melander played a violin solo.

"THE VISITOR" A STRONG PLAYLET

To be successful, a vaudeville sketch must be either one of two things. It must be one continuous laugh for twenty minutes, with plenty of action and knockabout comedy, or it must present a dramatic plot sufficiently striking to grip an audience with the first dozen lines, and hold them for a real and unexpected climax.

"The Visitor," which is presented by Porter J. White as the headlined feature of this week's Orpheum bill, gets into the latter class comfortably and with a good margin to spare. "The Visiter" is a real little "thriller" with a real climax. The plot is logical enough to be within the bounds of possibility, and it travels rapidly and surely to its unexpected denouement. Moreover, Mr. White is a capable actor in this line of work, which borders on the demoniacal, and the act as a whole must be classed a little above the ordinary vaudeville dramatic playlet.

The plot deals with a murder trial, and the action takes place in the apartments of the prosecuting attorney, the night previous to the day on which the arguments are to be made to the jury. The prosecuting attorney has a mysterious visitor, but to disclose the latter's identity would be to mar the pleasure of watching the little play presented. It is all well done, and is easily the best act on a very good, well balanced vaudeville bill.

Glancing over the other six acts, the average patron would probably pick "The Three Vagrants" as the best, and judged by the applause last evening, they were easily the hit of the entire bill. The three men, who cut an odd appearance on the stage, are foreign musicians of the wandering type. They play a guitar, an accordeon and a clarinet, using popular selections only. The audience last evening couldn't get enough of them.

With a bright and snappy line of chtter, a little singing, a little dancing, and a lot of clever horseplay, Kelly and Kent more than held their own last evening. They are two clever and versatile performers. Their act is sheer nonsense, but it is the kind of nonsense that a vaudeville audience enjoys.

The singing, dancing and comedy act presented by Lydell and Butterworth was in sharp contrast to that given by Kelly and Kent, but just as enjoyable. It made just as much of a hit with yesterday's audiences. They appear in blackface. The man is a very clever and grotesque dancer, and the woman also does a neat hits in hard-soled shoes. They have a number of good "gags" and the act is clean and pleasing throughout.

William Ferry, the original frog man, and the oldest and best known contortionist in the business, closes this week's show with his elaborately staged act. He appears as a frog, and does his feats seated on the stump of a tree and on a giant toadstool in the center of a setting showing a swamp by moonlight. His contortion feats are the last word in the contortion line, for those who like that style of act.

El Cota obliges with several selections on the xylophone, and he succeeds in getting a very good imitation of real music out of this nondescript instrument. The xylophone is generally used as a filler in a musical act, but El Cota plays nothing else, and from the reception given him last evening, the xylophone is a popular instrument with vaudeville audiences.

The opening act is a very good little acrobatic turn presented by Potter and Harris, and the moving pictures as usual close the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

OLD FAVORITE AT THE EMPRESS

Billy Van, the minstrel, is known to almost every theater patron in Duluth, and he has been delighting audiences here for many years, in minstrel troupes and vaudeville. He has starred with nearly every first-class company in the palmy days of minstrelsy, and with the decline of that branch of the amusement business, he has deserted it for vaudeville. He has just completed one tour of the Sullivan & Considine circuit, and so successful was his act that he was booked for a return tour, playing back over the circuit without a layoff.

Van was featured with the famous Haverly Minstrels, Primrose & West, and other well known companies, and was the star of the Billy Van Greater Minstrel company. In his vaudeville act he has some fresh stories and funny songs which he puts across in his own inimitable manner. They made a big hit with the Empress patrons yesterday, the three Sunday audiences giving him a warm reception.

"The Man From Italy" is a well written, well presented little playlet, given by Murray Livingstone and his company. Mr. Livingstone has the role of an Italian street peddler. The little drama is in a serious vein, but there is enough comedy running through it to provide a few good laughs. Mr. Livingstone's impersonation of the poor Italian is well done, and he is ably supported by Virginia Bates and Burnie Lewis, the other members of the company.

A first-class, eccentric acrobatic act is put on by the Francoll Troupe. They have introduced a novelty in the acrobatic line, showing the troubles of a bill poster, who is pestered by some young street urchins. His lithographs come to life as he pastes them on the walls, and during the act some sensational acrobatic stunts are pulled off, by the youngsters who are attempting to escape the avenging wrath of the man with the paste brush and pail. It is something new in the acrobatic line, and both the novelty and the cleverness of the acrobats were appreciated by the Sunday audiences.

Some old time ballads are sung by Spencer Kelly—ballads that were popular with theatergoers of a generation ago and are so old as to be new again. The newer generation evidently approved of the musical taste of the "good old days" for Mr. Kelly got a good reception with his act.

Charles Emerald and Maude Dupree have a neat little singing and dancing turn, in which several good Scotch numbers are introduced. It fared well and promises to be popular with the audiences during the week.

The moving pictures complete the bill. It will hold the boards all week, a matinee and two evening performances being given daily.

DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL LATER

Lincoln Exercises at Hodgenville, Ky., to Be Held Next Fall.

New York May 8.—Dedication of the Lincoln memorial at Hodgenville, Ky., has been postponed until some date not yet named, but which will not be earlier than next fall. At the Lincoln Farms association, which has extensive headquarters in this city, it was said today that both sentimental and practical reasons dictated the change.

In the first place, the Grand Army of the Republic wishes to devote Memorial day, the date originally chosen, to the observances for which it was named. Secondly, the railways, believing that they will be called on to carry very heavy traffic on Memorial day, suggested that some other day would be preferrable. A formal announcement will be made in the course of a fortnight.

St. Louis, Mo., May 8.—Miss Adeline E. Craycraft of Evansville, Ind., was evidently in pain Saturday when Rev. S. R. Dillman, pastor of the Methodist church at Clayton, a suburb, was ready to perform the ceremony making her Mrs. Hoerman A. Alber.

"No, I am not sick," she said; "but make this just as short as you can, won't you? I've got on new shoes, and my corns are hurting me."

The ceremony was rushed along and the bride sat down as soon as it was over. She is 23 years of age, weighs 210 pounds and is five feet ten inches tall. Her husband, also from Evansville, weighs about 140 and is about four inches shorter than his bride.

IS INVITED TO ROUEN, FRANCE

North Dakotan Asked to Attend Millenial Celebration of Notable Event.

Abercrombie, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A distinguished honor has been conferred on Dr. H. Fjelde of this city. He is in receipt of an invitation from the mayor of Rouen, France, to be the guest of that city during the celebration June 3 to 11 in honor of the 1,000th anniversary of the conquering of that part of France by Rollo at the head of the Viking forces. The honor to Fjelde is unusual, as it is extended only to distinguished historians and others of a comparatively limited number of countries. The activity of Dr. Fjelde in securing a Bjornson bauta stein and a Wergeland monument for Fargo, and his present efforts to secure a Rollo statue for the same city is no doubt largely the cause of the vitation being sent him.

RAILROADS

NEW STATIONS ON LINE OF CANADIAN NORTHERN.

The Canadian Northern will establish about twelve new towns on its Duluth-Virginia line, which will be open for operation early in September of this year. The stations have been named by T. H. Hazen, chief engineer of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, subsidiary of the Canadian Northern.

Fifteen miles north of Duluth will be Harney, Twig is twenty-seven miles from Duluth, at the first crossing of the railroad and the Miller trunk road. Bartlett is thirty miles from Duluth, and Taft is thirty-six miles distant. Shaw is forty-five miles from Duluth and Whiteface is fifty miles up the line. Dinham is on the shore of Dinham lake, and is expected to be popular with fishermen and people seeking summer homes. The land around Dinham is especially favorable for agriculture. Bailey is fifty-seven miles from Duluth, Peary sixty-five, Eveleth seventy-two and Virginia seventy-seven. A station may also be established at mile forty-one, as many farmers desire it.

UNION STATIONS IN PACIFIC COAST TOWNS.

Tacoma, Wash., May 8.—Announcement has been made that as a result of a conference of railroad officials of the Northern Pacific and Oregon-Washington lines, the roads are prepared to carry out plans for the development of the terminal about Tacoma, Seattle, and Grays Harbor. The conference, it was stated, had to do only with the details of numerous contracts for the construction of union stations at several points and regarding the joint use of certain tracks at these points.

MAKE LAWYERS PAY THE COSTS

Railroads Seek to Make Them Responsible in Rate Cases.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Serving notice Saturday that costs of the rate cases recently decided by Judge Sanborn would be charged against the state's attorneys personally, if a petition to such effect is upheld, railroad attorneys have angered state officials.

It was common tal kin the capitol today that if the courts took this action, the governor undoubtedly would call an extra session of the legislature to make an appropriation of $55,000 to pay the cost of the cases.

"Then," one state officer said, "the Lord help the roads at the next session. I wouldn't be surprised then to see all beneficial railroad legislation repealed."

Feeling against the proposed taxing of costs against the attorneys is high in the capitol. Attorney General Simpson said this morning, however, he did not believe judgment would be entered against them.

ACCOUNTS IN YIDDISH.

Creditors Probe Bankrupt's Financial Affairs With Difficulty.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—Creditors of Isaac Goldberg, a bankrupt Kenosha horse dealer, held a meeting in the office of Referee E. Q. Nye and endeavored to glean some inspiring knowledge of Goldberg's financial affairs from a little pocket memorandum book in which, Goldberg says, is the only account book he ever kept.

The writing in the book was all in Yiddish and the referee appointed Herman Schlomovitz, deputy in United States district court, to translate it for the edification and enlightenment of the creditors. Mr. Schlomovitz wrestled all forenoon with the contents of the volume. There will be another meeting later.

Goldberg failed with $8,000 liabilities and no assets. The creditors would like to discover some.

Rhinelander, Wis., May 8.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Wisconsin Valley Improvement company plans to build a big dam at Bardley on the Tommahawk river. Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. M. O'Reilly died at St. Michael's hospital Saturday. Mr. O'Reilly came here from Minneapolis to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, James Coyle, and on Sunday was taken suddenly ill, after returning from the church. A physician was summoned and the case was diagnosed as peritonitis. Monday evening he was removed to the hospital, where every possible thing was done to save his life, but to no avail.

MORE PROPERTY FOR CITY PARKS

The board of public works held hearings this morning in connection with the condemnation proceedings whereby the city will acquire additional park property at Duluth Heights, Fairmont park and Central park, between Eighth and Ninth avenues west and Second and Third streets.

The purpose was to give the property owners a chance to state their positons relative to the value of the property. Bids were opened for the paving of Juniata street between Fifty-fourth and Sixtieth avenues east. The lowest complete bid was that of E. A. Dahl. His figures for crushed rock macadam were $6, $69.50; for tarcon on a concrete base, $8,249.50. The contract will be awarded this afternoon.

MUST ISSUE LICENSES.

Michigan County Boards Cannot Ignore Election Results.

Lansing, Mich., May 8.—The supreme court today issued an order compelling the boards of supervisors of Genesee and Calhoun counties to issue saloon licenses. The two counties, by small majorities, changed from "dry" to "wet" at the April election. The "wets" began the litigation when the supervisors decided to continue the prohibition against saloons despite the election.

DULUTH FIRM LANDS CONTRACT IN CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Pastoret-Lawrence company's bid, $23,398.43, was the lowest of several bids received for the extension of Cloquet's water and sewer system, and the bid of the Duluth firm has been accepted, the work to begin at once and to be completed by the first of September. This will practically finish the system for the city.

BUSY DAYS AT CAPITAL

Senate and House Have Important Matters on Schedule.

Washington, May 8.—Congress will be busy this week with a diversity of subjects. Tariff tinkering will have a change of scene, the senate committee on finance taking up the Canadian reciprocity bill with hearings expected to continue throughout the week. After the farmers' free list bill is passed, tariff debaters in the house will rest from their efforts while members of the ways and means committee, behind closed doors, prepare for the next assault on the Payne-Aldrich bill. Their center of attack is to be the wool schedule. It will be several weeks, in all probability, before the committee is ready to report.

Among the important maters on the senate program for the week are the election of a president pro tempore to succeed Senator Frye, who resigned that office; the proposed re-investigation of Senator Lorimer's right to retain his seat; and the resolution providing for popular election of senators, passed by the house and favorably reported last week by the senate committee on judiciary.

Clapp After Frye's Job.

Some of the progressive senators are expected to protest against the selection of Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire as Mr. Frye's successor. Senator Clapp of Minnesota is the candidate of the progressives in opposition to the choice of the stand-patters. The only chance of defeating Mr. Gallinger, it is said, would be through an alliance of progressive Republicans and Democrats, and such union appears improbable.

Activity in the proposed investigation of Mr. Lorimer's right to his seat will center in the efforts of Mr. La Follette to have his resolution, providing for an investigation by a special committee of new senators, passed without reference. The opposition plan is to refer the resolution to the committee on privileges and elections.

Election of Senators.

On the senate calendar is the bill providing for the constitutional amendment changing the method of selecting United States senators. There being no prospect of a report this week from the financial committee on the reciprocity bill, a popular election measure may be called up for discussion.

The senate therefore may put in its first full week of the extraordinary session, instead of adjourning from Monday to Thursday and from Thursday to Monday, as has been the rule.

The general program in the house contemplates consideration of the statehood of Arizona and New Mexico; passage of resolutions providing for various additional departmental investigations and investigations into the United States Steel corporation, sugar refineries and the American Woolen company.

NOTICE!

The adjourned annual meeting of St. Luke's Hospital Association will be held at the Hospital, Ninth avenue East and First street, on Tuesday, May 9th, 1911, at 4:30 p. m., when three directors fall to be elected, and such other business transacted as may be competent to bring before the meeting.

HENRY TAYLOR,
Secretary.

WILL OPPOSE RECIPROCITY

that time. Farmers from Minnesota may appear that same day. The committee may close the hearings Saturday.

The farmers' free list bill will be passed by the house late today. Many Republican opponents of the bill, armed with amendments, had no hope of their adoption. The Democrats were ready for a final vote. The minority insisted, however, that retaliation of their amendments should proceed in regular order.

House Committees Meet.

Several committees of the house were in session today. The committee on territories received the report of the sub-committee regarding statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. The report of the full committee probably will be made to the house tomorrow. It will recommend that statehood be granted to both territories with the understanding that Arizona vote again on the recall provision, and that the voters of New Mexico be given an early opportunity to change the Constitution so that it may be more easily amendable.

The committee on civil service resumed its hearings on the Lloyd-rtsolution granting to government employes the right to affiliate with trade unions, and the committee on expenditures in the war department began investigation of the condition of the army. This inquiry will be prolonged probably into the regular session.

Book Paper Men Protest.

Protests of book manufacturers against Canadian reciprocity were made to the senate finance committee today. George Sullivan, representing a Philadelphia company, asserted that because of the vast wood supply and cheap water power in Canada, coupled with advantages in the duty on raw material, Canadian book paper manufacturers could make their product at $7 a ton less than Americans. He declared the agreement would put the American book paper manufacturers out of business.

Mr. Sullivan said there were forty-six book paper mills in the United States with 30,000 employes. The only book paper Americans export is Bible paper.

charging Former Secretary Ballinger with maladministration of the public land laws, started his fight against the Cunningham claims early in 1905. He asserted that through an assignment of the Cunningham claims "the Guggenheims" were about to be given a monopoly of Alaskan coal.

Congress May Not Act.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee filed two reports, the majority exonerating Secretary Ballinger and the minority sustaining to a large degree the allegations made by Glavis. No action respecting the merits of either finding was taken by congress, and since the proceedings were directed chiefly against Mr. Ballinger, his resignation probably forestalls a congressional verdict.

The hearing starting today before Commissioner Dennett probably will decide whether the Cunningham claimants shall be granted patents to their coal lands or whether these lands shall revert to the public domain for future entry. A decision by the secretary, on appeal from the commissioner of the general land office, would be final.

Hold Federal Receipts.

Attorney Hughes of Seattle, arguing for the claimants, asserted that as they had paid the purchase price of the land and held receipts from the government for the money, this was equivalent to the actual delivery of patent rights. According to the Alaskan coal land laws of 1904, which he declared were complete in themselves, as soon as a claimant had staked off his land and had entered it in the register's office, he had a right to make contracts to sell such land, providing the claimant was not legally disqualified.

Asked by Secretary Fisher whether he had read the brief presented in behalf of Gifford Pinchot in connection with the charges in the case, Mr. Hughes declared that this brief was only partly correct. He did not believe there had been intentional deceit, but asserted that the facts had been "shuffled." He did not explain in what particular the brief was only partly correct.

Balfour, N. D., Church Meet.

Balfour, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the German Evangelical Lutherans of North Dakota began here today and the session will continue the entire week. All the leading ministers are here and many prominent laymen. The program is an interesting one.

SHOWER WAS MOST TIMELY

Threatening Forest Fires Were Checked By Sunday Rain.

Bridge Across Lester River Scorched—Settlers' Homes Burned.

Yesterday's rain came as a God-send to the settlers and land owners adjacent to Duluth whose homes and property were in imminent danger of destruction by the forest fires, which had been raging for several days.

Before J. Plurius got busy the fires were burning fiercely in almost every direction and there seemed to be no way in which they could be checked. All along this end of the Iron Range railroad, near Pike Lake, at New Duluth, at Fond du Lac and at Eagle lake they were sweeping steadily ahead. Had not the rain come at an opportune time the loss would have been much heavier and the flames might have wrought havoc similar to that of the last two years.

The fires were not entirely extinguished by the rain, but their advance was stopped. They are still smoldering in places, but with the ground and the woods well wetted down they will die out unless an unusually high wind springs up.

The fires Saturday destroyed the homes of E. P. Johnson and George Marsh on the Town Hall road near Pike lake and the barns and outbuildings of Louis Anderson in the same vicinity were burned to the ground. A number of families in the fire zone sought refuge in the Pike Lake hotel on the banks of the lake and out of danger. The owners of cottages near the lake fought the flames for hours and saved many summer homes by their combined efforts.

At New Duluth the residents did not realize their danger until the middle of the afternoon, when the flames were within a comparatively short distance of the suburb. The fire engine and the men of the department, aided by scores of residents, battled with them for hours and late in the evening had the flames under sufficient control to feel safe. The fires burned back of Smithville and the new steel plant divisions, but at no time were they very threatening. The men at the Canadian Northern construction camps had about as hard a fight as any to save the camps. Some apprehension was felt because of the dynamite which is stored there for use in blasting out the railroad right of way.

Late Saturday afternoon the homes of six settlers between Lake Nebagamon and Hawthorne were destroyed and according to reports which have been received since, the property loss will run well up into the thousands of dollars. No lives were lost.

It was also reported that two families had been burned out to the west of Hawthorne yesterday, and Saturday the Carl Von Lynn schoolhouse, between Hawthorne and Lake Nebagamon, was destroyed by the flames.

A number of the cottages on Lake Nebagamon are said to have been wiped out by the brush fires which have been raging for the past few days along the shores of the lake. Yesterday the fire burned up to the old Lake Nebagamon mill site, but a band of fire fighters saved the property.

Fires at the head of Lester river, near Eagle lake, partially destroyed the bridge across the stream. One of the land owners in the vicinity discovered it ablaze, and gathering a crew of men extinguished the flames before the structure was destroyed. It is estimated that it will cost $1,000 to $1,500 to repair it.

John Eierhalter, who has a home in that vicinity, lost a beautiful grove of balsam trees, and it was only by desperate efforts that the house was saved. The property of Henry Nesbitt, also in that neighborhood, had a close shave. The fires had to be fought all Saturday night, and no one rested easy until after the rain of yesterday.

OFFICIAL NOTICE THAT DIAZ IS PREPARING TO RESIGN

the judge as to when peace has been established and it is nearly impossible, in the opinion of officials here, offers no stumbling block.

The principle for which the revolutionists have contended was embodied in the action of Diaz in committing himself to resignation. The date of retirement is regarded as of comparatively little importance.

The state department received no word from Ambassador Wilson during the forenoon. It is believed the ambassador will await the promulgation of the manifesto by President Diaz before reporting.

News Averted a Battle.

El Paso, Tex., May 8.—Residents of Ciudad Juarez, the Mexican city across the Rio Grande, awoke today to find that they had been spared a real battle which might have resulted in one of the deadliest conflicts of the Mexican revolution.

Creeping along in the thick of the night, the insurrecto army, supposedly on its way south because it feared American intervention if it attacked Juarez, was about to deliver a telling blow at the federal stronghold last night, when an Associated Press dispatch from the City of Mexico, stating that President Diaz had announced his intention to resign, was carried to the front. Today members of the Madero family are sending messages to President Diaz telling him what a fine man they think he is and how he has saved his country.

Tranquility In Sight.

Unanimous opinions of representatives of the warring factions is that complete tranquility for Mexico now is in sight. Arrangements for the extension of the armistice to cover the entire country are expected to be made today. Peace negotiations will be hastened, and no one expects any difficulty, since the government concessions on points other than the Diaz question have been well known and acceptable for some time.

Facts of the secretly planned attack on Juarez became known today. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the leader of the revolution, had announced his intention of marching his forces southward and abandoning the attack on Juarez for fear of international complications. His military leaders secretly agreed upon a plan of attack, notwithstanding their chief's orders.

Had Planned Attack.

It was arranged that Gen. Madero would be persuaded to leave camp first and go to Bauche, eleven miles away. With their chief out of reach, they were to have pushed the attack. The insurrectos, under cover of darkness, instead crept back toward the federal outposts and lay in a position to open fire simultaneously at night. Not a light was kindled, movements of the advance guard were slow and noiseless. It was an unusually thick night and the drizzle of rain was almost continuous.

The news that President Diaz had submitted to the rebel demands by announcing his intention to resign some two hours before the time for an attack, and the insurrectos turned back to their camping grounds, where today they are celebrating what they believe to be the triumph of the revolution.

Explain Breach of Promise.

Insurrecto leaders read today dispatches from City of Mexico in connection with President Diaz's manifesto, criticizing them for including the Diaz question in their demands after a secret understanding had been reached that it would not be an issue in the negotiations. They admitted that such an understanding once had existed, but said they feared any negotiations concluded without giving the public some information on the Diaz question hardly would satisfy the fight-thirsty rebels in other parts of Mexico.

In line with the report that the manifesto of Diaz would be officially communicated to the rebels is the fact that the insurrecto chiefs do not expect it. They will keep their early promise not to make the Diaz matter a part of the written peace pact. They are proceeding today merely on the announcement through the press, which they deem a sufficient concession to their demand.

May Delay Negotiations.

The insurrectos, however, are face to face with a tangle on procedure which may delay negotiations. Though Judge Carbajal declared the peace negotiations "suspended" because he had no instructions to treat concerning the Diaz question, from the insurrecto viewpoint it meant a termination of peace negotiations, and they dissolved their peace commission of three with a vote of thanks. They then formed a new commission of seven, including the former commissioners, and armed it with new instructions and what they believed to be even more drastic demands on the federal government.

Whether the old commission will be reappointed and reinstructed in a question which rebel leaders were talking bout at the Madero headquarters early today. It is believed, however, the trio will be called into a convention again and that the first conference this afternoon at "peace grove" will again find Judge Carbajal representing the federal government and Dr. Vasquez Gomez, Francisco Madero, Sr., Senor Pino Suarez of the insurrecto government exchanging typewritten sheets of yellow paper and pounding the clean pine table in the big peace tent.

Diaz Tells Cabinet Plans.

City of Mexico, May 8.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz last night issued a manifesto to the people of Mexico declaring his intention to resign as soon as peace is restored. In this manner the president virtually acceded to the demands of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., that he make announcement of such intention as to when peace is actually restored. Gen. Diaz reserved the right to be the judge. It will be, in the words of the manifesto, "when his conscience tells him that he will not leave his country in anarchy."

The president said his determination not to relinquish the presidency at this time was not due to vanity or to love of power, because, as he pointed out, power at this time had no attraction, accompanied as it is by tremendous responsibilities and worry. He said he was prompted solely by a desire to conserve the best interests of his country. The president made it clear he does not propose to abandon the presidency while his country is at war, and that he would not do so at any time under compulsion.

Promise to the People.

President Diaz's manifesto will not be sent officially to Judge Carbajal for formal transmission to Dr. Vasquez Gomez. The promise of the president is made to the people of Mexico and its receipt by the revolutionists will be incidental.

It was in a cabinet meeting Sunday afternoon that Gen. Diaz announced to his ministers his decision. Only in a general way does the manifesto refer to the revolution. The government's position is that Gen. Diaz could not have made a public statement at an earlier moment, and it is indicated that the revolutionists failed to observe the amenities of the peace negotiations by making them public.

Officially it was stated that Madero and his advisors were guilty of betraying an agreement by injecting into the conference, either secretly or openly, the question of the president's resignation. It was declared that it had been agreed to in confidence that this point should not be permitted to become an issue.

Discusses the Situation.

As a prelude to the declaration of his willingness to retire, the president discussed the political conditions of the country and the efforts made by the government to establish peace. He called attention to the progress already made in the direction of adopting the anti-re-election law, and declared that the project of the reform of the electoral laws and of the judiciary were being studied. He showed that the government, in all its acts, showed its willingness to conform to the demand of the public in so far as it is wise and for the best interests of the country.

Events leading up to the beginning of negotiations for peace were taken up and it was indicated it was the disposition to take into consideration propositions the revolutionists had to make.

Regarding the pint upon which the rupture of negotiations occurred, the manifesto declared that compliance with the demands for Diaz' resignation could not be entertained for the reason that his immediate resignation would doubtless precipitate the country in a condition of anarchy throughout the country, while on the other hand if his retirement was fixed for a future date, the government would not have sufficient stability to assure the return of normal conditions pending the selection of a new executive.

Appeals to Patriotism.

In concluding, Gen. Diaz appealed to the patriotism of the people, calling upon them to act together for the peace and progress of the nation, and eulogized the army.

At no place in the manifesto is there made mention of a new election. According to the Constitution, resignation is equivalent to political death so far as it affects the succession. The vice president would assume the executive chair and he is turn would be followed by the minister of foreign affairs. In this case the vice president is ill and is in Europe on an eight months' leave of absence. Should vice president Corral not be in the country at the time the president leaves his post, the new incumbent would be Minister De La Barra, the choice of the rebels themselves for provisional president.

TEST CASE IN DISTRICT COURT

Street Railway Company Appeals From Special Assessment for Pavement.

The appeal of the Duluth Street Railway company to the district court from an assesment levied by the city for the paving of a part of East Fourth street furnishes an important test case, the final decision in which will be awaited with interest by the city officials as well as the street railway company.

The city has never collected a special assessment from the street railway company. The company claims that such an assessment cannot be collected, as the property of the company is not benefited by the pavement and the law provides that the assessment shall be levied against property benefited. It is also claimed that tho charter of the company provides that it shall be assessed only for street pavements made necessary by the tracks being in the streets.

City officials claim that the company can be made to pay a considerable part of the cost of paving streets in which tracks are laid and the assessment was levied with the idea of having a test case brought.

ONLY ONE CIVIL ACTION ON TRIAL

First Full Week of May Term of Court Gets Slow Start.

The first full week of the May term of district court got a slow start this morning. The petit jury reported, one jury was drawn, and the remaining jurors were turned loose, as there was only one case ready for trial. That is an action brought by the Petruschke Box & Lumber company against J. H. Korhonen, a timber contract being the basis of the action.

The civil calendar for the May term is a heavy one and the petit jury will have plenty of work from now on. Only Judge Ensign was sitting this morning, but the other judges will take up the cases as soon as they are ready for trial and all four will work on the disposition of the civil calendar until the county attorney is ready to take up the criminal cases, when one courtroom will be given over to that purpose.

The grand jury is still hard at work and a final report is not expected until some time tomorrow. The jury had an unusually large number of cases to investigate this term. One report was made Friday and a number of indictments were returned.

HORSES SCREAM AS THEY BURN

Fourteen Animals, Trapped in North Dakota Fire, Are Cremated.

Grafton, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen horses were cremated in a fire early this morning which destroyed the barn on Lee Perkins farm, five miles northeast of here. The Parkins family was awakened by flames and the cry of the horses to find the entire structure enveloped.

The family were unable to save anything and within a short time the work of destruction had been completed. A large quantity of seed wheat and seed flax was also destroyed in a granary that adjoined the barn.

LIFERS GIVEN HALF HOLIDAY

Warden of Rhode Island Prison Tries Experiment With Convicts.

Cranston, R. I., May 8.—Five hundred inmates of the state prison and county jail—seventeen of them doomed to life imprisonment,—have received a welcome respite by the inauguration of a series of Sunday half-holidays by Warden James F. McCusker.

At a baseball game Saturday and in other sports held in the prison yard, there met on an equal footing and without noticeable restraint, men convicted of murder, those serving time for lesser offenses and prison officials. Five hundred clay pipes and fifty pounds of tobacco were distributed and several of the "lifers" enjoyed their first fresh air and their first smoke in more than a score of years.

Among them was Captain Robert Crow, the oldest prisoner in the institution, who is serving a life sentence for murder on the high seas. He is seventy-five years old and was imprisoned 46 years ago. Gray-haired, pale, stooped shouldered, almost the shadow of a man, the old prisoner sat on a settee and smoked his first pipe of tobacco in decades, while he watched the ball game with an expressionless face.

LIGHTS ON ROWBOATS.

New Law in Michigan to Stop Moonlight Spooning.

Houghton, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—No more spooning by the light of the moon only. It can be done in the glare of a lantern. It must be done that way if it is to be on either the waters of Portage lake or any other lakes. This is one thing which the Michigan legislature enacted in the recent session. According to the new law all boats on any lake or stream on which motor boats are run must have a clear white light which shows plainly above the horizon. Occupants of other boats must be able to spot you. It is a safeguard against accident to those whose mind is far away when sailing, rowing or paddling with just one other occupant of the craft.

Two years ago the Michigan legislature attempted to protect people who make use of the lakes of the state during the cool evenings. The law, however, did not work out as expected. Accidents still happened. Collisions were still reported. Drownings were frequent. In order to try to avoid this the law was changed so that all boats must carry a light. By motor boat is meant any boat that is propelled by anything other than oar or paddle power.

GRAND FORKS CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Golden fell into a boiler of boiling water and received burns from which she died. Her mother had been doing the washing and had set the boiler on the floor. The child dropped a glass tumbler into the boiler and in attempting to recover it toppled in and was unconscious when rescued by her mother.

HILLSBORO WILL CELEBRATE GOOSE RIVER ANNIVERSARY.

Hillsboro, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—June 22 will be the 40th anniversary of the settlement of the Goose river country, and a committee of the members of the Commercial club of this city has been appointed to arrange for a monster Trail county celebration here on that date. Every effort will be made to get out the early pioneers, many of whom came here with ox carts. The celebration will be largely in the nature of a reunion of old settlers, as it is thought many pioneers who have removed to other localities will come back for the celebration. Leading orators of the state will address the meeting.

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE AND CURES CATARRH

Catarrh usually begins with irritated, inflamed membranes of the head, nose and throat, from which there is a constant and copious discharge of watery matter. This comes from inflammation of these mucous surfaces and is caused by catarrhal matters and impurities in the circulation. Nature intends that these membranes shall be nourished by the blood, but waste matters and impurities deposited into these delicate parts, sets up inflammation and the discharge is a natural result. When this secretion begins to dry it becomes thick and sticky, adhering to the back portion of the mouth and throat, causing the "hawking" and straining so troublesome to Catarrh sufferers. Other ordinary symptoms are caused from congestion of the circulation by the catarrhal impurities.

I suffered for a long time with a bad case of Catarrh. I had a continual headache, my cheeks grew purple, my nose was always stopped up, my breath had a sickening and disgusting odor and I coughed incessantly. I heard of your S. S. S. and commenced to use it, and after taking several bottles I was cured and have never since had the slightest symptom of the disease.
MRS. MARY L. WESSERMAN.
4449 Vista Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

I had all the symptoms that accompany Catarrh, such as mucus dropping in the throat, a constant desire to hawk and spit, feeling of dryness in the throat, cough and spitting up on arising in the morning, etc. I had thus suffered for five years. I commenced to take S. S. S., and after I had taken three large bottles, I noticed a change for the better, thus encouraged, I continued to take it, and in a short while was entirely cured.
JUDSON A BELLAM.
211 Randolph St., Richmond, Va.

There is only one way to cure Catarrh, and that is to remove the cause by purifying the blood. Washes, sprays, inhalations, etc., do not reach the circulation, and therefore can only afford temporary relief. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter, and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. In other words S. S. S. cures Catarrh by purifying the blood so that the mucous surfaces and linings of the body are supplied with healthy nourishment instead of being continually irritated from the catarrhal impurities. Then the inflamed membranes heal, the discharge is checked, head noises cease, the stomach is toned up, and the throat is no longer clogged with mucus. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

BOND DEAL IS CLOSED

Butte & Superior Company Gets $650,000 From Underwriters.

Market Weakens on Unfavorable Report of Copper Producers.

The sale of its bonds having been successfully closed, the Butte & Superior Copper company has received $650,000 in cash from Hayden, Stone & Co., the underwriters, according to the Boston Transcript.

The money will enable the company to meet all of its obligations and retain a substantial working capital. The company is now earning at the rate of $2 a share annually.

There are 2,000,000 tons of ore in sight and the tonnage is being rapidly increased. The company will soon be in a position to increase its production of zinc ore and enlarge its earnings materially.

* * *

The copper market opened strong and advanced slightly but toward the close values weakened on account of the unfavorable report of the Copper Producers' association. The production in April was greatly reduced and it was generally believed that the figures would be about a standoff. The increase was small but larger than expected. Otherwise ther was no news to affect the general market.

Butte-Ballaklava advanced to $5.25 bid in the local market today although in the East it sold up to $5.87½ after opening at $5. The bulge was started by a rumor that a flattering offer for the control of the property had been received by the company. No sales were recorded on the local exchange.

Amalgamated sold at $63.37½, $63.50 and $63, Butte Coalition at $17.25, Calumet & Arizona at $54, Giroux at $6.12½, Greene at $6.12½ to $6.25, North Butte at $28.75 to $28.50.

* * *

Rumors to the effect that the First National Copper company would shut down its smelter in the near future are apparently without foundation, as at a meeting of the directors held in New York last week the decision was reached to continue operations as at present.

FATHER AND THE POETS.

When poets are in straits most sore
For themes on which to touch,
There's one thing from the muses' store
That they can always clutch:
One subject that will never fail
To make the reader glad;
'Twill bring the chuckles forth galore;
And that one theme is Dad.

'Tis easy, faith, to grind it out:
"When father trimmed the tree,"
"When father fixed the water spout,"
"When father shopped with me";
For he is mixed in all the things
That deal with weal or woe;
When other notions take to wings
The "father" theme will go.

"When father built the furnace fire,"
"When father shovelled snow,"
"When father fixed the auto tire"—
'Tis thus his sages go;
He'll stand for anything, depend—
For verses good or bad!
And that is why this thing is penned
Upon the theme of Dad.

EFFECTS OF INTENSE LIGHT.

It is not so much the intensity of the light focused on the retina as it is the quantity received by that sensitive organ that causes the retinal fatigue or worse. In the great snow fields of the Arctic regions the natives protect their eyes from the glare of the snow by goggles made of hollowed pieces of wood in which they have made small holes to look through. This, says the Optical Review, reduces the quantity of the light which passes into their eyes with consequent relief from the glare.

So, too, if we look through a minute pinhole disc at the sun we can endure the very brigh light much longer than when we look with the naked eyes. If we look at a distant electric arc light there is no retinal fatigue, while if we look at the same light from a short distance there is great discomfort, and yet the two retainal images are of equal brilliancy, only in the first case this image is very much smaller than in the second case; that is the quantity of light is very much different.

Then there is the flaming electric light which is now to be found in all of the large cities of the country. This light is much less brilliant than that of the arc light, and yet its size is so great that this more than makes up the difference and it is therefore very glaring and uncomfortable to look at. In skiascopy it is possible to use a very intense light if it is made small in area, and for the reasons above stated.

CHEATED A CROCODILE.

Wide World Magazine: Few, indeed, of the rivers of New Guinea are explored, and many of them are not navigable at all, so that any expedition inland must be undertaken on foot.

Some of the streams swarm with crocodiles, which reminds me of an extraordinary incident that took place on a remote part of the south coast of New Guinea, opposite the island of Mamototi. One afternoon, when the tide was low and the reef exposed for a quarter of a mile off the coast, a native, with his wife, mother and family, was sleeping peacefully on the sand under his house, which was, as usual, built on piles over the reef. Toward the group an enormous crocodile made its way—creeping stealthily up the beach. Nearer and nearer came the monster until, with a shriek, the native awoke—to find his arm fast gripped in the crocodile's jaws. His wife and family, together with all the other inhabitants of the village, fled headlong directly they saw the crocodile, leaving the poor wretch to his fate. The only person who did not flee was the man's mother, and as she saw her son being relentlessly dragged over the reef toward the sea she clung disparingly to his other arm, shouting at the top of her voice meanwhile. She pulled, and the saurian pulled; and one can imagine the feelings of the man between! However, her pluck won the day, for the crocodile finally relinquished his hold and retired reluctantly to the water. We saw the victim some hours later. He appeared nearly dead, and his wounds were awful to see. On the injuries the natives had dabbed some black medicinal compound of their own, and, wonderful to relate, two or three days afterward the man was quite well again and his wounds almost healed.

THE LAW EXPOUNDED.

Los Angeles Times: Senator Albert B. Cummins, at a Chautaukua banquet at Council Grove, Kan., said of an unjust law:

"They declare, the upholders of this law, that there are compensations to its injustice; but such talk reminds me of a conversation between two Des Moines men.

"'Wot is this 'ere compensation, Bill?' said the first man.

"'Well,' said Bill, 'it's like this. If yer blind, ye hear the better.'

"'Oh, I see,' said the other. For instance, if a feller's born with one leg shorter'n the other, then the other leg is longer.'"

ARE FROM STILLWATER

Robber Killed in Iowa and His Companion Are Identified.

Detectives Say They Are Pair Who Got Out of Prison.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to information received this morning by C. H. Compton, chief of a detective agency in Minneapolis, and Charles Browne of Minneapolis of the Tri-State Bankers' Protective association, the highwayman who was killed at Paton, Iowa, yesterday by a sheriff's posse was Jerry McCarthy, one of the convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary at Stillwater on Saturday, March 4, last.

The telegrams to Brown and Compton say that the wounded highwayman was Peter Juhl, McCarthy's partner in the daring escape.

McCarthy and Juhl escaped from Stillwater more than two months ago. They made keys, unlocked their cells, scaled the walls and disappeared.

OBITUARY

Tannes E. Miller, a native of Norway, who was chief bugler to Gen. Steadman and served in Company D of the Sixty-seventh volunteer infantry and with the First Wisconsin heavy artillery from 1862 to 1865, is dead at Genesee, Ida., southeast of Spokane. When 9 years of age in 1849 Miller, with his parents, moved to Wisconsin, where he passed his boyhood days. He served on Gen. Stoneman's staff in the battle of Mission Ridge, afterward joining Gen. Steadman.

Charles Reed, connected with the Menasha postoffice as postmaster and assistant postmaster for twenty-six years is dead. Mr. Reed was the only deaf mute in the United States ever favored with a presidential appointment. He was a son of the late Curtis Reed, one of the founders of Menasha, and was 60 years of age. His wife, Mrs. Hypatia Boyd Reed, a former well known Milwaukee writer, one son, two daughters and two brothers survive.

A CENTENARIAN AND A FOX HUNTER.

Truth: That gallant centenarian Col. John Bower of Droxford was not only the oldest fox hunter in Great Britain. He saw his first fox killed when hunting with the Fife pack a few months after Waterloo, and he hunted zealously during his service in India and South Africa. His Indian service extended from 1826 to 1840.

On returning to England he settled at Droxford and became a regular follower of the Hambledon pack, of which he was master for three seasons. To the last he was a well known and popular character in East Hants. He rode to hounds until about ten years ago, and eighteen months ago the members of the hunt presented him with a silver salver in commemoration of his 100th birthday. Col. Bower succeeded the late Sir Henry Keppel in the occupation of Droxford Lodge.

MONUMENT IN A RIVER.

Strand: There are monuments in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta river, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower, Searle, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning-post for many of the races for the world's championship, and is still used as such for local events.

GIRL LED FIELD IN FOX CHASE.

Wilmington correspondence Philadelphia Press: Miss Sarah Fisk, 23 years old, a daughter of Lewis S. Fisk of Philadelphia and a granddaughter of John Dobson, a wealthy Philadelphian, rode in the biggest fox hunt ever held in Brandywine Hundred, this state, and Delaware county, Pennsylvania.

Miss Fisk led the sixty hunters through the day and she took the fences and other barriers in a manner that won admiration from all.

After being liberated the animal ran to cover, but the hunters found another scent which carried them into Delaware.

THE TRAVELING MASONIC BIBLE.

Springfield Republican: In the fall of 1909 Masons of Chicago started a Bible on a long journey. It is to be kept for a time in the possession of one lodge in every principal city of the country and ultimately returned to its starting point to be placed among the precious archives of the Chicago Masons.

It is expected that twenty-five years will be required for the Bible to complete its passage from lodge to lodge until all the blank pages provided for the record of its custodians shall have been filled. A lodge in Columbus, Ohio, which had retained the Bible since November, recently sent a special train to Springfield in that state to convey the traveling Bible to a lodge there, where it was received with impressive ceremonies. Before reaching Columbus it had been in the possession of lodges in Cincinnati and Dayton.

LONG DRAWN OUT LAWSUITS.

London Chronicle: The great lawsuit, Wyler vs. Lewis (to give its short title), which came to an end in the house of lords yesterday, though it has lasted fifty-seven days in its various stages, does not rival other famous cases in length.

The Tichborne civil trial, for instance, occupied 103 days, the Parnell commission 128 days. The criminal trial of the Tichborne claimant was begun on April 23 and was not finished until February 28 of the following year. This was the longest trial known in England and is likely to remain so. The law proceedings in the Tichborne case are said to have cost the estate £92,000. It is quite likely that the expenses of the case just ended may exceed that sum. Counsel alone pocketed close to £40,000.

HABITS OF CRABS.

London Daily Mail: Some interesting investigations in regard to the movements and habits of the edible crab are being carried out by the Eastern Sea Fisheries committee. Fishery Inspector Donnison informed the committee at the half yearly meeting at King's Lynn that during the last two months 1,911 crabs had been labelled and returned to the sea of the Norfolk and Lincolnshire coasts.

It is hoped to be able to trace their movements and to obtain other data which are likely to be of use to the fishermen. During the season just ended 1,281,000 marketable crabs and 46,000 lobsters were caught along the coast.

WORKING BACKWARD.

T. P.'s Weekly: A Japanese house is built quite differently from an English one. The roof, which with us is the last important part of the outward structure to be completed, is with the Japanese the first thing to be finished. All the tools used by the carpenters and joiners have a reversed action. The Japanese carpenter does not push a plane away from him, but pulls it toward him.

The gimlets are threaded in the opposite way to ours; the saws are made so as to cut on the upward pull and not on the downward thrust; screws have their threads reversed, and keyholes are always made upside down and the keys turned backward. In the house, if the clock is an old one, it will have stationary hands, with the face revolving backward and the hours marked 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3 and so on, reckoning onward from noon.

THOSE CAPSULE STAMPS.

Youngstown Telegram: With anger flashing from her eye, a tall matron entered a South side drug store one evening recently and demanded of the clerk an accounting for money which her little boy had spent for stamps and medicine.

"He got the quinine all right," replied the clerk, "and he got the stamps out of the slot machine. I put his money in for him."

"What slot machine?" inquired the woman.

The woman gave a gasp of consternation.

"Were the stamps in the capsules? Well I put the other paper on the shelf, thinking the stamps were in it, and gave Bobby the capsules to cure his cold."

GALLOPING KITCHEN.

Chicago Tribune: The British soldier is notoriously fond of his rations, and like every other soldier is a poor fighter when his meals do not appear with proper regularity.

So that Tommy Atkins may not be kept a second late from his beef and tea the army has rigged up a novel "galloping kitchen," a cooker on wheels, which cooks at is goes and can rattle along on its gun carriage over the roughest roads a horse can take, the provender boiling away all the time.

There is a boiler divided into four compartments and a firebox below, nothing more. The arrangement could not be simpler, and it saves the annoyance of setting up a whole cooking outfit at every stop when the army is on a rapid march, and also assures a meal to the detachment that is away from camp on a scouting or skirmishing expedition.

WHISTLER SLEPT.

London Globe: It was Whistler's custom when drowsy to go deliberately to sleep, no matter where or what the circumstances might be.

At one dinner party his gentle snore suddenly aroused his neighbor, who nudged him violently with his elbow. "I say, Whistler," he protested excitedly, "you must not sleep here." "Leave me alone!" snapped Whistler. "I've said all I wanted to. I've no interest at all in what you and your friends have to say."

One evening he was a guest at a hotel, as was also Edwin A. Abbey, and immediately after the dinner was served went calmly to sleep. On the way to the theater he had another nap in the cab. He also slumbered peacefully through the play. The next morning he blandly said: "What did Abbey have to say last night; anything worth while?"

RAVEN IN "BARNABY RUDGE."

London Evening Standard: Alfred Tennyson Dickens, the oldest surviving son of the great novelist, has just arrived in London from Australia, where he has been for the last forty-five years. He was 20 years of age when he left home—Devonshire House, still to be seen facing Marylebone church.

In the course of an interview regarding his father's works, Mr. Dickens said: "The original of the raven in 'Barnaby Rudge' was one we kept at Tavistock house, not its successor, which died at Gad's Hill. The former bird, I remember, was an intelligent, although at the same time a trouble-come creature.

"He was an excellent linguist, and one of his favorite pastimes was to call up the coachman at the most inconvenient hours of the night. 'Tupping,' it would call, 'master wants the horses—master wants the carriage!' Tupping used to think the summons came from one of the maids, and one night he had actually got the horses into the carriage before discovering the deception."

A. T. Dickens does not remember his grandfather, who, however, he is convinced, was the original of Micawber, the gentleman who was always "waiting for something to turn up." "My grandmother, however, I can well recall," he added. "She visited Gad's Hill in 1863. She was a gentle, quiet, simple lady, and her character undoubtedly inspired to no small degree that of Mrs. Nickleby."

DOGS CAN'T RESIST THE ARMY.

Des Moines Register and Leader: Any one who has his eyes about him and who visits Camp J. A. T. Hull will notice nearly as many dogs as men in the big military reserve. There is not a company or troop but what has a dog attached to it, and not a few companies and troops have two or three dogs.

A dog led the charge across the imaginary river, a dog led the review of the troops which should properly have been headed by Gen. Smith, and a dog stood by the general when the troops passed him and dipped their colors as they passed.

"Where did we get him?" said a trooper, referring to a dog which looked like all the rest of the dogs, and which had just succeeded in capturing a horse that had thrown his rider and successfully evaded all attempts by men to capture him. "Where did we get him? Lord, sir, we just picked him up. It's easier for a boy to resist a circus than it is for a dog to resist the army. Many a respectable country dog has left his life of ease to join the army. We like 'em and we give 'em a good home, and they just stick. No disrespect, sir, but our troop could get along better without its commander than it could without the troop dog."

"And it's true," said Lieut. Col. Daniel McCarthy, "a military camp without dogs is like a home without children."

LITERARY TOWN NAMES.

London Chronicle: If the commonwealth capital is named Shakespeare it will not be the only Shakespeare in the world, Ontaria contributing one already. Bacon, on the other hand, figures twice in United States town nomenclature, though one cannot be sure without local knowledge whether it was the man who didn't write "Hamlet" who is meant. There is often that difficulty in looking through town names apparently reminiscent of literature in these new lands.

America is full of Miltons and Byrons, but do they all commemorate the poets? One feels less doubt about the dozen Burnses, the two Tennysons and the Shelley and Keats. Dickens scores three, Thackeray one, Carlyle six, Ruskin two, Racine eight, Hugo three, Balzac two, Geothe one and Schiller one, but we look in vain for Spenser or Dante. On the other hand, Homer, Virgil, Plato and Cicero abound.

Buy in Duluth.

SENTIMENT OR BUSINESS?

ON WHICH BASIS DO YOU BUY ADVERTISING SPACE?

Some men buy advertising space in a paper because the paper tells them that "it deserves their support," not because the space will produce results.

Then they charge the amount up to their advertising appropriation.

An advertising appropriation is the seed of the modern business, properly sown and cultivated it will multiply a hundred fold.

So that each cent taken from the advertising appropriation robs the advertiser not of one cent, but of a potential dollar.

Be charitable, not with the seed, but out of the abundance of the harvest! Next time a paper approaches you with an appeal for your "support"—subscribe for the paper out of your private purse if you like, and have it sent to a friend, but don't buy alleged "advertising" space and deduct the cost from the amount you can afford to spend in real advertising.

Business and sentiment are oil and water—they won't mix. The heavy-lidded poppies luxuriate over the business-graves of hundreds who have refused to accept this truism.

And remember—every time you "buy" 10 cents worth of space in a worthless advertising medium, you are throwing nine dollars and ninety cents into the lake.

That isn't even charity—it's just foolishness!

WOMAN'S REALM.

Trout fishing fever is certainly getting into the blood. With this beautiful warm weather the women of Duluth have shown as evident a desire as their husbands and brothers to get out with hook and line to see what they can catch.

Saturday and Sunday the streams along the north shore of the lake were crowded with fishermen and "fisherwomen." The range trains coming down last evening brought home about 300 people and—well, of course, one can't say how many fish.

One does feel really comfortable in a short skirt and a fish basket and rod is a perfectly good excuse to wear one, and then the outing skirts which so many of the Duluth women have are natty and attractive and appeal to the feminine instinct for display, which is also an inducement for tramping up and down in brush that catches and tangles, and eating a cold lunch instead of the nice warm dinner.

Those who did not really fish enjoyed the walk and the fresh air and came home as enthusiastic as the really and truly fishermen.

A good many spring flowers are out, and nearly every person met along the road has great bunches of anemonies or cowslips. The dandelions, too, are very much in evidence.

This new rule was adopted recently by the British Amateur Swimming association and its object is to abolish mixed racing. Miss Smith has been competing for the last five years in races with men, both in England and France. At present she is captain of the Ladies' Swimming Club of London. In addition she holds over a dozen championships and possesses more than fifty medals. She is a regular competitor in the 15-mile Thames championship swim, only failing to complete the course once.

THE EVENING STORY

MISS ANNE'S ENEMIES

By Helen Burrows.

"Hey, there, Fatty, if you don't stop that movin' around, you'll spoil it all."

"Well, we can't both stay under this bush fightin', or she'll come out before her regular time. Now you, Bill, go under that bush on the other side of the walk with Vince, and when I roll a pebble over the bricks, you start wigglin' the string on your side and I'll wiggle the string on my side. That'll make the wire legs of the spider move and it'll make it crawl real lifelike. An' say," Tom called in a stage whisper to Bill, who was already making his way across the walk on his stomach, "when she yells, you an' Vince beat it to the barn."

The three boys, their hearts thumping with expectation, crouched under the bushes. Suddenly a knob turned, a key clicked and then came the even thump of a person walking down wooden stairs. The thump changed to a ring as the person stepped on the brick walk. As soon as the ring became sufficiently loud, Tom rolled the pebble and the spider began to "wiggle" violently. There was a gurgle, a scream, a swish of skirts and a mad retreat toward the porch. The boys, unable to retain their mirth, snickered, then dropped the strings and ran as fast as their legs could carry them.

The person heard the snickers, then turned suspiciously around and stepped down the walk again. When she halted and saw the huge, wooden spider, Miss Anne's pallor of fright changed to a flush of indignation and mortification. Gingerly she picked up the ugly thing and threw it over the fence. She then proceeded on her way.

The sun was fast setting when Miss Anne, her black bag grasped firmly in her hand, returned to make tea. Tea things cleared away, she took down the large Bible and read aloud a few lines to Jehosophat, who blinked and purred contentedly as he cuddled up under his mistress' arms.

"Did those young scamps hurt you, yesterday, Jehosophat?" Jehosophat purred an affirmative and winked inquiringly into the lamp. Tin cans hurt, especially if you're used to being petted and well cared for.

"First they tie cabbage leaves over the porch, then put a jagged tin can on your tail and now, I suppose, it was they who frightened me with that horrid spider. O, yes," she went on, bitterly, "they're all alike. The only difference is that the young ones do things openly and the old ones say nasty things behind your back. I suppose they think they can do anything with their old maid of a plain sewer. Or Edward, Edward, I wish—I wish—no, I don't, either; it was all your fault, anyway." Miss Anne's lips grew set and the lines in her thin face hardened.

"Come, Jehosophat," she said, wearily, as she shut the open Bible, "come, let's go to bed."

Early next morning Miss Anne stood at the door gazing at a small cloud of dust up the road.

"There go those young scamps again," murmured she under her breath.

"Say, fellers," Vincent was saying, "I got a dandy scheme. It's all about Miss Anne. I'll tell it to you as soon as we get to that rock Hiatus. Well," he continued, when they had all seated themselves on a small boulder under a large chestnut tree, "I was listenin' at the keyhole when Miss Morris was talking to Ma. You know," apologized Vincent, "Mis' Morris talks so loud anyhow that I could ha' heard even if I didn't put my ear to the hole. Well, Mis' Morris was tellin' Ma how Miss Anne and Mr. Barnam uster to be sweethearts and——"

"What's sweethearts?" interrupted Bill.

"The ninny don't know what sweetheart is. O, well, he's only 8, that's why." Tom shrugged his shoulders and gazed at Bill with all the dignity of his 10 years.

"Sweethearts," explained Vincent, the peacemaker, "is people what sit on the porch at night, an' moon, an' hold each other's hands, an' say silly things. My sister Susan and Jim Kaler uster be sweethearts before they got married. An' my! didn't Sis get mad, when I——"

"We don't want to hear about your sister. Tell us about Miss Anne," cut in Tom after he had stood all he could of Vincent's digression.

"Well, anyway, Miss Anne and Mr. Barnam had a fight, an' now Miss Anne's an old maid and Mr. Barnam's a bacheldor."

"Bach'lor, grumpy," corrected Tom.

"A bach'lor,' Vincent said, "is a person whats never had a wife. The only difference between a bach'lor and a widerer is that the widerers got children and the bach'lor ain't." Vincent gazed triumphantly at Tom as he aired this bit of knowledge.

"Well, Vince, what's your plan?"

"You know Miss Anne always goes to prayer meetin' on Friday night by the path that runs along that back pasture where all them calves is. We could get the calves together at the gate that opens into the path, an' let them all out when Miss Anne comes. An' you know Miss Anne's dreadfully afraid of cows an', an—" Vincent stammered in his excitement, "an' we could write Mr. Barnam a letter sayin' that Miss Anne'll meet him at the foot of the hill where the path leads into the road," Vinvent finished breathless, but he felt repaid by Tom's brief but expressive, "That's a peacherino, Vince."

"Now, I'll write the letter, an' you Bill, can provide the env'lope an' Vincent can get the stamp. My, but Miss Anne'll be madder'n hops when she sees Mr. Barnam," grinned Tom diabolically. "Today's Tuesday, and he'll get that letter at least by Thursday," said Vincent.

The letter was duly written and mailed and received with mingled feelings by Mr. Barnam.

The day came, however, in good time. The boys assembled Friday night at dusk, collected the calves by a goodly amount of salt, and squatted down to await Miss Anne. As soon as she had passed the gate the boys softly undid the catch. One by one the calves sauntered out. Miss Anne, hearing a tramping behind her, turned around. There, it seemed to her in the dim light she saw at least a dozen full grown bulls, their eyes staring fiercely at her. Terrified she began to run.

"Smoke an' cats," choked Vincent, "the calves are runnin' after her for more salt!"

"Look at the way she's holdin' up her spirts with mud drippin' off the ends of it. She looks just like the wallypog when the miller and the gargoyle poured water over him to get off the dough." Vincent flapped his arms and pranced up and down as he demonstrated the woes of Miss Anne and the wallypog.

"But," said Tom in a disappointed manner, "she's not yellin' a bit."

Indeed, Miss Anne had not collected her thoughts sufficiently to scream. She felt those horrible horns tearing her flesh and making the blood run as she rushed blindly on. Every time she drew her foot out of the vozy mud she felt their approach nearer. At last with a gasp she felt her feet touch the hard compact earth of the road. For a minute or two she looked wildly up and down, then spied the black silhouette of a man. Summoning up her last remains of strength she ran towards him with a hoarse cry of "The bulls—they're after me," and sank at his feet.

"H'm, everything's mighty quiet, an' the calves are all down the middle of the hill. Let's go down an' se what's happened." To msaid anxiously.

"Come on, you two, let's go home. Ain't that sight enough to make your hair turn green?" Tom faced about disgustedly and started up the hill, followed by his two silent but devoted satellites.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

The shops are full of many pretty little gifts for the girl graduate this spring. With the fashion so favorable to pinks and coral shades this season nothing could make a better gift or a more dainty one than a string of coral beads.

In one of the jewelry store windows some exquisite strings of the beads are displayed priced at about $10 and $12 a string. But the genuine coral and very pretty, too, comes priced all the way from $3 a string up. One string of the white coral delicately tinted with pink is displayed in one shop at $65.

Another line of jewelry which offers pretty, useful and inexpensive gifts is the enameled stuff called the "champleve enamel" mounted on sterling silver. It has no pretentions of being elaborate but is simple and girlish while being exquisitely delicate. There are belt pins bar pins, hat pins, beauty pins, collar sets consisting of one long and two short pins, cuff buttons and stick pins and bouquet holders. These bouquet holders are both for a bunch of flowers and then there are small ones for rose or for al small stemmed flower.

The pins run from about 65 cents aplece up to $8 or $9.

Anxiety and Doubt

By CARA REESE.

Over-anxiety implies doubt, and doubt, they say, prevents or retards beneficial fulfillment; or brings about the unlikely or untoward happening which you had hoped to escape.

It scarecly pays therefore to be over-anxious about anything. By over-anxiety is meant a worriment amounting almost to frenzy, an agitation of spirit which prevents sleep and digestion, a state of mind incapabale of clear reasoning or effective planning. Anxiety is bad enough, but when it comes to heaping extra measure on top of that, then conditions are alarming.

The worst thing about anxiety is that it implies a doubt. Anxiety is communicable and when the spread begins the contagion of doubt keeps apace. An aggregated doubt is a terrible menace and nothing may withstand when a general doubt creeps in. An uncontrollable anxiety on the part of a single individual has a potency in establishing the defeat or ruin in stupendous enterprise. Where a commonweal is concerned anxiety, like slow poison, spreads from one individual to another, while side by side creeps the doubt which in the end leads to disaster. The dodder weaving is deadly tendrils in and among the blooming plants is an apt illustration of the droop and weakening of that which was erstwhile sturdy and capable. Doubt is deadly.

Of necessity the heart is troubled many times in this big world and its disjointed affairs. The mind is disturbed. There is a sudden flurry and whirlwind and that which seemed sure is now shaken and dethroned. There is confusion of spirit and an agitation which may not be instantly controlled. The most pitiful phase is when the heart and its interests are involved. First the child touch of an undefined anxiety or fear, then the over-anxiety, and finally the dread doubt urging and beckoning and determined on bringing to nothing the fond hopes of mutual trust and confidence.

They say, some of these good folks who are ever tranquil in the midst of alarms that the disturbed one must learn to "float." There is no other way of regaining a peaceful, doubt-ridden mind, or a heart at ease, or to ride the agitated waves in safety. "Float" mentally when the storm comes up and there is a straining and lashing of nerves and brain cells. "Float" when the heart is troubled and uneasy to the point of affliction and painful smothering. "Float" when your intelligence is incapable of reasoning. "Float" when you cannot keep yourself.

If you "float" long enough some craft or life-buoy will come your way and pick you up. The serious point is this, rather tha nover-anxiety and its accomplice, a leaden, harassing doubt, do anything to make a balloon of your mind temporarily and "float" airily above the cares or become your own "preserver" and "float" tranquilly on the surface of trouble. "Float" until doubt is dispelled.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Those who wish to try any new form of hair dressing should first of all study their type of face, and should remember certain rules. For, after all, it is not sufficient that a mode of coiffure be smart; the main issue should be its suitability to the particular type of countenance it is to frame.

A thin, oval face should have the hair dressed low and puffed out at the sides, so that a certain amount of breadth is suggested. With a round, chubby face the coiffure should be arranged as high as possible and moderately puffed out at the sides; while an oblong face never looks well with the hair dressed either high or low, but with a medium choice.

Remember that dark hair acquires a great charm if the hair is dressed smoothly and posseses a satin-like gloss, gained by an occasional application of a little brilliantine or a few drops of violet oil on the brush and by burnishing the hair with a silk handkerchief. Light hair, on the other hand, should never be arranged very tightly, as its pretty tints should not be hidden in a close mass.

Finally, bear in mind that no coiffure should be adopted in its most extreme mode, unless the wearer is very young, very pretty, and very piquant.

Hollows in the Neck.

"Although the rest of my body is fairly well developed, I have large hollows in my neck. I should be glad if you could help me," says "Inquirer."

The hollows will soon fill out if you constantly massage your neck with olive oil. After washing your neck in warm water, warm a little olive oil, and then well massage it into the hollows, using a rotary movement. You will soon notice a decided improvement in your neck.

Small Legs.

"I am 16, and have very small legs. What can I do to improve them?" asks "Worried."

I don't think it will be possible to make your legs fatter without doing the same thing to the whole body; but if you are thin I would advise you to drink plenty of hot milk, taking it in small sips. It is splendid for building up the system. Eat plenty of bread and butter, milk puddings, potatoes and all fattening foods.

The Kitchen

A Cheap Blanc Mange.

Dissolve half an ounce of gelatine powder in three pints of milk, let this stand on the stove till the gelatine is quite dissolved, add one ounce of white sugar and any flavoring liked. When cooled add a quarter of a pint of cream and stir till the mixture is cold, then strain. Beat with an egg whisk till nearly set, then place in a wet mold and let it stand till firm.

Potatoes a La Maitre D'Hotel.

Boil some good potatoes in their skins; peel them when cooked, and cut them into small squares, about half an inch thick. Put them into a stewpan together with some sliced onions, chopped parsley, pepper, salt and butter. Add some stock and toss them about until the onions and parsley are thoroughly done.

Genuine Italian Spaghetti.

One pound spaghetti, one can of tomato paste, one-eighth of a pound of cheese, three large onions, one garlic clove, one tablespoon of olive oil, one cup of soup stock (optional.)

Boil spaghetti 25 mintes. Chop the onions and add garlic rather fine, add a little water and boil tender. Add contents of a 5-cent can of tomato paste and the cup of soup stock. Let all boil and add the olive oil, and salt to taste. Grate the cheese. Drain the spaghetti and pour it over the sauce. Roman cheese can be bought of an Italian grocer.

The Doctor

In Case of Poisoning.

If symptoms of illness come on suddenly in one or more persons soon after food or drink has been taken, it is natural to suspect poison, and if the same symptoms occur in people who have shared the same dish, the suspicion approaches certainty. In all cases except those of corrosive poisons an emetic should be given without delay, and wherever poison is suspected, medical aid should be summoned at once.

The principal corrosives are carbolic acid, sulphuric, nitric, hydrochloric acid and the strong alkalis, caustic soda, potash and ammonia. Where either of these has been swallowed, on no account give an emetic, but find out whether an acid or alkali has been taken. If an acid, give carbonate of soda dissolved in water; if an alkali, dilute vinegar or lime juice. Follow these antidotes in either case with milk or the white of an egg beaten in water.

Where carbolic acid has been taken, sweet oil should be administered. The poisons most often taken in food are irritants, such as mercury, arsenic, antimony and phosphorus, e. g., rat poison.

The symptoms are much the same as in corrosive poisoning—violent abdominal pain, vomiting, diarrhoea and collapse, but there is no discoloration or corrosion of the mouth and throat. The handiest emetic is generally obtained by mixing a tablespoonful of mustard or salt in a tumbler of warm water, and this may be repeated every five minutes till it has the desired effect.

Whenever there is reason to think the poison has been taken in a special food or drink, the remains of the dish should be carefully preserved for analysis by the doctor.

The Best Dish on Your Table

Van Camp's Spaghetti, whenever you serve it, will be the best dish on your table.

No matter how competent your cook may be she can't make a dish like this.

It's the same with us. Our chefs have been cooking for millions of tables for nearly fifty years.

They have pleased so many that people are spending ten million dollars per year to get their foods.

But they never made anything nearly so popular as this new dish—this wonderful dish of spaghetti.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, but the main ones are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

The recipe is secret. We can't reveal it to you. But we supply it to you ready cooked for less than you could make it.

All you have to do is to heat it.

You may have eaten spaghetti in Rome. You may have your own pet recipe. But you will agree with all the rest that this is the best of all.

Your grocer has it or can easily get it for you. Ask him to send a few cans.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

WOMAN'S REALM.

Trout fishing fever is certainly getting into the blood. With this beautiful warm weather the women of Duluth have shown as evident a desire as their husbands and brothers to get out with hook and line to see what they can catch.

Saturday and Sunday the streams along the north shore of the lake were crowded with fishermen and "fisherwomen." The range trains coming down last evening brought home about 300 people and—well, of course, one can't say how many fish.

One does feel really comfortable in a short skirt and a fish basket and rod is a perfectly good excuse to wear one, and then the outing skirts which so many of the Duluth women have are natty and attractive and appeal to the feminine instinct for display, which is also an inducement for tramping up and down in brush that catches and tangles, and eating a cold lunch instead of the nice warm dinner.

Those who did not really fish enjoyed the walk and the fresh air and came home as enthusiastic as the really and truly fishermen.

A good many spring flowers are out, and nearly every person met along the road has great bunches of anemonies or cowslips. The dandelions, too, are very much in evidence.

Married in Honolulu.

The following wedding announcement taken from the Honolulu Pacific Commercial Advertiser of a recent date will be of interest to many in Duluth as the bride was very well known here, having made this city her home until lately:

"Yesterday morning saw the termination of a pretty little romance when Miss Alice Kelliher of Duluth became the bride of John Ashman Beaven, the ceremony being performed at the Young hotel. Both of these young people are newcomers to the island, the bridegroom having arrived here several weeks ago to enter the business field here, and the bride was an arrival yesterday by the Wilhelmina.

"The ceremony was performed by Father Ulrich. The young couple will occupy apartments at the Young hotel until their home at 1264 Kinau street is ready for them on May 20, when they will be at home to their friends at that address."

LILLY SMITH.

Miss Lilly Smith, the well-known swimmer of London, is greatly indignant over the new rule which is to hamper her future activities in the amateur swimming world. This new rule was adopted recently by the British Amateur Swimming association and its object is to abolish mixed racing. Miss Smith has been competing for the last five years in races with men, both in England and France. At present she is captain of the Ladies' Swimming Club of London. In addition she holds over a dozen championships and possesses more than fifty medals. She is a regular competitor in the 15-mile Thames championship swim, only failing to complete the course once.

THE EVENING STORY

MISS ANNE'S ENEMIES

By Helen Burrows.

"Hey, there, Fatty, if you don't stop that movin' around, you'll spoil it all."

"Well, we can't both stay under this bush fightin', or she'll come out before her regular time. Now you, Bill, go under that bush on the other side of the walk with Vince, and when I roll a pebble over the bricks, you start wigglin' the string on your side and I'll wiggle the string on my side. That'll make the wire legs of the spider move and it'll make it crawl real lifelike. An' say," Tom called in a stage whisper to Bill, who was already making his way across the walk on his stomach, "when she yells, you an' Vince beat it to the barn."

The three boys, their hearts thumping with expectation, crouched under the bushes. Suddenly a knob turned, a key clicked and then came the even thump of a person walking down wooden stairs. The thump changed to a ring as the person stepped on the brick walk. As soon as the ring became sufficiently loud, Tom rolled the pebble and the spider began to "wigglie" violently. There was a gurgle, a scream, a swish of skirts and a mad retreat toward the porch. The boys, unable to retain their mirth, snickered, then dropped the strings and ran as fast as their legs could carry them.

The person heard the snickers, then turned suspiciously around and stepped down the walk again. When she halted and saw the huge, wooden spider, Miss Anne's pallor of fright changed to a flush of indignation and mortification. Gingerly she picked up the ugly thing and threw it over the fence. She then proceeded on her way.

The sun was fast setting when Miss Anne, her black bag grasped firmly in her hand, returned to make tea. Tea things cleared away, she took down the large Bible and read aloud a few lines to Jehosophat, who blinked and purred contentedly as he cuddled up under his mistress' arms.

"Did those young scamps hurt you, yesterday, Jehosophat?" Jehosophat purred an affirmative and winked inquiringly into the lamp. Tin cans hurt, especially if you're used to being petted and well cared for.

"First they tie cabbage leaves over the porch, then put a jagged tin can on your tail and now, I suppose, it was they who frightened me with that horrid spider. O, yes," she went on, bitterly, "they're all alike. The only difference is that the young ones do things openly and the old ones say nasty things behind your back. I suppose they think they can do anything with their old maid of a plain sewer. Or Edward, Edward, I wish—I wish—no, I don't, either; it was all your fault, anyway." Miss Anne's lips grew set and the lines in her thin face hardened.

"Come, Jehosophat," she said, wearily, as she shut the open Bible, "come, let's go to bed."

Early next morning Miss Anne stood at the door gazing at a small cloud of dust up the road.

"There go those young scamps again," murmured she under her breath.

"Say, fellers," Vincent was saying, "I got a dandy scheme. It's all about Miss Anne. I'll tell it to you as soon as we get to that rock Hiatus. Well," he continued, when they had all seated themselves on a small boulder under a large chestnut tree, "I was listenin' at the keyhole when Miss Morris was talking to Ma. You know," apologized Vincent, "Mis' Morris talks so loud anyhow that I could ha' heard even if I didn't put my ear to the hole. Well, Mis' Morris was tellin' Ma how Miss Anne and Mr. Barnam uster to be sweethearts and——"

"What's sweethearts?" interrupted Bill.

"The ninny don't know what sweethearts is. O, well, he's only 8, that's why." Tom shrugged his shoulders and gazed at Bill with all the dignity of his 10 years.

"Sweethearts," explained Vincent, the peacemaker, "is people what sit on the porch at night, an' moon, an' hold each other's hands, an' say silly things. My sister Susan and Jim Kaler uster be sweethearts before they got married. An' my! didn't sis get mad, when I—"

"We don't want to hear about your sister. Tell us about Miss Anne," cut in Tom after he had stood all he could of Vincent's digression.

"Well, anyway, Miss Anne and Mr. Barnam had a fight, an' now Miss Anne's an old maid and Mr. Barnam's a bachelder."

"Bach'lor, gumpy," corrected Tom.

"A bach'lor," Vincent said, "is a person whats never had a wife. The only difference between a bach'lor and a widerer is that the widerers got children and the bach'lor ain't." Vincent gazed triumphantly at Tom as he aired this bit of knowledge.

"Well, Vince, what's your plan?"

"You know Miss Anne always goes to prayer meetin' on Friday night by the path that runs along that back pasture where all them calves is. We could get the calves togetlier at the gate that opens into the path, an' let them all out when Miss Anne comes. An' you know Miss Anne's dreadfully afraid of cows an', an—" Vincent stammered in his excitement, "an' we could write Mr. Barnam a letter sayin' that Miss Anne'll meet him at the foot of the hill where the path leads into the road." Vincent finished breathless, but he felt repaid by Tom's brief but expressive, "That's a peacherino, Vince."

"Now, I'll write the letter, an' you Bill, can provide the envlope an' Vincent can get the stamp. My, but Miss Anno'll be madder'n hops when she sees Mr. Barnam," grinned Tom diabolically.

"Today's Tuesday, and he'll get that letter at least by Thursday," said Vincent.

The letter was duly written and mailed and received with mingled feelings by Mr. Barnam.

The day came, however, in good time. The boys assembled Friday night at dusk, collected the calves by a goodly amount of salt, and squatted down to await Miss Anne. As soon as she had passed the gate the boys softly undid the catch. One by one the calves sauntered out. Miss Anne, hearing a tramping behind her, turned around. There, it seemed to her in the dim light she saw at least a dozen full grown bulls, their eyes staring fiercely at her. Terrified she began to run.

"Smoke an' cats," choked Vincent, "the calves are runnin' after her for more salt!"

"Look at the way she's holdin' up her spirts with mud drippin' off the ends of it. She looks just like the wallypog when the miller and the gargoyle poured water over him to get off the dough." Vincent flapped his arms and pranced up and down as he demonstrated the woes of Miss Anne and the wallypog.

"But," said Tom in a disappointed manner, "she's not yellin' a bit."

Indeed, Miss Anne had not collected her thoughts sufficiently to scream. She felt those horrible horns tearing her flesh and making the blood run as she rushed blindly on. Every time she drew her foot out of the vozy mud she felt their approach nearer. At last with a gasp she felt her feet touch the hard compact earth of the road. For a minute or two she looked wildly up and down, then spied the black silhouette of a man. Summoning up her last remains of strength she ran towards him with a hoarse cry of "The bulls—they're after me," and sank at his feet.

"H'm, everything's mighty quiet, an' the calves are all down the middle of the hill. Let's go down an' se what's happened," To msaid anxiously.

"Come on, you two, let's go home. Ain't that slght enough to make your hair turn green?" Tom faced about disgustedly and started up the hill, followed by his two silent but devoted satellites.

SEEN IN THE SHOPS

The shops are full of many pretty little gifts for the girl graduate this spring. With the fashion so favorable to pinks and coral shades this season nothing could make a better gift or a more dainty one than a string of coral beads.

In one of the jewelry store windows some exquisite strings of the beads are displayed priced at about $10 and $12 a string. But the genuine coral and very pretty, too, comes priced all the way from $3 a string up. One string of the white coral delicately tinted with pink is displayed in one shop at $65.

Another line of jewelry which offers pretty, useful and inexpensive gifts is the enameled stuff called the "champleve enamel" mounted on sterling silver. It has no pretentions of being elaborate but is simple and girlish while being exquisitely delicate. There are belt pins bar pins, hat pins, beauty pins, collar sets consisting of one long and two short pins, cuff buttons and stick pins and bouquet holders. These bouqut holders are both for a bunch of flowers and then there are small ones for rose or for al small stemmed flower.

The pins run from about 65 cents apiece up to $8 or $9.

Anxiety and Doubt

By CARA REESE.

Over-anxiety implies doubt, and doubt, they say, prevents or retards beneficial fulfillment; or brings about the unlikely or untoward happening which you had hoped to escape.

It scarcely pays therefore to be over-anxious about anything. By over-anxiety is meant a worriment amounting almost to frenzy, an agitation of spirit which prevents sleep and digestion, a state of mind incapable of clear reasoning or effective planning. Anxiety is bad enough, but when it comes to heaping extra measure on top of that, then conditions are alarming.

The worst thing about anxiety is that it implies a doubt. Anxiety is communicable and when the spread begins the contagion of doubt keeps apace. An aggregated doubt is a terrible menace and nothing may withstand when a general doubt creeps in. An uncontrollable anxiety on the part of a single individual has a potency in establishing the defeat or ruin in stupendous enterprise. Where a commonweal is concerned anxiety, like slow poison, spreads from one individual to another, while side by side creeps the doubt which in the end leads to disaster. The dodder weaving is deadly tendrils in and among the blooming plants is an apt illustration of the droop and weakening of that which was erstwhile sturdy and capable. Doubt is deadly.

Of necessity the heart is troubled many times in this big world and its disjointed affairs. The mind is disturbed. There is a sudden flurry and whirlwind and that which seemed sure is now shaken and dethroned. There is confusion of spirit and an agitation which may not be instantly controlled. The most pitiful phase is when the heart and its interests are involved. First the child touch of an undefined anxiety or fear, then the over-anxiety, and finally the dread doubt urging and beckoning and determined on bringing to nothing the fond hopes of mutual trust and confidence.

They say, some of these good folks who are ever tranquil in the midst of alarms that the disturbed one must learn to "float." There is no other way of regaining a peaceful, doubt-ridden mind, or a heart at ease, or to ride the agitated waves in safety. "Float" mentally when the storm comes up and there is a straining and lashing of nerves and brain cells. "Float" when the heart is troubled and uneasy to the point of affliction and painful smothering. "Float" when your intelligence is incapable of reasoning. "Float" when you cannot keep yourself.

If you "float" long enough some craft or life-buoy will come your way and pick you up. The serious point is this, rather tha nover-anxiety and its accomplice, a leaden, harassing doubt, do anything to make a balloon of your mind temporarily and "float" airily above the cares or become your own "preserver" and "float" tranquilly on the surface of trouble. "Float" until doubt is dispelled.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Those who wish to try any new form of hair dressing should first of all study their type of face, and should remember certain rules. For, after all, it is not sufficient that a mode of coiffure be smart; the main issue should be its suitability to the particular type of countenance it is to frame.

A thin, oval face should have the hair dressed low and puffed out at the sides, so that a certain amount of breadth is suggested. With a round, chubby face the coiffure should be arranged as high as possible and moderately puffed out at the sides; while an oblong face never looks well with the hair dressed either high or low, but with a medium choice.

Remember that dark hair acquires a great charm if the hair is dressed smoothly and posseses a satin-like gloss, gained by an occasional application of a little brilliantine or a few drops of violet oil on the brush and by burnishing the hair with a silk handkerchief. Light hair, on the other hand, should never be arranged very tightly, as its pretty tints should not be hidden in a close mass.

Finally, bear in mind that no coiffure should be adopted in its most extreme mode, unless the wearer is very young, very pretty, and very piquant.

Hollows in the Neck.

"Although the rest of my body is fairly well developed, I have large hollows in my neck. I should be glad if you could help me," says "Inquirer."

The hollows will soon fill out if you constantly massage your neck with olive oil. After washing your neck in warm water, warm a little olive oil, and then well massage it into the hollows, using a rotary movement. You will soon notice a decided improvement in your neck.

Small Legs.

"I am 16, and have very small legs. What can I do to improve them?" asks "Worried."

I don't think it will be possible to make your legs fatter without doing the same thing to the whole body; but if you are thin I would advise you to drink plenty of hot milk, taking it in small sips. It is splendid for building up the system. Eat plenty of bread and butter, milk puddings, potatoes and all fattening foods.

The Kitchen

A Cheap Blanc Mange.

Dissolve half an ounce of gelatine powder in three pints of milk, let this stand on the stove till the gelatine is quite dissolved, add one ounce of white sugar and any flavoring liked. When cooled add a quarter of a pint of cream and stir till the mixture is cold, then strain. Beat with an egg whisk till nearly set, then place in a wet mold and let it stand till firm.

Potatoes a La Maitre D'Hotel.

Boil some good potatoes in their skins; peel them when cooked, and cut them into small squares, about half an inch thick. Put them into a stewpan together with some sliced onions, chopped parsley, pepper, salt and butter. Add some stock and toss them about until the onions and parsley are thoroughly done.

Genuine Italian Spaghetti.

One pound spaghetti, one can of tomato paste, one-eighth of a pound of cheese, three large onions, one garlic clove, one tablespoon of olive oil, one cup of soup stock (optional.)

Boil spaghetti 25 minutes. Chop the onions and add garlic rather fine, add a little water and boil tender. Add contents of a 5-cent can of tomato paste and the cup of soup stock. Let all boil and add the olive oil, and salt to taste. Grate the cheese, drain the spaghetti and pour it over the sauce. Roman cheese can be bought of an Italian grocer.

The Doctor

In Case of Poisoning.

If symptoms of illness come on suddenly in one or more persons soon after food or drink has been taken, it is natural to suspect poison, and if the same symptoms occur in people who have shared the same dish, the suspicion approaches certainty. In all cases except those of corrosive poisons one emetic should be given without delay, and wherever poison is suspected, medical aid should be summoned at once.

The principal corrosives are carbolic acid, sulphuric, nitric, hydrochloric acid and the strong alkalis, caustic soda, potash and ammonia. Where either of these has been swallowed, on no account give an emetic, but find out whether an acid or alkali has been taken. If an acid, give carbonate of soda dissolved in water; if an alkali, dilute vinegar or lime juice. Follow these antidotes in either case with milk or the white of an egg beaten in water.

Where carbolic acid has been taken, sweet oil should be administered. The poisons most often taken in food are irritants, such as mercury, arsenic, antimony and phosphorus, e. g., rat poison.

The symptoms are much the same as in corrosive poisoning—violent abdominal pain, vomiting, diarrhoea and collapse, but there is no discoloration or corrosion of the mouth and throat. The handiest emetic is generally obtained by mixing a tablespoonful of mustard or salt in a tumbler of warm water, and this may be repeated every five minutes till it has the desired effect.

Whenever there is reason to think the poison has been taken in a special food or drink, the remains of the dish should be carefully preserved for analysis by the doctor.

The Best Dish on Your Table

Van Camp's Spaghetti, whenever you serve it, will be the best dish on your table.

No matter how competent your cook may be she can't make a dish like this.

It's the same with us. Our chefs have been cooking for millions of tables for nearly fifty years.

They have pleased so many that people are spending ten million dollars per year to get their foods.

But they never made anything nearly so popular as this new dish—this wonderful dish of spaghetti.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, but the main ones are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

The recipe is secret. We can't reveal it to you. But we supply it to you ready cooked for less than you could make it.

All you have to do is to heat it.

You may have eaten spaghetti in Rome. You may have your own pet recipe. But you will agree with all the rest that this is the best of all.

Your grocer has it or can easily get it for you. Ask him to send a few cans.

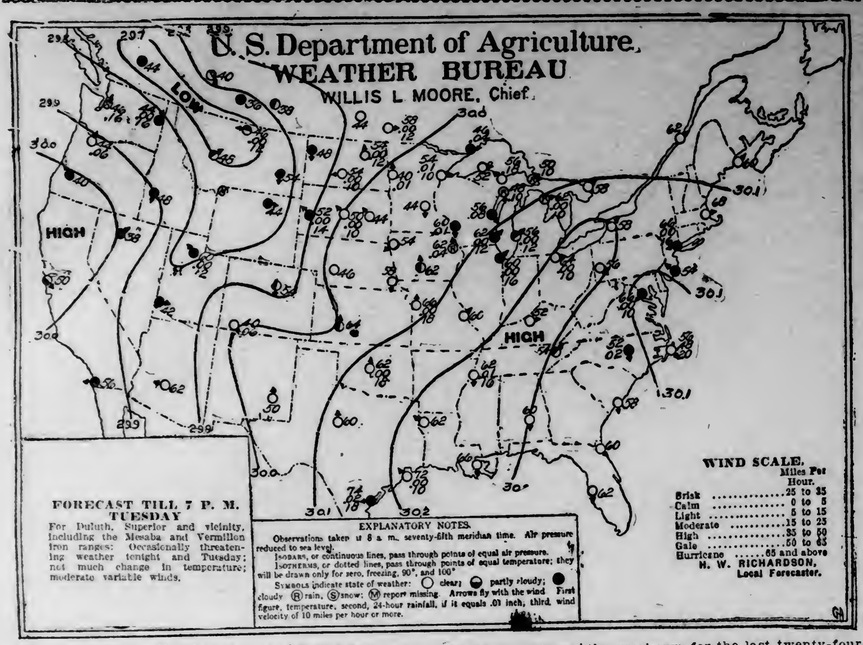
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



CLOUDY

Perhaps one should take the weather man's shower predictions seriously after all. Some spring raiment was temporarily damaged yesterday when J. Pluvius got busy, although he wasn't busy very long. On the whole this weather is springlike enough to suit anybody. The temperature mounted to 73 deg. yesterday and dropped to 45 deg. last night. Today is fair, but the weather man says the weather will be threatening tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather on the whole, with an interpolated shower, was the offering a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:40 and it will set at 7:27 this evening, giving fourteen hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light showers fell over North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Western Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and North Carolina, principally in connection with the barometric depression overlying the extreme Northwest. This low pressure condition has also caused warmer weather over most of the United States, except that temperatures are cooler over the western part of Minnesota and the eastern portion of South Dakota as a result of higher pressure there. In St. Louis and Douglas counties the weather during the ensuing thirty-six hours will be somewhat unsettled."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 8.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Wisconsin—Cloudy and unsettled tonight and Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

Minnesota—Probably cloudy and unsettled tonight and Tuesday; warmer in south and western portions tonight.

North Dakota—Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday.

Iowa—Unsettled but generally fair weather tonight and Tuesday.

Upper Lakes—Variable winds; generally fair tonight and Tuesday preceded by showers on Michigan and Huron.

DELEGATES ARE PLEASED

Duluthians Say Trip to Helena Was a Great Success.

Advertising for Duluth Water Carnival Scattered Over Northwest.

Enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Northwestern Development league, over the success of the trip to Helena, over the hospitality of the people of Helena and the small intervening towns and over the good results that are certain to come to Duluth through the greater acquaintance with the people and towns of the great Northwest, Duluth's delegates to the development congress of the northern tier of states returned to the city yesterday.

It was a successful trip to a successful meeting, is the opinion of the Duluth delegates. They believe that the Northwestern Development league will be a great factor in the development of the northern states and that concerted action on the part of the states in exploiting the resources of the Northwest and presenting inducements to settlers will have results. They are satisfied that a great work is under way and that Duluth has a prominent part to play in it. J. H. Dight of Duluth was elected vice president of the league for Minnesota.

The missionary work done on the outbound trip was especially gratifying to the Duluth men. At every town, stops of from a half hour to three hours were made and the train did not travel at night at all. The businses men of the small towns were on hand wit hautomobiles and they showed the travelers on the Minnesota special the greatest hospitality. Duluth business men who made the trip had an opportunity to see their field and meet the merchants and more cordial relations between the people of the small towns and the business men of the three Minnesota cities were formed.

The Duluth delegation took a quantity of advertising matter for Duluth's water carnival. Every station on the Great Northern from here to Helena is placarded with announcements that Duluth is going to entertain visitors in royal style this summer and hundreds of people told the Duluth delegates that they are coming to the greatest of lake ports during carnival week.

The Duluthians have nothing but praise for the Great Northern railway. The Minnesota special was one of the finest trains ever sent through the West and the appointments were as nearly perfect as they could be made. The railroad representatives on the trip saw that every need of the travelers was cared for, and many friends were made for the railroad company.

"It was one of the greatest get-together meetings ever held in the interest of the great Northwest," said F. X. Gravel, who represented F. A. Patrick & Co. "The Duluth delegation fared well on all committee appointments at the development congress and all courtesies possible were extended to our delegation. The Great Northern Railway company was represented by its president, L. W. Hill, and its traffic manager, Mr. Kinney and they certainly did themselves proud in the perfect manner the excursion was handled from start to finish. Take it from me, it was the best ever all the time."

"Great team-work was shown by the Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis delegations in working for Minnesota," said E. L. Miller this morning. "The three delegations worked together and that made the whole Minnesota delegation one of the strongest at the congress. I believe the Northwestern Development league has much good work to do and Minnesota must do its share. The formation of the league is a good thing and more Duluth people should take interest in it and its work."

Duluth Typographical Union No. 136 will be represented at the annual convention of the International Typographical union at San Francisco by Peter Simons, one of the oldest and most popular printers in the city.

AUTO THIEVES ARE BUSY AGAIN

The automobile of George Gaylord, 5409 Oneida street, was taken from the garage at his home at an early hour yesterday morning by a party of unknown men. It was recovered several hours later on London road, a comparatively short distance away.

The thieves didn't know that there was a reserve tank of gasoline on the car, or it might still be missing. The main tank was nearly empty and when the supply in it had been exhausted they were unable to proceed. This is the second offense of this nature in about a week and steps will be taken to put a stop to it. The crime is a serious one and in case of conviction the perpetrators could be sent to the state penitentiary.

The only person who saw the men was a pedestrian who said a party of four or five men stopped him near where the machine was found to ask him where they could get a supply of gasoline. They told him that the car was from a downtown garage.

JONES FURNACE FOR VERMILION

A Jones step-process furnace will be built at the Roy property on the Vermilion range if experiments on ore that will be shipped from the Roy mine to the Jones smelter at Kloman, Mich., are successful. The Roy has a large tonnage of banded iron ore and taconite which, it is expected, can be profitably handled by the Jones furnace.

The Roy will strip its north vein, which is twenty-eight feet in width, to provide tonnage for the experiments.

CHOKES HIMSELF WITH BOOKSTRAP.

Champaign, Ill., May 8.—Prof. Fred Le Mar Charles, assistant professor of agriculture and education in the University of Illinois, committed suicide by choking himself with a book strap around his neck and pulled back until he gasped out his life. Prof. Charles left a note stating that he had been a failure in life. He asked his wife to forgive his deed.

Insomnia, from which he had suffered for six weeks, and nervous prostration are assigned as the causes of the suicide. Prof. Charles was thirty-eight years old. He was a graduate of Northwestern university. He formerly was a member of the normal school faculty in De Kalb. A widow and two small children survive him.

BOYS ADMIT DYNAMITING.

Robbins, Wis., Youths Have Cleared Up Explosion Mystery.

Rhinelander, Wis., May 8.—John Hallowenski, aged 17 and Walter Hallowenski, aged 17, and Walter the local jail charged with causing the dynamite explosion at Robbins, Wis., April 29, by exploding ten pounds of dynamite under the building of F. R. Tripp. They are said to have confessed to Assistant State Fire Marshal Finnegan of Green Bay.

The explosion has always been a mystery.

Finnegan stated that the boys confessed to breaking into the Robbins Lumber company's depot near the Tripp store and stealing the explosive, together with 11 bales of barb wire, 3 rolls of tar paper and 7 rolls of building paper. The stuff was hauled to the home of Walter Grossman, where the dynamite was hid under the hog pen.

There was a dance at Robbins that night and Grossman is said to have induced Hallowenski to accompany him to the Tripp store, Grossman carrying the dynamite in a sack.

He asked Hallowenski for a cigar and lighted the fuse with it, after which they returned to the dance.

Both of the boys live at Robbins.

Mrs. Belmont states that this is a beginning in a social revolution which will make woman man's peer in all lines of endeavor. BERGER HITS ROOSEVELT.

Socialist Congressman Declares Colonel Voices Class Prejudice.

New York, May 8.—Socialist Congressman Berger in an interview vigorously denounced the views of ex-President Roosevelt in the latter's article in the Outlook "Murder is Murder," in relation to the Los Angeles alleged dynamiting. Berger said:

"Roosevelt seeks to reverse the just principle 'that every man is innocent until proven guilty,' when he applies it to labor leaders. He adroitly insinuates that Socialists have rushed to the aid of the accused men. That is untrue. Everything he says is in the voice of class prejudice."

COLORADO FAILS TO ELECT A SENATOR.

U. C. T. MINSTRELS ARE A BIG HIT

Lyceum Crowded for One of Best Amateur Shows Ever Given in City.

The U. C. T. pulled off one of the best minstrel shows ever given by amateurs in Duluth, Saturday evening in the Lyceum theater. The show was given smoothly and the performers put the stuff over the footlights. A large audience saw the performance. The money obtained will be used in paying the expenses of the band which will be taken by the salesmen to the convention which will be held in Fargo in June, and, thanks to the efficient management, enough was raised to take not only the band but a ball team to represent the Duluth council.

Burt Holcomb was the interlocutor and the end men were Guy Warren, John Quinn, Ed Wanless and Stanley Lamb. The minstrels came on the stage singing:

"We're on our way to Fargo,
We're leaving town tonight,
When Zenith Council does things
Why, you bet they do them right.
Arm in arm and hand in hand,
To the music of the band,
Shouting the chorus, 'On to Fargo.'"

A. R. Bjorkquist sang a ballad, "Killarney," and the minstrels sang "The Big, Big Bass," written by A. F. M. Custance, director of the show. The first end song was "Song of the Travelers," which was put over by Guy Warren. W. P. Melberg sang, "My Heart Has Learned to Love You," and the Scottish rite quartet gave "Sweet Sanaoo." The quartet comprises Don E. Cole, A. R. Bjorkquist, C. O. Applehagen and Don G. Gearhart.

Stanley Lamb, end man, got away with "Cheer Up Brothers," in great shape. C. O. Applehagen sang "Dusky Salome." John Quinn's end song was "Yiddle on Your Fiddle." The minstrels sang as a closing chorus, "Playin' on de ol' Banjo."

In the olio R. L. Vilas did some sleight of hand work. Louis La Valle, who sings at the St. Louis cafe, sang "Toreador's Love Song." It was one of the best features of the entire program. Donald Alexander, boy soprano, and the Scottish rite quartet sang "Cherry Ripe."

E. N. Haagensen and others gave a grand political rally in which Haagensten made a political speech in Swedish dialect, and John Smith gave a bagpipe number which brought all the Scots to the edge of their seats.

The entertainment committee comprised J. D. Sattler, chairman; E. N. Haagensen, Bentley P. Neff and C. W. Sutton. Mr. Sattler managed the show.

FARGO WILL HAVE THREE BIG MEETS

Fargo, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Within the next nine days Fargo has three big state conventions. The North Dakota Medical society will commence its annual meeting here tomorrow morning. It will continue in session two days and the program is regarded as an especially strong one.

A banquet, auto rides and theater parties are among the side issues to the annual meeting.

A week from tomorrow two other state conventions will be in session here. One is the North Dakota Dental association, and the other is the North Dakota Sunday School association. Both will be largely attended. The latter is expected to be the largest ever held in the state.

On Tuesday, May 16, 400 young Christian workers will start out to take a religious census of Fargo. The enumeration is to be taken within two hours in that afternoon. All the religious organizations of the city have offered plenty of workers and the city has been divided into six districts.

State Nurses Organize.

Preliminary work has been done for a state organization of the nurses of North Dakota. The meeting was held in Fargo at which a local association was formed and the state-wide society will soon be established.

There is lively competition among the members of Company B, the local militia organization, for honors as sharpshooters. The first formal work was commenced this week and will be kept up till it is seen how many men can qualify for the state shoot which will decide who will represent the state at Camp Perry, Ohio, this year. The local organization is handicapped by having no indoor range for practice during the winter. Heretofore Company K of Dickinson has carried off the honors. It won third place in the national indoor rifle shoot this winter.

STURGEON BAY WILL HAVE CARNEGIE LIBRARY.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., May 8.—Special to The Herald.)—Andrew Carnegie will give $12,500 to Sturgeon Bay for the purpose of founding a Carnegie library. The city will comply with the conditions demanded by Mr. Carnegie.

POLITICS AND PUBLIC SERVICE.

Says the New York Evening Post: "A striking feature of President Taft's speech in this city the other day was the unqualified praise he gave to the Democrats in the house for not having 'played politics' in dealing with the reciprocity question. It is not often that a president of one party makes so frank an acknowledgement of the merit of the other in a highly important matter."

It was, indeed, a very graceful thing in the Republican president to give unstinted praise to the Democratic house for its broadminded and public-spirited action upon one of his policies. Also it was, as the Evening Post says, a very uncommon thing.

But we shall venture the prediction that such things will not be so uncommon in the future as they have been in the past; for the Republican president's praise of the Democratic house is a striking illustration of a vast change that has subtly come about in the public affairs of this nation.

When public affairs were manipulated wholly for party advantage—sometimes they were manipulated wholly for private advantage and the profit of special privilege—it would have been counted high treason to that highest power, the party, for a president belonging to one party to yield even the most grudging applause to the acts of officials belonging to the opposition party.

But we are coming now upon a time when party advantage counts less than public advantage; when the aim of those who see clearly and think wisely is more toward achieving the common welfare than toward accomplishing a stroke for party advantage. Ten years ago, or even less, the fact that the admirable Canadian reciprocity pact came from a Republican president would have been a sufficient reason why Democratic newspapers should condemn it as wicked and absurd, and why Democratic congressmen should jockey it to defeat.

Under the new rule of public service first and party advantage second, the Democrats of the house, recognizing in the pact a thing that would work to the improvement of the common lot, turned in and worked for it manfully and unitedly. They didn't try cheap partisan bushwhacking by tacking on Democratic amendments to this Republican measure; they simply passed it as it stood, and thereby earned the admiration and gratitude not only of the president but of the public.

And yet, if all legislators could be made to see it, what finer and more profitable method of playing for party advantage can there be than this? It is so simple that it is amazing that they have not seen it before, and that so many of them are unable to see it now.

The people long ago grew weary of the eternal merry-go-round of party politics, which was a sort of game in which everybody lost and nobody ever won anything worth winning—the people least of all. The people's "representatives" grew so intent upon scoring in behalf of their party in this amazingly ridiculous game that they never thought of scoring in behalf of the people. They were not able to see—and many of them don't see it yet—that the only way to win in that game is to work single-mindedly for the people, so that the people might observe and applaud and give credit to them and to their party.

Public affairs are clearly much improved when a Democratic house, thinking only of the good it will do for the people, passes a measure proposed by a Republican president, and when a Republican president, thinking only of the hit that has been scored for the public welfare, gives undiluted praise in return.

THE KEEFE BILL.

To the Editor of The Herald:
I have been much interested in the reports of the passage of the Keefe bill, which I understand makes applicable to Minnesota the Oregon plan of electing United States senators. I conceal my ignorance under an assumed name when I ask you to explain what the Keefe bill does, and wherein it differs from the Oregon plan, if at all.
Very truly,
IGNORAMUS.

As it is possible that there are others not fully acquainted with the provisions of this highly important law, and as it is essential that everybody should understand it because it gives everybody an equal chance in the naming of United States senators, The Herald is very glad to answer that question.

Under the Federal Constitution, two senators from each state are elected by the legislature thereof. An amendment is now pending in congress, which is likely to be submitted soon to the states for ratification, providing for popular election of senators, but in the meantime the legislatures must elect them. The Oregon plan and the Keefe law do not disturb this provision; they simply enable the people to tell the legislature whom they want elected to senatorships.

Under the Keefe law each party will nominate its candidates for United States senator at the primary election. Any qualified elector may become a candidate by filing with the secretary of state and depositing the fee of $100.

The names of the nominees of each party will go upon the general election ballot, and the man getting the most votes is the choice of the people for United States senator.

The legislature is still free to elect whomsoever it chooses; but the law gets around that by providing that each candidate for state senator or representative "may" sign—he need not if he does not wish to, but nearly all of them will—the following statement:

> I further state to the people of Minnesota and of my legislative district that, during my term of office I will always vote for the candidate for senator in congress from this state who has received the highest number of the people's votes for the position in the entire state at the general election next preceding the election of a senator in congress.

In order that the people may know what candidates for the legislature are pledged to obey their commands in the matter of electing a United States senator, the county auditors, in preparing the primary election and general election ballots, are required to indicate whether or not the several legislative candidates have signed the statement given above.

Practically the only difference betewen this law and the Oregon law is that in Oregon candidates for the legislature are given the alternative of signing the above statement or another statement to the effect that they will consider the result of the popular election on the senatorship merely "advisory," which means that they will not be bound by it. The elimination of this statement was wise, because practice has shown that few candidates sign it, and that signing it has practically the same meaning as refusing to sign the statement provided in the Keefe law.

The first application of the Keefe law will be made next year, when candidates for Senator Nelson's place will have to submit to the primary election and go before the people at the general election. While the house members, who are elected next year, will be pledged, the senators will not be pledged because they hold over until the election of 1914. However, as all of them will be up for re-election two years later, most of them will unquestionably abide by the verdict of the people.

THE COST OF CLEARING LAND.

We wish the unlamented Klemer, if he is still on earth, could read that dispatch from Grand Rapids, Minn., which The Herald published Saturday night telling how three men cleared thirty acres of cut-over land in Itasca county and made it ready for the plow at a cost of $248, or a little more than $8 an acre.

Klemer, you may remember, is the man who told the Minnesota legislature that Northern Minnesota would never be fit to live in because it would cost $200 an acre to clear its cut-over land.

According to the story in The Herald Saturday, which is of vital interest to every dweller in Northern Minnesota, the land in question was "average cut-over land—probably a little more weathered than the average." Its owners put a crew of men upon it, in charge of a man experienced in the use of dynamite, and the crew blew out the stumps, grubbed out the brush, filled the holes left where the stumps were, and even removed the stones, at a cost of $8.27 per acre.

We shall not attempt to convince anybody that all cut-over land can be cleared so cheaply. But we do wish to offer that exhibit as an answer to the ridiculous statement of the man Klemer, and to add that even if it costs five times as much to clear Northern Minnesota lands, it still is a highly profitable investment and will work out vast profits to those who do it and to the state as a whole.

JUSTICE NOT ONLY BLIND, BUT CRIPPLED.

The Illinois legislature is trying to find out whether Lorimer's senate seat was bought, and with whose money. In that effort it summoned Edward Tilden, a Chicago banker who was suspected of being a party to the purchase, and Tilden refused to testify.

The legislature very properly issued a warrant for his arrest, but before the writ was served an obliging judge alacritously came to his rescue with a writ of habeas corpus.

The same judge, Saturday, handed down a decision to the effect that the Illinois legislature has no right to inspect Tilden's books to see whether or not he handled money used in buying Lorimer a seat in the United States senate.

Maybe this is all good law, but if so there is a law vastly higher which ought to make it possible for the legislature of the state of Illinois to find out all the facts in this case, unimpeded by reactionary judges. The issuance of a writ of release before a rich man's arrest, and the decision that a legislature seeking the truth cannot probe the books of a man charged with what is equivalent to high treason, will lend no encouragement to respect for the courts.

DIAZ TO QUIT.

The decision of President Diaz of Mexico to abdicate —the word is much better in his case than the word "resign"—even though it is modified by the qualification that he intends to wait for peace, is wise and patriotic. A decision to stick, on the other hand, would have been decidedly unwise and unpatriotic. Diaz has given Mexico great service, but he never has done anything greater for Mexico than to resign when his resignation is the only price of peace. It is to be hoped that his manifesto will satisfy the revolutionists—they are not rebels any longer; they have won—and that order and quiet will return to Mexico.

Diaz is 81, and that's young enough to quit being president. He abandons, because of revolution, the place that he gained by revolution thirty-five years ago. He has been president ever since, except from 1880 to 1884, when he had his man in the presidency because of a constitutional provision prohibiting the re-election of a president. That little difficulty Diaz promptly got out of the way, so he could serve without interruption.

Having a large mind and a broad grasp of affairs, Diaz has given Mexico much material progress and but little political progress. His presidency has been an autocracy, with little relation to democracy and overmuch kinship with tyranny. The revolution rooted in real evils and real popular grievances, and its success should mean a rapid growth of democracy in Mexico.

That was a very nice sample of rain the weather man sent yesterday. Won't he kindly send a lot more just like it?

All Northern Minnesota should be in Duluth June 1 and 2 for the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association.

Over in Italy it is the vogue to cast glass eyes at the court. In some cases in this country defendants and witnesses have been known to cast sheeps' eyes at the jury.

The Telegraph of Macon, Ga., boldly asserts that a certain member of the state's lawmaking body "is not only a lawyer and a legislator, but also a gentleman." Well, that's a good trio to draw to, anyway.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WHY SHOULD STATE BENEFIT BY ROBBERY?

To the Editor of The Herald:
One of the first fortunate ones (or unfortunate), to receive the benefit of the abolition of the death penalty in this state, is the recently convicted murderer of Harry McCabe, the deputy sheriff who was killed while in the discharge of his duty.
In place of being "jerked hence" by the rope route, he will work for the state the remaining years of his life, and as a consequence the state will, in a way, be an accessory after the fact, in that it will be a beneficiary by the deed.
While our wise Solons were thinking of this law, why didn't they do something for the widows of the officers who are killed while in the discharge of their duties?
It seems to me that a state can do what a federation of states can, in the way of pensioning men employed in dangerous duties.
The surplus earnings of every convicted murderer or a sum equal to it should go to the surviving relations of his victim.
Why should the state benefit by a man being robbed? If a man succeeds in stealing another man's money or goods, the state should give him employment until the amount is made good, if the man lives long enough.

THE LUMBERMEN AND THE SLUSH FUND.

To the Editor of The Herald:
The disclosures as to the election of Mr. Lorimer to the United States senate lay bare the fact that a lumber trust exists, and that this trust is a real and dangerous giant.
In 1909 this trust agitated for free lumber in Minnesota and for duty in the state of Washington. This was the only state that had serious objection to the reduction of the $2 duty.
During the past winter an innocent little bill was up in the legislature and a discussion of it, in the house, showed that, if said bill should pass, the Minnesota lumberman could not compete with the dealer of lumber in other states, as all of them gave short measure. Put these facts together and see how easy it is for the lumber trust to raise a slush fund of $100,000 to elect Mr. Lorimer.
Being a buyer of lumber, I have found that the short measure is true; for instance, a board 1 by 12 inches is many times only eleven inches wide; a 2 by 4 is only 1¾ by 3½, and a board supposed to be 1¼ inches thick is only one inch, and so on all through the list is the consumer beaten.
There are inspectors of pure food laws and full measure, but why have they overlooked full measure in lumber? It has been openly stated that the lumbermen are cheating both as to grade and measure.
I certainly approved of your editorial of May 1, entitled "Uncle Sam Ought to Blush." I also agree with the views of Savoyard in his able arguments against the iniquity of high protection for the trusts and no protection for the consumer.

THE WOOD DEALER'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:
The communication in The Evening Herald last evening was evidently inspired by those who are opposed to the piling of wood on the vacant lots in the West end.
Now to make a brief statement in regard to the facts in this matter, as I am interested in the wood yard that exists at Twenty-fourth avenue West and other places in the West end.
When I took the contract of handling the wood from the mill about two months ago, the company operating the mill at that time had piled all the vacant places that they could spare for wood piling and intended to let the wood run into the burner. I have had a force of men and teams handling the wood for the last two months at a pay roll of about $60.00 a day for men and teams including the night and day shifts. The cut made during the day I plan to deliver about the West end here to private people, at a price of $1.50 to $1.76 per cord. I am unable to distribute this wood on the night shift and must have some piling place for that time.
When the people of the West end realize that they are getting their wood four or five times cheaper than the people in other parts of the city or in Superior, I should think they ought to hesitate before embarrassing an enterprise of this kind.
I am sorry to disturb the sleep of those people who live near the wood yard where the teamsters are unloading the wood during the night, but I can not help their making a little noise at that time. The people of this part of the city have largely piled their back yards with mill wood and it seems hardly right for them to object to those who own or lease vacant lots for piling wood on the same for the few months in the year. My wood yard I do not think on an average is as unsightly as most of the other vacant lots in the neighborhood, as well as many of the back yards of those that live in the West end.
A large number of people have signed my petition against passing the pending ordinance, and I sincerely hope that those who are objecting to this use of vacant lots will withhold their objections for the short time that the mill is to run. Yours very truly.

The Promise.

Be of good cheer, brave Spirit; steadfastly
Serve that low whisper • thou hast served; for know,
God has a select family of sons
Now scattered wide through earth, and each alone
Who are thy spiritual kindred, and each one,
By constant service to that inward law,
Is weaving the sublime proportions
Of a true monarch"s soul. Beauty and strength,
The riches of a spotless memory,
The eloquence of truth, the wisdom got
By searching of a clear and loving eye
That seeth as God seeth. These are their gifts;
And Time, who keeps God's world, brings on the day
To seal the marriage of these minds with thine,
Thine everlasting lovers. Ye shall be

Man's Best Animal Friend.

From Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird:" The Dog—This is ridiculous! There is man and that's all! We have to obey him and do as he tells us! That is the one and only fact! I recognize no one but him! Hurray for man! Man for ever! In life or death, all for man! Man is God!
Bread—I quite agree with the dog.
The Cat (to the Dog)—But at least give your reasons.
The Dog—There are no reasons! I love man and that's enough! If you do anything against him, I will throttle you first and I will go and tell him everything.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

No Graft, Anyway.

R. C. Dunn in Princeton Union: There never was a legislature freer from the charge of undue influence than the Thirty-seventh, and that fact was widely commented on by intelligent and impartial observers. True, it is charged that certain interests had expended considerable money in electing members of both branches, who would oppose the enactment of any radical temperance legislation. As to the truth or falsity of these charges I cannot say. But I do believe that not a dollar was expended by any individual or interest to promote or defeat legislation after the legislature had convened.

A Time for Thinking.

Litchfield Independent: Don't forget that at the next election the people of the state will vote on their choice for United States senator to succeed Knute Nelson. Do some thinking for yourself between now and then.

Not That You Could Notice.

Ada Herald: If Governor Eberhart is the Republican nominee for governor next year, he will not be able to point with pride to the things accomplished at the recent session of the legislature.

The Only Honest Kind.

Anoka Union: The seven-senator amendment should be knocked out too quick to talk about. Whatever basis of population is decided upon, an equitable division in the entire state of apportionment is the only honest one.

Let Whittier Stand Pat.

Austin Transcript: Supt. F. A. Whittier of the state training school for boys at Red Wing has been asked to resign, but he demands that the charges against him of inhuman treatment of the boys in the school be proved before he will comply with the request. We do not blame Mr. Whittier. From all that we can learn he has made a worthy official. There is a political plot in connection with his removal that will not look very commendable if exposed.

There's Room for Them All.

Mankato Free Press: It is estimated that something like 200,000 people will move from the United States to Canada this year. Can't Minnesota catch a few of them before they cross the line?

Some Badly Shattered Fences

Anoka Union: It behooves the Republicans of the state of Minnesota to repair their fences from now on, if they want success in 1912. They are in mighty bad shape.

Isn't It a Shame?

Stillwater Gazette: The man who uses the crowbar in a stone quarry doesn't work half as hard as some women are compelled to in order to pry loose a little money from their tight-wad husbands.

The Man From Gallilee.

"Who taught you," I said to a woman old,
That I met upon life's rugged way,
To be happy and smile when you have no gold,
No home to go to, at the close of day?

"Who taught you to smile, when all your world
Has turned its back on you,
When friends you loved dear as yourself
Have proved themselves untrue?

"Who taught you to stand and boldly face
The den of vice and the robbers' cane,
And why is there always a smile on your face,
When soon you must lie in the narrow grave?

"With wondering eyes she looked at me,
As I gently stroked her dear white head,
And I asked again, "please tell to me,"
"Why the man from Gallilee," she said.

Justice With the Bark On.

San Francisco Chronicle: The old-timer looked up from his rickey and asked:
"You think that story on Bill Sims is a good one, eh?"
"Good or bad, it's true."
"Well, so is this," said the old-timer, "and it happened down in Texas by the Rio Grande. I used to live down that way for awhile, and in the village which I graced with my presence a certain old horse doctor was selected justice of the peace. What he didn't know about the law was sufficient. He knew nothing; he should have made an ideal justice of the peace.
"His first case, however, was that of a man arrested for stealing a horse.
"'Guilty or not guilty?' asked the justice.
"'Not guilty,' answered the prisoner.
"Then what the deuce are you doing here?' demanded the justice of the peace. 'Get out!'"

The Wrong Advertisement.

To have themselves called publicly out of a crowded place of entertainment on the pretense that they are urgently wanted by importunate patients is said to be one of the stock methods of advertising resorted to by young doctors, who wish to build up a practice, the Argonaut relates. A physician tried this device. He instructed his boy to go to the doorkeeper of the theater and say that a patient of his was in urgent need of attention.
"Right you are, sir!" said the servant, with a solemn wink. "You leave it to me. I'll manage it all right."
But apparently the honest retainer exceeded instructions in his zeal, for, at the end of the second act, the manager appeared before the curtain and made this announcement:
"If Dr. Blank is in the audience I am requested to tell him that he is wanted at once, as the poor fellow he gave some medicine to this afternoon has been having fits ever since."

Her Recipe for Good Coffee.

A family living near East Orange has a model servant who has proved herself the best cook they ever had, but she has insisted upon making up all her dishes strictly according to her own recipes, says Success.
"Margaret," her mistress said one day, "the coffee you are giving us is very good. What kind is it?"
"It is no kind at all, mum," was the reply. "It's a mixture."
"Well, won't you tell me how you mix it?"
"Sure, mum. I make it one-quarter Mocha, one-quarter Java and one-quarter Rio."
"Yes, but that is only three-quarters. What do you put in for the other quarter?"
"Why, I put in no other quarter at all, mum. That's where so many people spoil their coffee, mum, by puttin' in a fourth quarter, mum."

"Ich Dien."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The eldest son of the king of England is made the prince of Wales after his father is made a regular king. He gets a new coat-of-arms, too, and the motto on that coat-of-arms is "Ich Dien." That is pretty fair German for "I Serve." And wouldn't that be a splendid motto if the person who bore it really meant it? What society wants today is men who are able and willing to be of service. What it needs is somebody who can live the motto of the prince of Wales and live it for democracy.
One of these days the strongest nation will not be the nation whose battleships have the thickest protective armor, nor the one with the mightiest armies. The strongest nation will not be the one which can count the largest number of colonies, nor the one with the most square miles. It will be the one that looks best after the happiness and health of its inhabitants. It will be the land that watches over its mothers and its children as its most precious possessions; the one that reckons chastity and temperance as the virtues to be cultivated by its citizens. And in that day, and in that country, there will rise a prince who will be a real prince because "Ich Dien" will be the motto he will engrave on his shield and print on his heart.

Not The Same Joke.

A young man was sitting in Grand Central depot the other day, the Birmingham Age-Herald recounts, holding a baby in his arms, when the child began to cry so lustily as to attract the attention of everyone around him. By and by a waiting passenger walked over to him with a smile of pity on his face and said:
"A woman gave you that baby to hold while she went to see about her baggage, didn't she?"
"Yes."
"Ha! ha! ha! I tumbled to the fact as soon as I saw you. You expect her back, I suppose?"
"Of course."
"Ha! ha! ha! This is rich. Looking for her every minute, aren't you?"
"Yes, and I think she'll come back."
"Well, this makes me laugh—ha! ha! ha! I had a woman play that same trick on me in a Chicago depot once, but no one ever will again. Young man, you've been played on for a hayseed. I would advise you to turn that baby over to a policeman and get out of here before some newspaper reporter gets hold of you."
"Oh, she'll come back, she'll come back."
"She will, eh? The joke grows richer and richer. Now, what makes you think she'll come back?"
"Because she's my wife and this is our baby."
"Oh—um—I see," the fat man muttered, who got over feeling tickled all at once, and seeing a dog that a farmer had tied to one of the seats with a piece of clothesline, he went over and gave it three swift kicks.

Roman Script Universal.

Shall the World's script be Roman, such letters as we use, or Arabic or Chinese? The Roman script has by far the best chance and the best claim, according to the New York Independent. Efforts are making to introduce it in China and Japan, and now the effort is making to interest India in reducing its fifty alphabets to a single one.
In the 200 languages of India there are only about sixty-three separate sounds, but it would take some 20,000 characters to represent them in print, as so many are syllabic. But before a Roman alphabet can be adopted it should be reformed.

WHAT THE DAYS HOLD FORTH.

Friday is known the world over as the day of ill luck. It matters not how many proofs are educed that Friday, instead of being unlucky, is distinctly benevolent; had a hundred Christopher Columbuses discovered a hundred Americas on Friday, that unfortunate day could not shake off its evil reputation. But there are also less general superstitions connected with the other days of the week, which have found expression in various jingles, of which four specimens are given in the scrap book:
Sunday's child ne'er lacks in place;
Monday's child is fair in the face;
Tuesday's child is full of grace;
Wednesday's child is sour and sad;
Thursday's child is loving and glad;
Friday's child is loving and giving;
And Saturday's child shall work for its living.

Sneeze on a Tuesday you kiss a stranger;
Sneeze on a Wednesday you sneeze for a letter;
Sneeze on a Thursday for something better;
Sneeze on a Friday you sneeze to your sorrow;
Sneeze on a Saturday your sweetheart tomorrow;
Sneeze on a Sunday your safety seek,
The devil will chase you the whole of the week.

Monday for wealth,
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday the best of all,
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses,
Saturday no luck at all.

Born of a Monday, fair in face;
Born of a Tuesday, full of God's grace;
Born of a Wednesday, merry and glad;
Born of a Thursday, sour and sad;
Born of a Friday, godly given;
Born of a Saturday, work for your living;
Born of a Sunday, never shall want;
So there's the week, and the end on't.

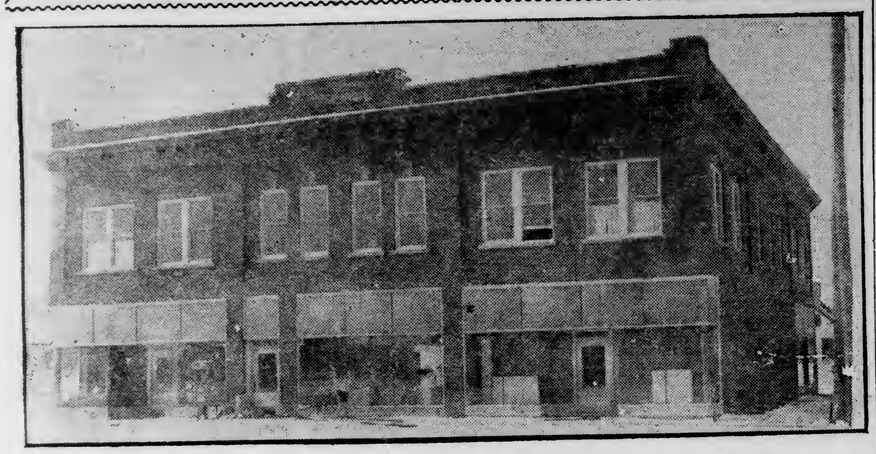
ON THE IRON RANGES

FIRE DESTROYS GRAND RAPIDS BUSINESS BLOCK



THE HUGHES BUILDING.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Hughes building, one of the leading business blocks of the village yesterday, causing a loss of $50,000 or $60,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire broke out about 1 a. m. Sunday and spread with remarkable rapidity.

A stock of goods went up in flame and smoke, in addition to the property of a number of lawyers' and other offices, besides on the second floor the furnishings of the Catholic church in the hall on that floor in which the congregation has been worshipping.

Railroad Cuts Hose.

The cutting of two lines of hose by a Great Northern engine, the loss of the streams which is declared by the firemen to be responsible for losing control of the fire, was one of the distressing features.

The fire was of such proportions that every available hydrant was brought into service and two were on the other side of the tracks at Kindred avenue. The firemen declare that they had the fire under control when the hose therefrom were cut.

Every office on the second floor fed something to the flames. Among those who lost everything in the way of office property were the H. S. Hughson collection agency; Frank S. Price, lawyer; Dr. Gendron, physician; Spear & Stone, lawyers; Gilbert & Finnegan, cedar dealers; Dr. Costello, dentist; B. P. Munson, logs and timber; C. C. McCarthy, lawyer; James D. Doran, lawyer.

The owners of the building announce that they will rebuilt at once.

HIBBING TO HAVE BIG SMOKESTACK

Huge Iron Structure Will Tower Nearly 100 Feet Above Power Plant.

Hibbing, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new smokestack for the village power plant was unloaded from the cars Saturday afternoon. It will be eighty-five feet high above the roof of the power house when erected. It weighs ten tons and is five and one-half feet in diameter. The work of taking down the old stack and putting up the new one is in the hands of Charles Rumple of Minneapolis, an experienced smokestack man. Supt. Charles Hinn, of the power plant is in charge of the city's part of the work. It is hoped that the change can be made without shutting down the electric plant, but in any case the shut down will only last about an hour and will be fixed for such a time as will least interfere with the local merchants who are using day current. The change probably takes place some time Monday.

A locomotive with a wire cable attached will be used to raise the new stack.

VIRGINIA RETAINS LAFAYETTE BLISS

School Board Decides to Continue That Official as Head of Schools.

Virginia, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite reports to the contrary and the adverse comments upon the feasibility of retaining Supt. Lafayette Bliss as head of the local schools, the board of education has decided to retain him, and makes the announcement in connection with the list of teachers retained for another year.

Several public meetings have discussed the question of retaining Mr. Bliss, but they resulted in a demand developing for his retention, and he and his friends feel he has in a sense been vindicated.

Technical High School Building—Lafayette Bliss, superintendent; Susan C. Hohmann, J. M. Partridge, Lillian Neadstein, Mildred I. Steinman, Adeline McMartin, Loren MacFarlane, Raymond N. Brown, Drusilla Hutchinson, Emil Johnson, Sophie A. Boe, Helen M. McDonald, Marion O. West, Edna I. Cole, Katherine P. Sheehan, Ila M. Floed, Nellie C. Mahoney, Annie M. Devany, M. Evelyn O'Neil, Mary L. Rooney, office assistant; William Fitzgerald, truant officer; Helen E. Coffman, treasurer; J. H. Fleming, clerk; Ole Kjosesmo, head janitor; Martin Myre, janitor.

TWENTY-TWO ORE CREWS WORKING

About Dozen Less Than Missabe Had Handling Ore During Last May.

Hibbing, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One steam shovel is loading ore at the Hull pit, and one at the Burt today—both on day shift only for the present. The shovel loader at the Shenango stock pile was ordered out on Saturday night, and will await further orders from the operating department before continuing work.

Shipping probably will commence from the new Webb shaft soon, as the new tracks connecting the new mine up with the main line are being pushed ahead with all speed and will soon be completed. The Webb is situated near the Morris, and between Mitchell and Hibbing, to the east of the latter place.

At the present time twenty-two ore crews are working on the Missabe road out of this district as against thirty-three at the same time last year. No very definite information is being given with regards to the immediate future prospects but the way things look there will not be a rush of work for several weeks, since many of the regular men are working extra and leave of absence until October was recently granted to a large number of trainmen in this division.

Most of the underground mines shipping ore over the Missabe road are sending out a fair complement of loaded cars daily, although they are not shipping up to their usual tonnage. The following properties are all shipping from their shafts, Buffalo, Winifred, Glen, Clark, Chisholm, Myers and Shenango.

New Range Village Building to Be Opened on June 16.

Gilbert, May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class of the high school presented "The Merchant of Venice Up-to-Date," Friday afternoon and night to crowded houses. The McKinley, Sparta and Gilbert school children were afforded the opportunity of seeing the play in the afternoon and over 400 took advantage of the special students' admission price. In the evening the two livery companies ran rigs from McKinley and Sparta for the accommodation of the patrons of the high school living in these sections of the district. The play was a pronounced success, and the audience showed its appreciation by prolonged applause many times during the performance. The high school is but two years old and the students are showing great improvement, and the effects of the high school training provided for the district at Gilbert after maintaining two separate semi-high schools at Sparta and Gilbert prior to the building of the central high school at Gilbert a year ago last fall. The graduating class this year has a membership of eight students: Florence Trengrove, Louise Binney, Herbert Hosking, Nellie Shean, William Matt, Oscar Engstrom, Floyd Murray, Gladys Caine.

The new high school will be dedicated June 16, during commencement week. Father J. M. Cleary of Minneapolis will deliver the dedicatory address. The La Grosse orchestra of Duluth will render a combined concert and dance program. There will be many visitors here for the occasion. The state superintendent, C. G. Schultz, and state inspector of high schools, George B. Aiton, will be present among other prominent educators of the state. The new school has attracted the notice and enthusiastic approbation of school boards of this part of the state as well as of the many superintendents who have inspected the building. It has been pronounced the most economically built and most beautiful high school building of the recently built structures in the northern part of the state. The state high school inspector on his recent inspection of the Gilbert schools declared it to be the "most adaptable and beautiful high school building in the state for its size and cost."

UNIVERSITY MAKING RECORD

All over the world the name of the University of Minnesota is known, because of the discovery of the wonderful new chemical, Benetol, in its laboratories. One of the many marvelous uses of this chemical is to instantly stop the pains in burns and scalds, and in most cases to prevent blistering. Kept handy in the kitchen it would save many a long drawnout case of suffering from accidents, because there is no known product that will half as quickly cure burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, or poison infection. Benetol has been often tested against old-style remedies on two wounds on the same person, and heals in less than half the time taken by them.

MOVING TRACKS OFF THE BRAINERD MINE

Missabe Road Ordered to Get Out of Way So Stripping Can Start.

Hibbing, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to start stripping, the concern owning the Brainerd mine has ordered the Missabe railroad to remove its tracks from the property, and the railroad company has begun shifting its tracks and building a new spur line through Brooklyn to the old depot. The connecting link will probably be finished this week.

The spur starts past the southern end of the new Brooklyn trestle and swings west towards the present D., M. & N. depot, finally taking a more northerly direction and swinging back again to the west as it joins the present main line and depot entrance. The new link line will pass close to the Episcopal church, and will, it is believed, cut off a portion of the church grounds, but it is not thought that the railroad will attempt to purchase the church, as the line will only be in commission for a few weeks at most; but it is understood that the railroad engineers are arranging extensive precautions against any permanent damage being done to the fine little stone building by the proximity of the cut and tracks.

Supt. Angst is in charge of the operation of the Buffalo property, and the rapid progress of the stripping operations makes the immediate movement of the tracks imperative. Mr. Angst is a member of the water and light commission of Hibbing having recently been reappointed for another three years, and he is considered one of the most progressive and well posted mining men in the district.

The mine also operates an uptown office under the charge of a secretary and assistants.

MAY CHANGE DATE OF NATIONAL ELECTIONS.

Washington, May 8.—A change of the date of the inauguration of the president is assured of ratification by the Sixty-second congress and it is not improbable that similar action will be taken to change the date of holding the national election. This assurance has been given by a two-third majority of both houses of congress to Representative Henry of Texas, chairman of the house committee on rules, who introduced recently a joint resolution providing for the submission of this proposal to the legislatures of the states.

The proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States changes the date of the inauguration from March 4, usually an inclement day in Washington, to the last Thursday in April. The date of holding national elections will be changed from the first Tuesday in November to the first Tuesday in April preceding the expiration of the terms of the president and members of congress. Provision is made for extending the term of offices of these officers after the ratification from March 4 till the April date.

SAYS NEWSPAPER MEN ARE SHORT OF ETHICS.

New York, May 8.—Journalism must return to Christ and the Ten Commandments if the daily newspaper would remedy its defects. Newspaper men should get together and form a code of ethics similar to those adopted by physicians and lawyers, and bind themselves to adhere to them, upon honor as journalists. Publish the truth only, all the truth that is necessary, neither abridged nor exaggerated in its details, and all the truth that is secondarily useful or legitimately interesting, without the invasion of public or private rights. If this were done, the daily press would have gone far toward purging itself, in the opinion of Right Rev. James A. McCaul, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton, N. J., who addressed newspaper men and night workers in St. Patrick's cathedral here at 2:45 o'clock Sunday morning.

The occasion was the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the establishment in New York of early morning mass for newspaper men and night workers. The first mass was celebrated a decade ago and the custom has been taken up since in nine American cities and in Berlin.

TWO DIE IN IOWA BATTLE

Dead Officer's Body Used as Shield By Outlaws.

Jefferson Iowa, May 8.—Marshal Busby of Paton, Iowa, and a bank robber were killed and a highwayman seriously injured in a clash between a sheriff's posse and the bandits early Sunday morning at a school house two miles from the town of Paton.

Sunday morning at four o'clock the highwaymen succeeded in breaking into the postoffice in Paton, blowing open the safe and taking several hundred dollars in stamps and money. The noise of the explosion was heard by a stranger who happened to be in the street at the time. Marshal Busby was notified and he and a posse started in pursuit of the robbers, who fled south.

A search was made of the whole neighborhood. Marshal Busby and several men, after dividing the posse into several searching parties with instructions to scour the whole country, started back to Paton, believing that some hiding place had been overlooked. They came upon a school house near Paton. Using no precaution whatever, the marshal went to the door, and on opening it, a report of a gun was heard. The marshal fell dead.

One of the robbers dragged the body into the house. Then a fusillade of shots was begun between the robbers and the members of the posse. The lifeless body of Busby was propped up in the window as a bodyguard from behind which the robbers fired on the posse.

By this time Sheriff McBride Wilson and his posse arrived on the scene. He called on the men to surrender, but received a volley of shots in reply. The combined posse then poured a fusillade into the windows and doors of the school house. Finally one of the robbers staggered through the front door badly wounded, saying:

"Boys, I surrender, but my pal is going to fight till you get him."

Sheriff Wilson gave the lone bandit a chance to surrender, but he refused and the fight was renewed.

All the time the dead marshal's body was against the window and the robber was firing from behind it. The battle lasted thirty minutes.

Finally the posse saw the robber stagger and Busby's body fell from the window. A rush was made for the door. The robber was found dead with a bullet through his heart.

The wounded robber refuses to give his name. His leg is shattered and will have to be amputated. A hotel key was found in his pocket which came from the Royal hotel in Des Moines, and papers bearing the postmarks of Sing Sing and Chicago.

It is believed these men are the ones who blew the safe in the Bayard, Iowa, postoffice a few weeks ago. They are about 25 years old. The injured bandit was taken to Sioux City and lodged in the county jail.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ERSKINE IS UP IN ARMS

That Section of Polk County Is Looking for the Missing Bandit.

Visits Two Places on Outskirts of Village and Procures Food.

Crookston, Minn., May 8.—The efforts to capture the pal of George Williams, in the robbery of the Camp store and the postoffice at Dugdale last Wednesday night, have been heard of twice. Friday evening he stopped at the Barlow meat market, on the outskirts of Erskine, and purchased some headcheese and asked Mrs. Barlow to stop in a bakery and get him a loaf of bread as he did not want to go down town himself. He gave her 10 cents but as the bread was 6 cents a loaf she could get but one loaf and he took the other 4 cents worth more of the headcheese which indicates he has but little or no more cash and wanted to get all he coudld to eat to carry with him.

Saturday evening he was bolder and going to a house on the outskirts of Erskine, where the housewife was alone he brandished a long revolver and forced her to get him a supper, gratifying a hearty meal. A good description has been secured of him by Sheriff Daniels and Deputy Kelly. The latter has two souvenirs in the way of bullet holes through his coat received last Thursday in the battle near Winger in the dark when Williams was captured. The man wanted is of medium size, dark complexion and his dark eyes are a little crossed, one eye "cocked," so as to make them conspicuous. Sheriff Daniels was not notified of this till Sunday afternoon and left last night for Erskine and it is believed that the man will be landed within a short time.

Erskine Men Arming.

On Friday night after Mrs. Barlow had told of her experience, many of the men of Erskine armed themselves with revolvers, shot guns and anything that would shoot and scoured the town and the country surrounding, but the bandit was well hidden somewhere and kept out of sight. They dropped the searhch but renewed it again last night after he had forced the other woman to get him a meal. As he is armed, and by shootings at Deputy Kelly showed he doesn't mean to be taken, the whole country about Erskine is in a veritable panic for fear he will show up again and kill some one rather tha nbe taken into custody. Williams has made some disclosures in the county jail and it is known that the bandit at liberty is a much-wanted man elsewhere, but the sheriff will give out no information.

BEAUTIES OF NATURE

In Hubbard County to Be Shown to Dwellers in Cities.

Akeley, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—An automobile route from Akeley to the Twin Cities is being promoted which will result if successful in the best advertising scheme ever devised for the sale of public and private lands and will incidentally provide a route to the beautiful play grounds of this section. The plan was suggested by a trip from Minneapolis recently made by Fletcher L. Walker, manager of the Red River Lumber company, and H. F. Fray, resident manager of the same company, in an automobile. The trip included such towns as Anoka, St. Cloud, Royalton, Little Falls, Brainerd, Pequot and Pine River, and close observation by the tourists revealed the fact that land in Hubbard county, and especially in this immediate vicinity will favorably compare with anything on the trip. The plan includes the placing of guide boards at regular intervals, together with the distances from the cities.

SOLD STOLEN HORSES.

Northwestern Minnesota Officers Looking for Smooth One.

Newfolden, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Forsberg has been traveling around in this vicinity picking up the horses that was sold here by a very clever horse thief some months ago. About two years ago a man named Carter purchased a quarter section of land near Viking. Only a short time ago he brought to his farm a number of horses, buggies and harnesses claiming them to be brought from North Dakota. He began to sell them and in a short time had them all converted into cash when he left for parts unknown. The eyes of the purchasers were opened last week when a party from North Dakota came over and claimed them saying they were stolen in his state. The sheriff has been kept busy ever since collecting them but no trace has been found of Carter.

GET OUT OF THE WHISKEY CLASS

Those Who Find That They Cannot Stop Because of Nervous Conditions Should Come to the Neal Institute for Three Days.

NO HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS

DOES the liquor you drink seem to benefit you physically and mentally? For you, does liquor cause the blues to vanish and the world to look bright? Do you find that a few drinks "quiet" your nerves and dissipate the cobwebs from your brain? Does whiskey prove itself to be the one medicine for all your ills? When liquor does these things for you, it has becomo a physical, mental and nerve necessity. The very dullest of minds can grasp that.

Then your condition — mental and physical—MUST be ABNORMAL. It is adbnormal. Yours is a case of alcoholic poisoning — the LIQUOR HABIT. Your NERVES, MIND and BODY cannot return normal until you have taken the Neal treatment to elliminate this poison of alcohol from your system.

In THREE DAYS the Neal treatment does away with craving, desire and nerve-demand for liquor by driving the CAUSE of liquor drinking out of the system. The CAUSE is stored up alcoholic poison.

When you leave the Neal Institute at the end of the THIRD DAY of treatment, you are just as GOOD A MAN mentally and physically as you were before you commenced to drink, and you will have no craving or desire for liquor—no inclination to drink it. The only change in you from the day you commenced to drink will be that you are a LITTLE OLDER IN YEARS and A LITTLE MORE EXPERIENCED — and the experience may prove valuable.

Come to the Neal Institute for THREE DAYS. No hypodermic injections—no poisonous drugs—no disagreeable features — no substitutive stimulants—a treatment that a child could take. If you are not cured and satisfied with the cure, under legal contract, the fee paid will be returned when you leave the institute.

The Neal Home treatment for those who cannot come to the institute for three days.

If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured, write to the Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh St., Superior, Wis., for their free booklet, giving full information and a copy of their contract and guarantee bond. GOOD OUTLOOK FOR GOLD MINING AT RAINY RIVER

Expected That Foley's Power Plant Will Be Started Soon.

Mine Center, Ont., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Spring has opened fully in this region and the outlook for gold mining is better than at any time for ten years. Work under way is most encouraging and there is rich promise that it will increase greatly during the season.

At the Foley gold mine, special efforts are being put forth to get up an ample supply of cord wood for fuel. Last season, owing to lack of fuel, machinery could not be started or underground work undertaken. This season, that obstacle will be overcome and the steam whistle at the big power plant will awake the sleeping echoes before many weeks.

Capt. Hosking will put in a considerable garden this spring and, after that, he will repair and enlarge the big cookhouse. Last fall lumber for this purpose was purchased, but it was not hauled in before the freeze-up Some repair work also will be done on the power house.

After the work mentioned has been completed, the power plant at the North shaft will be put in perfect order for turning on the steam. Negotiations are under way for a new boiler for the South shaft and, possibly, a new hoist. That will give one hoist for the South shaft and another for the Lucky Joe shaft.

Good practice requires as much saving as possible in fuel and power. Careful investigations are being made to determine which will be cheaper in mining, air drills or electrical drills. The Foley mine has a big air compressor, but it takes fuel and steam to run it. Claims are made that an improved electrical drill made in Fort Wayne, Ind., can be installed and used to a great advantage, both in cost of operation and quantity of work done in a given period.

Estimates on cost of a telephone line from the Foley to Mine Center station also are being secured.

The Ontario government appropriated $500 for the continuation of the wagon road from the Sandhill to the Foley mine, and work will begin on that soon. This road was used all winter by loggers and proves to be a great public convenience to all interests. Appropriations have been made for improvement of the Mine Center road and, also, a new wagon road from Mine Center station to the Olive mine.

At the Olive.

Shaft sinking is going on steadily at the Olive gold mine, about 1,200 feet east of the original working shaft. Results are highly satisfactory. There is a report that it will be pushed right down to the 200-foot level as quickly as possible. It also is understood that high-grade ore has been encountered in the new workings.

W. A. Preston, who now owns the entire property with Mr. Blackwood of Winnipeg, recently inspected the work. He intimated that some very interesting and important statements concerning the Olive might be given publicity before long, but that he was not quite ready to say anything.

It is stated that G. 109 and G. 110, claims aggregating 160 acres near Farrington station and belonging to the Foley Gold Mines Company, Limited, soon will be examined by engineers in the interests of that company.

Years ago, John C. Hunter, a Duluth pioneer, took up a heavy acreage of land along the Seine river, all the way from Grassy bay to the Foley mine, but many years before gold was discovered in this region. The land was taken for iron, on the representations of Alex Baker, a pioneer character.

About a dozen years ago, C. W. Ericson of Duluth, promoted a company to explore for iron on lands near some of the Hunter lands, on Grassy bay. New York men were in the deal, but exploratory work was in the hands of a man whose representations were not always in accord with the facts. As a result, much money was squandered and desired results not definitely attained.

Last summer, R. M. Hunter of Duluth, spent a month on the Hunter holdings. Lines were run out, corners again found and a careful surface inspection made by a skilled prospector and cruiser.

It now transpires that James C. Hunter of Duluth has financed extensive exploration of the Hunter holdings on Grassy bay. Not only will the Hunter lands be carefully explored but the Hunter brothers have secured an option on the Ericson lands at $100,000, and they will be included in the exploration plans.

The Hunters control 500 acres adjoining the Foley mine, proper, on the west, which lands are considered very likely for gold.

The Agassiz Company.

About a dozen years ago some Duluth men organized the Agassiz company to own and operate A. L. 282, a gold claim on the Upper Seine river. Among the number was Cuyler Adams, then a poor man. The decline in the district came and the enterprise was shut down.

Since then Mr. Adams has become discoverer of the Cuyuna iron range and a very wealthy man. Some of his former associates have not kept pace with him financially and have been glad to sell their interests in the Agassiz company to him.

Mr. Adams not only has the property where he absolutely controls it but has a feeling that he must give the enterprise a thorough tryout. Some of these days, he declared, when he has transmuted a bit more Cuyuna range iron ore into coin of the realm, he intends to assault old Mother Nature and try to take some gold bricks from her spacious bosom up there in A. L. 282.

Mr. Adams thoroughly investigated the Seine River region away back in 1897-1900. He firmly believes in the gold fields of Western Ontario. Over his signature he says:

"It no longer is a question, it has become a certainty, that the localities containing such mines as the Empress, the Sawbill group, the Foley and the Olive, the Sultana and Mikado, are gold-producing in the fullest sense of the word, and will continue to be. That there is gold here and in paying quantities, there can be no doubt," continues Mr. Adams. "That it can be cheaply and profitably mined is equally certain."

Just at present, the storm center of the Rainy River district of Ontario is around Kenora, formerly known as Rat Portage, on Lake of the Woods.

Work is being rushed at the Mikado mine about thirty-miles southwesterly from Kenora. Local people started up that mine last year. Under the regime of an English corporation, $500,000 worth of a bullion was taken from the Mikado but bad management brought a shutdown.

At present, ground is being opened up rapidly. Recently, ore worth $70 to $80 a ton was encountered in a drift on the seventh level wan the vein seven feet wide. When in operation before, the miners broke into one rick pocket of ore that produced $65,000 worth of nign grade.

Big Strike at the Ophir.

Kenora just now is in a fever of excitement over conditions at the old Ophir gold mine. This property is on the easterly side of Lake of the Woods not very far from the Sultana mine. It was one of the first properties worked after the discovery of gold in that region, away back in the '80s. The vein was large and strong and free gold occurred in massive nuggets that attracted attention on two continents. Lltigation finally resuled in a long shutdown. During the activity, late in the '90s, the property was inactive and the workings filled with water.

The owners live in Ottawa. Some months ago Chicago me nsecured a working option. They are crowding exploration and the shaft is down over 100 feet.

A few days ago ore was struck that beats anything actually proven in porcupine. The vein at a depth of ninety-six feet is twelve feet wide. It carries free gold clear across. There is a streak of high grade three feet wide that runs $500 a ton and upwards. It is impregnated with massive nuggets, leaf gold and wire gold in tangled condition. Nothing so rich and sensational ever before has been seen in the district.

The old Scramble mine is being brought back to life with energy and quick jerks. This property embraces Kenora and half a mile from the Canadian Pacific railroad. It is accessible over a good wagon road.

The Scramble mine is on a mineralized belt traceable from Lake of the Woods to Black Sturgeon Lake, a distance of eight miles, a veritable mother lode. Although probably the principal property on the belt, there are others of note.

The Princess mine was opened up by a shaft nearly a quarter a century ago by William McKenzie, then a man of modest means, but now a Canadian railway magnate and knighted by his king.

The Muriel mine belonged to J. H. Webster of Cleveland, Ohio. He sunk a shaft 110 feet and erected a mill sixteen years ago. One night it burned down. Webster charged the fire to incendiarism and, being an erratic character, shut down work and went back to Ohio.

Then there are the Black Sturgeon, El Diver, and others.

The Scramble mine shows eight different ore bodies. The principal one thirty feet or more, in width and can be followed for 3,500 feet on the property. Late in the 90's a shaft was sunk and good surface improvements made. The management was not ideal in all respects and the public was called on to supply working funds. Along with other enterprises, work finally ceased.

Canadian Homestake Company.

The Canadian Homestake Gold Mining company, limited, recently took over the Scramble mine. The corporation is organized in Canada and has offices in Kenora, Toronto and Buffalo, N. Y. Most of the promoters are Buffalo men. The president and general manager, as well as the moving spirit in the enterprise, is Charles Brent, M. E., one of the ablest mining engineers in the country. He is a natural and trained scientist. Years ago he was assayer at the old Badger silver mine at Port Arthur. He has been in South America, the Far West, and at one time was interested in a barytes property on an island near Port Arthur with the Lardners of Duluth and Michigan. During the activity of 1897-1900 Mr. Brent was at Kenora, then Rat Portage.

The Canadian Homestake company proposes to sink a shaft 500 feet deep on the big Scramble vein and to have that work well towards completion before the close of 1911. A fine machinery plant, up to date in every way, including a 30-horse power electric hoist and a 75-horse power electrically driven air compressor, has been purchased. When the development work warrants, a reduction plant will be added with a capacity of about 500 tons a day.

When worked before, the Scramble ore showed some very high values. Assays many in number ran away up into the hundreds of dollars per ton. Some of the best engineers in America and Europe made examinations and tests of the ores. Among the many have been Archibald Blue, then director of the Ontario bureau of mines; Prof. A. P. Coleman of the Toronto university and geologist to the bureau of mines; James A. Bow, inspector of mines for the bureau of mines; W. M. Strong, M. E., formerly superintendent of the Foley and the Sultana mines; Edward Bates Dorsey, M. A., I. M. E., etc., of New York; W. Morgan Robbins, C. E. and M. E., of New York; O. H. Howarth, C. E., etc., of London, Eng.

Reports of the foregoing gave average values in gold all the way from $6 to $8 a ton. A two and a half-ton shipment to Ricketts & Banks, New York, selected from the poorer grade of ore, averaged $12.60 per ton in gold. The ores are about 90 per cent free milling.

Mr. Brent and associates are basing their plans and calculations on an average of only $3.60 per ton for the entire tonnage mined and milled. On that basis, they expect to recover $3.06 per ton and to make a net profit of $2.06 per ton, by treating not less than 400 tons a day. Stamp mills in the cyanide process are proposed.

Aside from the big bodies of highly free milling and easily treated ore, this property has the advantage of cheap water, cheap timber, cheap transportation, efficient labor, reasonable cost of supplies, accessibility, and, above all, electrical power, generated at Kenora and delivered to the mine under contract for $10 per horse power per annum. Incredible as it may seem, that is what electrical power costs at Kenora.

After long and careful figuring, checking and re-checking his calculations, Mr. Brent expects his costs not to exceed the following for each ton of ore milled:

Labor	0.1710
Supplies	0.0059
Water	0.0030
Power	0.0500
Machinery	0.976
Lifihtning	0.0010
Quicksilver	0.0200
Timber	0.0040
Total	0.3590

It is proposed to set a new mark for American gold mining companies to meet.

Black Eagle Mine.

A new company has been organized in London to own and operate the Black Eagle mine, formerly known as the Regina. Orders have been received to unwater the mine and that will take two months.

J. L. Caldwell has announced that he is confident of starting up the Sultana mine again. This was the first producer in the district and has a heavy bullion production to its credit.

The Golden Horn mine on Lake of the Woods, as well as the Higbee mine on Eagle Lake.

The Penniac Gold Reef mine, on Star Lake, seven miles south of Ingolf, is the only active property in the province of Manitoba, promises big things. The company was formed in Winnipeg with a capitalization of $3,000,000. It is planned to raise from $300,000 to $400,000. A large force of men will be employed and work was started May 1. It is said that Winnipeg is taking notice of the gold fields and has an ambition to be the headquarters for a mining activity in Manitoba and Western Ontario, the same as Toronto is for Eastern Ontario. Winnipeg now is a big city, filled with "easy money" and many aspirations not at all modest can be realized.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR RECIPROCITY

Liberals in Canada Will Go Before the People.

Ottawa, Can., May 8.—The adjournment of parliament for two months while Sir Wilfred Laurier and the Canadian parliamentary delegation are in England attending the coronation will mark the beginning of an educational campaign for reciprocity throughout Canada under the direction of the Liberal members of the house. The opponents of the agreement have planned a similar campaign against the ratification of the agreement.

The government is confident that the result of the campaign will be the creation of so strong a demand for ratification that the conservatives will not be able to continue their filibuster when parliament resumes, provided the United States senate in the meantime takes favorable action.

It is understood that Sir Wilfred was induced to propose adjournment chiefly to put himself in a position to insist that Finance Minister Fielding should take a rest. Mr. Fielding has been under a great business strain during the last two years, having negotiated five international agreements besides doing an immense amount of work on Canadian domestic problems, and during the whole time giving close attention to the affairs of his exacting department.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, May 8.—Business in the steel trade last week was spasmodical and because of the smaller specifications on contracts, the operations of the furnaces and mills were reduced to from 60 to 65 per cent of capacity. The railroads gave some indication of more generous orders, but buying continued intermittent.

Rail contracts aggregated only 10,000 tons, but specifications were received on 14,000 tons, which were placed in March. The principal car order was 1,239 for the Seaboard Air line. The greatest vitality was in locomotives, orders being placed for 143. Bridge orders were closed calling for 4,200 tons of steel, and inquiries are still pending for 20,000 tons.

Orders were placed for loft buildings in New York city calling for about 5,000 tons of structural steel. Including railway and highway bridges, total fabricated contracts aggregated about 16,000 tons.

It is understood that total new contracts for finished material secured by the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation in April were about 750,000 tons against 976,000 tons in March, but output and shipments were greater than in March.

Estimates of the production of pig iron last month are about 2,100,000 tons, including charcoal iron. It is further estimated that the output today is at the rate of scarcely 23,500,000 tons annually, but it is notable that the steel corporation increased its production in April 17,000 tons, although it decreased its active blast furnaces 9 per cent. Business last week was again light, sales reported aggregating less than 10,000 tons.

SUMMER WEATHER IS DUE THIS WEEK.

Washington, May 8. — Summer weather will prevail throughout the country east of the Rocky mountains during the coming week, according to weather bureau calculations. Low temperatures are predicted for the Pacific coast. Indications are that there will be no rain in the next few days, except local showers in the Middle West and North Pacific states.

Dr. Brown Resigns.

Washington, May 8.—President Taft has accepted the resignation of Dr. Elmer F. Brown as commissioner of education, to take effect on June 30. Dr. Brown will become chancellor of New York university.

Chews the Way to Health

What are you doing to give your children sound and healthy teeth? Out of 11,374 children inspected by the Medical Inspector in the schools of Toronto nearly 3,000 cases of physical defects were found. Of these 2,027 were credited to decayed and imperfectly formed teeth. Sound teeth and good bones come from thoroughly chewing a food that is rich in the phosphates. You can't build them with mushy porridges, soggy pastries or sweetmeats. Shredded Whole Wheat contains all the necessary phosphates in a digestible form. You HAVE to chew

SHREDDED WHEAT

The crispness of the shreds compels thorough chewing and a thorough mixing with saliva, which is the first process in digestion.

Shredded Wheat Biscuit every morning for breakfast, served with milk or cream, will build sturdy, robust youngsters and is a preventive of stomach and bowel disorders so common to children. Being ready-cooked and ready-to-serve it is so easy to prepare a nourishing meal with it in combination with fresh or preserved fruits—a meal that is deliciously satisfying to grown-ups as well as youngsters. Your grocer sells it.

HEMMED IN BY THE FIRE

Narrowly Miss Suffocation in Race With Flames to Lake.

Hemmed in on all sides by flames and forced to run a gauntlet of fire for nearly a mile, Frank E. Watson, Norman Skafti and Alfred Thompson, three West Duluth men, returned this morning fro ma trip to the Thompson farm, near Solon Springs, Wis., with stories of an exciting experience, in which they nearly lost their lives.

Thompson owns an eighty-acre farm, six miles north of Solon Springs and about a mile northwest of Lake St. Croix. This region was swept over by dangerous brush fires Friday and Saturday. Thompson, Watson and Skafti went there Friday and it was on their return Saturday afternoon that they were caught, in what looked for a while, to be a death trap.

The men drove out to the place Friday evening and owing to the proximity of the fires which were burning on the east side of Lake St. Croix and to the northwest of the Thompson place, the teamster drove back to Solon Springs and said that he could not run the risk of coming after them with a team and that they would have to walk back. They stayed there during the night and started out at noon for Solon Springs.

When they started there was considerable smoke but little fire nearby. Arriving within three-quarters of a mile of the head of Lake St. Croix, they were met by the fire, which had crept around from the east side of the lake to its head. The wind was blowing in a northerly direction and was carrying the smoke and flames toward them.

With only a narrow roadway to walk on and fires raging on every side, the men fought their way through the smoke and flames for three quarters of a mile to the head of the lake, where they came out of the fire zone. One of the men was bleeding at the mouth from coughing, and the other two were so suffocated that they were compelled to rest for some time before progressing further. None were seriously burned.

Once in the midst of the fire, they were compelled either to run against the fire for three quarters of a mile, or run back with it to the place from which they come. They chose to work their way out of the place and to get to Solon Springs.

Mr. Watson today said that Friday night, the fires burned over two of Lindberg's lumber camps and also destroyed the summer place of a Chicago man, H. W. Johns. Whether the Thompson place burned or not, they do not know. The fire was headed in that direction when they were fighting their way back through the flames. The Dubey farm, a mile and a half to the northwest of the Thompson place, burned to the ground Friday evening.

Mr. Thompson is the engineer at the Fairmont school. Mr. Watson is connected with the L. A. Barnes Real Estate agency and Mr. Skafti is a restaurant proprietor at Proctor.

MAY CELEBRATE THE FOURTH AGAIN THIS YEAR.

West Duluth business men will get together tomorrow afternoon at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms to talk over the matter of having another Fourth of July celebration at West Duluth this year. Several are enthusiastic over the affair and enough enthusiasm may be shown to warrant holding it. If the proposition goes through, an effort will be made to have a celebration that will eclipse that of last year.

DAM CREEK TO FIGHT FIRES

New Duluth Firemen Stretch 1,000 Feet of Hose From Improvised Pond.

Had it not been for the efforts of the New Duluth fire brigade, the summer home of Judge W. L. Windom at Fon du Lac would probably have been wiped out by fire Saturday afternoon.

By damming a small stream which runs through the Windom farm and stretching 1,000 feet of hose, Charles Pearson, Edward Crager, the New Duluth firemen assisted by Charles Brouilette and Root and other volunteers, managed to get enough water on the flames to check them within seventy-five feet of the buildings.

The New Duluth firemen were notified about two o'clock Saturday afternoon and made a run of three miles with a hose cart. They found it necessary to work for nearly an hour in damming the stream. The water rose four feet and with 1,000 feet of hose, which was stretched from the stream to the buildings, the fire fighters managed to keep the place from burning. A strong wind was carrying the brush fires from the west.

Today at Pittsburg, north of New Duluth the brush fires are said to be bad and are causing the residents there much worry. Should the wind rise, it is probable that much property would be destroyed or seriously endangered.

CHILD SHOT ON FATHER'S FARM

Little Hugo Newgard Believed to Be Victim of Careless Hunter.

Hugo Newgard, aged 10, son of William Newgard of Munger, was brought to the Duluth hospital yesterday suffering from gunshot wounds. The child was shot with a charge of bird shot coming from some unknown source while he was at play behind the barn on the farm. The shot struck the boy in the face, hands, arms and breast and it was necessary to amputate the left thumb. He will recover. A careless hunter is believed to have fire the shot.

THINK ENGINEER EXCEEDED HIS AUTHORITY.

The West Duluth Republican club thinks that the city engineer overstepped his authority when he authorized extra work in extending the sanitary main trunk sewer from Main to Front streets out into the bay and at a meeting Saturday evening passed a resolution embodying this sentiment. The club secretary was instructed to write to the board of public works and make a protest against the recent assessment.

The club also passed a resolution asking the Northern Pacific road to keep the crossing at Sixty-seventh west clear of cars, as it is used considerably by children going to the Fairmont school.

J. T. Morgan was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of G. J. aMllory.

TOD SLOAN WILL RUN RACING STABLE

Former Jockey Has Position That Should Recoup His Fortune.

New York, May 8.—Friends of Tod Sloan, once the greatest jockey in the world, learn that he has secured a contract for the management of the big Brussels racing stable of Theodore Meyers. He hopes to recoup his fortunes on this new job. Sloan still weighs less than 108 pounds and frequently climbs into the saddle for tryouts. He cannot ride in colors, however, for the reason that the English Jockey club has steadfastly refused to reinstate him. He has been on the ground for nearly ten years and has tried his hand at many occupations, including automobiling demonstrating and aviation.

Frequent attempts have been made to secure Sloan's reinstatement from the English Jockey club, but without success. The nature of Sloan's offense in England was never made known and his friends have always insisted that prejudice and persecution were the causes of his predicament. He is said to have earned nearly $500,000 as a jockey, but the money went as easily as it came.

Ward's Suit Postponed.

New York, May 8.—Trial in the suit of John M. Ward, the former baseball player, against B. B. Johnson, president of the American league, for alleged slander, set for today in the United States circuit court here, has been postponed until tomorrow.

WILL REBUILD THE SOUTH SHORE

Chicago Report Says 15,000 Tons of Rails Have Been Ordered.

According to a story on the financial pages of one of the Chicago papers, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad has begun rebuilding its line. The story is given confirmation by the statement that the purchasing department of the road has closed an order for the early delivery of 15,000 tons of steel rails.

In financial circles it is generally recognized that the Canadian Pacific is the source from which the money came for the purchase of the rails and also the same source will supply the money that will provide for future improvements.

GRAIN RATES DROP TO A CENT

Grain rates dropped to the lowest point in years when it was announced today that one cargo had been taken out within the past few days at the very low price of one cent.

While it is admitted that no profit can be made on this rate, or on a rate a fourth of a cent higher, it is said that some of the boats are taking cargoes at this figure rather than make the trip down the lakes empty.

The willingness of some of the boats to take grain at this figure amply illustrates the scarcity of down lake cargoes.

FOREST FIRES RAGING.

Canadian and New England Points Report Losses.

Winnipeg, Man., May 8. — Forest fires are threatening settlements along Big river, north of Prince Albert, Sask. A special train sent out from Prince Albert has brought all the people living in the danger zone to safety.

At Clearwater Bay, fifteen miles from Kenora, Ont., in the Lake of the Woods district, bush fires have been raging for the last two days. There is no settlement there. Fire rangers report the country is very dry and small fires are burning along the railway right-of-way at many points which may spread to dangerous proportions.

Fires in New England.

Boston, Mass., May 8.—Forest fires caused great damage in many places in New England Sunday, sweeping over thousands of acres of valuable wood land. In several instances the flames have spread to dwelling houses and other buildings.

At Biddeford, Me., the militia was called out, so serious was the situation. Three square miles of timber land was burned over before the fire was controlled.

Sanford, Me., twenty miles from Bideford, was surrounded by forest fires, the buildings in the outskirts of the village were reported in serious danger.

There were fires in Massachusetts, near Chatham on Cape Cod and Bridge in Worcester county. Wood Island had fires in Paskoag, Masonville and Glendale.

BADINAGE IN VERMONT.

Los Angeles Times: Miss Marie Dressler has a picturesque residence in Vermont.

"I like all Vermont but the railways," she said in an interview in Boston. "The railways are too slow. The people, on the other hand, are quick. In repartee and badinage there is no quicker man living than your Vermonter.

"An old farmer in my neighborhood fell ill last summer, and it was feared that an operation would be necessary. He was very weak, and his physician called in a specialist from Boston.

"The specialist, after examining the old man, agreed that an operation was advisable.

"'But,' he said, 'we'd better wait and let him get stronger before we cut into him.'

"At this the old farmer frowned and muttered in a weak voice from the bed:

"'Say, Professor, what do you take me for—a cheese?'"

Is a doctor justified in exceeding the speed limit in his automobile when the stork is hovering over a home?

Two complaints have been sworn to against Duluth automobile owners by the police, and one of them was against Dr. J. W. Ekblad, who is claimed to have been exceeding the speed limit on Jefferson street yesterday afternoon. The doctor explained to the police that he had received an urgent summons from an East end home and was hastening to answer it as rapidly as he could.

The other complaint was against E. M. Gaylord, and both warrants will probably be served this afternoon.

The police had special plain clothes men on the job yesterday with stop watches, and many an unsuspecting auto owner was timed as he swept along London road, or other smooth highways in the East end. It is likely that more warrants will be issued this afternoon or tomorrow. The police say they mean business in their crusade against speeders.

TWO PRISONERS ARE SENTENCED

Gust Brown and Axel Gunderson admitted, before Judge Ensign in district court today, that they swindled Jacob Soderlund out of $200 in a Norwegian card game on a boat between Grand Marais and Duluth this spring. They got indeterminate sentences at Stillwater.

Charles Hill, who was indicted for manslaughter, pleaded not guilty of killing Axel Hill. James Thomason said he was guilty of perjury in the second degree. He was not sentenced. Helmer Helgren said he was not guilty of a statutory crime. James McKnight pleaded not guilty to a forgery charge

New York Warehouse Burns.
New York, May 8.—Fire today burned out a four-story storage warehouse here occupied by the Guardian Storage company and the Metropolitan Tobacco company, causing a loss estimated at $200,000.

VERMONT ASBESTOS.

Burlington Free Press: In the town of Lowell large quantities of excellent asbestos is being produced. Some forty men are employed and there is a promise of a production of 100 tons a day in the near future. The asbestos produced in the Lowell mine is of a high grade and known as chrysotile asbestos. This is the same kind that is produced in the province of Quebec.

There is only one other mine in the United States that produces this kind of asbestos. This is located in Wyoming and is still in the development stage, so that it is quite true to state that the Vermont mine is the only one of the kind in this country that is producing asbestos on a commercial basis.

FOOLS HIS HENS WITH SIGN.

Ellendale (Del.), correspondent of Chicago Inter Ocean: Carey Palmer, well known as a poultry raiser, is responsible for the story of how he is keeping his hens laying during the winter.

Palmer noticed that whenever eggs assumed a high price his hens would stop laying, and, after thinking the matter over, he determined that the price had a great deal to do with the work of the hens.

He declares that the sign has done the work, and that, while eggs are bringing 48 cents a dozen, his hens are laying every day without any hesitancy.

RUBBER FROM SOYA BEANS.

Consular Reports: According to a Frankfort publication a German patent has been secured for the manufacture from the soya bean of a product to take the place of rubber. The process consists in the reduction of the oil of the soya bean to a thick, tough liquid through the addition of nitric acid. After further treatment with alkaloid solutions the mixture is heated to 150 deg., giving a tough, highly elastic product similar to rubber, which can be vulcanized by the same process as rubber.

Numerous attempts have been made in the past to manufacture artificial rubber and processes which in the laboratory gave excellent results have been found impracticable on account of high cost. Whether this latest method will be successful remains to be proved.

BRITISH DRINK AND SMOKE BILL.

Consular Reports: The highest consumption in the United Kingdom was in the year 1907, which was about 2,057 pounds an individual, taking the whole population as a basis; while in 1909 it fell to 1,975 pounds an individual. Of the amount paid for tobacco in 1909 the government received $74,367,254.

The total can individual per annum in 1909 was about $2.90½, and counting a family as consisting of 4.62 persons (which is a census basis), the annual expenditure of such family was $13.43, which amounts to a weekly expenditure of 25½ cents.

The annual average for intoxicants for a family of the size above mentioned is estimated at $77.51. The two expenditures combined would indicate that the average by each family in the United Kingdom in 1909 was $1.74 a week.

THE CORONATION CRIMSON.

The Gentlewoman: Their majesties are taking a great interest in the robes that will be worn by those who attend Westminster Abbey in June. The variation of tint in the crimson of the robes donned by the peers and peeresses when King Edward was crowned became quite a subject of comment in high quarters, so the story goes, and it is hoped that a more harmonious effect, sartorially speaking, will be obtained in the abbey at the coronation of King George.

OREGON HUNTER KILLS FOURTEEN COUGARS.

Wilson correspondence Portland Oregonian: Charles Adkins, the "cougar man" of this section of the country, has succeeded in adding another cougar pelt nine feet long to his collection.

He saw the cougar's tracks in the road and calling his hounds started in hot pursuit. After a short run the cougar was treed and Adkins shot it dead.

Every winter when the snow falls in the mountains the cougars come down into the bottoms and along the rivers in quest of salmon, which are plentiful as well as easy to get at that time of year.

This is the fourteenth cougar that Adkins has killed within the last four years.

PLACES FOR COLLEGE INDIANS.

Denver Republican: Charles E. Dagenett, supervisor in Denver of the United States Indian service, has been officially informed by the management of the Santa Fe railroad that places will be found in different departments of the road for as many college bred Indians as possible.

Mr. Dagenett is now on a trip through Colorado and other Western states containing Indian reservations to seek those who desire railroad work. It is expected that several hundred Indians will be placed on the waiting list of the railroad as a result of the present expedition of the supervisor. The railroad, it is said, will offer every opportunity for advancement.

CAUSE OF EXPLOSIONS IN MILLS.

Chicago Tribune: An English firm of millers, troubled with dust explosions, set about discovering the cause of ignition of the dust. The mills use the steel roller process of patent flour, and iron or steel particles in the grain were suspected of coming in contact with the steel rolls and emitting the spark, causing the explosions.

Accordingly an apparatus was designed by which all the grain subject to the rolls first was passed over highly magnetized steel arresters. The result was strikingly in proof of the theory. These electro magnets collected steel and iron particles ranging from the miscroscopic up to box nails several inches long. With a standard equipment of arresters capable of passing 1,000 bushels of grain an hour, so much metal collects that several times a day the magnets must be swung aside and brushed clean of their accumulations.

CHURCH WITH OWN ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

Aside from all the fixtures and paraphernalia that goes to make up a modern church building, the church also has its own electric light plant, which is equipped with a storage battery capable of supplying something like 200 lights. There are mighty few churches in the West which have their own electric light plants.

HE STAYED AWAY.

Los Angeles Times: Miss Lillian Russell, discussing in Chicago the supreme importance of dress, was reminded of a story.

"I know," she said, "of only one occasion where dress wasn't the most important thing of it all. It was at a Saratoga hotel, and we had arranged, a certain small set of us, to have a distinctly smart ball after the races. There was an Englishman at the hotel, one of those Englishmen who don't know their place, and the morning of the ball he came to me and said:

"'I hear there's a ball tonight. Isn't it jolly? But, I say, is fancy dress de rigueur?'

"'No,' Lord Lachon,' said I, 'fancy dress is not de rigueur, but an invitation is.'"

HE WINS OR YOU LOSE.

Los Angeles Times: Mr. Roosevelt, discussing in Milwaukee his idea of an employers' liability law, said to a group of correspondents:

"Such a law would assure an injured workman of compensation without the cost of a suit. To be sure, some lawyers would thus lose money, but, after all, the 'ambulance chasing' type of lawyer isn't worthy of much consideration.

"An injured miner was telling a friend how one of these 'ambulance chasers' was going to bring a suit for him.

"'He's working for me on a contingent fee,' the miner said. 'What is a contingent fee, do you know, Jimmy?'

"'Sure I know,' Jimmy answered. 'If you lose the case, your lawyer'll get nothing, and if you win, you'll get nothing.'"

NO LET-UP.

"The late Robert Treat Paine," said a Boston hanker, "persuaded thousands of workingmen to own their own homes. To get workingmen established in homes of their own was almost Mr. Paine's life work. He succeeded because he never let up.

"He pegged away at workingmen—so he once said gaily at a banquet—like the woman in the swamp country.

"'This woman had an invalid husband. Nevertheless she always made him work. One morning, for example, she said to him:

"'Come, George, get up out of that bed now. I want you to scrub the kitchen floor.'

"'But I can't,' George stuttered. 'Don't you see I've g-got my sh-shakin' ague on?'

"'Then,' said his wife, 'I've got the very job for you. Come here and shake these ashes.'"

MANY PEOPLE COMPLAIN

Attention of Health Department Officials Called to Insanitary Conditions.

Good Progress Made in Giving City Its Spring Cleaning.

With the coming of warm weather complaints of unsanitary conditions are pouring into the office of the health department in the city hall by the score. They are of all natures, relative to dead dogs, dead cats, ashes, garbage, tin cans and rubbish of all descriptions.

The bulk of the complaints are made by one neighbor against the other and by far the majority of the complainants are women. Their names are required by the department, but they are not given any publicity.

The four extra inspectors who were put on by the department at the beginning of the month are getting as much work as they can attend to. In addition to making an inspection of every lot in the city and serving notice to clean up where necessary, the extra complaints which come in are turned over to them for immediate attention. They are expected to keep close track of them to see that the orders to clean up are observed.

These complaints are of much assistance to the health department officials. They enable them to a considerable extent to keep a check upon the work of the inspectors. When complaints come in from the districts under their supervision they are asked the reason and if they are unable to explain, they are told that laxness will not be tolerated.

The residents have not yet been given sufficient time in which to clean up their premises since the general sanitary work was started this spring. Numerous notices are being served, and after the expiration of what is a reasonable time, if no improvement has been made, arrests will be made. It is stated that in the past threats have been made, but that this year action will follow threats.

Where nothing has been done, but when the owner was convinced in a very short time that a warrant would be sworn out for him the desired result has been accomplished.

DRIVEN FROM THE WOODS

Deer and Rabbits Met By Automobilists on Pike Lake Road.

Hunters, Taking Advantage of Their Fright, Patrol Highways With Rifles.

Animals of all kinds were driven out of the woods and on to the main traveled roads by the fires which raged north of the city Saturday and Sunday. This morning a Herald reporter coming in from the vicinity of the Whiteface river saw any number of rabbits and other small animals. They refused to be chased back into the burning woods and kept along the roads running in front of automobiles until they became tired. Then they would make a short detour and come back on the road behind the rigs.

In one spot on the road near Canyon postoffice four deer were browsing along the road. They refused to be frightened and until they were actually chased away, they stuck to the road.

Many seem to be taking advantage of the fact that the animals are being driven out of the woods and armed with rifles they the tramping the woods.

There was a good deal of excitement in the country during the latter part of the week just passed and parties traveling the roads were questioned closely in regard to the fires at other places along the route.

Rain Timely.

The rain of yesterday afternoon was a blessing to the settlers north of Duluth on the Pike Lake and Miller Trunk road. The fires which have been raging for several days past are now practically under control. While the rain was not heavy, it dampened the brush so that the workers could get them under control.

Fanned by a stiff western breeze, the fires made good headway both Friday and Saturday. The fires seemingly started a short distance this side of Independence and made their way as far as Twig postoffice. The settlers were fighting the fires all along the way. Some of them are resting today for the first time in several days. They have worked night and day to stop the progress of the flames.

In and around Pike lake the fires had good going through dry underbrush and several squads of men scattered some miles apart were fighting them. A hurried call was sent to Duluth Saturday morning and a crew of men was sent to the Kendall farm on Pike lake which was threatened. By the time the men reached the farm the flames had been gotten under control, however.

Run the Gauntlet.

It was with much difficulty that automobiles and horses and rigs made their way along the Pike lake road Saturday afternoon. The fires were burning close to the road, the heat was like that from an oven and the smoke was so thick that it was possible to see only a few feet ahead.

All over the brushy lands back of the city the fires were burning and many of the farmers took turns watching them during the night. The fires seemed to spring up in the several parts of the country at one time. They all traveled the same way, east and south.

Part of the country for some miles behind the city has but few settlers. The land is covered over with thick, short and stubby underbrush, the grass of last year was long and dry and once the fires got started, it needed but a slight breeze to fan them into a dangerous blaze. The breeze was on the job and the settlers on this side of the fires were terror stricken. They congregated at the different schoolhouses and postoffices, decided where the best point to head off the fire would be and then started work which lasted in some instances two days and a night. In some cases the fires drove them back and the work seemed to help but little. Other settlers set fire to several acres about their houses and watched it until it had burned out.

INTEREST MEN IN CHURCH WORK

New York Man Speaks on Men in Religion Forward Movement.

In an address delivered yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., James A. Whitmore of New York urged strenuous efforts to get men interested in the church and church work.

Mr. Whitmore is secretary of the Men in Religion Forward Movement. He stated that it is time to stop singing "Like a Mighty Army Moves the Church of God" and get out and fight.

Soon a campaign will be begun in every city in the country to get men interested in the church. The campaign will last a week in each city. The national committee of the movement will have charge of the services in all the cities.

In Duluth the ministerial association will have supervision of the work. The association will select a committee of 100. The dates for the campaign in Duluth has not been set as yet.

NEW TRACTION COMPANY FILES ITS ARTICLES.

The company is one of the most important parts of the Greysolon farms project, for it is expected to solve the transportation problem. The line will be four and one-half miles, and connection will be made with the Duluth Street railway at Woodland. The work on Greysolon farms is progressing well and several tracts of land there have been sold.

BRIAN HOOKER.

Two Yale men have won the $10,000 prize offered by the directors of the Metropolitan Opera company for a new opera in English to be produced next season. Horatio W. Parker, profresor of music at Yale, wrote the music. Brian Hooker, who until recently was connected with Yale, wrote the libretto. The opera is named "Mona" and deals with an episode of the Roman rule of Britain. Twenty-four scores in all were submitted to the prize-awarding jury. Eleven of the twenty-four were declared to be of value and to indicate the future success of the American composer and librettist in serious operas. The judges were unanimous in selecting the Parker-Hooker opera for the prize.

STRYCHNINE IN HUSBAND'S CUP

Damaging Testimony Against Wife of Mass City Man Who Was Poisoned.

Mass City, Mich., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—No warrant has yet been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Charles F. Stannard of Mass City, as the result of testimony at the coroner's inquest held Saturday implicating her in the death of her husband, a prominent mining man.

Physicians testified that Stannard's death was the direct result of strychnine poison. A domestic swore that Mrs. Stannard admitted having put a powder in Stannard's coffee to kill his appetite for liquor. Mrs. Stannard has completely collapsed and is unable to leave her bed. She refuses to talk of the accusation against her.

MOTT LINE GIVEN BAD MAIL SERVICE

Hitch in Plans to Furnish Service on New N. P. Mandan-Mott Line.

Mandan, N. D., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been a hitch in the proposition to establish a railway mail service on the new branch of the Northern Pacific between here and Mott. At present Mott, New Liepzig, Elgin and a number of other towns on the Northern Pacific are being supplied by mail over the Milwaukee line from Aberdeen, S. D. Letters from Mandan are sent to Minneapolis, then west to their destination, traveling 600 or 700 miles to reach points only 100 miles from here. There are a number of new towns between Mandan and those places that are served by the Milwaukee. These are entitled to better mail service.

Grading Fargo-Minot Cutoff.

Carrington, N. D., May 8.—Graders have resumed work on the Fargo-Minot cut-off of the Great Northern. Operations were suspended during last fall, but there now seems to be no doubt but the line will be completed this summer and fall. It will greatly shorten the main line from Minot to Fargo and the Twin Cities and open a splendid new territory.

LIGHT DIVERSION.

Chicago Tribune: "Sometimes, I think," the voice was heard saying, "one uses the figure of speech, 'his mind preyed upon itself' without fully realizing what it means. It is not pretended, of course, that one portion of the brain tissue absorbs another portion; nor will it be contended, upon one reflection, that one mental faculty or process necessarily atrophies or diappears in order that another one may be built up. Such is not my conception of the human proprium. The mind may be said to prey upon itself when vague impressions upon one's mentality subsequently reproduce themselves as evanescent recollections of actual happenings, and in this false guise either bewilder the perceptive faculties or mislead the memory with recurrent hallucinations. One's reason may remain securely upon its throne, and yet be only dimly conscious that undermining processes seem to be at work. This is a phase of the subject which apparently has not suggested itself to our best known alienists."

Left to his own devices, the dear little Boston boy sometimes amused himself in this manner by the hour.

THE CALIFORNIA GAME SEASON.

Sacramento correspondence to San Francisco Chronicle: A bill submitted by the California Sportsmen's Game Protective association was introduced in the assembly today by E. J. D. Nolan of San Francisco. The bill cuts the season on ducks one month, giving local birds on marsh a chance to scatter and not be slaughtered on the baited ponds.

Cottontail rabbits are protected under the bill and a closed season for rail is provided until November, 1912. The dove season is shortened and the bag limit reduced to fifteen. The quail bag limit is reduced to twelve and the duck bag limit to fifteen. Market hunting for ducks is prohibited and the hunter must ship game open and exposed.

START FIGHT NEAR JUAREZ

Madero's Orders Are Believed to Have Been Violated.

El Paso, Tex., May 8.—A few shots were exchanged by the federal and insurrecto outposts again early today, and orders were issued from headquarters to cease firing as an armistice was being arranged

The firing was renewed at 11 o'clock. The federals were said to have begun the shooting. Gen. Madero left headquarters to determine whether his orders had been disobeyed. It is believed his officers took advantage of the interim for the arrangement of an armistice to advance on Juarez.

People crowded the roofs and housetops in El Paso and hundreds of people ran to the river side to watch the fight.

About one hundred rebels moved forward in readiness for the attack. The impression is that Gen. Madero's orders were disregarded and an engagement is imminent.

Antonio Garcia, a Mexican, watching the fight near the United States immigration station, was struck in the head by a bullet. The same bullet hit a Mexican woman on the arm.

Villas public school, in the northwest part of El Paso, was dismissed for the day, but had not been hit by bullets. Several bullets struck the immigration station.

The insurrecto advance on Juarez was being apparently resumed at 12 o'clock, although early it had appeared that the rebels were retiring.

Tijuana Fears Attack.

San Diego, Cal., May 8.—The federal guard at Tijuana, Lower California, numbering about 100 men, was put under arms at daylight to repel an attack by rebels supposed to be near the town. Persistent rumors that the force was nearing the town and would attack at any moment were current.

Fighting began in earnest at 10:45 this morning in the vicinity of Tijuana. The rebels are advanced from the east and a detachment of federals set out to meet them. Rebel bullets entered Tijuana, which is practically deserted with the exception of an armed force of about 100.

New Mining Company.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Articles of incorporation of the Elkhorn & Duluth Development company were filed with the secretary of state today. Julius H. Barnes, Ward Ames and A. L. Agatin are the incorporators and the capital stock is given as $10,000. The company will do an ore mining and smelting business.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND IN BED.

A middle-aged man whose name was not learned was found dead in bed this morning in the lodging house at Lake avenue and Second street. Death is supposed to have been due to heart failure. The body was removed to Crawford's undertaking rooms to await identification. He is thought to have been a woodsman and laborer.

THE MOTHER LAND.

Since God to folks of six or seven
Gave a mother with which no king may strive,
Since half the sweetness under heaven
He gave to people under five.

We little knew what we were giving,
Methinks, when we gave play for strife
And for the land where we are living,
The country where we played at life.

O'er wooden trees and toy church steeple
Burns faintly each man's morning star,
O Motherland whose laughing people
The dearest of all people are!

To death some fragment of thy stories
The beggar brings, and to thy song,
Behind the dying emperor's glories,
His old tin soldiers tramp along.

THE UNCALCULATED DOG.

New York Sun: One can never tell from what source may come either good luck or misfortune. Here were four men laying a new concrete sidewalk in front of a new store building on a busy street and as usual putting down the concrete in lengthwise strips, a long strip at a time, so as to leave half the width of the walk open to passersby.

It is the outer line of walk, along the street, that they laid first, and now they have finished that length complete from end to end and are standing for a moment just inside its inner edge to look at it.

There it lies, a good job, level and smooth from end to end, finished and flawless, though still very soft, very soft and plastic. But they've got boards up at either end to keep people off it, and it's all right and safe; and all that is necessary now is to to let it dry and harden. But a calamity is impending from a quarter not dreamed of.

Coming along the street this moment out in the roadway was a not very big, but active lively dog, a fox terrier, and when this dog had come opposite to one end of this stretch of newly laid soft sidewalk he chanced to look in toward it, and there he saw those men standing at the inner edge of it. And whether the dog was attracted by them or what drew him can never be known, but anyway the dog sheered in toward the new sidewalk and hoped on it and then began to trot briskly along it from end to end!

There were curses, maledictions and more curses from the workmen. With every hop and skip, as the dog trotted briskly and good humoredly along on the soft concrete, he left his footprints, but what could you do? There were bricks handy and other things that might have been thrown at him, but these would only have made matters worse. They might have hit and hurt the dog, but they would have hurt the soft sidewalk more; and so all the men could do was to stand there and wave their hats at the dog and say "Shoo! Get out! Get away from there!" and that sort of thing. And finally the dog did step off the soft concrete into the roadway again, but the next instant he was back again on the new sidewalk to trot across one corner of it.

Altogether this lively and not ill meaning dog left on that soft concrete fifty footprints, so that practically it all had to be surfaced again, all this going to show that you never can tell what's going to happen or where it's going to come from.

A DAY IN OLD CANTON.

"I had been living near Canton for ten months," says a writer in the Shanghai Mirror, "before I mustered energy enough to visit it. Finally a party of six of us, with three bearers each and a Chinese guide, spent a day exploring the curious old city.

"First we went to a dark, dingy passage known in China as a street, in which almost every shop worked and sold only ivory. Here he saw the most beautiful things, ranging from carved tusks at $500 a piece to napkin rings for a dollar, which would have cost five times as much in America.

"Our guide next took us to the kingfisher's feather shops. This work, which is very beautiful, consists of inlaying pieces of silver with the feather out in most minute pieces. It requires a most steady hand as the pieces of feather cannot be seen with the naked eye, they are cut so small. For this work a kind of microscope used by watchmakers is necessary.

"It is quite common to find children of 8 or 9 years working at this feather and silver industry. We were told by the guide that these people so engaged become blind after ten years or so at this work.

"Here I purchased a scarf pin representing a butterfly with its wings inserted with blue kingfisher's feathers, its body being striped with same. It cost forty cents and I have since heard that others like it have cost the tourist $6 and been thought cheap at that.

"We next paid a visit to the jade stone shops. These are all in one street as far as we could see and all do cutting and grinding. The stone seems very hard to cut. We saw one workman holding a piece of jade for quite ten minutes on the cutting stone (a small grindstone with a sharp edge) and after all this had made only a very slight impression.

"Here we saw them making the watch charms and ear rings for the Chinese lady. The ear rings seemed to be made in great quantities in the form of a circle with a hole in the center. We did not purchase any of this stone as it is very costly and far above our moderate means.

"When we left the jade shops we took a look at the sandalwood ones, which also seemed to be confined to one street. The work here is very much like the ivory work, the articles being very similar, napkin rings, card cases, junks, sampans, fans, boxes, etc., the pattern in carving being exactly alike.

"Net we visited the 'silk piece goods huts.' The word hut seems out of place in conjunction with silk piece goods, but one cannot call them anything better, with their muddy floors and plank beds placed in the same room with the machine for weaving, which takes up the majority of the one-roomed hut.

"We arrived when the work was in full swing. One man passing the shuttle backward and forward and all talking and singing to each other; one little boy up at the top of the machine manipulating a kind of stringed instrument that forms the design in cloth, there being about a hundred strings to this arrangement, yet this small fellow can talk to you, and very seldom looks at the strings he pulls, yet seldom makes a mistake. Four persons seem to work at one machine.

"We left these hard working natives to go a little further and come to the 'glass bangle huts.' These are even poorer than the silk piece goods huts. The bangles are made by melting colored glass over a charcoal fire of great heat, the glass being held just inside the furnace; when on the point of running it is turned around on the rod as an opium smoker cooks opium.

"This is done without any glass falling into the furnace, and requires much practice, as the worker has to work behind a screen in which a small hole is pierced. This is to protect him from the heat.

"When the glass is in a fit state it is quickly withdrawn and held up above a revolving fire-clay barrel turned on a stick held in the workman's left hand, the glass dropping from the rod in a long thread on to the barrel, which makes one circuit, joining the two ends —is cut off short and the bangle is formed on the fire-clay barrel and after cooling is taken off and filed down and made fast to cards in pairs and exported to all parts of China.

"As time was now flying and we were rather tired we asked our guide to take us to the water clock that we had heard such a lot about. So, mounting our chairs, we proceeded to the house in which it is situated. Going upstairs we went into a room and were shown four kongs, the uppermost being the largest, the next lower one somewhat smaller, and so on, the bottom one the smallest.

"The top kong was filled with water which was allowed to drop into the next kong, and from this kong into the next, it going through each kong until it reaches the lower one. As the water dropped into the lower kong it floated a flat piece of wood on which a stick or gauge is placed upright in the center, on which the hours and minutes are marked; this corresponding to a cover half over the top of the kong gives the time, the reading on the stick appearing above the cover is the time. This, according to our watches, was a few minutes out, but after running for years and centuries, as it had been, put our best chronometers to shame."

WOLF-HUNTING WITH EAGLES.

Wide World Magazine: All wanderers are lovers of the chase, but for sheer love of sport and daring exploits the Kirghiz take the palm. Central Asia is the home of falconry, which was not introduced into Europe until the Crusaders brought back falcons with them from their Eastern wanderings. But imagine the ambition of the men who fly their birds at wolves and foxes instead of at quails and partridges! Not content with hunting game birds with small falcons, the Kirghiz capture and train the great golden eagles, with which they hunt such game as gazelle, foxes, and even wolves. A well-mounted Kirghiz falconer, carrying on his wrist one of these magnificent birds, is a fine sight. The weight of the eagle is such that the owner requires a support for his wrist, and the hunters are usually to be seen with a little wooden bracket that supports the arm against the hip. The eagles are hooded, as all falcons are, but can only be used in winter when they are hungry and keen. In summer they are fed on marmots and live a restful life, sitting in the sun in front of the tent doors. When gazelle or wolves are the objects of the chase, the eagles are aided by long sleek greyhounds, of a small breed, the dogs running in and pulling down the quarry when the eagles have sufficiently bewildered it.

LAWS FOR BELGIAN PAINTERS.

Chicago Tribune: Belgium has just drawn up a special code of laws governing painters and the exercise of their craft which are singularly strict and exhaustive.

From the fashion in which the new laws hedge them in with enforced precautions one would think painting the most dangerous trade in the whole catalogue. In the first place no employer of painters may employ a man who drinks alcoholic beverages to the temporary extinction of his logical power, and no intoxicating liquors are to be brought into the vicinity of the workers. Employers are responsible for the care which their men take of their persons.

They must see that every painter washes his hands before eating, suspend the men whose health is not satisfactory, and discharge any one suffering from lead poisoning. A painter may not wear the same clothes on the street or in his home which he uses in his trade. He is inperatively required to arm himself with a special suit of clothes and a screened hat.

Contractors and master painters are restricted in the use of white lead to the ground lead mixed with oil, and it is stipulated that this mixture must be so handled that it does not splash or come in contact with the painter's hands.

The law strictly forbids scraping of dry painted surfaces in which white lead has been used. This will doubtless prevent much carelessness and protect the careless painter from his own indiscretion, but it is terribly restrictive and smacks of over-legislation.

THE HORRORS OF BOKHARA.

Wide World Magazine: The terrible deeds that once made Bokhara a byword are now prohibited by the Russian government. Prisoners are not permitted, for instance, to be dragged through the streets by galloping horses. Nor are they thrown from the top of the high tower called the Minar-Katan. This was the usual punishment meted out to evil-doers in the old days. Watched by thousands of spectators, the poor wretches were flung from that giddy height on to the flagstones beneath.

Bokhara has many chambers of horrors unwholesome for Western eyes to see, and the description of which would certainly be unfit for publication. Perhaps the most horrible of these is a pit where prisoners were tortured by vermin, which were so numerous and ravenous that in the absence of human prey they were fed on chunks of raw meat.

A TRACK WALKER'S RECORD OF TRAVEL.

Mount Vernon Signal: Boone Bennett, the veteran Kansas City track walker, has a record of which few men, if any, can boast. He lives near Dudley, this county, and has been walking track for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company on the Kansas City division for nineteen years.

For sixteen years he made the round trip every night of twenty-one miles of track, and for the last three years he has been going over a round trip of twelve miles. During those nineteen years he has walked over 132,780 miles of track at night, besides the walking he has done in daytime.

Taylorites Beaten By 3 to 0 Score in Well Played Contest.

O'Brien's braves yesterday won the third straight contest of the Duluth-Superior spring style series, annexing the fifth soiree by the satisfactory score of 3 to 0, though the battle only progressed five and a half innings, Jupiter Pluvius rudely putting an end to the contest.

Woodburn opened for Duluth and showed high-class form. The Superior modern woodmen could do practically nothing with his benders and showed a very grave and serious reversal of form over the contest of the day previous, when the Taylorites took so kindly to the groovers of Mons. Doty.

Mike Kramer won the game yesterday by a slashing triple that rolled nearly to the fence. It was in the joyous fifth round that the scores came across. Altermott hit one that Bancroft could not get, and Lippold failed to get the hard one that Miller slammed hard down the foul line. Hardgrove put up a high one that was feathered soup for Mister Whalen. Here Kramer was brought into the game in the role of a pinch hitter, and responded nobly by driving a vicious smash to the suburban precincts, scoring two runners. He scored in turn while Darby O'Brien was being retired at first.

Duluth played a much cleaner game than the exhibition of the day previous. In Woodburn, Darby appears to have a very valuable hurler. The chap from the Buckeye state has great benders and doesn't cut the heart out of the plate. In addition, he seems to have a nice mixture. Superior could not fathom the curves of the Woodburn boy and we are hoping that he does as well on the road trip.

Kid Taylor used Jenson and Johnson, the Stockholm battery. While the two Js showed some of the stuff that is good for the semi-monthly pay check, Johnson does not look as good as Woodburn, judging solely from the exhibition of yesterday.

Once the Sox twirlers get in shape and the team should travel some. The coming of Chase means further strength to the pitching department, which is much stronger at the present time than at any time last season.

This afternoon Duluth and Superior will engage in the last game of the spring series. So far Duluth has taken three of the games. The Orator wants the contest this afternoon and as Taylor wants it just as bad, it should be a hard-fought game all the way through. After today's game the team will be on the road until May 23.

PRINCETON WINS.

Defeats Yale at Annual Track Meet for First Time in History.

Princeton, N. J., May 8.—For the first time in the history of Princeton-Yale track meets, the "Tigers" defeated their old rivals here Saturday afternoon, 60 points to 56. The final result was in doubt until the last event, the high jump, in which Simons of Princeton brought victory to the New Jersey university by tying with Canfield of Yale for first place. Princeton won first in every track event and Yale won or tied in every field event.

Capt. Dwight of Princeton was the "Tigers" star, winning two first places in the hurdles against Chisholm, the Yale champion. Chisholm was disqualified in the finals of the high hurdles. In the low hurdles Dwight won by several feet, breaking the record by two seconds. Cook of Princeton also contributed 10 points or two firsts to Princeton's score by winning in the good time of 10 seconds and 22 4-5 seconds, respectively.

CENTRAL GUN CLUB MEMBERS WILL OPEN NEW CLUBHOUSE

SOME OF THE TROPHIES WON BY PRESIDENT STOREY.

The Central Gun club is planning to hold its first shoot since it was reorganized at the grounds which have been acquired on Minnesota Point as soon as a break in the trap has been repaired. A large number of members are scheduled to participate and if a successful meet is anticipated, it would have been held Saturday except for an accident which put the trap out of commission.

The grounds of the club are admirably adapted to the purpose for which they will be used. They have a frontage of 140 feet and run back to the lake. The clay birds are sprung out of the trap in the direction of the lake, insuring absolute safety. None of the shot used could possibly carry far enough to endanger any one who might be aboard any vessel on the lake.

The foundation of the trap is set in cement and the trap itself is one of the best and most modern which could be secured. It is of the latest design and the preliminary tests which it has been given have shown that it will give the finest kind of satisfaction. Following the opening shoot the members of the club are planning on a series which will take place this season. The shoots will come at regular intervals until winter settles in next fall.

The club house, which is getting its finishing touches, is neat and comfortable. It is designed especially for the club and is located on one side of the shooting grounds, out of range of the men at the trap. It is surrounded on three sides by an unusually wide porch and cement walks are laid about it. The furniture is substantial and all possible conveniences have been provided.

In past years the Central Gun club was one of the best known organizations in the city and as other clubs have died in the past, for reasons which seem inexplicable, this one gradually sank until it had almost passed away. A short time ago some of the original members got together and decided to fan into a flame the spark of life still remaining, consisting almost solely of a name, and they have met with success. A quiet campaign for desirable members has been carried on, and about 150 names are now entered on the rolls. It is expected that this number will be increased as the season continues. Those who are now members are among the first shots in the Northwest and are known as thorough sportsmen. They include men who have been enthusiastic followers of the sun for years past, and it is expected that the club will set some records which it will be hard to excel.

The president of the club, Thomas J. Storey, recently appointed game warden in this section by Governor Eberhart, has a long string of victories to his credit. "Tom," as he is known to scores throughout the city, has a reputation throughout the country as a trap shooter, as is personally acquainted with nearly every well-known marksman in the United States. He has one of the finest collection of cups and medals in several states. Each of them has a tale of its own of his prowess with the gun. "Tom" is quite averse to talking about himself, but could his trophies talk, some interesting stories would be the result. Storey is now wearing a handsome gold watch which he won in 1905 in a competition of the local marksmen. He has won the championship of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and Wisconsin, but has not participated in any of their shoots in recent years. When he pulled down this title he made a perfect score, breaking 100 birds as fast as they could be sent out of the trap.

H. P. Curren, aldermanof the Fourth ward, is secretary and treasurer of the club; Theodore Frerker is vice president; W. J. Webb is field captain and Frank Berry is lieutenant. All of them are as well known throughout the city as the president and have been active sportsmen for years.

MILITIAMEN WIN SHOOT FROM GUN CLUB MARKSMEN

On the militia range yesterday morning Company A of the National Guard defeated a picked company of shooters of the Northwestern Gun club by just two points. The contest was one of the closest contested that has ever been held at the Head of the Lakes, and for general interest and enthusiasm it was perhaps the best shoot ever held in Duluth or the immediate vicinity. The score was 548 to 541, the shooting being from the 200 yard mark and the score being based on a possible 75 for perfect score.

Col. F. E. Resche and Eng of the Northwestern shooters tied for the high score, 64. A. Erickson of the Northwestern shooters was next man up with 62.

A return shoot between the two organizations will be held after the return of the militia men from the annual encampment at Lake City. It has also been announced that the grand opening of the Northwestern Gun club for the present season will be celebrated next Sunday at the grounds on the Pike lake road. It is expected that all the members will be present and bring their families, as various forms of entertainment have been planned.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Some Reflections on Ninth Inning Rallies in General and Saturday's in Particular—Casting a Critical Eye Over the 1911 Sox.

(BY BRUCE.)

SOME ancient baseball oracle once remarked that the game was not over until the last man had been retired. Just how wise this was in his day and generation was shown by the finish of the game at Athletic park, Saturday afternoon.

Most of the spectators, or at least a large part of them, left the game with the firm opinion that the Sox did not have a chance in the world to pull the forlorn contest out of the fire. Then came a batting rally that stood what was left of the crowd on its collective ear.

The Orator pulled Kramer into the game as a pinch hitter. Big Sam Menelce started the glorious ninth by a glittering single that landed out in right. Little Leber gathered his hit of the day by beating out an infield offering and some of the more hopeful in the stands began to sit up and offer prayers.

Holstrom was at bat and the fans hoped much. The best the big boy could do was to hit a fast one to Bancroft and the chesty man was retired at the initial sack, moving up Menelce and Leber.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Altermott came to the sweet scented rescue with a slashing single that hummed by second like the poisonous spring of a blue snake, and when the smoke had cleared away both runners were over the pan. One fan in the bleachers was heard to bravely shout, "We have 'em licked." While the crowd admired his spirit and cheered the remark, there were few who believed that even with two runs in, the Sox could overcome the three-run lead that the Red Sox still held.

Miller sprinkled dampness all over the popping enthusiasm by hitting one to Cy Bennett in center. With two out Bennett in center. With two gone there seemed little hope for the rescue mission work that had been so auspiciously started. At this period Kramer was injected into the game in the role of batter for Hardgrove. The big chap drew four of Cy's offerings that were wide of the plate. Cummings followed by drawing transportation and the sacks were populated.

The situation was thoroughly up to the Orator and he responded in noble fashion. With two on him the outlook was dismal. The result of the game hung on an eyelash and three fans came near succumbing to the excitement. Cy offered an out that cut the corner of the plate and the Orator cracked it on the end of his bat for a scorcher past Lippold at third. Altermott and Kramer came hurrying home and the sky cleared and there was a silver lining to the ominous cloud of defeat that had hovered over the park most of the afternoon. Johnson drew a base on balls and then came big Menelce to bat for the second time of the inning.

A hit meant a tie and most probably a win. What the big fellow did to the ball was a shame. He slammed it on a line over Hoffman's head and Cummings and O'Brien crossed the line with the runs that meant victory for Duluth.

It was a great end for a contest that seemed from the first to the ninth inning to be against the locals. When a team is hitting it looks fine, and when it is going out in one, two, three order, as the Sox did in four out of the nine innings, it looks punk.

There was a change in the ninth, and those dear fans who left the grounds missed the best view of the team. It would seem that in Menelce, Leber, if he continues to show, and Holstrom, O'Brien and Altermott and Kramer the Sox have some hitters. That is what we want, and it is the old hitters that will win the games.

The Merry Swatfest.

MENEICE was the first of the Sox to break into the hit column. In the fourth he dumped one down to Lippold that the German gentleman made a bad throw on. From the press coup it looked very much as if big Samuel had the throw beaten in any event and the play wen for a scratch hit.

In the seventh Leber hit one a mile. Cy Bennett chased back several leagues and camped under the spheroid, taking it on the bald spot. He dropped the ball after the pretty run, and the old boy can still travel, and Cy's accommodation in his line was the direct result of the first run of the game. The suit of the first man to step nestling on second by little time the ball was returned to the infield, and then executed a piece of daring base running that had the Red Sox infield gaping like a bunch of country rubes at the lady in the pink tights.

While Holstrom was going out from the ancient whip of Kid Taylor to McCullach, Leber darted for home. The ball was thrown to third to head off what was supposed to be merely a lead, and by the time the Dutchman at third had received the peg the Leber child was safely across.

In the sixth inning a funny one was pulled by Cy Bennett. To begin with, he was hit by the ball, and, on the square, he stepped right into it. He was sacrificed to second and started with a big lead off that base. He started to third on the throw to get him on his lead off the second sack, and while the ball was being thrown back and forth between the bases Cy stopped one of Leber's pegs down the paths with his bean. It is a question which was damaged the most, Cy's head or the ball. The Bennett boy did not seem to be hurt in the least. A tough nut, he.

In the ninth some of the more observing of the fans wondered why Hoffman played in when Menece came to the plate with two down and three on. A hit meant a run, and the chances were that a long hit would result. Hoffman played in and the drive went over his head. If he had been playing back he would have speared it.

That little incident, small as it is, recalls the famous play that possibly lost for the New York Giants, back in 1908.

Cy Seymour thought he had Tinker pegged and played in close for him. McGraw had told him to play back for the demon hitting shortstop of the Cubs, but the Seymour guy thought he knew more about the situation than the fiery leader of the Giants. Tinker hit over his head for a triple and that started the rally that won that deciding game for the Cubs.

In the fifth inning of the game Saturday, after the German count who had got on through an error upon the part of Leber, Taylor attempted to sacrifice Lippold along. He hit a dinky one to Cummings and when that player started to throw to first, low and behold, there was no one on the bag. The play was a bone of the worst sort, and just why Holstrom should have been off the bag, is a question that no one seems able to answer.

This man McCullach is a pretty performer on the first sack. There is no prettier performer in that position in the league. As a fielder Kading didn't have a thing on Mac up to the time last season that the Red Leg bagman was injured. If the lanky boy keeps up the hitting he has shown in the intercity series between the two Head of the Lakes teams, he is sure tagged for higher company.

There is no fault to find with his playing, though some handed in a complaint about the working of the machinery in the think department. The way he permitted Leber to score from second on an infield hit in the game of Saturday, didn't show busy Evers stuff above the eybrow line. But with any little faults he may save the fans of Superior love him devoutly. Red Mac should have a very bountiful season ahead of him and should be there at the popular pastime of bringing in the sheaves.

What Has the Dutiful Doty Boy?

IN THE game Saturday and the one in Superior this Doty boy, touted as one of the very best of the pitching brigade, has failed to show anything worthy of comment. It is early as yet and the games that have been played in the intercity series do not count for anything very serious. It may be that Doty has not got his curve or control in working order. He made a great record last season and came to the Orator with all kinds of warm praise attached to his person.

Saturday he cut the heart right out of the pan and, in addition, didn't have a thing on the ball. They floated up there to be hit and the Superior willowmen were on the job. In the four innings that the young Doty boy was hovering around on the job, nine bingles were garnered off his delivery and they were of the enthusiastic kind, clean to the point of discomfort to the fans who felt their sympathies siding with the dear boys from this side of the bay.

While in the box Smiling Al Cummings showed all the old stuff. His drop was working nicely and he kept them away from the groove. Cummings is a very clever boy at outguessing the batter and when his curve ball is working has a lot of stuff out there on the hill.

Dahlgren was cutting the corners in nice shape up until the time he got his bumps in the game of Saturday. With any kind of an umpire working, some of the strikes that Dahlgren was given credit for would have gone for balls. And, again, if some of the Sox batsmen had not swung on almost any old thing that was served up, the lanky Red Leg twirler would have had more walks to his credit.

Cloquet Then Way Ahead of Adams Nine of Duluth.

Cloquet, Minn., May 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The game here yesterday between the Adams A. A. of Duluth and Cloquet was stopped in the seventh inning on account of rain. At this stage of the game Cloquet was ahead 7 to 1, the seven scores being made in the first three innings, occasioned by timely hits and good base running. Carlson proved too much for the visitors, allowing them only three scattered hits and striking out six men.

UMPIRES ARE ATTACKED BY MOB

Calling of Game When Home Team Threatens Enrages Fans.

Providence, R. I., May 8.—Police with clubs and players with bats had to surround Umpires Pender and Murray at the close of the Providence-Rochester Eastern league game in Rocky Point yesterday to protect them from a mob of 6,000 enraged fans. It had been agreed that the game should be called at 5 o'clock to allow the teams to catch trains.

The score was 10 to 8 in favor of the visitors in the last half of the ninth inning and Providence had made one run and two men were on bases with only one out when Umpire Pender declared the game over. The crowd then swarmed on to the field, threatening the umpires. Two men were knocked down by the police force before the mob was overawed and dispersed.

MICHIGAN HAS GREAT PITCHER

"Red" Campbell Is the Sensation of College Baseball.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 8.—Is Michigan to develop another Fred Blanding, in Pitcher "Red" Campbell?

Everything points to the fulfillment of this hope. Campbell is the sensation of the intercollegiate baseball world. His pitching has led the Wolverine warriors to successive victories this spring and he is expected to develop into a worthy successor of Blanding, now a member of the Cleveland club.

Campbell is a big fellow. He is a right-hander and while he has admittedly much to learn to make a name for himself in the professional game, he has everything he needs to win college games.

Campbell's rise to baseball fame has been so rapid that it smacks of the Frank Merriwell heroes. Until last year, although in college four years, he confined himself to indoor baseball. Last year as Michigan's pitching weakness was apparent Coach Rickey induced him to go out for the team and he made good from the jump. He knew little or nothing about pitching, but he "had everything" and quickly picked up the fine points. He has to learn much, but he is the most promising material in sight and it is predicted he will have a sensational year in the game.

PASTORS PROTEST AGAINST BOXING BILL.

Chicago, May 8.—Hundreds of clergymen throughout Illinois delivered sermons yesterday urging their congregations to protest against the enactment of the Carroll bill to legalize 6-round boxing contests, which has been passed by the state senate and is now before the house.

The sermons were preached as the result of an appeal throughout the state by the Christian Endeavor union.

ROVERS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM LAKESIDERS.

The Rovers won their third straight victory by defeating the Lakeside team, 14 to 12. The game was close all the way. The Rovers want games with any team in the city not over 18 years. Call R. Bawden, Grand 1591-A. The Rovers lined up as follows: Elder, catcher; Duckett, pitcher; Berg, first base; Kolstad, second base; Bawden, third base; Hurtle, shortstop; Currie, left field; Bjorge, center field; Brown, right field.

The Lakesides—Crasswoller, catcher; McClaren, pitcher; Baker, first base; Brown, second base; Currens, third base; Harris, shortstop; Cliff, left field; Keir, center field; Fitzpatrick, right field.

BIG DULUTHS WIN FROM ALLOUEZ TEAM.

The Big Duluths yesterday defeated the Allouez team by the score of ten to six. The Duluth team bunched hits in the first, third and seventh and took the game by general all-round superior play, both at the bat and in the field. The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Allouez	0 1 1 1 3 0 0	6	6 4

Badgers Win.

Madison, Wis., May 8.—Wisconsin defeated Beloit in the dual track meet at Camp Randall Saturday afternoon by a score of 89 2-3 to 34 1-3.

Will Row Badgers.

St. Paul, May 8.—At a special meeting of the racing committee and the senior oarsmen of the Minnesota Boat club Saturday, it was decided to accept formally the invitation of Wisconsin university, and to row the Minnesota senior eight against the varsity eight at Madison, May 27.

The Duluth boat club received an invitation to row the Wisconsin crew on June 8, but decided not to make the trip. The date was too early for the Duluth crews to get in shape.

WHEAT STILL ADVANCING

Bulls Put Values Slightly Higher—Visible Shows Shrinkage.

Dry Weather Talk Continues—Shorts Cover—Trading Is Small.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 8.—Wheat advanced slightly today, the bulls not meeting with much opposition. Toward the close there was some selling on account of profit-taking from small holders. Trading was light. May gained ⅜c and July advanced ¼c. September was up ⅝c, strength in this option being due to dry weather talk. Cash wheat was ½c over July. Oats lost ⅜. Rye was unchanged and barley sold at 90c. Durum gained ⅜c for July.

Linseed was lifeless and unchanged. The cash premium was wiped out. Crushers are not in the market. La Plata seed for May-June delivery at Antwerp lost ¼ franc per quarter, closing at $2.163 a bu, including 4 per cent for impurities. A cable to the writer said the decline was caused by the arrival of parcels afloat and sudden offerings of Indian seed. Rains in the Russian linseed areas in the Southwest caused an easier feeling. The downturn in linseed oil prices is influencing linseed values. Shorts are willing to cover the nearby options, said a cable, and crushers are taking advantage of the situation to feed out their oil. Crushers today were more urgent in their call for some time.

The condition of May wheat, reported by the government after the close, was 86.1 on May 1. The condition of wheat was under the figure expected and the acreage reported to be harvested was slightly smaller than expected, or 37,367,000 acres. This represents an abandonment of 3,112,000 acres. The trade had expected an abandonment of about 2,500,000 acres. The acreage seeded last year was 34,488,000. The condition of winter wheat was 83.2 April 1, when the crop was estimated at 510,000,000 bu. The condition last May was 82.1 and 90.8 in April of 1910. The May condition two years ago was 82.6.

Aside from a fairly large decrease in the visible supply of wheat there was no news today that could be construed as decisively bullish. The longs continued to put up wheat and their activity in the July caused some short covering in that delivery which advanced values rapidly. The dry weather talk continued but there is no basis yet for any weather arguament. The trade's memory is focused on events of last year and the fears for this year's crop are based principally on what happened a year ago rather than on developments this season.

There were scattered showers in North Dakota last night. The precipitation did not amount to enough to influence values but it helped wheat by freshening the plant that is above ground and laying the dust in many localities. A low area of barometric pressure is hovering over Montana. It apparently is not carrying much moisture but it may develop more precipitation than is expected and on the other hand it may not bring any. The government predicts "threatening and warmer weather" for the Northwest, but is inclined to see much moisture for the three states this week.

There was a fair cash demand at Minneapolis in the face of the fact that the recent advance in wheat prices has practically shut off the flour demand. The leading milling interest has sold flour well into the future. It controls the cash wheat here and at Minneapolis and is taking wheat out of the show windows as rapidly as possible so as to make an impression on the trade. The buying from this interest and the inroads it has made on cash stores has been used as a bull argument.

As prices go higher sales from the country to the leading markets increase. The bulls are strong but the bears are not disposed to lay down their arms meekly. The hedgers especially, appear to have made up their minds to deliver actual wheat to the option holders. It is a question of doubt if the short interest is now sufficiently large to make it profitable for the bulls to keep up prices. If they continue to maintain present values or put the market higher they will be compelled to take delivery of a large amount of wheat before the month is at an end. If the holders of May get together their success is more probable than if each acts independently. If the spring wheat crop does not meet with disaster and the winter wheat crop continues to maintain its present promise it is difficult to see how the "corpse" can be marketed at a profit.

No Investment Buying.

The bulls have not had the assistance of the outside public. After a severe drop in prices it is singular that there has been no investment buying. The solution may be found in the fact that there is no speculation in any commodity markets and the fear that values have not dropped to their lowest levels. A bullish feature of the cash situation is found in the Duluth market. The leading Minneapolis millers have tied up wheat at Minneapolis and they are in control here. There is very little wheat available for the East. Any strong demand from that territory would force a firmer cash market, especially in choice wheat. It is likely that the shortage of first-class wheat will be felt between now and the time when the next crop is available. Just what effect this will have on the future markets is difficult to predict. Heavy deliveries of May wheat have gone into strong hands and the holders prefer to hold their cash wheat and take a loss rather than to lose advantages gained in the option markets. Any sign of disaster to the spring wheat crop would undoubtedly have an extremely bullish effect on the future markets because of this congested situation. For this reason the dry weather talk makes shorts nervous and imbues the bulls with confidence.

The Liverpool market was lower on account of rains in the dry area in Southwestern Russia and larger world's shipments. Weather in Roumania is favorable. The Russian precipitation was reported light and more rain is said to be needed.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 1,938,000 bu; corn, 1,067,000 bu; and oats 1,050,000 bu.

A Chicago dispatch hands out the information that big Canadian grain speculators are short a line of Chicago May wheat, which was sold some time ago when prospects appeared bright for the ratification of a reciprocity pact. The Canadians are said still to be on the short side of wheat, having over-estimated the staying powers of their opponents.

Crop conditions could not be improved upon at this time, so say authorities on the subject.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—The wheat market opened easy, with realizing in May, which showed a decline of ¾d and the other months, ¾d lower. Pressure was the result of the lower American cables on Saturday. Following the opening further selling pressure developed, which carried prices ⅝d to ⅝d lower for the distant months, with some little steadiness in May. This late support in May was due to the fact that the continent is still receiving a large percentage of the weekly world's shipments and a further decrease in local stocks here. The weakness in the distant months was due to more favorable weather and crop advices. Light rains were reported in Russia and favorable weather in Roumania and Canada. There was less inquiry for cargoes and parcels. The general tendency of the market was downward, as a result of disposition to realize. At 1:30 the market was weak and ⅝d to a penny lower than Saturday, with the principal weakness in October. The corn market was under pressure of liberal European offers and heavy Danubian shipments with spot markets heavy. After opening ¼d lower, further declined ¼d, with the undertone easy. CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Weaken on Crop Report Expectation.

Chicago, May 8.—Belief that the government crop report would show a higher condition for wheat than last month made prices weak a part of the time today. The most popular estimate was that the improvement might reach 4 to 5 points over the April figures, which were 83.2 per cent. The condition a year ago, was 82.1. Attention, however, did not remain fixed altogether on the government report, and there was a display of considerable bullish feeling due to dry weather Northwest. The rally also received impetus from the fact that the amount of wheat on ocean passage had become lighter by 1,248,000 bu. Opening prices were a shade to ½c lower, July started at 88@88¼c, a decline of a sixteenth to ¼@⅜c and recovered to 88⅝c.

A big decrease in the visible supply total pushed the market still higher, but the bullishness all wore off. The close was easy with July at 88⅛c, a net loss of ⅛@¼c.

Selling by local speculators carried down corn, but the market responded quickly to a little buying when wheat turned upward. July opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c down at 52⅛@52¼c and then rose to 52½c.

After a little further gain had been scored heavy selling by a speculative packer led to depression. The close was weak at 51¾@51⅞c for July, ⅜c under last night.

Oats were slow and steady. July started a shade off at 32⅜c, and later sold at 32½c.

Provisions advanced all around on account of a light run of hogs. First sales were 5@17½ higher, with July sales here $15.10 for pork, $8.12@8.15 for lard and $8.02½@8.07½ for ribs.

New York, May 8.—The monthly report of the Copper Producers' association for April made public today shows an increase in stocks on hand of approximately 3,548,000 pounds, compared with a gain of 5,370,000 pounds in the preceding month.

Domestic delivery was only 52,407,650 pounds, a falling off of almost 14,000,000 pounds from the preceding months, and foreign delivery, which was supposed to have been very heavy for April, amounted to but 62,129,599 pounds, or a gain of little more than 3,000,000 over March.

Total deliveries for April were 114,537,249 pounds or less by 10,624,667 than in March.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 8.—Cotton opened barely steady at a decline of 6 to 8 points under scattering liquidation and local selling, encouraged by disappointing cables and a generally fair weather map. Offerings were not aggressive during the early buying, however, there seemed to be bull support for old crop positions.

The market became irregular shortly after the call with May and July selling back to within 2 or 3 points of Saturday's closing figures while the new crop rallied only a point or two from the lowest.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Some Selling After Publication of Government Crop Report.

Decided Pressure Against Reading and United States Steel.

New York, May 8.—The opening quotations on the stock exchange today reflected an uncertain tone in the trading, a number of advances being offset by declines elsewhere. Western Maryland gained 2 points. Canadian Pacific lost 1⅜, International Harvester ¾ and Missouri, Kansas & Texas ⅝.

The fact that the supreme court was not in session today robbed the speculation of much of its interest and trading was of a listless character. A few specialties were in demand, but the general market became dull after prices had advanced slightly from the opening level. American Can improved 1, the preferred 1½ and American Snuff preferred 2. Western Maryland surrendered most of its advance on profit taking.

Trading was colorless and dull throughout the morning session on the stock exchange and no speculative movements of importance were attempted. Fluctuations were narrow, except in the case of a few specialties which responded to manipulation, but the movement in these stocks failed to arouse interest in the general list. The bond market was steady.

The market closed heavy. Traders took profits and there was some selling for the short account following the publication of the government monthly crop statistics. Western railroads, outside of Atchison were heavy, and there was some decided pressure also against Reading and United States Steel.

YOUNG WOMEN AS FARMERS.

Kansas City Star: A Missouri young woman has proved that a woman's "sphere" is a very elastic thing by going into the fields and performing a man's work on her own farm. She is Miss Loretta Judson, 24 years old, of Caddo, Webster county.

When the young woman and her sister, Miss Daisy Judson, two years her junior, lost both parents in a runaway accident three years ago the sympathetic neighbors were sorry. What would become of them? Of course, to keep the farm and live in their old home would be out of the question, the neighbors believed. At that time farm land was very cheap in the Ozarks and it was realized that but little could be obtained from a sacrifice sale of the eighty acres of upland.

The girls made it known that they intended to make their own way in the world and that they intended to do it on the old homestead. And they set to work, the younger sister as housekeeper an the oldest sister as a worker in the fields. Miss Judson now has one of the best farms in Webster county.

In the spring time Miss Loretta Judson may be seen in the fields with her team of big black horses early in the morning plowing the land for the coming crop of corn or oats. A little later in the season she hitches her team to the check rower and plants the corn. After the corn comes up she takes her cultivator and keeps it clear of weeds throughout the season. She practices rotation of crops, intending to sow a field in clover every fourth year. Her main crops are corn, wheat, oats and clover.

She owns all her own machinery and can drive a binder as well as any farmer. Miss Judson never sells any of the grain or hay from the farm. She feeds it to her cattle, horses, hogs and sheep. She keeps only registered hogs and sheep and has a good grade of Shorthorn cows. She rears good colts each year and attends to the breaking of these herself. She can ride the wildest colt and soon teaches the young animals that she is master.

In the winter months Miss Judson cuts enough wood to last through the coming spring and summer and attends the repairing of the farm buildings and fences. A good stone henhouse was built by the elder girl for her sister, who cares for the poultry. Large flocks of chickens, turkeys and geese are marketed by the girls each year.

The girls take pleasure in showing visitors over the farm and talking of their plans to build up the place and make further improvements, but they never boast of having done anything that any other girls would not have done. They are able not only to show a well kept farm but they can drive the visitor over a stretch of good roads in front of the place. This is due to the belief of Miss Loretta in the virtues of the road drag. She has a heavy drag and after a rain she uses it on what she considers her part of the public highway.

ORIGINAL ERA OF GOOD FEELING

Magazine of American History: The phrase applied to the administration of James Monroe, "the era of good feeling," first appeared in a Boston newspaper, the Columbian Sentinel of July 10, 1817. From that time until the present hour the two administrations of Monroe—a period of eight years, 1817 to 1825—are referred to in the terms of the newspaper paragraph which so aptly expressed the public sentiment of the day.

DIETZ CALLS FIRST WITNESSES IN HIS DEFENSE AFTER MAKING MOTIONS AND BRIEF ADDRESS

Asks Court to Dismiss the Case and to Let Jury Go.

Motions Are Overruled and Homesteader Takes the Stand.

Chief Defendant Says He Will Not Testify, But Wife and Son May.

Hayward, Wis., May 9.—John Dietz began his defense at the opening of court today in the trial of himself, his wife and son, Leslie, for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp.

The first move was a request that the court discharge all three defendants on the ground that their guilt had not been proved beyond a reasonable doubt. Judge Reid asked if there were any arguments.

Dietz, addressing the court, said it had been admitted by two deputies that they could have fired the fatal shots. He added that one man's body would not have stopped and battered a full metal case bullet. The court denied this motion, and then Dietz moved the discharge of the jury, declaring that they might be persecuted by the lumber trust if they rendered a favorable verdict. The motion was overruled.

The defense began its showing with the testimony of Michael Haverty, a settler who lives near the Dietz farm.

Guided the Deputies.

Haverty's testimony was to the effect that he had often gone to the Dietz cabin, but had never met with violence at the hands of Dietz. On cross examination he said he had once guided a party of deputies to the Dietz home. They did not serve any papers, as Dietz told them to keep the papers in their pockets. Dietz carried a gun at the time.

N. A. Nelson of Bangor was called as a "character" witness by Dietz.

"What were you told in Winter when you said you were going to the Dietz cabin?" asked Dietz.

"They told us not to go—that we would be fired upon at sight," replied the witness.

Mr. Nelson said further that he had hunted with John Dietz several times and had never found it dangerous.

It was only after introducing a total of fifty-seven witnesses that the state rested its case against the Dietz family.

Dietz declined to outline the defense further than to say he saw no reason for going on the stand himself. Mrs. Dietz and Leslie may be witnesses.

SEEK GRAND JURY LEAKS

Ohio Scandal Developments Are Being Told to Outsiders.

Telephone Conversations of Legislators Are to Be Checked Up.

Columbus, Ohio, May 9.—The Franklin county grand jury met again today to consider the legislative graft scandal. Strenuous efforts are being made to run down the source of leaks in the grand jury proceedings. It is admitted at the prosecuting attorney's office that some one on the inside is betraying secrets told in the grand jury room, and it is supposed that the men who are said to be trying to halt further inquiry into legislative corruption are being informed of the developments before the grand jury.

The graft scandal has already had a tangible result, in that Attorney General Hogan has notified the state bureau of accounting that telephone bills of legislators are not to be paid unless the conversation has been on strictly official business. This will mean a saving to the state, it is claimed, of $3,000 a year.

Three Failures Give Companies Experience to Guide Fourth Venture.

Once again the express companies doing business in Duluth will inaugurate a supplementary delivery service, extending outside of the delivery limits. At least the express companies will co-operate with each other and with the Duluth Van & Storage company in an arrangement by which all packages consigned to people living outside of the delivery limits will be turned over to the Duluth Van & Storage company. Delivery will be made by that company, and a small fixed charge will be made to the consignee for the service.

Three times such a delivery service has been inaugurated and three times it has failed. The municipal committee of the Commercial club, which has been working on the project for several years, and various individuals living outside of the delivery limits, have always believed that the service can be made successful and a paying venture

BELGIANS CHEER FRENCH CHIEF

Fallieres and Staff Go on a Visit to Brussels.

Paris, May 9.—President Fallieres, Joan Cruppi, minister of foreign affairs, and a numerous staff started on an official visit to Brussels today.

Given Cordial Welcome.

Brussels, May 9.—The arrival of President Fallieres and his party at the Belgian capital today, for which arrangements had been made in advance, was the occasion of an immense and cordial demonstration of good will toward France.

From the time the French national executive crossed the frontier huge crowds welcomed him at every station, and arriving here he was met by King Albert and practically the whole of the official body. Three days will be given over to the entertainment of the visitors.

DR. WALTERS IS FREED BY JURY

Pittsburg Man Acquitted of Charge of Taking Bribe.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 9.—Dr. E. R. Walters, director of the department of public health, today was found not guilty of accepting a bribe of $1,000 for his vote, when president of select council, in favor of the bank depositories ordinance. The jury placed the costs of the case on the county.

The announcement of the verdict caused one of the most exciting scenes in the history of the local courts. The spectators cheered and clapped their hands and the doctor's friends rushed to him with congratulations.

CANNOT FIRE F. A. WHITTIER

Governor Must Give Him Hearing Upon Formal Charges.

Attorney General Simpson Renders Opinion in Red Wing Case.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9. — (Special to The Herald.) — Before F. A. Whittier, superintendent of the state training school for boys at Red Wing, can be dismissed from service, formal charges must be filed and a hearing be given, according to an opinon rendered the board of control by Attorney General Simpson this morning. This means that the most important of all the testimony taken by the joint legislative investigating committee must be again dragged into the limelight and reviewed before Governor Eberhart's wish that Whittier be removed can be gratified.

Judge Wilson of Red Wing appeared before the attorney general yesterday and argued the points of law. He declared that the report of the legislative investigating committee cannot be used now because any action the board of control might take would be separate and apart from the other proceedings.

Letter Not Sufficient.

He argued further that the governor's letter to the board declaring

MAY FORCE TURKS FROM MINISTRY

Affair at Jerusalem Has Caused Intense Feeling in Empire.

Constantinople, May 9.—Popular feeling against the Turkish government on account of the Jerusalem incident is so strong that the ministry may be forced from office. In the chamber of deputies today the minister of the interior admitted that the Englishmen alleged to have profaned the Mosque of Omar in their search for sacred relics beneath its foundations, operated within the mosque through the connivance of its guardians, whom the explorers corrupted.

LEASE MAY NOT BE MADE BY AUDITOR

Report From St. Paul Says Iverson Will Not Lease Dock Property.

City Not Desirous of Profiting By Mistake of Senate.

Duluthians Believe Modified Lease Embodying Amendments Will Be Secured.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lease by the state to the cit yof Duluth of property it owns on the bay front for docks, will not be made, according to S. G. Iverson, state auditor.

When the bill was in the hands of the senate committee, it was amended so that little was left of the original save the file number. When repored back to the senate, it was not immediately acted upon. When finally brought before that body for action, the clerk through error picked up the original bill, read the title and it was passed. The error was not discovered until after adjournment—too late to rectify.

As the bill now stands, Duluth has a lease on the property for ninety-nine years instead of twenty-five years. However, the bill authorizing the city to issue $100,000 in bonds for building the dock, was lost in the house during the closing hours of the session, and there is no means for building the dock as the matter now stands.

MRS. NAPOLETANA MUST PAY PENALTY

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Angelina Napoletana was sentenced to death by Justice Britten at 1 o'clock this afternoon for the murder of her husband, Napoletana, with an ax on April 16.

The woman pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree this morning but the scant evidence in her case was turned over to a jury. After deliberating but ninety minutes the jurymen found her guilty.

She was then sentenced to be hanged on Aug. 9, the execution being deferred to permit child birth. The woman took the sentence without emotion and apparent unconcern.

RACINE MAN KILLS TWO

Milwaukee, Wis., May 9.—Two young women, Emma Nelson and Mabel Gilmore, were shot and instantly killed and Joseph Unger was seriously wounded in a fight at the resort of Hattie Dean, 570 River street, early today, by Charles Yance, a stationary engineer of Racine, who then turned his revolver upon himself, dying instantly.

All of the other occupants of the building were in rooms in the second story when the shooting took place, and the story of the fatal battle was learned with the greatest difficulty from Unger as he gasped for breath, at Emergency hospital with a bullet through his right lung.

TIJUANA IN REBEL HANDS

Southern California Town Taken in Early Morning Attack.

Brief, Bloody Battle Fought —Some Americans Killed.

San Diego, Cal., May 9.—Tijuana, Lower California, was captured by the insurrectos at 5 o'clock this morning, after a short, savage fight.

Many are dead and wounded on both sides; it is impossible to learn definitely how many have been killed, for the United States troops at the line refuse to allow any one to cross the boundary.

The attack was a complete surprise to the federal forces. Confident that the flanking party of forty men sent out of Tijuana last night had forced the rebels to retire, the defenders were resting in supposed security when the assault came at daybreak. All but one or two of the flanking party are thought to have been killed or wounded.

Annihilated Federal Party.

The party left Tijuana last night about 9 o'clock. A mile or so east of town, in the entrance to a canyon, it encountered rebel skirmishers. The federal force pressed on and was drawn into a trap and practically exterminated.

In this engagement, Sam Wood, elected by the rebels to succeed Jack Mosby in command, and his negro aide were killed. How many more rebels were killed in the brief, bloody struggle is not known.

A scouting party sent out later by the federals at Tijuana, finding no trace of the flanking party, returned late last night with the report that the rebels had retreated. The town went to sleep. No guards were posted.

Awakened by Volley.

An irregular volley at close range awakened the defenders of the town this morning too late for them to gain the trenches and resist the rush of the rebels. Part of the federals entered the Catholic church, a wooden building. Others entered the adobe customs

ABBATEMAGGIO IS NOT IN COURT

Doctors Tell of Finding Forty-Seven Wounds on Cuoccolo's Body.

Viterbo, Italy, May 9.—Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer, who has experienced a trying ordeal in confronting for several days those whom he accused as principals in the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife, is ill and was unable to appear when the trial of the Camorrists was resumed today. In his absence the morning session was taken up with a reading of the opinions of medical experts, who examined the bodies of the murdered ones.

The experts found forty-seven wounds on the body of Cuoccolo and thirteen on that of his wife. Death was due to dagger thrusts delivered in such a manner as to leave triangular scars. Abbatemaggio has testified that the greater number of the knife blows were inflicted by Corrado Sortino.

Impresses the Spectators.

The physicians expressed the opinion that if this were true, Sortino's clothing need not necessarily have been covered with blood, and that he might have gone from the scenes of the assassinations by train to Naples without attracting particular attention. This testimony appeared to make a great impression upon those in the courtroom.

FIGHT RAGING IN STREETS

Insurrectos Force Madero to Sanction Attack on the City.

Men Begin Battle While Armistice Is Being Negotiated.

El Paso, Tex., May 9.—Dr. Vasques Gomez, who is in charge at the Madero headquarters while Madero is in the field, announced at 11:20 o'clock that the insurrectos probably would take Juarez within three hours. He has received news from the front that the insurrectos occupy most of the points of vantage in the town.

Fighting in the streets of Juarez continues. A rebel in Juarez has telephoned Madero's headquarters that the revolutionists are in possession of many streets. Federals as well as rebels have taken refuge in the residences of Juarez and are firing from windows and doors at persons who are visible in the streets.

Skulking behind dozens of low adobe houses are scores of insurrectos, stealing into the main section of the city. Gen. Navarro has stationed his machine guns at the crossings of the principal streets and hopes in time to keep the rebels at bay, while his cavalrymen and infantrymen pursue the attack from the rear.

Numerous skirmishes at short distance range are progressing along the outskirts of the town. At 11 o'clock 500 rebels were seen dashing up Commerce street, the main thoroughfare of the town.

The federals have retired somewhat to the hilly portions of Juarez, south of the river front.

El Paso, Tex., May 9.—A general engagement between the revolutionary forces of Gen. Madero and the federals under command of Gen. Navarro at Juarez is raging today under a burning sun and with a heavy fusilade of musketry and cannon. The entire rebel army broke camp during the night and up to noon today the insurrectos were rapidly swarming into town.

Thousands of residents of El Paso for hours have been watching from roof tops and points of vantage, but American troops ordered everybody on the American side of the line to stay three blocks away from the river front.

The prospects of rebel success depend on the ability of the federals to use their twelve machine guns within the town. The insurrectos, it was reported, had silenced some of them, but this report has verification only in the fact that the federals have not shelled the insurrectos as extensively in the last few hours as they did earlier in the morning.

Madero Gave Consent.

Gen. Madero admitted today that he had given his consent to a general attack on Juarez, but explained that various circumstances had precipitated it. He declared reports which had reached him were that the federals had

OLD PROJECT IS REVIVED

Major Shunk Instructed to Report on Lake to Mississippi Waterway.

Three Adverse Reports Made —Congressman Miller Opposes Plan.

The Lake Superior to Mississippi river waterway project is up for the fourth time. Application has been made at Washington for the consideration of the project and Maj. Shunk has been instructed to make an investigation and report to the authorities at Washington.

Three reports have already been made by resident engineers at Duluth. Maj. Sears, Maj. McKinstry and Col. Fitch all reported that the project was feasible, but so expensive as to be unwarranted. Three routes have been suggested, following the Brule, Nemadji and Kettle rivers, respectively, and Maj. Shunk has been instructed to report on the Brule project.

The plan is to follow the Brule river with a series of canals and locks so as to establish a navigable waterway between the head of Lake Superior and the Mississippi river. The carrying out of the project would cost the government an immense sum and would be of doubtful benefit. It is believed that the commercial benefits of the project would not be sufficient to warrant the destruction of the natural beauty of the Brule river, the shores of which are lined with beautiful summer cottages.

Congressman Clarence B. Miller is actively opposing the project at Washington and there is little enthusiasm for it at the Head of the Lakes.

NORTH DAKOTA DOCTORS GATHER AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo is entertaining the North Dakota State Medical society today and Wednesday. MARINE NEWS

TUG "TRUST" IS REAL GOOD

Manager Says It Stands Guard Over Rights of Independents.

Edward Hines May Not Be Called at Hearing in Chicago.

Chicago, May 9.——Testimony favorable to the Great Lakes Towing company was brought out today before Examiner B. C. Miller of the United States district court at Cleveland, who is taking testimony in the government's suit against the company, charging it with being a trust.

Capt. Robert Young, Chicago manager of the company, asserted that not only did the big concern stand guardian over smaller companies' rights, but so conducted its own business that it would not even appear to be attempting to injure the business of the independents.

May Not Call Hines.

Assistant United States District Attorney Joseph Fogg of Cleveland, however, said today that the testimony of Capt. Hamilton and others yesterday was so satisfactory to him that he might not insist on the appearance before the examiner of Edwrd Hines, the lumberman whose name was brought prominently into the investigation by the Illinois senate of the election of Senator Lorimer.

Relations With Lumbermen.

The government, which is conducting the investigation under the Sherman anti-trust act, inquired into a contract made in 1903 between the lumber carriers' association and the new towing organization. The contract, the government is seeking to show, was instrumental in wiping out the independent tug men by destroying 90 per cent of their business. Capt. Hamilton asserted his company had been benefited by the contract. Capt. Louis Holman told of his fight against the towing organization for business. He declared the Dunham Towing company had refused to rent him tugs, the local officers saying they were acting on orders from Cleveland.

"Once my tug was in need of repairs," he declared, "and I asked the tug company for a ship carpenter. The foreman refused me this.

"'I suppose if my tug was in danger and I needed a drydock,' I said to him, 'I suppose I could not use yours?' He told me no, and when I asked him if I could have a beam, he said "I couldn't sell you a pound of penny nails."'

Donald McKinnon, a lumber vessel owner, testified that when he wanted the service of a tug he was forced to pay the cost of two tugs, notwithstanding the fact that but one was furnished him. The hearing was resumed today.

STEAMER RUNS AGROUND.

R. W. Nicholas Goes on Crab Island Shoal in Heavy Fog.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer R. W. Nicholas, upbound with hard coal, grounded on the Crab island shoal near Detour, in the heavy fog last night. The lighter Reliance, in tow of the tug Schenck, has gone to the steamer's assistance.

COAL MOVEMENT WILL REACH MAXIMUM IN JULY.

The coal movement up the lakes will swing into its full stride in the latter part of June or fore part of July, according to W. W. Broughton of St. Paul, vice president of the Pittsburg Coal company, who is at the Spalding.

Mr. Broughton does not think this year's movement will be larger than last year's. Last season 13,000,000 tons of coal were delivered at Lake Superior ports, an increase of 2,500,000 tons the most active year previously.

MARQUETTE DOCK MENACED BY FIRE.

Marquette, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire of unknown origin broke out at the east end of the old Grace furnace dock early Saturday morning and burned until nearly noon before it was finally extinguished. The timbers were as dry as tinder, and with a south wind blowing it gained headway rapidly until water could be turned on it. About 1,000 feet of hose was required to reach the flames from the nearest hydrant.

FEW SAILS ON THE LAKES

Old Windjammers Are Giving Way to Modern Steel Steamers.

Estabrook Lumber Co. of Chicago Purchasing Schooners on Lake Michigan.

According to a dispatch from Milwaukee, sixteen small sailing vessels have been absorbed by a Chicago syndicate. It is expected that before long the combine will control what is left of the once numerous sailing craft on Lake Michigan. The sale of five schooners, the Lily E. Minerva, Hackley, Jura and Belle Brown to the Estabrook-Skeele Lumber company of Chicago was recorded yesterday.

The old sailing schooners are fast disappearing on the Great Lakes. There are a few here and there, and many of the old schooners have been converted into barges and are used as tows. The real old-time schooners are nearly all owned by the different lumber companies. The modern steam barge and big steel freighter, however, have come with the times, and the once fleet windjammers are rapidly being run into oblivion.

The Estabrook Lumber company, it is stated, intends to buy up every schooner on Lake Michigan.

RICHARDSON WILL BE RAISED

Capt. Reid Says He Will Float Steamer or "Go Broke."

"I'll raise the Richardson by June 1, if I have to go broke doing it," said Capt. James Reid yesterday, shortly before leaving Buffalo for Detroit. A trip of inspection to the scene of the Richardson's foundering was made, and Capt. Reid sized up the chances of releasing the sunken steamer from the tenacious grip of the lake shoal. There is no more ice about the vessel and she now appears about the same as she did last summer, the bow partly out of water and the rest of the hull submerged.

Instead of building the cofferdam about the boat it is the intention of Reid and Baker to have the dam constructed this time within the shelter of the breakwall, and then towed out to the scene of action. Unless the unforeseen sets in (and it generally does in the case of the Richardson), Capt. Reid is confident that he can have the wrecked vessel in the harbor within a week after starting operations. He stated that he would return to Buffalo within a week or so and would then be ready to state when the wreck would be tackled again.

EMPLOYES REINSTATED.

Baltimore & Ohio Will Not Divert Coal Traffic From Sandusky.

According to information given out at Saundusky, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has reconsidered its decision to divert lake coal traffic from Sandusky to Toledo, and will resume the use of its coal handling equipment at the former port. The change in plans is said to be due to the congestion of the track and terminals on the Toledo division of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad.

As the result of this change in plans the Baltimore & Ohio Friday restored to their former positions all its employes at Sandusky who were laid off when it was thought the docks there would be abandoned. The company handles about 600,000 tons of coal at the Sandusky docks every season.

VERY QUIET IN MARINE CIRCLES.

It continues unusually quiet in marine circles.

There is not a line that is showing any activity at the present time. One of the most material proofs of the scarcity of cargoes for down lake passage, is the very fact that boats, or at least some boats, are willing to take on grain cargoes at 1 cent, which means no profit to the carriers.

This is done rather than to go back empty. Grain has been chartered at the Canadian Head of the Lakes for 1¼ cents, and boats bringing cargoes here have secured some return cargoes there. Even the Canadian rate will not show a profit for the carriers.

Coal is being carried at the rate of last year and the talked of increase in the rates has not materialized, nor is it likely to, according to local opinion. Coal is coming quite steadily, and with a promise of an increase in the near future, but boats bringing coal to the Head of the Lakes are having difficulty in securing return cargoes.

No improvement has been shown in the package freight business, the east bound cargoes being scarce.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Triumph of Betty."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

This week will be the last opportunity to see Miss Maude Leone. At the conclusion of the present week's bill, "The Triumph of Betty," which has been delighting large audiences the present week, Miss Leone will leave for Vancouver, B. C., where she will enter a stock company that is being organized at the present time.

There is general regret among the women of Duluth at the departure of Miss Leone, who ever since her first season here in stock work has held a high place in the esteem and regard of the feminine theater goers.

The announcement of the departure of Miss Leone has caused a desire to see her the present week, and the indications point to a large attendance of women at the matinee tomorrow afternoon, for which there has been a heavy seat sale.

"Do vaudeville performers have to make long jumps?"

"Believe me they do," said William Ferry, the Frogman, who is at the Orpheum this week.

well tinged with gray. He is no longer a young man, but he can hardly be said to show signs of stiffness yet.

"Speaking of long jumps," said Mr. Ferry, "and this is not meant for a joke about my frog act, I once made a jump from the Great Northern roof garden in Chicago, to the Tivoli theater in Sydney. That was 15,000 miles, and probably about as long a trip as it is possible to make without returning towards one's starting point. I have also jumped from St. Louis to Havana via Tampa, and from Havana to the Orpheum in San Francisco. That was 7,000 miles. That is a pretty fair jump. Three weeks from now I will go from the Winnipeg Orpheum where I close my Orpheum tour, to the Palace D'Ete in Brussels, Belgium, which is another nice little jaunt.

"The most unique experience I have had in the years I have been knocking around the world, was about two years ago. On returning from Australia I stopped at the South Sea islands, and gave a performance in the chief's house, at his special request. It was in Suva, the capital city of Fiji, and the king's name then was Rokatoeyratakahdabalib. That is really his name, or was if he isn't dead now, for I wrote it down and not only learned to pronounce it, but to spell it from memory. He was allowed to pose as king of the islands by the English government. He witnessed my act and said: 'Sam bula van malack ah van elax.' The interpreter translated it for me, and it proved to be: 'God takes your bones out at night and puts them back in the mornings.'"

He made such a hit that the attention of Col. J. H. Haverley was called to him and he was offered a position with Haverley's

Excellent bills of photoplay in both the dramatic and comic films are delighting crowds of Duluth people each afternoon and evening this week at the Odeum and Lyric theaters.

At each theater there are interesting plays which are followed by illustrated songs. There have been many good bills of moving pictures at these two theaters and the selections for this week are up to the usual high standard.

"In the morning everything goes wrong. Wife leaves note for her husband, reading: 'I am going away for a little rest. If I don't do anything to suit, you won't miss me. Jane.'

"Wife retires to the hay loft and watches developments.

"At noon wife's plan isn't working.

"In the evening wife can't stand it without the children. Wife makes a clandestine visit to the house for food and is suspected of being a burglar.

Hillsboro, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vilian Boginoff, who last October shot his fellow countryman, Pando Nicoloff, is now wanted by Trail county for murder, as his victim died at Mayville hospital, where he had been since the shooting. Boginoff escaped from Cummings, where the crime was committed, by making his way to the Red river and thence into Northern Minnesota. Nicoloff had been paralyzed ever since shooting, but at one time had a fair chance for recovery.

SMALLPOX VICTIM SENT OUT OF STATE.

The state board of health is investigating the case of Mose Jondreau, who, it is claimed, was shipped out of this state on April 25 from Rochester, while he was suffering from a severe case of smallpox. It is against the law to send a person out of the state while suffering from a contagious disease.

Dr. E. L. Twohy has been called on to investigate the case as the man is said to have a son who lives in Duluth. It is not thought that the son had anything to do with the case, but for general information purposes the authorities are trying to locate him. His names does not appear in the directory.

All that is known of the case is that the man was shipped to some point in Michigan.

SELF-POISONING

Medical Experts Say Artificial Foods Are Responsible for Stomach Diseases, Cancers and Premature Old Age.

In this age of civilization we are no more children of nature. Housed up from the very date of our birth and carefully kept away from God's free air and nature prepares the human body only too well for diseases. How much of the food stuff we are consuming for the maintenance of our life is prepared artificially? The meat we eat often has been stored for months, yes years before we eat it. Sarcoplasm and albumen, the very stuff we need, is changed, and instead of getting nourishment, we fill our stomach and that is all. The very bread we eat is robbed of constituents which are essential for health and digestion. You are taught to close your window carefully and avoid the draft, as a child you are closed up by day in school, and what a burden this age of civilization casts upon us faces of children can tell you best. They are the very victims of consumption and anaemia, nervous debility, neurasthenia, rickets, imperfect development, and how many men and women are suffering of stomach and other diseases. The stomach has millions of minute glands which secrete pepsin and hydrochloric acid and by unnatural food and insufficient oxygen or air, imperfect digestion is the consequence and your food lies for hours in the stomach, causing unpleasant feelings, gas, loss of appetite and heartburn. You, however, pay no attention to that, and the condition grows worse. Hydrochloric acid is not secreted any longer. This, however, is not only digestive, but antiseptic in action, killing germs, any kind, as typhoid, consumption, diarrhoea and others are having the finest field in you, and you are now a prospective victim of many diseases. The food as it lies in the stomach for hours and goes through undigested, it also lies in the small intestines, often for days, ferments in them, and instead of giving food to your body it forms poison by decomposition. Few people are killed in a week or more time, most live for years in sickly condition and slowly but surely causing auto-intoxication, or self-poisoning, having as its symptoms constipation, indigestion, piles and as the liver is poisoned the bile will stay in your blood which shows as yellow eyes and skin; your stool is clay colored, and often you will find pieces of the inner lining of your intestines. The pancreas is also suffering by this poisoning process and this is the cause of the much disgusted, feared and horrible CANCER. If disease don't finish your life in middle age, this slow poisoning process will, and a sure sign is you look older than you are, your face full of pimples and wrinkles, and your very looks to the trained eye betray your condition. Gradually your heart is suffering, the kidneys cannot perform their work and Bright's disease sets in. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Asthma, Sciatica, Lumbago. These diseases and all chronic maladies afford long and special studies, and if you are afflicted with any of these, we don't know of any more skilled and careful Specialists than the Experts of the Progressive Medical Association. They extend their cordial invitation to you. It will not cost you anything to consult them. Call or write any time from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 8 DULUTH, MAY 9, 1911

A PROPOSAL TO THE CITY

The present contract between The City and The Duluth-Edison Electric Company for lighting the City streets and buildings will expire on September 1, 1911. Under that contract for the last five years this City has had the best of lighting service at a very low price, a price much lower than is paid today by practically all other American cities.

Now this Company is willing and ready to enter into a new contract for this service which shall give Duluth the advantages of a still lower price, and of the vey newest and best there is in lamp equipment and service. It is our desire to make Duluth in the lighting of her streets (as she already is in the lighting of her homes, stores, shops, offices), the equal of the best lighted city in the world.

To this end we submitted to the Common Council on Monday, May 8, a proposal as a basis for a new street-lighting contract. In brief, we offer:

Each arc light of the kind now in use at $45.00 a year.

Each three "bunches" of two 16 candle-power lamps (equivalent to one arc lamp) at $45.00 a year.

FREE current to light the City Hall, Police Headquarters and Jail, all as at present existing.

FREE current to light a proposed Electric Sign on the Aerial Bridge, the City to furnish the sign.

Current for lighting all Fire Halls, City Hospital, Public Library, and any other buildings maintained by the City, and for the Canal Piers, at 5 cents per kilowatt-hour.

Current for operating the Aerial Bridge at $50.00 a month.

If desired by the City, this Company will install (in circuits of fifty) new magnetite arc lamps, without any additional charge, at the rate of 100 such lamps the first year and 50 lamps each succeeding year, during the life of the contract.

This means the best City Lighting at a lower price than is paid by any city in the land, so far as we can ascertain—and we shall show you the figures.

Furthermore, if the City makes this contract with us, we shall make a substantial reduction in the cost of residence and commercial lighting to all customers, by furnishing FREE renewals of all carbon and gem filament lamps, up to and including 32 c.-p. lamps. Tungsten and other special lamps will be supplied all customers at cost price.

There's more to tell you about this in our next "Lighting Talk." Watch for it in next Thursday's Herald.

ATTORNEYS FALL IN LINE

State Bar Association Members Will Attend Big Water Carnival.

Annual Convention Dates Arranged With This Object in View.

The first society to fall in line and fix the date of the meetings to correspond with the time set for the midsummer water carnival in this city, is the Minnesota State Bar association.

The annual meeting of the state association will be held in Duluth July 18, 19 and 20. July 20 is the first day of the carnival and it was planned in this way by the local committee in charge of the arrangements, so that with the business over, the lawyers could visit the carnival on that day and, if they liked, remain for the succeeding days of the carnival.

Notices of the meeting were received by Duluth attorneys today from Charles W. Farnham of St. Paul, for many years secretary of the association.

On the card sent out there is a notation telling of the water carnival which begins in Duluth on the last day of the convention. The announcement states that programs will be sent out about two weeks before the meetings.

The annual meetings of the State Bar association will bring between 200 and 300 strangers to the city on the dates mentioned.

T. K. Lewis of the firm of Abbott, Merrill & Lewis and Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene are the members of the local committee who will have in charge the program and the entertainment of the visitors.

On the first day, the annual election of officers, the reading of papers, discussion and business meetings will be held. On the second day the banquet will be held as well as other forms of entertainment, which will probably include a drive around the city. The third day will be given over to the water carnival. The lawyers will probably be taken out on the bay on a chartered boat from where they will view the spectacle.

The convention was planned at this time so as to have a novel form of entertainment for the visitors.

Warning to Railroad Men.

E. S. Bacon, 11 East street, Bath, Me., sends out this warning to railroaders: "A conductor on the railroad, my work caused a chronic inflammation of the kidneys, and I was miserable and all played out. The weakness and dizzy spells are a thing of the past and I highly recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by all druggists.

MUST BUILD CLUBHOUSE

Only Provision Is That the Land Be Improved.

At a meeting which will soon be held by the Duluth Automobile club the gift of a tract of land on Chub lake to the club from the estate of J. M. Payne will be discussed.

Some time ago the estate made it known to the secretary of the Duluth club that provision had been made for a gift of a tract of land on this beautiful lake providing the club would erect a clubhouse there. The house may be small and inexpensive. To get the land, however, the club must erect some kind of structure.

It sounds good to the auto club members. The lake is a beautiful stretch of water near Carlton, and the roads to it are among the best in this part of the state. They lead through a prosperous farming district and are well kept. The land on Chub lake is said to be beautiully wooded.

The Duluth club has until June 1 to accept or reject the proposition. The meeting at which the matter will be called to the attention of the club members will be held within a short time.

MEN GET WORK MAKING GARDENS.

The state free employment bureau is furnishing many men to Duluthians who are making gardens but who do not have much time to work in them themselves.

During the last week Martin Cole, the agent, has given more than 100 men work as gardeners. He says that there are still many men without work and that men can be furnished for short or long jobs at any time.

GIVEN BULLETS INSTEAD OF COIN

Would-Be Soo Junction, Mich., Blackhanders Are Fired Upon.

Newberry, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. Johnson, proprietor of a hotel at Soo Junction, received a threatening letter some days ago, warning him that unless $1,000 was deposited at a designated spot prior to a specified hour at night, his hostelry would be blown up with dynamite. Johnson and a party of friends, armed with rifles, secreted themselves at the place mentioned and awaited the letter writers.

At the stated hour two men approached. They acted suspiciously and the party in ambush opened fire. The fellows took to their heels and although bullets were flying all about them they managed to gain the shelter of a nearby clump of woods, in which they disappeared. Mr. Johnson had been inclined to treat the matter as a joke, but the later developments caused him to believe that the "blackbanders" actually meant business. Proper precautions for the safety of the hotel have been taken.

JOINT MEETING OF MASONIC LODGES

Ionic and Palestine Will Initiate Candidates Saturday.

The members of Palestine and Ionic lodges, A. F. X A. M., are planning a big time for Saturday evening of this week, when a joint working of the third degree will be held, which will be attended by about fifty Masons from Cloquet, who will come to the city in a special train.

After the degree work a banquet will be served in the banquet hall of the Masonic temple. There will be toasts and a general good time.

In addition to the special train of Masons from Cloquet there will be visiting Masons from Carlton, Hibbing, Virginia and other range towns.

Four candidates will travel the burning sands. The visitors from Cloquet will probably return to that city in their special, leaving here late at night.

PROPERTY IS SOLD FOR TAXES

The property is that on which the 1909 taxes have not as yet been paid. The purchaser paid the amount of taxes due together with the interest. He cannot get title on the lands for three years, however, for the owner has that much time to redeem it.

There were in all about 7,000 descriptions offered for sale yesterday. Nearly 100 people attended the sale and of the 7,000 descriptions offered 1,200 were sold.

Some of the lands offered were acres that are becoming valuable for farming purposes. There were also many city lots for sale.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence.

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject a prominent local druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfils every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. Regular size bottles sold at all druggists—50c and $1.00.

WOMAN IS CREMATED

Mrs. Caroline Dryer Meets Horrible Accident While Burning Grass.

Her clothes catching fire yesterday afternoon from grass which she was burning on the lawn of her son-in-law, Percy Christopher, 4131 East Superior street, Mrs. Caroline Dryer was so horribly burned that she died at 9 o'clock last evening at St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Dryer was 57 years of age, and a well known resident of Duluth, having lived here the last thirty-one years. She has been a member of the Degree of Honor for ten years, and the last four years has been chief of honor of Zenith Lodge No. 99.

There was but one eye witnesss of the terrible accident—a man who happened to be passing at the time. Seeing the garments of the aged lady in flames he ran towards her to aid in putting them out. Screaming from agony and fright, Mrs. Dryer ran from him, fanning the flames. In a minute she was a flaming human torch.

Overtaking her as she fell unconscious to the ground, the man grabbed his coat and frantically tried to extinguish the flames. But before he could put out the flames her clothes were burned from her body, and when Dr. L. E. Clark and others arrived a few minutes later she was wrapped in a blanket, in which she was carried indoors. In the meantime her two grandchildren, who were home alone with her, had telephoned their father, proprietor of the Boston lunch. He obtained an automobile, took Dr. J. A. McCuen with him, and hurried to his home at top speed. The man who first went to Mrs. Dryer's assistance left without giving his name.

A hasty examination showed that the unfortunate woman was beyond medical aid. Everything possible was done to alleviate her suffering, and she was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where she died a few hours later. Before passing away, Mrs. Dryer regained consciousness and recognized those about her. She was in great agony and asked that an anesthetic be given her. She knew that she did not have long to live.

Besides Mrs. Christopher she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Richard Cosle of Hibbing, and four sons, Fred W., Albert and Lawrence Dryer of this city and John Dryer of Minneapolis. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Fred Keopke of 225 East Fifth street. She was a member of the English Lutheran church, Lake avenue and Third street. She was born in Germany and came to this country when a young girl. Her mother still lives at Ashland, Pa.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 o'clock from the English Lutheran church. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery, where the body will be laid beside those of her husband and daughter.

GOMEZ PREDICTS REBELS WILL CAPTURE JUAREZ

opened fire and that the men who had been reported as revolting against his leadership had pursued them of their own accord and could not relinquish their positions. He listened to the counsel of his chiefs, who advised a general attack, and though he made an effort to arrange an armistice last night, it failed because of the progress the attack already had made.

Juarez Is Surrounded.

All the leaders have been acting under Gen. Madero's orders. They have surrounded Juarez with their men and prospects are that the battle will continue throughout the day without any decisive turn.

Gen. Madero was at his headquarters receiving the reports from the front and with him the various political chiefs confident of an insurrecto victory.

Efforts of go-betweens to stop the fighting have failed because of the difficulty of handling the insurrectos who already had entered Juarez.

Armistice Offer Too Late.

Gen. Navarro would have consented to an armistice if the insurrectos had evacuated the town, and he told this to Gen. Madero over the telephone early today, but the rebel chief by that time had given orders for a general attack, principally to reinforce the 200 men who had forced their way into Juarez despite the federal trenches, barricades and outposts.

Bullets have been pouring into El Paso since the attack began at 4:30 a. m., but the American troops have been keeping sightseers three blocks away from the river front.

Fifteen Americans Shot.

Privates Emilio Garcia and Cassidy of the American legion with the insurrectos, came to El Paso this morning to get food. They said that fifteen Americans already had been killed and wonded and the rebel losses would probably reach 150 killed and wounded, and that the federal loss was more than double that amount.

"In one trench I counted forty-seven dead federals, and in another thirty-eight. They were stripped of most of their clothing," said Cassidy.

Cassidy said that when the attack started yesterday there were probably 150 insurrectos, and that no reinforcements came until last evening. He added that Villareal had arrived from Ojinaja with reinforcements and two pieces of artillery. One, he said, was the famous "McGinty," stolen from El Paso.

Garibaldi in Command.

Col. Garibaldi is in command of the so-called "American legion" of insurrectos, and they are fighting their way to the bull ring. The rebels have poured a stream of shrapnell and solid shell into the city. One of the guns is manned by American and French artillerymen.

An American insurrecto named Anderson attempted to cross the Santa Fe bridge to El Paso, but was driven back by the United States troops.

At 7:30 this morning Col. Steever, in charge of the United States troops, issued orders not to permit any provisions to be taken across to the insurrectos. A wagon load of food was at the bridge for the rebels. It was not permitted to cross.

The insurrecto officers said they had the port of entry and that they had a right to convey food supplies to their men.

Whole Army Involved.

Evidence accumulated throughout the morning that the attack on Juarez was being made by the entire insurrecto army, with the sanction of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., provisional president.

Madero did not countenance the attack yesterday. It was started by federal and insurrecto outposts. Some of Madero's leaders say today that drunken Juarez volunteers fired on insurrecto sentries first.

Gen. Navarro declared the insurrectos opened fire while he and Madero were negotiating an armistice. After the fighting opened, rebel recruits continued to join the fighters despite Madero's protest. Madero made efforts to stop the fighting, and the insurrectos, his own men, fired on a messenger he sent with a white flag.

Madero Forced to Change Mind.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Madero ordered the attack. At 4:20 he recalled his order. At 6 o'clock he harangued his troops to quit. At 9 o'clock last night he declared he was attempting to stop the fighting. At midnight he announced that he had given permission for the attack. At 3 this morning he demanded the surrender of Juarez. At 4:30 o'clock this morning the assault began, with his sanction.

There was no armistice last night. Madero explains the attack on Juarez merely by declaring that "it is the only thing to do."

His leaders throughout yesterday begged him to allow them to go to the rescue of their comrades, fighting in Juarez. In his proclamation of Sunday, Madero admitted, it was with difficulty that he was able to restrain his leaders from attacking Juarez.

No Power to Stop It.

It is generally considered here that he did not have the power to stop the fight and was forced to give it his approval. He has not technically violated any armistice, for none had been concluded. He was talking on the telephone with Gen. Navarro in Juarez, attempting to arrange an armistice, when the fighting opened yesterday, but no armistice was arranged because the battle already had begun.

Col. Villareal, the insurrecto chief, advanced on Juarez this morning, from the east, with 600 men, fresh from the siege of Ojinaja, while Gen. Rabago is reported coming to the relief of Juarez with 1,000 federals. A strong command has been assigned to oppose Rabago's troops and Madero claims to have no fear from that source.

Mrs. Josefa Garcia and her young son were struck by bullets in the first two hours of fighting today, the former receiving a wound in her neck.

Federals Used Artillery.

The range of the federal artillery was remarkably accurate, their shells falling close to the incoming insurrectos and forcing them to scatter in their advance. It was obvious at the outset that the heavy artillery of the federals gave them a tremendous advantage.

Small bands of rebels could be seen marching from the Madero camp toward Juarez along the river front, and it seemed probable that they would send a detachment to attack Juarez on its opposite side. The federal machine guns kept up a sweeping fire within every radius of the town.

The cannonading continued slowly. The rebels used their machine guns sparingly while the federals poured their shells into the insurrecto outposts.

Capt. Linderfelt Killed.

Capt. Linderfelt, the American who commanded the small body of men who first attacked Juarez, has been killed, together with five others of his command. Capt. Sachino of the federal forces is reported to be seriously wounded.

In the fighting yesterday thirty were killed and sixty wounded on both sides. Five people on the American side of the line were killed and at least twelve wounded. Thousands of people in El Paso dotted roof-tops or lined the river banks in direct line of the fire. Col. Steever protested to both armies against the fire into American territory, and it lessened considerably thereafter. Nearly 1,000 American troops were massed on the border keeping crowds back and ready to respond to any orders from Washington.

The fight lasted until dark and furnished many a thrilling spectacle as well as continuous terror for many Americans living along the river bank.

Enforce Neutrality Laws.

Washington, May 9.—"Use your best efforts to enforce the neutrality laws and urge upon the people of El Paso the necessity of keeping as much as possible out of the zone of fire."

All available troops have been ordered into El Paso by Col. Steever. The American soldiers, it is said at the war department, are straining every nerve to preserve the neutral attitude of the United States and to keep United States citizens out of the range of fire. This, it is reiterated, is the mission of the troops on the border.

The commanding officers on the border have repeatedly received implicit instructions not to cross the international boundary line under any circumstances.

Unless congress takes a hand in the situation, the United States forces on the Mexican border are powerless to protect Americans within range of bullets falling in and around El Paso from Mexican rifles.

"All we can do," said Maj. Gen. Wood, "is to keep our people out of the danger zone as far as possible and protest to the belligerents against firing in our direction. Without authority from congress the army can not cross the border, no matter what happens."

Discussed By Cabinet.

The cabinet today devoted most of its time to the Mexican situation. Confidential dispatches and unofficial information that the fighting at Juarez had been renewed were discussed at length by President Taft and his advisers. The intelligence was admitted to be alarming, but the president and the cabinet still hoped for developments which will bring about peace.

That American commanders on the border should become restless and apprehensive as the situation at Juarez developed and were desirous of taking more radical steps to prevent the killing of Americans on their own soil, was indicated today by their applications for modified orders. But all such requests have brought renewed instructions to abide strictly by the policy laid down from the beginning: "To preserve the strict kind of neutrality; to keep the United States soldiers out of Mexico; to endeavor to move United States civilians to places of safety."

Statement By Embassy.

A statement issued today by the Mexican embassy declares that tranquillity continues in the City of Mexico and that great surprise is expressed there in rumors to the contrary. The statement in part says:

"All the ports, all the cities, all important towns and centers are under the control of the government. The rebels have only secured some points of very secondary importance. In view of this fact it is well to caution the public against any alarm that might be caused by these misrepresentations which can only be attributed to malice or ignorance on the part of those that furnish such wild reports."

attention to the Nelson girl. When the latter favored Yance with her attentions, Unger began quarrelling with the Racine man, who was an entire stranger to the other three in the party. Suddenly, with an oath, Yance drew two revolvers and began firing at Unger as fast as he could pull the triggers.

The girls screamed wildly, waking the ten persons upstairs, who heard them scream: "Charlie has killed Joe and is killing us."

As Unger fell with a bullet through the right chest, the Nelson woman threw her body between Yance and his victim and was shot, dying almost instantly. The Gilmore woman tried to escape, but Yance, crazed by the sight of his other two victims, fired at her also and she fell dying as he turned his revolver upon his own body, ending his own life.

Fired Nine Shots.

At the Emergency hospital this morning it was said Unger would probably recover.

Hattie Dean, proprietress of the resort, says she has not the slightest idea of what caused the shooting.

"Insane," Says Father.

Racine, Wis., May 9.—"Charles must have been insane," said Supervisor Levi H. Yance, father of Charles Yance, who shot and killed two girls, wounded Joseph Unger, and then killed himself in a resort in Milwaukee early this morning.

The first intimation the parents had of Yance's deed was when the press dispatches were read to them over the telephone.

Mr. Yance declares that his son has suffered spells of insanity for several years. He was in the habit of leaving home suddenly and being gone, unheard of, for months. Mr. Yance said he did not know his son was in Milwaukee.

LEASE MAY NOT BE MADE BY AUDITOR

expressed no apprehension whatever. They stated that it is true that the original bill was passed and that it is likely that it will not be signed by the state auditor.

But they were confident that the auditor and others at the capitol would agree to enter into a modified lease with the city, embodying the provisions which would have been included had the amended bill passed. It was due solely to a mistake that the original bill was passed, and there isn't the slightest desire here to profit by the mistake.

The bill authorizing the city to issue $100,000 of bonds for improving the dock site and acquiring other property was lost, which operated strongly against the municipal dock system, temporarily at least. But the city is not entirely without funds for this purpose. Appreciating the importance of the move when it was brought up by Mayor Cullum the conference committee, when it fixed the tax levy last fall, levied $15,000 to be used for municipal dock purposes. This will enable the city to do something, although it cannot go nearly as far as would be the case were the expected bonds available.

Whittier's work unsatisfactory did not constitute written charges sufficient for action. In both of these contentions he was upheld by the attorney general, and that official so reported in his communication to the board of control this morning.

"Mr. Whittier believes he has not been fairly treated," said Judge Wilson, his attorney, before leaving for home. "He will stay until removed. I can say emphatically that he has no intention of resigning."

Governor Eberhart will not be back from his Western tour until May 14, and it may be the board of control will take no action until the governor arrives and tells how he wishes to proceed. It is possible that A. D. Stephens of Crookston, who first preferred charges against Whittier, may be called to repeat them and assist so far as possible in again producing testimony tending to show that boys were excessively punished.

PACKAGE DELIVERY

for the delivery man or transfer company handling it. They maintain that a lack of understanding on the part of the people affected, lack of co-operation on the part of express companies and lack of perseverance on the part of the men handling the deliveries were responsible for the failures, and that those difficulties can be overcome.

With the experience of three failures as guidance, the express companies and the Duluth Van & Storage company believe they have worked out an arrangement that can be made to stick. Each company will pay the Duluth Van & Storage company a certain amount each month, and it is believed that that amount, added to the receipts from the delivery service, will give the company an even break at the start, leaving the development of the system to provide the profits.

The express companies have established limits beyond which they will deliver no packages. People outside of those limits have often been put to serious inconvenience on account of inability to have packages delivered promptly. In some cases the consignee called at the office and carried the packages home. In other cases a transfer man was paid 50 cents or more for delivering the package.

Under the supplementary delivery system, each express company will turn all packages for delivery outside of the limits to the transfer company that operates inside the limits, and offer them to consignees on the payment of a small charge. If the consignee doesn't want to pay the charge, he can have the package returned to the office and call for it. On the number of consignees accepting packages under those conditions depends the success of the service.

At the time the express companies and citizens conferred on the subject of delivery outside of the limits about a year ago, the express company representatives showed a disposition to hold that the companies were performing their full duty to the public in delivering packages within the fixed limits. Now the attitude has changed, for the companies are not only willing to co-operate in turning their packages over to a transfer company, but are paying something in the hope that a continuation of the service may be insured.

Duluth's scattered territory furnishes a problem in delivery. With the right attitude on the part of the people living in the scattered territory, a package delivery system can be made a pronounced success for the individual or company conducting it and a source of great convenience to the people themselves. Charges for delivery may seem high at times, when the cost of original transportation is considered, but the committee which has been working on the matter takes the stand that people should be willing to pay for such conveniences. In larger cities the supplementary express delivery system is in vogue and is profitable to those who conduct it. In Duluth, many people believe it can be made successful.

W. T. Naylor, general manager of the American Express company, with headquarters at Chicago, is in Duluth today. He says the express companies are disposed to be fair in the matter and do what they can to insure the success of the service. Lack of co-operation on the part of the people affected was responsible for former failures, he says, and if all parties concerned work together this venture should be a success.

house. The rest fled, only to be shot down as they ran. One small party managed to break through the line and escaped to the south.

The Catholic church was set on fire after it had been riddled with bullets. Those inside who sought to escape by dashing through the flames were shot as they emerged from the burning building.

At the customs house a small party of federals was still holding out when the last news came from the town. Some of the men are said to have been wounded, others killed, by the fire poured through the windows by the rebels.

Burned the Buildings.

Two of the buildings in the town and the bullring have been burned but it is thought that the rest will be spared by the victors.

The American Red Cross has asked for permission to go into the town and care for wounded.

Reports from the camp of the United States troops at the line are that two Americans were killed today while attempting to escape from Tijuana. Whether they were members of the rebel band or residents was not known.

A great crowd of spectators slept at the line last night. They were ordered away from the line of fire this morning by United States troops. Many bullets sped into American territory, but as the fighting was half a mile off from the line, the spectators were comparatively safe.

RED RIVER VALLEY GETS GOOD SHOWER

Welcome Rain Falls Through Famous Grain Belt of Northwestern Minnesota.

Crookston, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A general rainfall of about half an inch occurred between 2 and 7 o'clock this morning over a wide territory from the North Dakota line east to Cass Lake. It extended north as far as Warren and south to Glyndeen. It was a magnificent downpour, and farmers, bankers and business men are jubilant. Indications point to more showers today. Careful inquiry along the Warroad line from Crookston through to Red Lake falls, Thief River Falls, Roseau and smaller places this morning are to the effect that no forest fires are doing any damage thus far. Thief River and Red Lake Falls had a good rain this morning.

DON'T HUG A DELUSION

Something "Just As Good" An Impossibility.—If Not the Original Have Nothing At All.

For a woman to adorn her head with false braids, puffs and rats, or a man to wear a toupee is like buying an off-brand hair preparation instead of Newbro's Herpicide. The "false hair" and the "off brand" are both substitutes for the real thing. The original is always conceded to be better than any imitation or substitute. "Something just as good" is a heresy of the rankest kind.

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy and does as promised. Years of success and thousands of satisfied users have made it standard. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, keeps the scalp clean and stops falling hair. Its proper use before baldness appears makes false hair and wigs unnecessary.

There is no uncertainty. The purchaser gets positive results or money is refunded. It is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

MINNESOTA MEN ACTIVE

Want Progressives in Congress to Take Up the Reins.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.— (Special to The Herald.)—Progressive leaders in St. Paul and Minneapolis have been in communication with progressive members of the senate, urging them to do all in their power to secure the enactment of the so called farmers' free list bill. Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, George A. Loftus and James A. Peterson of Minneapolis, the three citizen members on the board of organization of the National Progressive league, last week wrote these senators outlining their views and stating what they believed Minnesota wanted.

While it will not be given out by the authors of these letters, just what they said, it is known that three moves were urged, as follows: First, shelving the reciprocity treaty until the free list bill is passed; second, passing the reciprocity treaty, and third, unseating Lorimer.

Take Reins Themselves.

If progressive leaders can head these three moves instead of allowing it to be done by the administration, the Twin City progressives believe the cause will be strengthened. Passage of the free list bill, it is argued, undoubtedly would put the administration "in the hole," as President Taft would be forced to either sign the measure or veto it. Should he veto it he would gain condemnation from many sources.

The progressive leaders look upon the passage of the free list bill by the Democrats as one of the craftiest moves of the session, and they believe it wise policy that the progressives should share in it. Hugh T. Halbert, who wrote the letters to progressive senators, said:

"We do believe the farmers should be protected. And I firmly believe that when that bill is passed, the reciprocity agreement should be made."

Thinking of Campaign.

It is understood that Mr. Peterson is opposed to the reciprocity proposed, but in favor of the free list bill. All agree on the latter, but there is a division on the former. Their attitude being diametrically opposed to that of Congressman Stevens on the free list bill, insures a bit of campaign material when the political pot starts boiling in the next campaign. It also indicates that the breach between President Taft and the progressives in Minnesota will widen.

FIRES RAGING ALONG INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY

LABOR UNION CONFERENCE

Second Meeting to Strengthen Organized Labor in Duluth, Held.

Every Union in City Represented at the Gathering.

John Chubbuck, organizer for the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, was the principal speaker at the second meeting of the local labor conference which took place at Rowley's hall on West First street last night.

There were other speakers and the meeting, which was largely attended, lasted until a late hour. Before adjourning the delegates decided to hold still another meeting within about a week.

At the meeting every union in the city was represented. Plans for strengthening the Duluth unions were gone over fully and some plans made.

The meeting last night was the second of the conference. The first meeting, at which the conference organized for work, was held about ten days ago.

Mr. Chubbuck has been in the city for about a week, whipping organized labor into line, instilling enthusiasm and putting new life and ginger into the work.

The meeting last evening was a closed session.

Killed in South Dakota.

Rapid City, S. D., May 9.—Caught between the butt end of two logs when a loaded lumber car jammed against the loader, W. S. Ayris, aged 28 years, was killed at the Lanphere-Hinrichs logging camp near here. His parents, who reside in Detroit, wired to have the body sent East, and this was done.

SAVE YOUR HAIR; SAGE TEA WILL DO IT

Dandruff, Itching Scalp and Falling Hair Quickly Stopped.

There is one place where baldheaded men shine, and that is in the front row seats of the theatre. If these baldheaded people had used Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy in their earlier days they would not be so conspicuous now. This preparation does not plant new hair, but it does strengthen weak, dying hair, and not only brightens dull, parched hair, but gradually restores the color to faded or gray hair. It is a clean, wholesome hair dressing, which can be used daily with perfect safety.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

ROAD UNDER DISCUSSION

County Commissioner Will Confer With Club on Getchell Highway.

Club Will Be Represented at Hearing on Depot Dispute.

County Commissioner Al Overton of Smithville will be a guest of the West Duluth Commercial club at its next meeting and will tell the members about what the county intends to do in the matter of helping the city to build the new Getchell road, and to discuss other matters.

The city council has appropriated $3,000 toward the project and the Commercial club at a recent meeting requested the county to lend a helping hand in view of the fact that outside districts would benefit as much by the new thoroughfare as would residents of the city.

Other matters of mutual interest to West Duluth and the county commissioners may also be talked over between club members and Commissioner Overton at this time.

* * *

The West Duluth Commercial club is much interested in the council committee hearing on the new Soo depot project and at the meeting of the club Friday evening, will arrange to have its side of the matter presented at the hearing, which will be held Saturday afternoon at the West Duluth police station. The hearing will be conducted by the council's committee on ordinances and resolutions.

It is contended by West Duluth people that the Soo railroad has violated the terms of franchise taken over, when the Soo absorbed the old Wisconsin Central lines, in which it was agreed that a station should be built and maintained west of Forty-sixth avenue west.

The original plan of the Wisconsin Central to get into the city was via West Duluth, but after the road consolidated with the Soo, the route was changed and trains were brought over the interstate bridge and the other route abondoned.

It is probable that representatives of the Soo road will be present at the hearing. It is the intention of the West Duluth Commercial club to have several representatives present to submit the city's side of the case.

* * *

Among other matters, which will be given consideration Friday evening, is that of the Ramsey street extension cases which have been in progress in district court before Judge Cant. The appelants were heard last week and Saturday afternoon, the city will have an opportunity to present its side of the case.

When the street was condemned, nearly all of the property owners appealed from the award made by the board of public works. N. F Nelson, who owns the only building in the right-of-way, was awarded $1,950, and his claim on his appeal is $5,669. Mrs. Nelson claims that the lot is worth $1,000 and the building will be damaged to the extent of $4,467.

In view of the fact that the West Duluth Commercial club was responsible for the agitation which brought about the extension, much interest is being taken among the members in the matter.

AMERICAN SCOUT WILL TELL STORY.

W. E. A. Le Quesne of this city, for many years a scout in the American army, will give a free stereopticon lecture tomorrow evening in Holy Apostle's Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street.

The lecture will be upon the American Indian, his history, his customs and his heroic struggle against the coming of the white man. It will illustrate the bringing and the effect of Christianity and civilization upon the Indian. Mr. Le Quesne's pictures all represent Indians whom he has personally known. Some of them fought at Custer's last fight and helped to annihilate his command.

The last struggle of the American Indian to retain his hunting grounds on the plains of the West makes a story dramatic in the extreme, and the story will be told by one who was an actual participant in the scenes and who scouted with such men as Buffalo Bill.

PROCTOR MEN WILL DISCUSS SEWAGE PROBLEM.

The sewage question still furnishes much discussion at the meetings of the Proctor Commercial club, and this evening the proposition will be taken up again.

The Duluth Missabe & Northern railway has had its engineers working on a suitable plan for crossing the town and Prof. Frederick Baas of the state sanitary board has also looked the situation over.

There will be several speakers at the meeting this evening. John Bleiman will talk on the bonding of the village to raise money for the project. Dr. Specht and others will speak.

Boat club members will hear the carnival plans outlined to them at the annual meeting, which will be held at the main boathouse on Park Point this evening. The meeting was erroneously announced in the morning paper for the Commercial clubrooms.

The annual election of officers will be held, and a smoker and special program will follow.

CITY BRIEFS

Taken Back to Minneapolis.

Detective Morrissey of Minneapolis reached Duluth today to take Frank Williams back to the Flour City to answer a charge of grand larceny. Williams was arrested at the Union station here as he stepped off the train. It is claimed that he stole two valuable watches, a ring and some clothes from fellow roomers in a lodging house. It is alleged that some of them were left so destitute of apparel that they had to borrow some before they were able to get out for breakfast. Detective Morrissey left with his prisoner this afternoon.

J. L. Zellman's Barber Shop is now located at 210 W. Superior St.

Will Fight Wheelage Tax.

Officers of the Superior and Duluth Transfer company pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on charge of violating the wheelage tax ordinance. A demurrer was also entered against the complaint, which will be heard May 23.

Printing and Bookbinding Thwing-Stewart Co. Both 'phones, 114.

Assault Charge.

Isaac Johnson, a saloonkeeper at 334 Lake avenue south, was arrested this morning on a charge of assaulting John Lampi. Lampi claims that he hit him across the face with a rubber tube when he refused to buy drinks at Johnson's demand. He says then that Johnson gouged a rifle against his face, leaving a round mark. Johnson pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and will be tried tomorrow morning.

Northland Printery. Good Printing. Call Zenith 494.

Baudin-Bourget.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Baudin and Joseph Bourget, both of West Duluth, took place this morning at the St. Jean Baptiste church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Miss Mayme Bourget and John Langlois were attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Bourget will live in West Duluth.

Mother's Day.

Sunday, May 14, will be generally observed as mother's day in the United States, and Duluth ministers will probably choose sermon topics appropriate to the occasion. The emblem of the day is a white carnation, and local florists have laid in a stock of the flowers for the day.

"Unknown" Was Ray Meeker.

Ray Meeker, a solicitor for the Duluth Telephone company, was the only eye-witness to the tragic death of Mrs. Caroline Dryer, who was fatally burned when her clothes caught fire on the lawn of her son-in-law, Percy Christopher, 4131 East Superior street, yesterday. Mr. Meeker attempted to beat out the flames which had caught in the woman's clothing, but she ran from him. He left after the woman had been taken into the house and did not give his name.

Held for Perjury.

Alex Shacdock of Brookston, Minn., was indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of perjury. He is accused of swearing falsely in a case in the district court involving the validity of the Brookston election this spring.

Faribault Men Here.

K. D. Chase, his brother, A. S. Chase, and his son, K. S. Chase, of Faribault are visiting in Duluth for a few days. A. S. Chase was a former resident of Duluth and is very well known here. Kelsey S. Chase is state superintendent of banks.

Is Found Guilty.

A. M. Stuerwold was found guilty of damaging property in police court yesterday afternoon and fined $25 or thirty days. A stay was granted to enable him to replace certain fixtures which he is said to have removed. If that is done it is likely that sentence will be suspended.

Gets Another Chance.

David Nelson, arrested on a charge of stealing $20 from a purse which he found on the street, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. He promised to pay the money back, and as it was his first offense he got a suspended sentence.

Pays His Fine.

William Duvall, the saloonkeeper at 123 East Superior street who was arrested for keeping his place open on Sunday, changed his plea of not guilty in police court this morning and paid a fine of $100.

Two Are Slightly Injured.

Gust Rust was struck by a street car about 6 o'clock last evening and taken to St. Luke's hospital in Ford's ambulance, which was called by the officer on the beat. Rust is stated by the police to have been more drunk than hurt. He will be able to leave the hospital in a short time. Oliver Fells fell off a train at Lakeside late yesterday afternoon and was taken to the police station in the patrol, where a cut in his head was dressed. He was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and got $3 or three days.

Dead Man Identified.

The man who was found dead yesterday morning in the lodging house at Lake avenue and Michigan street has been identified as Charlie McCuen, an old-timer about the city. He has been working as a laborer. Death was due to heart failure. The body was taken to Crawford's morgue and unless relatives appear will be buried at the expense of the county.

Plead Not Guilty.

E. M. Gaylord and Dr. J. W. Ekblad, arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of having exceeded the speed limit on Jefferson street Sunday afternoon, pleaded not guilty in police court. Gaylord's trial was set for this afternoon and that of Dr. Ekblad for Friday afternoon. It is alleged that they were traveling faster than twenty miles an hour. Dr. Ekblad told the police that he was hurrying to answer an urgent call for a confinement case, and that if he was racing, it was to beat the stork.

Theater Men Bankrupt.

Glen S. Locker and Walter L. Murphy, who conducted a theater at Two Harbors, have as partners and as individuals, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in United States court. Their joint and individual liabilities are estimated at $2,776.02. As partners, they have no assets, while each has $50 in individual assets, all claimed exempt.

RAILROADS

WILL RAILROADS GAIN BY RAISE?

Will the railroads profit by a return to the 3-cent fare?

One local official figures that the railroads know they have gained more passegers by the reduction of the rate, and yet are not satisfied that they have profited by the cutting of the rate. It is the aim of the passenger operators to get the maximum amount of travel at the highest rate they can charge.

In regard to the effect the return to the 3-cent fare will have on the travel between Duluth and St. Paul, most of the officials are of the opinion that the railroads will gain on revenue on this short trip.

There is a large commercial traffic and they figure that business men will not stop riding because of the increase in the fare of a cent a mile, though there is no question but that many people in the habit of making pleasure trips between Duluth and the Twin Cities will not travel as often after the new fare is placed in operation as they did with the lower rates.

GREAT NORTHERN ALONE IS BUSY

The Great Northern is the only ore-carrying road that has hit its stride. It is transporting between 40,000 and 50,000 tons of ore daily to the Allouez docks. The tonnage that the Great Northern expects to handle this year will be about 15 per cent in excess of last year's.

The Duluth & Iron Range is taking only about 20,000 tons daily to the docks at Two Harbors and only 100 men are employed. It is said that the compound type of engines now used on the steep grades of the Missabe will be given a trial on the Iron Range.

MERGER MAY BE PLANNED

Denn and Shattuck Directors Will Meet Wednesday in Bisbee.

The directors and stockholders of the Denn-Arizona and the Shattuck-Arizona Mining companies' will meet tomorrow at Bisbee, Ariz. Whether the merger plans will be considered is doubtful, as the meetings may be adjourned until the program for the merger has been completed.

Both properties are organized under the laws of Minnesota. The Denn property is north of the Junction shaft of the Superior & Pittsburg and the Shattuck property is nearby, being about one-half mile from the original openings of the Copper Queen.

Shattuck is earning about $2.60 a year on a 12-cent copper market. The last dividend was $1 in January. Last year the company produced 14,751,000 pounds of refined copper at a cost of 5.8 cents a pound. The Denn is idle.

* * *

The copper market eased off toward the close when the general market displayed weakness in sympathy with reports that the government was proceeding with investigations of several so-called trusts, rumors that the business of the United States Steel corporation was unsatisfactory in April. The report that Chairman Gary was elected president of the Minnesota Steel company which is building Duluth's steel plant is untrue. The red metal market is dull again.

Denn sold at $6, Warren at $2.25, Keating at $3.25.

Amalgamated sold at $63, $62.87½ and $63, Butte Ballaklava at $5.87½, Calumet X. Arizona at $51 to $50, North Butte at $28.25 to $28, Giroux at $6, Greene at $6.12½ and $6.06¼, Superior & Pittsburg at $14.50 and $14.12½.

* * *

Houghton, Mich., dispatches say that Ojibway reports an important find of copper, fifteen feet wide, with the hanging wall not reached, at the 1,500-foot level of the No. 2 shaft, in the west vein. The east bein is very small, with some copper. At the same level of the No. 1 shaft drifting, counting both ways for 150 feet, shows good copper in both veins, there being only four feet of trap in the vein, which is fifty feet wide. At the 650-foot level a stope of rich copper is showing in each drift.

* * *

A dispatch from the North Butte property states that the west drift of the Edith May vein on the 2,400 level, which at last accounts had passed through the fault, has now encountered the vein in a cross-cut driven to the lode. The vein, where intersected, assayed from 4 to 5 per cent copper. As no width is given, it is believed that the cross-cut has not advanced through the vein, but merely broken into the lode.

STRANGE MARINE ANIMAL CAUGHT IN LAKE SUPERIOR

WHAT IS IT?

An unusual freak is on display in a glass bottle in the front window of the Quayle-Larsen company on West Superior street. It seems to be a cross between a lawyer, a fish which frequents these water, and a lizard. That is what Capt. M. Johnson, who caught it, says. Capt. Johnson has been fishing in this part of the lake for twenty years and it is the strangest animal which he has ever dragged out with his nets. It is the center of considerable attention and all kinds of guesses as to what it is have been heard among those who have stopped to look at it.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

ALL SET FOR THE OPENING

Sox Will Play First Game of Season at Red Wing.

Duluth, Superior, Winona and Wausau Look the Strongest.

Tomorrow will usher in the third season of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

In many respects the Minny league is one of the very fastest of its class in the country. Fast ball has been played during the two seasons that the league has been in existence, and the managers around the circuit believe that the season opening tomorrow will be the best year that the eight towns have enjoyed.

Duluth and Rochester will be the two cities to have new parks. Mayo field at Rochester is all but completed, while the new Duluth grounds, according to the statement of the contractors, will be ready for the home games by the latter part of June.

While it is very hard to judge of a baseball team on paper, and for that reason pre-season guesses often go amiss, right before the gong will send the eight teams away to the 1911 race, it looks as if Winona, Superior, Duluth and Wausau were the strongest candidates for the gonfalon.

The Winona Team.

Joe Killian has gathered what looks like a very strong team and the observing critics are doping a probable, or at least a possible, winner for old Biddy Dolan at Wausau. The fans have seen Superior in action, and the team that will play under the sheltering wing of Kid Taylor looks very good.

Duluth has a much stronger team than it had last season, and Darby O'Brien is very confident he has a one-two finisher. Until the fans have seen the other teams in action they can have no means of judging of the accuracy of the harp's forecast. O'Brien is very likable to be optimistic, as baseball managers are, so that it is very probable that the fans will defer judgment a bit.

Ean Claire has lost heavily and should not be as strong as last season. Just at the present time Red Wing and Rochester look the weakest of the eight clubs. La Crosse is not so impressive as some of the others. All dope, however, is liable to be borne in mind, is liable to revision when the season has been going for a month or so.

The White Sox will open tomorrow with Fred Cook's Red Wing Indians. If the Sox break even on the trip, the fans up this way will be satisfied as a starter. Some of the more enthusiastic of the fans are looking for two out of three at Red Wing, but they should remember that the Sox are not going at their full stride yet, and then, too, that park at Red Wing is an awful one to pop on.

Taylor's Red Legs will open at Rochester. The fans on the other side of the bay look for the Taylorites to take the long end of the opening series with the Surgeons, as they figure that Ted Corbett hasn't lined up anything very imposing. It is very probable that Taylor will send Cyrus Augustus Dahlgren in to pitch the opening game, and Ted Corbett might mount the mound for his own team.

Wausau opens at La Crosse, and the more enthusiastic followers of Biddy Dolan are looking for a victory. This series will up the anxious fans around the circuit, in some degree at least, to what John Elliott and the gang have lined up at the German city.

Ean Claire opens at Winona, where elaborate preparations have been made for the first game. Last season the Winona club also drew a pennant winner as the opening attraction, the White Sox opening the season at the city beautiful.

President Frank E. Force, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, who has succeeded John A. Elliott, will be present and will play the principal part in the opening celebration. The mayor will toss the first ball and one of the largest crowds in the history of Winona baseball is expected to be on hand.

Good Umpire Staff.

As a preliminary to assuring a successful season President Force has been most careful in the selection of his umpire staff. He believes that the men he has signed will prove in every way satisfactory to the fans and will compose the best staff that have ever worked in the league.

It is very probable, too, that the new president will insist upon the cutting down of the salary lists. Last season several teams were clear above the limit. It has been stated that the present season will see a strict observance of the rule. The carrying out of this promise will result in better baseball when every club in the league is considered.

Everything considered, the season opening tomorrow should be a successful one. The baseball fever is general around the circuit, the fans await with interest the dropping of the flag, and the starting of a race that, it is to be hoped, will prove close and hard-fought throughout the length of the season.

WARD'S SUIT AGAINST JOHNSON IS ON TRIAL.

New York, May 9.—The $50,000 suit for slander brought by John M. Ward, formerly a ballplayer, against Ban Johnson, president of the American league, came to trial today before Judge Hand in the federal court and following the selection of a jury an adjournment was taken until this afternoon when testimony will be heard.

Ward alleged that in 1909 when he was a candidate for the presidency of the National league, Johnson made remarks about him. Both were in court today with a formidable array of counsel.

WEAR YOUR OWN HAIR

$1,000.00 REWARD IF THEY FAIL

Everybody will be pleased to learn that the alarming increase of Baldness has been checked at last by the discovery of a remarkable drug which actually grows hair. No longer need the prospect of having to wear a wig distress men and women who are rapidly becoming bald, or who have already lost most of their hair. "Crystolis"—the name given to this wonderful drug—has been tested in every way, and it has been found that it will actually cover the human head with hair, providing that the hair roots have not been destroyed, in about 30 days. Its properties are so remarkable that not only does it grow hair, but it also improves the quality of the existing hair if it is gray or faded, and it will frequently restore it to its natural color within ten to fourteen days No stronger argument can be used in its favor than that people who have tried almost every known thing for promoting hair growth, such as tonics, pomades, etc., with no tangible result, have found that Crystolis only will do what the other things are said to do—grow hair. Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, it has taken the world by storm, and thousands of men and women are now living proofs of its efficacy. It has been found that almost every known hair trouble will succumb to its influences, and minor cases of scalp or hair diseases, such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc., have been completely cured with two or three applications.

It was reasonably argued that if "Crystolis" would promote human hair growth, it should also promote the growth of hair upon animals of various descriptions. Test after test was made with almost miraculous results, and lovers of cats, dogs, horses, etc., will welcome it as a means of restoring the coats of pets to their former beauty when disfigured by hair defects. As a hair dressing "Crystolis" is undoubtedly unexcelled. It contains no oil whatever, yet it makes the hair soft and glossy, with a tendency to fluffiness.

Many of those who have used "Crystolis" report most astonishing results. Mr. A. B. D., of Brighton, says that he started a new growth of hair within seven days after beginning the use of "Crystolis." Dr. S. S. W., of Greenwich writes that it stopped his hair from coming out within ten days after the first application.

Miss Florence Moore, the popular American actress now playing in London, says: "The change it has made in my hair seems almost miraculous; it is over 10 inches longer than it was before I began the treatment, and it looks so pretty when it is dressed that my friends are continually complimenting me on the beauty of my hair."

Mr. M. Orlen, of London, E. C., writes: "When I began the 'Crystolis' treatment I was nearly bald, but in the six weeks that I have been using it I have obtained a new growth of nice black hair about one inch long. I had commenced to think that there was nothing that would really grow hair, and it seems to me like a work of magic, as I look at least five years younger, now that I have a new growth of hair."

Awarded highest honor and Gold Medal at Brussels International Exposition.

Many people write: "It sounds too good to be true." But surely the test will tell.

The managers of the Creslo Laboratories have such strong faith in Crystolis that they have decided to make the following remarkable offer: They will forfeit $1,000.00 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis actually grows hair. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if any one can prove they were not the first discoverers of Crystolis. They will forfeit $1,000.00 in gold if it can be proved that it contains any oil, dye or coloring matter of any kind. They will forfeit $1,000.00 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which they publish is not absolutely genuine. Arrangements have been made with the Laboratories to furnish free information in regard to this new process to all Duluth Herald readers. Merely cut out and send in the coupon below and you will receive free particulars of this marvelous new product by return mail.

BROOKSTON CASE AGAIN

Election Fraud Cases Up Before Judge Cant Once More.

Seven Defeated Candidates for Village Offices Allege Improper Methods.

The contest of Arthur F. Hutchins against J. F. Ryan for the position of president of the village of Brookston, Minn., in which he alleges fraud in the election of the latter, came up for hearing again this morning before Judge W. A. Cant of the district court.

The contest of Mr. Hutchins against Mr. Ryan is not the only one which resulted from the election held last March. The other seven losers are contesting the election of the seven winners, claiming fraud in each instance.

This is the second hearing in the same case. It was brought up about ten days ago and was continued for two weeks by Judge Cant.

It is the same case in which, after giving his testimony and making the remark that he would lie at any time for money, Alex Shadock was arrested on the order of the court and sent to jail charged with perjury. He is still confined at the jail and it is probable that the grand jury will return an indictment against him.

The election at Brookston was, seemingly, a badly tangled affair. It is claimed that some were allowed to vote who had no right and others were kept from voting, who had a legal right to have a voice in the election.

This is not the first case of the kind from Brookston After the election of a year ago there was the same kind of a contest.

The case will be on for several days, it is expected.

COULD NOT WALK TO DOCTORS' OFFICE

Mrs. Clothier Was a Nervous Wreck Before Taking United Doctors' Treatment.

Mrs. H. L. Clothier, who lives at 111 Mill St., Waterloo, Iowa, and whose husband is a well known street car man, was in a critical condition from weak, run down nerves before she went to the United Doctors, those famous medical specialists who have their Duluth institute located on the third floor of the Columbia Bldg. Her nerves had become so weak that her whole system was about to give way; she could not sleep or rest night or day and had about lost all hope of ever being cured.

Now after a short course of "United" treatment she is a different woman. Her nerves have grown strong, she had gained 20 pounds in weight, and is fast becoming a strong, healthy, vigorous, happy woman. In writing of her case she says:

"Waterloo, Iowa, March 2, 1911.

"Dear Doctors:

"I was certainly discouraged when I visited the United Doctors. I could not walk to their office; I was so nervous and weak I could hardly ride in a street car. They examined me carefully and told me they could help me.

"Well, that was good news to me for I had been in such a condition I would cry and scream at times and could sleep but little at night. I was afraid of losing my mind. I began to gain almost from their first bit of medicine and now have gained about twenty pounds and am feeling like a new woman.

"MRS. H. L. CLOTHIER."

WEST END

MAY ORGANIZE IN SELF PROTECTION

Boat Owners at West End Easy Marks for Sneak Thieves.

Boat house thieves are again operating along the bay front at the West end. An unknown thief broke a heavy plate glass window and gained entrance into the boat house of John Moir at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west some time since Sunday night. Brass fixtures and parts of the engine valued at $75 were stolen.

In view of the fact that this is the fourth time in four weeks, that thieves have stolen from this particular boat house, besides others, and taken brass fittings valued at from $40 to $75, the boat owners are much incensed and demand more protection.

"The recent thefts emphasize the necessity of an organization of boat owners at the West end," said a prominent motor enthusiast yesterday. "The only way that we can get any protection from these sneak thieves is to organize and hire a watchman ourselves."

ATTACKS WILL OF STEAMER VICTIM

Mrs. Mooney, Once Wife of Late Langdon, N. D., Banker, Starts Contest.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contending that there was a will subsequent to the one that already has been probated and that in such subsequent will she was made the sole heir to the estate outside of approximately $23,000 in life insurance, the value of the entire estate being about $225,000, Mrs. Clinton Frazier, bride of a wealthy retired Philadelphia barrister, formerly Mrs. W. J. Mooney of Langdon N. D. has commenced a contest in which she seeks to establish such second will and set aside the provisions of the first will, already probated, her contention being that her marriage transfers the income from the estate from herself to her stepson, John Mooney of Willow City, N. D.

Under the terms of the will that she now seeks to have set aside Mrs. Mooney-Frazier will not receive any income from the estate from her deceased husband during a period of eight years. The document that has been unearthed providing that in event that she remarried within ten years, then her share of the income should go to his son up to the close of the ten year period. Mr. Mooney was killed in the wreck of the ill-fated steamer Republic of New York in January, 1909, and his will provides that his son will receive the income from the estate for eight years. At the end of the ten year period the estate is to be divided equally between Mrs. Mooney-Frazier and her stepson.

Big West End Department Store Flooded

Defective Faucet Causes Serious Flood in Muslin and White Goods Depts. at J. J. Moe's Store.

A defective faucet on the second floor of the J. J. Moe Building at Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street was responsible for a serious flood in the Muslin and White Goods Departments, which, but for the timely arrival of the junior member of the firm, would undoubtedly have spread to the entire stock.

The faucet, which had been wrenched loose in some manner, must have been pouring a steady stream of water down into the store for a considerable period before its discovery; since more than an inch of water covered the entire floor. The greatest damage was done in the Muslin and White Goods Departments, where a number of shelves containing recent purchases for the spring trade were thoroughly soaked by the water in its fall.

The accident was the more regretable that it came in the middle of the great twentieth anniversary sale of the firm, upon which much time and money has been spent to make it a particular success.

The damaged goods will be rapidly cleared out on Wednesday at one-half the prices put on them for the great sale, and, as speedily as possible, all traces of the catastrophe will be obliterated.

The goods are not seriously damaged, having been immersed in water only, but some are slightly stained at the edges and all are mussed; but the actual wearing value of the materials has not been impaired in the slightest. An immense amount of interest is being taken in the sale commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the house of John J. Moe & Sons' Co., and interest which is due in large part to the very exceptional bargains which are being offered. Mr. Moe, Sr., succeeded in making a considerable purchase of new spring and summer goods at the bankrupt sale of Tibbs, Hutchings & Co. of Minneapolis at far below the usual wholesale selling prices. These are being used as special leaders during the sale which terminates this week.

FIRES AGAIN THREATEN

Another Heavy Rain Needed to Quench the Blaze.

Since the rain of Sunday afternoon, which quenched the forest fires on brush lands back of the city for a time, the forest fires have sprung up again and settlers in the vicinity of Caribou lake, three miles behind Pike lake, are said to be in danger.

There was no way of communicating with any of them this afternoon to find out the exact conditions, but Mrs. Kendall of Pike lake, who was reached over the telephone this morning, stated that the fires were again raging in nearly every direction.

The weather man promised rain this afternoon and shortly after the lunch hour the conditions seemed to bear him out. Mrs. Kendall said that a good heavy downpour would be a Godsend to the settlers near Caribou lake.

Men have been sent, it is said, from Pike lake to help in fighting the flames. The houses of some of the settlers as well as the cord wood, ties and logs which represent all last winter's work, are said to be in danger.

TRIP THROUGM THE STATE.

Department Commander to Visit Camps of Spanish War Veterans.

Joseph G. Gibson, department commander of the Spanish War veterans of the state of Minnesota, left this afternoon on a general tour of inspection throughout the lower end of the state. Among other places which he will visit will be Red Wing, where the annual encampment will be held June 26 and 27. Elaborate preparations are being made for the encampment and it is expected that it will be the most successful in the history of the organization. The order has experienced an exceptional growth the last year. Many new camps have been installed and the membership roll has been growing larger at a gratifying rate.

Ole Dahlberg, recognized as one of the greatest hunters throughout the country tributary to the Cloquet river and one of the most powerful men in the upper part of the state, is in town today, visiting with George Blacwood, an old friend.

Ole isn't much when it comes to talking about himself, being the equal of the original sphinx when it gets to "blowing his own horn," and possessing a tacitturnity which would make that of some old hunters and woodsmen sound like a siren in a fog alongside a whisper.

But there are a lot of stories told about Ole which would make a big volume, rivaling Cooper's tales. Ask Ole about them and you'd never know that he had camped outdoors over night. But ask some of the men who have associated with him for years and they'll relate a bunch of yarns that will keep you sitting up all night and wishing that the morning hadn't come so soon.

Ole has had experiences galore. He has made his living in the woods since he was "knee high to a grasshopper," coming here when a white man was an oddity. He has traded with the Indians when they would swap a bundle of furs for a bottle of whisky, and has lived among them for months at a stretch. Although well along in years he has endurance that is wonderful. Many times in recent years Ole has started out in the morning and traveled forty-eight hours straight, stopping only long enough to eat a hasty meal. He has learned the blacksmithing business, and it has not been uncommon when he has gone against a fractious horse to throw the animal on its back by sheer strength and then tie it up until he has finished his job.

Ole is now making his headquarters at Gowan, a small station along the Great Northern. He has dropped his hunting to a considerable extent to care for the blacksmithing business which he has built up. But he hasn't forgotten his woodscraft, and is able to bring down his game with the best of them. In shooting Ole has one peculiarity. Those who know him say he isn't any better than they are when it comes to shooting at a stationary object but that when it comes to getting deer, moose or other game on the jump he is almost infallible. They say that it isn't once in a dozen times that he will fail to get his game when it is running at top speed.

This is his first trip to the city for some time, and the first thing he did was to walk into a store in which an auction was in progress. The man who was running the place evidently thought he had a "sucker" according to Ole's version of the affair. He claims that the auctioneer offered a fifteen-jeweled Waltham watch with a gold-filled case, which he bid in for $5, realizing that it was a good bargain. After the watch had been knocked down he claims that the man started to the end of the store with two watches in his hand, and began to wrap up the one that Ole hadn't bought. Ole said that he demanded the one which he had in the other hand, and that he refused to give it to him. Ole also claims that the auctioneer also refused to give him back his money. He took the matter up with the police, who are making an investigation this afternoon.

Michigan Farmer Kills Wife, Son, Daughter and Himself.

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—A Detroit News special dispatch from Cadillac, Mich., says:

An entire family was wiped out today near Luther when Casey Van Lieren, a farmer, 34 years old, shot and killed his wife, his two children and himself.

Van Lieren and his wife had been separated five weeks. Yesterday Mrs. Van Lieren took her daughter, Thelma, to visit a neighbor and today Van Lieren and his son, Lloyd, followed his wife. The girl accompanied her mother when she went to the roadside to meet Van Lieren and the son sat in his father's buggy during a heated conversation between the man and woman. It ended with a revolver shot and the woman fell dead. The man then shot and killed his son and daughter. Hurrying to his own home, Van Lieren procured a rifle and shot himself.

GIVE CHEERS FOR WILSON

Denver Men in Demonstration for the New Jersey Governor.

He Makes Address Outlining Policy of Progressive Work.

Denver, Colo., May 9.—A demonstration continuing for over five minutes followed the mention of Governor Woodrow Wilson as "a probable Democratic candidate at the next election," by President Charles Johnson of the Denver Chamber of Commerce last night at a banquet.

Governor Wilson was the principal speaker of the evening. He said in part:

"The country is to be congratulated upon the fact that the atmosphere of politics has changed within the last few years, for a few years ago there was danger that reform would be the source of continual uneasiness, because it all seemed negative in character. Its object was to correct, to restrain, to punish. The talk was of marauding corporations and great combinations of wealth intended to crush the common man; of the abuse of their power by railroads; of rebates and secret rates and privileges given to the big shipper as against the small one; of the monopolizing of the markets by gigantic trusts and combinations.

"These things still trouble us, of course, and are still in the background of a great deal that we talk about, and our motive in a great deal that we do is still to correct the abuses which have arisen by these means, but happily the whole program of reform has become less negative and more constructive. It is becoming evident that we shall not be satisfied with merely prohibitive statutes and penalties imposed upon those who do not sufficiently regard the public interest in the conduct of their business. We see that what we are really after is a reconstruction of our methods of action, not only in the field of business, but also in the field of politics. The picture is very much enlarged before us, and we are seeking larger ends by invigorating constructive means.

Not Merely Defensive.

"A great people cannot afford to be merely on the defensive. It is not the genius of America to be satisfied with safeguards and prohibitions. We are therefore looking ourselves over from top to bottom in order to find what rearrangement of our statutes and practices is necessary in order that we may go forward in a happy and effective life. We are going about now to enact a thorough program of popular reform, and we know very definitely the objects at which we intend to aim.

"In the first place, we mean to open up all the processes of our politics. We find that they have been too secret, too complicated, too roundabout; that they have consisted too much of private conferences and secret understandings, of the control of legislation by men who were not legislators, but stood outside and dictated, controlling oftentimes by very questionable means, which they would not have dreamed of allowing to become public, and so we have determined that the whole process must be altered—that we must take the selection of candidates for office, for example, out of the hands of small groups of men, of little coteries, out of the hands of machines working behind closed doors, and put it in the hands of the people themselves again by means of direct primaries and elections to which candidates of every sort and degree may have free access. We have begun to build up a new system by which to substitute public for private machinery.

Give Society Command.

"We have determined, in the second place, to give society command of its own economic life again by denying to those who conduct the great modern operations of business the privacy and independence that used to belong properly enough to men who used only their own capital and their individual energy in business. We have set out to make the processes of capital as open as the processes of politics. We are now going forward upon the principle that those who make use of the great modern accumulation of wealth, gathered together by the dragnet process of the sale of stocks and bonds, shall be treated as public trustees; that they shall be made responsible for their business methods to the great communities, which are, in fact, their working partners; that the hand which makes correction shall easily reach them, and that a new principle of responsibility may be felt throughout their structure and operation.

Resources and the People.

"In the third place, we have determined to safeguard our national resources at every point, realizing, as we do, that we have been too lavish of them and have used them in spendthrift fashion. We now insist that our resources do not consist merely of forests and the power of great streams and the wealth that lies hidden in the mines, or merely in the productive power of our varied soil, but include also the lives and health of our workmen, of our women and children. The rights and health and prosperity of our workingmen and working women and of our children we now recognize as being our chief national resource, and we mean to safeguard that resource of all others against the selfishness of private use and profit. We shall take care of our forests and mines and water courses and soil; but, above all things else, we shall take care of our people.

No More Privilege.

"In the fourth place, we have made up our minds to cut all privilege and patronage out of our fiscal legislation, particularly out of that part of it which affects the tariff. We have come to recognize in the tariff as it is now constructed not a system of protection, but a system of favoritism, of privilege, too often granted secretly and by subterfuge instead of openly and frankly and legitimately, and we have determined to put an end to the whole of the bad business, not by hasty and drastic changes, but by the adoption of an entirely new principle—by the reformation of the whole purpose of legislation of that kind. We mean that our tariff legislation henceforth shall have as its object not private profit, but the general public development and benefit; that we shall make our fiscal laws not like those who dole out favors, but like those who serve a nation.

"By the same token we mean to equalize as much as we can the burdens of taxation.

Open Gates of Opportunity.

"In brief, we mean by every progressive measure suggested in such a catalog of purpose to throw open the gates of opportunity to mankind. This was the original purpose of America. This is the only thing to which Americans can devote themselves with real confidence or enthusiasm. This is the only purpose that distinguishes us from the other nations of the world.

"Our whole ideal in the new program of progress is an ideal of restoration, of rejuvenation, of justice, wrought out in its working details. We mean to think of rights, not as opportunities to be selfish, but as obligations to be just. We shall conceive business not as a means of obtaining, but as a means of serving, and we shall treat politics not as a game of advantage, but as a general, hopeful, confident, conscientious readjustment of the interests of individuals and of classes to one another."

SAWYER COUNTY IS FIRE-SWEPT

Extensive Damage By Forest Fires to Couderay Reservation Timber.

Couderay, Wis., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forest fires near here and in southern Sawyer county are still burning fiercely. The high winds of the last few days have driven the fires through the timber land and slashings at a rapid rate. A number of settlers have had narrow escapes from being burned out and only the quick action in back-firing saved their buildings. Yesterday afternoon the village of Winter was threatened. The whole population turned out and fought the flames by back-firing and the fire was headed off but it reached within 100 feet of buildings on the outskirts of the village.

Reservation Hard Hit.

While fires are raging uncontrolled all through this section the heaviest damage is being done on the Couderay Indian reservation north of here. Conservative Indian estimates set the figures at 25,000,000 feet of standing timber that the fires have killed in the last few days and the loss will reach many thousands of dollars. The sky at night is lit up for miles and when wind settles down at night the smoke-filled air is nearly suffocating in the low lands. Large crews of men are watching the fires but all they can do is to save buildings, bridges, lumber and logs as the slashing and forests are dry as tinder and nothing but a long heavy rain will extinguish the fires. The Dietz cabin at Cameron dam was not destroyed by the forest fires as reported.

HOTELS MUST OBEY NEW LAW

State Inspector Crozier Says Many Need Looking After.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bulletins are being issued by Alex W. Crozier, state hotel inspector, that on July 1 his deputies will start enforcing the law passed at the last session of the legislature relative to hotel equipment, fire escapes, sanitary measures and things of like kind.

"I have been sending out warning to all hotel keepers," Mr. Crozier said, "that they must comply with the law. A copy of the recent act is enclosed with each letter so they may learn what its provisions are. I am giving plenty of time, I think, for all to prepare to observe it. Then there will be no excuse when the inspectors get out."

Mr. Crozier says a great lot of the hotels will have to be equipped with ropes for fire escape because other means are lacking.

The couple will leave today for an automobile tour of France, on the steamer Kron Prince Wilhelm.

CONFRONTED BY BEAR.

Northwestern Section Foreman Gets Fright Near Ishpeming.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—August Anderson, section foreman on the Cascade branch of the Chicago & Northwestern system, was confronted by a big black bear recently. He was working on the track when the bear came out in front of him and stood up on his hind legs, looking squarely into his face. As Anderson did not have a gun with him, he made a hasty retreat, and the bear did not attempt to follow him. Bears and wolves are seen frequently in that vicinity.

Minneapolis Suicide.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 9.—"I do not wish to live any longer, as I have nothing left to live for," was the text of a note found beside the dead body of Mrs. Ethel R. Nehring, 30, 2632 Third street north, by her husband, M. R. Nehring, when he went into her room after finishing his supper Sunday.

While her husband was eating, Mrs. Nehring went into the bedroom and took carbolic acid.

"ZENITH."

High School Publication to Be Fine Book.

The 1911 Zenith which the seniors at the high school have prepared promises to be one of the most interesting and original publications of its kind ever issued by the students.

It has several innovations this year which will add interest. It has been divided into chapters on the faculty, seniors, senior activities, underclassmen, athletics, organizations, miscellaneous contributions, and advertising.

It is also to be profusely illustrated with individual pictures of the senior class, of the members of the football team and the basket ball team, of the officers of the junior, sophomore and freshman classes and last of all a large group of kodak pictures taken of members of the faculty and students which are to be a surprise even to the subjects of the pictures themselves.

The name of the person honored by the dedication of the book has not been disclosed and will not be until the book is out of the hands of the printer, which will not be until next month.

No advance slips were sold this year for the first time since the book has been published by the school. Usually it has been the custom to sell receipts for the books before it went to the printers and always at a lower price than that asked after it was out. This was to raise money to deposit with the board of education to insure the payment of the bills incurred in printing it, but this year the deposit was not required and the class expects to realize more by the sale of the books at the regular price.

The stories and poems in the book are all of the highest order and the prize story written by Archie Glass is a true account of a canoe trip taken last summer on Rainy River and is illustrated with kodak pictures taken by the writer.

THE EVENING STORY

A MOTHER'S LOVE

By C. O'Mahony.

The young man lounged into the room and threw his bag of tools in the corner. It was a depressing room, and at the best of times it would have done nothing to lift the gloom from Richard Nott's face, but this evening the young farm laborer was in a particularly bad frame of mind, and his mother, who was crouching over the miserable fire, glanced at him apprehensively.

"What's the matter, Dick?" she asked, turning a face that was prematurely aged by poverty.

"Everything's the matter," growled her son. "Farmer Gates has been and reduced me to ten dollars a week."

"We've been starving for years," he answered. "Starvation and nothing else. And there's young Gates enjoying himself in New York at the races and everything else. I'm as good as he is any day."

There was a challenge in his voice, and his mother hastened to soothe him with gentle words.

"Of course you are, Dick," she said, rising and stroking his rough cheek. "Better than them all—far better."

Mother and son afforded a curious contrast, for Dick Nott was a splendid specimen of manhood at 22. He had been brought up in the cottage he now stood in, and worked all his life in the surrounding farms after a short spell at the village school. The tiny cottage of three rooms had been his only home, and ever since the death of his father, six years before, his earnings had been their only support. But in the man's heart steady discontent was growing. He saw his mother fading away into an old hag—and she was not yet 50—he remembered with bitterness that they had insufficient food three days a week, that he was of no account in the human labor mart, and that his services were reckoned even more cheaply than those of a beast of burden.

Seven dollars a week he had started at, and had finally got up to thirteen dollars, and now he was reduced to ten dollars!

"Ten dollars a week, mother think of it," he exclaimed moodily. "Farmer Gates says as how trade is bad—he can't sell his stuff. Perhaps he's right—but it means starvation for us."

"Don't be so downcast, Dick," said his mother, stroking him on the cheek. She was very fond of doing that. "We'll manage somehow. It's a pity we ever stayed here, but your father wouldn't move. He always believed in the land, he did."

"The land," cried Dick contemptuously. "It only kills those who stick to it and look after it. Them as don't do a thing for it, and don't care about it, get the best out of it. Look at me. I've worked myself almost to death, and now I'm worth ten dollars a week."

Mrs. Nott sighed heavily, and resumed her seat by the fire with her back to her son. For some minutes silence reigned, and then Dick heard his mother mumbling to herself. Here and there he caught a word, and sometimes she mentioned his name, but he did not listen intently.

"Dick," she said aloud, and he replied. "Dick, I wonder if I made a mistake when I didn't allow the lady as wanted you long ago to take you away."

"Take me away?" cried her son, going to her chair and standing beside it. "I've never heard of such a thing. What do you mean?" She looked up at him, fear and affection in her tired, gray eyes.

"Would you hate me if I told you?" she asked, but only half loud, as if she did not want an answer.

"Let me hear," he said quietly, "you have nothing to fear from me."

There was a long pause before she found the necessary courage to begin, but at last she started, her words coming in jerks from her huddled up body, while all the time she kept her face hidden from her son.

"It is just twenty-one years since it happened, dear," she said, "you was then a tiny baby and I was a young wife, though you were my fourth. How proud your father was of me—and you"—she whispered, "he was very proud. We hadn't much, but somehow we managed to get along. The cottage was better looking than it is now, and if wages wasn't high there was plenty of things beside, and your father had many pickings."

"Then one day while we was both at home, we were surprised to see a carriage and pair drive up and stop at the cottage. Out of it steps a lady and a gent, dressed in furs and looking as if they owned the earth. 'You're Mrs. Nott?' she says, and I answered, 'Yes, my lady,' for I had been in service and knew my manners.

"'You have four children, one just born?' Not knowing what was coming, I said yes. Then, Dick," the speaker's voice grew weaker, "then, dear, she asked me if I'd let her have you to bring up and educate to be her own son. She said she had been married for ten years and had no children, and wanted one so badly. She had seen you in your sister's arms, and made inquiries. We were poor, and had three others to keep. They are all dead now, Dick; all gone, and I thank heaven they were spared my—my misery."

She broke down and sobbed, sobbed in such a way that it was heart breaking to hear her. Dick tried to comfort her, but he could only utter a few words, afraid that he might cry, too.

"If I had only known, Dick, I would have acted different. She said she'd bring you up as her own boy, send you to college and make a gentleman of you."

"Oh, mother," cried Dick, "a gentleman—you wouldn't let me be a gentleman!

"But I loved you too much, Dick, to let you go. Heaven knows, there wasn't much I could give you, but you were my son and I hungered for you. When she came in her silks and satins, and tempted me, I clung tighter to you and refused to let you go.

"She offered me money—but I refused. I hated her for tempting me, Dick. We were only poor people, but we had our feelings. I wanted my darling baby, my boy, my life." She turned her hands appealingly towards him, but he never moved.

"Dick, I love you now as I loved you then. It was selfish of me to keep you for myself, but you saved me from the workhouse when your father died. After all, you are the best son in the world. Isn't that something to be proud of?"

She stopped, hoping in her heart that he would respond, but all she heard was the muttered phrase, "A gentleman," and she felt a terrible sinking of the heart.

"Did they take anybody else?" he asked, rousing himself.

"Yes, they went next door. It was then let to Franklin and his wife. They had only one son, but they gave him up at once to the fine lady. They didn't love as I loved."

"And Franklin's son is now a gentleman?"

She nodded.

* * *

Mother and son ate their evening meal in silence, the woman timidly affectionate and quietly endeavoring, by dog-like affection to prove her love for Dick. But the young farm laborer scarcely noticed her presence. His brain was full of the strange story.

A loud knock at the door startled him, and before his mother could answer it, he had opened and disclosed a tall young man, fashionably dressed, standing outside. For a moment they stared blankly at each other, and then Dick stood aside for the stranger to enter.

"Mrs. Nott," he said looking around him.

"There's my mother," said Dick.

"Will you take a seat?"

With a slight bow the visitor accepted, and for a few moments sat in the presence of mother and son. All three were embarrassed, but the stranger most of all.

"I must apologize for disturbing you," he said in a cultured tone, "but you were referred to me as being friends of the Franklins who lived about here."

"They had the next cottage, sir," said Mrs. Nott. "I knew them well."

"So they told me," muttered the visitor, fingering his hat nervously. "Mrs. Nott," he said, rising suddenly, "Franklin was my father. I—I have come to inquire about him. Of course, I know he's dead, but I should like to hear what he was like."

"What!" cried Mrs. Nott, staring blankly at the aristocratic figure in front of her, "you young Franklin, the little baby I used to nurse years and years ago?"

"The very same," and the stranger forced a smile.

Dick drew back in the gloom, his mind working furiously. Here was the very man he might have been. He might have been like this gentleman. He might have dressed in fashionable clothes. Oh, what might he—. He stopped as the stranger began speaking again.

"I am now supposed to be at Harvard, Mrs. Nott," he said, "for Mrs. Fitzgerald certainly kept her word."

"Harvard, sir!" cried Mrs. Nott delightedly, as she recalled the baby she knew in the long ago.

"Harvard!" repeated Dick in such a tone that his mother turned and looked at him. In that moment she guessed his thoughts and she trembled. Her son would surely hate her now.

"Do you remember those days, Mrs. Nott?" Franklin asked.

"Indeed I do, sir," she replied.

For the life of her she could not speak to this man as an equal; yet the "sir" sounded like a confession to her son.

"Why, the lady came here first," she went on, forgetting her fears temporarily. "She wanted Dick, my son—not you—but I loved him too much to let him go, Dick."

The young man came closer.

"So you might have been in my place, eh?" said Franklin.

Dick never said a word. There was an embarrassing silence before the visitor resumed. "I suppose you think you did me a good turn in letting me go, Mrs. Nott?" he said, and his tone seemed strange.

"I acted according to my light," she said quietly.

"You let the lady take me, eh, Mrs. Nott?" He was now almost peering into her face, so close was he. "Mrs. Nott, I wish to heaven you had sent your son."

Even Dick was aroused by the passion in the stranger's voice, and he started slightly.

"You may well be surprised," went on Franklin, facing mother and son, "for, after all these years, I stand before you a ruined man. Mrs. Fitzgerald kept the letter of her agreement. She sent me to a public school, and afterwards to the university, but all my life I have never known a mother's love—I've had no one who took a real interest in me.

"Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald soon tired of me. When I grew up I was no longer a plaything, and they took no trouble to conceal the fact that I was only an adopted son. I had plenty of money with which to ruin myself, but no one to go to for advice when I was in trouble. I soon joined a set of fast young men, and, when I fell in love, it was too late; the girl sent me away. I envy your son here, healthy and happy. I have never been like him. Look at me. Don't you see the marks of the world on my face?" His voice had real tears in it now.

"Oh, I wish I had never been taken into a world for which I was never intended! I should have done well on the land. Now I am a half gentleman—I am neither one thing nor the other. No doubt you think you did me a good turn by keeping your son. If you were a man I should hate you for it." He paused and surveyed them. "I am sorry if I have said anything bitter," he murmured, going toward the door, "but you may forgive me when I tell you I am leaving the country tomorrow. I am running away, because when they find out a certain thing I have done, they will disown me. They have been waiting for such an opportunity for years. Good night."

He was gone before they could reply, and Mrs. Nott, her eyes welled with tears, was about to run after him when she felt a pair of strong arms about her neck and heard her son whisper huskily:

"Mother, dearest mother, I am so glad you did not let me go!"

Clothing and Health

By FRANCES WILEY.

The pretty effects should be secondary considerations in comparison with comfort, and its connection with good health, when making the children's clothes. If only mothers could realize how much of their true selves they publish to the world in the appearance of their little ones.

Every child is dressed with one of these points in view; either the clothes are made to suit the nature and comfort of their little wearer, or their daintiness is of an order which converts the child into nothing more or less than a showy doll.

There is no concealment of the fact; one or the other of these examples are to be seen in almost every child one meets.

An yet foolish mothers of these "exhibition children" will flatter themselves that their small sons and daughters are the prettiest children in the district! It is indeed a lamentable pity when mothers fail to see that prettiness consists only in glowing cheeks and sound, robust health.

When, however, the clothes are ill fitting or over elaborate, movement is hampered or restrained; therefore development can not take place. So much has been done to point out this fact to mothers that these mistakes are now no longer due to ignorance.

To insure perfection, no garment should be made inconsistently of another, but each should be so fashioned that it may hang smoothly over the one beneath it. Though at first an entire outfit each time may seem rather an expense, it is really a saving, as the garments in this way all receive an equal amount of wear and can all be replaced together when the child has grown out of them.

Avoid finery and showiness as much as possible upon the dresses of growing children. This does not mean that their dresses should be plain to a degree of ugliness, neither must the periodical "dress up" occasions be disregarded, for it is well for children to understand at an early age the importance of a good appearance.

Simplicity should be the prime factor in children's clothes, not only because it is necessary to health, but further, because their temperaments are affected by it. Teach them, even the youngest, that beauty and elegance do not exist in a great show, but that quiet care in dress has the greatest charm.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Dandruff.

Dandruff is the general cause of the falling out of the hair; therefore, you must try to combat this disagreeable disease on its first appearance, or in time it will damage the most luxuriant head of hair.

There are several good treatments for dandruff, of which three of the best are here given:

First Treatment—Every morning during four or five days, soak a wad of absorbent cotton in the following preparation, and wet the scalp with it, moistening the hair as little as possible, and let dry:

Second Treatment—In the morning and at night, until the complete disappearance of the dandruff, rub the scalp with a tooth brush dipped in the following composition:—

Third Treatment—Dissolve a lump of carbonate of soda the size of a nut in five hundred cubic centimeters of water, and every morning wash your head with a small sponge steeped in this solution.

After washing, dry the hair with a warm towel, and then rub the scalp with a handful of the following mixture:

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Spring Cleaning.

Carpet cleaning should precede spring cleaning. Among the various methods which are given for the cleaning and freshening of a shabby carpet is to wipe it over with a cloth which has been wrung out of warm water and vinegar in the proportion of a cupful of the latter to a pailful of water. This process must be carried out, however, until the carpet has been carefully brushed, and care must be taken to let it dry thoroughly before it is walked over.

Whitened Steps.

To keep steps white in wet and fine weather alike plaster of paris should be used instead of whiting, as the rain does not wash it off. A nickel's worth can be obtained from any chemist's, and will last several times. Mix the powder to a thin paste, and apply the same as whiting.

Helps for the Housekeeper.

Beeswax and salt will make rusty flatirons as clear as glass. Tie a lump of wax in a rag and keep it for the purpose. When the irons are hot, rub them first with the wax rag, then scour with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt.

After washing black stockings, silk or wool, add to the rinsing water a little salt. This helps to preserve the color. New stockings should always be washed before being worn and, if possible, the heels and toes should be run.

A stained black coat can be quickly cleansed by applying to it with a sponge strong coffee, to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. Finish the process by rubbing the coat with a piece of colored woolen material.

Aluminum utensils for the kitchen are becoming daily more popular on account of their light weight and cleanliness. They must never be washed with soda, soap and water being all that is required, with a little powdered whiting for polishing.

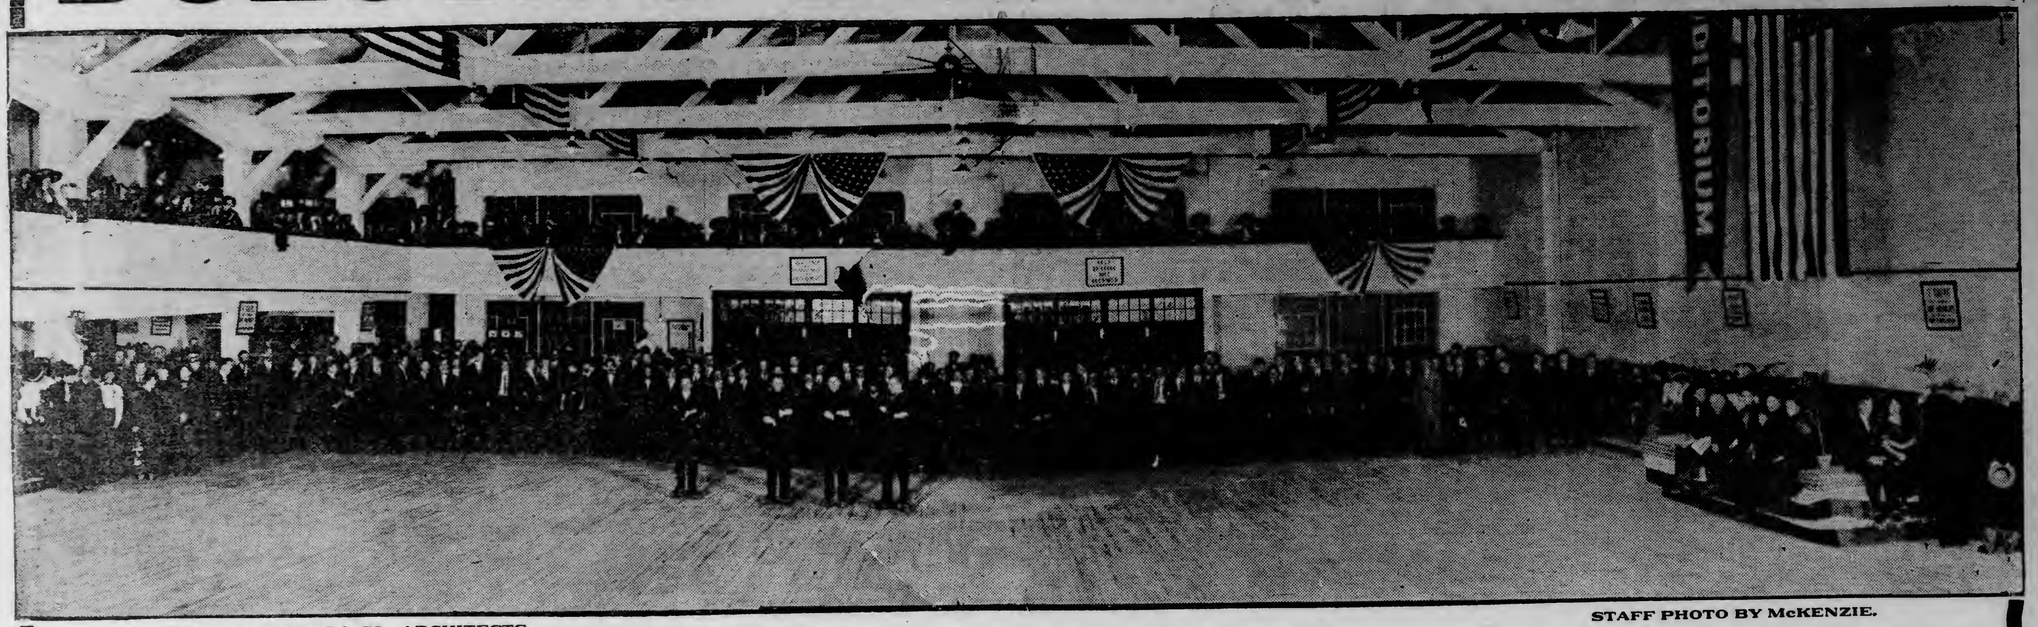
DULUTH'S BIG AUDITORIUM



FRANK L. YOUNG & CO., ARCHITECTS.

The completion of the new Auditorium at Third avenue east and First street, has brought about the most wonderful revival of interest in roller skating that the city has ever witnessed, and a visit to the big building would give one the impression that about half the people of Duluth have the skating bug. The music is most enticing and the crowds in the balconies seem to enjoy it as much as the skaters thronging the immense floor.

The Auditorium was opened to the public Tuesday evening and the big crowd that witnessed the opening has been followed by others on succeeding nights, nearly as large. The proceeds of the opening night, through the generosity of the owners, went to the benefit of the Children's Home.

Beyond question, the Auditorium is the finest roller rink ever built in the Northwest. L. Hammel Co., who planned and financed the enterprise, are well-known progressive business men. They believe that the people of Duluth and vicinity want a place of amusement of this sort on a larger scale than has heretofore been attempted, and they have left nothing undone to meet the demand in every detail.

All the safe-guards with which you would surround young people in your home, will be carefully observed at our rink, and none but those, considered by the management as being acceptable to our patrons, will be admitted and furnished with skates.

An elegant refreshment department will be installed and conducted on the same high grade basis.

No intoxicating drinks will be sold on the premises or allowed in the building.

Parents are especally invited to visit the Auditorium and observe the manner in which it is conducted.

Ladies desirous of learning to skate will be given special attention by competent instructors.

The management has been very fortunate in securing the services of W. L. Downer of New York, who is in charge of the rink, and has had long experience among the high class rinks of the East, while a competent corps of instructors have been provided to teach those beginning to skate, in fact, everything is being done for the comfort and pleasure of the patrons. The management will see that no objectionable persons are allowed at the rink.

The Auditorium is a modern, fireproof brick structure with a fine skating floor of clear maple, 80x130 feet. In connection are check rooms, ladies' dressing rooms, waiting rooms and a fine balcony for spectators. A powerful military organ, equal to a twelve-piece orchestra, furnishes the music.

The building will also serve as a convention hall in time of large gatherings.

The spacious basement is used for vehicle storage only; no horses or automobiles will be kept in or about the building.

A STRAW.

Joined with the complete disorganization of the Republican party in the nation, with the clumsy and futile digging in of heels by its old guard representatives in congress against progressive measures, with the wise and statesmanlike conduct of the Democratic majority in the house and with the grasp Democrats like Woodrow Wilson are getting upon the affection and confidence of the people, there is an interesting significance in this little item from the Springfield Republican:

"In accounting for the fact that the collectorship of Newport, R. I., is going begging, it is necessary to examine the political outlook. Hitherto there has invariably been a rush of candidates for this Federal office, but Republican after Republican has lately declined to accept an appointment. It must be that Newport regards the election of a Democratic president next year as a foregone conclusion, and that no citizen cares to assume the burden of an office from which he might be unfeelingly ejected during the next administration."

Time flies swiftly, and brings its changes inevitably. Nineteen hundred and eight seems but yesterday; yet here we are with a presidential election due next year, and Republicans refusing Federal offices subject to change with the incoming of the new administration. Verily, straws do tell which way the wind blows.

MOVING LIKE CLOCKWORK.

When the Canadian reciprocity treaty was proposed, those misguided but earnest individuals who had assured themselves that it means ruin to the American farmer declared sadly: "Reciprocity is all right in principle, but here you go taking the duty off everything the farmer produces and leaving it on everything he needs. Where is the justice of that?"

Though by no means an accurate statement of the facts, there was something to this complaint. However, it was an argument that it was very easy to meet. The Democrats met it by proposing a free list composed of things the farmer uses, and after putting the reciprocity measure through the house they promptly put such a free list into the form of a bill, and yesterday that bill passed the house, every Democrat voting for it and twenty-four Republicans, including Messrs. Anderson, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Steenerson and Volstead of Minnesota, joining with them.

This action totally disarms the critics of reciprocity, for the two measures together constitute a long step in advance and out from under the heavy burden of the tariff tax.

Furthermore, yesterday's vote in the house shows that the Democratic majority in the house is moving like clockwork toward the carrying out of its broad and wise and timely program of measures for the relief of the American people from unjust and oppressive burdens.

WHERE POSTAL BANKS SERVE BEST.

One of the arguments advanced for the postal savings banks during the many years when they were demanded by the people and delayed by congress was that there are millions of foreign-born people in this country who are used to postal banks at home, will use no others here, and would bring their savings out of hiding and pour them into the channels of trade through the postal savings bank if the government were wise enough to create it.

No argument for the postal savings bank has been proved more conclusively by the experiments so far conducted by the government than this one.

For instance, the other day a postal bank was opened at Gary, Ind., the new steel city. When the window opened for business a long list of depositors stood before it waiting to put in their money. The Chicago News thus describes the incident: "Those in line were mainly wage workers of foreign birth, accustomed to using the postal savings institutions in their native lands. Their unfamiliarity with private banks had caused them, since their arrival in the United States, to send their money abroad for safe keeping, or to force its care upon the government through the purchase of money orders payable to themselves. The presence in Gary of so large a number of foreign-born working men led Postmaster General Hitchcock to select that city as one of the first of the postal savings banks."

Though the postal saving bank law was approved nearly a year ago, at present there is scarcely more than one depositary in operation in each state. That means that though the system has been legal for a year, only a very small percentage of the people have access to postal banks. The recent announcement that the postoffice department will add from fifty to a hundred new postal banks each month from now on is encouraging. The department should let no unnecessary time elapse before every community in the country has access to a postal depositary.

The fact that the first and most anxious patrons of the postal banks are men of foreign birth lends emphasis to the suggestion that Duluth ought to be early in the list of cities in which banks are to be opened. So, too, should the iron mining communities, a large proportion of whose population consists of people of alien birth, and it is gratifying to note that Hibbing has been given a postal bank. St. Louis county would unquestionably contribute an enormous sum to the postal bank deposit within a few weeks after postal banks are opened here.

It should be unnecessary to explain the public advantage that would come out of this new service. Comparatively few of the foreign-born laborers in the mining camps, especially those who have arrived within a few years, patronize the private banks. Their money is sent to Europe for safe keeping, hidden away at home, or tied up in money orders; and in neither case is it flowing, as it should be, through the regular channels of commerce.

A dollar in cash, circulating as it should and usually, under the prevailing system of conducting business largely by bank checks, deposited in a state or national bank, is considered worth at least three dollars as a basis of credit. A dollar drawn out of circulation cuts three dollars out of the supply of credit available for the conduct of business. If hidden savings are drawn into circulation, as they will be by the postal banks, trade will benefit not only by the increased circulation, but by the increased available credit.

Duluth and the iron range communities should have postal savings banks as speedily as possible.

THE ORDER OF THE DAY.

Though the free list bill passed by the house yesterday is purely a Democratic measure, twenty-four Republicans voted for it.

Which shows once more that the wholesome breaking down of party barriers, long effective among the people, has reached the people's representatives in Washington, and that the list of those who can see over party boundaries and do the right thing in the interests of the people, regardless of partisanship, is growing steadily.

Doing things for the people, contrasted with the old vogue of doing things for the party, is the order of the day.

LET US HOPE SO.

A Washington dispatch to The Herald the other evening said that "parcels post legislation is scheduled for passage by the leaders of the Democratic house."

It is to be hoped that this is true. It is high time that this country declared its independence of the express monopoly and established through the parcels post a competitive system that will improve parcel-carrying service and lower parcel-carrying rates.

It is high time, too, that the postoffice department were turning the rural free delivery system, now operated at a great loss though well worth while even at that, into a profitable department of the postal service.

Rural free delivery wagons that now carry a ridiculously light load on each trip might as well go out filled with parcels from the village stores and come back filled with farm products mailed to customers in the villages and cities. It will make a little more work for the carriers, but it will turn a very costly service into a very profitable one, and it will bring the postoffice closer to the people by expanding enormously its usefulness to them.

The Democrats in the house may well take up the parcels post and put through a law giving the people of the United States this highly useful service which they, almost alone among the civilized peoples of the earth, have been denied so long. Parcels post legislation has knocked at the doors of Republican congresses in vain for many years. Its alarms have fallen upon deaf ears. Though postmaster general after postmaster general has recommended it, and though several presidents have urged it, congress has looked the other way and closed its ears. If the Democratic house will reverse this custom and put through a reasonable parcels post law, and if the Democrats and insurgent Republicans of the senate will put it through that body, the achievement will by no means be the least of the session.

The enormous profits of the express companies, each of which started business on a shoestring and worked from practically nothing up to a vast capitalization based almost entirely on surplus profits, prove emphatically the need of regulating the express business in the interests of the people; and steps toward that regulation are now in progress.

No more effective regulation of the express business could be devised than to establish competition where none now exists, and the best way to establish competition in parcel-carrying is for the government itself to take up parcel-carrying. There never should have been an express company, anyway. It is a business that is peculiar to this country, and here, as elsewhere, it should have been conducted by the railroads or by the postoffice, preferably by the latter.

By all means let congress, be it a Democratic congress, a Republican congress, or just a plain for-the-people congress, pass a parcels post law. It cannot come too soon.

FISHWAYS FOR LESTER RIVER.

Nobody who has witnessed the interesting but pitiful attempt of the trout, obeying the instinct to multiply the species, to climb the falls of Lester river in order to seek suitable spawning places above, can fail to be interested in the communication from Walter Turle, published in the Open Court today, in which is contained a letter from the Federal bureau of fisheries stating that the local representative of the bureau has been instructed to investigate the need of fishways over the falls.

If these fishways are built, the trout will be able to get to the upper waters of the river to spawn, and that means the replenishing of the numerous branches of this far-reaching stream with fish.

If there is anything Duluth and its people can do to forward this improvement, it ought to be done.

THE LESSER OF TWO EVILS.

Senator Borah was successful yesterday in getting the constitutional amendment providing for popular election of senators placed as "unfinished business" in the senate, which means that it will come to a vote shortly. Some time ago this newspaper predicted that rather than run the risk of a constitutional convention called on the initiative of the states, throwing the Constitution wide open to any sort of change, the System would consent to the submission of the direct election amendment. That prediction seems in a fair way to be fulfilled.

It will be very decent of the weather man if he will put out the rest of the forest fires and give the gardens a good drenching.

Senator Clapp doesn't appear to have been even an "also ran" in the election of a president pro tem of the senate.

The farmers may be protesting against the reciprocity bill, but here's predicting that after it has been in operation a year they will protest still harder against its repeal.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION

By SAVOYARD.

It seems that I will have to elucidate it again, so as to bring it within the scope of the understanding of the Fort Worth Record, as appears from the following in that paper of April 14, and which for the first time met my eye a few minutes ago:

"In his letter to the News Savoyard declared that 'Freetrader Bailey's objection to the proposed Canadian reciprocity and Protectionist Cummins' objections are identical,' to which we answered in kind that Savoyard and Senator Aldrich were working in double harness to drag the bill through congress. This little pleasantry failed, however, to provoke an answering chirp from our versatile friend and we shall pass on to weightier matters."

But Mr. Aldrich favors the treaty because in his opinion it will strengthen what they call the "protective principle." I favor it because it is a step in the direction of free trade, and in my opinion an assault on the protection dogma. For example, two men may travel the same road, and have the same destination, though it is the mission of one to preach the gospel and the design of the other to steal a horse. But when Mr. Bailey goes in company with Mr. Aldrich he is the accomplice of that Ajax of predatory wealth, and the usufruct is a legislative and economic burglary whereby monopoly is laden with additional spoil and the people oppressed with cumulative exaction. See?

Bailey was reported as opposing reciprocity because, as he opined, it worked a hardship on the farmers, and that is the objection to it assigned by Cummins. When a Democratic senator from a cotton state rejects the slice of free trade on the ground that it deprives the farmer of alleged protection, I am reminded of the spectacle when the son of Zeus and Leto stalked among the swineherds of Admetus. It also recalls the copious flood of bitter, blistering, salt tears shed by Bob Ingersoll over the cruel slaughter of animals offered on the sacrificial altars of the ancient Israelites, just before Bob filled his belly with beef and "went a-coloneling down South to shed the blood of people who never wrought him harm."

Now I'm going to show you the nigger in this here woodpile. Reciprocity with Canada is a staggering blow to the lumber trust. That's what's the matter with reciprocity, and all that's the matter with it. That is why the lumber trust is in politics up to the elbow and in corruption up to the armpit. Hence that episode in the Illinois legislature. We all recollect some thirty years ago when the Standard Oil company bought a seat in the United States senate from a Democratic legislature of Ohio, and Standard Oil even had the effrontery to attempt—and it narrowly failed—to buy a nomination for president of the United States from a Democratic national convention. And this lumber trust is as deep in politics now as Standard Oil was then. It opposes reciprocity.

* * *

My friend from Fort Worth adds:

"We expressed the opinion that Senator Bailey opposed the Canadian agreement because he does not believe in granting special tariff favors to any country because it is wrong in principle and likely to invite reprisal by other countries not so favored. But, it seems we can't get an argument out of Savoyard on this point."

Wrong in principle! I don't quite follow. Is it that we must not make an advantageous trade with Canada unless all the other nations join and share the benefits? What a principle! Does The Record mean to hold that if Senator Bailey swaps horses with one man he must swap horses with all men? I believe the senator sometimes deals in horses. Must our republic submit its sovereignity to the award of the nations and get their assent before one of our citizens shall be allowed to swap a basket of potatoes for a kit of mackerel? That "principle" needs to be put under glass. It is not safe for it to adventure outside the yard gate. Even Bailey himself can't harness that "principle."

* * *

I take appeal from Bailey to a man born in the state of which I am a native, and who shed unfailing lustre on the state of which Mr. Bailey is a native. Jefferson Davis dominated the administration of Franklin Pierce as completely as Andrew Jackson did that of Martin Van Buren, or John Sherman that of R. B. Hayes. The administration of Pierce was perhaps the most Democratic of all the Democratic administrations of our history. It negotiated a reciprocity treaty with Canada that the Republican party put an end to over the protest of every Democrat in America. No Democrat of that elder, and mayhap better day, ever said reciprocity was unprincipled. As for "reprisals by other nations not so favored." Bosh! The suggestion is beneath the dead level of hopeless absurdity. Does the Record believe in that Republican sham, the maximum and minimum, as incorporated in the Payne-Aldrich monstrosity? Perhaps. That nation is a fool that increases the burdens of its own people by any such "reprisal." Does the Record believe in "hants?"

* * *

Now listen. It is a well established piece of deportment in this town that Senator Bailey is the only man in congress fit to expound Robert J. Walker, and even he fails to venture upon a comment of the Walker report of 1848, which recommended reciprocity with Canada and Mexico. For what? To give the American manufacturer cheap raw materials.

All my friends will tell you that I am never guilty of bad manners, and I hope it will be held no breach of good manners to appropriate The Record's little eloquent and jocose satire, and invite it, and Senator Bailey, too, to given an "answering chirp" to Robert J. Walker on that proposition.

As for Senator Bailey's inconsistency, I care not a continental for it. I have a perfect contempt for any man who subordinates conviction to consistency; but the Fort Worth Record's apology for Mr. Bailey's votes for free raw materials is a string of words confusing even to itself, if, indeed, such a paper can be confused by anything.

What are the facts? Mr. Bailey was a member of the Fifty-second congress, and while he was a more or less conspicuous public man at that time, he never said a word in opposition to free raw materials, though even then he was looked on as one of the orators of congress, and would have met with no difficulty in obtaining the floor. On the contrary, by his vote he lined up with Mills and Bryan, Carlisle and Cleveland, William L. Wilson and Henry G. Turner on that proposition. If in the Fifty-second or the Fifty-third congress he was in heart one of the garrison of the citadel of protection, he kept it a profound secret, and the public never dreamed that he was not in accord with William L. Wilson on the tariff until after he was chosen leader of the Democratic minority upon the death of Charles F. Crisp, when Mr. Bailey had been in public life for years.

His action in these two congresses cannot be set down to the modesty that breeds stage fright, for he persistently insisted that congress turn out legislation by the yard, by the bushel, by the dozen, and by the pound, when day in and day out he sought to dock the salaries of members for absence from the deliberations. Of course we all charged that to the account of adolescence and carried it to the ledger of profit and loss. But if Mr. Bailey was not for free raw materials up to the enactment of the Wilson bill, he was not frank with his associates. He has changed his views since then, and I have no quarrel with him for following his convictions. I have changed my opinions repeatedly, but I have never failed to proclaim the change from the house-tops.

* * *

But that is of no consequence. Does the Fort Worth Record deny that the ultimate consumer pays the tariff on raw materials? There is the meat in the egg. I will not insult the intelligence of this Fort Worth paper by believing that it does not know that the farmer who follows the plow pays every cent of tariff on every particle of raw material of which that plow is constructed. And it is the same with every other manufactured article the consumer buys.

And do not forget that the four greatest secretaries of treasury the Democratic party has furnished—Albert Gallatin, Robert J. Walker, James Guthrie and John G. Carlisle—all recommended and argued for free raw materials.

Does the Fort Worth editor really believe that Texas should be protected from Mexico? They say the elephant shrieks with terror in the presence of a mouse.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

FISH LADDER NEEDED AT LESTER PARK DAM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A short time ago I wrote the department in Washington, asking that a fish ladder be placed at the dam in Lester park, which supplies water for the fish hatchery, and am today in receipt of the subjoined reply, which will explain itself. In view of the importance of this matter for the conserving of the fish in the upper branches of Lester river, I think it would be a good thing, were everyone who is interested in it, to use what influence they have for the promotion of this project.

The government letter reads as follows:

"Replying to your letter of the 24 inst., relative to the apparent necessity of constructing a fishway over the dam at the mouth of the Lester river, which is used by the bureau in connection with its fish cultural operations at the Duluth station, you are advised that the matter has been brought to the attention of the bureau's representative at Duluth, who has been instructed to make an investigation and submit a report thereon. Upon receipt of this report, the bureau will take such action, as the circumstances may warrant. Respectfully,
H. M. Smith, Acting Commissioner."

In line with the precautions now being taken by the board of health, the public service companies and the city council to safeguard the dear public from possible infection through contact with germs and other injurious things, it is suggested that the street railway company take measures to abolish the habit of some of its conductors who moisten their fingers with saliva when giving out transfers.

The majority of these hard-worked and much-abused individuals some times take a chew of "snuss," "Peerless" and other brands of refreshments which are very deleterious to the public health when purveyed in a second-hand state. It is also suggested that each conductor submit to an "immunity bath" and also have his supply of nickles, etc., sterilized.

Passengers should refuse to accept change when not so treated.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Nor For Work.

Park Rapids Enterprise: Northern Minnesota will look good to many residents of cities farther south during the next five months. There is no place like it for rest and recreation.

Let the People Rule.

Montevideo Leader: The Keefe bill passed by our legislature provides for the virtual election of United States senators by the people and now the machine politicians are "struck with horror" for fear a Republican state may take a notion to send a Democrat to the senate. Well, what if it should? Wouldn't it be a pretty good sign that the people were looking for statesmen rather than politicians? It was Republican votes that elected John Lind and John A. Johnson to the gubernational office and no harm came from it except to the office seekers and office holders who didn't get in or couldn't stay in. And what if the same people should take a notion to Make John Lind United States senator, does any one doubt that he would make a good man in that place? We guess the Keefe bill is all right and if the political "perfesh" will keep hands off, the people will do the right thing, or at least they will do that which the majority approves of.

It's the Only Honest Kind.

Anoka Union: The Union favors but one kind of reapportionment and that is the one which is equal, making one citizen as good as another, no matter where he resides.

Should Have a Square Deal.

Princeton Union: The state board of control has been notified by the governor that formal charges must be preferred against F. A. Whittier, superintendent of the Red Wing training school, and a full hearing had. If innocent, says the governor, Whittier should be vindicated and, if guilty, he should be removed without delay. This is of course only fair to Mr. Whittier, but, as the legislative investigating committee failed to bring any formal charges against him, the board of control is in a quandry as to its procedure in the matter. If it follows the governor's instructions it will have to prefer charges of its own. Mr. Whittier should at least be given a square deal.

Right You Are.

Warroad Plaindealer: Whatever you may think of the recent session of the legislature as a whole, there is one proposition that we here in Roseau county can agree on, and that is that we have reason to point with pride to the record of our own particular representative there. G. H. Matson made good in the past session, most emphatically. Besides taking a leading part in all matters of importance, he secured all that could possibly be expected for the home county and for his section of the state. The free seed distribution in the fire district was made possible through his effort; the extra aid to schools in districts containing state school lands was partly through his efforts and the new road legislation was strongly supported by him. Matson has been an excellent man for the north country, for Roseau county and for the state in general and we believe the people of the county ought to know it.

Whittier Should Stand Pat.

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: If Superintendent Whittier of the Red Wing training school should resign now he would be tacitly admitting the unjust charges made against him before the legislative investigating committee, and since both houses by overwhelming majorities refused to either censure him or recommend his discharge, he is justified in remaining on the job unless the board of control can find new reasons for his dismissal. The club women of the state may feel justified in demanding Whittier's removal by the governor, but until they inform themselves better as to the facts brought out in the recent investigation their demands should go unheeded by the chief executive.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR CITY LIGHTING PLANT ORDERED

The city council last night passed a resolution calling for a complete set of specifications, plans and surveys, with detailed statements of the cost for the construction and equipment by the city of a plant for furnishing electric light, heat and power. The Duluth Edison Electric company also submitted to last evening's meeting the form of a new contract making substantial reductions in rates.

The proper city officers were authorized and directed to enter into a contract with Oscar Claussen of St. Paul and Charles L. Pillsbury of Minneapolis to do the work, the cost not to exceed 2 per cent of the estimated cost of the plant, of which the $2,500 recently appropriated for the use of the city engineer shall be a part. They will work in conjunction with the city engineer and the city attorney.

The resolution is the result of a bill passed by the last legislature authorizing the city to issue $700,000 of bonds for a municipal electric plant.

The resolution was introduced jointly by Aldermen Hogan, Scott and Gibson, who constitute the committee on light and water. Being of general interest it is given in full as follows:

"Whereas, The contract of the city of Duluth with the Duluth-Edison Electric company for municipal lighting expires by its terms Sept. 1, 1911; and

"Whereas, As an inducement and consideration to the city for making such contract said company agreed to certain maximum rates for commercial electric light and power in the city; and

"Whereas, The city is this year empowered for the first time to construct or acquire a plant to furnish the city and its inhabitants with electric light, heat and power; and

"Whereas, This council is of the opinion either (1) that the city should install a plant of its own to furnish the city and its inhabitants with electric light, heat and power; or (2) that the city should undertake the acquisition of the plant of the Duluth-Edison Electric company, either by negotiation or condemnation; or (3) that the city should make a new contract with the Duluth-Edison Electric company on a basis of rates, terms and conditions to be agreed upon by the city and the company; and

"Whereas, At the time the present contract with the Duluth-Edison Electric company was made, about five years ago, the president of said company told this council that if the commercial rates hereinabove referred to were insisted upon by the city, it would bankrupt the company; and

"Whereas, Such rates were insisted upon and were then established, but nevertheless the company has since had the most profitable and successful business career in the history of the present company or any of its four predecessors in interest in Duluth; and

"Whereas, The public interest requires that a thorough investigation of the facts should be made in order to give this council information on which it may act intelligently with respect to the matters and things hereinabove referred to; and

"Whereas, In the opinion of this council, such investigation should include, (1) the determination of what is a reasonable rate to charge for the service rendered in furnishing electric light, heat and power to the city and its inhabitants; and (2) the making of such surveys, plans and specifications for the construction and equipment by the city of a plant for furnishing to the city and its inhabitants electric light, heat and power, as may be deemed necessary in order to determine with accuracy the cost of such plant, and so that such surveys, plans and specifications may be used without duplication of work, in the construction of such plant if the city should hereafter so decide; now therefore be it

"Resolved, That the proper city officers are hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract with Oscar Claussen of St. Paul, Minnesota and Charles L. Pillsbury of Minneapolis, Minnesota, for the making of such surveys, plans and specifications for the construction and equipment by the city of a plant for furnishing to the city and its inhabitants electric light, heat and power, as may be necessary to make estimates of the cost of such plant in detail, a determination of reasonable rates to be charged for the service to be furnished by such plant, and for such other services as the city engineer and the city attorney may deem necessary, within the purview of the preamble of this resolution, all for a consideration of not to exceed 2 per cent of the estimated cost of such plant, of which the $2,500 appropriated for the use of the city engineer for a similar purpose by resolution of April 10, 1911, shall be a part and the balance of which shall be paid out of the general fund of the City of Duluth."

The Company's Offer.

The Duluth-Edison Electric company submitted a proposal for the renewal of its contract with the city, offering a better rate than is at present in force under a five years' contract which will expire Sept. 1, next.

The company offers to furnish arc lamps for $45 each per year, the number not to be less than now in use. Free current is offered to light the city hall, police headquarters, the fire halls, the city hospital, the public library and any other building maintained by the city. Current will be furnished free for a proposed sign for the aerial bridge, the city to supply the sign. That for operating the bridge is put in at $50 a month, and that for the arc lights on the piers at 5 cents per kilowatt-hour. Following a statement that the present rates for commercial and residence lighting is less than the average of all other American cities, the company makes the additional offer of renewing free of charge all carbon and gem filament lamps up to and including 32-candlepower, and to furnish Tungsten or other special globes at cost.

The complete proposal of the company is as follows:

"The Honorable Common Council, City of Duluth:

"Gentlemen — The Duluth-Edison Electric company is willing to enter into a contract with the city in form to be agreed upon and along the lines of that now in force between the city and this company, providing as follows:

"All arc lights of the kind in use to be furnished at $45 per year with no free arc lights except as hereinafter stated, this to include at the same rate what is known as bunch lights, namely, two sixteen candle power lamps constituting one bunch, and three bunches being equal to one arc light; the number of arc lights to be not less than the number in use now.

"The company will furnish free, while the contract is in force:

(a) "Current to light the city hall, police headquarters and jail, all as at present existing.

(b) "Current for proposed sign on the aerial bridge, the city to furnish the sign.

(c) "One arc light for each improved park.

"Current for all fire halls, city hospital, public library, and any other building maintained by the city, and lights for the canal piers at 5 cents per kilowatt hour.

"Current for operating the aerial bridge at the rate of $50 per month.

"The company will (if desired by the city), install in place of an equal number of the present arc lamps, or any additional lamps ordered during the life of the contract, 100 magnetite arc lamps the first year and fifty magnetite arc lamps each succeeding year, providing the council, in ordering such magnetite lamps, place fifty lamps on any one circuit, as then existing.

"The contract to be for a period of ten years, with the right of the city to terminate at the end of three years upon six months' notice of intention so to do, with the privilege of exercising the right of termination at the end of and six months' period after the end of three years.

"Our present rates for commercial and residence lighting and also power rates are extremely low and are much lower than the average of the rates paid in all other American cities and the company desires to give the citizens the benefit of the lowest possible rates, commensurate with the cost and quality of service given but we will make the additional concession, to furnish free lamp renewals to all our customers of this city for all carbon and gem filament lamps up to and including thirty-two candle power lamps, the consumer, however, to pay for the initial installation of lamps; and for all Tungsten or other special lamps, which the company will furnish at cost price. This means a substantial reduction in the cost of lighting to each consumer.

Wants a Thousand Cats.

In response to requests on the part of A. J. Randall of Okanogan county, Washington, cats are pouring in from all directions, and more are coming. He thought of the scheme of ridding the country of gophers and other ground pests. He wanted 7,000, has received 1,000, and probably will have nearly all the cats in the country in the state of Washington. The first order was placed with S. S. Gilbert of Sharon, Pa., because he preferred Keystone state cats. This shows there is a taste in cats as well as in beers of which golden grain belt are the recognized leaders. WONDERFUL SHAMPOO DESTROYS DANDRUFF

"At last we have a dependable remedy for hair and scalp troubles," writes Mae Martyn in the New York Herald. "The problem of lifeless, streaky, unattractive hair and dandruffy, itching scalps seems to be solved. I find these conditions disappear as if by magic by shampooing with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water.

"The rich, creamy lather of this shampoo removes every particle of dust and dandruff and when rinsed out, the hair dries quickly and evenly. This shampoo seems to invigorate and put new life into the hair and scalp. It makes the hair glossy, fluffy and easy to do up and keep looking nice. Canthrox is inexpensive and has the approval of every woman who uses it. It is good for both light and dark hair."

CANADA MAY HAVE ELECTION IN FALL

Ottawa, Ont., May 9.—There will be a general election in Canada before Christmas if the opposition clings to its avowed intention of obstructing reciprocity after the parliamentary adjournment is ended, according to a high governmental official. The great stumbling blocks in the way of an election now are the enforced absence of Sir Wilfred Laurier at the coronation and the fact that the Canadian West will be under represented in parliament until there has been a redistribution of electoral divisions, which cannot be made until the census has been completed. These figures will be available in October. If the opposition then is still obstructing reciprocity, it is said a redistribution bill will be given precedence over reciprocity and an election will follow.

Reciprocity, a progressive railway policy including the expansion of the intercolonial by building new branches and acquiring existing branch lines, the construction of the Hudson Bay railway and a guarantee of bonds to enable the Canadian Northern to span the gap north of the Great Lakes and link its eastern and western systems, and the adoption of a reasonable closure in the house of commons, it was declared, will probably form the issues of the campaign.

SCHOONER AND FIVE OF HER CREW LOST.

Tampa, Fla., May 9.—Confirmation has been received here of the loss of the Guten Refining company's schooner Queen, of this city, with five members of the crew, during the storm on the gulf eight days ago. Fishermen returning to Panama City report finding the schooner, upside down, on shoals off St. Joseph's bay. The Queen left Tampa, April 22 with a cargo of 200 drums of oil bound for Panama City. She was in command of Capt. Cash of Key West.

PANAMA BONDS MAY BE ISSUED VERY SOON.

Washington, May 9.—Something definite will be known shortly regarding the issue of Panama bonds which the treasury for several months has been contemplating. The nation-wide easy condition of the money market is said to be one of the influences which may cause Secretary McVeagh to bring out the new securities soon. The bonds will be either brought out for market very soon or held back until autumn.

"BAD MAN," BETRAYED BY PAL, IS SHOT DOWN.

Keystone, Okla., May 9.—Tom Jordan, a well known "bad man" and cattle rustler, rode into town yesterday and at the point of a gun attempted to rob the Keystone State bank. Deputy marshals had been informed of the plan by a companion of Jordan, and when the latter emerged from the bank he was shot by the marshals. He probably will die.

VAUDEVILLE HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Wilmington, Del., May 9.—The Lyric theater, a vaudeville playhouse, was destroyed by fire this morning. William Benner, the proprietor, and his wife and William J. Waring and John Mullen, actors, and an unknown woman actress were rescued from the third floor of the building. The general store of Louis Jacoby, adjoining the theater, was practically destroyed. Loss $100,000. Insurance partial. The fire is thought to have originated in the dressing room.

CHILD'S BODY IS FOUND.

Supposed Kidnaping Case Solved By Finding of Corpse.

Chicago, May 9.—A search which has lasted for more than a month for Elsie Paroubek, a 5-year-old child thought to have been kidnaped, came to an end last night with the recovery of a body in the drainage canal near Lockport, Ill. The identification was made by Mrs. Paroubek, who recognized the clothing.

The child was believed to have been stolen by gypsies. Rewards were offered by Bohemian societies here and a dozen policemen have devoted all their time to searching for the girl.

The place where the body was recovered is nearly thirty-five miles from here.

DISCUSS SEVEN SENATOR BILL

Simpson and His Assistants in Conference---Schmahl Will Publish It.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Practically all of yesterday afternoon was spent by Attorney General Simpson in close conference with his assistants relative to the course to be pursued in defending the seven-senator act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Mr. Simpson is placed in the peculiar position of defending a bill which, during the session he condemned as unfair and unreasonable. However, as the order asked by Representative Fowler of Hennepin county to restrain the secretary of state from publishing the bill must be defended by the state, Mr. Simpson is making ready.

Because the bill was slipped across from the house to the senate while a motion was pending for its reconsideration, several state officials are of the opinion that its enactment was illegally accomplished. Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, declares that even if the district court of Hennepin county issues a restraining order to prevent the bill being published, he will ignore it until the action is passed upon by the supreme court.

ORDER PUBLIC HEARING ON POOR STREET CAR SERVICE

Public Will Have Chance to Present Complaints to Council Committee.

The complaints of insufficient car service which have been made against the street car company recently came before the city council last night.

On motion of Alderman Barnes the committee on railroads, telegraphs and telephones was directed to set a date for a public hearing at which those who have complaints to make can state their grievances. The date will be fixed later by the members of the committee, consisting of Aldermen Gibson, Krueger and Bergstrom, and announced through the newspapers.

After the meeting has been held the committee will report back to the council with such recommendations as it sees fit to make.

Many residents have been complaining of the crowded condition of the cars, particularly in the morning and evening hours. They state that if they board a car but a comparatively short distance from the end of the car line it is impossible for them to get a seat. Those who board it still further down the line state that they cannot even find a strap to cling to.

Bayha & Co. wrote to the council advising that the watering fountain in front of their store on First street, near Second avenue west, be removed before it causes the death of some one. It was dated May 2, and was written immediately after Second Assistant Chief C. W. Wilson and Pipeman Swanson, who was driving him, collided with a coal wagon at that place The fountain stands at one side of the street and is used from morning until night. Most of the time several teams are clustered about it. The majority of the runs of the headquarters fire department are on First street and they pass by this fountain. The communication called attention to the great danger and urges that the fountain be removed to the avenue near the alley.

The Fitzsimmons-Palmer company protested against the payment of a wheelage tax of $10 per ton on the big auto trucks. They thought that $6 per ton would be sufficient. They felt that the trucks are being discriminated against when compared with the big trucks drawn by horses, holding that the latter do more damage to the streets than the auto trucks.

The mayor notified the council that he has appointed E. W. Bohannon, Francis Sullivan and B. Silberstein as members of the library board.

Several West Duluth residents attended the meeting last evening to protest against the concrete walk which had been laid in front of their premises last summer. They claimed that the proper amount of concrete had not been used, and that as a result the walks are not giving satisfactory service. Alderman Krueger stated that the same condition was true in some places at New Duluth. As a result the estimate of W. H. Kilton, city contractor, for $7,709.90 was held up a week. The contractor is under a bond running for five years, which will compel him to replace any defective walk.

The council last night approved the award of the contract to P. McDonnell for the laying of a storm sewer in Sixth avenue west from Sixth street to the bay. His price was $17,761.10. The contract to E. A. Dahl for improving Juniata street from Fifty-fourth to Sixtieth avenue east with tarcon on a concrete base, was approved. His bid was $8,249.50. The improvement of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues, estimated at $3,222, was ordered.

The board of public works sent in a communication stating that the first consignment of calcium chloride, which will be used for laying dust on Duluth streets, had arrived and asking that the voucher for $308.40 freight charges be approved as soon as possible.

Condon & Culver were licensed to operate a pavilion and a merry-go-round at Lester Park, provided there are no musical attachments and no musical accompaniments to the latter.

When the saloon licenses came up for action, Alderman Gibson asked for a sparate vote on the transfer of Dunlap & Thatcher's license at 228 Lake avenue south to M. Lynch. It was refused by a vote of 6 to 7, nine votes being necessary to pass any resolution in the council.

The chief of the fire department was instructed to ascertain at which locations fire alarm boxes should be placed in the hillside district between Lake avenue and Fourteenth avenue east and to report the same to the council.

The board of public works was directed to advertise for bids for the construction of a concrete culvert over Brewery creek between Sixth and Seventh streets on Sixth avenue east, and to award the contract for the same, subject to the approval of the council. This is done in order to help secure the street car extension in the Second ward this year.

A resolution was passed prohibiting the sale of liquor in pool and billiard halls, except where they are located in buildings which have licensed saloons.

The board of public works was directed to re-roof the cabins on the car of the aerial bridge at a cost of not to exceed $125.

The committee on city property was authorized to hire a man for two months, at $75 a month, to index the documents in the basement of the city hall. This action was recommended by City Attorney Fesler some time ago.

The board of public works and the city engineer were authorized to purchase an automobile for their combined use at a cost of not more than $1,800. They have asked for the machine for some time, claiming that it will greatly increase the efficiency of their departments.

The bond of the city treasurer had to be refused by the company by which it was originally furnished and new offers were made to the council last evening. It was stated that there was some difference as to price and the matter was laid over another week.

An amendment to the building ordinance, classifying buildings with three floors on one street and two on another, as two-story buildings, had its first reading.

The Duluth Herald was made the official paper for another year, the contract for the printing being awarded last evening.

Young Mothers

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. TELLER ACCUSED OF $114,850 THEFTS

Cleveland, May 9.—For alleged peculations amounting to nearly $115,000, Julius W. Hopkins, paying teller of the First National bank has been placed under arrest. It is stated that he confessed. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Walther the accused waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to await action by the grand jury. Bond was fixed at $60,000.

It is claimed that Teller Hopkins confessed to District Attorney Day, Federal Bank Examiner Williams and officials of the bank, that during the last eight years he embezzled $114,850 of the institution's funds. He was unable to give bail and was taken to jail. It is asserted that he claimed to have lost the money in unsuccessful business deals.

MEN IN NEW YORK TALK TO MEN IN DENVER, COL.

New York, May 9.—For the first time in the history of mankind the human voice carried 2,000 miles direct last night when New York found Denver over the long-distance telephone wires. A group of Manhattan newspaper men in a downtown skyscraper talking to another group in the Colorado city picked up Omaha on the way, and also gossiped with Chicago. A "phantom" telephone, connected with four copper wires the thickness of a lead pencil, brought the cities together.

In all, twenty-two people were exchanging messages by telephone and telegraph at once over these four wires. While the reporters talked, sixteen telegraph operators worked the New York-Chicago ends of four duplex telegraph instruments. The same four wires and the same current sufficed for the simultaneous needs of the twenty-two senders and receivers of messages.

With wires already strung, it cost $100,000 to make the change, and kept busy a gang of wire men four months climbing 87,000 telephone poles and installing coils every eight miles.

"The next step is San Francisco," declared J. J. Carty, chief engineer of the American Telegraph & Telephone company, who superintended the extension of service. "We are on the right track, and before long will have our wires clear through from New York to San Francisco."

KITTREDGE FUNERAL HELD.

Flint of Boston assisted him. Burial was in Conant cemetery.

The honorary pall bearers were Congressman C. H. Burke of Pierre, S. D.; R. F. Person of the United States treasury department at Washington; C. R. Beatty of Sioux Falls, S. HOE'S AMANUENSIS SUES HIS ESTATE FOR $30,000.

New York, May 9.—The estate of the late Robert Hoe, whose library is being disposed of at sensational auction prices, is defendant in a suit brought by Margaret Johnson Johns, the former nurse and amanuensis, to establish her right to a bond and mortgage of $30,000 which she alleged was given her by the famous press builder and book collector.

In a long answer the executors of Mr. Hoe's will oppose the suit on the ground that the plaintiff obtained the document "by falsely and wickedly pretending to be enamored by Mr. Hoe."

Justice Blanchard in the supreme court has authorized an attorney for the defense to take the testimony of Lewis Brown of Covington, Ky., who obtained a divorce from the plaintiff at the time of her employment by Mr. Hoe.

Our Agencies Dot the Earth

Schlitz was brewed first in a hut over sixty years ago. Now our output exceeds a million barrels a year. Our agencies dot the earth.

In our brewery we spend more on purity—in time—in skill—in money—than on any other cost in our brewing.

We scald every tub, keg and barrel—every pipe and pump—every time we use it. We wash every bottle four times by machinery. Even the air, in which the beer is cooled, is filtered.

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz—Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

PASSES THE FREE LIST

House Puts Measure Through Unchanged By 236 to 109.

Six Minnesota Republicans Vote With the Democratic Majority.

Washington, May 9.—Nine hours of continuous pounding at the hands of the Republican minority of the house of representatives failed to make a single change in the first Democratic tariff bill, that placing on the free list agricultural implements, meats and many other articles. The bill passed the house last night by a vote of 236 to 109, the Democrats voting solidly and mustering twenty-four Republicans with them.

This came after the Democrats had voted down or ruled out of order more than 100 amendments and had demonstrated again that the Democratic majority was a compact and smoothly working machine for the enactment of legislation. Minority Leader Mann threw amendment after amendment into the debate, ranging all the way from free rice to free lead and pig iron; but those that were not ruled out of order were cheerfully voted down by an almost solid Democratic vote. An attempt by Mr. Mann to re-commit the bill to the committee on ways and means was tabled by the house.

Republicans for Free List.

The Republicans who voted for the measure were: Representatives Anderson, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Volstead and Steenerson of Minnesota; Anthony, Jackson, Madison and Murdock of Kansas; Hanna and Helgesen of North Dakota; Lenroot, Kopp, Morse and Nelson of Wisconsin; Kemp of California; Hubbard of Iowa; Morgan of Oklahoma; Norris of Nebraska, and Roberts of Nevada.

The Republican fight to amend the bill began with an attempt to make the free admission of merchandise apply only to imports from countries that in turn admitted American products free. This was followed by efforts to have incorporated in the bill provisions that would force other countries to give up their discriminations against American meats, live cattle and flour and to include provisions aimed at countries that impose restrictions on the import of potash and pulp wood.

Democratic Rules Worked.

All of these amendments were thrown out by Chairman Alexander and Chairman Hay, the two presiding officers of the day, as not permissible under the house rules. The progress of the bill demonstrated the efficacy of the new Democratic rules, one of which carefully restricts amendments to revenue measures to those germane to the particular item under consideration.

Old-Fashioned Tonic Proves Best

(From National Health Journal.)

Statistics show that not one person in fifty emerges from the strains of winter in good health. Due to various causes the system becomes clogged with impurities and the liver, kidneys and bowels fail to perform their functions properly. As a result we have faded, sallow complexions, liver spots, spring fever, lost appetite, no energy—in fact, feel sick without knowing the cause.

For correcting these disorders there is nothing so far discovered to equal old-fashioned kardene tonic which can be made at home at small cost. Dissolve an ounce of kardene in one-half pint alcohol, then add one-half cup sugar and hot water to make a quart.

A tablespoonful before each meal soon rids the system of impurities, clears the skin and restores the whole body to its normal, healthy condition.

UNCLE SAM LOSES SUIT.

Havemeyer Estate Can Keep Stradivarius Bought in 1905.

New York, May 9.—The government has lost a suit to compel the estate of H. O. Havemeyer to forfeit a Stradivarius violin which the late millionaire sugar manufacturer bought for $7,750 in 1905, because duty had never been paid on it. The instrument was delivered to Mr. Havemeyer in Boston in January, 1906, and was seized by Collector Loeb in August, 1910. Judge Holt in the federal district court ruled that the statute of limitations barred the suit brought by the government, and that it was immaterial whether Mr. Havemeyer knew or suspected that the violin had been brought into the country without payment of duty. No evidence had been shown, the court held, that Mr. Havemeyer tried to conceal his possession of the violin, but on the contrary it was often played and exhibited at parties at his home.

Judge Holt ruled that were the government's contention upheld, any purchaser of property which had been imported, even though he had no ground for suspicion that there had been a violation of the customs laws, would be liable to have his property seized twenty or thirty years after its purchase.

Certain Cure for Nasal Catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is both dangerous and embarrassing. Here is a treatment which promptly cleans, soothes and heals the nasal passages, while destroying all the putrid, slimy matter and preventing its further formation. Obtain of any well-stocked druggist two ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water. Snuff up into the nostrils 6 to 8 times. Use two or three times daily and catarrh will vanish. Gives a delightfully clear feeling and makes breathing easy. Also apply the following splendid catarrh balm to the nostrils: Mix a teaspoonful of vilane powder with a five-cent jar of vaseline.

TAFT TALKS TO FARMERS

Makes Plain Reply to Opposition to Reciprocity Bill.

Clapp Gets No Votes for Frye's Place—Other Capital Doings.

Washington, May 9.—President Taft indulged in some plain talk yesterday in explaining to twenty-five members of the National Grange that he does not intend to play politics with the Canadian reciprocity agreement, even if the enactment of that measure by congress casts him the farmer vote. The artillery of both sides has been brought into action.

The president told his visitors bluntly that he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party if the agreement goes through, but fear of such desertion would not change his conviction as to the wisdom of such legislation. He said that he believed reciprocity to be the best thing for the whole country and that he did not intend to argue it.

N. P. Hull, master of the Michigan Grange and spokesman for the farmers, intimated strongly that the farmer does not like reciprocity and that the Republican votes are likely to be lost if it is passed.

Grange Master Argues.

"If reciprocity goes through, it means that we must take less for our wheat and less for our products and that means a halt in the improvement of our homes and in the educaion of our children," he said.

"Take the states along the line—Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. In the past the farmers of these states have been the backbone of the Republican protection. You could count on that every time. If this measure goes through it will discriminate against our markets and Canada will get the benefits; it will make it harder for us to get a dollar. No president ever commanded the faith of the farm people in times past more than you and I ask you whether you do not think that we will suffer if we are put on a free trade basis?"

Taft Is Confident.

"Certainly," said the president, "I have no disposition to interfere with the prosperity of those who make up the bone and sinew of our population—the farmers—and I am convinced that I am in no way interfering with it. If I am—if we carry through this treaty and it turns out that it does produce the injury you anticipate—it can be repealed by a single congress. I am convinced that after it has been given one year's trial neither side will think of reversing it. That is my conviction."

Favor Free Wool.

Unequivocal declaration in favor of placing raw wool on the free list in the revised wool schedule of the tariff and the consequent material strengthening of the position of that element of the majority party in the house which favors free raw wool, were the net results of caucuses held yesterday by the Democratic representatives in the New York and New Jersey delegations.

The Ohio and Massachusetts Democratic representatives will caucus today or tomorrow, and other states are expected to meet soon to outline their attitude. Interest in the Democratic program has been greatly stimulated.

Action of New York Caucus.

By a vote of 18 to 4, the New York caucus indorsed the fight of Representative Francis Burton Harrison, the New York Democratic member of the ways and means committee, for free raw wool, whose sharp cutting off of $21,000,000 of revenue, is not favored by Speaker Clark, Chairman Underwood and other prominent Democrats. The New York caucus was called on the request of Mr. Harrison.

It was reported to the caucus that the sentiment of the majority in the ways and means committee favored free raw wool above a substantial reduction of the tariff.

Not One Vote for Clapp.

Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire was unanimously nominated as president pro tem of the senate at the Republican senatorial caucus. Twenty of the fifty Republican senators were absent, including nine progressive senators. The four progressives in attendance, Senators Borah, Brown, Dixon and Kenyon, voted for Mr. Gallinger.

Direct Election Advanced.

After disposing of the technical parliamentary obstacles, Senator Borah of Idaho succeeded in having the senate consider the house joint resolution to amend the Constitution so as to provide for the election of United States senators by popular vote. The effect is to make the resolution the unfinished business and thus give it preference.

The order was made on a roll call, but out of seventy-one votes only Senators Brandegee, Burnham, Gallinger, Heyburn and Penrose voted in the negative. Heyburn opposed Borah's motion for an unanimous consent to take up the measure on the ground that under the senate rules the request was out of order during the first two hours of the sitting which is set apart for "morning business."

Would Change Sherman Law.

Three radical changes in the Sherman anti-trust law are proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Kenyon of Iowa. His bill would make jail sentences compulsory for individual violators of the law, and would extend the provisions of the present act to patents by providing that the patent shoula be forfeited where the patentee joins with others to restrain trade. The third change would make illegal the purchase of ownership of stock in a competing corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

Consider Statehood Bills.

The house committee on territories will today conclude its deliberations on statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, recommending changes in the proposed state constitutions which must be approved by voters before the president proclaims admission of the territories. Chairman Flood of the committee expects to call up the joint statehood resolution for action by the house by Wednesday.

Among the proposed amendments applying to both territories, which the people must vote upon, is one that provides that the states shall never enact any law restricting or abridging the rights of suffrage on account of "race, color or previous condition of servitude."

The re-submission of the recall feature of the Arizona constitution is directed, citizens to vote at a state election on an amendment providing that every public officer "except the judiciary" holding an elective office, is subject to recall by the qualified electors of an elective district, which may include the whole state, 25 per cent of the electors who voted at the last preceding election having to petition for such recall.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Chas. Barclay, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

CHASE WINS GOOD GAME

Indian Twirler Holds Taylorites to Five Hits and Two Scores.

Sox Score Five Runs and Romp Home With Inter-City Series.

(BY BRUCE.)

Here is the fourth and concluding chapter dealing with the turn of the downtrodden worm. The worm in the present instance is the Duluth baseball team. Yesterday the worm turned for the fourth consecutive time and in so doing crawled all over Mister Taylor's recruits, the final result being 6 to 2 in favor of the men Jawn Desmond pays to play the game.

Chief Chase the Second was on the hurling hill for the home brigade, and while the Superior players swore that he didn't have a thing but a lot of luck and a prayer, he held the 'Taylorites to five singles, and for seven golden innings held the Red Legs without the semblance of a bingle.

Bancroft was the first visitor to be introduced to a hit. In the seventh the little shortstop was the first man up, and he hit one by Little Eva Leber so fast that the diminutive one had no chance in the world to pluck it. McCullach got the second hit in the round, the other three coming in the first of the ninth, which was productive of the two runs registered by the suburbanites.

Garbed in their new suits, which have a sort of hobble skirt fit of tightness, showing to advantage the shapely limbs of the gallant leader of the Sox, the home boys were out to do their darndest, and, by gosh, they did.

They gathered an even dozen wallops off the side-arm delivery of young Mister Dunlap, who started with all the enthusiasm of a forest fire and settled, around the fourth inning, to that easy and monotonous gait of a plumber working on time.

Much of that paprieka stuff which in the past ages led such heroes as G. Washington and J. Caesar to sterling deeds and much publicity, animated the soaking Sox yesterday. They were on their toes and presented a much different appearance from the team that appeared in the parade in the first home game.

Not an error was charged to the team in the soiree of yesterday and several hard chances were gathered in. In the fifth the Orator ran over near first base and scooped a peach from the trusty bat of Red Mac, the initial sack tender of the opposition. Young Mr. Johnson in left also distinguished himself by making a catch that gathered applause from the stands and bleachers.

All in all, looking at all sides of the game, it was a very successful afternoon for all concerned, including the the peanut and pop man, and it was a rousing send-off for the boys, being as how they have taken four out of the six games from the hated rivals from across the raging bay.

How the Runs Came.

In the first and second Mister Dunlap was flinging with enthusiasm and deadly effect, and in these two frames the Sox went out in order. In the third Miller hit, was sacrificed along the burning sands by Doar and tried to score when Chase cracked a single into the center patch. The ball was relayed home ahead of Miller by Hoffman, O'Brien went out to first.

In the fourth three healthy runs were shoved across by enthusiastic work by the boys, Johnson opened with his first hit, which sailed to right center. Menelce drew a walk and Little Eva Leber slammed one over second base, advancing both runners. Holstrom hit a long skier to right, Johnson scoring on the play. Altermott whanged a sizzling single to right center, scoring Menelce and Leber and going to second on the throw to the plate. Miller hit one where Taylor wasn't and Col. Altermott was thrown out at the plate in a daring Ty Cobb attempt to score from second on the clout. Doar was an easy out from Dunlap to Mac.

In the fifth Chase renewed the attack on Fort Dunlap with a charming single into left field. He was advanced by another single into left upon the part of our noble leader, P. H. O'Brien. Johnson got his second hit of the day. Menelce reached first on a fielder's choice, Chase being thrown out at the pan by Bancroft. Little Leber struck out, but Holstrom drew a base on balls, forcing the Orator in. Miller grounded to Lippold, who touched third on the forceout for Menelce.

After Doar and Chase were gone in the eighth O'Brien hit to far left for two bags. Johnson drew a base and the Orator scored when Taylor let Menelce's grounder scamper on to the outfield. Leber grounded to Bancroft and Menelce was forced at second.

The two tired runs of the enemy came in the ninth. Bancroft opened with his second hit and was promptly forced at second by Bennett. Hoffman hit and Cy hurried to second without ado. McCullach gathered the long-coming enthusiasm and also clouted safely. Bennett hurrying home from second. Lizette was retired via the Altermott-Menelce route and McCullach came over on the play. Lippold lifted one to Holstrom and the game was over.

Today the team leaves for Red Wing. The season opens tomorrow. The Sox will not be home before May 23, when they open with the Indians.

THE ANNUAL CHALLENGE.

The brains department of this great family journal hereby challenges the substitute for the brains of the East Superior street effort at news dissemination, to the annual baseball contest. Since The Herald exponents of the great American pastime have held the championship for two consecutive years, it would be right and proper that the News-Tribune outfit do the challenging. The Herald typewriter punchers are anxious for the fray however, and waive the right of title-holders to be the challenged.

It is hereby suggested that the annual contest be held on the morning of May 21 at Athletic park or such other suitable place as may be suggested. Terms—Catch weights. Ringers barred—only copy-producers and copy-butchers eligible. The copy mutilators in the composing rooms are barred. The Herald players will read the morning paper for a week, if they lose.

SUNDAY BALL WILL BE PLAYED IN CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 9.—The Cleveland baseball club is preparing to play Sunday games and will endeavor to have necessary changes made in the American league schedule. Correspondence is now on to obtain the consent of the other clubs to permit of the games scheduled with New York next Monday being played Sunday. The Greeves bill which legalizes Sunday baseball in Ohio is expected to become a law.

The city council, it is expected, will favor the playing of American league ball on Sundays but will probably fix a license fee of from $200 to $500 for each game on Sunday so as to bar out minor and semi-professional games where an admittance fee is charged and protect the amateur clubs of the city.

Sage to Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, May 9.—Manager Towne of the Sioux City champions yesterday purchased Pitcher Sage of the Minneapolis team.

ONLY ONE FRIEND BIDS GOODBYE TO J. J. JEFFRIES

BOB VERNON AND JAMES J. JEFFRIES.

Just one solitary man, Bob Vernon, was on hand to say goodbye to Jim Jeffries and his wife, when they sailed on the George Washington, recently. They will attend the coronation celebration and Jeffries will take the baths at Carlsbad. He is due back in Los Angeles about July 15. If he had departed a year ago there would have been thousands at the dock to see the former champion off.

EAU CLAIRE HAS GOOD STAFF OF PITCHERS

Eau Claire, Wis., May 9.—If "Tommy" Schoonhoven's baseball machine, as it is now constituted, is an unknown quantity in certain respects in the Minny league pennant race, which opens Wednesday, his pitching staff does not appear that way. The fact is that the Eau Claire hurling outfit which "Tommy" has gathered together and which he will carry with him on the opening trip, is as strong as any in the league, if not stronger, and a glance over the names of the local hurlers will do much to make this assertion convincing.

The strength of the pitching department was greatly augmented Saturday when Schoony consummated a deal with the Minneapolis association team whereby he secured the services of "Indian" Chase, the redskin twirler who did such good work with Rochester last season.

Chase was one of the very best pitchers in the league last season, but the records of the pitchers do not show it as the Indian twirler was with a rank tail end team which threw away most of the games that their star twirler worked in. Still, with the handicap of such a team behind him Chase won nearly half the games he worked in. Several Minny league clubs have been trying to get Chase if Minneapolis could not use him this season, but "Tommy" copped the bacon.

"Tacks" Delave, another star member of Eau Claire's twirling family, has arrived in the city. "Tacks" looks good and says that he never felt better. "Tacks" had the Indian sign on most of the batters last season and twirled some remarkable ball. So, with him and Chase, two first class twirlers are accounted for. Then there is "Slats" Morrow, who, when going right, is somewhat of a puzzle. Morrow won over two-thirds of the games he pitched last season and the same can be said of Delave. The other two pitchers Schoonhoven will carry with him on the opening trip are Gregory and Bersing. Both of these men have shown up good in the ante-season games and both look as though they will class with the trio of hurling artists already mentioned.

Now, there is not another club in the league that has a pitching staff that stacks up any better than the quintette just enumerated.

What the rest of the team can do remains to be seen. The club is apparently much weaker in the hitting department than last season. In the fielding department it has shown up good in the exhibition games.

Outfielder Chapelle, secured from Quincy, has not yet reported. Schoonhoven has wired De Haven to report at once.

VETERANS ARE KEEPING MAJOR TEAMS IN RACE

Youth may be the proper thing in baseball, as in many other lines of polite endeavor, as a general thing, but the standing of the clubs in the National league today doesn't prove it. In the American league, after Detroit is let out, things are slightly different. But in the older organization three of the four clubs in the first division owe most of their strength to men who have been playing the game more than a few years, and in the other, the Giants, the veterans are in the majority.

In Pittsburg, as in Philadelphia and Chicago, the older members of the club are doing most to keep it up near the top.

The work of that veteran Pittsburg trio—Clarke, Leach and Wagner—has stood out prominently this year, particularly that of the Pirate leader, and these three in a large measure have been responsible for causing the Buccaneers to be more feared in some quarters than any other team in the league.

Undoubtedly the trade with Cincinnati did help Philadelphia a lot, but there is no getting away from the fact that the prowess of Earl Moore, who was cast aside by the Yankees and Naps years ago as having outlived his usefulness, and the splendid form shown by Sherwood Magee, John Titus and Charlie Dooin, veterans all, have been chiefly responsible for the Phillies' spurt.

Mike Doolin and Kanbe, two more who have seen a lot of service in the big leagues, have also been helping the cause very nearly as much as Pasker and Luderus, the only comparative youngsters in the in or outfields. Alexander, the colt pitcher, has been holding his end, as has Jack Rowan. But everything considered, Dooin can hold his veterans responsible for the present lofty position of his team.

Young and Old Cubs.

Out in Chicago the honors are more evenly divided between the young and the old blood. Frank Schulte and Jimmy Sheckard, in the outfield, are both playing the sort of game they put up three or four years ago. Schulte never did hit for better results than he has this spring.

Young and old blood is pretty well mixed in New York, but so far the more seasoned players have done consistently better work, everything considered than the less experienced men. This is notably the case with the pitchers. In the heaving department it has taken athletes who have been in the game years and years to win.

WHITE SOX SQUAD WILL BE REDUCED

During the coming week the White Sox squad will be cut down. Just who will be let out, it is very hard to tell at the present time. Even the Orator has not fully made up his mind at the present time. Hardgrove will be kept as the regular catcher, and if Doar is let go it may be arranged that he will eventually revert back to the Sox. The kid looks like a comer and has the making of a fine receiver.

Kramer may win a regular berth in the outfield. He can be carried as a pitcher in addition to his outfielding ability. Some of the present staff of ptchers will be let out. It is very probable that the hurlers will be given a good tryout on the road before any of them are let go.

The teams will not be cut down for a week or more yet, as the salary limit does not go into effect until the different managers have had a chance to try out their material.

It seems certain at this time that Woodburn, Al Cummings, Chase and Kramer will be retained.

CURLY ULRICH ISSUES CHALLENGE TO SMITH.

Curly Ulrich is on the warpath again. Hearing of the statement of Burrell Smith, in which that dark gentleman expressed a hankering after some more of little Arthur Godfrey's game, the man from Superior rises to remark that Smith can have all of his game any time that he wants to come across with a little side bet.

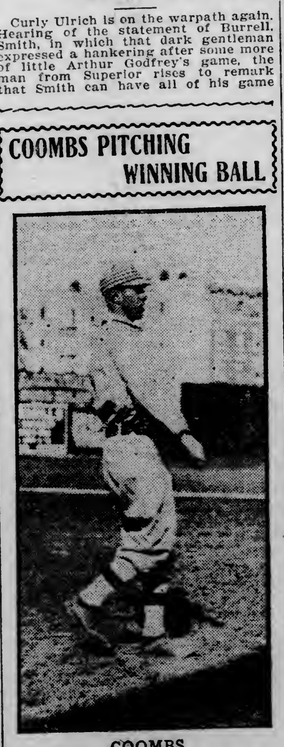
Curly in the role of manager also issues statement No. 2. In this bulletin he says that if Tommy Crawford wants to fight Bushey, the latter will accommodate him and will also make the milling on the winner-take-all basis.

Curly beat Burrell once and he is very confident that he can repeat. The Wisconsin man is a very firm believer in the dope about history repeating itself. At least he says he is very anxious to take a chance, and issues a formal challenge to the Smith boy.

BOXING BOUTS ARE NOT PRIZE FIGHTS.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—Boxing bouts as staged at the Vernon arena are not "prize fights" within the meaning of the law prohibiting such events, according to Superior Judge Willis, who missed yesterday charges against those concerned in the Wolgast-Memsic contest here on March 17. Judge Willis held that T. J. McCarey, promoter, had taken all precautions demanded by law.

COOMBS PITCHING WINNING BALL



COOMBS
Of Philadelphia.

Jack Coombs, hero of the world's championship series last fall, is again in good condition and is pitching winning ball for the Athletics. Coombs won three games from the Cubs in the series. His pitching record last year was .775. He won thirty-one games and lost nine. Coombs has been with the Athletics for several seasons, but up to last season his work did not attract any particular attention. He is expected to be a big factor this year.

GASOLINE TAKES ANOTHER DROP

Local Manager Says It Will Remain at 11 Cents All Summer.

Gasoline has taken another drop. It is now 11 cents a gallon and the best part of it is that the price will probably remain at that figure during the entire summer.

This will be good news for automobile and launch owners, for it is usual for gasoline to be cheaper in the spring with almost an assured raise during the month of August or September.

Gasoline can now be purchased from the larger companies at 11 cents and it is delivered at the home garage at this figue.

In speaking about gasoline this morning, one dealer said that the gasoline furnished this year is the best ever put out for use in a motor. Up to this time the companies have been experimenting and the result, he says, is the best gasoline ever manufactured for power purposes.

Last spring gasoline was cheap, but during the month of August it went up to 13 cents. This will not occur this year, he says.

RYAN TO ENTER RACING GAME

Millionaire Will Show His Colors at the Louisville Meet.

Louisville, Ky., May 9.—Thomas Fortune Ryan, the New York financier, will make his bow to the American turf at the twenty-third race meeting at Churchill Downs, which opens May 13. His six royal bred 2-year-olds will race under the colors of Oak Ridge stable, named in honor of the owner's farm at Oak Ridge, Va. W. M. Carter is in charge of Ryan's string, which consists of one gelding and five fillies. They are as follows:

Belle Hampton, brown filly by Yorkshire Lad, dam Debater.

Belle Nelson, bay filly by Sampronious, dam Ethelinda.

Dangerfield, chestnut gelding by Dolse far Niente, dam Wild Cherry. Wild Cherry is domiciled at Oak Ridge. She is more than a half sister to the mighty Morello. She is by Eon, a son of Eolus, sire of Morello, out of Cerise, Morello's dam.

Morello was one of the greatest horses that ever looked through a bridle. He was the winner of fifteen races, including the Futurity, as a 2-year-old. He fetched $100 when sold as a yearling. At the height of his career it is doubtful if $100,000 would have purchased him.

Interest in the running of Mr. Ryan's juvenile racers is attracting wide attention. Six months ago Mr. Ryan purchased through Dr. Russell, veterinarian for Richard Croker's horses in Great Britain, the stallion Sea King, a son of Persimmon and Sea Air. Sea King won a big percentage of the races in which he started. He is an exceptionally fine individual, and he has the distinction of being one of the best bred horses ever foaled in Europe.

Guy Warren and Joe Horak have had charge of the program and some novel features are promised. The Troubadour Mandolin club will render some selections; Coach Ten Eyck will tell of some of his plans and there will be other good features to the program.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HAVE SEEDED BIG ACREAGE

Red River Valley Farmers Sow a Large Number of Acres This Spring.

Soil in Good Condition for Crop Germinations and Everyone Optimistic.

Crookston, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Never this early in May has such a large acreage in the Red River valley been sown as is seeded today and the seeding was never as uniformly well done. The crop is practically all in. Most of the farmers are entirely through planting oats, barley, flax and all but the corn and potatoes, which will not be planted till the middle of the month, as a rule.

The wheat is coming up splendidly. There is an abundance of moisture in the ground, though where spring plowing has been done, which constitutes a much smaller percentage than ever before, as the plowing was practically all done last fall, the seed needs a good rain to germinate rapidly and uniformly. A good, soaking rain would be welcomed at any time, though nothing will suffer if there is no rain for two weeks.

The best informed farmers contend that it is better to have the grain go down for moisture in the spring and root deep than to have constant rains fall, which keeps the roots close to the surface, as under such circumstances a dry spell later on at a critical period will do serious damage, whereas deep rooted grain will not be affected at all by dry weather, as only the surface is dry.

Rain Welcome, But Not Necessary.

Naturally the dust storms have made work disagreeable and remembrances of the dryness of last year caused some apprehension, and a good rain would dispel fears, even though they be groundless. Because of the thorough manner in which the land has been cultivated this spring, nothing like the amount of moisture is needed to bring forth an abundant crop.

Bankers and business men who have covered the Red River country thoroughly the past week feel very optimistic. The fields resemble great gardens. The moisture earlier started the pastures, but additional rain would do them good now. The conditions generally, from every viewpoint, are as near ideal as they could be. The crop is in as never before. Conditions that obtain hereafter will tell the tale.

FIVE EX-MAYORS AMONG SPEAKERS

Cornerstone of Grand Forks $85,000 City Hall Laid With Exercises.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five former mayors of the city of Grand Forks participated in the ceremonies this afternoon of laying of the cornerstone of the new city hall, a structure that will cost approximately $85,000. A civic holiday was declared and business was suspended while the ceremonies were in progress.

The ex-mayors participating in the exercises were M. L. McCormick of Minneapolis; D. M. Holmes, H. L. Whittier, George E. Duis and Dr. J. D. Taylor. The present mayor of the city, M. F. Murphy, presided over the afternoon's program.

Among the special speakers of the day were President F. L. McVey of the state university; Dr. E. P. Robertson of Wesley college, and the mayor.

The new building was commenced this spring and will be ready for occupancy the latter part of October.

HARTFORD MINE LITTLE DAMAGED

Fire That Claimed Seven Lives Confined Principally to Shaft and Chute.

Negaunee, Mich., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire that raged in the Hartford mine of the Republic Iron & Steel company last week claiming seven lives has been extinguished and the property is being looked over preparatory to resuming work.

F. J. Webb, the general manager of the company in the Lake Superior region, arrived Saturday and is looking over the situation. He found the damage not extensive as the fire was confined principally to the shaft and chute. Men are at work repairing the damaged timber. The Cambria and the Lillie as well as the Hartford will be closed until after the funerals of the victims.

Funerals of Victims.

The funeral of Ed Puske, whose body was the first recovered, was held Sunday afternoon, with services at the Finnish Lutheran church.

The funeral of John Tamblyn took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with services at the Mitchell Methodist church, of which the deceased had been a prominent member for some years. Mr. Tamblyn was an underground foreman at the Cambria mine. He was prominent in the Negaunee lodge of Odd Fellows for several years, and passed through the different chairs. The obsequies were held under auspices of that society.

The services over the remains of Herbert Dower and Harry Warry will be held at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Mitchell Methodist church, and the funeral of Richard Yelland and his son, William, will take place Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Mitchell Methodist church, under auspices of English Oak lodge, Sons of St. George, in which the father held membership. Mr. Yelland was also a member of the Golden Eagle society and the members of both organizations will attend in a body.

The time of the funeral of August Frederickson has not yet been decided upon, but it is possible that it will take place Wednesday afternoon, under auspices of the Danish Brotherhood, to which he belonged. Mr. Frederickson was a shift boss at one of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's properties here for some time, giving up that position to take a samilar place with the Oliver company at the Hartford. After the latter property passed into control of the Republic Iron & Steel company he was made head timberman.

Branch of Great Northern viaduct, $1,300.

There was no insurance on any of the property. The laundry fire, fanned by a heavy northwest wind, threatened the entire business district.

Fargo, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrick Randy, an insane man who had escaped from the Minnesota state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls was captured in Fargo yesterday afternoon by Officer Bowler of the Fargo police and Chief Knapp of the Moorhead department.

When taken to the police station in Fargo he gave his name as Pat Butler. A letter on his person was found which was addressed to Patrick Randy, care of the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls.

Desk Sergeant Bowers telephoned to the Gopher institution and reported the arerst of Randy. The officials at that place stated that he was insane and had escaped from the hospital. One of the hospital guards will come for Randy today.

WARNING TO FARMERS.

State Bug Expert Says Beware of Grasshopper Eggs.

St. Paul, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, has issued the following bulletin relative to grasshopper eggs:

"Grasshopper eggs are just beginning to hatch, and reports are reaching this office from various localities that they are quite abundant, in some places dangerously so. These eggs, when found, should be plowed deep. The same applies to the newly hatched grasshoppers. Where farms adjoin large tracts of unplowed land, and this unplowed land is found full of eggs, or swarming with very young grasshoppers, a young crop of grain might be protected for a while by plowing a strip of this reverted land two or three rods wide adjoining the field planted with grain.

"We plan to have three or more experts in the field this summer, ready to go to the assistance of farmers. One man, M. P. Somes, is already located at Fergus Falls.

"Grasshopper eggs are laid in the first inch of soil in pockets made by the female grasshopper. These eggs resemble small kernels of wheat, and are yellowish or brownish."

GOVERNOR AT BEMIDJI.

State Executive to Be Entertained There June 9.

Bemidji, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Efforts to entertain Governor Eberhart here on the night of June 9, as he goes to attend the annual outing of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association at Park Rapids and Itasca State Park June 8, 9, 10 and 11, are likely to be successful.

DROWNS IN RAIN BARREL.

South Dakota Child Pitches Head First Into Little Water.

Mitchell, S. D., May 9.—The little 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wingren came to his sudden death in a peculiar manner. The family live on a farm near Epiphany. The lad was playing with some harness, when it fell into a rainwater barrel near where he was playing. In trying to get out the straps the boy leaned over a little too far and went head first into the water. It was only seven inches deep, but it was sufficient to drown him. His first cry for help was not heard, and fifteen or twenty minutes elapsed before the mother found her boy.

NEW ENGLAND BOOMING.

Hettinger County, N. D., Rapidly Coming to the Front.

New England, N. D., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rapid development of this section of North Dakota is attracting a great deal of attention. New England was first settled more than twenty-five years ago by a colony from the New England states. They were unused to Western methods and failed. Several substantial buildings were erected, but nearly all were later torn down. The town was deserted for many years until seven or eight years ago it was re-established. It is now the terminal of the Milwaukee branch into this state and as lively a place as can be found in the West. There are two newspapers, three banks, a large number of stores and other enterprises in proportion. This part of Hettinger county is being rapidly settled and there has been a rush of homeseekers all spring. A telephone exchange is being established and the town has long distance telephone connection and telegraphic connection with all points of the state.

SPURNS LOVE IN TENT.

Montana Sheepherder's Wife Objects to Mode of Living.

Great Falls, Mont., May 9.—Eldred Frederick, while expressing no opinion about the "love in a cottage" theory, is thoroughly convinced that life in a sheep herder's tent or in a wagon of the range and true love do not hook up well together. She alleges she has become convinced of this fact from six trying years as the wife of Otto Frederick, whom she charges with having refused to provide any other home for her.

Losing hope of ever succeeding in changing her conditions as Otto's wife, Mrs. Frederick has filed suit in the district court praying for a decree of divorce and a chance to get away from the range wagon and the sheep herder's tent.

LOCKED IN BOX CAR, JOB-SEEKERS RIDE FREE.

Jamestown, N. D., May 9.—Wiggling their way into a box car without breaking the seal and then having the door nailed fast upon them by a sleuthful train hand, five young men professing to be on a still hunt for a job were hauled into Jamestown. An officer was summoned and was in waiting to nab them as the trainmen unfastened the door of their prison.

When brought before Judge James A. Murphy later in the morning the young men pleaded guilty to vagrancy, but objected stoutly to any charge of larceny. The justice agreed with them regarding the latter charge, holding that men locked in a box car could steal nothing out of it. He continued their case for thirty days.

Three of the prisoners gave their age as 17 and the other only a few years older. Part of them said they were from St. Paul and claimed to be on their way West in search of work.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—The home of James Pascoe, who carries the mail between Ishpeming and Diorite, located at Greenwood, was destroyed by fire Friday. The dwelling was a two-story frame structure and was located on a farm, which Mr. Pascoe rents from the estate of Michael Johnson. The family lost practically all of their furniture, clothing, etc. It is thought that the fire originated in the kitchen.

Marquette—Mrs. Virginia King, who has been a continuous resident of Marquette and Chocolay since 1852, died Sunday at the home of her son, C. H. King, in Chocolay, at the age of 72. WHEN A TONIC IS NECESSARY

If You Are Run Down and Debilitated the Health Can Only Be Restored by Building Up the Blood.

When the body is weak and the blood thin it is sometimes difficult to find the cause unless a wasting illness has preceded the decline in health.

Obscure influences, something unhealthful in one's surroundings or work, may lead to a slow impoverishment of the blood and an enfeeblement of the whole body. When a serious stage has been reached there seems to be nothing that will account for it.

In such cases a complete change of climate or of work will sometimes effect a cure. It takes a long time, however, and for the great majority of sufferers is out of the question.

Mrs. G. P. Boutwell, of Clear Water, Minn., whose husband is a hardware merchant there, says:

"About two years ago, when I was living at West Union, Iowa, I was all run down through hard work and worry. I called a doctor who said I was suffering from general debility. He treated me for some time but was unable to do much for me. I had cold chills all of the time and seemed to be nearly bloodless. I could not keep anything on my stomach and lived on eggs and milk for some time. My stomach was sour and the gas on it kept me from getting much sleep at night. The doctor's medicine made my stomach feel worse.

"My father had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with benefit and advised me to try them. After a week or so I could notice a change. I soon became stronger, my appetite came back and the headaches disappeared. I was then able to eat without distress and began to do my work. I had a good color and gained in flesh. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cannot be praised too highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a general tonic and are useful in all diseases arising from poor blood or weakened nerves, such as sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, pale and sallow complexions and many forms of weakness.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free upon request.

IRWIN STILL HOLDING JOB

Old Difficulty Over Appointing Chief Engineer Still Holds Board.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The resignation of H. J. Irwin, who was elected alderman-at-large at the last election, on the Socialist ticket, was presented to the council last night. The resignation was made out at the time of H. J. Irwin's election, but the date was just filled in last week, because the Socialist local by a vote of 13 to 2, decided that he was no longer a Socialist. Dr. E. P. Christensen moved that the resignation be laid on the table. This prevailed four to three, but it was discovered that H. J. Irwin, himself, had voted. The question was put to John Dwan, acting city attorney in the absence of B. C. Fowler, whether H. J. Irwin would be allowed to vote on a question of such nature. It was Dwan's opinion that until H. J. Irwin was put on trial and charges preferred against him, that he was still a member of the council and has a right to vote on all questions.

The return of the resolution from the mayor designating the duties of employees at the water and light plant, and providing for a superintendent who would supervise the plant and also be city electrician, was awaited with a great deal of interest. As expected, the resolution was vetoed by the mayor, who stated in his communication that it would not be economical for the city to be under such an arrangement, and that he could not approve of it. No attempt was made to pass the resolution over the mayor's veto. E. P. Christensen suggested that the matter be brought up again at the Socialist local, and perhaps the mayor might be instructed to withdraw his veto. Failing to act on this suggestion, it was recommended that a mass meeting be held and the council abide by the decision expressed by that meeting. This was not acted on either, but it was moved that the Commercial club appoint a committee which should try and arrive at some adjustment which would be agreeable to all.

This question which is troubling the council so much is in the matter of appointing a chief engineer at the city water and light plant. The Socialists desire to put in a machinist at a salary of $125 a month, and the others, in majority, wish to make the city electrician superintendent over both departments at a salary of only $110 per month. In order to carry this out, the majority passed a resolution providing for a superintendent, and now the Socialists have vetoed it, but all this time W. S. Coleman, former chief engineer, is still chief engineer at the increased salary of $125 per month.

HEAVY SHIPPING FROM TACONITE

Three Times as Much Ore Going Out as Last Year.

Taconite, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Messabe railroad has two large compound engines stationed here with four crews that are working night and day. They are hauling ten and twelve toans of ore every day from here, while last year four trans were the most that went out daily.

Patrick Campbell, mayor of the Garvey addition is in Hibbing. Mr. Campbell will be gone for a week on business for the village.

Harry Gott, clerk of the Garvey addition has resigned in favor of Charles Hartshorn. Mr. Gott was called suddenly to his farm in Michigan, where he will remain for some time.

Dan O'Connell has accepted a position as hoist engineer for the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Conductor John Daley has returned to Taconite for the summer. Mr. Daley is here in the employ of the Missabe railroad.

A. F. Regal left Taconite for Duluth yesterday morning, where he will remain for a week.

Dan Cassidy has returned from the hospital, where he has been over a week with a broken arm. Mr. Cassidy's brother, Eugene, was looking after the business during his stay at the hospital.

The people of Taconite welcome the shower that came Sunday as the brush fires through this locality were getting dangerous.

While driving from Taconite to Bovey Sunday night, James Mason's horse became frightened at an automobile and ran off the road into the brush, where the buggy was upset. Mr. Mason and his companions escaped injury.

Mrs. O. B. Olsen, 2019 W. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "My little girl, six years of age, was troubled from infancy by a kidney weakness. At night she could not retain the kidney secretions and during the day this trouble was almost as bad. If the secretions were left standing, they deposited sediment. Two years ago we were successful in finding the right treatment for her. A relative recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to us and we tried them. The child soon received great benefit. Doan's Kidney Pills not only acted as represented in this case, but were used with success by a young man who was staying with us at that time. In November 1908, I publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills and I am giving this statement to confirm my first one."

STEPS ON FISH, SLIPS, DROWNS

Changing Seats in Boat on Lake Proves Fatal for John Tuuri.

Biwabik, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stepping on a fish in the bottom of the boat from which he was fishing in Merritt lake yesterday with David Hill, caused John Tuuri to slip, upset the craft and drown. Hill managed to reach the shore but never saw his companion after the latter disappeared beneath the surface in eighty feet of water.

Body Is Recovered.

Other fishermen in a short time recovered Tuuri's body. It was taken in charge by Deputy Coroner Seeley and brought to the village.

Tuuri had lived in Bawabik seven years, and during most of the time was employed at the Biwabik mine, where he acted as a pipeman.

Hibbing, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Lawson, a Minneapolis traveling man, is in the Adams hospital here suffering from the loss of one foot and a broken arm as the result of being struck by an engine on the Great Northern tracks one mile out of town, near Kelly lake, about 1 o'clock this morning, while riding on a railroad speeder.

Lawson and another man, whose name is not known, were riding on the speeder to Kelly lake when they saw an engine approaching on the same track. His companion jumped, but Lawson was not quick enough or else did not jump far enough, as the engine struck the speeder and Lawson, cutting off one of his feet above the ankle and breaking his arm. He was rushed here to the hospital on a locomotive and is reported to be in serious condition.

HIBBING WALKS BEING REPAIRED

Property Owners Failing to Fix Walks Will Have to Settle With Village.

Hibbing, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The orders of the council that the various bad places in the sidewalks along some of the main streets must be repaired are bearing fruit. Several improvements have been made, but much still remains to be done and it is understood that the matter has been left in the hands of the street commissioner to take care of and that these property owners who do not make the required repair within the proper notified time will be required to pay the city for doing the work. It is reported that the city will take up the matter of laying more curbing and guttering at an early date and the matter is expected to come up at the meeting of the council tonight. In places where the wood sidewalks are in such condition that it would cost more to relay than to repair them the city will take them up and put down cement walks during the present summer, and work along these lines is expected to commence soon.

FISH NOT BITING.

Gilbert Sportsmen Complain That Bait Does Not Work.

Gilbert, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local fishermen are complaining about their luck this season as compared with former seasons. Near Gilbert are two beautiful lakes, Ely and Cedar Island. Both are full of the finny tribe—black bass, pickerel, pike and perch—but no bait has been found that will make them bite successfully. Several small catches of pickerel and perch have been made, but only after several hours' fishing. Some give the reason for the fish not biting that the water in these lakes is too cold.

Several camping parties are planning to spend the summer months in tents on Cedar Island lake. This lake is an ideal camping place. The township board will be petitioned to build a walk from the Malta mine to this lake, which, if done, will make a continuous walk from Gilbert. The only walk in use now is by the way of the Genoa location, which makes a distance of about a mile farther than the new way will be.

Hibbing, Minn., May 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Delich was fined $10 and $5.50 costs for being drunk and fighting on the street. This action grew out of a request from the Socialist organization here asking that it be granted the use of the gymnasium in which to hold a public meeting on the night of May 25, when W. D. FOOD IN SERMONS.

Feed the Dominie Right and the Sermons Are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard-working and successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet.

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning.

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a trial. I made my breakfast of Grape-Nuts with cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprisng in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, folowed the morning meal.

"My digestion became once more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table.

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily wearied in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet.

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength.

"I have known of several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

WHO RUNS TOWN, MEN OR WOMEN?

Municipal Deadlock at Hunnewell, Kan., Fails to Yield.

Hunnewell, Kan., May 9.—The Hunnewell deadlock over the question whether the town shall be governed by its men—represented by the male members of the common council—or by its women—headed by Mrs. Ella Wilson—still held fast this morning. Mrs. Wilson said the meeting of the men council members last night was illegal. She ignored an invitation to attend, as she did last week, when she and the town records "met" in a feed store.

The men made a show of asserting their power. They passed a few expense bills, which, however, lack the mayor's signature. But they refused to confirm the mayor's appointment of Mrs. Hilton as city clerk, or of Mrs. G. A. Osborne as city marshal. And so the municipal government is at a standstill.

Mrs. Wilson says her next meeting will be held next Monday.

HOFFSTOT IS PUT ON TRIAL

Former Telephone Operator Called as Witness in Pittsburg Case.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 9.—The trial of Frank N. Hoffstot of New York, the well known banker and car manufacturer, on charges growing out of the councilmanic graft scandal, was resumed in criminal court before Judge John C. Haymaker today.

The first witness was Mrs. Alice Tanney, who as Miss Alice Mansfield, was telephone operator in the Second National bank. The prosecution, in outlining the case yesterday, said Mrs. Tanney would give the details of telephone conversations held between Mr. Hoffstot, in New York, and James Young, cashier of the bank, concerning an alleged proposition to secure from the bank a contribution of $21,000 to be sent to New York and later to be used in Pittsburg, in connection with the desired passage of the banks depositories ordinance.

A Reader Cures His Constipation---Try It Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members.

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

RAIN FALLS; PRICES DROP

Northwest Gets Needed Moisture—Increased Receipts Expected.

Big Shrinkage in World's Supplies—Linseed Lower—Country Sells.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 9.—Wheat declined precipitately today. Toward the close the market hit a bunch of stop loss orders which accentuated the downturn. May lost 2⅛c, July lost 2¼@⅜c and September dropped 2½c. Cash wheat was ½c over July. Oats lost ¼c, rye was unchanged and barley was not quoted. July durum lost 2c.

Linseed was slightly weaker. There were a few country offerings of seed not needed in the interior for seeding purposes. The quality of recent arrivals has been poor. May lost 2c, July 2½c, but September remained unchanged. Cash seed was on a parity with May. Plata quotations were unchanged at Antwerp.

Wheat opened sharply lower on account of showers over night in North Dakota and Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. Rain fell all morning today between Minneapolis and the Red River valley and a gentle rain descended over most of North Dakota. About noon it was raining hard at Brandon and in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. The moisture is timely and will aid greatly in the germination of the new sown wheat.

Another bearish feature was the belief in more liberal shipments from the interior. While stores in the Northwestern interior are small there is a liberal quantity of wheat available for delivery at Chicago if the bulls continue to manifest a desire to pay a high price for it. Farmers in the Southwest are said to be selling wheat liberally to mills who are negotiating for the sale of their surplus stocks at Chicago and other winter wheat terminals. There seems to be a surplus of wheat for the milling demand outside of the Northwest. St. Louis reported considerable cash buying today for shipment to Chicago.

After noon values firmed slightly on Bradstreet's report which gave the decrease in the world's visible supply at 12,400,000 bushels. This is almost 5,000,000 bushels larger than at this time last year. While consumption abroad is enormous it must be remembered that considerable wheat is being withdrawn from contract elevators and placed in private store by the milling interests who are bulling wheat—or trying to—and that the wheat shipped out of this port will reappear later at lower lake ports.

The European visible showed a decrease of 7,816,000 bu, the total stocks amounting to 97,960,000 bu.

European crop advices generally were favorable and there was less desire for cargoes from continental buyers. The demand for Manitoba wheat shrunk and only scattered lots were exported. Cables were lower.

The trade placed a bearish construction on the government's crop report of yesterday. Although it was not as favorable as expected it brought home the fact that the winter wheat crop will be a bumper one if the present prospect is maintained.

The cash demand today was dull. Northwestern mills were light buyers and the flour demand was said to be small.

Flour Situation.

The flour business is far from brisk, but it was fairly steady last week and the widely distributed demand is taken as evidence that stocks, except in scattered instances are exceedingly light. The trade is not talking gleefully over business, but there is a general belief that trading will continue steady and that owing to the policy still in force to by buyers not to order more than they absolutely need, frequent buying for quick shipment will be necessary, with the result that the volume of spring business will be of fairly satisfactory size and much larger than the record of winter months.

The statistical position of wheat is giving the trade confidence. Stocks are being steadily reduced and the visible supply is less than a year ago at this time. A few months ago it was 15,000,000 bu to 20,000,000 bu larger. It is conceded, also that farm reserves in the Northwest are light. It is not difficult to believe, therefore, that spring wheat flour has gone past the low point of the crop and that it will be selling for more money than at present before the end of the year. With the exception of spring wheat millers the exceedingly promising crop prospects for most distributors outweigh the influences of the old crop statistics. The general crop condition is favorable and seldom have prospects been more satisfactory at this period of the year. Harvesting will begin in Texas in about three weeks and will gradually work northward.

Spring wheat millers are not inclined to make the concessions that buyers in most instances demand. Nearly all of them, however, will take less than the prices asked, the extreme being $5.70 for first patent. An outside selling price is $5.50, and most of the trading last week was done at from $5.35 to $5.50 a barrel. There is good flour offering from second-hands at 10c to 15c below mill quotations. A line of Minnesota flour, so-called first patent, offered at $4.60 is the lowest heard of in the spring wheat market. It is understood to be of varying grade and has not proved attractive to buyers, the best offer from one of them being $3.50 for a large lot.

Buyers are showing more interest in winter wheat than in spring wheat flour. The improvement in the latter has been slight, but bsuiness has increased considerably in the former. New York straights and Ohio clears have been selling to a fair extent at from $4 to $4.10 a barrel in wood. There has been a little demand for high-grade winter wheat flour also, and quotations run up to $4.30 and $4.50 for Ohio and Indiana straights and $4.25 for clears. Poor quality clears are offering at $3.75, and for patents from $4.25 to $4.60 is quoted, the whole list of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and New York state flours being covered by that quotation.

Kansas hard wheat flour has also shown a little increased activity, sales in small lots having been more numerous than for several weeks, standard brands selling at $4.40 to $4.50 per bbl in sacks. The sales were made by mills whose product has turned out satisfactory this season. The volume of business, however, was limited. In other respects the market for Kansas flour also shows improvement, old shipments that have been held back because of poor quality having been worked off to some extent and the difficulties about them between buyers and sellers adjusted.

On the whole the local flour situation has made some progress toward betterment during the past week, and it is hoped that further improvement will take place. There is room for it, in spring wheat grades particularly, as in these the change is more in the greater ease with which sales are made to buyers who need supplies of certain brands than in any general increase in demand.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Rain Falling and in Prospect Lowers Wheat Prices.

Chicago, May 9.—Rains northwest and a forecast of more, served to line wheat prices downward today. The weakness would no doubt have been greater but for the circumstances that the government report was less bearish than expected. Favorable European crop advices were against the bulls, but had a full offset in a big decrease of supplies actually on hand across the Atlantic. The opening was weak and a shade to ⅜c lower. July started at 87⅞c to 88@88¼c, a decline of a sixteenth to ¼c, and then sagged to 87¾@87⅝c.

Selling here for Northwest account carried prices quite a bit lower. The clos was easy with July at 86⅞c, a drop of 1¼c under last night.

Corn received support from purchases by a leading packer and others who were on the selling side the previous day. Trade, however, was limited. July opened ⅛@⅜c off to a shade advance, rallied to 51⅞@52c and later fell back to 51⅞@51⅝c.

Free offerings by the country because of rapid progress in planting caused the market to become weak. The close was easy at 51⅜@51½c for July, a net loss of ⅜c.

Oats eased a little in sympathy with wheat, but recovered on account of the steadiness shown by corn. July started the same as last night at ¼c lower to ¼c to 32½c, but soon rose to 32¾c.

More plentiful offerings than of late tended to depress hog products. First sales were unchanged to 2½ down with July deliveries $15.75 for pork, $8.15 for lard and $8.05 for ribs.

MARKET GOSSIP

The following from Moosejaw, Sask. was condensed from the Evening Times: What seeding in the province is fully 90 per cent completed. The growth this year is if anything more rapid and in some districts is reported much ahead of the preceding year. In several districts early sown wheat is reported to be one or two inches above the ground. The correspondents state there is no immediate need for rain at least not until after seeding is completed. The condition of the seed is excellent, the soil retaining a large percentage of moisture stored from the gradual spring thaw. The average precipitation for the province for the first three months of the year was 2.15 inches, being .47 greater than that during the corresponding period last year.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market opened under pressure of realizing with prices ¼d to ⅝d lower on the bearish construction placed upon the American government report. Later there was some disposition shown to cover with lighter Plata offers and the unexpected heavy decrease in the European visible supply and prices advanced ¼d. Later there was further realizing and the market declined ¼d to ⅜d from the opening level with offerings larger. European crop advices were generally favorable and there was an abatement of the demand from the Continent with cargoes moderately offered. At 1:30 p. m. the market was weak with May ¼d lower and July and October ½d lower. After opening ½d lower corn further declined ¼d to ⅜d on the liberal Danubian offers, poor spot trade and the warmer weather here which will reduce consumption. At 1:30 p. m. the market was weak and ½d to ⅝d lower than yesterday.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Sensational crop conditions prevail in California," says a San Francisco wire. "Forty per cent of barley is late sown, with little chance of maturing. Last rain April 5; rainy season probably over; 1910 crop was 700,000 tons; 1911 crop will hardly exceed 425,000 tons. High prices are inevitable under the circumstances. December option up 7c in past three days on merit. May option badly congested."

Cotton Market.

New York, May 9.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2@8 points with July making a new high record for the season on continued covering and in sympathy with unexpectedly firm cables. There was a good deal of realizing on the initial advance with the leading bull brokers moderate sellers of May and July and with the weather in the South favorable the bearish view of the new crop outlook encouraged local selling of the late positions after the opening.

Prices eased off consequently and while the old crop held a point or two over the closing figures of yesterday, new crop positions sold off to a net loss of 2 or 3 points.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: May, 15.52; June, 15.53; July, 15.63; August, 15.08; September, 13.44; October, 12.83; November, 12.83; December, 12.81; January, 12.80; March, 12.88. Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 15.75; middling gulf, 16.00. Sales, 700.

PROFITS ARE WIPED OUT

After Period of Indecision, Stocks Rise But Fall Off Again.

Union Pacific and Atchison Close Near the Lowest Level.

New York, May 9.—Trading on the stock exchange showed a tendency on the part of the active stocks to seek a lower level soon after the opening today, although changes for the most part were slight. American Smelting and Virginia-Carolina Chemical were the largest losers, dropping ⅝. Some of the semi-active issues made good gains, among them being Canadian Pacific, which advanced 1¼, and Western Maryland, which gained a point.

The bulk of the business of the first hour was accomplished within a range of a quarter, which illustrates the narrowness of the market. The early tendency favored a lower level, but there was a sufficient demand for various specialties to impart a slight degree of irregularity to the dealings. All of the fertilizers showed renewed heaviness and there was a decided curtailment of yesterday's inquiry for the American Can issues. Interborough-Metropolitan shares improved about a point. The list was advancing all around at 11 o'clock.

Appearance of a fairly large demand, chiefly from professional traders, strengthened the stock market today, and after a period of indecision early in the session, prices rose. The movement, however, resulted in only small gains, and the bull leaders were unable to command much of a following. United States Steel was absorbed freely, and crossed 75 and there were also fractional gains in other recognized leaders. Speculation increased some low priced stocks in which there is a community of interest such as Erie and Southern railroad. These issues together with American Can and Interborough-Metropolitan ruled higher and furnished a good proportion of the dealings. Bonds dull and steady.

Business was of an extremely professional character, and the familiar expedient of bidding up particular stocks did not arouse any appreciable increase in outside interest. The rise in the standard stocks terminated after midday, but there were no recessions of consequence. United States Steel hovered close to its high level although it is very generally believed that the tonnage statistics to be published tomorrow will show a material contraction from the previous month's figures.

St. Paul, which had been depressed to 119⅝ in the forenoon and had not been dealt in subsequently, when the market rallied sold at 120⅜, making an unusually widespread gain between transactions for an active stock. Railroad shares were generally firmer, with quite an inquiry prevailing for the Hill stocks. International Harvester ran off and Pacific Telephone 1¼.

The market closed heavy. Scattered selling weakened the market in the late session, but the movement had little significance representing mostly the digest profits accruing on the day's advance. Union Pacific and Atchison fell to the lowest level of the day, and Reading and the Hill stocks returned to about last night's close. Some of the minor specialties also shared to a moderate extent in the reaction.

HARRY CARROLL GIVES EVENING PAPERS BULK OF ADVERTISING

HARRY S. CARROLL.

The Broadway Department Store of Los Angeles, the second largest department store on the Pacific coast, is today giving 75 per cent of the firm's advertising to the evening papers.

The Broadway Department Store is one of the largest retail stores in the country and its advertising appropriation reaches nearly six figures annually.

HARRY S. CARROLL, the advertising manager of the Broadway Department Store is rated as one of the "live wires" in that important field. Mr. Carroll needs no introduction to Duluth people. His ability as a successful advertising man was developed while he acted in that capacity for the Freimuth store of this city, before going to the coast.. He is a firm believer in the efficacy of the evening paper as a result getter. Mr. Carroll says:

"There is a growing tendency among all advertisers to change still further to the evening paper and the time is not long distant when the morning papers will be used Sundays only."

JUAREZ FALLS INTO HANDS OF THE INSURRECTOS

TESTIMONY IN DIETZ CASE SHOWS DEPUTIES MAY HAVE SHOT HARP

Evidence of Milwaukee Physician Would Go to Show This.

Traced Flight of Bullets Through Gable of Barn With Stick.

Capt. Kane, Gun Expert, Gives Evidence Favorable to Prisoners.

Hayward, Wis., May 10.—John Dietz, who has hitherto been given considerable latitude in his examination of witnesses was held more strictly accountable this morning by the prosecution to the technicalities of the law. The new resistance caused him to charge Judge Reid with taking advantage of his innocence in court practice. The court replied that concessions have been made in his favor.

In addition to putting character witnesses on the stand, one of whom told the jury that Dietz's reputation was "pretty dangerous," the defendant brought witnesses to impeach testimony brought out by the state. A civil engineer from Chicago, Harry Ornig, is here for the defense. Dietz says he has a map disagreeing with plats shown by the state.

Hayward, Wis., May 10.—Cross-examination of the second important witness of the defense, Dr. William Doern of Milwaukee, physician to Capt. Robert Kane, the gun expert, opened the court session in the Dietz murder trial this morning.

Dr. Doern testified yesterday that when he and Capt. Kane examined the Dietz premises at Cameron dam, he thrust a stick of wood into the bullet holes in the gable end of the barn left and found that the direction of flight in passing through the barn was toward the spot in which the body of Oscar Harp was found. By this testimony the defense will argue that one of the deputies killed Harp.

Former Attorney General L. M. Studevant, for the state, tried without success to shake the testimony of Dr. Doern.

Capt. Kane was recalled to the stand and asked by John Dietz if dust on the barn roof, when the roof was struck by bullets, would not have given the appearance of puffs of smoke, like rifle discharges. The gun expert said he thought dust would have such a tendency.

S. W. Hagerty was called to the stand to impeach the testimony of Walter Bunk, one of the deputies who was with Harp when he was killed.

The prosecution objected on a technicality and the court explained to Dietz that he could not call a witness to impeach a state's witness without

LION BLOCKS STAGE EXIT

Eight Lives Lost in Fire in Music Hall in Edinburgh.

"Lafayette, the Great," Perishes While Attempting to Save Animals.

Edinburgh, Scotland, May 10.—Eight bodies have been recovered this morning from the ruins of the Empire Music hall, which was burned last night. The bodies so far identified are those of "Lafayette, the Great," and two members of his company, Alice Dale, who impersonated the Teddy Bear midget, and Joe Coster. Two bodies are those of members of the orchestra and three others have not been identified.

Miss Dale and Coster were natives of England. Lafayette was a German. He played for twenty years in the United States. During the last two years he has been in Great Britain presenting at music halls a spectacular "turn," which introduced a horse and dog. An attempt to rescue these two pets cost the performer his life.

Lafayette had escaped in the first panic when the stage was a mass of flames. All the performers and stage hands were rushing out of the place when he was seen to re-enter the stage door, saying as he did so, "I am going to try to get my horse and dog."

When the ruins were examined today the actor's charred body was found beside that of his horse and a heavy burned timber lay across both man and beast.

Fire Starts in Scenery.

The fire started in a mass of scenery used in the conclusion of Lafayette's performance which was a spectacular military pageant in which he represented Lord Roberts and other celebrities on horseback.

In a moment the stage was filled with flames. The iron fire curtains was hastily lowered and the audience

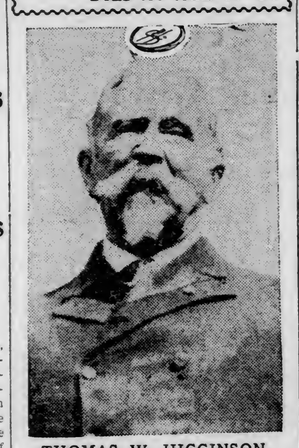
FAMOUS OLD SCHOLAR DIES AT AGE OF 87



THOMAS W. HIGGINSON.

HEAVY RAIN ENDS FIRES

Much Needed Downpour in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota.

Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan Also Get Good Soaking.

Thunder disturbed slumber, lightning flashed, and a soaking rain this morning drenched the ground in Duluth and vicinity, extinguishing dangerous brush fires and furnishing needed moisture to vegetation.

The rain was opportune, for the ground had become very dry. Brush fires were becoming more dangerous all the time and many communities were called upon to fight the flames in order to protect their property. Coming after Sunday's showers, the rain was enough to extinguish the flames.

In Duluth the rainfall was only one-fifth of an inch, but in other places through Northern Minnesota, it was much heavier. The showers were so heavy that, even with a comparatively small amount of rainfall, fires were extinguished by the very intensity of the showers.

More rain is promised.

Northeast storm warnings were or-

OLD-TIME AUTHOR HAS PASSED AWAY

Thomas Wentworth Higginson Dies in Cambridge, Aged 87 Years.

Cambridge, Mass., May 10.—Col Thomas Wentworth Higginson, historian and author, minister and soldier, one of the last of the group of famous scholars and abolitionists of a half a century ago, died at his home here last night, aged 87 years.

Col. Higginson had been ill about ten days. A general breakdown due to old age became apparent, but was not considered serious until yesterday, when he became unconscious. Death came at 11:25 o'clock last night. He is survived by a widow and one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Barney of Boston, who were with him at the end.

Col. Higginson was almost the last of that New England coterie which included Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Emerson and Lowell. He was also one of the anti-slavery agitators together with Wendell Phillips, Everett Hale and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

He regarded his anti-slavery work and other reforms as the most gratifying episodes of his career. His verses entitled "The Trumpeter" he once declared to be nearer to an epitaph of himself than anything he ever wrote.

He served in the Civil war as captain of the Fifty-first Massachusetts Volunteers and later as colonel of the First South Carolina Volunteers, a Union organization afterwards named the Thirty-third United States Colored troops.

He was vice president of the congress of religions and a member of the Academy of Arts and Sciences, Royal Society of Canada and other organizations.

He held the degree of doctor of laws, conferred by Harvard and Western Reserve universities. He was author of a history of the United States, an English history for Americans, and other publications.

TAKES ACID AT HOME OF HER MOTHER

Wife Had Gone to Providence to Recover From Illness.

Mrs. Essie Haney, 37 years old, wife of Herbert S. Haney of Duluth, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid at the home of her mother, Mrs. F. C. Stanley, at Providence, R. I., this morning.

Mr. Haney, who was formerly a member of the brokerage firm of Haney & O'Leary and was more recently connected with the Zenith Box & Lumber company of West Duluth, sold his interest in the latter company recently and left last week for the West. His exact whereabouts could not be learned today.

Ill health is supposed to have been the cause of Mrs. Haney's suicide. She had been ill last summer and her mother came to Duluth to care for her. They left for Providence in February, Mr. Haney remaining in Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. Haney were married about five years ago. They lived on Park Point for a time, but had apartments in the San Marco flats for several months up to February, when Mrs. Haney went East. They had no children.

FOUR MEN IN AUTO KILLED BY TRAIN

Shelby, Ohio, May 10.—Four men are dead as the result of a grade crossing accident at the Main street crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at midnight when a train struck an automobile driven by James Hissong of Shelby. The dead:

HISSONG, owner of the car, a saloonkeeper.

SAMUEL WINNER of Shelby, an employe of Hissong's.

J. J. BELL of Bucyrus, brewer.

MACK ESTERLINE, Shelby, an insurance agent.

Hissong, Winner and Bell were instantly killed and Esterline died today.

CHURCH AT JUAREZ CAPTURED BY INSURRECTOS

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—A wounded insurrecto, brought across the line this forenoon, declared he received his wound while fighting in the tower of the church. He says that Gen. Blanco, with 200 men, stormed the church at midnight, and after a fierce struggle, drove the federals from the building.

MUCH MONEY IS DUE THE STATE

Thousands Owed to the School for the Feeble-Minded.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—That books of the School for the Feeble Minded at Faribault show there is several thousand dollars due the state from relatives of inmates and from counties which have placed charges there, is the discovery Andrew Fritz, public examiner, says he has found. In a report on the institution, filed with the governor today, Mr. Fritz says:

"The board of control has fixed $30 a year as the charge for keeping persons in that school. Several thousand dollars are due the state, but no ledger account is kept, showing the exact amount. I would respectfully suggest that the superintendent take immediate steps to collect the outstanding amounts and that hereafter an account be kept in the ledger showing the balance outstanding at any date."

Mr. Fritz also declares that the cost of fuel used in the school seems unreasonably large.

EBERHART BOOMING TAFT.

Predicts in Spokane That President Will Be Renominated.

Spokane, Wash., May 10.—Governor Eberhart of Minnesota while here Monday was the guest of honor at the fourth annual banquet of the Minnesota club, at which Governor Hay of Washington presided. The Minnesota governor praised the average Minnesota boy and girl and acknowledged their worth.

When questioned as to the logical Republican candidates for president in 1912, Governor Eberhart said: "Taft is the man."

"Put it there," said Governor Hay, extending his hand.

AWAIT ACTION OF CONGRESS

Secretary Knox Will Then Take Up Reciprocity With Newfoundland.

Washington, May 10.—Neither branch of congress was in session today, but there was more or less activity of committees of both.

Interest on the senate side of the capitol lay chiefly in the continued hearings on Canadian reciprocity before the finance committee.

Farmers, paper manufacturers and wire manufacturers had obtained reservations of time in which to address the committee. Of the new members of the committee Seantor John Sharp Williams of Mississippi took probably the most active part in questioning the witnesses. Senator La Follette also showed his interest by a number of questions, as did Senator Kern of Indiana and Senator Johnson of Maine.

The house committee on territories again considered statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, delay having been caused because of insistence by the Republican members that New Mexico be admitted without the necessity of voting on a proposed amendment. There will be a report of the minority when the resolution is submitted to the house Friday.

DIES FROM WOUNDS.

Mrs. Louis Ridel, Shot By Former Lover, Succumbs in Hospital.

Geneseo, Ill., May 10.—Mrs. Louis Ridel, shot by Mell Van Loo, who afterwards shot and killed himself ten days ago at Atkinson, Ill., died this morning in Geneseo hospital. Van Loo had been a suitor for the hand of Mrs. Ridel in Belgium, but was rejected. The Ridels came to this country and to Atkinson, unexpectedly encountering Van Loo, who shot the woman and then himself.

REBELS CREEP INTO CITY DURING NIGHT

Clash With Federals and After Fierce Fighting Drive Them Out.

Gen. Navarro Remains in Barracks and Is Surrounded By Rebels.

The battle at Juarez between federals and insurgents that began Monday afternoon, reached its culmination this morning when after desperate fighting that was resumed at 8:30 the insurgents gained practical control of the city.

Insurgent flags can be seen flying from the most important buildings at Juarez and Gen. Navarro, the federal commander, is surrounded in the federal barracks.

The engagement began again in earnest at 8:25 o'clock. Juarez is flame-swept from the fires of last night. The federals made desperate stands from behind their barricades, but the rebels pushed the fighting. The federals found refuge in a church and at the customs house, but were driven from both these buildings.

The rebels throwed dynamite bombs and both sides used machine guns.

Navarro said last night he would fight to the death. He expected reinforcements but the latest report said his succor was 200 miles away and could not arrive for a week.

Wounded men are being brought into El Paso and refugees are pouring across the bridge that separates Juarez from the American city. Bullets are still coming across the river into El Paso, but so far as known this morning no more Americans have been killed or wounded.

Tijuana, the Mexican town in Lower California, captured by the rebels yesterday, is still in their possession. There has been no further fighting at that point.

The federal forces that were in Agua Prieta evacuated that town early today.

It is reported that federal forces were drawn into a trap yesterday near Saltillo and lost fifty-six men killed in the subsequent fighting with the rebels.

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—Stealthily creeping into the federal strongholds under cover of darkness, and keeping up a hand to hand attack during the night, the insurrecto army had practically captured Juarez at 11 o'clock today.

Gen. Madero has started for the town to establish his headquarters there while the rebel cavalry under Col. Villa, the fleetest of the revolutionist horsemen, are in hot pursuit of a detachment of federals fleeing south from town.

The rebels are swarming into the streets. The residents of the town are apparently satisfied that the fighting is over and are coming out from their shelter and shouts of exultation and victory can be heard on the American side.

The sun is burning fiercely and the revolutionists, who have been fighting for hours without food and water, are being relieved by the residents of the town, most of whom seem to be in sympathy with the insurrectos.

Navarro Surrounded.

Raoul Madero, one of the youngest of the insurrecto leaders, at 11:20 o'clock galloped past the Santa Fe bridge on his way to Gen. Madero's camp. He reported that Gen. Navarro has been located within the barracks, and that the rebels have him surrounded.

Occasional firing is heard from the barracks, where Gen. Navarro is stationed. The gray-haired leader has determined to make a last stand there. A few days ago he declared that if the rebels had the whole town and he only the barracks he still would be able to hold out for a week, while reinforcements came up.

Dr. Wilson, the insurrecto field surgeon, reported at 11:30 o'clock that he intends to care for the wounded in Juarez, as some of them are seriously wounded. He declared that the total wounded on both sides would number over 100. He added that he knows positively that among the dead are three Americans of the insurrecto army.

Dr. Zuniga, in charge of the federal hospital for the last three days, admitted at 11:35 o'clock that he had treated more than 100 federal wounded, twenty of whom may die. Around the customs house, the church and the jail, between thirty-five and forty federals, he says, are lying dead in the streets.

Bullets Come Across.

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—At 8:50 o'clock a shower of bullets came across the Rio Grande, several lodging in the United States immigration station. A squad of insurgents had gone to the river front to get some ammunition, which had been brought up to them from camp. They carried it in small sacks and handkerchiefs and were directly exposed to the federal fire while running back and forth.

The blaze that raged during the night in Juarez, reducing whole blocks of houses to ruins, is smoulering today, but the town is again in the thick of a fierce attack by the insurrectos. The latter have surrounded the outskirts of the town while all the reserves they have and a gradual advance up the main thoroughfare toward the federal stronghold has been started.

The insurrectos wounded have been taken to various hotels in El Paso in automobiles. Gustavo A. Madero, a brother of the rebel leader, paying the expense for their care.

A revised list of the casualties on the American side of the line since the fighting began now gives the number dead as four and wounded as fifteen.

Hit U. S. Custom House.

At 9:15 o'clock several bullets penetrated the thin walls of the United States custom guard house, where some newspaper men were stationed, but no one was injured.

Jose de la Luz Blanco and about 300 men moved up from the camp of Madero last night and got in behind the Juarez jail. The federals had been firing east and north and did

SLAUGHTER OF FEDERALS

Mexican Troops Shot Down at Saltillo By Insurgent Forces.

Laredo, Tex., May 10.—Reliable information that fifty-six federals were killed at Saltillo yesterday in a fight with insurrectos was brought here today by a railway conductor, who was an eye witness of the battle. The federals were drawn into a trap.

The slaughter occurred at a cotton mill in the eastern part of Saltillo, where a company of sixty federals had sought shelter during a rebel attack. The insurrectos kept up an incessant fire on the mill from all sides from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon. Then they made a feint of retreating and the federals rushed after them to attack their rear. It was only a decoy force which retreated, for as the federals stepped clear of the mill they were suddenly flanked by the rebels, who shot them down almost at will. Only four of the federals were seen to escape.

Reports from Conception del Oro this morning tended to confirm last night's dispatches that insurrectos had completely isolated a force at that place. Fifty to sixty dead or desperately wounded were estimates made by the incoming railway passengers.

FALLS FROM AEROPLANE

Fractures Skull and Dies Without Regaining Consciousness.

San Antonio, Tex., May 10.—Lieut. George M. E. Kelly of the Thirtieth infantry, U. S. A., was killed this morning in a fall from a Curtiss aeroplane at Fort Sam Houston. He was making a flight and when about fifty feet from the ground shot forward from his seat, landing on his head. His skull was fractured and he died in a few moments without regaining consciousness.

Kelly was a pupil of Glenn Curtiss in aviation and came here about three weeks ago from San Diego, Cal., where he received his first lessons. It is believed the accident was caused by the unexpected starting of the engine while Kelly was making a landing.

Second Officer Sacrificed.

Washington, May 10.—Lieut. Kelly was regarded at the war department as a most promising military aviator. He is the second American officer sacrificed to aviation, Lieut. Selfridge having been killed at Fort Meyer, Va., during the Wright experiments in 1909.

Lieut. Kelly was ordered to the maneuvers division at San Antonio on March 14, for aeronautical duties. He was born in England, Dec. 14, 1878, enlisted in the army as a private in 1904, and rose to be second lieutenant Feb. 11, 1907.

METHODS OF MARKETING

Prof. N. E. Chapman Will Instruct Egg Shippers of State.

Hopes to Save Thousands of Dollars for People in the Industry.

The education of all people who handle eggs, in order that the number of eggs reaching the market in unsuitable condition for consumption may be reduced to a minimum is the work in which the poultry division of the extension department of the state agricultural school will engage almost exclusively for the next two and one-half months. The success of the work will mean the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars, which are now lost yearly in eggs thrown away.

N. E. Chapman, head of the poultry work of the agricultural school, was in Duluth this morning conferring with commission men and commercial bodies. The people interested in Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis and the different railroad companies will cooperate with Mr. Chapman in his work, as more careful handling of eggs at producing points will save carriers and receivers great trouble and expense.

Mr. Chapman will visit every town of any importance in the state. He will talk with shipers and collectors of eggs and show them wherein their business may be improved by careful candling and the elimination of spots, rots and other inferior eggs from their shipments. The cost of handling bad eggs is charged up to the good eggs by people buying on a case basis and a general improvement in the handling of eggs will bring the level of prices in the shipper's market up, he says.

"We are turning from the work of increasing the production to the commercial side of the subject," said Mr. Chapman this morning. "Correct methods of marketing are nearly as important as correct methods of taking care of poultry. We have carried our propaganda on poultry raising through Minnesota and I believe we will be successful in increasing the production of eggs and poultry. The increased production makes the marketing more important and this propaganda that we are now preparing is a very important work.

"The receivers at the different primary centers are very much interested in this matter and have furnished me with information on shippers and such other data as will be of benefit to me in my work. The railroads also are interested, for if shippers would use the proper precautions in making shipments, many damage suits that are now filed against the railroads yearly would be unnecessary.

"The Duluth commission men have shown interest in my work, as have those in St. Paul and Minneapolis. I am very hopeful for this work and I believe we will save many thousands of dollars for people interested in the poultry industry."

Mr. Chapman will take the opportunity of instructing shippers in proper methods of marketing poultry and veal also. He says that he believes that as a result of his work the poultry marketed by Minnesota producers this year will be in better condition than the bulk of the poultry marketed in former years.

JUDGE NOT A HUMORIST

Couldn't See Joke in Slugging Man With Rubber Hose.

Gouging His Face With Gun Muzzle Also Lacking in Comedy.

Judge Cutting doesn't think that Isaac Johnson plays the right kind of jokes when he swats a man over the face with a rubber hose and then drives him out of his saloon at the muzzle of a gun, gouging him in the face with it to accelerate his progress to the street.

For playing such a joke, Judge Cutting turned joker in police court this morning and joked Johnson to the tune of $75, with the alternative of sixty days in the county jail. Johnson saw the joke, and rather than joke with Sheriff Meining and his jailers until summer was well along, he handed over the cash.

Johnson was arrested yesterday on complaint of John Lampi, who swore out a warrant charging him with assault. Lampi claimed that the saloon keeper struck him over the face with a rubber hose when he asked him for a free drink. When he didn't promptly retire it seems that Johnson, who runs the saloon at 334 Lake avenue south, drove him out at the muzzle of a gun which he had in the place. Lampi claimed that he jabbed the muzzle into his face and left the cut which he bore when he appeared in police court this morning.

When Johnson took the stand this morning he declared that he was only joking. He evidently thought that it was great fun to lay the hose across Lampi's face, although he didn't hurt him very badly. But when it came to the gun part of the deal it appeared from his statements that a real comedy had been enacted, one of these screaming farces that are billed as headliners in the vaudeville circuits.

But Judge Cutting stated that he couldn't see where the laugh came in, and declared that he could not understand how the other fellow could appreciate jokes of that kind. On the same theory he handed out his own little joke, entitled "$75 or sixty days in the county jail."

OPEN BIDS FOR NEW SANITARIUM

Contract Will Not Be Let Until Architects Are Consulted.

At a meeting of the St. Louis County Sanitarium commission held at Dr. Hart's office in the courthouse, the bids, which had been submitted by contractors on the work of erecting the sanitarium buildings on the recently purchased site near Midway, were opened.

No award was made. The Saranac Lake architects who drew the plans will have to be communicated with before any action is taken. It is expected that the contract will be let within two weeks, however.

The regular monthly meeting of the commission will take place at Dr. Hart's office. Only routine business will be transacted.

Some work has already been done at the location of the new sanitarium. Some ground has been cleared and a well dug. All is in readiness for the building operations to begin. It is expected that actual work will begin inside of a month.

It was thought advisable on the part of the commissioners not to make the bids public until the contract had been let.

GIRL MURDERED BEFORE BEING THROWN IN CANAL.

Chicago, May 10.—Elsie Paroubek, the 7-year-old girl for whom search was made over all of the north central states, and whose body was taken from the drainage canal near Lockport was murdered before being thrown into the water, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury returned yesterday. The verdict followed positive testimony by physicians.

An autopsy, according to the testimony, showed no water in the girl's lungs, and her body showed bruises which the physicians said had been inflicted before death.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Alumni night is a new addition to the commencement program at the Duluth Central high school and the members of the Alumni association are planning to make it a big affair.

A program under the direction of A. F. M. Custance will be in the nature of musical vaudeville, containing vocal solos, monologues, a little sketch and chorus numbers.

The musical society of the school will join the Alumni association and will give its spring concert at this time. Some big numbers have been rehearsed by the society for some time under the direction of Mr. Custance and their part will add much to the attractiveness of the evening.

George Suffel, baritone; Miss Gladys Reynolds, soprano; Leon Cooley, tenor, and Charles O. Applehagen, basso, will be the soloists. Arthur Kreitter and Hans Haroldson will have monologues and a clever little sketch will be played by four young people.

The association has had for its aim since its organization the raising of a $5,000 scholarship fund in the memory of Charles Alden Smith, formerly principal of the school. In previous affairs about $600 have been raised as a start towards this end and the association feels that in establishing this alumni night the association will have a permanent event which will bring in money for this fund. Interest in the association has been well worked up and such an evening ought to be a success, having not only the enthusiasm of the alumni behind it, but the attraction of the musical society concert and the place on the program taken by the well-known and prominent soloists.

LINNAEA CLUB.

Annual Meeting of Club Shows Balance on Hand.

With a balance on hand of $537.03 for carrying on their relief work among tubercular patients, the Linnaea club closed its work for the past year at its annual meeting yesterday afternoon held at the Knights of Pythias hall with Mrs. Andrew Nelson and Mrs. N. A. Bergstrom as hostesses.

Officers for next year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Israel Bergstrom; vice president, Mrs. K. A. Ostergren; recording secretary, Mrs. Harold Fegraeus; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. A. Anderson; financial secretary, Mrs. D. A. Cone; treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Smith; trustee, Mrs. August Lofgren.

The club began its work for last year in May with thirty-eight members and during the year the roll has grown to an active membership of ninety-four. All of these members have worked earnestly and faithfully towards the elimination of the white plague and the following extracts from the secretary's report will give some interesting details of their work:

"The president has invited people interested in this work to address us from time to time. Dr. Hart gave us a very instructive talk on the past and present struggle in this suppression of tuberculosis.

"Miss Anderson, visiting nurse of the Associated Charities, presented a word picture of 'A day's work,' giving a glimpse of this very effective work among the sick and unfortunate.

"As to our actual relief work we have financially assisted seven individuals, some for several months, providing for their care at the Walker sanitarium. With the exception of one case, all have been much improved and in the majority of cases we hope permanently cured. In the case of the one who died we had the satisfaction of knowing that her last day were made brighter by our help.

"We pledged ourselves to furnish three rooms in the new St. Louis county sanitarium at $75 per room.

"We have procured printed slips in Swedish and English for the free dispensary with directions for home treatment for those afflicted.

"Some of our members have visited the poorfarm and as a club have joined with other organizations for the betterment of this institution.

"We contributed to the fire sufferers and have sent ministers to administer to the dying at the poorfarm and have provided for such calls in the future."

The club has given five social entertainments during the year which have been very pleasant affairs and the members hope to have the work next year far exceed that done this year.

At the beginning of the year the club had a balance on hand of $231.10; the income for the year was $710.03; the expenses of the year $404.05, making a net gain for the year of $305.98, leaving a balance on hand of $537.08. Of this balance $357.90 will go towards the reserve fund and $179.18 for the relief fund.

THE EVENING STORY

Cupid and Cookery

"Now then, girls!"

The pretty teacher of domestic economy stopped suddenly in the middle of her lecture and faced her class. It was the cookery class of the normal school, and the teacher was a young woman who allowed no nonsense during school hours. She was extremely pleasant to look upon with her dark skirt, immaculate white waist with its snowy collar, her white linen elbow-cuffs, and her dainty cooking apron; and just now her agreeable face was flushed with the heat of the gas stove, in front of which she had been explaining to seventeen girls the right way to treat a pudding.

"None of you are listening! Attention! Yes, what is it now?"

"If you please, teacher," chorused seventeen voices, "some one's knocking at the door!"

"Let them knock. And you, Daisy Porter, haven't I told you before about touching those scales? Pretty soon you will drop a weight on your foot. Now—"

"They're still knocking," persisted the class.

The teacher walked briskly down the class-room between the long table and the rows of desks, frowning as she went. Already feminine instinct had warned her as to who might be at the door. She opened it, anyway, and there stood a tall, good-looking young man in a brown rain-coat.

"Oh!" exclaimed the teacher with well-feigned amazement, "It's you, Mr. Stuart!"

"Good afternoon; yes, it's me," said Harry Stuart diffidently, "I just came in to see if —"

"I'm sorry, but you don't come at all!" returned the pretty teacher firmly.

She was really annoyed with Harry Stuart. At home, this young man, who lived in her neighborhood, was, as she put it, "always on father's doorstep." He was always trying to secure her for a partner at the local dances and at tennis, and, as he was accustomed to have all the girls in the place adoring at his feet, it piqued his masculine vanity to know there was one girl who didn't care a button for him, nor did she bother her curly head about flirtations or engagements with young men! Therefore, he was determined to pursue this one girl even to her place of business.

In the meantime, the cooking teacher was conscious of those seventeen pairs of sharp eyes fastened upon her back; and criticising the intruder, who would inevitably be summed up as "Teacher's sweetheart." Horrors! Sharply she added:

"I've had no less than six men here worrying me this afternoon already!"

"Indeed," said Harry Stuart blankly. The hopeful expression disappeared from his face, as he began to realize that there was scant welcome for him here, and oh! she certainly was a joy to look upon. Any kind of uniform seems to suit a woman, and the big white cooking apron which this pretty one wore made her a most attractive person. No wonder she was popular! Still, he thought, she's walked off with more than her share of admirers. "Six men!" he questioned in astonishment.

"Window cleaners," explained the teacher dryly. "I told them they'd no business to come here to clean windows until my class is up at 4 o'clock. It's ten minutes to 4 now. They're waiting in the yard."

"I'll join them," said young Stuart, and the door shut.

It opened again at 4 o'clock to let out the flushed and noisy cookery class which clattered past their teacher's visitor with giggles.

Then there trooped into the class room six workmen, each bearing a ladder and a bucket. At the end of this procession came Henry Stuart. But it was a window cleaner who spoke first.

"If you've no objection, lady, we'll finish this little job tomorrow morning. What with the evening drawin' in, and the light goin' so early, it don't hardly seem much good settin' about it now!"

"Do you mean," asked the teacher, "that you would rather clean the windows tomorrow morning instead of this afternoon?"

"That's it, lady!"

"Oh, very well. Good afternoon."

"Afternoon, lady; afternoon, sir!" And the six window cleaners went their way, each with his ladder and bucket, to say nothing of the grin and the bright quarter of a dollar which Harry Stuart had deposited with each man while they were waiting in the yard.

"I am so sorry I interrupted you in business hours," began Harry Stuart as soon as the coast was clear. "But I wanted to ask you something. My mother tells me that whenever she wants some extra-special nice cakes for her at-home days she always—that is, you always—I mean, I thought if you could make one for me—could you?

"Certainly! Why not?" returned the teacher in her most business-like manner, standing up before the empty desks. "The school supplies are quite good, and I could use them, charging up two and one-half dollars on my own account and, say, another dollar for my time and trouble; unless you think three and a half dollars too much."

"Not at all; not at all!" he hastened to assure her, and then added quickly: "I—do you know—I don't think you can do it for that. It's a more expensive cake I shall want you to make. A—a rather rich one."

"O, very well," agreed the sensible young woman, smoothing that becoming white apron. "A five-dollar cake?"

"More, I should think. You see, it will have to have icing and fancy decorations on it, won't it? I thought Marachine's and those big confectioners charged at least $10 for them."

"For ordinary cakes?"

"No; for extraordinary cakes," said Harry Stuart. "It's a wedding cake I want!"

"Hadn't you heard?" asked the young man, smiling all over his handsome, mischievous face. "It's for myself that I want the cake. Didn't you know I hope to be married soon?"

"No."

She certainly didn't know. She hadn't heard that Harry Stuart was going graciously to take pity upon one of his many girl-admirers. He was going to be married! He had come to tell her about icing and decorations for his wedding cake! Well! She, the independent bachelor-girl, need never again be afraid that he would try to flirt with her, nor endeavor to make her dissatisfied with her role of teacher. This was the end of all that, thank goodness!

But, why did it make her feel as if life had suddenly gone flat, like a baking of bread that her pupils had spoiled?

What would she do at the Country club dances, or the tennis matches, without any Harry Stuart to be her constant partner and set all her friends warning her: "You'll lose your heart to him before you know it!"

This was just what had happened, all unsuspected by the pretty cooking instructor in domestic economy. She, like many another, did not realize of how much value her friend was, nor how much pleasure he had brought into her life, until fate was about to remove him from her companionship.

It was all over; cupid against cookery and independence, and cupid had won again! But she mustn't show her defeat. She must smile as if she weren't cut to the heart by the thought of that wedding, and —oh, the bitterness of it!—also that cake which he had asked her to make for him.

"I congratulate you! And—and who is the lucky lady?" she asked gaily and lightly.

Alas, too lightly, too carelessly! For that gave her away to the ears and eyes so eagerly on the alert for how she would take the news. That careless tone didn't "go" with the slight catch in the breath, or with that sudden swift look in her large eyes.

"Who is she? Don't you think I'm wise in these days of the servant problem,' to decide to marry my cook?"

"Your cook!"

But he would tease her no longer. He took one step forward, then caught an armful of apron and immaculate shirt waist to his bosom and held it there.

"You shan't escape me again, you outrageous darling! Leading me such a dance; trying to shut doors in my face; driving me out to sit in damp yards with window cleaners; snapping my head off—and caring for me all the time! I've found you out!

She tried to hold him from her while she turned upon him full terrors of her "class-room frown." It was not a success, for Harry had discovered her. And her cheeks and lips glowed rosier and warmer now than they had ever done before the heat of the gas stove!

"What did you mean by trying to frighten me just now? Oh, I shall never forgive you! What about that wedding cake you came to order, sir?"

"Well, what about it?" laughed Harry Stuart, coaxing a kiss from those softly glowing lips. "Why, my sweet girl, we shall want one, I suppose, for ourselves!"

GOGEBIC COUNTY WILL WORK ITS PRISONERS.

Wakefield, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incarceration in the Gogebic county jail at Bessemer isn't going to be the snap that many able-bodied men confined there in the past have found it. Aside from a little snow shoveling or grass cutting, the prisoners heretofore have had no work to do. But Sheriff John Rowett, who assumed office the first of the year, has decreed a new order of things, under authority conferred by the board of supervisors. Men able to work are now required to earn their board and lodging. There is much manual labor to be performed on county account, especially at the rock-crushing plant and the infirmary grounds, and in the future the prisoners will be required to do a large share of it. The change is welcomed by some of the men, who have time hanging heavily, and naturally it is repugnant to others. It is expected that vagrants will give Gogebic county a wide berth.

NORTH DAKOTA BANKERS WILL GATHER IN FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fine program has been arranged for the ninth annual convention of the North Dakota State Bankers' association, which will be held in Fargo June 27 and 28. Aside from the chief address, which will be delivered by George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental & Commercial National bank of Chicago, a number of fine speeches and papers will be heard at the Fargo meeting of the North Dakota bankers.

Among the speakers will be Prof. W. P. Snyder of the Hebron experimental station, J. E. Phelan of Dickinson, H. T. Graves of Jamestown, Senator John L. Cashel, Senator H. H. Steele of Mohall, J. N. Hull of Towner, Senator Jerry E. Stevens of Northwood, Senator W. D. Overson of Williston and J. E. Vinland of the national monetary commission.

The amount of money paid down on the day's purchases was $1,492.73, of which sum $450 was paid for the timber on the land.

One of the encouraging features of the sale was the number of out of the county visitors who attended. C. N. Way, president of the Minneapolis Bedding company, purchased 320 acres, also 320 acres for N. F. Way of Minneapolis, H. L. Pier of Dubuque, Iowa, purchased eighty acres; W. J. Bannett of St. Paul purchased a fractional lot in Township 70-24, O. E. PAYMENTS TO LIFESAVERS

Towing Company Had Captain of Station in Its Pay, Says Witness.

Chicago City Scaler Said to Have Received $500 in One Check.

Chicago, May 10.—Details of business returns between the Great Lakes Towing company and its competitors and patrons were told yesterday by officials and employes of the company before United States Examiner B. C. Miller of the federal district court of Cleveland, who is taking testimony here. The details covered alleged payments to United States lifesavers, special rates to certain companies and payments to Chicago officials while the company was bidding for city business.

Ivers Wilder, former cashier for the corporation, testified to the alleged payments to lifesavers and to a city official. Capt. Robert Young, manager of the Chicago office of the concern, furnished the other testimony.

Wilder testified, in substance, that he had paid City Sealer James A. Quinn, now city oil inspector, $500 in December, 1903, by a check on the Dunham Towing & Wrecking company, a subsidiary of the corporation which the government is accusing of being a trust, and that the company paid Capt. Cameron of the Kenosha lifesaving crew $10 a month for reporting to the Chicago office of the company the passing of freight and passenger boats that might require tugs upon their arrival here.

The former cashier said he was directed to send the Quinn check, which was drawn on the Continental National bank, according to his story, by Capt. Sinclair, then manager of the Chicago office, now dead. He did not know for what the check purported to be in compensation of. He said he did not see any wrong in paying the lifesaver, as it saved the company the employment of lookouts and helped the captain.

Capt. Young, in his testimony, explained the accusation of government attorneys that the Goodrich Transportation company got its towing done at reduced rates by saying this company's boats sailed on time and never caused any costly delays after the tug was ordered, such as occurred frequently with other freight lines.

A letter was read into the record, purporting to have been sent by M. H. Wardell, secretary of the corporation at Cleveland, to Capt. Robert Young of the Chicago office, which read in part: "I do not think it would be wise to make any change at this time, especially where it would be necessary to have an argument with the Pittsburg Steamship company and the Hines Lumber company. I therefore would recommend that you continue to allow the 20 per cent off of the tariff at Chicago, but maintain the charges at tariff in South Chicago."

It was announced that a score of independent tug companies would be subpoenaed to testify next week.

Nicholas Released.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 10.—Special to The Herald.)—The steamer I. W. Nicholas was released from Crab Island shoals near Detour late yesterday after lightering 350 tons of hard coal. She arrived here at midnight. Her forepeak was leaking badly. A diver is making an examination and temporary repairs will be made here.

MASCOTTE TO BE LENGTHENED

Excursion Boat Is Being Rebuilt at the Superior Shipyards.

Extensive repairs that will change the appearance of the steamer Mascotte to the extent that the boat will hardly be recognized, are being made at the present time at the Superior ship yards.

The contract calls for the lengthening of the boat thirty feet and the general overhauling and repairing of the vessel. This will include the setting back of the engine boilers, and the entire rebuilding of the hull and the interior of the boat. The contract calls for the completion of the boat by June 15.

According to the statement made at the Clow & Nicholson office today, the boat will be continued in the excursion business.

The completion of the repairs will make the Mascotte one of the finest excursion boats on Lake Superior, for in addition to the repairs will be installed a number of modern features that the boat lacked before.

STEEL GATE LAUNCHED.

Huge Structure Will Be Towed From Detroit to Ashtabula.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—Something of a novelty in the way of a launching took place at the Ecorse plant of the Great Lakes Engineering works last week, when the big steel gate for the mammoth dry dock which the company is building at its new plant in Ashtabula was dropped off the ways.

More than 180 tons of steel were used in the construction of the gate. It is eighty feet, one inch long, sixteen feet wide and twenty-three feet high. Within a few days the odd looking craut will be towed to Ashtabula to be placed in position.

The dock for which the gate is being built will be of the slip dock type in distinction to the floating dry docks which are used at the Ecorse plant. Its dimension when completed will be: Length over all, 650 feet; length on keel blocks, 622 feet; width at the bottom, 85 feet, two inches; width at the top, 102 feet; width of entrance, clear, with gate in place, 78 feet; depth over sill, sixteen feet.

SUBMITS LOWEST BID ON WRECKING JOB.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—The bid of Capt. Alexander Cunning, wrecking master for the Great Lakes Towing company, for floating the steamer Erwin L. Fisher, which was sunk in the lower Detroit river Thursday night by the steamer Clement, was the lowest of three bids turned in for the job. The Great Lakes Towing company probably will be awarded the contract.

The Hackett Wrecking Company of Amherstburg, Ont., and the Reid Wrecking Company of Sarnia, were the other companies to submit bids.

The Great Lakes Towing company's bid for the work was $39,000, or 40 per cent of the value of the property recovered. The underwriters, according to the agreement of the Great Lakes Towing company, can have the option to accept.

The bid of the Reid Wrecking company was $40,000 or 65 per cent of the value of the property recovered. The Hackett Wrecking company submitted a flat bid of $50,000.

The Erwin L. Fisher, when raised, will be delivered at Detroit for repairs. Work will be started as soon as the contract is awarded. The bid of the Great Lakes Towing company will be submitted to the foreign underwriters in London, and the contract probably will not be awarded until Monday or Tuesday. The insurance on the Fisher is held by foreign underwriters.

HAS GREAT LUCK ON NORTH SHORE STREAM.

The finest catch of trout which has been reported thus far this season was brought in last evening by Dr. F. F. Clark, an enthusiastic disciple of Izaac Walton. His luck didn't run so much to numbers as to size, although he got about all the law allowed. He had a dozen of the speckled beauties which ran from 18 to 24 inches in length. They weren't rainbow trout or steelheads, but the genuine speckled variety. Several of them are on display in the window of a West Superior street cafe.

Dr. Clark was loath to tell just where he got them, further than that they came from a stream on the north shore. He is hoping to be able to make another trip to the stream which harbors such trout before it is fished out, which he fears would be the case were he to advertise it.

WEST END NEWS

DOUBLE CELEBRATION OF NORWEGIAN INDEPENDENCE

Varde Club and Normanna Society Both Plan Exercises.

Meetings Will Be Held at Lincoln Park and Auditorium.

Owing to the rivalry which has sprung up between two of the principal Norwegian societies of the city, May 17, the "Norwegian Fourth of July" will be celebrated in Duluth this year at two separate gatherings. There will be two celebrations and each society is making an attempt to outdo the other. It is the ninety-seventh anniversary.

L. A. SIMONSON, Chairman of the Evening for the Normanna Society.

R. E. DENFELD, One of the Speakers for the Varde Club.

REV. EDWARD ERICKSON, Who Will Give an Address for the Normanna Society.

The organizations which have entered the Independence Day contest are the Varde club and the Normanna Singing society. Each society has a large membership in the West end. The celebrations this year will be free for the first time in years.

Last year, the various Norwegian societies of the city combined and celebrated the occasion with a program and dance at the Armory. This year an attempt was made to arrange for another joint celebration, but the proposition fell throught.

The Normanna society's celebration will be held on the evening of May 17 at Lincoln park pavillion. Rev. M. S. Rice will deliver the principal address in English and Rev. Edward Erickson will give the principal Norwegian talk. Rev. J. H. Stenberg will also speak. Flaaten's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion and the Normanna chorus will also sing.

L. A. Simonson will be chairman of the evening. The committee in charge of the celebration is George Thrane, George Salverson, Peter Hammer, A. J. Meyers, Lars Hennam, Joseph Solem, B. Sande, A. Christopherson and O. Johanson.

The Varde club will bring to Duluth the noted Norwegian speaker, humorist, preacher and politician, Peer Stromme who will give an address on "Old Norway—Forever Young." The celebration will be held Sunday, May 14 at the Armory. On the evening of May 17, when the other celebration is being held at Lincoln park, the Varde club will give a dance at the new auditorium.

Besides Mr. Stromme, other speakers Sunday afternoon will be Mayor M. B. Cullum, who will give the address of welcome and will talk on civic questions, and R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of schools, who will speak on "Citizenship." John Skadberg, three times president of the club, will be chairman of the day.

Westgaard's orchestra will play and among the others who will contribute to the musical program are Miss Valborg Gunderson of Superior, violinist; George Johnson and Harold Benson, who will play a piano duet; and Miss Minnie Nelson and Joseph Erickson, who will sing.

The committee in charge of the Varde club affair is as follows: John Skadberg, chairman; Jens Jacobson, Jacob Stensholt, Theodore Rud, Peter Skadberg, Samuel Anderson, Iver Hesdahl and P. A. Nelson.

CONDITIONS DEPLORABLE

Minnesota Militia Officers Criticize Regular Army Maneuvers.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Characterizing the regular army maneuvers at San Antonio as "wretchedly planned," Capt. Oliver J. Quane of the Second Minnesota infantry, has written Adjutant-General F. E. Wood of the National Guard, that conditions at the training camp are far from perfect. Sanitary conditions, particularly, are bad, he said. Referring to the hospital on the maneuver grounds, he said:

"Here I witnessed the most flagrant violation of sanitation that came under my observation. Near one of the kitchens fragments of fresh meat clung to the edges of a table and pieces of bread and other foods were scattered about on the ground, combining to attract a swarm of flies. Sanitary inspectors religiously called company commanders to account.

"Candor compels me to add that the tour of duty at San Antonio fell far short of my expectations."

Thomas C. Clark, surgeon-major of the medical corps, has written Adjutant-General Woods relative to the army equipment. "In my opinion," he said, "there is not equipment enough available at this time to put even one division of our regular army in a proper condition to take the field properly equipped for actual warfare."

Governor Eberhart's Itinerary.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—According to a letter received from Governor Eberhart this morning, who is on a tour of the West, he will be in Portland on Friday, Salt Lake City on Saturday, Denver on Sunday and will be home next Tuesday. The governor's original itinerary planned his return Sunday, two days earlier.

Dividends Reduced.

Philadelphia, May 10.—Announcement was made here today that at a meeting in Pittsburg yesterday the directors of the Vandalia railroad, a Pennsylvania railroad subsidiary, declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, a reduction of ¼ of 1 per cent as compared with last year, when dividends at the rate of 5 per cent a year were maintained.

Let Folks Think You Made It

When you serve Van Camp's Spaghetti, let people think for a time that you made it. Hear what they have to say.

It's a wonderful recipe. It took us two years to perfect it.

We consider the secret so priceless that we never have written it down.

There may be folks at your table who have eaten spaghetti in Rome.

Women may come there who pride themselves on this dish.

But all will agree that never before was there any spaghetti like this.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, each the finest of its kind. The main ones among them are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The art lies in blending them. The delight comes through the harmony of taste.

The dish comes to you ready-cooked from the grocer. Simply heat it or bake it, as you like it best.

Here's something, Madam, which you can't afford to miss. And please don't wait. Try it while the dish is new.

INJUSTICE TO CONTRACTOR

Engineer Says West Duluth Complaint Was Not Well Founded.

West Duluth residents who appeared before the council Monday night to complain against the cement walks which had been laid on Sixty-third avenue west did the contractor an injustice, according to City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray.

He states that the sample of concrete which they brought in as an exhibit was a piece of the surfacing which the contractor himself had removed, preparatory to relaying the walk. He says that for some reason the cement didn't set, and that the contractor is now doing the job over again. He is under a guarantee bond for five years and has to make the walks good for at least that length of time.

W. H. Kiltin had the contract last year, and has the same contract again this year. The engineer says that he is not to blame for the failure of the concrete to set, and that he has always been willing to do a job over again where the results have not been satisfactory.

DRILL TEAMS TO ENCAMPMENT

West Duluth Lodges of Woodmen Will Be Well Represented.

Duluth will be represented at the national encampment of the Modern Woodmen of America uniform rank at Buffalo, the week of June 12. Besides John H. Norton and O. W. Olson, the two Duluth delegates to the convention, the two lodges in the western end of the city will send two drill teams of twenty men each to partake in the field activities of the Woodmen.

Old Hickory Camp, No. 1555 of West Duluth will send its degree team captained by C. C. Salter. Duluth Camp, No. 2341 of the West end will send a patrol of twenty men captained by Julius C. Quade. The encampment of the uniform rank will be held in connection with the triennial national convention.

The national organization provides a tented city for the men of the uniform rank to live in while away. A series of competitive events will be arranged for every day and the Duluth teams will go after some of the prizes. Three years ago, Old Hickory camp won third prize in the juniors at Indianapolis.

SAFE AND SANE CELEBRATION

West Duluth May Observe the Fourth in New Manner.

If West Duluth has a Fourth of July celebration this year, it will be a safe and sane one.

This was decided upon yesterday at a well attended meeting of business men held at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The proposition was talked over from various standpoints and the opinion was unanimous, that if the affair was held, it would be conducted along new lines.

Just whether the affair will be held or not, has not been decided, but this matter will be disposed of at the next meeting of the business men next Tuesday afternoon. If the celebration is to be held, officers will be elected and plans laid.

The Fourth of July enthusiasts are much interested in a booklet which has been published by an Eastern firm on a "Safe and Sane Fourth" and have sent for copies so that the question of how to plan such a celebration can be studied thoroughly.

SPEND NIGHT ON A SANDBAR

West Duluth Boys Have Chilly Experience on St. Louis River.

Barney Johnson, a West Duluth boy, and a friend were exposed to the rain and cold in a motor boat, which ran ashore between Fond du Lac and Zenith island, late last evening. In trying to release the boat, the electrical connections burned out.

Johnson waded ashore and built a fire. They were obliged to spend the remainder of the night there. In the morning, they secured a row boat and finished the trip to the island.

Johnson is employed by R. B. Whiteside at the latter's farm on Zenith island.

PROCTOR MEN DISCUSS SEWERS

A committee was appointed last evening at the meeting of the Proctor Commercial club to prepare for bonding the village, in the event that it should decide to adopt the sewage system, now under consideration.

During the evening Attorney John Heltman discussed the bonding of the village from its legal side, and other interesting phases of the sewage question were taken up by Dr. Specht, who spoke on "The Sanitary Use of Sewers" and Engineer Bayluss of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, who presented a map of the proposed sewers and an estimate of the cost and explained the engineering difficulties in detail.

TONE IS HEAVY; MARKET WEAKER

Coppers Decline Slightly — Steel Report Is Bearish.

The market closed slightly weaker than at the opening. The unfavorable report on unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation was offset to some extent by reports of large orders for steel rails closed this week by the corporation with several railroads. The report that the United States Steel corporation will be made a target for the legal batteries of the government if the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases are won by the government was without much market effect. The market appears to be pegged by a bull pool and the outlook is not favorable, so far as the immediate future is concerned. However, Wall street generally is from six to nine months ahead of the market so it may be about time to begin the discounting of bumper crops and a probable revival of business in the late summer and fall.

Destroys 2,000 Feet of Nets —Twenty-Five Trout the Maximum.

Game Warden Thomas J. Storey is cleaning the bay and river of nets and set lines, which seem to be numerous the present season.

The last two or three nights he has destroyed over 2,000 feet of nets found in different places and a number of set lines. In all of them he found quantities of fish, which were put back in the bay.

Part of the nets were found attached to the shore along Park Point. One end was fastened to a fishing boat and the other out in the bay. Not only were the nets destroyed in these cases, but the boats as well. A fire was kindled under the boats, and after the blaze was well under way the nets were dumped into them. In this way even the sinkers and floaters were put out of existence. Were the nets only dumped in the bay it would not be a hard matter to snag them out again.

With so many nets in the water it would seem impossible that fish could get up the river at all. In recent years complaints have been made that the fishing on the river and in the bay has been extremely poor. This is not surprising if the poachers have been keeping the waters cleaned out with nets and set lines.

The operations of the game warden are taking in the full length of the river and the bay. Different places are being visited almost every night of the week, and it is stated that there will be no cessation until every net and line which can be found has been destroyed. The Superior game warden is working with Storey, and it is expected that a number of arrests will be made on both sides of the bay in a short time.

The game warden says that he was misquoted several days ago as to the number of trout which can be caught by any one person in a day. He states that under the law twenty-five trout are the maximum catch in any one day for one person. It was erroneously stated that fifty trout could be caught in one day.

CONDITIONS DEPLORABLE

Minnesota Militia Officers Criticize Regular Army Maneuvers.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Characterizing the regular army maneuvers at San Antonio as "wretchedly planned," Capt. Oliver J. Quane of the Second Minnesota infantry, has written Adjutant-General F. E. Wood of the National Guard, that conditions at the training camp are far from perfect. Sanitary conditions, particularly, are bad, he said. Referring to the hospital on the maneuver grounds, he said:

"Here I witnessed the most flagrant violation of sanitation that came under my observation. Near one of the kitchens fragments of fresh meat clung to the edges of a table and pieces of bread and other foods were scattered about on the ground, combining to attract a swarm of flies. Sanitary inspectors religiously called company commanders to account.

"Candor compels me to add that the tour of duty at San Antonio fell far short of my expectations."

Thomas C. Clark, surgeon-major of the medical corps, has written Adjutant-General Woods relative to the army equipment. "In my opinion," he said, "there is not equipment enough available at this time to put even one division of our regular army in a proper condition to take the field properly equipped for actual warfare."

INJUSTICE TO CONTRACTOR

Engineer Says West Duluth Complaint Was Not Well Founded.

West Duluth residents who appeared before the council Monday night to complain against the cement walks which had been laid on Sixty-third avenue west did the contractor an injustice, according to City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray.

He states that the sample of concrete which they brought in as an exhibit was a piece of the stringing which the contractor himself had removed, preparatory to relaying the walk. He says that for some reason the cement didn't set, and that the contractor is now doing the job over again. He is under a guarantee bond for five years and has to make the walks good for at least that length of time.

W. H. Kitlin had the contract last year, and has the same contract again this year. The engineer says that he is not to blame for the failure of the concrete to set, and that he has always been willing to do a job over again where the results have not been satisfactory.

Olson, the two Duluth delegates to the convention, the two lodges in the western end of the city will send two drill teams of twenty men each to partake in the field activities of the Woodmen.

Old Hickory Camp, No. 1555 of West Duluth will send its degree team captained by C. C. Salter. Duluth Camp, No. 2241 of the West end will send a patrol of twenty men captained by Julius C. Quade. The encampment of the uniform rank will be held in connection with the triennial national convention.

The national organization provides a tented city for the men of the uniform rank to live in while away. A series of competitive events will be arranged for every day and the Duluth teams will go after some of the prizes. Three years ago, Old Hickory camp won third prize in the juniors at Indianapolis.

LARCENY IS THE CHARGE

De Courcey F. Niles Claimed to Have Misappropriated Company's Funds.

De Courcey F. Niles, who was indicted by the May grand jury yesterday on a larceny charge and who was arraigned before Judge J. D. Ensign yesterday afternoon, secured his release from custody this morning when B. G. Segog and Dr. F. C. Drenning went on his bond for $1,200, the amount set yesterday by the court.

After being indicted by the grand jury, Mr. Niles was arraigned yesterday before Judge J. D. Ensign on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree.

He was arraigned shortly after the indictment was returned, having been arrested at his offices by Deputy Sheriff D. E. Stevens.

He is charged by the grand jury with having appropriated $574 from the Maryland Casualty company, of which he was the local agent.

Mr. Niles will enter his plea in district court today. He has retained Baldwin & Baldwin as his attorneys.

DE COURCEY F. NILES.

An indictment was also returned against Alexander Shadcock, the man who, it is alleged, committed perjury at the time of the election at the village of Brookston last March. F. J. McMahon and Edward Donnelly were also charged with perjury by the grand jury. They are also implicated in the Brookston election contest which is going on at the present time before Judge Cant in district court.

Frank Kelly was indicted for swindling. It is charged that he swindled two woodsmen by means of a pool game.

George L. Snyder was indicted for stealing some wire and other electrical material from the Northern Electrical company.

which at first thought that the burst of fire was a part of the spectacle, escaped with little panic.

Those behind the scenes having secured the safety of the auditors made a mad rush for the exits. When the fire was at its height the iron curtain fell in upon the stage.

Lafayette, who was a popular and picturesque character, recently finished a season at the largest London halls. He had a residence in London and across the front of the home were blazoned the words, "Lafayette, the Great." Under this were pictures of himself with his horse and dog.

The theater was to have been the scene during King George's visit in July of the first music hall performance ever given in the country by royal command.

Later the bodies of the two musicians killed were identified as those of members of Lafayette's company.

According to some of those who escaped from the real exits, a trained lion belonging to Lafayette got loose during the panic and blocked the stage door through which the performers were attempting to escape. Lafayette had a desperate struggle with the lion, before he got him out of the way.

"Lafayette, the Great," or "The Great Lafayette," the way he puts it here, was born Sigmund Neuberger.

dered up at the United States weather bureau at 10 o'clock this morning. Squalls and showers are expected over the western end of Lake Superior tonight.

The temperature had a sharp decline yesterday and the low temperature last night was 38 deg. The damp, chilling northeast wind made the air uncomfortable and winter clothing was needed. More showers and continued cool weather are the prediction for tonight with a probable shifting of the wind to northwest and clearing weather tomorrow.

Red River Valley Soaked.

Crookston, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first hail storm of the season, followed by another good hard shower, took place last evening. The hail lasted but a few minutes and was heavy enough to break glass and the rain was welcomed and has set all fears of a dry spring aside.

Reports from those sections of the Northwest where forest fires have been burning several days and threatening a number of towns and much valuable property, state that the danger is mostly over. Heavy rains yesterday afternoon and last night throughout the Canadian Northwest and Northern Minnesota have put the fires out and soaked the combustible materials so thoroughly that there is no further danger at present. The rains also have been a big boon to the farmers.

Helps North Dakota Crops.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rain last night and this morning over Northern North Dakota has left crop conditions in splendid condition.

About 90 per cent of the wheat sown and many fields are already turning green. This rain provides sufficient moisture till after seeding season.

Good Fall at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The total rainfall during three or four showers last night was about three-quarters of an inch.

There was a slight fall in all sections of the state, but Cass, Barnes, Traill, Ransom, Richland and Sargent counties seem to have received the bulk of the precipitation.

The greatest elation and enthusiasm are felt by the farmers of this part of the state. It is difficult to conceive more favorable conditions just at present.

Northern Wisconsin Soaked.

Couderay, Wis., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a late hour a heavy rain, the first th's spring, fell all through this section last night. Everything was very dry and the rain was a great blessing putting out all the forest fires which have been raging fiercely in this section for over a week and done great damage to standing timber.

Pasture, hay meadows and small grain crops were badly in need of the moisture and the long looked for rain was of immense benefit to this country.

Rain at Cumberland.

Cumberland, Wis., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy rain fell last night, broke the drouth and quenching the brush fires that threatened to do considerable damage in parts of Northern Wisconsin.

Northern Michigan Fires Out.

Calumet, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fires are practically all out at Pelkie and Chassell as a result of last night's rain and other threatened points, although bush fires are still smoldering in some parts of the Upper Peninsula.

not see Blanco's men until they were in the rear of the jail. Firing and bomb-throwing continued all night.

This morning several loud dynamite explosions were heard. One of these, it developed, wrecked one of the walls or at least made an opening in the prison, and the prisoners were released.

Blanco's men had been held in camp all day yesterday and Monday and were fresh. They went into the fight with a vim and it was impossible for the federals to stop them. Other insurrectos who had been in the town and were near the points of attack, assisted Blanco, but Blanco's men are said to have done most of the work.

It is generally believed that Navarro's men ran out of ammunition and had to withdraw.

The insurrectos at 10:10 o'clock were reported to have liberated everybody in the jail except a negro, who killed Burt Schell, a well-known race track man, there a month ago.

About seventy-five prisoners were in the jail and are coming to El Paso at 10:20 o'clock. Insurrectos can now be seen on the tops of many buildings.

Federals Started Fire.

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—It was reported today that the federals themselves started the fire which threatened Juarez in order to avoid a rebel surprise on the jail and city hall.

Insurrecto scouts in large numbers spent the night reconnoitering and were most concerned over the crack troop of federal cavalry which galloped away to the south of the town late yesterday and which has either taken up a concealed position on the outskirts of the town or has gone to unite with Col. Rabago, who is believed to be near at hand with 1,200 federal reinforcements.

A survey of the federal position from the strictly military point of view does not augur success for the insurrectos. The machine guns and field pieces have been well placed and federal companies are quarted well in places quite familiar to them.

The insurrectos on the other hand, are scattered through the town without knowledge of the exact whereabouts of their comrades and though they occupy a considerable territory, they have little chance of making a concentrated attack on the federal stronghold.

The insurrectos, however, have exhibited much strategy in effecting an entrance to Juarez, and their sympathizers are inclined to believe they will find a way to silence the field guns as well as to destroy their strongholds possibly with supply of dynamite.

MAKES THE COMPLEXION SOFT AND VELVETY

"My first advice to any woman seeking a charming complexion is to taboo the powder box," says Mae Martyn, a noted authority on beauty culture. Powder clogs up the pores, enlarges them, making coarse, muddy, blotchy complexions.

"The very best complexion beautifier I have ever used—and it is far superior to powder—is a simple, inexpensive lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion does not show on the skin nor will it rub off easily as powder does. It makes the skin soft and velvety, leaving it clear and youthful looking.

"No other preparation has so far been discovered to equal this lotion for correcting a shiny, oily, sallow complexion. Every woman should have a bottle of this wonderful lotion on her dressing table."

HURLEY WOMAN BURIED.

Funeral of Mrs. Reed Who Died in Minneapolis Hospital.

Ironwood, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Dave Reed of Hurley, Wis., died in a hospital at Minneapolis Friday and the body was brought to Hurley for burial Monday night. The funeral was held Tuesday from the Presbyterian church at Hurley. Rev. Mr. Tourtellot of the First Presbyterian church of Ironwood conducted the services. Death was caused by tuberculosis of the stomach. Deceased was 26 years old and leaves a husband and three small children. The husband of the deceased is a cashier of the Chicago & Northwestern depot at Hurley.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keaton of McLeod avenue, Ironwood, died yesterday morning and was buried yesterday afternoon from the home. Rev. W. B. Coumbe of the First M. E. church conducted the services. Interment was at Riverside cemetery.

BRIBERY UP TO OHIO SENATE

Greeves "Anti-Whitewash" Bill Scheduled to Come Up for Consideration.

Columbus, Ohio, May 10.—Interest in the legislative bribery matter turned to the senate today, although hints of some interesting developments in the grand jury are current. The Greeves "anti-whitewash" bill is scheduled to come up in the senate. The bill, which was introduced in the house and passed there, repeals the immunity clause which absolves all members of the legislature from arrest and punishment who appear and testify. The house passed the bill in resentment at the action of the senate in deciding to start a graft probe of its own.

There is much indignation at the prosecutor's office at the action of the senate, even the governor's advice being ignored by the senate when it passed the resolution.

Track Meet at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual North Dakota and Western Minnesota track meet for high school teams will be held in Fargo next Saturday. It has been held for a number of years under the auspices of the athletic board of the North Dakota Agricultural college. There are a number of entries this year and the meeting this week is expected to be interesting. The interscholastic declamatory contest will be held in the evening.

The forenoon and afternoon sessions were devoted to business. This morning Dr. Callander of Fargo was first on the program with clinical cases, and other doctors were Weible of Fargo, Godfrey of Russell, Clark of Harvey, Ritchie of St. Paul, McManus of Buford and Beaudoux of St. Paul.

Stephen, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam Gordon has purchased a gas traction engine with a full complement of plows and will get busy at once turning over the ground for flax seeding west of town. Two other outfits were sold here this spring and last fall one was purchased by R. C. Woods, one by Jim Hardy and one by Frank Heulin, which certainly speaks well for the farmers of this section.

THE GATES OF OPPORTUNITY.

No finer or broader or deeper crystalization of the people's program has been made than that which Woodrow Wilson gave the people of Denver in his address there Monday evening, and which was published in The Herald last night. It is a broad, constructive platform of human rights and human aspirations. It is not Governor Wilson's platform alone. It is not the Democratic platform alone. It is not the platform of any individual or party. It is the people's platform, interpreted for them by a man with an amazing grasp of large questions and a peculiarly apt faculty of compressing large thoughts into vivid and penetrating sentences.

First, Governor Wilson says, the people are going to throw open all the processes of politics and to take the control of them out of the hands of the few and restore it to the hands of the many. That is the first essential, the foundation for all the rest.

Second, the people are going to make the processes of capital as open as the processes of politics. "Those who make use of the great modern accumulations of wealth," he said, "shall be treated as public trustees." It was the people who created these vast accumulations of wealth—the people and the rich natural resources of a land which the Creator did not make for and give to a few, but which He made for and gave to all the people; and which the many allowed to slip into the control of the few. The few who control do so not as owners, but as trustees for the people; and the people propose to make them give accounting of their trusteeship.

Third, the people are going to safeguard the natural resources at every point; and it is significant of the new attitude toward human rights as related to property rights, and of the harmony of this man's understanding of this relationship with the understanding of the people, that he makes this include not merely forests and mines but the health and prosperity of our working men and women and their children. "We shall take care of our forests and mines," he said, "but above all things else we shall take care of our people."

Fourth, the people are going to cut all privilege and patronage out of our fiscal legislation, particularly that part of it which affects the tariff. "We mean that our tariff legislation," he said, "henceforth shall have as its object not private profit but the general public development and benefit. * * * By the same token we mean to equalize as much as possible the burdens of taxation."

And, finally: "In brief, we mean by every progressive measure suggested in such a catalogue of purpose to throw open the gates of opportunity to mankind."

There is the keynote of the people's program, the slogan of the people's attack upon the battlements of privilege: Throw open the gates of opportunity to mankind.

Privilege, attended by its satellites and sycophants of corrupt politics, has guarded those gates securely against the people. To throw open all the processes of politics, to cast the fierce light of publicity into the inner recesses of the byways of politics, to throw open the processes of capital, to safeguard our resources, including the resources of human health and prosperity and happiness, and to cut all privilege and patronage out of our fiscal laws—this is to throw wide the gates of opportunity to mankind.

MEXICO AND PEACE.

The dove of peace, which was hovering over Mexico the other day when Diaz said he was ready to quit, was mighty lucky if it got away with its life, for its coming was followed promptly by showers of bullets over a pretty wide area.

Diaz said he would quit when peace was restored, and apparently the revolutionists have determined that there shall be no peace until Diaz quits. This deadlock has ripened into active hostilities, and peace seems farther away than ever.

In the meantime, it will be as well for the people of this country to keep a tight hold on the coat tails of the ever present jingoes who clamor for intervention. Fighting Mexicans will do well to keep away from Americans, and for that matter Americans will do well to keep off the line of battle. The American government should be alert to protect American citizens, but aside from that it should let Mexico fight out its own troubles, and there should be no hasty and jingo-driven intervention.

THE SEVEN-SENATOR BILL.

Speaking of the bill limiting the three large counties to seven senators each, the Milan Standard says: "We do not like the principle of the bill; still we think it very unwise to kill it that way (in court). The chances are that the senate two years from now will take the bill up and repass it, and refuse to do anything in regard to reapportionment, claiming that the people should first decide on what basis the representation shall be made."

While The Herald recognizes in Representative C. R. Fowler of Minneapolis, who began the suit to prevent the seven-senator amendment from being placed on the ballot at the 1912 election, one of the biggest, ablest and broadest members of the last legislature, it cannot help feeling and expressing sympathy with the viewpoint of the Milan Standard, which is published in the country and has no bias on the question except a natural bias for the right and just thing in public affairs that does it credit.

There are strong reasons for taking this matter into court, it is true. It is unthinkable that such a proposition can stand the test. It is unbelievable that in a government by, of and for the people there is room for a system under which it is proposed that some of the people shall have forever the power to govern the rest of the people. It will be a good thing to have that point thoroughly analyzed in the courts, and now that the suit has been begun it is to be hoped that it will continue until it has been decided by the supreme court of the United States. If it is possible, under the Constitutions as they now stand, to give some people a larger power in state affairs than some other people, depending on where they happen to live, the fact ought to be known. If the fathers of the republic built so well that such discrimination is impossible under the fundamental laws, that fact ought to be known, too, so that there may be an end of such attempts as that involved in the shameful Haycraft-Duxbury-Moonan-Weis bill which Minnesota's worst legislature lately made into law.

On the other hand, it would have been well if this issue could have been submitted to the people at once and settled by them for all time to come. For one, The Herald hasn't a bit of fear of the popular verdict on this measure. It holds in too high a regard the self-respect, the honor and the justice of the people of Minnesota to think for a moment that this wretched principle will be wrought by them into the fabric of the state's fundamental law.

We cannot believe that in passing this law, which contains a proposal that seeks to destroy the very roots of human liberty by reverting to the old, dishonored plan by which some of the people had the power to govern the rest of the people, the legislature represented the sentiment of the people of Minnesota. We cannot, therefore, doubt that if this proposed amendment to the Constitution reaches the voters they will defeat it by an overwhelming majority.

From that viewpoint it would have been as well to let the proposed amendment go to the people without judicial interference. But there is a large question involved that it will be useful, not only to Minnesota but to all the states of the Union, to have decided definitely: the question whether government by the people means what it says or whether it can be distorted to mean government of city people by country people. If people living in rural districts can be given larger power in public affairs than people living in cities, then equality is ended and free government destroyed.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR CONVENTIONS.

The Minnesota State Bar association, which had already fixed on Duluth as the place for holding its annual convention, has wisely hit upon dates for its meeting that will give its members a chance to witness the splendid water carnival which will be held in July. The lawyers' convention will end July 20, the day the carnival begins, so that after their labors of the convention the delegates will be able to see at least the opening events of the carnival.

If other conventions will plan their meetings this way it will help the conventions and the carnival too.

The water carnival, according to plans now taking definite shape, will be one of the most notable events of its kind ever held in Minnesota, and with Duluth's peculiar advantages for this form of entertainment it will be surprising if it is not so great a success that it will become an annual event to which the entire Northwest will look forward.

Any time is a good time to come to Duluth, but in July and August, when other cities are sweltering in unbearable heat, ordinarily Duluth is enjoying the finest kind of summer weather, with cool nights and joyous days. Such institutions as the water carnival will help to get people in the heat-stricken cities into the habit of coming to Duluth to cool off and to enjoy life.

GREED THAT OVER-REACHES.

If the railroads, as now seems probable, take advantage of the Sanborn decision to restore their passenger rates to 3 cents a mile, after the public has had the enjoyment of the 2-cent rate for several years, it may work out a great public benefit.

There is much interest in the suggestion that the proposed increase of 50 per cent in passenger rates will stimulate the building of interurban electric lines which will provide service quite as good, if not better, at lower rates than the railroads can content themselves with.

The time is coming, beyond question, when Minnesota, like many Eastern states, will be covered with electric lines carrying passengers between cities. That time will come when the prospects of profit appeal to owners of capital seeking investment.

If the railroads decide to charge 3 cents a mile for carrying passengers, so that it will cost $4.50 to go to St. Paul instead of the present rate of $3, for instance, that decision should go far to hasten the time when capital can see a reasonable assurance of profit on investment in interurban electric lines.

In that way, the greed of the railroad managers might over-reach to the extent that it would do an unintentional but highly valuable public service.

THE DOCK SITE LEASE.

Unless the attorney general has advised him that there is no alternative, it is to be hoped that State Auditor Iverson will not hold to his decision not to issue the instrument leasing the Oneota state elevator site to the city of Duluth for public dock purposes.

It is unfortunate that the bill passed as it did, with the omission of the amendments agreed upon by the legislative committee, the railroad and warehouse commission and the representatives of the city. This was clearly an oversight all around, and there is no question anywhere about the nature of the agreement. It would seem that in the circumstances, since Duluth has no wish to take advantage of the omission of the amendments, the state auditor might issue a lease including the provisions of the amendments, unless the attorney general holds that the only form of lease that could be issued would be that provided for by the law as it passed.

In that event, of course, the matter would have to go over to the session of 1913, when it could be easily rectified by the passage of a new bill. In point of fact, no great loss would result from this, as the failure of the legislature to pass the bill authorizing Duluth to issue $100,000 in bonds for dock purposes leaves the city but poorly equipped to start this highly important and very necessary work.

Mr. Hines, who is wanted for testimony in the investigation of the alleged tug trust, seems to have suddenly become a very prominent public man.

THE TRUTH AND JOHN BILLINGTON.

And Billington's busy goose-quill was a pillar in the State,
And Billington's fame had borne his name to the country's furthest ends.
A powerful man was Billington, with powerful men for friends.

A spirit stood by Billington's bed, one howling wintry night,
And Billington lifted a startled head and stared at the Thing in White.
"Away with you! To the devil with you!" he gasped, in a sleepy dread.
"You have sent me thither a thousand times; I am tired of the trip," it said;
"A thousand times you have heard me pray for half a chance and the light,
A thousands times you have turned me away—you shall hear me out tonight.
Though you waved me away with your pen today, you shall listen now, forsooth;
You shall harken well to the tale I tell. I am the Spirit of Truth."

He looked at a hope of poverty. He saw a dying child.
He saw a young girl, sunk in shame, and a mother who never smiled;
A son bowed down and sullen, bearing the brand of a thief,
And a father hopeless and helpless, too sodden with rum for grief.
And over the picture, in letters of fire, "Want" was the word he read,
And Billington scowled to the Spirit. "What business of mine?" he said.

He looked and saw where, overtime, women and children toiled
Till worthless human hands grew weak and precious goods were spoiled.
He saw a boss with ugly eyes threaten a woman there
Whose hollow cheek foretold too well the end of her struggle and care.
Again he looked, and he saw the death in a driven workman's face,
While a hungry man stood waiting near to enter the empty place.
He turned once more to the Spirit of Truth, and "Bother your show!" said he;
"Scenes like this are common enough. What do they mean to me?"

"Look again," spoke the Spirit of Truth, and spread before his eyes
A smiling land of abundance that stretched to the circling skies,
A land o'erheaped with richness, a kingdom of corn and wine,
Where bounty waited, enough for all, in forest and field and mine.
But cunning and craft had seized the wealth with greedy talon and claw
And set it aside for their private gain, and fenced it round with the Law.
"Look well," the Spirit commanded, and Billington answered flat,
"A threadbare subject, my shadowy friend. Where is a story in that?"

"God pity your stubborn blindness, man, and forgive you the chance you miss!
Away with your dead traditions! Is there never a story in this,
That Greed would garner the harvest, leaving the owner gaunt;
That the servants would sell to the master and thrive on the master's want?"
Then Billington spoke of property rights and of customs hoar and old,
And argued his dread of a flag blood-red that would rise if the Truth were told.
"Oh, fool!" the Spirit in anguish cried, "must history make it clear
That yours is the hand that sows the seed of the pestilence you fear?

"For ages long I have striven and toiled to free mankind from wrong,
I have pleaded and prayed for human aid to save the weak from the strong,
I have starved and fought and watched and wrought that the light might enter in
To end the sway of falsehood and banish the curse of sin.
And men have gone to the stake for me, and scorched in the cannon's breath,
And women have writhed in the torture and welcomed the arms of death
That the Truth might live to serve the world—and then, when the fight seemed won,
I gave the standard to you to guard—to you, John Billington!

"I trusted you with my work to do, I gave you a charge to keep,
I placed in your hand a shepherd's staff to comfort my hunted sheep.
But now you turn it against me, and the Truth must go untold
While you devote your stewardship to the will of the power of gold,
To the pleasure of those who burden the poor, to the greed that fosters crime,
Oh! turn you again, John Billington; be true while there yet is time.
For this is the cry of a thousand souls that down to the Pit have trod—
Who keeps the Truth from the people stands in the way of God!"

But Billington slowly shook his head with a look disconsolate
For his was a mighty goose-quill, a pillar strong in the State,
And his was a fame that had borne his name to the country's furthest ends.
A powerful man was Billington—with powerful men for friends.

ASKS JUSTICE FOR CHIPPEWA INDIANS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In Saturday's paper appeared an article entitled "Chippewas on Warpath." I think it is about time sweeping changes were made. In 1889 the commissioners came to Minnesota, H. M. Rice of St. Paul, now dead, and Mr. Whiting, a Catholic bishop and priest, and others making a contract with the Chippewas that Uncle Sam would sell land and timber for them, the money being given out in yearly payments of $10 a head. As the sale went on it might be increased. That was twenty-two years ago. Instead of increasing, it has decreased right along and dropped to as low as $7. Mr. O'Neill, superintendent of the logging, in his annual statement, says that each individual would receive $2,700. That was four years ago. Last fall's contract, according to the newspaper talk, was that the cut would be 200,000,000 feet. As near as I understand it, it brings something on an average of $10 per 1,000 feet, and last fall, in November, we received an annuity of $8.62 a head. H. M. Rice, the commissioner, said to me once personally: "My boy, in fifteen or twenty years' time you should receive $10 each." At the end of fifty years my credit would amount to about $2,500. It is pretty nearly time some one looked into the affair. We must have money, as Mr. Miller is about to introduce a bill before congress to build a $100,000 tuberculosis sanatorium for the Indians of Minnesota. And those so-called Indian agents and government farmers, you ask them anything regarding certain things of the Indian affairs, and they act as if they don't care to answer. They have no time and no willingness to give any information to you. It seems to me that is what they are getting $75 or more a month for. They must remember they are eating from my dish, and I dare say all the cream part of it. The amount I receive each year, $6.62, doesn't buy me a good pair of pants. It costs me $30 and $40 a month to live with my family. So now, Commercial club, I appeal to you to see that the Indians are looked after a little better in regard to their money affairs, also the land. Indians were here when the white men arrived, so they must have some title to the land where you found them. See that they get some benefit from the land, timber and minerals you have taken away from them. Yours truly,

A RESIDENT OF THE CITY WHO RECEIVES THE ANNUAL PAYMENT.

The Freaks Play Ball.

The game was called at three o'clock,
With Taffy at the stick:
Old Wood was right there in the box
To show 'em all a trick.

French Horn blew up to second base,
With Fiddle next in line;
Green Corn was playing center field,
The pride of all the nine.

When Ax came to the bat he chopped
And that let Side walk home;
Then Slugger made an awful hit,
And Foot kicked up the loam.

The rooters cheered at Twenty's score,
And screamed out, "Apple's rotten!"
Called Umpire Croak a "great big stiff"
And said he needed swattin'.

When crafty Spider caught a fly
Kite went up in the air;
But Cabbage kept his head quite cool
And said he didn't care.

Bread was put out for loafing 'round,
And Knife for cutting base;
Pig rooted for the rival team
Till Slugger punched his face.

The betting was so lively that
Poor Egg at last went broke,
And Umbrella had to go
And put his ribs in soak.

At last it broke up in a row,
And Gate let out a shout;
"If you had only let me pitch
I could have shut them out!"

The Easiest Way.

Success Magazine: A steam-heating plant had been installed in the house of the new president of a small, conservative college. The president, startled by a break in the steam pipes, went in search of the college janitor. Being unfamiliar with his new surroundings, he entered the library.

"Dr. So-and-So," he inquired, his breath coming in gasps, "how can I find the janitor?"

"Well," the librarian replied in a slow drawl, "I find the surest way is to send him a postal card."

Senator Nelson in Chicago.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota was the guest of a friend in Chicago not long ago and the Chicagoan, who lives out on the South side, kept talking all the way home about the wonderful growth of the big town. Most residents of growing cities wax enthusiastic when they get to telling how the town has expanded since they moved there, and this man didn't talk much else.

"Now, you could not believe me, senator," he observed, as they stood in front of his apartment house, "if I were to tell you that when I came here nineteen years ago this was the only large building around here. There were just dinky little shacks, and a good many vacant lots. Hard to believe, isn't it? Well, come on upstairs and make yourself at home."

"I ought to feel at home here," remarked the senator. "When I was a youngster of 6 or 7, I drove cows to pasture right about where the buildings in this block stand—earned my first money that way. Later on I had a newspaper route, but had to cut off this part of the town because there were only two families this far out, and there were no sidewalks."

The Income Tax.

An Income Tax? Well, I opine
There's quite a tax just now on mine.
If you incline to doubt it, will
You cast your eye upon this bill?

New York, May first.

To Mrs. Flat:
One Ostrich feather for her hat $1.00
PLEASE REMIT.
Yours Truly,
Feathers, Fuss and Flit.

An Income Tax? O mercy me!
What is my future fate to be?
I got last night this little note
My daughter's music teacher wrote:

Dear Mr. Flat:
I here enclose
The bill for teaching little Rose.
Ten lessons at five dollars each
The sum of fifty dollars reach.
I'd like to have my check at once.
Yours faithfully,
Professor Bunce.

An Income Tax? Well, say, look here—
Here's just one item cold and clear
That came to me the other day
From Willie Flat up Harvard way:

Dear Dad:
I hope 'twon't make you ill,
But I enclose my tailor's bill.
It's rather large—four hundred plunks;
But I must have new clothes in chunks
If I'm to keep up with the bunch.
With love to you and mother,
"Hunch."

Hobbled Justice.

Pittsburg Gazette-Times: When Dickens wrote "Bleak House," his purpose being to pillory the vexatious delays of the court of chancery and the enormous expense of prosecuting suits in that venerable lethargic tribunal, he was inspired by a case before the court which had been commenced nearly twenty years before, in which between thirty and forty counsel were engaged, and in which costs to the amount of $350,000 had been incurred. In the beginning it had been characterized as a "friendly" suit to settle an estate. This was the case to which Dickens in his story gave the name of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, and which has served ever since as an illustration of the laggardness of the law.

A modern Dickens, if the story had not been already told far better than the author of a best seller could tell it, might find material for a second "Bleak House" in the case of Donnelly vs. McArdle, just ended, after being in the courts of New York state for twenty-three years. The plaintiff and defendant were brothers-in-law, who became partners in the iron business in 1887. Soon after, a disagreement occurred, and they went to law about it. During the continuous litigation ever since, the parties to the suit have expended $500,000, most of which went into the pockets of ninety-three lawyers. Forty different judges have participated in the proceedings, and sixteen of them are now dead. Forty-two of the 249 witnesses have also passed away.

An attorney, who ought to be tried by his fellow practitioners for thus giving away trade secrets, declares that if trivial technicalities had been barred and counsel had buckled down to business the case might have been wound up in three months instead of twenty-three years. Perhaps he failed to get in on the division of the fees, or is otherwise prejudiced; perhaps the money was all gobbled up before he got a whack at it. But the layman cannot doubt that a lot of time and money were wasted. Justice is not only blind, but too often is attired in a hobble skirt bound with red tape, which renders any attempt at speed simply impossible.

Phonetically Speaking.

It happened thus, Attorney Hall,
In re Estate of Nancy Snider,
Dictated this way: "In the fall
She put her apple crop in cider."

Which when his secretary heard,
Although her eyes grew somewhat wider,
She wrote it down without a word:
"She put her apple crop inside her."

THE SEVEN-SENATOR BILL.

This Fellow Likes It.

Elbow Lake Herald: If the voters adopt the amendment the scheme for city control of the senate will be thwarted and it will be possible to take from Southern Minnesota and hand what has been so taken to Northern Minnesota. There is nothing revolutionary, nothing outrageous, about the proposition to place a limit upon the number of senators any one county may have.

Or By the People.

Graceville Enterprise: It is impossible this bill should be sustained by the courts.

Seen Through Bluders.

Preston Times: Unless the cities consent to having their representation limited to seven senators from any one county they will have to wait long years for any reapportionment at all. Better that the farming communities, North and South, should continue the present representation with its admitted inequalities, so far as the two sections are concerned, than that they should make it possible for the great cities of the future to absolutely dominate in legislative matters.

People Will Repudiate It.

Wheelock's Weekly, Fergus Falls: Passing the bill was one of the most indefensible of the many indefensible acts of the session. Southern Minnesota men were largely responsible for it, and it is a piece of the same injustice which was perpetrated by Southern Minnesota in refusing any sort of reapportionment. The people will repudiate it.

Another Admirer of Inequality.

Litchfield News-Ledger: The Ledger stands ready to almost forgive the legislature for all the other mistakes it has committed on account of the one redeeming act passed during the last hours of the session—that of submitting a constitutional amendment limiting any county to not more than seven senators. Now it will be up to the voters of the state to carry out the good work thus begun.

People Won't Favor It.

Granite Falls Tribune: The people will not favor it, even though the courts that will pass on its validity hold it regular without the governor's signature. It does not appeal to the people outside of the cities, not because they do not believe in just representation, but for the reason it would give such cities an unfair advantage over the rural districts that are being milked by the centers of population, as it is, by combines to the detriment of the country. If the proposition would be to give each county a senator, the fairness of such a law would appeal to all and would be considered fair and equable to the rural country. Based on population, it becomes obvious that unfair advantage would be gained over certain districts that have not prospered when it was no fault of theirs.

Dust in the People's Eyes.

Slayton Gazette: As the amendment will be fought bitterly by the big cities, it is not at all likely to pass. It is a sop thrown to the people by the senate in its closing hours in the hope of warding off attention from its failure to redistrict the state, notwithstanding the party promises to do so and the mandate of the Constitution for reapportionment. The senators will proceed at once to throw a lot of dust into the eyes of the people.

Deserves Condemnation.

Col. J. A. Everett of Fairmont, in Madelia Times-Messenger: The action of the state senate deserves the condemnation of all fair minded men. Let us be men and not attempt to hide our selfishness behind excuses that are too transparent to deceive anyone. Take, for example, the cry that a reapportionment would give the three large cities too much power. Is it not an attempt to plead the baby act, and an open confession that one city man has more influence than two from the rest of the state? Under the first bill killed the cities would have had about one-third of the legislature, and are we willing to concede that the one-third could control the two-thirds from the country? If so, the country had better wake up and send men of ability and intergrity to represent it. The secret of the senate's action is, after being stripped of all subterfuge, that the senators are too selfish to shorten their term of office.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: About the only skill in lying is having an awful nerve.

A common mistake in the kitchen is thinking that a bad temper makes a good cook.

Hardly anything seems more unfair to most of us than for a man to be able to keep his own money.

Nobody can have such a clear conscience that he doesn't look scared when his wife begins to tell him he talked in his sleep.

A woman can be so loyal to a man that she will be grateful to him for an allowance that he makes her but never pays her.

Catholic Standard and Times: "Yes," said Nagget, "a woman usually treats her husband as the average servant treats bric-a-brac."

"Go ahead," said the wise Mrs. Nagget. "What's the answer?"

"Why, the more he's worth, the more she tries to break him."

Chicago Post: "Try that, madam," said the serpent politely, as he offered Eve an apple. "You can raise 400 barrels of them to the acre on one of our irrigated orchard farms in the Bezingo valley. Your husband can purchase a forty-acre tract on easy payments."

Shortly afterward the family moved from Eden to seek the new home.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HOW TO RAISE FODDER CORN

Superintendent McGuire of Experiment Station Issues Pertinent Bulletin.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. A. J. McGuire of the state experiment farm here, has issued the following bulletin on the subject of raising fodder corn that will interest Northern Minnesota farmers:

An acre of ground properly planted to fodder corn may be made to yield under favorable conditions, from four to six tons of cured fodder. This fodder is nearly equal to tame hay in feeding value for cattle.

Hay seldom yields more than four tons per acre (two cuttings) and hay land that has been in hay for over two years commonly yields less than two tons per acre.

High land that has been in hay for over two years should be broken up and planted to corn for fodder this spring. If the season is dry (unfavorable for hay) the yield of fodder will probably be four or five times as much as the hay crop would be if the land were left in hay.

In 1910 twenty acres of fodder corn was grown on the experiment farm and the yield, field cured, was five tons per acre. It is recommended as one of the most valuable crops that can be grown where there is apt to be a shortage of rough feed. During the past winter farmers have bought hay paying from $12 to $18 per ton. The cost of growing an acre of fodder corn including the rent of land is only $10.52 per acre. With a yeld of four tons per acre the cost of fodder corn would be only $2.63 per ton, a very great difference between that and the price of hay when bought on the market.

How to Grow Fodder Corn.

The old hay field if not too low will provide the best field for fodder corn. An application of manure will increase the yield. The soil can not be too rich for corn.

Plow medium to deep and disk and harrow till the soil is thoroughly pulverized.

Plant in rows thirty inches apart and about six inches apart in the row. The corn should be planted thickly in the row so that the stalks will be fine. When planted far apart in the rows the stalks will be coarser and will not be eaten.

One half bushel of seed per acre in rows thirty inches apart gives the fodder corn a fine stalk and is about the right quantity to plant.

Plant from May 20 to June 1. The planting may be delayed till June 20 and sometimes it may pay to put in a crop even though it cannot be done before the first of July, but the earlier planting is best.

Fast Gaining in Favor.

The fodder corn crop is fast gaining favor in Northeastern Minnesota. Every farmer who gives it a fair trial becomes a grower of fodder corn and invariably a more prosperous farmer.

This spring the price of fodder corn seed is from $2.50 to $3 per bushel. When it is not handled on the local market it can be bought from any of the numerous seed houses advertising in the agricultural papers.

It can best be ordered on short notice through the local merchant and if not already provided should be ordered at once.

The variety used on the Experiment farm is Minnesota No. 13. Nearly any of the Northern grown varieties, either in dent or flint will give good results for fodder corn.

If you have not grown fodder corn give it a trial this season. It may be planted on new breaking but will give best results on land that has been cultivated.

CRYSTAL BAY HAS DAMAGING FIRE

Forest Flames in Little Marais Country Caused Considerable Harm.

Little Marais, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fires in this section in the brush and undergrowth have done considerable damage, being fanned by a strong wind and finding good material to work on in the slashings.

The hall owned by the Public Ownership party and the warehouse in Crystal Bay were destroyed. Ed Market, storekeeper at Finland station, had fortunately moved out all his belongings before the fire destroyed his building. Fires have been raging fiercely there, but the rain last night is believed to have extinguished them and removed further danger for the present.

WAR ON GILBERT DOGS.

Gilbert, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—May 15 is the date the village council have set for the finish of all dogs not tagged and licensed. To date but one license has been sold. Heretofore the village has passed resolutions stating that the dogs must be licensed or, if not, they must be done away with, and very few of the dog owners paid attention to the matter, and very few dogs were shot by the authorities. This year the council have given notice that they mean business and that all dogs will be killed if their owners do not procure the necessary tag and license.

HANGS WITH CLOTHESLINE.

Jack Jarvi of Ely Ends Earthly Troubles in Suicide.

Ely, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Presumably despondent over poor health, Jack Jarvi, a Finn, aged 40, who has been something of a character about town for several years and who has been making a living working around a saloon, went to the outskirts of town yesterday and hanged himself on a fence post with a clothesline. He tied the clothesline in a slip-loose about his neck and placed the other end around the post above the top wire then hauled up his legs, strangling.

When found he was lying on his stomach with his hands at his side and his head a few inches above the ground. The body was taken in charge by Deputy Coroner M. E. Gleason.

EVELETH TOT WANDERS AWAY, CAUSING SCARE.

Eveleth, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard, the 18 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Siegel, caused considerable excitement yesterday morning by disappearing. He arose very early, and 6 a. m. left his home on Adams avenue, unnoticed. He made his way to the Missabe depot, where he was found by a telephone operator and taken to the telephone office. The child's father made a diligent search, and while passing the telephone office, was notified.

GILBERT DAY POWER HAS BEEN SHUT OFF.

Gilbert, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company, which has the contract for furnishing the village with electric power and water, stopped furnishing day current today, thereby causing those running machinery with electric motors to find other power. This move by the company is the outcome of the closing down of their Gilbert mine recently. The electric power will be on at nights, however.

ALLEGED CRAZY MAN TAKEN NEAR GHEEN.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Sheriff Arthur O'Dea returned last night from Gheen, where he went in search of an alleged crazy man who was reported to be wandering about the woods in the vicinity of that place for some time past. He brought the man here and he was identified as Walter Jzneski, a Finn, who had formerly been employed in this city, but had recently gone north to work in the woods. Jzneski is a single man and about 40 years of age. He will probably be taken to Duluth and examined as to his sanity.

Contests are being arranged with other range clubs, and it is possible that contests will be secured with Head of the Lake clubs.

Hibbing Commission Meets.

Hibbing, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular meeting of the water and light commissioners was held last evening. W. J. West and H. H. Angst being present. The meeting was chiefly taken up with routine matters. The reduction effected in coal consumption received some attention and the proposal to clean up the yard of the power plant was mentioned.

Drilling Around Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A drill will soon be placed on the site of the burned Fayal school, to determine whether it will be possible to erect the new Fayal school in the old location. Much headway is being made by the drills being operated opposite the school.

A drill is being sunk near the Adams pit. Drills are also being operated on the Holmke farm, as it is believed a good grade of ore exists in that vicinity.

VIRGINIA WILL DO SOME PAVING

Council Expected to Advertise for Bids for Improving Thoroughfare.

Virginia, Minn., May 10.—Special to The Herald.)—City Engineer E. F. Johnson submitted to the city council last night plans for the paving of several avenues and streets, which the city will accomplish this season. The plans are now in the hands of the street, alley and sewer committee, Aldermen Boylan, Weber and H. O. Johnson, which will go over them and at the next meeting of the council probably recommend that Bids for the paving be called for. The thoroughfares to be improved are: Mesaba avenue from Spruce to Larch street; Wyoming from Maple to Larch; Cleveland from Maple to Larch, and Virginia from Maple to the Eveleth road.

The council received complaints from a number of citizens in regard to the high speed at which autos are running about the principal streets of the city, and as the police appear to be negligent in enforcing the ordinance in this regard, Mayor Hawkinson was asked to appoint a detective to watch auto drivers and arrest those who violate the regulations.

Change in Meat Inspectors.

Meat Inspector John Byrne, who was requested by the council at a previous meeting to resign, sent in his resignation last night and it was accepted. W. J. Lenertz, who has had many years' experience in the meat business, filed application for the position, and the application was referred to the health committee, which is composed of Aldermen Weber and H. O. Johnson and Dr. J. H. Crowe.

J. B. McClarin of Duluth who some time ago made an inspection of the water works here, recommended that the council instruct the Virginia Electric Power company to make connection with Silver lake so that a more adequate supply of water could be had in case of a large conflagration. He also recommended that a twelve-inch pipe be laid from the company's plant to the yards of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company to supply water in case fire started there. The lumber company maintains its own water works, but in case its engines gave out a more adequate supply of water from another source would be necessary.

Black Drinking Water.

The question of the purity of the water for drinking purposes as supplied by the Virginia Electrical Power & Water company came up and Alderman Millah stated that he had been shown a sample of it and that its color resembled that of ink. This was taken exception to by some of the aldermen who stated that they never had noticed a discoloration in the water they had been using and the matter was quite thoroughly discussed. It was finally decided to instruct the health board to send samples of the water to the state chemist for analysis, taking the water from different points throughout the city.

C. J. Berglund was appointed assistant humane officer and poundmaster at a salary of $60 a month. He will be assistant to Ole Johnson.

Miss Jessie McNeill, clerk of the municipal court, reported fines collected in that court for week ending May 6 in the sum of $80.

Upon recommendation of the committee of thirty the council instructed City Attorney Poirier and City Clerk Bickford to correspond with some of the noted corporation attorneys of the state and ascertain what is would cost to secure a brief upon the validity of the franchise held by the Virginia Electric Power & Water company. The names of Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul and Theo. Hollister of Duluth were suggested in this conection.

The matter of making a revaluation of the city was referred to the ways and means committee. Aldermen Heritage, Mollan and Weber.

HIBBING BUYS SOME MATERIAL

Vitrified Brick and Flytight Garbage Cans Bought By Council.

Hibbing, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for 16,000 vitrified brick was awarded to C. A. Remington at $22.50 per thousand last night by the council. Another bid was received, from the Hibbing Lumber company, quoting $23 per 1,000, but the lower bid was accepted. The contract for the new garbage cans for the village was awarded to the Thourin Hardware company of Hibbing as follows: 1,000 20-gallon cans, at $2.25 each, and 100 30-gallon cans at $2.75 each. The bids were called for some time ago and the cans are required to fill the new specifications of the health department, to be both impervious to water and rust proof and fly tight as well. W. J. Ryder also put in a bid quoting for 750 deliveries of cans in three sizes, but in his bid he did not state just the number of cans quoted. Bids were also received from the Kelley Hardware company in Duluth quoting smaller cans at $2.25 each.

Want Sanitary Dump Wagons.

Bids were ordered advertised for on a sanitary dump wagon for garbage in conjunction with the new garbage cans. The wagon will have to be water tight and like the cans "fly-proof," specifications are being prepared by the health department. A requisition for straw, oats, and sundry small items, such as feather dusters, from the fire department was granted by the council last night.

The fire chief's monthly report for April showed the smallest number of fires this year, the total amount of damage being only $25. Mention was made of certain holders of liquor licenses who are frequently asking the council for transfers and in certain cases have not paid local merchants the amounts due them before the transfer is made. The matter is being looked into and at the suggestion of the mayor steps are being taken to see that all bills are paid or provided for before future transfers are granted. The protection of the new trees to be planted by the council for the beautifying of the streets was talked over and it was decided to use four stout 2 by 2 stakes of proper height and wire netting to prevent damage to the young trees, and stop horses and cattle from biting the bark off and thus killing the trees.

Village Finances.

The monthly report of Village Treasurer Dennis Haley showed total receipts of $19,953.72; disbursements, $19,215.12; cash balance in the treasury at the commencement of the month, $35.87, leaving the balance to be carried forward to the month of May at $738.60. The heaviest item of the receipts for April came from the water and light department, $8,622.56. The receipts for the month of March from the same source amounted to $5,892.12. The month's municipal court receipts were as follows: Week ending April 4, $366.93; April 11, $104.25; April 18, $169.68; April 25, $546.01. The report of the municipal court for the week ending May 7 showed total receipts of $333.40. The liquor licenses for the month yielded a sum of $3,920.

The police report for the month of April shows that the total number of prisoners taken to the jail during the month was 359, and number of lodgers, 224. Three cases are still pending, six were dismissed and four prisoners forfeited bail, and eight were committed to the county jail. The total amount received from fines for the month was $825.49, and the amount received as costs, $244.27.

Sixty-five dollars was received as forfeited bail, and the civil docket added $24.90. In all, forty-two prisoners paid their fines during the month. The number of meals supplied to prisoners was 419 and the cost $83.80.

CROOKSTON HAS VERY HIGH WIND

Considerable Damage to Property During Storm of Tuesday Night.

Crookston, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hardest windstorm reaching almost hurricane proportions experienced in this section for many years occurred during the night, and did considerable damage but resulted in no loss of life.

Both big smokestacks of the Crookston sawmill were blown down, box cars unroofed and blown off the track, lumber sheds blown down and small outbuildings down all over the city. The warehouse of the Maple Bay Windstacker company was also demolished. Farmers lost small buildings and basket racks were hurled and smashed to pieces.

M. Stephens' barn near the city was wrecked.

Many shade trees were blown down.

MERRY-MAKERS SCARED WOMAN

Invaded Home Garbed as Norwegian Peasants and She Sued.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys are preparing to appeal a unique case from Traill county to the supreme court. Jennie Falkenberg sued Henry Nordby and others for $25,000 damages. She was awarded a verdict for $1,000. Her attorneys are appealing as they insist the is entitled to more. Mrs. Falkenberg was in her home in Traill county during the Christmas holidays in 1909 when her residence was invaded by Nordby and others who were dressed in Norwegian peasant costumes. They celebrated in old country style. Their dances and the events of the evening so frightened Mrs. Falkenberg that she became ill and hysterical and in February was sent to the state hospital for the insane, where she remained till September. She sued the invaders for damages.

PROPOSES TAX ON SPINSTERS

Boston Woman Would Assess Unmarried Women and Childless Wives.

Boston, May 10.—Mrs. Charlotte Smith of Boston wanted to tax bachelors, but the legislature didn't see it that way. Now Dr. Bertha C. Downing of Worcester calls for a tax on unmarried women and childless wives.

The idea of taxing unmarried women strikes the Boston bachelors as a splendid answer to Mrs. Smith's proposal to tax them. Mrs. Smith's argument was that the men are selfish and will not assume matrimonial cares.

Dr. Downing believes that women should wed, also that they should have children, especially women whose husbands are well able to support a family.

"The increase in luxury," she said today, "prevents many from marrying at all."

Dr. Downing also blames the tendency to intellectuality among women for the lack of marriages. Her tax, she says, would make a girl hesitate before she decided to reject an eligible suitor for the sake of her books and single blessedness.

DOCTOR AGAIN FOUND.

Dr. William H. Bates Discovered Accidentally in Grand Forks.

New York, May 10.—Dr. William H. Bates, whose dramatic disappearance nine years ago caused a sensation in medical and social circles, has returned to New York. Dr. Bates in 1902 was at the height of his fame as a heart specialist. He was found in London two months after his disappearance, where he was acting as assistant in a hospital. He told of having been carried away on board a vessel, to which he had been summoned to perform an operation, and also told of having left New York while suffering from an acute case of aphasia. Two days later he disappeared again. What became of him from that time on none of his friends ever learned until Dr. J. E. Kelly found him quite accidently in Grand Forks, N. D., a town of 14,000 inhabitants, where he was again engaged in the practice of medicine. He was induced to return to New York.

SUPPLY RUNS FAR SHORT

Some Applicants for Children's Poultry Contest Will Be Disappointed.

Contestants Ask for 1,400 Chicks and Only 500 Are Available.

If all the would-be contestants in the poultry contest to be conducted in Duluth this year by the Y. M. C. A., the Commercial club, the Duluth Poultry association and the poultry division of the extension department of the state agricultural school, are to be supplied with chicks, some assistance outside of that to be given by the Duluth Poultry association will be required.

Applications have been made for 1,400 one-day-old chicks, while the Duluth Poultry association has agreed to furnish only 500 chicks. Some additional chicks will be furnished by individuals, and the people in charge of the contest are endeavoring to obtain more so that the number of children who will be disappointed will be cut down as far as possible.

In addition to those who ask that chicks be furnished, a number of children who will be able to furnish their own chicks have entered the contest. A great deal of interest is being shown by the young people of the city and if the interest can be sustained, the contest will be a great success. The inquiry has been greatest for Rhode Island Reds and that variety will have the best representation in the contest.

N. E. Chapman, head of the poultry work of the agricultural school, was in Duluth today and he is gratified by the manner in which the contest has been taken up. He will return to Duluth about May 20, and will talk to the contestants on the care of poultry. He will address his poultry class at the same time.

The poultry contest will begin June 1.

ECONOMY CAUSES FRICTION IN HOUSE

Some Democrats Disagree on Matter of Reducing Expenses.

Washington, May 10.—Democratic harmony broke yesterday on the rocks of economy. Acting upon the instructions of its caucus held early in the session the party leaders brought two resolutions into the house for passage, cutting off scores of employes and rearranging the basis of committee clerkships on a more economical plan.

The first resolution, that cutting off $82,000 worth of employes went through without much trouble. The second one, however, providing session clerks for several committees, broke up the Democratic ranks, but finally was passed. In the resolution was a provision for an assistant clerk to the committee on territories, a new position which was eliminated from the resolution on protest of Mr. Rucker of Missouri whose clerks' pay had been reduced.

Representative Garner of Texas, a Democratic member of the committee on accounts, assisted the Republicans in criticizing this creation of an additional place. Mr. Rucker said the trouble with the Democrats was that they were attempting "too darned much economy."

Minority Leader Mann said he had been very nicely treated by the Democrats, had been given a good room, with a pretty red carpet in it. He had been given no janitor, however, to take care of the room.

"When I made the requisition for a carpet sweeper so that I might more easily clean my pretty red carpet,' said Mr. Mann, "this distinguished aggregation of economists turned it down."

Urging the reduction of the police force, Mr. Palmer of Pennsylvania pointed out that the government keeps seventy-five policemen to take care of one building in a space occupying four city blocks, while Harrisburg, Pa., with a state capitol and 64,000 inhabitants has a total police force of only fifty-four men.

Former Speaker Cannon said his salary as speaker had never covered more than a third of his expenses. The rest was made, he said, from his income from "fine black land" in Illinois, that he owned before he went into congress.

COMMITTEES PUT IN A BUSY DAY

Congress Not in Session But Many Hearings Are Given.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary Knox, while ready to enter into negotiations with Newfoundland for a reciprocity arrangement upon lines similar to the measure now pending before congress, has decided to await the action of congress on the Canadian bill before proceeding with what would be a useless task in the event that the Canadian arrangement fails.

Newfoundland has little to offer as a basis for exchange besides her markets and a free fishing privilege, but it is believed that the consideration would be sufficient providing the Newfoundlanders were willing to remove existing export restrictions on pulp wood and pulp paper, which were imposed with a view to inducing American paper makers to erect their mills in Newfoundland.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY

And Higher Wages for Western Union Telegraphers.

New York, May 10.—The eight-hour day will go into effect for all telegraphers employed in Western Union offices beginning June 1, according to a statement of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. Wages will be increased also, so that the best men will receive $100 a month instead of $85 and $95. It is announced that President Vail of the American Telephone and Telegraph company is opposed to discrimination against union telegraphers.

MINNEAPOLIS YOUNG MAN ATTEMPTS LIFE.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—Leonard Glasby, 21 years old, is reported by the police to be dying at his home, 2300 Clinton avenue, as the result of a revolver bullet wound inflicted a week ago of which the police did not learn until today. Dr. C. W. Pettit, Donaldson building, who has been attending the young man, said today that members of the family told him that young Glasby shot himself following a quarrel with his father, J. M. Glasby.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILD RACE FOR LANDS

Horses and Automobiles Used to Reach Tracts Just Thrown Open.

Dynamite Exploded to Notify People at Distance Land Is Available.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—William O'Neil, logging superintendent for this district, yesterday afternoon filed a list of lands to be opened for settlement, from which the timber had been cut and removed, in all amounting to nearly 13,000 acres. This makes a total of over 40,000 acres opened to settlement in this vicinity within the past four days. The land opened yesterday afternoon lies north of Cass Lake and another portion southwest of town.

After the news was received of the opening a wild rush was made for the best parcels by parties interested and as there were a large number of visitors in town the past week looking for homesteads it will undoubtedly occur that some of the tracts opened yesterday will have more than one contending settler. The last land opened is the best that has been thrown on the market this year and the wild scramble for homesteads made things interesting in Cass Lake this afternoon. Automobiles, horses, launches and a switch engine were pressed into service in order to make quick time to the coveted lands.

Horses Beat Automobile.

The most interesting race of the day was between John Faherty, a 14-year-old lad, and A. S. Williams in an automobile with a party of homeseekers. Faherty had his ear glued to the telephone receiver for two days in order to get first notice, and once it came, jumped his pony and rode short-cuts across the country. He had a relay horse about three miles out and covered the whole six miles of his trip in less than twenty-seven minutes. The automobile had to go around by the road and flattened a tire when near the coveted goal, which gave Faherty time to win out by three minutes. Tally one for the horse over the automobile.

Another interesting feature of the day was the relay shooting of dynamite to cover distance of twelve miles across Cass lake to notify parties several miles to the north of the lake that the land had been opened. Dynamite was exploded on Star island and then at several points to the north of the lake. The Star island watcher was notified by telephone, there being a cable telephone line connecting the United States forest ranger station with the outside world.

Reports that have come back to town indicate that practically all the land which was opened has been taken and in many cases there will be much contention, as conflicting reports as to time of settlement have already come in. Undoubtedly there will be a harvest for land attorneys.

It is expected that the filing date will be fixed for some date in June. The openings allow settlement rights at once, but not yet filing.

IS BADLY INJURED UNLOADING PIANO

Park Rapids Man Caught and Crushed So Badly Recovery Is Doubtful.

Park Rapids, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Grover met with a probably fatal accident while unloading a piano for Mr. Vanderlip at his store. In getting the piano from the dray to the sidewalk Grover, who was standing on the sidewalk let his hold on the piano slip. The piano lurched forward and striking against his body drove him to the walk. The whole weight crashed down onto his body crushing the thigh and sacrum bones, causing internal as well as external injury. He was removed to his home on the East side where he remained until Tuesday morning when it was decided to take him to St. Paul for further treatment. Little hope is entertained of his recovery.

Queer Freak of Lightning Bolt.

Tuesday morning at about 4 a. m. during a thunder shower then prevailing a bolt of lightning struck one of the feed wires of the Park Baptist Electric plant at the corner of First and Park street, a few feet from the Baptist church, cutting cleanly the copper cable and allowing the cable to fall to the street. It did no other damage except cutting off the lights and power supplied by the current of that cable.

The cable was five-twelfths of an inch in diameter, and covered by waterproof insulation one-half inch thick. The bolt melted the copper wire and cut it completely through and tearing the insulation for about one inch and passing off along the wire.

The bolt struck the wire about ten feet from the supporting pole. There was no other evidence of the lightning but the cut wire.

ROSEAU OFFICIAL SHARES IN REWARD

Supreme Court Holds Not His Duty to Arrest Criminals From Out of Town.

Roseau, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Burke of the village council will get his share of the reward offered by the bankers' association for the capture of the Stephen bank robbers a year ago, such is the opinion of the state supreme court. The day after the robbery M. M. Mattson gave a ride into Roseau to two men whom he suspected of being the robbers, and upon his arrival in town he told Burke of his suspicions. Burke had the two men arrested and one of them confessed, turning state's evidence. A difference of opinion arose over the reward, Mattson claiming that Burke, in the capacity of village president, was merely doing his duty. The supreme court has decreed that it is not a part of the official duty of the president to detect and apprehend persons suspected of committing crimes outside of the village.

RECIPROCITY IS WELL DISCUSSED

Crookston Commercial Club Members Talk for and Against Proposed Pact.

Crookston, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Last evening the Commercial club inaugurated a new feature in the form of an informal monthly 6:30 dinner served in the clubrooms. Nearly 100 members were present, and the feature proved immensely popular.

At each dinner some topic of general interest is to be discussed, and last evening it was the reciprocity pact with Canada. Ex-Senator A. D. Stephens opposed the treaty in one of the best addresses he ever delivered in Crookston, taking the position that the agriculturist was getting all the worst of it, after having for years been paying his mite to give the manufacturer protection. He said that reciprocity as championed by Blaine was a good proposition, but that in this pact we would get nothing from Canada we did not produce ourselves, and would simply throw the doors wide open for competition against the American farmer, who at the present time was getting the benefit of the home wheat market.

O'Brien Champions Measure.

J. E. O'Brien championed the bill in a very able address, claiming that the United States farmer could compete with any in the world, and that a country with the unlimited resources of the United States need never fear competition with Canada. He contended that the throwing down of the bars would give the Minnesota producer of butter, cheese, eggs and all farm produce a better market, and that this was but the entering wedge for the farmers to secure greater benefits from further tariff reductions on clothing, etc.

L. D. Feskett of the Crookston State bank and W. A. Marin also took the same view as Mr. O'Brien, and Postmaster Steenerson leaned the same way, but being a federal office holder, declared that it would not be politic for him to say much on the subject.

MASONS TO MEET IN GRAND FORKS

North Dakota Grand Lodge and Grand Forks Shrine Sessions.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last week in June will be Masonic week here as the grand lodge bodies and the local temple of the Mystic shrine will meet Monday, June 26, and continue through the week. The members of Kem temple decided last night to hold a ceremonial session Monday, June 26, and June 27, 28 and 29 previously had been fixed as the dates for the annual meetings of the grand lodge of Masons, the Grand Chapter of Masons, and the order of Eastern Star.

The ceremonial session of Kem temple will be the fourth since the temple was instituted in November, 1909. In every respect, if the promises of the officers of the temple are made good, this ceremonial will eclipse every other event of its kind ever held in the state.

Many Masons Expected.

At the three state meetings that will be held on the three days following the Shriner ceremonial, there will be a very large number of Masons in attendance from all sections of the state. The fact that these three meetings take place during the same week will serve in a measure to add to the interest that will center about the Shriners and their frolics.

Up to the present time the program for the other three organizations has not been completed, but the local bodies have their committees appointed and they are even now engaged in the preparation of the entertainment program—a feature that never fails to prove decidedly interesting.

KEEP TAB ON MESSENGERS.

Grand Forks Watching to Prevent Deliveries of Liquor.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks messenger services are being closely scrutinized by the Grand Forks officials with a view to preventing the "delivering" of liquors. One arrest has been made, George Bancroft being taken into custody, the police charging that when he received an order for liquor, instead of making a delivery for an East Grand Forks saloon, he in fact made the delivery from his own establishment and is therefore liable. There are ten or twelve messenger services in the city and each of them is being closely watched.

SCHOOLS TO BENEFIT.

State Money Distributed in Districts Having State Lands.

Bemidji, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.—While he is here conducting the sale of state land today, State Auditor Iverson is arranging for the distribution of state money for school purposes, as provided by a bill passed by the late legislature.

The new law permits a total distribution of $50,000 to be made in all organized school districts where state lands are located. The original bill provided an allotment of 5 cents per acre for such lands, but under the provisions of the bill finally passed the amount will be about 2 cents per acre. There are approximately 55,000 such acres in Beltrami county, so that the schools here will be enriched about $1,100.

There are 126 school buildings in Beltrami county and every building would be entitled to $250, but there are so many schools to share in the total appropriation that it is cut down to 2 cents an acre. Only districts containing state land share in the distribution. Koochiching county profits most by the new law.

MAJ. LUCE'S THEORY.

Minnesota National Guardsman Airs View on Mexican Affairs.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—"The United States troops were sent to the Mexican border line because of the Japanese-Mexican treaty in regard to the Magdalene bay," said Major Erle D. Luce of the Minnesota National Guard, who returned with Capt. A. X. Schall, Jr., of Minneapolis from Texas, where for nearly three weeks they watched and studied maneuvers of the army on the Mexican border. Major Luce and Capt. Schall were assigned to the Twenty-eighth infantry, the regiment from Fort Snelling. An opportunity was given to study the new United States drill regulations, which go into effect Sept. 1, 1911.

"Every one forms his own conclusions," said Major Luce, "and mine is that a treaty between Mexico and Japan to let the latter have the bay as a coaling station was the cause of the whole trouble. The United States army at the present time might not be able to lick the Japanese army in war, but it could whip the Mexican army. Four days after congress passed the bill of appropriation for the fortification of the Panama canal Japan began sending troops to the bay.

"Mexico had either to drop the Japanese treaty or to suffer an invasion of the United States army. She dropped Japan. It was the intention of Japan to colonize this part of Mexico under promise to the Mexican government that it would support Diaz."

Leather Prices Jump Again

Trust Creates Artificial Scarcity by Closing Tanneries

You and I and the other plain people of this country are not paying enough for our shoes, it seems.

The Leather Trust needs the money more than we do—so the shoe wearers of America have got to come across with the higher price.

Shoe manufacturers will tell you that there is a "shortage of leather."

What they may not tell you is that the Leather Trust created this "shortage" by deliberately shutting down its tanneries and throwing thousands of its employes out of work in midwinter, with the sole object of boosting the price of leather!

Now, the higher price would be hard enough on the shoe buyer—even if the quality of the shoes justified it.

As a shoe wearer you know that the average shoe is not worth its price—or anywhere near it.

The clerk, the merchant, the farmer, the mechanic finds his soles giving away long before their time—the uppers cracking and pulling away from the soles — the leather losing its finish, its softness, its elasticity.

The crying evil in the shoe situation today is the influence of the Leather Trust on the quality and cost of leather.

Facts that the Leather Trust Will Never Tell You

These are facts that the average shoe manufacturer does not dare to tell you. It's only when an independent newspaper publishes this inside information in the interests of its readers that you learn the real truth and the whole truth.

There is only one shoe manufacturing concern in the United States that can put what they know to be honest leather into their shoes.

They can do this because they own and operate their tanneries independent of the Leather Trust.

Back in 1893 H. B. Endicott and Geo. F. Johnson formed a partnership and started to manufacture shoes.

Then the leather began to show bad qualities. The Leather Trust began to starve the leather in tanning and finishing—instead of using the slower and more expensive processes that give to leather its wearing qualities.

Cheap Processes in Trust Tanneries

"Processes" and short cuts crept in all along the line. Hemlock used in place of good oak tan bark. Chemical tannages that load up the weight of the leather—all sole leather is sold by weight.

These conditions have existed for years in Trust tanneries—the situation is getting worse instead of better. Only recently, Dr. Wiley, the Government chemist, declared there should be a law like the Pure Food Law to prevent tanners from using adulterants in their "processes."

Various cheap adulterants are used in large quantities by the Leather Trust to "weight" the leather—it looks "full" and "plump," but is really "brashy" and rapidly breaks up under wear.

Breaking Grip of Leather Trust

So Endicott and Johnson built their own tanneries. Today they tan every pound of leather they put into their shoes.

They tan every batch of hides for a definite kind of shoe, and perfect it in the tanning and finishing for the service it is to give—an obvious advantage in the working qualities of the leather and the durability of the shoes.

Their "Kromelk" is the first and only chrome-tanned sole leather to be perfected and put to practical and satisfactory service.

It is the most durable sole leather ever made—weather proof, heat proof, all but wear proof.

This leather has been imitated largely since it proved so successful—but it cannot be duplicated because it is the exclusive property of Endicott, Johnson & Co.

Endicott, Johnson & Co.'s tannages of calf skin and chrome-tanned upper leather are as far ahead of commercial leathers as their "Forest Oak" and "Kromelk" are ahead of commercial soles.

Extortionate Profits Saved

Endicott, Johnson & Co. find it perfectly feasible to produce a dependable, long-wearing shoe and sell it at the price that the average man wants to pay for his shoes.

Buying their hides in the open markets of the world, and operating their own tanneries, they cut three profits out of the cost of making the shoes—the profits of the Hide Trust, the Leather Trust and the Leather Jobber.

Then they cut out the Shoe Jobber's profit—selling direct to your home shoe dealer and 30,000 other retailers in this country.

Thanks to this "hide to retailer" policy—Endicott, Johnson & Co. can save you 50 cents to $1.00 on every pair of shoes you buy.

This policy—and its service to the shoe wearer—has made them the largest shoe manufacturers in the world.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. have the most expert staff of shoe designers in the trade. And style in an Endicott-Johnson shoe means something—the real leather is back of the style. The shoe is pliable —yet firm and solid. It holds its shape, its fit, its finish.

You can buy Endicott-Johnson shoes for men, women and children—shoes for business wear, work shoes, dress shoes, school shoes for boys and girls.

ENDWELL—the Independent Shoe

The most popular shoe for general service is their ENDWELL (Goodyear Welt)—a dress and business shoe that sells at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. make lines that sell for more money—and still other lines at a lower price.

You can have your choice of Shoe or Oxford—Lace and Button—all the fashionable lasts—any width of toe—all the colors of leather.

And the way those shoes wear will be a revelation to you.

Remember the name. You will find it stamped on the shoe.

If your dealer does not sell these shoes, fill out the attached coupon and mail to Endicott, Johnson & Co., Endicott, N. Y.

ARSENIC IN THE COFFEE

Poisoning Case at Minnesota Soldiers' Home to Be Probed.

County Attorney and Sheriff of Hennepin Will Investigate.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—The board of trustees of the Minnesota soldiers' home has decided to call upon the county attorney and sheriff of Hennepin county to investigate the alleged arsenical poisoning of five persons, including Dr. E. J. Davis and his wife, by coffee supplied from the hospital store house, and to empower the executive committee to employ skilled detectives to ferret out the case. In an effort to crush "the spirit of complaining and unrest" at the institution, G. W. Nash, the veteran, who put a stop to the custom of charging each inmate $2 aquarter for table help, was summarily discharged from the home.

No doubt was expressed by the trustees or the officials of the institution that the arsenic was put in the coffee intentionally. Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Heron and the maid, Hilga Johnson, who got the coffee from the hospital, were the sufferers. Dr. and Mrs. Davis are still ill.

Had No Enemies.

Dr. Davis said he had no idea that he had an enemy in the home. Commandant F. H. Barnard and a committee of the board of trustees made an investigation, it was stated, but all were baffled by the lack of discoverable motive.

Coffee from the same source was used in the hospital afterward without bad effects.

G. W. Nash was discharged, but not dishonorably, so he still has the privilege of entering any national home he may select. Trustee George Whitney argued that the resolution discharging him should contain instructions to the secretary that he be given transportation to any home he might desire, and if he did not wish to go to any home should receive state aid.

This was bitterly opposed by Secretary Harris. "We will give him the transportation," said Capt. Harris, "but let him come and ask us for it as a favor."

BLIND OPTIMIST IS HEAD OFFICER

Fred S. Atwood of Lamberton, Minn., Elected K. P. Grand Chancellor.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—The Minnesota grand lodge Knights of Pythias paid signal honor to Fred S. Atwood of Lamberton, Minn., famous throughout the state as the "blind optimist," by electing him to the highest office within the gift of the state organization—grand chancellor at the grand lodge held there yesterday.

Mr. Atwood is a former Congregational minister, and in late years has become widely known by his lectures on "Happiness, the Message of Optimism." While installing officers in the Garden City lodge not long ago, he was stricken without warning with total blindness.

The new grand chancellor recognizes his friends instantly by their voices and does all his correspondence on an ordinary typewriter.

"My philosophy of life," he said, "is that there are no such things as disappointments, accidents or untimely happenings, but all things work together for good. I have lived my creed since I became blind, not in the valley, but above the clouds where the sunshines. I left the ministry because I found a wider sphere on the lecture platform."

Duluth Man Outer Guard.

Other officers elected are: Grand vice chancellor, J. P. Peterson of Albert Lea; grand prelate, A. J. Bishop of St. Paul; grand keeper of records and seals, Pliny W. McAllister of Minneapolis; grand master of exchequer, Charles W. Farwell of Minneapolis; grand master-at-arms, Clyde E. Miller of Staples; grand inner guard, O. J. Davidson of Wheaton; grand outer guard, C. M. Phillips of Duluth; supreme representative, Carroll S. Bartram of St. Paul; grand trustee, Charles S. Bradt of St. Paul. Mayor Keller, as grand representative from St. Paul, gave the address of welcome to the visiting delegates.

Finding that the plan of not paying any of the officers, adopted last year, was not entirely satisfactory, the lodge decided to restore the salary of the grand chancellor.

A large class of candidates was initiated last night.

TAMPERING WITH MAILS.

Charge Results in Arrest of Two Postoffice Inspectors.

Fargo, N. D., May 10.—Warrants were issued in the United States circuit court last evening for the arrest of Postoffice Inspectors Carl Egge and George B. Drake on the charge of tampering with the mails. The complaint was made by Carl C. Van Dyke of St. Paul, executive agent of the Railway Clerks' union and charged that the inspectors took from the postoffice at Grand Forks and opened a sealed package containing the charter of the Grand Forks division of the Railway Mail Clerks' union. Van Dyke states that the package was opened to enable the inspectors to get names of officers and members of the union and that the seals were replaced on the package after being opened. A deputy United States marshal left for Grand Forks to make the arrests.

WILL WORK FOR REAPPORTIONMENT

John Erickson League Will Come Out Strongly for It.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans of the next campaign for reapportionment will be outlined at the meeting of the Northern Development association in Duluth next June, according to W. A. Anderson, president of the John Erickson Republican League of the State of Minnesota, who was here yesterday, looking after the interests of the organization he heads.

"It is one of the big problems to be disposed of," Mr. Anderson said, "and the southern part of the state must be brought to it."

Mr. Anderson said it was too early to begin any active political work yet, but that the John Erickson league would come out strongly for reapportionment at the hands of the next legislature.

INVESTIGATIONS PROPOSED.

Postoffice Department and Sugar Trust Subjects of Resolutions.

Washington, May 10.—Two resolutions for important investigations were agreed to by the house of representatives yesterday. A complete investigation of the postoffice department, proposed by Representative Saunders of Virginia to determine whether political influences are operating in the department, whether it is used for political purposes, whether the employes are discharged for political reasons, and covering other features of postal operation, were authorized by the adoption of one resolution.

The other, that of Mr. Hardwick of Georgia, provides for a sweeping investigation of the American Sugar Refining company to determine what influence it has had or is having upon the prices of sugar or the control of competition.

HER SAVINGS FOR FUNERAL.

Woman Who Killed Husband Sends $140 to Priest.

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Frances O'Shaughnessy, who murdered her husband several days ago to "save his soul," as she explained, wrote a pitiful letter from the Tombs yesterday, directing the priest who had married her to use her meager savings of $140 for her husband's funeral expenses.

"I love him still," she wrote, "but please see that no flowers are accepted from ———, the woman who ruined both our lives."

O'Shaughnessy was buried from an undertaking establishment yesterday. One carriage followed the hearse.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"There never was a worse case."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

GENUINE CLOSING OUT PIANO SALE

OVER 100 FINE VALUES

Many Makes, Styles and Finishes.

Sale from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

203 EAST SUPERIOR STREET, Old Masonic Temple Bldg.

The announcement appearing in yesterday's paper that the entire stock of beautiful pianos and organs of the Korby Piano Co., this city, would be closed out to Duluth's first buyers, regardless of former retail prices, was graciously welcomed by many families who have been in need of a piano, but had about decided to postpone their purchase until later on.

Several purchasers who took advantage of even the first day of this great sale spoke frankly in this respect, and are now possessors of splendid bargains, and many will be pleased, as not only great savings were made, but the instruments being closed out represent the highest type of piano quality, every piano being standard made and fully guaranteed by the manufacturers.

BUYERS SHOULD ACT QUICKLY.

The Korby Piano Co. have for years past been distributers for several of the largest Eastern manufacturers and their present stock represents the largest and finest display of high grade pianos in the city of Duluth.

The manufacturer's representative is here to make immediate disposal of this mammoth stock, and the closing out of every instrument within the required time is more important than the price received. Every patron of this sale may depend upon receiving careful attention to their every want, as the manufacturers are conservative in their recommendations, and every customer will be tendered dependable guidance.

PRICES THAT MAKE SELLING SPONTANEOUS

In order to quickly close out this big stock it is clearly realized that the pianos must be price-sacrificed, as far as the retailer's usual profit is concerned, and the disposal prices, plainly marked on each instrument, represent their cost only, plus freight, drayage, stool, scarf, and in many instances new pianos that became slightly marred in shipment or have become a trifle shopworn are selling for less than cost. Such prices make selling spontaneous and quick disposition of every piano a positive certainty.

Green Room Gossip.

There will be just five more opportunities to see Maude Leone before she takes leave of Duluth. The many friends of the actress are planning to make the Saturday matinee performance in the nature of an informal reception. After the matinee, Miss Leone will meet the women in the audience. The doors to the big stage will be thrown open and Miss Leone will personally meet every woman who comes on the stage.

As there are a number of women in the city who are personal friends of the actress, the plans to have Miss Leone meet them before she leaves Duluth for a long engagement on the Pacific coast, is meeting with approval among her many friends and also the large number of women who have often watched her work with interest but have never met her.

In "The Triumph of Betty" Miss Leone has one of the best parts she has had during her present engagement, and Betty is proving a most fitting role for the farewell week.

Porter J. White, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week in the feature sketch, "The Visitor," has for years been playing roles which verge on the demoniacal. The role of a partly demented man has fallen to his lot so frequently that he has become associated with such parts in the minds of theater goers, and he would find it difficult to get away from such work, even if he desired to. It has become his specialty in the dramatic field, however, and he states that he is not anxious to get into another line.

"I have played the demoniacal parts so long that it has become almost a part of my life," said Mr. White yesterday. "It is as easy for me to slip into the mannerisms of a partly mad man as it is for me to slip into a coat. It has come to the point where I have two natures, a kind of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde affair, my sane self and my mad self. Many actors think that they unconsciously grow into the parts they portray, but I hope I won't be a candidate for a padded cell for some time to come."

Some of the "mad" parts that Mr. White played were in "Faust," "The Fool's Revenge" and "The Proud Prince." His present role is also of that type.

There is an abundance of comedy in the bill at the Empress and judging from the applause each act receives, one would think that comedy is what the public desires.

The bill is headed by Billy Van, the minstrel man. The public has seen hundreds of blackface comedians, but there is only one Billy Van. His style gestures and jokes, and in fact everything about his act are new and original with himself. Mr. Van is being warmly greeted at each performance. There is something about the manner in which he puts over a joke that makes it go where in other hands it would fall flat. This is Mr. Van's second appearance in Duluth and he bids fair to become a bigger favorite this time than he was the last.

Another act that is proving a big hit is the character sketch, "The Man From Italy," which is being presented by Murray Livingston and company. This piece is from the pen of William Bonelli and there is a happy mixture of pathos and humor. Mr. Livingston as "Tony," presents some clever character work. His dialect is natural and true, his make-up perfect and his acting in his "big" scene forceful. He is supported by Virginia Bates and Burnie Lewis.

The Lyric's new mid-week bill will be given tonight. A dramatic offering is "Unto Us a Child Is Born." The feature is "Slabsides." In this film Jim Hillis, ranch manager, is jealous of Lord Verlane's attention to Nancy Etherridge, owner of the N. E. ranch. Jim quits his job and Nancy rides after him to explain that Lord Verlane is "nix" to her. Slabsides, the Indian, finds Nancy and Jim, who are lost and goes for aid. He had ridden to them on a borrowed horse and he is shot for a horse thief. A comic film is "The Troublesome Secretaries." I. S. Mistachkin will sing "In the Land of Harmony."

At the Odeum the new bill will be presented tomorrow night. "The Peace Offerings" is about a red-headed wife. Bridget, cook, is also red-headed. Funny complications result. "The Witch of the Everglades" is an Indian photoplay. The action took place a century ago when the Seminoles warred against the white men. Seth Thomas, a settler, is killed. His wife loses her reason, but gets it back when a bullet hits her head fifteen years later and relieves the pressure on her brain. "Misplaced Jealousy" is a funny film dealing with the jealousy of a Frenchman for a manicure girl. "Cupid's Joke" concerns a young heiress who changes places with her maid. A young millionaire changes positions with his valet. Then there is something doing. "I'll Be With You Honey in Honeysuckle Time" will be sung by Mrs. Carl Sommers.

RAIN

There is only one complaint to make of that shower during the night. It didn't last long enough. Rain for extinguishing brush fires was the greatest need, but the young plants and grass shoots were beginning to suffer for want of moisture and the rain was welcome. The temperature was a little too low for comfort, but the weather man isn't accustomed to serve up ideal conditions. More showers and continued cool weather is promised for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:37 and it will set at 7:30 this evening, giving fourteen hours and fifty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm centered over Southeastern South Dakota has caused showers over the western part of that state. North Dakota, Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northwestern Michigan, Western Canada, Oregon, Washington, Northern Utah and Wyoming. This disturbance as it moves eastward will cause thunder squalls on Lake Superior this afternoon and tonight. Rising pressures throughout the Northwest are attended by much colder weather from Utah and Colorado northward. Storm northeast warnings were ordered at Lake Superior stations 10 a. m. today."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 10.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight and Thursday; cooler Thursday.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather tonight and Thursday, with showers and thunder storms; warmer in extreme east and colder in west portions tonight; colder Thursday.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather with rain tonight and probably in east portion Thursday; colder in west portion and south portion tonight and in southeast portion Thursday; frost in northwest portion tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather with showers and thunderstorms tonight or Thursday; colder tonight and in east and south portions Thursday.

North Dakota—Threatening and colder tonight with temperature near freezing and rain in extreme east portion; Thursday generally fair.

Upper Lakes—Brisk south winds with squalls on Michigan and Huron and brisk east on Superior, probably shifting to northwest Thursday.

ROOSEVELT MAY HUNT BEARS IN GREENLAND.

New York, May 10.—According to Capt. "Bob" Bartlett, big game hunting has more attractions for Theodore Roosevelt than the next presidential campaign. At least, that's the way the colonel sees it now. Having filled his bag with tropical fauna, the colonel plans in the summer of 1912 to try his luck at polar bears in Greenland.

Capt. Bartlett who commanded Peary's ship on her last successful trip, has the colonel's acceptance pledged.

TO SPEAK AT CHICAGO.

Senator Clapp to Talk at Progressive Republican Banquet.

Chicago, Ill., May 10.—United States Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, one of the insurgent Republican leaders at Washington, yesterday was substituted for Senator William E. Borah of Idaho as the chief speaker at the progressive Republican banquet to be held in the Auditorium hotel Saturday night.

Senator Borah sent word that the pending fight over the direct vote for senators would prevent him leaving the capital. Charles E. Merriam at once communicated with Senator Clapp, and obtained his promise to take Borah's place at the banquet. State Senator Walter Clyde Jones, Representative Homer J. Tice and Mr. Merriam will be the other speakers.

S.S.S. PERMANENTLY CURES BLOOD POISON

One reason why S. S. S. is so successful in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison is that this medicine strengthens and builds up the stomach and digestive members while it is purifying the blood. A great many medicines used in treating Contagious Blood Poison are composed largely of mercury and potash, and are recommended to the sufferer because they are intended to dry up or remove the humiliating outward symptoms. But such treatment cannot cure the disease, and its continued use will often so weaken and disease the stomach as to make a nervous wreck of the patient. And too, when these mineral medicines are left off the smoldering poison takes on new life and soon the old symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, brown, scaly splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc., return with increased virulence. Then the disease makes more rapid headway because the weakened system offers less resistance to its ravages.

I didn't find out that I had contracted Contagious Blood Poison until it had made considerable headway, and fortunately for me the friend that I first consulted had had some experience with the disease, and advised me to take S. S. S., so I didn't fool with any doctors, but began at once the use of your medicine, taking it as directed. My friend told me to stick to it, and that was what I did, and got along splendidly from the very first, and my recovery was rapid. I took only about one dozen bottles, and am now as well as ever. When I began S. S. S. my face was so full of sores and eruptions that I could not shave, and now there is not a blotch or pimple on my body.
WALTER WEBER.
430 1-2 Fourth St., Evansville, Ind.

S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison and it does so by purifying the blood and keeping the stomach and digestive members in perfect condition all the while by its fine tonic effects. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of recognized virtue as blood purifiers. It does not contain a particle of mineral and is therefore absolutely safe for any one. S. S. S. cures on the principle that not only must the poison be removed from the blood, but the circulation must also be enriched and vitalized with nourishing powers. S. S. S. is known everywhere as the greatest of all blood purifiers and a safe, certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. Home Treatment Book and medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

WAS ONE OF THE PIONEERS IN NORTHWEST RAILROAD ENGINEERING

The funeral of the late Frank E. Simar, 54 years of age, who died suddenly Sunday evening at his home, 403 East Third street, took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street. Interment was at Forest Hill cemetery. Mr. Simar was a member of the Masonic order and the ritual of the order was followed. He was one of the prominent civil engineers of the Northwest. For the last year he had been engaged as a division engineer on the construction work of the Canadian Northern, which is running into this city. Previous to that he was chief engineer of the Keweenaw Central, and for the last thirty years was identified with different railway systems in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. His brother, V. D. Simar, is chief engineer of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic.

The late Mr. Simar was an active member of the American Railway Engineering association as well as of several Masonic bodies, and was recognized as a man of sterling character and one of the leading men of his profession, being one of the "old guard" in Northwestern railroad work.

Besides his brother, who resides at Marquette, Mich., he is survived by his wife.

FOUR EIGHTS ON THE WATER

Coach Ten Eyck Has Big List of Candidates for Crew.

Heavy Men Are Somewhat Scarce But Bantams Are Numerous.

This four-eights stunt is getting to be a habit.

Last evening four eights were out and Monday evening Coach Ten Eyck also had over thirty-two men on the water. As far as numerical strength goes the material is the very best in years.

There is a slight scarcity of big men. That is the only fault the coach can find with the material at hand. The spirit is the best in years, and the discipline under the new coach is something entirely new at the club.

Ten Eyck is a quiet chap, and yet it is very easy to see that he is one who means business from the start. He is the sort of a fellow who gets the confidence of the men, and as confidence is half the problem of coaching, it looks as if the club has secured a find in the young oarsman.

Coach Ten Eyck is anxious that those men who can find time will get up on the machines at noon for just a few minutes' instruction on some of the little details that he will explain, and then show on the rowing machines. This is a very important detail in the early part of the season, and those who can get away for a few minutes during the noon hour are earnestly requested to do so.

There is a large amount of bantam material and the present season the club should turn out a great bantam four. Vince O'Donnell is heavier than last year, and there is some question whether he can get down to the bantam weight. Refsu and Walker will be out for the bantam four, and if O'Donnell can possibly make the weight and Mapp should decide to row with the four, it should make a winning combination.

All of the old men who rowed in the eight last season are showing good form. In general the rowing is going better at the present time than it was at a date a month later, last season. Coach Ten Eyck has matters well in hand and every night sees some progress with the various candidates.

The first game of the season will be played today and the result will be told in The Herald sporting extra, which in addition to the results of the Minny league also gives the returns of the games in the National and American leagues and the American association.

The Herald sporting extra will be on the street shortly after the close of the games and will be the first means of learning the results of the various games.

Louis Tewanima, the Indian runner, won the race.

Red Wing fans got out their little hammers last night—not figuratively, but literally.

The fence around the ball park was not completed, and the fans held a hammering bee, turning out and lending a hand in completing the fence for the first game of the season today.

Red Wing may be small, but there are some red hot fans in the little burg, as was evidenced by the fence building party last evening.

Practically all Red Wing will enjoy a half holiday on account of the opening of the Minny league season. The banks, grocery, meat markets, clothing, shoe, dry goods, furniture stores and the barber shops, as well as a number of manufacturing establishments will close from 2:30 o'clock to 5 this afternoon.

Other establishments besides the above branches announce a closed shop for the day and the schools, in all probability, will be vacant at the same hour.

Before the game there will be a big automobile parade, participated in by the mayor, city council, board of public works, officers of the baseball association, ball teams and private citizens.

The diamond has been put in first-class shape and the heavy roller has been used on the ground.

The parade will form promptly at 2:30 o'clock in front of the St. James hotel and will be headed by the Red Wing Military band. The line of march will be from Main up Bush street to the park.

Mayor A. P. Pierce will start the game by hurling the first ball. Manager Fred Cook has not announced the line-up of his team. Black and Short, stop Gritz will arrive from Chicago in the morning to take part in the fray.

TIGERS HAVE BEST CHANCE IN YEARS

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—"Detroit today has a ball team twenty-five per cent stronger than at any time in the last four years," said Hughie Jennings. "I think of our chances in the race this year just what I thought on April 12—only accidents of the severest kind and a total collapse of our pitching staff can stop us."

Hughie went on to explain why he has the strongest team Detroit has had in four years, writes H. G. Salsinger. "In the first place, take the pitchers. Before, we had the four men —Mullin, Willett, Donovan and Summers—to rely on. What have we now? —not alone two of the veterans working right, but we also have four youngsters who are in the best of form and ready to work regularly.

"Mullin looks as good as I ever saw him look, and Willett, although hard hit in the last game he pitched, is in grand shape. Summers tells me that he is feeling right again and will probably prove that when he starts in St. Louis this week. And I have no reason to believe that Bill Donovan will not be as efficient as he was last season. Bill will soon be ready to work.

"There you have the four pitchers whom we depended on before when we won pennants—every one of them apparently just as good as he was then and I may say, even better. So we are as strong on pitchers, if no stronger, than in the other years, counting only the veterans."

HARVARD MAY ROW IN ENGLAND

Henley Stewards Expected to Make Ruling for American Crew.

London, May 10.—It is expected the Henley stewards will make an exception to the rule barring American universities from the race for the grand challenge cup for this year only. The reason will be so that Harvard may, if she chooses, meet the crews of Magdalen and Cambridge this season.

The exception is the result of Oxford refusing Harvard's challenge on the ground that they would need a rest between the Henley regatta and the October term.

PATHFINDER IS OFF FOR HELENA

Secretary of Minnesota Automobile Association Starts on Long Journey.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.) —Charles Harrington, secretary of the Minnesota State Automobile association, in an especially equipped automobile, started today on a pathfinding journey for the St. Paul to Helena automobile tour to be held in July.

Arrangements have been made for a special train to accompany the automobiles during the tour, consisting of sleepers, buffet and dining cars. The train will keep pace with the automobiles.

The train will also have one or two baggage cars equipped as garages. When the machines start out in the morning the special train will move forward to the town where the stop for the night is scheduled. Having completed their day's journey, the motorists will find dinner ready in the dining cars, and in the garages the chauffeurs will have at hand every equippment for repairing and cleaning their machines.

The tentative plan for the pathfinding trip calls for a run of 174 miles to Asshe, Minn., the first day; 105 miles to Grand Forks, N. D., the next day; 158 miles to Rugby, N. D., the third day; 198 miles to Williston, the fourth day; 172 miles to Glasgow, Mont., the fifth day; 168 miles to Havre, Mont., the sixth day; 136 miles to Great Falls, the seventh day, and 146 miles to Helena the eighth and last day.

Crack Escanaba Pitcher Has Been Signed By Ball Club.

Menominee, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Monte Olmstead, the crack Escanaba pitcher has been signed by Menominee, and "Bundy" O'Conners, his catcher, will also be signed within the next day or two. Olmstead is a brother of the famous Denver pitcher. He is a batter of note and had the best average in the Escanaba team last year. O'Conners, his catcher, was a close second. Olmsteam is a southpaw and considered one of the most effective pitchers in the minor leagues. A representative of the Menominee team will leave this week for Oshkosh, Appleton and Fond du Lac and will pick up some players out of the Wisconsin-Illinois league.

OPENING OF THREE I SEASON AT DANVILLE.

Danville, Ill., May 10.—The season of the Three I league will be officially opened in this city this afternoon with a game between Peoria and Danville. The game will be preceded by an automobile parade. It is expected fully 5,000 persons will be in attendance. Mayor Lewman, former president of the club, has been asked to pitch the first ball.

The batteries will not be announced until just a few minutes before the game is called.

NORTH DAKOTA RIFLEMEN BUSY ON THIER RANGES.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The open season for the North Dakota Rifle association opened this week and from now until Oct. 1 it will be the earnest effort of every member seeking honors on the range to establish such records as will entitle them to classification as expert marksmen. Nearly all of the companies of the regiment in this state have their ranges, and several of them heretofore not fitted out will secure them this season, thus allowing every member of the guard to participate in the annual competitive shoots.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

The Bubble Boom of Lumbering Al Has Burst at Last—The Minny League Season Opens—Old Men in Baseball.

(BY BRUCE.)

A LITTLE story of how the bubble boom of lumbering Al Kaufmann was lost.

Draw your chairs around in the circle, gentlemen.

It was back in San Francisco, in the days when the fight game was in the golden height of all its glory. Those days, boys, were days and nights, too, when Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons, Thomas Jefferson Sharkey, Kid McCoy, though his star was beginning to wane, and others who have made history in the squared circle, roamed the streets of gay San Francisco.

The fight fever spread over the city like some appalling epidemic. Every kid thought he could fight and most of the citizens of the city beyond the years of athletic activities loved to go to the fights. In those days no governor thought of stopping a prize fight.

Sam Berger was the sparring partner of James J. Corbett when the pompadour prize was training for his second fight with Jeffries. Some of the more enthusiastic friends of Berger circulated the story of how the Berger boy was as fast as Jim ever dared to be, and was sure tagged to be the coming heavyweight champion of the world. In those days even we in the Middle West were hearing a lot about Samuel Berger, the rising young heavyweight of San Francisco.

Al Kaufmann was not so well known as Berger, that is, outside of San Francisco. He had his immediate following in the city and it was only a question of time until the two men should come together. After much talk, and eclat, which means many things, and noise, the two promising young heavyweights of San Francisco were matched to do battle. The fight had big San Francisco standing on its ear.

As many of you know, Kaufmann won the battle, much to the surprise and deep chagrin of James Edward Britt, who in those gay days was the bosom friend of the moon-faced Berger. This was indeed a very severe jar for the man who had been picked by many of the critics as the coming heavyweight champion of the United States and even more extensive territory. It also might be mentioned that it was a corresponding fine boost for the honest young blacksmith, Albertus Kaufmann.

Berger made many excuses for the defeat. But after the setback from the ponderous fists of Kaufmann he was seldom heard of, except for that fight with Philadelphia Jawn O'Brien, until he took a leading part in the recent fiasco in which James J. Jeffries had the large share of the limelight.

But back to Kaufmann, as we have strayed from the subject matter.

Al was then set up as the coming champion of the country. Of course at that time Jeffries was hogging all of the heavyweight limelight and Al did not get the right chance to pose in the warm and pleasant rays of the publicity fancy. But since Jeffries announced that he was through with fighting, and this was some years before he fought Johnson, the lumbering Al has been in the limelight until most of us became heartily sick of hearing of him.

He was soundly licked by Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and the crafty man from the city of sleeps made a cleaning on the victory. Al has only whipped a few dubs during his career, but the mere fact that he had Uncle Billy Delaney behind him, one of the best loved men in the sporting game, and a man also who held the confidence of a vast number of fans, is the only thing in the world that caused the big and clumsy man from California to be taken in the least seriously.

Delaney had produced two world's champions. He was the man who brought young Jim Corbett out and he was also the man who had the most to do with the developing of James J. Jeffries, and also the man, let it be said, that got the fight out of the big fellow.

Kaufmann has gone along slowly and the public has been very patient. He was played for the future champion of the world. He was just coming all the time, and while some of us thought that Al took quite a while to arrive, there was the smiling and benevolent face of Uncle Billy Delaney and that gentle assurance that Al was just a boy and was getting faster and better all the time.

Lately Kaufmann has been playing the theatrical circuit and some of the stories sprung by him must have been written by a good press agent. Just after telling the listening world that Sam Langford was afraid to meet him and that he was on the trail of Jack Johnson, comes the blow-off. He is soundly whaled by Jim Flynn and then sent to the mat for the count, and this after being helped to his feet by the manager of a baseball team, who probably knows less about refereeing a fight than a worm does of the Elizabethian drama.

We are at least rid of Kaufmann and we will probably have Flynn for a while. What of Flynn, you may ask? This much for him—he has never pretended to be a champion, has been nothing but a tough and enduring trial horse and fought anyone they would bring to him. He is in about the same class with Billy Papke and Papke and Flynn fought two battles in which there was little to choose between the two men.

Flynn has fought Johnson, Burns and Langford, was beaten by the first two and was almost murdered by the stubby negro from the hub of the universe. Now you have the place where Mr. Flynn's class hangs. Let it be said further that he is not an Irishman, as you might have casually gathered from the sound of his name. He is an Italian and is a blonde.

The Kaufmann bubble reputation has burst. It has remained big and shining, like you have seen other bubbles, long enough to permit the lumbering and slow-thinking German to pick up quite a wad of that stuff that Jack Rockefeller, captain of the All-American financial team, and some of the others of the team have so successfully gathered around in the places where the long green grows. But Kaufmann has passed, or at least let us hope so, and, gentlemen, let us get down to cases and admit that there are but two real heavyweights in the country today, Johnson and Langford, and that in as much as Kaufmann was considered the royal flush with hope, oh heavens, help us! where do we class the rest?

The Start of the Minny League Season.

THIS afternoon the gong in four towns of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league will call the eight teams to the start of the 126-game schedule of the 1911 race. The season starting today is the third in the life of the young league, and will in many respects be a crucial, or one might say, final test for at least two of the members of the league.

Eau Claire asked for the chance to remain in the league another season, in the belief that the attendance record would be much better the present season. There is also the case of Wausau. These two Wisconsin towns have been two of the poorest in the league, in the matter of attendance, and should their records the present season be no better than the ones of last season, it would not be in the least surprising to see some action taken at the annual meeting next winter.

When money is placed in a ball plant, like the one that the new park in this city promises to be, the owners should be given a run for their capital. Some day this city will slip into fast company, and it may be through the prosperous growth of the Minny. Those members of the league who refuse to keep pace with the league, will probably be dropped.

But that is not casting any dampness on the present situation. We all hope that the race the present season will be the closest in the history of the league and that the attendance record will be heavier than that of last season. Right at the start of the race let us say that we are with the league and are rooting for its success. The officials have the right idea, and the possibilities of the future will be carefully nurtured by the opportunities of the present.

Hats off to the league and let us hope for our own team and the most successful season in the history of the great national game in this city.

About the Older Men of Baseball.

YOU read a story in The Herald of yesterday about the old men who are playing their heads off in the two majors the present season. It has been remarked times innumerable that this is the comeback age. The old seem imbued with the spirit of the young and become almost kittenish under the magnetic spell of the "comeback" germ.

In our own little league we have several veterans. We hate to say it, but there is Darby O'Brien. Those who saw the Irishman go after the ball McCullach of the glaring locks slapped down in the general direction of the groove that is supposed to be safe, are of the opinion that the Orator has become inoculated.

There is Biddy Dolan. A prominent business man was asking after Biddy just the other day. He wanted to know where the veteran was at the present time.

"When I was a youngster, down at Wauseka, Wis., my father took me out to see a ball game and I remember carrying Dolan's bat from the plate after he had hit a home run," he said.

It is a shame that old Tom Fletcher isn't in the league. The old boy played first base for La Crosse for a brief spell during the first year of the league. He had been in professional baseball for something like twenty-two years at that time and hoped to hang on by his eyelash for ten or more years longer. Tom, wherever he is, may have the comeback fever and probably is frisking around.

Kid Taylor over Superior way isn't an April featherling by any means. Uncle Joe Killian is another of the boys who would have fought in the Mexican war, the one before the present one, if his parents had not objected to his going.

But in this frisky age f suffragettes, we witness the rude halting of old age by the gentle art of the cosmetic and the resurrection of old Hindu philosophy that a man is a live one until they cart him to the burying ground.

There are many veterans in baseball that the fans had expected to be sent to the cleaner's the present season, and so far they have been playing a game that has showed the way to the youngsters.

CHANCE BOOSTS ZIMMERMAN

Peerless Leader Believes Heine Will Develop Into Great Player.

Chicago, May 10.—It will be interesting to keep a close tab on the work "Heinie" Zimmerman does at third base for the Chicago club baseball team before the middle of the season.

By that time Manager Chance thinks his young sacker will be developed into the best third baseman in the National league. In making this assertion Chance does not bar Arthur Devlin, of the Giants; Eddie Grant, of the Reds, or Hans Lobert, of the Phillies. It is his opinion that Zimmerman will surpass them all in fielding, throwing and possibly hitting.

"He ought to make the best third baseman in the league, because he possess every requisite that leads to that distinction," said Chance, when asked why he thought Zimmerman would surpass the present star for corner players.

"In the first place Zimmerman is an ideal man for third base. He is big, has powerful hands to stop the terrific ground balls hit down there, is the possessor of a wonderful arm and is fast.

"From what I understand, many thought he would not be there when he made a few bad plays in the series with St. Louis in Chicago. It is true I was peeved over the plays, but I did not tell him about them as I would have done an older and more experienced man.

"Those who said he was a 'bone head' and all that had not given him a chance. His work for us so far has been remarkable, considering the fact he never had played third base to any extent. There are several things he must learn and learn thoroughly.

"He is improving with every game and before this season is half over I honestly think you and every one else in the National league will say that he has taken Steinfeldt's place as the greatest third sacker on our circuit.

"When it comes to hitting, I do not think Devlin, Lobert, Grant or any of the other third basemen will outdistance him. If they do, it will be by a short margin.

"He looks better to me right now at the plate than at any time before, because he is selecting the good balls better. He is gradually ridding himself of the habit of striking at the high fast balls.

"I am drilling him on one thing and that is to learn to wait out a pitcher. This is a fault he has and as soon as he overcomes it he will be one of my hardest and most consistent hitters. No one hits the ball any harder than he does, and as soon as he improves a little more he will be right on top of the list."

Keio Defeats Denver.

Denver, Colo., May 10.—Keio university, claiming the baseball championship of Japan, defeated Denver university here yesterday, 6 to 2 in a game characterized by the hard hitting of the brown men.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

200 Present at Annual Meeting in Spite of Weather.

The annual meeting of the Duluth Boat club was held at the main club house last evening, and despite the inclement weather "a goodly crowd was there," as they said of "Joe's place on the square."

About 200 members braved the young nor'easter and had one of the most enjoyable meetings in the history of the club.

As was expected there was no change in the officials of the club. Julius H. Barnes was unanimously reelected president. The club has made such progress under his leadership, that the members seem content to let him remain in charge, as long as he is willing to perform the duties of the office, which are by no means light now. C. A. Congdon was elected first vice president and J. L. Washburn, second vice president. Albert Ames will continue in his duties as secretary and I. S. Moore will also continue to handle the funds of the club. George Spencer, A. C. Le Duc, John E. McGregor and Bentley P. Neff are the new directors.

The club captains will be announced in a few days by President Barnes It is understood that there will be no change, and that John McGregor in charge of the rowing department; W. E. Kitchli in charge of the field department; Robert Marshall, in charge of the motor boat department; and Charles Brewer at the head of the sailing department, will be re-appointed.

James Ten Eyck gave a short talk on the rowing situation and B. P. Neff outlined some of the plans of the coming carnival. After the business of the evening had been finished and the speaking was done with, the social program was shoved on the boards, with the result that everyone present had a most enjoyable time

CENTRAL WILL MEET SUPERIOR

This afternoon at Athletic park the Duluth Central high school baseball team will meet the aggregation from Central high school of Superior. The game is attracting a great deal of interest among the high school students and promises to be a game filled with excitement.

Central appears to have a very fast team the present season. It is probable that "Morry" Harris will be in the box this afternoon. Spencer will be in the game, with Kelly, Boyle, Brown, McClaran and Greenfield among the Central players.

The game will be the first real chance to test Central's strength.

SMITH ANSWERS GODFREY AND ULRICH

Today Burrell Smith files an answer to the challenges of Curly Ulrich and Art Godfrey, stating that he will meet either of the two scrappers under any conditions that are fair to his poundage. The colored boy wants Godfrey to come in somewhere near his weight, as in the last fight the Minneapolis scrapper outweighed Burrell by about fifteen pounds.

If Godfrey will make 150 pounds he can have any of the Smith man's game, according to the story told by Burrell today.

John Walton, a colored bantamweight fighter of St. Paul, hearing of the daring challenge of the rehabilitated Kid Paul, writes to the Herald that he will meet the venturesome kid at any time and will agree to stop him in ten rounds. Come on, you Kid Paul.

It is stated that already negotiations are under way for a meeting between Ulrich and Smith.

There is a rumor that Chuck Larson of Chicago and Pal Brown of Hibbing will also be brought together.

WRESTLING TOURNAMENT.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although plans for the international relay race between the boys of the Grand Forks and Winnipeg Y. M. C. A. have fallen through, negotiations have been completed whereby those two associations will meet in a wrestling tournament the latter part of the month in Grand Forks. Winnipeg was obliged to abandon the idea of entering into a relay race because of its inability to get enough boys in shape for the run. The failure of the local institution to gain a run with the Winnipeg association will result in efforts being made to secure the running of such a race with the Fargo association, those two institutions already having met in such a contest.

TO PLAY BALL FRIDAY.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota university will open its baseball season Friday afternoon when the Flickertails go up against Macalester college.

Vic Campbell and McIntosh are in line to pitch Friday, Campbell being given first choice. Both of these men have been on the mound for the Flickertails several seasons. McIlraith appears behind the bat again this year.

On the infield the locals have Gullickson at first, this man being an old-time star athlete of the institution; Bradshaw will grace second, Evans works at short and Sagen does the turn at third. In the outfield Jacobson, Dryden, Blewett and Monson are quite capable of grabbing everything within range.

Saturday night, the young men of the normal school will give an entertainment for the benefit of the school paper, "Gitchee Gamee." The entertainment will consists of ten acts of vaudeville.

That great family elbow companion, peroxide, has been shown up most unmercifully by Benetol, the new Universalty of Minnesota discovery, which is now being put on sale in all drug stores. Peroxide begins to lose strength as soon as opened and becomes valueless in a few days. Much that is used in families is no better than water. Benetol is many times more effective, and has a hundred more uses, against germs and poisons, and is permanent forever. Benetol is saving lives every day, in hospital, sick room and private family. Physicians endorse it over their signature. Get it at Freimuth's, Duluth, or Holmberg Drug Company, Superior.

VINCENT TO COME AGAIN

President of University Will Be in Duluth Next Week.

Sites Suggested for Experiment Farm School to Be Examined.

Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the University of Minnesota, and Prof. A. F. Woods, dean of the agricultural college, will be in Duluth again next week. They will leave May 14 to inspect the agricultural schools of the state. The school at Morris will be visited May 14 and on May 15 the Crookston school. On May 16 they will look over the experiment farm at Grand Rapids, winding up here on May 17, where they will consider a site for the new agricultural school.

Profs. Andrew Boss and Thomas Cooper have returned to the agricultural school from their trip to Duluth, where they inspected several dozens of sites suggested for the proposed school, for which the state legislature appropriated $65,000. They picked out what they thought were the best two sites, and Dr. Vincent and Dean Woods will consider them further and report to the board of regents.

"This proposed school will be a new departure in agricultural education," said Prof. Cooper. "Very little instruction will be given, but the students will be put to work on the farm to learn in a practical way the art of agriculture. I think this is something we have needed in agricultural education for a long time."

Prof. Cooper reports that the grass seed purchased by the state to reseed the burnt-over lands has been largely planted.

"There is no foundation in the report that graft worked into this seed distribution," said Prof. Cooper. "The only irregularity I found was a couple of cases where lumberjacks had passed as settlers, secured the seed and traded it for whisky."

WALKS FROM MAHTOWA

Settler in Position to Talk of Proposed New Road.

Is Working for a Highway to Duluth Via Wrenshall.

Carl M. Bratburg, a settler living between Blackhoof and Mahtowa in Carlton county, arrived in Duluth yesterday after walking from Mahtowa. He was therefore in an excellent position to talk of the subject which brought him here, which is the proposed construction of a road from Mahtowa to Duluth, via the old military road and Wrenshall. Having examined every foot of the way, Mr. Bratburg was able to assure those with whom he talked here that the proposition is feasible, as the grade at no point is prohibitive.

The proceeding by which the road would have to be legalized is unusual in that the district court has the authority to legalize the road and the petition will have to be made to the court. The petition is being prepared and Mr. Bratburg will see personally that the preliminaries to its presentation are performed.

According to the plan, the road would run from Mahtowa east by the old military road to a point near Wrenshall, would cross the St. Louis river near the power station and would then follow a straight line to Short Line park. St. Louis county's share of the road would be only about two miles from the Carlton county line to Short Line park.

All members of Duluth Aerie, No. 79, will assemble at their hall Thursday morning at 8 o'clock to attend the funeral of our late brother, John Holleran. Bring badges.

COMING TO DULUTH AGAIN.

Another Hearing on Alleged Tug Trust to Be Had Here.

Chicago, May 10.—The government's investigation of the possibility of a tug trust in the shape of the Great Lakes Towing company closed here today and moved to Milwaukee, whence it will go to Superior and Duluth. A further Chicago session will be held in two weeks.

Examiner B. C. Miller of the United States district court at Cleveland, who is taking the special testimony, today heard one witness, Capt. Joseph Lamoreaux, who denied specific charges that the company refused to supply two tugs to a lumber schooner, the Hattie Wells, but that it had charged it for two tugs.

Unfiled Tonnage.

NATURE STUDENTS SURPRISED BY WHIPPOORWILL'S SONG

Out on Park Point the other evening a party of old-time Park Pointers were discussing various phases of wood-life to be found there.

Discussion had passed over the sweet-singing ground sparrow and his English cousin and the waxwing, robin and wild canary, each had been extolled for their various attributes, when suddenly, during a lull in the conversation, a full-throated whippoorwill in a closely adjacent pine top lifted his voice to the stars and sang his short and melancholy call.

All listened. "Whip poor Will," "Whip poor Will," sang the night bird, and his enunciation was perfect.

"That," said one of the oldest residenters, "is the first whippoorwill I have ever heard on Park Point. Besides, it is rather early for those semi-Southern birds to visit this alien clime. I have heard them in deeper woods back of the city, but not often, and I doubt whether any one residing on the Point ever has heard that song here before."

RAILROADS

FUTURE OF SOUTH SHORE

Plans for Duluth Road Causing Much Comment in Railroad Circles.

May Be Made Part of Through Route By Canadian Pacific.

In railroad and financial circles the recent order placed by the officials of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad for 15,000 tons of steel rails, is exciting much interest and speculation.

As it is a very well know fact in railroad circles that the Canadian Pacific absolutely controls the South Shore as it does also the Soo line, the old story of a transcontinental service over the Canadian Pacific, Soo, and the South Shore, has again been brought to the fore.

As the order placed by the Duluth road is one of the largest placed the present season, it has excited comment and interest. The consignment of rails ordered by the South Shore is enough to almost entirely rebuild the road. As the rebuilding of the road would mean that the officials behind the move were looking for a very decided increase in traffic, the story of the transcontinental service is given some foundation.

For the past five years there have been rumors that the Canadian Pacific would step in and take over the active control of the South Shore, through the Soo line. At the present time the South Shore is not a paying investment, and it has long been believed that the stockholders of the Canadian Pacific were anxious to get more satisfactory results.

It is known that one of the ultimate plans of the Canadian Pacific is a transcontinental service from Duluth to the British Columbia coast. The Canadian Northern is becoming a serious rival of the Canadian Pacific, as shown by the tremendous strides made by the McKenzie & Mann road in recent years. It might be that the officials of the Canadian Pacific plan to establish a shortline transcontinental route between Duluth and the coast, thus forestalling, at least for the time being, the ambitious plans of their young but growing rival.

There have been many stories in the past concerning what the Canadian Pacific officials were planning to do, but with the growing possibilities of Duluth as a traffic center, it is only logical to suppose that the Canadian Pacific officials will some day make better use of the South Shore than is being made at the present time.

SERVICE IS PROMISED

Semi-Weekly Refrigerator Car From Sandstone to Duluth.

Assurance has been received by the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club from the Great Northern Railway company that a twice-a-week refrigerator car service will be inaugurated on the line between Sandstone and Duluth early in June.

As a result the officers of the Producers' Co-operative Market association are assuring the clubs at Sandstone, Askov, Bruno and Holyoke that the farmers may set about raising produce for the Duluth market with assurance that they will have refriggerator car service in order to get it to the market in good condition.

At present a refrigerator car runs every Saturday, starting from Sandstone, reaching Duluth within thirty-six hours. The car to be put on in June will probably run every Thursday. As Saturday is an inconvenient day, the time of the car now running will probably be changed to the early part of the week, giving the shippers a good twice-a-week service.

The efforts to obtain the service extend over a long period of time. The hitch has always come through inability to get the railroad company and the shippers together. The railroad company maintained that the freight would not warrant the service. The shippers maintained that they could not afford to go into produce raising on a large scale for the Duluth market on account of inability to reach the market with a refrigerator service.

Now the railroad company has been assured that if the service is assured, the tonnage to warrant it will be produced. The farmers in the district have been notified to rely on the service to increase production. Besides the four farmers' clubs many independent farmers are in the district affected and a material increase in production is expected.

Crops "Looking Fine."

K. M. Nicolls, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific, has returned from a trip to St. Paul. Mr. Nicolls says the railroad officials are watching the crop situation with the greatest of interest. He adds that to date the crops are looking fine and the fact is very cheering to the railroad officials in general.

W. L. Hathaway, district passenger agent of the Rock Island, is in the city today.

WHITE FLAG IS HOISTED

Gen. Navarro Surrenders When Federal Barracks Are Attacked.

Capture of Juarez By Gen Madero's Forces Is Now Complete.

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—Juarez, the object point of the Mexican revolutionists for many months, because it is a port of entry to the United States, fell into the hands of Gen. Francisco I. Madero, today.

With the surrender of the barracks over which a white flag was hoisted at 12:35 o'clock the capture of Juarez is complete. There is some firing in the outskirts of the town but great clouds of dust and smoke made it difficult to ascertain the situation of the federal forces.

Four shots from the rebel artillery tore such great holes in the barracks that the white flag immediately was hoisted, and at 12:45 except for occasional shots in the foothills, the firing has ceased.

The main street of Juarez is in ruins, some of the houses being riddled with bullets. Plaster, brick and piles of debris are scattered everywhere.

Windows in many of the stores have crashed in but the rebels are guarding the entrances to them to prevent looting. Some of the houses have been demolished by the dynamite bombs and shells.

Insurrectos are in charge of the principal places of business. Liberated prisoners declared all the guards about the jail had been killed.

No Rebel Chiefs Not Hurt.

An Associated Press correspondent returned at 12:10 from Juarez, where he interviewed Gen. Orozco. Gen. Orozco declared none of his chiefs had been hurt and that he had practically driven all the federals from the town.

The correspondent talked with Col. Pueblito of the federal army, who was wounded in the eye. Pueblito said that Col. Camborel was dead. He said he hardly had believed the insurrectos could take the town so easily.

Estimates of the number of dead and wounded are rising rapidly. Most of the dead have been taken from the streets and already are being buried. The wounded no longer litter the thoroughfares of the town, scores of physicians having hurried to the scene. The residents of the town are striving vallantly to give succor to the wounded.

Gen. Pasqual Orozco gave orders to his men at 12 o'clock to give all help possible to the wounded of both sides. He himself has been shaking hands with federal officers, who were prisoners, and telling them how bravely they fought.

BAYHA'S SPRING OPENING DAY

Crowds Throng the Floors of the Big Housefurnishing Store.

This afternoon occurred the spring opening of Bayha & Company. Duluth's popular housefurnishing establishment on First street, and the crowds that thronged the floors of the big store and waited about the doors until able to get in showed that the people of this city and vicinity always appreciate the fine entertainment and display of handsome furniture and useful housefurnishings at the Bayha store.

For some days preparations have been going forward for the opening event. The big stock showing the season's authentic styles for spring and summer trade has been placed to show advantageously, and everything has been done for the comfort and convenience of visitors, whether on inspection or a buying trip. Not only is it visitors day, but also souvenir day. Several thousand handsome souvenirs in the form of a footed jelly dish, a new design, were distributed among visitors this afternoon, causing many appreciative comments.

From 2 to 5 o'clock a very pleasing musical program was rendered by Deslaurier's orchestra. The evening program will be rendered between 8 and 10 o'clock, and visitors will be presented with the pretty souvenirs. Judging from past experience the attendance this evening will be as large as this afternoon.

A number of demonstrations are additional features of today's entertainment.

ANNEXATION IS ADVOCATED

Farmers Want Canada to Share Burdens as Well as Benefits.

Washington, May 10.—Annexation of Canada, instead of reciprocity with that country, was advocated today by Gen. E. Ladd of the Massachusetts state grange in the senate finance committee hearing on the Canadian reciprocity bill. Mr. Ladd argued against any trade agreement, declaring if one were made it should be by annexation, so that Canada might share the burdens of the United States, as well as enjoy its benefits.

A number of representatives of the farmers were heard in opposition to the agreement. N. P. Hull, master of the Michigan state grange, presented written protests against the bill in which thousands of Democratic and Republican farmers pledged themselves never to vote for any one who worked or voted for the agreement.

"Did you show that to the president?" asked Senator Simmons, referring to the recent interview of the farmers with the president.

"No," said Mr. Hull, "but we showed him enough. And right here let me say that when the president comes to understand that the majority of his own party in the house repudiated his reciprocity measure and that it was passed only by the other party, he will have some galled spots."

TEACHERS ARE READING EXAMINATION PAPERS.

St. Paul, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Approximately seventy-five teachers started work at the capitol this morning reading examination papers from applicants who want license to teach in Minnesota during the ensuing year. Examinations were conducted in all counties of the state three days last week, and the papers are now coming in. At the examination in the spring of 1910, there were 6,789 applicants for licenses, and 26,500 papers were offered. The number this time is expected to be aqually as large.

Grading the papers is being conducted by P. C. Tonning, assistant state superintendent, and G. M. Cesander, the second assistant. About ten days will be required to finish the task.

WHEAT IS UP; SHORTS RUN

Rains Widespread But Bulls Force Advance—Country Free Seller.

Low Grade Manitobas Sold—Foreign News Unfavorable—Oats Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 10.—Wheat advanced today, the shorts covering. On the hard spot before noon there was free selling but the application of muscle by the longs forced eleventh hour shorts to scurry to cover. The country was a liberal seller of wheat to arrive. May wheat gained 1c, July wheat, 1@1⅛c and September, ⅞c. Cash was ⅞@⅛c over July. Durum was 1c up. Oats gained 1¼c in sympathy with Chicago. Seeding of oats has been backward and reports of hot winds in various parts of Kansas and Oklahoma stimulated buying of oats. Barley sold at 90c.

Linseed was unchanged. There were a few offers without significance. Trading was slight.

The short side was overcrowded today and values quickly advanced. As the kinks in the market were straightened out and scalpers took profits the market weakened. Rains today were widespread in Eastern and Northern South Dakota and there were scattered rains in North Dakota, some of them heavy. In the last fifty-six hours the entire state of North Dakota has received moisture. In most parts the rain was sufficient to enable the new sown wheat to germinate under favorable circumstances. The cold weather is favorable for the wheat already up, as it will check too rapid growth. The excessive heat in the middle portion of South Dakota, which was causing some apprehension, has been succeeded by colder temperatures and moisture.

Reports to The Herald from North Dakota, North and South Minnesota and the three Canadian provinces are unanimously favorable. In some parts of South Dakota more moisture is needed and the outlook is favorable for further rains in that state tonight. In Kansas there were reports of high and hot winds and if the market is over-sold again tomorrow, it is likely that the bulls may use this news as an excuse to flatten out their opponents. Inglis wired from Hayes, Kan., that he is finding wheat in the Western counties better than expected. He said that the abandonment is not as large as generally estimated. The plant is short, but would respond quickly to moisture and cooler weather. The government predicts showers and cooler weather for Kansas tonight and tomorrow.

Reports were sent from Chickasha, Okla., of hot winds which, it was said, have lasted for two days to the detriment of wheat and oats. These reports came through the St. Louis Globe-Democrat which has been singularly active this year in disseminating bullish information which has not always been proven accurate.

Smiley's report on Kansas showed a condition of 74 and an acreage of 4,913,067 acres available for harvest, May 1. The report represents the consensus of reports from members of the Kansas Grain Dealers' association. It can be taken for what it is worth.

The May deal was not in evidence today but there is still a large open interest and it is not certain that the May deal is over. The uncertain situation is liable to be an element of strength until the May option expires. Conditions are fundamentally bearish. This statement does not necessarily commit one, however, to the declaration that wheat values will fall before the May deal goes out of existence. The longs probably are willing that values should go temporarily lower in order that heavy selling from the country may be avoided and the speculative short interest increased.

Cables were lower. Foreign news is not so favorable. Rains in the south of Russia are said to have been insufficient. Seeding is backward.

Linseed.

It is still too early to tell anything definite about the linseed acreage in the Northwestern states. From reports received it seems that the acreage in Northern Nebraska and Northern Iowa will be increased. Minnesota will be about the same, the acreage in the South showing a slight increase and the area in the Northwest a slight decrease. South Dakota will be about the same to slightly larger and North Dakota will show a big slump. The Montana acreage will make up for the loss in North Dakota.

Supplies of linseed in the interior are small but there is no dearth of seed for seeding purposes. The early shortage was overestimated. This was due to the fact that the acreage seeded in Eastern North Dakota will not be as large as had been expected. Seed put into the ground was not as good as crushers had hoped for. Linseed sowing in Southern Minnesota is almost completed but only a small area in other states has been under seed. The acreage in Manitoba will be slightly larger to unchanged, larger in Saskatchewan and greatly increased in Alberta. It is too early to tell as to the percentage of increase. The recent moisture will greatly improve soil conditions.

Crushers are not in the market. On the contrary they have been selling some seed which was of poor quality, as most seed coming to Northwestern markets is, and have been taking a big profit on their sales. They have preferred to take chances of obtaining oil abroad. Buying continues on a hand-to-mouth basis in the oil trade. There will be no effort to make contracts for fall delivery until the fate of the coming crop is fairly well determined. Neither buyer nor seller is anxious to make contracts upon an uncertainty.

The September option is quoted at an unwarrantable discount under the May and July. The quotation is nominal and does not represent market conditions nor the attitude of anybody as few people have any attitude to speak of at this period of the year.

Cables today to the writer said that linseed sowing has been started in the valley of the Vistula river, Russia, and that conditions are not especially favorable as there has been an absence of moisture. Seeding will quickly extend eastward until the middle linseed belt has been sown. Seeding of the northern belt will follow. Rain in the southwest, said a cable, have been favorable for the newly sown of linseed, some of which is above ground. It suffered from absence of moisture but the late rains appear to have been highly beneficial.

The foreign linseed oil market is purely technical. Many shorts are willing to cover nearby options and crushers are taking advantage of this circumstance to feed out oil. Foreign countries have realized considerable oil in the continental markets and crushers are now fairly liberal sellers, compared with the amount of oil they have to sell. The seed market abroad is quiet and is restricted almost entirely to parcels afloat. India is slightly more urgent. The Buenos Ayres market displays considerable firmness. Sellers of linseed cake are getting nervous and the market is weaker and threatens to topple. The volume of business is comparatively small. The demand for spot cake is limited and is not sufficient to care for offerings. Cattle are being driven to the field and the demand for cake is shrinking.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Closing wheat cables: Paris, ½c lower; flour, ½c to 1¼c lower. Liverpool, ¼d up to ½d off; corn, ¾d up. Antwerp, ⅝c lower. Budapest, ⅝c higher.

E. F. Richards of John T. Fahey & Co., grain merchants and exporters of Baltimore, was the guest today of F. S. Lindahl. Mr. Richards says Eastern exporters of wheat did considerable business until they got to a point where no more grain could be secured from Chicago. He thinks export business will reappear late in the summer, believing that France and Germany will become moderate buyers of our wheat.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The market opened easy and ¼d to ⅜d lower with the principal weakness in the near months in sympathy with the decline in America and the weakness in Winnipeg together with the decline in Buenos Ayres yesterday. Following the opening: May shorts covered freely together with speculative shorts in July and the market became firm wit han advance of ⅝d to ½d with offers light due to light arrivals here and the unexpected heavy decrease in the European visible and the corresponding decrease in the world's visible as shown by Bradstreets yesterday. The support in the distant months was attributed to sympathy and on rumors of continued dry weather in Southeastern Europe and revival of Continental demand. At 1:30 p. m. the market was firm and ⅝d to ½d higher than the opening and ¼d lower than yesterday.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Up as Rain Was Not as General as Expected.

Chicago, May 10.—Because the weather map today failed to show that the rains in the spring wheat section were as general as previously supposed the market here took an upward swing. Relatively little moisture appeared to have fallen except in Eastern North Dakota and Northern Minnesota. The effect of the big decrease in the world's stock continued as a factor on the bull side. Opening prices were ¼c up to ¼c off. July started at 86⅜@86⅞c, the same as last night to ⅛c lower, and then advanced to 87⅛@87¼c, aided by reports of excessively dry weather in Southern Europe.

High temperatures and hot winds in the Southwest added to the feeling of strength. More rain northwest led to a temporary setback. The close, however, was firm with July ¾@⅞c net higher at 87⅝@87¾c.

Fair buying put up the prices of corn. The incentive was an advance at Liverpool due to fewer offerings from the Danube. July opened a shade to ¼c higher at 51½c to 51⅝@51¾c, and rose to 51¾@52c.

Lively covering by shorts pushed the market still higher. A reaction followed on account of larger sales from the country, but the close was firm at 52⅜c for July, ⅞@1c above last night.

Not many traders seemed disposed to sell oats. Accordingly, the market developed strength in sympathy with corn and wheat. July started ⅛c dearer at 32c, and ascended to 32¼@32⅜c.

Provisions dragged lower for lack of demand. For a considerable time, there were no sales whatever of pork or ribs. First transactions in lard indicated a decline of a shade to 2½c with July at $8.02½ and tending downward.

Oversold Condition Forces an Advance in Wheat.

Local elevator stocks of wheat decreased 275,000 bu for four days. Minneapolis today rectived 95 cars of wheat against 77 a year ago; Duluth, 32 against 42 and Winnipeg 84 against 165. DECLINES IN STOCKS

Wavering Tendency Is Again Shown and Tone Somewhat Heavier.

Trading Restricted in View of Possible Supreme Court Decisions.

New York, May 10.—A moderate degree of strength developed at the opening of the stock market today. Fluctuations, although uniformly small, represented gains for most of the prominent issues. New York, New Haven & Hartford lost ½ in response to yesterday's reduction of the dividend rate of the Boston & Maine.

There was not enough demand to maintain prices long at the opening level and the list went off to below yesterday's closing, with Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper showing the most heaviness of the active stocks. Metal stocks generally were weak, Bethlehem Steel and Republic Steel yielding a point. America Car also lost 1. New Haven gave way 2¾ and the subscription receipts 3¾. Several specialties were notably strong. Erie first preferred gained 1 and Associated Oil 3 points. The tone of the list was a trifle better at 11 o'clock.

The wavering tendency of the stock market in the last few days characterized trading again this morning and the tone was somewhat heavier. Poor support was offered and prices fell off slowly, although the business was slight. Reduction of the dividend rate of Vandalia railroad, following similar action by the Boston & Maine, discouraged bullish sentiment, and almost the only gains were made by obscure specialties which responded to special influences. Prices were nearly motionless during the second hour's trading and there seemed to be a more general tendency to restrict trading in view of the possibility that decisions will be rendered on Monday by the supreme court in the anti-trust cases. American Snuff sold at 300, compared with 280 the preceding sale in February last. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. When offerings slackened the market stopped going down, but no serious effort was made to put prices, and the list hung into a low point. Some of the stronger features lost about all their advance especially Erie first preferred.

250 FIRE-ESCAPES CALLED FOR BY BUILDING INSPECTOR

Inspection Shows General Disregard of City's Building Ordinance.

The dangerous and unprotected condition of buildings in Duluth relative to fire safety devices is shown by the investigation which has just been completed by the fire department officials and deputies of the building inspector's office.

The examination was devoted almost exclusively to the necessity for fire escapes, and the list which has been compiled indicates that in case of serious conflagration the lives of many persons, in the different buildings, would be jeopardized.

Other examinations, particularly of hotels and lodging houses, have disclosed the startling fact that scarcely any of them were equipped with the devices called for by the ordinance, such as bells, signs and lights.

The recent investigation will result in nearly 250 fire escapes being ordered installed. In some places several escapes will be ordered and in others only one is deemed necessary. More than 100 buildings are affected. These include apartment houses, flats, office buildings and boarding houses, scattered through the central part of the city, the East end and the West end.

Among the larger buildings on which escapes were considered necessary, with the number required, are: The New Jersey building, 2 on the rear; Manger terrace, 4 on the rear; First National Bank building, 1 on the avenue and 1 on the rear; 20 to 26 West Third street, 3; 1416 to 1420 East Superior street, 3; Ingall's block, 1 on front and 1 on rear; Axa block, 1; Palladio building, 1 on front and 1 on rear; Park terrace, 3 on rear and 1 on First street; Torrey building, 1 on rear; 702 to 708 West Second street, 3 on rear; Mesaba flats, 1 on front; Manhattan building, 2 on rear; 1820 to 1828 West Second street, 3 on rear; American Exchange building, 1 on avenue and 1 on rear; 514 to 518 East First street, 3 on rear; Fitger Brewing company, 2; 1812 to 1814 Jefferson street, 2 on rear; Armory, 3; Marshall-Wells buildings, 6; Gowan-Peyton-Congdon company, 2; Kelly-How-Thomson company, 1; Duluth Brewing & Malting company, 2, and Chester terrace, 8.

Notices to install the fire escapes will probably be sent out immediately by the building inspector's office, and after the expiration of a reasonable time a reinspection will be made to ascertain which have and which have not complied with the provisions of the ordinance.

STREET WILL BE GRADED

Hillside Extension of Street Railway This Year Is Assured.

Concrete Culvert Will Be Built on Sixth Avenue East.

When the board of public works has awarded the contract for the construction of a concrete culvert over Brewery creek on Sixth avenue east between Sixth and Seventh streets, the last serious obstacle to the proposed Second ward street railway extension will have been removed.

The residents along Ninth street between Seventh and Fourteenth avenues east have secured practically enough signatures to insure the improvement this season. The street will be graded, graveled and guttered, and there seems to be no doubt but that the street car tracks will be laid along it.

The street railway company has expressed its willingness to make the extension this year if the streets are in such condition as to make it feasible. The section along the hillside has been settling rapidly the last two years, and considerable building is going on in that vicinity at the present time. It is stated that the extension will be a paying proposition from the start, as hundreds of people will take advantage of the opportunity to use the street cars in going to and from the city. The extension will also aid the building up of that section.

After the culvert has been put in Sixth avenue east the gulch will be brought to grade. Most of the filling can be done by contractors who are excavating in that neighborhood. They will be glad of the opportunity to dump earth there. It will give them a short haul and save them time and money. Last year a considerable fill was made in Sixth avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets in this manner.

As now proposed the extension will start at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street, running on Fifth avenue east to Fifth street, on Fifth street to Sixth avenue east, up Sixth avenue east to Seventh street, on Seventh street to Seventh avenue east, up Seventh avenue east to Ninth street, and on Ninth street to Fourteenth avenue east. Eventually it is stated that this line will connect with a rural line running out into the country, at least as far as the poor farm.

WOODSMAN GETS HIS MONEY BACK.

Ole Dahlberg, the woodsman whom a Superior street auctioneer tried to flimflam when he came to the city yesterday, got his money back late in the afternoon when he appeared with a patrolman.

The man who was shouting his wares to a crowd in the store picked Ole for an "easy mark," but he missed his guess. He sold him a 15-jewel Waltham watch for $5, but when he tried to wrap up a cheap watch in its place, Ole wouldn't stand for it. He demanded the Waltham watch. The auctioneer wouldn't give it to him, and also refused to give him back his $5 bill. When Ole came back with the cop he asked him why he ran away without getting his money. He was so flustered that in the next breath he claimed that Ole had paid $5 on the watch, although it had been bought at an auction sale. But he produced the "v" without haggling over preliminaries, either seeing the "blood" in Ole's eye or fearing the majesty of the law in the person of the helmeted policeman. Ole spent the day visiting friends, of whom he has many in the city, and returned to his home at Gowan last night.

RAILROADS

MANISTIQUE ROAD LIKELY TO BE SOLD

Three Companies May Buy Road From Alger-Smith Interests.

Seney, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — Negotiations are in progress, as a result of which it is expected that the Manistique railway will be taken over by a corporation in which the Western Land Securities company of St. Paul, the Escanaba Lumber company of Masonville and Cook, Curtis & Miller of Grand Marais will be interested. The railroad is controlled by the Alger-Smith interests of Detroit and has not been operated for a number of months, much to the disadvantage of Grand Marais and other towns along the line. It had not been a money maker for several years, it is stated.

The Western Land Securities company is the concern which recently has started the work of reclaiming large areas of swamp lands in the country tributary to Seney. Cook, Curtis & Miller own a large sawmill at Grand Marais, as well as upwards of 120,000 acres of timber land some forty or fifty miles distant from that village, and which is traversed by the Manistique railway.

The Escanaba Lumber company is the owner of that part of the Manistique road, extending south from Seney to Wilman, a distance of twenty miles, it having purchased this portion of the property last fall.

The Escanaba company owns a logging railroad running northerly from Pryan on the Soo Line to a point within two and one-half miles of Wilman, and it is now building a link which will connect the two lines.

All three companies thus are greatly interested in having the Manistique railway in commission again, and as it is understood the Alger-Smith interests have offered to dispose of the property at a low figure it is stated semi-officially that in all probability the deal will be closed.

LAUDS NEW COAST LINE.

Milwaukee Road Official Praises Scenery Along Route.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10.—W. H. Dodsworth, general agent at Milwaukee of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, has returned from a two weeks' tour of inspection of the road's new extension to the Pacific coast. Mr. Dodsworth traveled in a special train with a party of traffic agents of the company.

"The extension is in fine running order and if I do say it, it is the greatest railroad in the world," said Mr. Dodsworth. "The scenery is the grandest in this country; the roadbed and equipment are unsurpassed, and the country through which it passes is as rich and thriving as you will find anywhere."

Mr. Dodsworth said that business is quiet in the large Western cities, but crops are promising well and the lumbering industry is rapidly assuming a more favorable aspect.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HOSPITAL BOARD.

At the annual meeting of the St. Luke's hospital directorate last night officers were elected as follows: Dr. A. W. Ryan, president; Henry Taylor, secretary-treasurer; directors for three years, Mrs. F. W. Paine and R. B. Knox.

In the last six months the number of patients given treatment at the hospital was the largest in any similar period and was about twice the number attended in the previous six months. The expenses of the hospital in the last year were $46,000.

CANADIAN MEN VISIT DULUTH.

Louis Walsh, a former Duluthian and now of the Walsh Coal company at Port Arthur, who was a visitor in Duluth yesterday, is decidedly optimistic as to the welfare of the Canadian city.

He states that it occupies the same strategic position relative to Canada as Duluth does to the Northwest from a transportation standpoint. Other Canadian visitors yesterday were John W. Wolvin and R. H. Flaherty. Mr. Wolvin used to make Duluth his home and is now in the vessel business at Port Arthur, while Mr. Flaherty is a well known mining engineer with Mackenzie & Mann.

Winona to Have Lid.

Winona, Minn., May 10.—An order from Mayor Schroth, who was recently elected over W. E. Hamilton, a reform candidate, to the chief of police is that the gambling and liquor laws of the city and state must be obeyed. This order means that there shall be no saloons open on Sunday, nor shall there be any liquor sold after 11 o'clock at night.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Break From Guard in Soo Jail and Make Getaway.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Arnold, awaiting trial for robbery, and Louis Pineau, serving time for larceny in the county jail here, made a getaway from the corridor of the jail while the guard's back was turned, early this morning, and succeeded in making their escape from the building. Officers are scouring the country for the prisoners.

Finds Big Mud Turtle.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Lavigne on Sunday found a mud turtle that weighs thirty-five pounds in Charlonneau lake, south of the city. The turtle is on exhibition in one of the display windows of a mercantile company's store.

DEFENSE IN THE DIETZ TRIAL RESTS, NONE OF FAMILY TESTIFYING

Rebuttal on Both Sides Is Expected to Be Very Brief.

Unless Judge's Charge Is Lengthy, Jury Will Soon Retire.

Subpoena Issued for Hines, But He Leaves Town Before Service.

Hayward, Wis., May 11.—The defense in the Dietz murder trial rested its case just before the noon hour today. Neither John Dietz, Mrs. Dietz nor Leslie took the stand. Rebuttal on both sides is expected to be brief and unless a lengthy charge from Judge A. Reid prevents, it is possible the case will go to the jury tonight.

John Dietz sprang a surprise on the court and prosecution when he asked this morning at the opening of court that Edward Hines, president of the Hines Lumber company of Chicago, be called as a witness. Hines, who is a business associate of Frederick Weyerhaeuser, came to town Tuesday on business and was supposed to be here still. Dietz explained to the court, in arguing for the subpoena, that he wanted to ask Mr. Hines if the peace emissaries who came to him before the assault on the cabin Oct. 5 last, were sent by the "lumber trust."

Subpoena For Hines.

Hayward, Wis., May 11.—Edward Hines, president of the Hines Lumber company, recently an important figure in the Lorimer investigation at Springfield, Ill., was subpoenaed as a witness in the trial of the three members of the Dietz family charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp.

The subpoena for Mr. Hines was not issued until John Dietz had argued with the court the necessity of calling Mr. Hines.

When court opened Dietz formally asked the court to call Mr. Hines.

Judge Reid said he could not see any fact to which Mr. Hines could testify.

Dietz replied that he wanted to question Hines as to whether W. E. Moses and G. W. Froelich of St. Paul, who came to see Dietz about his troubles with the lumber company, came with authority from Weyerhaeuser and the lumber interests.

The court decided that the men had said nothing about that on the witness stand.

Finally after his son, Leslie, and Mrs. Dietz had prompted him, Dietz said

GREENLAND, MICH., WOMAN ACCUSED OF POISONING.

Greenland, Mich., May 11.—The coroner's jury which for three days has been inquiring into the death, on March 26, of Charles F. Stannard of Greenland, has returned a verdict that "Charles F. Mrs. Stannard is confined to her home, suffering from a nervous breakdown.

PREPARING FOR BATTLE

Republican Leaders in Senate Divided on President Pro Tem.

All But Four of Progressives Said to Be for Senator Clapp.

Washington, May 11.—Republican leaders of the regular and progressive factions were in battle array early today, preparing for a test of strength over the selection of a president pro tempore to succeed Senator Frye, who has resigned.

It was announced that all but four of the progressives would vote for Senator Clapp and against Senator Gallinger, the choice of the regulars. The choice of the Democrats was Senator Bacon, and it was evident that if all forces held firm there could be no election today.

A preliminary informal canvass based upon the full strength of the senate gave Gallinger 41 votes, Clapp 9 and Bacon, Democrat, 41. It was known, however, that there would be a number of absentees recorded.

The direct election of senators was the unfinished business in the senate, and will be pressed by Senator Borah, having the resolution in charge.

When the house resumes its sittings tomorrow there will be submitted the report of the committee on territories recommending statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, after the people of the territories have voted on proposed constitutional amendments. Adjournment until Monday then will be taken, and statehood will be called up Tuesday to be debated three days. The minority membership of the committee will submit a report urging that New Mexico be admitted without the requirement of voting on an amendment.

LAPORTE IS FIRE-SWEPT

Business Section of Minnesota Village Practically Wiped Out.

Seven Buildings Burned With Loss of From $25,000 to $30,000.

Walker, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The small village of Laporte, twelve miles west of here, was practically wiped out by fire early this morning. Seven buildings in the business section of the village were destroyed, involving a loss of $25,000 or $30,000, partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known. It did not start from forest fires, as the rains have extinguished all such fires. There was no loss of life.

The fire started about 2:30 a. m. in the general store of Andrew Gohres and spread rapidly, the place of origin and six other establishments on both sides of the main street being consumed, including the building of the State Bank of Laporte. The vaults in the latter saved the money and other valuables.

The heaviest loser is Henry Drummond, hotelkeeper, who lost about $10,000 on his hotel and contents and has $3,000 insurance. Gohres' loss was about $5,000 with $3,000 insurance. Several other smaller establishments were also wiped out.

The village is practically without food and nearly all the inhabitants came here this morning for supplies. The last census gave Laporte a population of 150, but it probably has about 500 population.

The Losers.

Among the probable losers in the business district which was completely obliberated are: H. Brummond, general store; C. J. Carlson, restaurant; Charles E. Crandall, real estate; John Eliason, ore drills; First State Bank of La Porte G. K. Gladen & Son, sawmill; Anton Jones, saloon; C. T. Kelley & Son, publishers of La Porte Weekly News; La Porte Land & Development company; Larson & Hendrickson sawmill; L. J. Miles, blacksmith; John Moberg, logger; Robinson & Dick, loggers; John C. Stuart, livery; W. J. Turner, meat market.

Two Cars to Start Out From Hatcheries to Serve All.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two cars will start out from Minnesota fish hatcheries next week, distributing pike among the various lakes. The game and fish commission has more for distribution this year than last. On Monday a car will leave the St. Paul hatchery for a trip over the Duluth short line of the Northern Pacific. Tuesday a car will go out over the Great Northern as far as Benson. Wednesday a car will go as far as Crookston, and Thursday to Fergus Falls. The latter part of the week cars of pike will be sent from the Glenwood hatchery. The pike are available for all who apply.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.) — Attorney General George T. Simpson yesterday afternoon gave to the clerk of the federal court in St. Paul, check for $5,548.15 to pay costs of the appeal of the famous Minnesota rate cases to the United States supreme court. This is one of the biggest fees of the kind ever paid in the Northwest.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE OWNERSHIP OF RICH COAL LANDS

Appeal Against Quashing of "Stracey Group" Indictment Is Docketed.

Government Charges Conspiracy to Secure 6,000 Acres of Alaska Lands.

Indictment Quashed By Lower Federal Court and Appeal Taken.

Washington, May 11.—The fight over probably the richest coal lands in the world was transferred today to the supreme court of the United States when the government docketed an appeal from the order of the federal court of Washington quashing the so-called "Stracey group" indictment.

Judge Hanford of the lower court quashed the indictment on the ground that under his interpretation of the coal land laws applicable to Alaska, the indictment had not stated an offense. The appeal from the decision will bring before the supreme court the determination of the law under which Alaskan coal land may be entered and sold.

The appeal today involves the indictments against Charles F. Munday, an attorney of Seattle, Wash., and Archie W. Shiels, employed by Algernon Stracey. It does not include those against Earl E. Siegley, formerly sec-

FIVE DEAD IN COLLIERY FIRE

Disastrous Blaze Occurs in the Mine at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 11.—The bodies of five men, suffocated by smoke from a fire in the Boston colliery of the Delaware & Hudson company at Larksville, near here, were found today.

The government rescue corps rescued several miners who had been overcome by smoke from certain death.

A strike began at the colliery on Tuesday and consequently only a small number of men were at work. Had the full force been engaged the loss of life would have been appalling.

Fire broke out early last night in a section of the mine where rock miners were employed, but it is said to have been gotten under control without difficulty.

Eleven men were at work in that section. All the employes in the inside workings made their way from a side vein to the main gangway, but the smoke had become so dense that nearly all were overcome.

Several rescue parties at the risk of their lives then entered the workings and succeeded in taking out three men. The rescuers returning to the gangway stumbled over bodies of the dead. The latter were brought out as quickly as possible. Several of the rescuers were overcome by the smoke and one of them was prostrated. He was rescued by a fourth rescuing party.

CROOKSTON GETS SNOW AND RAIN

Eastern Part of North Dakota Also Enjoys Plenty of Moisture.

Crookston, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An all night's drizzle was followed this morning by a heavy snow, which is still in progress.

The precipitation the past two days is causing a steady rise in the river.

The fields are well soaked but there is no standing water. Crop conditions are ideal.

More North Dakota Rain.

Fargo, N. D., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy showers fell last night over the eastern half of North Dakota. There was less in the western counties. All over the Red river valley the precipitation was about three-quarters of an inch, making an inch and a half so far this month. Gardeners fear frosts tonight, but unless the temperature goes extremely low there will be no damage to growing grain.

INSURRECTOS WILL HOLD JUAREZ AND SEND OUT TROOPS TO MEET FEDERALS AWAY FROM THE CITY

Gen. Rabago Is Marching North With a Large Army of Regulars.

Generals Madero and Navarro Spend Night in the Same House.

Some Friction Arises Over Allowing Persons to Cross Border.

Juarez, Mex., May 11.—The insurrectos announced their determination today not only to hold the captured city of Juarez against any attack by Mexican government troops, but to prevent a fight in this vicinity if possible. Plans were laid at the insurrecto headquarters today for a force of several hundred men to march south to meet Gen. Rabago, the federal leader, who is reported to be on his way here from Chihuahua with a good-sized army. The rebels already have about 300 men at Casas Grandes, and probably will open fire on Rabago when he arrives there. It is not known what chief will be sent south from Juarez.

The city was quiet today for the first time in several days. The inhabitants slept peacefully in their homes, while insurrecto sentries stood guard.

Gen. Navarro, the captured federal head, who was paroled with his officers last night, spent the night in the same house with Gen. Francisco I. Madero, Jr., head of the triumphant rebels. Though the federal commander now has been given the liberty of the city, he does not deem it safe to be seen much about town, because there are said to be several insurrectos who cherished a grudge against him for alleged bayoneting of the wounded in other battles of the revolution.

Must Not Harm Federals.

Rebel officers, however, have given strict orders not to harm any of the paroled federals and from the disci-

Mother and Daughter Lose Lives Near Carver, Minn.

Carver, Minn., May 11.—Mrs. Andrew Larson, aged 56, and her daughter, Alva, aged 19, were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning while they were planting corn in the field Tuesday. The husband and father was at work in the same field not far distant, but was uninjured.

There was no rain and no other sign of electrical disturbance, the bolt falling, apparently, from a small, dark cloud.

INTRICATE QUESTIONS

Concerning Conditions at the Border Confront American Government.

Col. Steever, in Command at El Paso, Is Awaiting Instructions.

Washington, May 11.—The departments of state, war, treasury and justice were considering today what restraint, if any, shall be placed upon commerce between this country and Juarez, the newly established capital of the provisional government of Mexico. Col. Steever, commanding the American troops at El Paso, and the customs officials there are awaiting instructions on the point.

The course that is being pursued pending a determination of the intricate questions, is described by Col. Steever, commanding the American troops at El Paso, in the following telegram to the war department: "I am refusing to allow arms, ammunition, war materials and provisions for insurrectos to be carried across the international bridges until I receive instructions to the contrary. I make

TWO CARS ROLL INTO THE RIVER

Two Persons Killed, Twenty-Five Injured in Wreck in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., May 11.—Two killed and at least twenty-five injured, several seriously, comprise the casualties resulting from the derailment of the westbound Denver & Rio Grande passenger train which occurred last night near Minturn, thirty miles west of Leadville, according to reports at railroad headquarters here today. While reports to railroad headquarters contain the name of only one woman dead, authentic information from other sources state the body of an unidentified child has been taken from the debris.

The rails gave way after the engine and baggage car had passed and the weight of the heavy Pullmans caused the day coach and tourist sleeper to buckle and roll down the fifteen-foot embankment into the Eagle river.

GERMAN AVIATOR LOSES HIS LIFE

Herr Bekemuller Crashes Into Building and Falls to Ground.

Berlin, May 11.—Herr Bekemuller, an aviation pupil, was killed today, when his aeroplane crashed against a building that had been hidden from the view of the pilot by a heavy, early morning mist.

The aviator had been maneuvering in the military field at Johannisthal and unconsciously flew over the enclosing fence and had no time to save himself when the building suddenly loomed ahead. The machine was wrecked.

RATES ARE EXCESSIVE

Charges Are Made Against Tariff on Wool, Hides and Pelts.

Interstate Commerce Commission Orders Thorough Investigation.

Washington, May 11.—A comprehensive investigation of alleged unreasonable freight rates on wool, hides and pelts from Western points of origin to Eastern destinations was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The inquiry will affect wool, hides and pelts rates through the country.

The investigation, instituted on the commissioner's own initiative, developed from complaints filed by the National Wool Growers' association and the Oregon railroad commission against Western carriers, alleging that existing rates on wool, hides and pelts were excessive, exorbitant and discriminatory.

When the commission decided what are known as the "Pacific coast cases," it declined, because of lack of evidence, to pass upon the reasonableness of the wool rates, but reserved them for future disposition.

The inquiry ordered is general in scope, the points of origin being in the states west of the Mississippi river, and in Illinois and the destinations being all wool and hide centers east of the Missouri river to the Atlantic coast. It will include an investigation of the tariffs of several hundred railroads, particularly those of the transcontinental carriers.

The result of the investigation as indicated by the order, will be the issuance of a mandate of the commission fixing reasonable rates on the three commodities.

No date yet has been set for the beginning of the inquiry.

DULUTH BOYS MAKE A "GLIDER" AND ASPIRE TO BECOME AVIATORS

STEPHEN McGIFFERT, RALPH DUNNING AND THEIR GLIDER.

Stephen McGiffert and Ralph Dunning were three months making this "glider." Although they worked at it every spare moment out of school hours, they had to rush and work late at night to get it done in time for the exhibition of boy's hobbies which took place at the boys' department Y. M. C. A. last week.

The machine is of no particular model. Parts of it were copied from one man's idea and other parts from others. It is 15 feet long by 12 feet wide and is strongly built.

These two boys have been interested in aviation for some time. They have kept close watch of those who fly and each improvement on the machines is talked over as soon as it is made known.

Last winter the boys decided to make a glider of their own and to try it. Work was begun at Stephen McGiffert's house at Sixth street and Woodland avenue and the finished product is shown in the picture.

It will have to have some more braces and be strengthened in the joints before at attempt is made to fly but with these improvements completed, the boys soon hope to try out their machine.

The car is too light for a motor. They think, however, that they can take it to the top of a steep hill behind the city and try it out gliding down. If it acts well they will build one on a larger model and install a motor in it.

STORE MANAGERS ENJOY BANQUET

Heads of Panton & White Establishment Discuss Business Problems.

Managers and department officers of the Panton & White store enjoyed an informal dinner and entertainment in the tea rooms of that establishment, Superior street and Second avenue west, last evening.

Scientific management includes within its scope cordial relations between department heads of large institutions. When the individual machinery is operated smoothly the entire system is conducted efficiently. To enable the department heads to exchange ideas and to get better acquainted with each other, last evening's affair was given. Tables were arranged in the form of a Maltese cross and were decorated with maiden hair ferns and foliage. An elaborate dinner was served, John Panton, president of the company, acted as toastmaster. He gave an interesting and instructive discussion of the relationship of a large department store to the public, store service, the improvement of the store's efficiency, the chief characteristics and the fundamental basis of salesmanship. He placed particular stress upon the relationship of the individual in the store to the individual customer.

The managers of departments spoke on subjects of especial interest to them and their associates.

The informal program which followed included readings by Miss Stegge, songs in Scotch dialect by P. G. Brown, flute solos by I. Nicolatti and jokes and funny stories by Norman Patton.

The conference was the first of a series which will be continued indefinitely. They will be given at regular intervals and will be an integral part of the store life of Panton & White's.

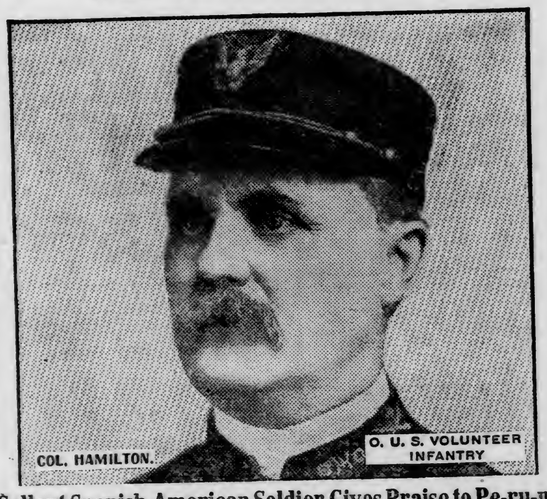
Two electric motors and a portion of the light line conducting light to Polson were also destroyed, leaving the city without lights.

COL. HAMILTON

His Experience in the Army as Well as in His Home.



COL. HAMILTON. O. U. S. VOLUNTEER INFANTRY

Gallant Spanish-American Soldier Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na

Col. Arthur L. Hamilton, of the Seventh Ohio Volunteers, writes as follows:

"I have used Peruna myself and in my family for the last seven years. I have already written you about the good results I experienced with your remedy during the Spanish-American War.

"My command used your Peruna during our service in the Spanish-American War, and I will say this, that if the War Department records are consulted, it will be found that the casualties in my regiment were less than in any other regiment of the Army Corps while at Camps Alger, Meade and Bushnell. The total deaths in my regiment during the seven months' service, were seven out of a total number of 1400. I, of course, cannot help but think that Peruna certainly was a great benefit to my command."

Mr. Samuel McKinley, 1215 Grand Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I can honestly say I owe my life to Peruna.

"Traveling from town to town, having to go into all kinds of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while plying my trade as auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently. Last December I contracted a severe case, which, through neglect on my part, settled on my lungs. When almost too late I began doctoring, but without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me, so I cannot praise it too highly."

Mr. W. J. Harper, Lehigh, Cleveland Co., Arkansas, writes: "I do not know how to express my thanks to you for the good you have done me in treating me for catarrh.

"I was a great sufferer from the effect of chronic catarrh of the head and nose. I was continually hawking and spitting, and I had entirely lost my sense of smell. I had tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good.

"At last I tried Peruna as a last resort, and I am thankful to say that after using ten bottles of Peruna I am once more well of catarrh of the head and nose."

BABIES AS PLAYTHINGS

Many People View Them as Puppies or Kittens, Says Jager.

State School Finds Home for One Child a Day.

"Thousands of people in Minnesota are looking for babies to adopt; some of them want a baby for the same reason that they want a kitten or a puppy; others want a child to make a slave of it; others want a child because they love children and want to give them fair treatment."

H. J. Jager, who acts as father to about 1,600 children in Minnesota, made the above statement today. Hr. Jager, who is field agent for the state school at Owatonna for homeless children, is in the city today. The school has about 1,600 children placed in private homes throughout the state, and it is Mr. Jager's duty to visit them and see that they are fairly treated. There are four agents engaged in this work, three men and a woman and they each have a district, but their districts are changed after they have gone over them once, so that each agent visits every child under the guardianship of the school, and four reports are sent in on each child.

"We turn down about 53 per cent of the applications we get for children," said Mr. Jager. "Every application is investigated. Many people seem to want a child simply as a plaything, like a puppy or a kitten, and have no sense of responsibility. Others want the child to slave for them. Then there are the many good hearted people who really intend to bring the child up to the best of their ability.

"We send out from the home, on the average, about one child a day, and we keep watch over the child until it is 18 years of age.

"I am sorry that the state legislature did not go farther in the regulation of baby farms in this state. We have met with many instances where families were refused children at the state home because of immoral conditions in their home, and have later gone to these baby farms and secured children. In some instances we have had these children taken away from them, but a closer watch should be kept on them, and we have no means of doing it."

Green Room Gossip.

Increased interest is being taken by the women of Duluth in the farewell stage reception that will be given as a testimonial of appreciation to Miss Maude Leone, on the stage of the Lyceum theater, at the close of the matinee, Saturday afternoon.

A passage way will be made across the big Lyceum stage by opening the stage doors at both sides of the stage and allowing the members of the audience to come on the stage and say goodbye to Miss Leone, who will leave for the Pacific coast after the performance of Saturday evening.

Since the announcement that Miss Leone was to say goodbye to Duluth, she has been the recipient of many little notes and some floral offerings from her large number of personal friends. Saturday afternoon will be the opportunity for many of her friends to bid her goodbye, and many admirers to meet the actress who has made her home here for so long.

"I was playing with John McCullough the night he went crazy in McVicker's theater in Chicago" said Porter J. White, who is at the Orpheum this week, in the featured sketch "The Visitor."

"That was a notable company he had. I had merely a minor part in Joseph Haworth. It was in the forum scene of 'The Gladiator.' He had been acting queerly all evening, and in this scene the audience began to hiss him, thinking he was drunk. He stopped the performance and the curtain was rung down. Then he stepped out in front of the curtain and made the last speech he ever made in public. 'You are the best audience I ever played to' he said. 'If you felt like I do tonight you wouldn't laugh and hiss at me.'

"That was his last appearance in public. He lost his mind completely and died about two years later. He was one of the biggest hearted men that ever lived, and I never felt so sorry for a man in my life as I did that night in McVicker's.

Murry Livingston, who appears at the Empress this week in the playlet of East side life, "The Man From Italy," is unique in one respect. Although decidedly not an Italian, he gives a remarkable presentation of the role of an Italian vendor of statues, and his dialect is a treat. An enterprising press agent once wrote a long and detailed story attributing Mr. Livingston's success in the role to the fact that he had lived for months among the Italians on the East side to acquire a perfect dialect. The story read well, but it did not please Mr. Livingston, who stated that his model for the role was an Italian vendor of statues, who used to come to his office, when Mr. Livingston was engaged in business in New York, and so taken was he, with the Italian's gentility and humor that he bought an article from him daily solely for the purpose of hearing the Italian talk. When the stage fever again possessed Mr. Livingston, he having gone from the footlights to the commercial life and he returned to enter vaudeville, he had the play especially written and embodied the character in it. Today the self same vendor of statues whom Mr. Livingston impersonates is plying his trade among offices on lower Broadway.

OLD-TIME JAIL BREAKER AGAIN MAKES HIS GETAWAY.

International Falls, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.) — Robert C. Soucie, employed clearing grounds around the county jail while being held as a prisoner pending the arrival of an officer to take him to Fort Frances, Ont., for jail breaking, got away yesterday and Sheriff Forrer is trying to find him.

This is the fourth time he has broken jail. He made his escape from the Fort Frances jail about six months ago, and from Keewatin and Port Arthur jails also.

He was confined here by the officials, awaiting the necessary papers for deportation to Canada.

The sheriffs of all nearby counties have been notified that he is at large.

Splendid Spring Tonic At Small Cost

(From Martyn's Drug Journal.)

As millions of bottles of various blood medicines and liver regulators are taken yearly to tone up the blood, restore vitality and healthy conditions to the body, it will not be amiss for us to repeat the formula of an old-time remedy that has been used with marvelous success.

Dissolve one ounce of kardene in one-half pint alcohol, then add one-half cup sugar and enough hot water to make a quart. The ingredients can be had at any drug store at small cost. One tablespoonful of this tonic taken before each meal will soon correct all disorders of the liver, make the blood clear, and strengthen and build up the system most satisfactorily. For correcting sallow, pimply complexions, and giving one vigor and good health, we have never found a remedy to equal it.

FIRE-FIGHTERS TO GET CHECKS

State Will Disburse $94,700 to 10,000 Persons Who Gave Aid.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Employes in the state treasurer's office today began sending out the first of 10,000 checks due fire fighters in the northern part of the state. A total of $94,700 is to be disbursed in sums ranging from 60 cents to $100. The average is about $9.60.

Bills rendered the state by fire fighters in the woods last year aggregated more than $104,000, but the legislature appropriated only enough to pay 85 cents on the dollar. Checks to residents of Aitkin county are being first sent out. Other counties will be paid in alphabetical order. It will take about three weeks to complete the task.

RECOGNIZES HIS DESCRIPTION

Prisoner Pleads Guilty After Hearing Kind of "Vag" He Is.

Walter Terrell, colored, said he didn't want to plead to the charge of vagrancy when arraigned in police court this morning until he knew what the term meant.

"In your case," said a police officer who was present, "it means a loafer who has hung around for five or six years doing nothing, a good-for-nothing 'dope fiend,' who has lived from the money he has been able to get from prostitutes, or by helping them to rob lumberjacks, and being a general nuisance."

"I'm guilty of the charge, your honor," said the negro after he had learned the kind of a vag he was.

He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, with the alternative of three months in the county jail. Not having the cash he went over the hill to visit until the middle of the summer.

Terrell was arrested with Maud Davis, recently, on the charge of having helped her to rob a woodsman, whom she enticed into a room on Lake avenue. It was charged at the time that Terrell had driven the victim out of the place at the point of a gun when he discovered his loss and demanded his money.

BACK TO HEALTH

RUN DOWN, WORN OUT MEN RESTORED TO HEALTH AND VIGOR

MAN, if you are fatigued, can't rest, can't sleep, and if you are nervous, irritated, and you feel "fagged out" don't you think that there is something wrong with you? If you have worked hard and every brain cell of your cerebrum had to use twice it share of energy, it's sure you have violated the laws of nature-health. If you owe your worn-out and broken-down condition to dissipation, errors of youth and fast living or contagious poisoning, you know very well how badly you are in need of a cure. If you have contracted stricture and bladder trouble, or nervous debility and prostate trouble, through former disease—well known to every man—we can offer you not only relief, but a permanent cure, because we have all and every scientific appliance necessary to cure such diseases.

Rhematism is mostly due to former specific troubles, discharges, etc. It will never yield permanently to anything but scientific methods. Temporary relief you will find in baking oven treatments, but they have proven to be "hot air" after all, which leaves the patient in just as bad condition as he was before. We can offer you a permanent cure which will last a lifetime, and cost you but little money. Many an enlarged prostate gland has caused constipation and stomach trouble, and unless the cause is remedied you may have to contend with these troubles for life.

We have made it our business to study and treat diseases peculiar to men only, we have devoted our lives to this one branch of medical art as completely as a business man devotes his life to his buiness. We are in this business in Duluth for over twenty years and have cured more than 10,000 men.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 9 DULUTH, MAY 11, 1911

DULUTH'S CITY LIGHTING

The history of Electric Street Lighting in Duluth shows that there has been in the last 23 years a steadily improving Service by the Lighting Company, and a steadily declining price to the City.

When the Electric Lighting business was started here in 1888 this City paid $127.50 apiece a year for all its arc lights. In 1893 we reduced the price to $109. In 1897 we reduced it again to $80. In 1901 we lowered the price again to $55. And since 1905, while the price remained nominally the same, this company has furnished enough FREE lights to bring the real price down to $49.

Now the existing contract for the City lighting is about to expire; and Duluth needs more lights than ever before. A city which spreads over so much ground ought to have a great many more lights than Duluth now has. The trouble is that the City Charter limits the fund for all public lighting to one mill on the dollar of the taxable property in Duluth.

The Duluth-Edison Electric Company is ready to do its full share toward providing the City with more light. We offer the City the EXTREMELY LOW price of $45.00 a year for each arc light or its equivalent in incandescent "bunch" lights.

Further, we offer to give the City, FREE of any cost, $1,500 worth of Electric Light in the public buildings and parks. That means 33 more arc lights for her streets than would be possible if Duluth had to pay, as other cities do, for lighting the public buildings.

The City is now paying (to a private lighting plant) $120 each for all the arc lights in New Duluth. Heretofore our distribution lines have not reached that section; but we shall complete an extension to New Duluth in a few days—and, of course, we are willing to provide light there at the same price as in the rest of the city—$45 a year per arc light.

This low rate will mean that for the same amount of money that is now paid for street lighting (including New Duluth) the City can get 93 MORE ARC LIGHTS than are in use now.

Does not this PROVE that we are interested in the upbuilding and the permanent welfare of this City?

We have more to tell you about this. Read the next "Lighting Talk," in next Saturday's Herald.

TWO PLANS FOR FURTHER ACTION

Attorney Healy Makes Report to Senate on Tilden Hearing.

Springfield, Ill., May 11.—In a report made to the senate today, Attorney John J. Healy, who represented the body in the Tilden hearing before Judge Petit in Chicago, points out two plans for further action. One is an appeal to the appellate or supreme court; but under this procedure the reviewing court, Attorney Healy says, could only pass upon the judgment of costs leaving the merits of the matter undecided. The other plan advanced by Mr. Healy is a direct review by writ of error, which in the opinion of Attorney Healy, should be from the supreme court.

Attorney Healy in the course of his review says:

"It is my opinion from an investigation of the legal and other questions involved that the conclusions reached by Judge Petit are erroneous and that he was without lawful authority to discharge the petitioners from the custody of the respondent."

On motion of Senator Helm the consideration of Attorney Healy's report was made a special order for next Tuesday morning.

WANTED TO BUY BOATS.

Towing Company Would Not Pay the Price Asked.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—W. C. Starke of the Milwaukee Tugboat Line company testified today before Special Commissioner B. C. Miller, who is conducting hearings in all lake ports relative to the Great Lakes Towing company, that in 1899 representatives of the Great Lakes Towing company asked whether he was willing to sell his boats. His price was too high, however, and was not accepted.

Other witnesses testified that at that time efforts were made to gain control of the two tug lines in Milwaukee, but failed.

CITIES IN FAVOR; COUNTRY OPPOSED

Arguments for and Against Reciprocity Heard By Committee.

Washington, May 11.—Country and city were arrayed against each other today at the Canadian reciprocity hearing before the senate finance committee. The conflict was sharp. Farmers from Minnesota and North Dakota denounced the agreement as iniquitous, while members of boards of trade from cities along the international boundary endorsed it unqualifiedly. The city representatives were headed by a large delegation mearing badges a foot long inscribed:

"100 per cent strong for reciprocity. Buffalo."

Henry M. Flagg, master of the Minnesota State Grange, told the committee that nothing since the Civil war had so inflamed he farmers of the Northwest as the proposed "iniquitous reciprocity bill."

P. V. Collins, editor of a farm paper in the Northwest, presented a protest signed by 35,000 farmers, 30,000 of whom resided in Minnesota."

BRAGG ACTIVE AT 84.

Famous Wisconsin Soldier-Statesman Still Practices Law.

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 11.—Gen. Edward S. Bragg, Wisconsin's ranking Civil war officer yet living, at 84, is still practicing law. He visits his office frequently, often walking there, and takes up important matters as readily, apparently, as he did a quarter of a century ago.

Commodore F. H. Sherman, U. S. N., retired, the general's son-in-law, died suddenly a few weeks ago, leaving affairs that needed immediate legal attention, and it was natural for his daughter to want her lawyer-soldier father to look after them, as it was natural for the general to want to serve his daughter in her time of great sorrow and distress.

Mrs. Sherman's affairs are among several legal efforts the veteran commander of the Iron brigade has assumed and carried to completion the last month.

Gen. Bragg and Capt. T. K. Kennan of Milwaukee, 85, are the oldest practicing attorneys in Wisconsin.

PEARL FISHERIES OF WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee Wisconsin: Prof. Jonathan Risser, who is the representative of the government fish commission investigating the clam beds of the Rock river region, says there are several distinct species represented, and that they will soon replenish the beds if protected from methods of pearl hunters that would imperil their extinction. Though Prof. Risser acknowledges the beauty and value of the Wisconsin pearls, he says they are so rarely found that on the whole hunting for them does not pay.

Of course, even if the taking of clams were restricted to people who wanted their shells for the button factories, that would not stop the finding of pearls. The finding of two pearls in Wisconsin waters was noted a few days ago—one at Belo.. by a Rockton man who gathers shells for a button factory, the other at La Crosse by a man who uses clams for chicken feed. It is well that the La Crosse man looks over his clams before feeding them to his chickens. Casting pearls before chickens would be as reprehensible as casting them before swine.

COLONISTS ON THE OCEAN

Seventy-Five Dutch People Coming to Settle in Minnesota.

Will Be Located at Onamia By Catholic Colonization Company.

Bound for Onamia, Minn., where 1,000 acres of land have been allotted to them, seventy-five Dutch people—men, women and children—are on a steamer now crossing the Atlantic ocean. They embarked on an eight-day boat at Antwerp last Saturday and are expected to reach the settlement at Onamia next week.

The Catholic Colonization company, which is working along the lines laid down by Bishop James McGolrick for the colonization of vacant lands in Becker, Mille Lac and Hubbard counties, is responsible for the emigration of the Dutch people from their native land. When they arrive at their new home, three acres of land will be already cleared on each tract, and everything will be ready for them to go ahead with the cultivation of the soil. The party which came last year was a little late, but good crops were obtained and the people are satisfied with their venture.

"While people in large numbers are passing through Minnesota into Canada, it is worth while calling attention to the fact that thousands of acres of excellent land await the settler in Becker, Mille Lac and Hubbard counties," said Bishop McGolrick this morning. "These lands are admirably fitted for general farming, dairy work and market gardening. Railroads are at hand and there is a good market for everything the farmer raises."

Although Bishop McGolrick's position in the Catholic church enables him to do most effective colonization among the people of the Catholic faith, it is not his intention to limit the colonization to Catholics. The land is open to everybody, regardless of religious faith, he says, as the colonization of the land is the object of the movement he has started. Another object is to draw people who are fighting a losing battle in the large cities of the state to the country.

The people now on the ocean are in charge of Rev. August Van der Heuvel, pastor of the church at Loretto, Minn., who also conducted the last party of colonists.

Like the Dutch colonists who came last year the people who are now on the ocean are in no sense the ordinary immigrants. They have left Holland because they seek to better themselves and because land holdings in that little country are largely in the hands of people who will not let the land go. The Netherlanders who are coming are possessed of means and have the ambition to be land owners. Knowing of the success of the Dutch colonists who preceded them last year to the United States and who were able to get as much land here, as in Holland, would represent an impossible acquisition for any of them, they are also coming to get their own farms and make them bloom. They are skilled farmers, experienced gardeners, practical dairymen, and they know how to go to work to make the land yield profit and have the money with them to make a good start. They are all prosperous and possessed of ready money.

The plan that originated with Bishop McGolrick, men of experience in immigration say, has brought into Minnesota some of the finest men, women and children, that ever came here to make new homes for themselves, from the standpoint of physical fitness, morality, intelligence and financial responsibility.

SPREADS GOSPEL OF DEVELOPMENT

W. R. Mackenzie Touring Western Counties to Boom June Convention.

W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, is in the western part of the state. He started out to work up interest in the meeting of the association here June 1 and 2. He has found that it isn't necessary to work up interest. It is already there.

Mr. Mackenzie writes that he visited six or eight counties in the Red River valley district and has found the people very enthusiastic over the association and its work. He says that every county he has thus far visited expects to have a complete delegation at the Duluth meeting and, if the interest shown in those counties may be taken as an indication of the feeling in the other counties of the association, the Duluth meeting will be the best attended and the most successful held since the organization was launched.

Mr. Mackenzie will return to Duluth in a few days and will resume his letter bombardment of the people of Northern Minnesota and Southern Minnesota as well. It is believed that many of the representatives in the legislature will accept the invitation extended to them to attend the meeting.

Three weeks remain in which to complete the program and Mr. Mackenzie has progressed so far with the work that he is certain to have an array of brilliant speakers.

Today arrangements were to have been made to place her in some institution for the insane. It is believed that Mrs. Haney learned of this and decided to end her life. Her mind became so deranged that she attacked her mother, previous to taking her own life.

To Build Sanitarium.

Plans for the proposed county sanitarium will be rushed to an early completion as a result of a conference held yesterday at the Douglas county hospital for the insane at Parkland by the board of trustees, Swan Hard, poor commissioner, and Miss Florence Two, social worker for the Public Welfare society. There are funds amounting to about $7,000 now available for starting the work.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGE.

Eight Men Arraigned Before Judge Landis in Chicago.

Chicago, May 11.—George M. Seward, Pierre G. Beach and George A. Ball, indicted with six others, including A. C. Frost, promoter of the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railroad and other enterprises appeared today before Judge K. M. Landis in the United States district court to be arraigned on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government out of more than $10,000,000 worth of Alaskan mining claims.

Pleas to quash the indictments were filed by counsel for all the defendants except Ball, who was given until Monday to plead. The pleas to quash were based on the contention that the government prejudiced the constitutional rights of the defendants by forcing them to produce documents and letters relating to the acts of which they were charged.

SPIRIT CABINET TRICKS.

Indianapolis News: Mr. Maskelyne, of London, the authority on all kinds of sleight-of-hand and in every department of magic, has ever been the unrelenting foe of all claims of the supernatural. He now proposes, for the benefit of the rising generation, to make a clear exposure of many of the humbugs — among which he classes stage spiritualism — which have beforged our fathers and grandfathers. It is said that Maskelyne in his useful life has cured hundreds of the superstitious and saved hundreds more from falling victims to superstition.

America in the past furnished the greater number and the more adroit of spiritualistic wonder workers, among them Slade, the slate writing medium, who set most of the low-browed aristocracy of England wild with his communications from the other world at so much per communication.

London Opinion recalls Ira Erastus and William Henry Davenport, of Buffalo, N. Y., who came to England in 1864. Their first seance in London was given privately at the residence of Dion Boucicault, the dramatist. There were twenty-five persons present, among them that hard-headed Briton, Charles Reade, and several physicists. The London papers were not so wise then as now, nor were the eminent persons who attended this seance, and a writer in the Morning Post declared "it is possible that some new physical force can be engendered at will to account for what appears on the face of it absolutely unaccountable."

Leaving London, the Davenports toured the provinces, where they met with many stormy adventures, as the provincial Englishman, like our own "Man from Missouri," insisted upon being "shown," and in getting the full worth of his money. One of the features of the Davenports' entertainment in England, as in America, was the "cabinet manifestations," which so far as America is concerned have about lost the force as attractions even for Sunday evening audiences.

The writer recalls a cabinet seance of a few years ago at a private residence in South Capitol avenue, where the medium was a woman. The audience, with the exception of two newspaper men, appeared to be composed entirely of believers, and the medium had easy sailing. Faces appeared at the opening in the cabinet which were readily recognized by persons in the audience as those of departed friends, and one young woman fainted when she recognized in one of these materializations with black sidewhiskers a long lost lover. But the avenger was on the track of this woman medium, and a week later when giving a seance out Virginia avenue way, as she was emerging from the cabinet, she appeared to be quite pouter-pigeonlike as to breast. A woman pounced upon her and pulled from her bosom several yards of nun's veiling and other makeup, including the whiskers that had helped in the impersonation of the long lost lover a week before. All this was exposed in the newspapers of that day, and in consequence cabinet seances have never since enjoyed the popularity they possessed at an earlier period.

THE LONGFELLOW HOUSE.

Kennebec Journal: The historic Longfellow house in Portland closed its doors Saturday for the season. The number of visitors the past season far exceeds that of last year and the same thing remains true of this year as of former years: there has been no injury to the house, not a thing has been taken and one is surprised when told that in the ten years in which it has been open to the public, there has been no damage done to any part of the house and furnishings.

PROTEST TO BE OFFERED

Settlers Opposed to Abandonment of Brooks-Scanlon Railroad.

Want Outlet for Their Farm Products Over That Line.

At a hearing to be held at the Spalding hotel Friday morning, May 26, by the state railroad and warehouse commission on a petition of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company for the right-of-way to tear up the rails and abandon the Minnesota & North Wisconsin railroad, a vigorous protest to the granting of the petition will be offered on behalf of the settlers in the district affected.

The Duluth & North Wisconsin railroad runs from Scanlon northeasterly for a distance of about forty miles through the towns of Herman, Canosia, Rice Lake, Normanna and Gnesen, ending in the town of Duluth. It is a rough logging road and has been used exclusively in the transportation of logs and other freight in connection with the lumber company's business. The lumber company's need for it having expired, the company does not want to operate it as a railroad and has petitioned the commission for the right to abandon it.

Although the road is only a logging road, it is at least a railroad with a well-defined right-of-way, and the settlers in the vicinity believe that its operation as a railroad would greatly aid development in the region. They say that although all the large commercial timber has been removed, there is much freight in the way of ties, pulpwood, posts, etc., available for transportation by the road and they would prefer to see a company take it over for operation as a railroad. No regular freight or passenger service has ever been maintained, but the settlers believe the time is ripe for such a service to be established.

A year ago, A. B. Hostetter and George Rupley of the Duluth Commercial club took a census of the country through which the road runs. They found that there are 319 families and 1,451 persons in the district. The settlers own 17,262 acres of land, of which 6,163 acres are cleared. Horses number 425, cattle 1,101 and chickens 12,384. The buildings in the district are valued at $213,000.

In submitting the report of the census to the chairman of the public affairs committee, Mr. Rupley wrote:

"I must say that I was surprised at the amount of development of that region. It should be remembered that these farmers have been disappointed in their hopes of marketing produce owing to lack of transportation, and that these totals, large as they are, represent only what they are doing for self-support. With proper transportation, their output would be greatly and quickly increased, as they have the advantage of starting with over 6,000 acres of cleared land.

"Owing to the remoteness of their other interests, the owners of this road are averse to operating it themselves and prefer to sell.

"From my investigation, I am satisfied that, properly handled, this road would pay operating expenses from the start and in a very few years be a dividend paying property with excellent speculative possibilities ahead of it. It has been considered by several buyers and is now, I think under consideration.

"I had hoped that we might be able to announce to the tributary farmers that they would certainly have transportation for this year's crop, but we are unable to do so. I feel very hopeful that we may do so for the next year.

"An analysis of these figures will show that Duluth has a very valuable asset in that region. The farmers have enough cleared land and capital to make a quick and large expansion when provided with transportation. They are asking no bonus of coddling. All they need or expect is fair transportation and they are willing to pay fair prices for it. In spite of their long deferred hopes they are just as eager to join hands with us now as when they first entered that region."

The farmers are in the same position now as they were a year ago. They still have hopes and they are anxious that the road be not abandoned, in the hope that it will be taken over and adequate means of transportation for their farm products established. The Duluth Commercial club will very likely join in the protest and Duluth people may interest themselves in the formation of a company to take over the road.

Capt. Reid and Wrecking Outfits Leave for Lake Erie Job.

Calumet, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Moreland which was on a reef at Eagle River, Keweenaw Point, was deserted by the wrecking tugs and crews of Captain James Reid of Sarnia, today. The Moreland is not to be given up even though she has settled solid on the reef and is broken in two places. The outfits will be brought back later and the work resumed, it is thought.

COAL SHIPPERS ARE HARD HIT

Low Stage of Water at Soo Prevents Heavy Loading of Boats.

So low is the water at the Soo—and at the present time it is the lowest in history—that it is impossible for the steamers coming through the locks to be loaded at the capacity mark.

Reports from Cleveland indicate that the big 12,000-ton boats are not able to load anywhere near their capacity.

Just at the present time when the coal boats are not as plentiful as they might be, because of the many vessels that are not in the market at the present time, this is working somewhat of a hardship among the shippers.

At the present time the coal carriers are about the only shippers who are seriously affected by the fact that the boats can not load to capacity. There is no rush for ore. Inability to get a load down the lakes is keeping some of the boats at the docks.

Will Change Name.

It was announced today that the name of the steamer Mascotte will be changed to that of the Columbia, when the steamer has been lengthened and thoroughly overhauled. As stated yesterday in The Herald, the Columbia will be placed in service in and out of the Duluth harbor upon her completion some time in June.

BEGIN WORK ON BREAKWATERS.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company which was awarded the contract last winter for constructing two breakwaters at Mackinac Island and making a harbor at that point, is arranging to begin work at once. Dredging outfits left this port and Manitowoc, Wis., today for the island to begin work. Stone for the breakwaters will be taken from the west Neebish cut and two scows are already loading for transportation. Cole S. Wheeler of the U. S. engineers department, Detroit, will have supervision of the work for the government.

CHLORIDE ON THE STREETS

Preparation for Laying Dust Has Appearance of Snow or Salt.

Will Be Used in Eight Sprinkling Districts This Season.

"What's that white 'stuff' on the street?" is a question which has been asked hundreds of times the last few days.

The answer has puzzled those who didn't know exactly what to say. It has the appearance of a first fall of light snow, or as though somebody had scattered a quantity of salt on many blocks of the highway between the curbs.

It is Solvay calcium chloride, a dust laying preparation which is being used in about half the sprinkling districts this year instead of water. Although visible when first spread, it is soon absorbed by the surface of the street and becomes a part of it. The chloride preparation was tried in Duluth last year as an experiment, and it worked so well that it was introduced this year on a much larger scale. In addition to many streets, the boulevard and the park driveways are being treated with it.

The sprinkling districts which are being treated with the chloride this year are as follows:

District No. 11—London road from its intersection with Superior street near Nineteenth avenue east to Sixteenth avenue east, and Fourteenth avenue east from London road to Superior street.

District No. 12—First street from First avenue east to Twenty-third avenue east; Seventh and Eighth avenues east from First street to Second street; Fifteenth avenue east from Superior street to Second street; Third avenue east from Superior street to First street; St. Croix avenue from First avenue east to Sutpin street, and Sutpin street from St. Croix avenue to Lake avenue.

District No. 13—Third street from Fifth avenue west to Eighteenth avenue east; Fifteenth avenue east from Second street to Third street; Second street from Thirteenth avenue east to Twenty-sixth avenue east; Fourth street from Sixth avenue east to Eighth avenue east; Fourth avenue east from Second street to Fourth street, and Fifth avenue east from Second street to Fourth street.

District No. 14—Mesaba avenue from First street to Fifth street; Fifth street from Third avenue west to Twelfth avenue east; and First street from Mesaba avenue to Sixth avenue west.

District No. 15—Sixth street from East Cascade street to Fourteenth avenue east.

District No. 16—Woodland avenue from Fourth street to Carlisle avenue; Oxford street from Woodland avenue to Princeton avenue, and Fifth street from Woodland avenue to Twenty-seventh avenue west.

District No. 17—Piedmont avenue from Superior street to Third street; First street from Seventeenth avenue west to Twenty-sixth avenue west; Second street from Twentieth avenue west to Twenty-ninth avenue west; Twenty-fifth avenue west from Superior street to Third street, and Twenty-eighth avenue west from Second street to Third street.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A change in the time of the annual meeting of the North Dakota County Auditors' association has been made, June 14 and 15 being the new dates that have been decided upon. This session takes place in Devils Lake and had been fixed originally for June 6 and 7, but it has been found that the new dates will be much more practicable and therefore the change is made.

DIES AFTER LONG AGONY

Burns Received While Sleeping in Woods Fatal to Fred Mattson.

Legs Were Amputated, But Life Could Not Be Saved.

After suffering in terrible agony for three weeks from horrible burns received in the woods about five miles from the city, Fred Mattson died last evening at St. Luke's hospital.

After having been fatally burned, almost cremated, the man staggered unaided into the city. Half crazed with pain he made his way to the police station, where an officer was sent with him to see a physician. Between shudders of pain which left him nearly speechless he was able to give rather an incoherent account of the accident which later cost him his life.

It appears that he had been working in a camp about twenty-five miles from Duluth. Having made a small "stake" he quit and in order to save transportation charges, started to walk to town. Darkness found him about five miles from his destination. He stated that he was tired and decided to spend the night in the woods, seekin a sheltered place a short ways from the road he built a big bonfire and laid down to sleep.

He had a bottle of whisky, from which he had been drinking on the way in and it is supposed that he was stupified from its effects. Shortly after falling into his drunken sleep he must have rolled over into the fire, for the lower half of his body was badly burned. How he was physically able to do it is remarkable, but he managed to get to the police station alone. He then showed the effects of liquor and was about half drunk.

The physician had him sent to the poor farm, but his condition was so serious that he was removed to St. Luke's hospital. There his legs had to be amputated, as they had been so badly burned that the only chance of saving his life was to perform the operation. From the time he recovered from the effects of the whisky he suffered untold agony, and was constantly under the influence of anaesthetics.

As far as can be learned he had an uncle, John Nyberg, residing in Superior. His parents are said to be in Finland. He was about 35 years old. The body is at the undertaking establishment of J. L. Crawford.

NO MORE HALF RATES.

Nursery Stock Must Pay Full Freight Charges.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An order issued by the state railroad and warehouse commission today, cancels the half rates made by railroads for the transportation of nursery stock. The order is effective June 1.

Many years ago the roads reduced trasportation charges on trees to aid in increasing the fruit growing industry. Now that the state has progressed so far in this industry, the roads applied to the railroad commission for authority to cancel the half rates and the application has been allowed.

UPPER MICHIGAN HAS LOST OLDEST RESIDENT.

De Tour, Mich., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—To have lived for more than seventy-four years in Upper Michigan, very few of whose towns are as much as half a century old, was the distinction possessed by Levi Chapman, who has passed from life at his home on Mackinac island. The deceased was probably the oldest settler in the peninsula. He was born on Mackinas island in April, 1837, and has spent all his life there. For many years he was municipal clerk of his home city. He is survived by seven children, fifty grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

WISCONSIN FARMER IS INJURED BLOWING STUMPS.

Ashland, Wis., May 11.—Andrew Estok of Ino, Wis., was brought to the Sister's hospital Thursday suffering from the result of a dynamite explosion. His injuries consist of a badly lacerated left hand, necessitating amputation, and laceration of the face and eyes which made it necessary to remove the right eye. His condition at present is grave as might be expected from such injuries. He is resting easier now. It was found necessary to amputate the hand today.

COLLAR BUTTON TAKEN FROM CHILD'S THROAT.

Ashland, Wis., May 11.—Fifteen months old Lina Fritz of Park Falls, was brought to St. Joseph's hospital yesterday, and a gold collar button was removed from her larynx, which she had attempted to swallow two or three days ago. Her throat is badly swollen yet, and it may be necessary to insert a tube, for a day or so.

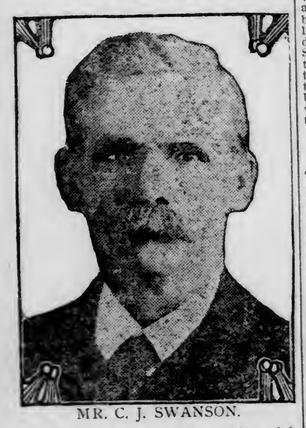
After Typhoid and Malaria



MR. C. J. SWANSON.

"Twenty years ago I was taken sick with Typhoid and Malaria Fever, and for a time was at the point of death. As soon as I turned a little toward the better my physician prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it was just what I needed to build me up. I have also found it excellent for weak lungs and rheumatism. I am near the age of seventy, and will always continue to use it."—C. J. Swanson, 5140 Michigan ave., Chicago, Ill.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

not only serves to keep the bodily health at the highest notch of excellence, but in typhoid and malaria, especially, when the bodily functions are at their lowest ebb and death seems imminent, it is retained by the stomach when other agents are rejected, and as a food and stimulant sustains life until the crisis is passed. While convalescing after fever it is the greatest strength-giver and body builder known to science. It is a wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of all lung, throat and stomach troubles, and all wasting and weakening conditions.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Sold IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct $1.00 a large bottle.

MR. LEND CARLSON.

Mr. Lend Carlson of Painsdale, Mich., says: "For years I have been an intense sufferer, and I say no one who has not had chronic stomach and bowel trouble has the least idea what great pain and agony it brings. I tried everything and resorted to all kinds of experiments, but none gave me anything like relief, until I sought Loughney Bake Oven treatment. I had weak spells and could eat very little, but now, thanks to the Bake Oven treatment, the weak spells are all gone and I can eat and sleep as well as anyone. There is nothing like it, and it shall be my purpose to let everyone I can know what it has done for me. There is no reason why anyone suffering as I have suffered should go on when that great treatment is so accessible.

WEST END

THREE HOMES ARE BURNED

Lightning Starts a Dangerous Fire in the West End.

High Wind Fans Flames Which Threaten Entire Hillside.

A fire, which started from a bolt of lightning, burned to the ground the homes of Peter Olson, former Sixth ward alderman, at 2233 West Tenth street, and M. Lindberg, 2229 West Tenth street and gutted the home of Mike Iverson, a neighbor, living at 2225 Tenth street, early this morning.

For a time, the blaze threatened destruction to a large portion of the hillside. A strong gale fanned the fire and carried sparks and burning embers for many blocks dropping them on buildings in the neighborhood. Had it not rained during the night, a serious catastrophe would probably have resulted.

As it was, three fire companies, headquarters, No. 2 and No. 3 fought the fire and managed to check the blaze after it had burned two homes and practically destroyed another. Over 3,000 feet of hose had to be stretched to the scene of the fire owing to the lack of water facilities in the Ensign school district.

The fire started, presumably, from a bolt of lightning in the Olson home, 2233 West Tenth street. Fire headquarters was notified, and understanding that the blaze was only a chimney fire, the complete equipment was not sent there at first.

The department saved the workshop of Peter Olson and a little furniture was also rescued, but the building and most of its contents were wiped out. The structure was a two-story frame house and, besides the Olson family, a widow, Mrs. Johanna Wolden, occupied the upstairs portion of the house. Mr. Olson values the building at $2,000 and the contents at $1,000. The house was insured for $1,500 and the contents for $500. Mrs. Wolden's loss on her belongings was total, amounting to $300, not covered by insurance.

Before the flames had gained considerable headway in the Olson home they spread quickly to the next house west, the home of M. Lindberg, 2229 West Tenth street. This was a two-story frame structure and William C. Williams and family lived upstairs. Lindberg claims his loss on the house and contents to be $2,500, covered by $1,500 insurance. The Williams family lost furniture valued at $500 and insured at $300. A barn at the rear of the Lindberg house also burned.

From the Lindberg home the fire swept on to the home of Mike Iverson, 2225 West Tenth street, and it was here that the fire was finally checked after the Iverson place had half burned down. The loss was about $1,500, covered by insurance. The building was also a two-story frame structure, but only one family occupied it.

The hillside fire was a spectacular one and a stubborn blaze for the firemen to fight. The people driven from the homes were given shelter for the remainder of the night at the homes of neighbors.

CHLORIDE MAKES THE RAILS SLIPPERY.

Chloride used in street sprinkling yesterday gave the motormen on street cars no end of trouble on the Piedmont avenue hill. The preparation makes the rails slippery and yesterday a small car on the Piedmont avenue line slid back all the way down the hill despite the brakes applied by the operator. The car could not get up the hill until after the rails had been sprinkled with sand.

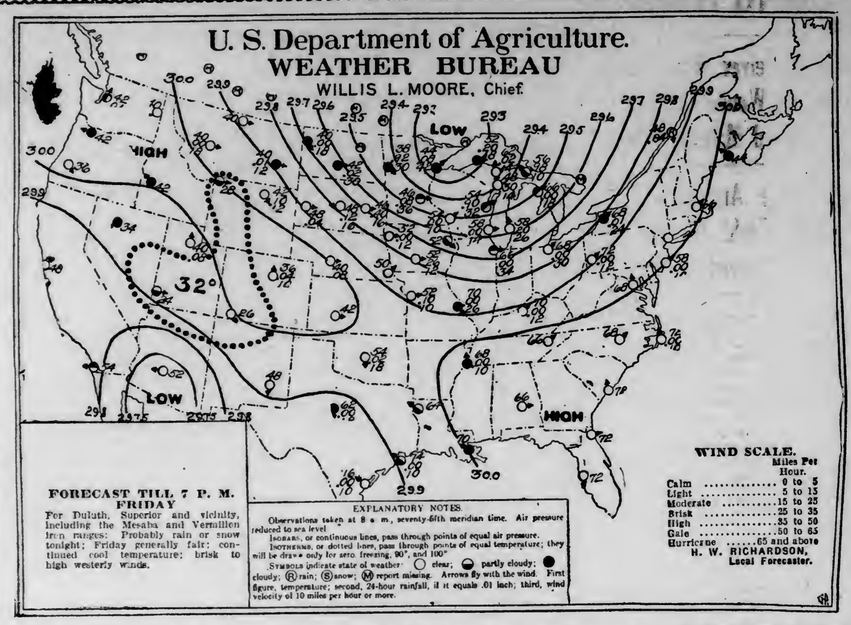
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



RAIN

We had some more rain last night. Likewise some thunder and some lightning. Mr. Northeast Wind was also a guest of Duluth, and he was a breezy guest. Although the rain and thunder and lightning are missing today, Mr. Northwest Wind, an older and more careless brother of Northeast, is in our midst. Mr. Northwest is a speedy traveler and he cares not who suffers discomfort so long as his desires for rapid motion are satisfied. Taken all in all, the weather is anything but ideal. Threatening clouds hang over the city, and the weather man predicts rain or snow, continued cool temperatures and high winds for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:36 and it will set at 7:31 this evening, giving fourteen hours and fifty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm is centered this morning between Duluth and Port Arthur, and during the last twenty-four hours it has caused high easterly to westerly winds in the lake region, and light to heavy rains or thunderstorms in that district, the Middle West and Northwest. At Devils Lake, N. D., the rain has turned to snow. Much cooler weather prevails in the Middle West and Northwest in connection with a decided increase in barometric pressure. Storm warnings are displayed over the lake region. Rain or snow may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight, followed by clearing weather Friday, cool temperature continuing in the meanwhile."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 11.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Wisconsin and Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler tonight.

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight and probably Friday; cooler in east and north central portions tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Friday, except probably rain or snow in extreme north portion tonight; frost tonight in north and west portions.

North and South Dakota and Montana—Generally fair tonight and Friday; frost tonight.

Upper Lakes—Continue southwest storm warnings and change to northwest on Superior 10 a. m. High westerly winds today and tonight; showers on Superior and cloudy on Michigan and Huron tonight and Friday.

INTRICATE QUESTIONS

exceptions of articles intended for the wounded."

In reporting the unconditional surrender of Gen. Navarro, with 450 men, Col. Steever says that all his cannon, machine guns, small arms, much ammunition and many horses went into the hands of the insurrectos.

The official estimate of the killed and wounded at the battle of Juarez is 300, according to a dispatch of Col. Steever, made public at the White House today.

Col. Steever says, however, that the exact number may never be known. He adds that everything is quiet and peaceful today on the El Paso and Juarez sides.

United States Consul Edwards at Juarez, reported to the state department today that he had been considerately treated by both federals and insurrectos during the siege of the border town.

Thanking President Taft for his "firm stand against intervention," in Mexico, a telegram, signed by Methodist Missionary Butler, Presbyterian Missionary Vanderbilt and Baptist Missionary Brewer, in Mexico City, was received in the White House today.

"Foreigners and natives whom we meet through the country are equally grateful," concluded the message.

Will Be No Interference.

Food and medical supplies and other materials needed by the people of Juarez will be permitted to cross the international bridges at El Paso. Instructions from the secretary of war to that effect probably will go forward to Col. Steever during the day.

The position of the war department will be that so long as the ordinary rules of commercial exchange and neutrality are observed there will be no interference with traffic.

Agents of the insurrectos will not be permitted to get their supplies in El Paso and ship them across the line to Juarez, but food or other articles of commerce may be delivered by the merchants of El Paso to their customers in Juarez, even if these customers include rebel soldiers.

Protests were made to Gen. Wood today against the action of military officers policing the international line near San Diego in denying permission to Americans to cross into Mexico. It was stated that many Americans sought to visit the fields of the late battles at Tijuana. Gen. Wood called upon Gen. Bliss in San Diego for a report.

INSURRECTOS WILL HOLD JUAREZ

pline which has been maintained in the insurrecto force heretofore it is not considered likely that any mishap will befall them.

The insurrectos today are the conquerors in a town which is the most important capture of the revloution not only because of the fact that it is a port of entry to the United States and the insurrectos believe that in the next twenty-four hours food and supplies will be crossing the line to them unmolested, but because they are now in possession of about 450,000 rounds of ammunition, several machine guns and field pieces, about 700 Mauser rifles and enough ammunition belts and other warlike sundries to wage furious warfare for some time to come.

But though the revolutionists are flushed with victory and some of them eager to pursue the fight with increasing vigor through Mexico until the capital of the republic shall have fallen, conservative rebel leaders are hoping that the bloody battle of Juarez will be the last chapter of the military side of the revolution.

Having demonstrated their strength in the field, they now wish to turn their attention to the argument of words and public opinion. They are already ready to listen to propositions from the government and today Senors Branniff and Obregon, go-betweens heretofore, are feeling the opinion of insurrecto chiefs as to the best way for reopening peace negotiations.

Leaders Confer With Madero.

Comfortably lodged in their new provisional capital the taking of which the rebels declare will make prospects of recognition by foreign powers much brighter, the political leaders of the rebels today conferred with Gen. Madero and revised the demands made before the battle. They will continue to insist on a real participation in governmental affairs and such privileges as the naming of men from their party for governors in fourteen states and four portfolios in the cabinet.

The attitude of the rebels on the question of the resignation of Gen. Diaz hardly has crystallized yet. Dr. Vasquez Gomez, one of the rebel peace commissioners, declared today it was still the paramount consideration on which all prospects for peace hinged. The rebels have taken the stand that their demand that Gen. Diaz make public his intention of resigning has been met with such a vague and haughty response that they now will demand the fixing of an exact time for his retirement.

With reference to the contention of the government that insubordination in the Madero ranks provoked the attack on Juarez and that Gen. Madero is not in control of his soldiers, the rebels openly charge trickery on the part of the government to disseminate the opinion that a state of anarchy is prevalent in the republic and that therefore it would be fatal for Gen. Diaz to abdicate under such circumstances. The rebels maintain on the other hand in their demands they are asking merely for steps toward a gradual readjustment of the administration of the republic and they believe the automatic transfer of the power to their own political party soon will follow.

Would Continue Power.

In having publicly announced the revolutionists would consent to the naming of the minister of foreign relations, Senor de la Barra for the all-important post of provisional president, Dr. Gomez, for instance, contends that the rebels have practically consented to a continuation in power of the present government without "the figurehead," as they call Gen. Diaz, at its head. Rebels declare Gen. Diaz has not been in actual control for some time and the iron hand of the federal government is that of Minister Limantour. Advices from Mexico City, they say, tell of the complete mastery of the situation which Minister Limantour and the cabinet have assumed.

Ministers Limantour and De la Barra have been most conspicuous in handling the government end of the peace negotiations and the rebels suspect, on good authority, that many steps already have been taken without the participation of Gen. Diaz.

On the other hand the rebel leaders know Gen. Diaz is the only man who can decide the question of the resignation, and they intend to bring more military pressure to bear to effect that result. Much interest and curiosity, for instance, was displayed by Gen. Madero and his chiefs today in how Mexico City took the rebel victory and what the people in the United States thought about it. Gen. Madero believes he has a strong following in Mexico City and on the occasion of rebel successes does not conceal the expectation that his supporters will make a demonstration there.

By the resumption of street traffic some time today between Juarez and El Paso the town will begin its return to normal conditions. Linemen of the telegraph and telephone companies were at work all night, while the gas and electric light companies, whose machinery was damaged by the attack, promise a speedy repair.

Gen. Orozco Angry.

Gen. Pascual Orozco, commander of the rebel forces, had blood in his eyes today as he stood at the international bridge and refused to permit any one from El Paso to cross into Juarez, even though they had passes from Col. Steever through the American lines. It appears that Gen. Orozco and his staff last night were invited to a banquet by Mayor Kelly of El Paso and the American troops would not permit Orozco and his officers to pass.

The situation with regard to the passage of persons and supplies back and forth is rapidly becoming aggravated and there was considerable apprehension today that trouble might be precipitated. Col. Steever has only general instructions from Washington, the authorities having withheld specific orders as to how to deal with the defacto government in Juarez.

Gen. Madero and his wife and Gen. Navarro, the deposed federal commander, rode about the town early today in an automobile. Mrs. Madero fears that disease may be brought on unless the dead be buried quickly and orders have been given today for a careful search of all houses and yards for bodies that may have been overlooked yesterday.

American Criminals Present.

Gen. Madero told an Associated Press reporter today that many American criminals, pickpockets and suspicious characters had got into Juarez, giving the impression that they are insurrectos. He has therefore ordered, he said, that American secret service men be allowed to cross into Juarez and arrest any criminals whom they know. Every effort, he said, is being made to restore order.

Stores are being guarded closely. In front of each sits an insurecto, his rifle by his side. Saloons are closed and most of the liquor has been destroyed.

The federal officers are well fed and well cared for generally.

Many persons here think that Gen. Navarro never should have surrendered, but one look at the emaciated, exhausted soldiers, their throats parched from hunger and thirst, was convincing proof to the federal commander that he was saving his men from a terrible fate. The insurrectos cut off the water supply early in the fight and took away all provisions and they made their way to the federal strongholds. The federals had made no preparations for a siege within their own town.

Will Ask Recognition.

Washington, May 11.—With news of the fall of Juarez, official Washington foresees an earnest effort on the part of the revolutionists' agents here to secure recognition of the belligerency of the Madero forces on the part of the United States.

Logically, with the heavy reinforcements that victory is certain to attract to Madero's banner, his next move would be a march on the capital itself, incidentally stopping on the way to besiege and capture all of the considerable cities and towns in his path.

The most formidable obstacle to such a campaign is the difficulty of arming and supplying with ammunition his augmented forces. He can scarcely obtain these supplies from Texas, for the administration holds to its decision that arms cannot be permitted to go to the rebels across the line before recognition of belligerency. And arms and munitions of war cannot be otherwise gotten to Madero's army until he captures some seaport and establishes safe lines of communication with it So the question assumes the first degree of importance to Madero, and without doubt through Senor Vasconcellas, the acting head of the junta here, an effort may be expected to secure such recognition from the state department. Indications are that such a request will not be granted for the present at least.

There is this serious objection to doing so: by that act the Diaz government would be relieved of all pecuniary responsibility for any damage inflicted on Americans by the rebel operations.

Another consideration is that it would oblige our government to treat the Diaz government precisely as it does the rebels, in the matter of denying them the right to import arms and munitions of war.

Just to what extent Madero has benefited by the capture of Juarez in changing his status in the eye of international law, the officials here are not disposed to declare. But off-hand, it is said that the United States will be obliged to recognize his de facto control of Juarez. In the end he will be able to merchandise through his custom house and collect tariff revenue taxes.

Mails to Mexico City are uninterrupted. Postmaster General Hitchcock announced today that communication via Laredo is open and mails are moving in the usual manner.

Always Does Good

Thousands Take It in the Spring.

Philadelphia, Pa., "and have always found that it does me good I always take it in the spring with the best results. SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE OWNERSHIP OF RICH COAL LANDS

retary to Michael J. Heney, who built the White Pass railroad and the Copper River railroad in Alaska, and Algernon Stracey, who was indicted along with Munday, Shiels and Siegley, but who was absent when the others were arraigned.

It was from the alleged interest of Stracey and his brother Sir Edward H. Stracey, an English baronet, and Liberal member of parliament, in the land, that the name "Stracey group" or "English group" was given to the claims.

Conspiracy Charged.

The government charged in the indictment that Munday, Shiels, Siegley and Algernon Stracey entered into a conspiracy to defraud the government out of 6,000 acres of coal land, valued at $10,000,000, just west of the so-called Cunningham coal land claims. The scheme alleged was to induce, "by cunning persuasion and promises of pecuniary reward, and other corrupt means," persons to make fictitious locations and fraudulent entries of the coal lands, ostensibly for the exclusive use of themselves, "but in truth and in fact, for the use and benefit of the Alaska Development company and the Pacific Coal & Oil company."

The land in question is still held by the government, no patent having been issued to any Alaska coal claimant. At places the coal seams are said to be sixty feet thick. Some 1,000 claims have been filed upon these coal lands, many of them forming the basis for indictments in Spokane, Tacoma, Detroit and Chicago. The present appeal is the first one to come to the supreme court as a result of the government's proceedings. Action on it may affect the other indictments.

The appeal docketed today would not be heard in the regular course of business for nearly three years. The government, however, is preparing to ask the court to advance the case and it is probable that it will be argued next October.

TAWNEY RETAINED BY WHITE EARTH INDIANS.

Washington, May 11.—It is understood here that Former Congressman James A. Tawney has been retained by the White Earth Indians in matters before congress which will include a demand for an investigation of the administration of Supt. John R. Howard. This investigation, if it is entered upon, will be made by the house committee on expenditures in the interior department. Mr. Tawney is expected in Washington about May 20 to attend a meeting of the international boundary waters commission, and it is expected that he will take up questions affecting the White Earth Indians. He made a trip to the reservation recently, in preparation for his work here.

In the Wake of the Measles.

The little son of Mrs. O. B. Palmer, Little Rock, Ark., had the measles. The result was a severe cough which grew worse and he could not sleep. She says: "One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely cured him and he has never been bothered since." Croup, whooping cough, measles cough all yield to Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The genuine is in the yellow package always. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all druggists.

"DEADWOOD DICK'S" CAPTOR DIES PAUPER.

Bozeman, Mont., May 11.—John Charles, aged 74, capturer of "Deadwood Dick," and who received $5,000 reward for breaking up a noted gang of outlaws near Deadwood, S. D., died in poverty here at the county poor farm.

Charles came to Bozeman from the Black Hills in 1872, and for a time ran a shoe repair shop here. He returned to South Dakota in the early 70's and became a terror to desperadoes.

In a running pistol fight with "Deadwood Dick" he was badly wounded by the outlaw, but managed to land his party.

NEXT FIGHT AT NOGALES

Federal Troops From Agua Prieta Marching to That Town.

Uprising of Yaqui Indians Causing Apprehension in Arizona.

Naco, Mex., May 11.—The federal army that evacuated Agua Prieta yesterday, arrived here last night. It is thought Del Rio will be their next immediate objective point. Del Rio is little more than one hour's march from the rich mining camp of Cananea. At Del Rio the railroad from Cananea forks, one branch extending to Nogales and the other to Naco. The train which left Nogales last night had attached to it eleven extra cars for the use of the troops. It is possible the federals may proceed at once to Nogales to keep open that important port. If this is the purpose of the federal commander, the next serious battle of the war probably will take place at Nogales, which is separated from the American town only by a street 100 feet wide.

There also is a probability that the the federals are hastening to assist in the protection of Hermosillo, reported in grave danger of capture by the rebels. It is unlikely, however, that the federals will be permitted to reach Hermosillo without engaging the numerous bands of rebels scattered between Hermosillo and the border.

Indians Are Rising.

Douglas, Ariz., May 11.—The uprising of the Yaqui Indians who have been living peacefully on their settlements on the Yaqui river for some time but who are now making war on their own account, has furnished a new and disturbing element in the already acute situation in the state of Sonora.

The Indians' first demonstration was against Ortiz, which they captured without resistance, looting the seven stores in the town, run by Chinese and Mexicans, confiscating the merchandise and pouring the liquors into the streets.

Diplomats Meet.

Mexico City, Mex., May 11.—Members of the diplomatic corps resident in Mexico City today met in the United States embassy upon invitation of Henry Wilson, the United States ambassador, to plan concerted action for the protection of aliens in the event the situation in the capital reaches a stage necessitating the taking of measures to defend themselves.

8,000 Women Parade Street in Big Suffrage Demonstration

SUFFRAGETTE PARADE IN NEW YORK.

Fifth avenue, New York, on May 6, was the scene of the suffragette parade, which is expected to do so much good for "votes for women." There were all sorts of banners carried in the parade. After the parade reached Union square, it broke up into ten mass meetings, which were addressed by many noted women in behalf of the suffrage cause. About 8,000 women took part in the parade.

COPPERS STRONGER; TRADE AT STANDSTILL

Upward Movement at Close in Sympathy With Steel —Metal Weak.

The copper market was steady until toward the close when values went forward in sympathy with Steel shares which appreciated on rumors of large steel orders. The proposed investigation of the so-called coal combine and the probability of decisions from the supreme court Monday in anti-trust cases made traders cautious and trading was extremely dull.

Locally, there was no market. A few shares in Summit were traded in at 47c.

Superior & Boston was strong on account of a rich strike 475 feet from the boundary line averaging six per cent. copper. The stock at $4.12½ to $5.12½. The strike at the Shattuck mine had no effect as the stock declined from $19 to $18. Amalgamated sold at $62.50 to $63.25, Butte Ballaklava at $5.25, Calumet & Arizona at $89.50 to $90.50, North Butte at $27.87½ to $28, Giroux at $5.37½ to $5.75, Greene at $6.06¼.

* * *

The reported possibility of an adjournment of congress on June 1 to Sept. 15 had a good effect on values at the close.

* * *

The copper metal market is temporarily quiet following the large sales at 12½c and 12¾c, with some of the largest sellers sold up two months ahead. No copper from first hands is being offered under 12¾c 30 days, and with most agencies sold up, and the surplus in the hands of the United Metals Selling company so greatly reduced there is no copper pressing for sale. The domestic demand is not up to par. The brass mills in Connecticut are feeling the depression in business and are running but four and five days per week, steel consumption is large in other quarters and the foreign demand is abnormally large.

* * *

An ore strike has been made on the 500 level of the Shattuck mine that is said to be one of the most important in the history of the Warren, Ariz., district. In stoping fourteen samples from a large body of ore averaged 18 per cent copper. Developments show the body to be a big one.

* * *

Boston wired Paine, Webber & Co.: Output of Lake Superior copper mines for April is estimated at 36,053,157 pounds of fine copper, which is 1,621,-607 pounds less than in previous month and 1,420,322 pounds less than in April, 1910.

* * *

A meeting of the directors of the Keweenaw Copper company was held yesterday. The old officers were re-elected. The shaft which the company is sinking in the foot wall of the Kearsarge lode is now 900 feet deep. At a depth of 1,300 feet the diamond drill has disclosed a wide lode carrying good copper values. The shaft is now being sunk at the rate of about eighty feet per month and it is expected that this rate of development during the present year will be continued. No assessment on the stock is contemplated at present, the company having sufficient means to carry on its work during the current year.

* * *

* * *

Calumet & Hecla reduced its price today from 12½ to ¾ cents, signaling that company's entrance into the market, and also making the price for better grades of Lake copper.

WINNIPEG TIED UP BY STORM

Lightning Puts Electric Plant Out of Business; Snow Follows.

Winnipeg, Man., May 11.—As the result of the most extraordinary summer snow and rain storm in the history of Manitoba, Winnipeg is today completely tied up, the street railway company being out of business and all electric power in Winnipeg is cut off.

The transformer transmitting power for the company's hydro-electric plant at Lac du Bonnet was struck by lightning at 4 o'clock this morning in the midst of a tremendous electric storm.

In spite of Winnipeg's discomfort, the storm means millions to the entire West in improved crop conditions. A huge volume of water fell during the night.

At 9 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 35, and the coldest of the night was 33, so no damage can result from the cold. At 5 o'clock the rain turned into soft snow, which lasted all morning.

PRANKS OF A WINDSTORM.

Kansas City Star: The tornado that struck in the country near Chickasha a week or so ago performed some peculiar pranks at the farm of Charles Steinmetz, who found a number of eggs scattered over the ground near where the barn had stood, not one of which was as much as cracked, although the barn in which they had been laid was reduced to kindling wood.

A short distance away he found a chicken with an eight-penny nail driven squarely through its neck. Near by he found a two-gallon jar, the bottom of which had been broken out, with a hen tightly wedged inside of it.

Finding Excuses For Not Working

"In nearly every case," says a prominent physician, "when a man or woman loses the will to work it is because the power to work is gone. This nervous condition may be due to stomach trouble, overwork or impure blood, but whatever the cause thgre are certain medicines which are known to restore nervous energy and the clearness of the blood stream in a remarkable way. STRINGENCY IS RELIEVED

New Gold From Mines Assures Ease in Money Markets.

No Possibility of Long-Continued Dullness in Trade.

New York, May 11.—The money markets of New York, Paris, Berlin and London are all in a state of utmost ease, discounts in London upon the street being made at the rate of 2¾ per cent per annum for three months' bills.

This ease will contiuue for months to come, as the Alaska new gold will reach the United States during June and July, and the Canadian supply from the northern districts of the Dominion will be available in Montreal and Quebec, while South Africa will continue to pour into London its new millions every week.

There cannot be any great demands upon Europe for money until the large crop movements in August and September, and by September 1 fully $125,-000,000 more gold will be on hand ready for use than the world possessed the 1st of May.

It is truly surprising how fast the supply of available cash increases in all the reservoirs of money when there is but a slight dropping off in the activities of business.

Ideal Financial Conditions.

It is under such circumstances as we have now upon us, a marking of time all along the lines of trade and production, that our bankers realize the magnitude of the gold production and the strength and solidity the new millions add to the resources of our financial institutions.

The present financial conditions are ideal for enterprising business men. If their banks or other financial institutions which they look to for cash to float their enterprises are for a time close run, they have but to wait a few weeks or a few months and the new supplies dug from the mines in the interim relieve all stringency, and the enterprises of the world respond at once to the easier situation.

Four hundred million dollars' value in new gold every year added to our circulating medium is a perfectly safe basis for the issue of three times that vale in bank notes, as every banker will agree.

With such vast sums of new money available, nay, put it stronger, that must be employed if they would be made profitable, the average of business volume cannot drop very low.

There can be no decided depression nor long-continued dullness in trade.

All present conditions are making for enlarged volumes of business, employment of more persons, higher values of many commodities the world over and the conservation of the past few months of the people of the United States in their husbandry of resources but makes them better provided for increase of purchases in the future.

Record-Breaking Payment.

The payment to the United States government by the Duveen Bros., art importers, of the enormous sum of $1,180,000 due on account of undervaluation of imports is a record breaker collection from a firm. That from the Sugar Trust corporation alone exceeded it in amount.

The criminal proceeding aginst the offending members of the firm still stand, and it is said the trial will take place in October.

The examination of the custom houses of the country continue to be very searching, and the collections from passengers, as well as from importers are closer to the requirements of the law than ever before since our custom houses were established.

The surplus reported in the United States treasury of more than $1,000,-000 for the present fiscal year is due entirely to the closer collection of the customs. This surplus compares with a deficit of more than $17,000,000 for the same period in the last fiscal year.

A telegram from Spokane, Wash., states that contracts have been made with nurseries to set out more than 2,000,000 fruit trees this season in Eastern Washington and Northern and Central Idaho, and that it is expected that during the coming five years more than 2,000,000 acres of land in Oregon, Washington and Idaho will be cleared up and put into cultivation as orchards.

They never do things by halves in the West.

They are going to show the East some handsome fruits and fine profits from their cultivation.

Will Increase Trade.

All this development of unused lands in these states adds to the wealth and resources of the nation and will each year come with its productions to increase the value and volume of our trade.

Two million acres of new orchards in that Northwestern country will add millions of tons annually to the traffic of the railways of that region and give employment in various ways to many thousands of persons.

It is this constant development of our natural recources that gives stability to all forms of our industrial life and affords continual conditions to our volume of trade.

The people of the United States for scores of years to come will be busy in improving and developing our states and territorles, and values of lands in cities, towns and country districts will become intrinsically higher by reason of the surrounding growth and the greater monetary yield resultant from the changed conditions.

Electric and steam roads hase not as yet approximated their maximum mileages in any state in the union, and as regards the first it may be set down as assured that there is not even the best provided of the states now but will more than double the present mileage within the next ten years.

Counties will be gridironed by electric roads and pikes and highways will be illuminated as brightly as the city streets are at the present time.

Big Boom Nearly Due.

The recent drop in prices of electric appliances through the action of the suits against the combine will be an incentive to this very development and the more widespread use of electricity.

Notwithstanding the somewhat slow placing of orders for railway supplies and material by the great railway systems of the country, these orders will have to come, and when they do come they will come with a rush that will cause difficulty in filling them in the time desired.

Not a man of affairs here but appreciates this, and all concur in the opinion that with good crop results in sight by August there will be a throng of orders placed with the locomotive works, the car shops and the steel rail mills.

No one thinks this boom will materialize before the crop results are fully assured, but it is pointed out by the keenest and shrewdest operators, that the intervening months of May, June and July will be most favorable for financial preparations by the railways of the country for the enormous increase in trackage and in power and traffic facilities that must be provided for this autumn, and the following years.

A DEVIL BY CHOICE.

It is not often that a woman elects to become a devil when in the estimation of her friends she is not one by nature, but the Princess Hashi once made this choice with satisfying results. As Fushimami Ishihashi relates, the success of the princess' adventure in the Japan Magazine, she did not add to the honor of her family by her exploits.

The princess lived in Kioto, Japan, so far back that no man can remember when. She was the most beautiful of all the ladies in the court of the daimio and the fame of her beauty spread over the land just as the report of a wonderfully blooming cherry tree would be carried on the winds of gossip. But beauty in the case of the Princess Hashi seems to have been of the accepted depth; she was a very jealous and envious young person.

So long did she feed upon the fruit of these dark humors that at last she determined to beseech the gods to give her the power of a demon so that she might plague the people she disliked. During many days and dark nights she knelt before the shrine at Kibune, making supplication.

At last the gods heard her. They said that if she would consent to forfeit all her beauty they would grant her request. Not only must she spoil her beauty but she must live in the waters of the River Uji for three weeks before the gift should descend upon her.

The Princess Hashi started out to fulfil all the conditions of promotion to the demon world. She streaked her fair face with pigments, pulled out her rose petal nails and twisted her hair into two ugly horns on either side of her forehead, placing therein iron spikes and rings. So altered, she crept to the river one night and slipped into its waters.

By day she hid herself in a clump of rushes and by night she swam under the shadows of the pines, each night with a surer and stronger stroke. Day by day the horns of hair on her head became harder, and day by day the color she had smeared on her body was set indelibly. At the end of the probationary three weeks the Princess Hashi was a full fledged water devil, one of the Oni feared by all the human folk of the land; and she was sufficiently terrible to look upon if one may credit some of the portraits of her done by Tosca Tsunetaka, the Japanese artist of demons. She began her mission of hate immediately.

She ranged palace halls and lurked in the branches of the pines by moat sides. All her former lovers she plagued interminably, and young girls with beauty even approaching the fabulous beauty that had been Hashi's fell ill of smallpox or were stung by poisonous insects.

There is a whole cycle of legend around the deeds of this princess devil, and though it happened many hundreds of years ago Hashi may be living yet. Japanese maidens fear her without ceasing.

THE BURGLAR'S HOURS.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Nearly all burglars get in, not through the door, which the householder is so careful to bolt and chain, but through the window. In London in one year 357 burglars got in through windows, only 85 entered through doors, 15 through fanlights and eleven by "breaking out." False keys were used 25 times. The favorite hours are 2 to 6 in the morning. The householder falls into his soundest sleep about an hour after dozing off and is least likely to hear a burglar, say, between 1 and 3 o'clock. But the policeman on duty since 10 o'clock must be growing tired by cock crow, and that seems why the burglar selects the later hours.

The housebreaker chooses either the very early morning, when the family is likely to be out, or the dinner hour, when persons are not apt to be thinking about him. Between 6 and 8 o'clock in the morning there are 283 cases of housebreaking. Then during the next five hours, from 8 to 10 o'clock, the total is only 114.

RENOVATING OYSTER BEDS.

The largest known shell heap, containing millions of shells, is the property of a New Haven company.

Such shells are far from being useless. According to the Strand they are one of the most important adjuncts of the oyster industry. Unless the spawn of the oyster have some clean, smooth surface upon which to attach themselves they die, for they are very delicate in the first few days of their existence and require beds as clean and sweet as do the most delicate human babies.

It is while the shells are piled up in these great mountains that they are cleaned and freed from everything in the way of dirt and bits of adhering oyster eyes, by the air, rain and sunshine. When the cleaning process is finished they are loaded upon steam dredges and scows and then are towed out to the beds and carefully spread over the bottom ready for the set, as the fixing of the spawn to their surfaces is called.

After they have served their purpose for one season's crop they are taken up and brought back, to be again piled and cleaned.

WHY HE WAS BASHFUL.

Kansas City Journal: A Hutchinson girl declares this story is true. She was visiting at a small Kansas town recently and while there her hostess gave a party in her honor and invited the pick of the whole countryside. Among the guests was a boy who had been to Topeka, so she had heard.

She had some acquaintances in Topeka and tried to draw him out, inquiring: "How did you like Topeka?"

The young fellow blushed and looked down before he murmured: "Oh, pretty well."

"Do you know many people there?" she continued, trying to get him interested, and attributing his reticence to bashfulness.

"Why, not many," he said, tugging at his collar as if it were strangling him.

"I suppose you went to the park while you were there?" she asked.

"No," he replied "I did not attend any of the affairs at the park."

She talked about other things, and later, when an opportunity came, asked the hostess why that boy had been so reticent about talking about Topeka. The hostess threw up her hands.

"We simply had to invite him," she replied. "He belongs to a good family. As a matter of fact, he has just returned from Topeka, where he has been in the reform school."

BRITISH INN NAME.

London Daily News: The inn known as the "Same Yet" at Prestwich has a curious history, which Mr. Hackwood relates: "The house originally bore the 'Seven Stars,' but many years ago it became nesessary to have its faded sign repained. When the painter asked the landlord what he was to put on the board he received the answer, 'The same yet.' And the man took him at his word."

CANTHROX MAKES BEAUTIFUL HAIR

In a very interesting article on "The Care of the Hair," in the Baltimore Herald, Mrs. Mae Martyn, the noted authority on beauty topics says: "Of all the shampoo preparations on the market—and I have probably tried every one—I find only one that gives perfect satisfaction. That shampoo is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of plain canthrox in a cup of hot water.

"This shampoo is inexpensive and will be appreciated by every woman who washes her own hair. The lather is abundant, cleanses dirt and dandruff perfectly, rinses easily and dries very quickly—making the process of shampooing very simple and easy.

"Canthrox improves the lustre of the hair and leaves it fluffy, soft and perfectly clean. Dandruff and scalp irritation disappear immediately after its use."

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR STOPPED

Harmless, Old-Fashioned Remedy Brings Back Color to Gray Hair and Makes It Grow.

How many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old-time, tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy nothing equals our grandmothers' "sage tea." Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer.

Nowadays, when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy.

Druggists are authorized to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

IS ARRESTED IN BEMIDJI

Young Wife of Crookston Piano Tuner Taken on Kidnaping Charge.

Woman Claims Her Husband Deserted and She and Girl Left Town.

Bemidji, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a short experience in Bemidji, Mrs. J. A. Campbell of Crookston, who posed as "May Arnold," being accompanied by Olga Lunde, also of Crookston, and passing in Bemidji as "Miss Arnold, sister of May," is under arrest, on the charge of kidnaping.

Mrs. Campbell, aged about 30, is married to a piano tuner of Crookston, who is more than 70 years old. Mr. Campbell makes frequent trips to Bemidji.

"He deserted me," Mrs. Campbell said, when arrested here yesterday afternoon as she stepped from a rowboat in which, accompanied by the Lunde girl, she had been out on the lake with two men.

"We came to Bemidji to get something to do and I have been looking in vain for employment. I came here last Thursday and put my two children, a boy of 10 and a girl of 8 in the public schools," said Mrs. Campbell.

Passed as Professional Nurse.

Mrs. Campbell went to the Hotel Brinkman, where she registered back four days, and then started out to get work, first cautioning the children to give the name of "Arnold."

The woman posed as a professional nurse and was given employment at the home of L. G. Crothers.

In the meantime the police at Crookston got busy and the woman was traced to Bemidji, and with the aid of Chief Harrington of this city was placed under arrest. The two children were found in school and when asked their names replied faintly "Arnold," but upon being pressed admitted that their name was Campbell. The children are being cared for by Mrs. Thompson, a local trained nurse, awaiting the settlement of the trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Campbell.

CHURCH FIGHT RENEWED.

Conservatives in Icelandic Church Row Ask for Rehearing.

Pembina, N. D., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Basing their contention on the alleged fact that a certain portion of the constitution of the Icelandic Lutheran church is still in effect, members of the conservative faction of that denomination have made application to Judge C. F. Templeton for a re-hearing in the case that involves the religious organization in the United States, Canada and even in the fatherland—Iceland. In the first round of this case the so-called liberal faction, so designated because of its views upon religious doctrines as expounded by the church, was successful.

In their request for a re-hearing the conservatives declare that the constitution of the Thingvalle Icelandic Lutheran church, located in Pembina county, makes provision that the church property shall remain in the possession of that faction holding to the constitution. The conservatives contend that they are the ones who have obeyed the constitution, and that therefore they are the ones who are entitled to possession of the church property at this time.

CONSERVING HUMAN RIGHTS.

The reception of Lloyd-George's plan for insuring the working classes against sickness and non-employment was surprisingly cordial, and the fact seems to have shocked a great many people into a new realization of how rapidly the civilized world is traveling toward the admission that the average man has rights which government is bound to respect.

Also, it has made many realize how far behind all the rest of the civilized world the United States still is in this respect.

The average workingman begins his life's labors at an early age. If he is unusually lucky, he is good for forty years of active work. During those four decades he is constantly producing, so long as he is employed, five or six times as much wealth as he gets back in the form of wages. His wages, in most cases, are perilously close to the actual cost of living and rearing a family. Only the exceptions are able to save much of anything toward periods of sickness and non-employment, and fewer still are able to lay by a store against the time when they are finally incapacitated by age for further work.

These men are the builders of the world's material wealth. From the products of their toil comes every dollar of the world's riches. All civilization, including the palaces and automobiles and steam yachts and stupid luxuries of the over-rich, is built by them. They serve society, and they get for their service little more than enough to live if they are steadily employed. In the meantime sickness, injuries incident to their employment and non-employment due to hard times are demons lurking in wait along their pathway in life.

What better exertion of governmental activity could be imagined than such plans as those of Lloyd-George to secure these builders of civilization against want and suffering?

Society, through government, should see to it that workingmen are properly compensated for sickness and injury incident to their employment; that workingmen are cared for in their old age, when they can no longer labor for wages; and that sickness and hard times shall not necessarily mean the sudden cessation of income. That is the Lloyd-George program.

Workingmen's compensation acts and old age pensions already have been made into law in Britain; and now it is proposed that there shall be state insurance against sickness and non-employment. At whatever the cost, these plans are wise and statesmanlike, and to carry them into effect is the duty of society, no less in the United States than in Great Britain.

If these plans are "Socialistic," as charged, that is no argument against them; it is high praise for Socialism.

Under the new measure, which is based on the plan which Bismarck gave the German workingmen in the hope of holding back the spread of Socialism, the workingman is to pay for half the insurance by deductions from wages, the employer is to pay one-fourth and the government the remaining one-fourth. The burden will be heavy, but not so heavy as the burden which now rests upon the labor of the world so long as it is compelled to produce enough to satisfy the insatiate greed of the privileged classes, and to bear out of its own scant return for this service the risks of employment and the perils of sickness, non-employment and helpless age.

THE RAIN.

Nor should the day be passed without giving thanks for the very timely rains that have come to Duluth and, apparently, to the entire Northwest.

They have put out the forest fires, which were big with possibilities of disaster.

They have soaked the gardens and the lawns and the farms, providing needed moisture for germinating seeds and growing crops.

They have, in short, driven away the unpleasant smoke which adulterated the pure air, ended the alarm of settlers with memories f last year's forest disasters, given reassurance to farmers and gardeners both amateur and professional, lessened the pressure on the home water meters, and generally put a new face on things.

In Duluth, too, the coming of the rain has been under circumstances indicating an arrangement of great ingenuity. The showers have come in the dead of night, so that nobody has been bothered by it in the least, and the day has been kept free for business and pleasure. Surely nothing could be cleverer than that.

THE PROSECUTOR'S DUTY.

What is the duty of a public prosecutor? Is he to aim at conviction, regardless of anything except his official record for getting convictions, or should he seek to bring out the truth, even though the truth may free the accused?

A development in the Dietz case makes that question pertinent. The state called as a witness in the case a Milwaukee gun expert. When he was on his way to the scene of the trial, it is related, the state's agents discovered that his testimony was likely to be favorable to Dietz rather than to the state, and he was sent back.

Dietz, who hasn't yet proved conclusively that he "has a fool for a client," as the case is said to be with those who act as their own attorneys, promptly called the expert, and his testimony proved an important gain for Dietz, as it established a basis for the hypothesis that the bullet which killed Deputy Harp might have been fired by one of the other deputies instead of by Dietz.

What was the prosecutor's duty in this case? Of course, it is not to be expected that a prosecuting attorney will act for the defense; but should he withhold disinterested evidence that seems likely to benefit the defendant?

Probably no prosecuting attorney wishes to convict an innocent man. He does not seek an indictment unless he believes in the guilt of the accused. But it is pretty easy for a state's advocate to become imbued with a conviction of the accused's guilt, and, once possessed of that belief, he is certain to work hard for a verdict of guilty. It is an interesting question, that of how far he should go in this direction, and whether he is keeping faith with the state, which seeks only justice and not a record for convictions, when he deliberately withholds evidence that is likely to clear the accused person.

ILLUMINATING HEAT.

Representatives of manufacturers of various kinds of paper deluged the senate committee on finance yesterday with protests against the Canadian reciprocity treaty. Very heated protests they were, too, and they were mingled with bitter outbreaks against the newspapers because they, pretty generally, have been telling the truth about the treaty, which is that it will be a very good thing indeed for the people of the United States.

The heat shown by these gentlemen is a very encouraging sign.

If they can see reason in the treaty for feeling the indignation they have expressed, that is a very sure sign that the people can see reason in the treaty for expecting the relief from tariff special privilege that they need so much.

Every operation performed by congress on the special privileges that have grown up under the tariff is certain to be accompanied by a prodigious squealing on the part of those operated upon.

And as a rule it is perfectly safe to measure the benefit to the people by the size of the squeal.

THE "ROCK PILE."

It is gratifying, but by no means surprising, to learn from the report of the Associated Charities that the "rock pile" experiment was a thorough success.

Secretary Dinwiddie's report showed that 227 men had been given work on the rock pile, that 191 had accepted the chance, that for sixty-nine of these men better paid work was found elsewhere, and that for fifty-one permanent jobs were secured.

Most of the able-bodied men who come to the Associated Charities seeking relief want not alms but the chance to earn what they need. The majority of them are willing to work, and are hungry and homeless in large part because they have no work. It is the highest type of charity to provide this work, to give these unfortunates a chance to earn their bread, and to provide them with permanent employment. It is mistaken and misguided charity to give them food and lodging alone, and such a policy tends certainly to the increase of the proportion which is not seeking work, but merely covets the chance to live without labor.

Among applicants for aid the latter class is always found, and the best way to keep such mendicants away is to let it be known that those who come seeking charity in Duluth will be given what they ought to have, the chance to work for the bread they need. This service the "rock pile" has afforded in Duluth, and out of it should grow a permanent institution that will serve so long as society permits conditions to remain so that men willing to work are not permitted to earn their livings by labor.

WHY BUSINESS MEN FAIL.

You have heard that ninety-five out of each hundred men who go into business ultimately fail.

Of course you have heard it, because it has been a commonplace of desultory conversation for years.

Well, it isn't so; and if you had given it a moment's thought you would have realized that it couldn't be so. In point of fact the proportion is the other way around. Most men who go into business succeed.

Lots of them fail, however, though nowhere near such a proportion of them as the old saying indicated, and there is interest, therefore, in an inquiry which Bradstreet's has just completed, relating to the causes of failures in this country during the past four years. The following table shows that the average annual percentage of failures is less than three-quarters of 1 per cent:

Year.	Total In Business.	Total Failures.	Per Cent Failing.
1907	1,447,680	10,265	.70
1908	1,437,812	14,044	.64
1909	1,243,444	11,845	.76
1910	1,592,509	11,573	.72

These four years, beginning with the panic year, have covered a pretty ticklish time for many business men, and the percentage of failures therefore must be above the average. The average percentage for the four years is .71 per cent. At that rate it would take more than a century for 95 per cent of those engaged in business to fail, assuming that there were no recruits.

As to the causes of failure, the report is as follows:

Due to	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.
Incompetence	22.6	21.6	24.2	26.6
Inexperience	4.9	4.0	4.9	4.4
Lack of capital	37.1	34.2	34.5	33.9
Unwise credits	2.3	2.0	1.9	1.7
Failure of others	1.4	1.8	1.2	1.0
Extravagance	.9	1.0	.9	.7
Neglect	2.6	2.2	3.0	2.6
Competition	1.2	1.8	2.5	2.6
Specific conditions	16.3	18.9	15.3	14.4
Speculation	.7	1.0	.8	1.0
Fraud	10.1	11.5	10.8	11.2

"Lack of capital" is the principal cause, it being responsible for more than a third of all failures, and naturally it was the most prolific cause in 1907, when capital was hardest to get. Incompetence is the next most important cause, to it being ascribed 26.6 per cent of the 1910 failures. Incompetence is a pretty elastic term, and under it might have been included causes separately itemized, such as inexperience, unwise credits, extravagance, neglect and speculation. Failure because of competition might seem to belong with incompetence, too, since it is a sort of survival of the fittest, and it would be were it not for the fact that such failures often group themselves more naturally with failures caused by lack of capital. Competition from men amply equipped with capital often drives out of business men fully competent, but lacking capital. Where a trust, for instance, drives an individual out of business it can hardly be attributed to the incompetence of the bankrupt.

Considering the number of men with little experience who engage in business, and the still larger number of men who go into business with very little capital, the astonishing thing about the number of failures is not that they are so plentiful but that they are so few.

AN OLD LANDMARK

By SAVOYARD.

The old Riggs House, the famous hotel, corner of Fifteenth and G streets, opposite the treasury department, is to be torn down as soon as the present lease expires, June 1. When first erected it was the leading hotel in Washington, though not so famous as the old Willard. The locality is possibly the best for a tavern in town, and it is comforting to know that the office building that is to be erected on the site, to which considerable territory will be added, will contain a theater and a restaurant. For years the Riggs has done the largest business in the line of drinkables in town, a fact that is due to the favorable locality.

This old inn has been the home, while congress was in session, of many famous men. When I first came here John G. Carlisle and James A. Garfield were its guests. For some years it has been the stopping place of a great number of Southerners, rivaling the old Metropolitan in catering to that clientele. Kentucky, Alabama and Texas particularly patronized it, as did many Tennesseeans.

* * *

I shall never forget an occasion that took place at the Riggs the summer of 1889. As I said, Garfield lived there. When he was nominated for president he returned to Washington a few days later and was assigned to his old quarters. The nomination had not been favorably received in this town, which was for Grant and a third term. It was resolved to hold a ratification meeting and a platform was erected on the G street front flush with the second story.

About sundown a large crowd assembled, packing G street clear down to Fourteenth, and crowding Fifteenth to the treasury. There was a brass band and a desperate attempt to gather some enthusiasm. Garfield made the first speech, and of course it was magnificent, but, splendid orator that he was, even he felt the chill, which could be cut with a knife. The only set that appeared to enjoy themselves were the Democrats, who composed nearly half the total present.

* * *

After Garfield closed, Attorney General Devens was introduced. He, too, was an orator, but he made the mistake of speaking too long, and there is one thing an American crowd will not stand—it won't be bored. A little congressman from Pennsylvania came next, and he was no orator. His speech was simply flat. They then called on a congressman frim Wisconsin who was an orator, a capital stumper. Evidently his speech was carefully prepared for the ratification of the nomination of the "Plumed Knight," for every time he mentioned the nominee he spoke of him as "James G. Garfield." One scamp of a Democrat set the crowd in a roar with this: "I'll bet a thousand dollars he's a Blaine man!"

Soon thereafter John A. Logan was discovered and all the Grant men yelled like pandemonium. He had done his utmost at Chicago for the third term. He was of the "Big Four"—Conkling, Cameron, Carpenter and Logan—and if the convention had not rejected the unit rule they would have nominated Grant the first ballot. Logan took the stand and made a few remarks, and it was the first bit of enthusiasm that night, though it was all for the defeated candidate and none for the successful.

* * *

Gen. George A. Sheridan of Louisiana, came next, I believe he was a carpetbagger from Ohio, in any event, he was a hand-and-a-half on the stump. He began his speech like this: "This ticket will be elected enough the Democrats say it won't. They said in 1860 we could not elect Abraham Lincoln president, but we did. They said in 1864 that we could not re-elect him, but we did. They said all those years that we could not shoot rebellion to death and make treason odious, but we did. They said we could not strike the shackles from 4,000,000 slaves, clothe them with citizenship, and arm them with the ballot, but we did. They said in 1868 that we could not elect that grandest soldier of the age, U. S. Grant—" Here the crowd simply went wild. It was the first mention of the name of the favorite of 90 per cent of the Republicans present. The orator continued: "But we did elect Grant, and we re-elected him four years later. They said in 1876 that we could not elect R. B. Hayes—" and here there was interruption from a thousand Democratic throats, each trying to scream louder than all the others, "And you didn't! and you didn't!" I think there was some profane expletive mixed with the protestation. Sheridan turned not a hair as he exclaimed: "But we inaugurated him!"

That put the crowd in good humor, and about midnight it dispersed. Few there assembled believed that Garfield could be elected. None dreamed of the horrible crime of which he was to be the victim within a year and a week.

* * *

I was at the house of representatives when the news came that Garfield was nominated and the result posted in the big rotunda. The Democratic house adjourned immediately and the handful of Republican congressmen present organized themselves into a ratification meeting. Pig Iron Kelley was called to the speaker's chair, though when that congress was organized and the Republicans presented Garfield as their caucus nominee for speaker, Kelley bolted him on the ground that he was a free-trader —which he was—and voted for Hendricks B. Wright, of Pennsylvania, a Randall Democrat and a Greenbacker.

But now there was nothing else to do but support the ticket, and Kelley fell in with the rest. Conkling elected Garfield, who drove him from public life the following May. What a pity Garfield did not have the Spartan character of Conkling! The saddest name in American political history is James A. Garfield. He was a great intellect and he desired to be a good man. Unfortunately he was weak.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SUGGESTION TO TRACTION COMPANY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being on my feet all day, and being too tired to walk home, I take the West Fourth and West Piedmont avenue car which is all right if I could me cure which is all right if I could make connections without long waits, but as the car leaves Third avenue west corner at 6:04 I generally miss it and am compelled to wait fifteen to eighteen minutes till 6:24 for the next car, and it just this long wait that starts me thinking, that the company is not giving us West Piedmonters the best service, and although I am not a dispatcher I think the company could give us better service if the car schedulo was timed eleven minutes later, say 6:15, as the large number who miss the 6:04 could catch the 6:15 without any wait, or it would be even better if the small car that turns back at Twelfth avenue west ran right through up West Piedmont avenue, as it would take the congestion off the 6:04 car and relieve the corner crowding especially as the Twelfth avenue car now passes often with only three or four passengers at Third avenue, leaving us beating our toes, and grieving our stomachs, wondering when we would get home.

Again, I think we are entitled to the above changes, especially as the West Third street line has a 5-minute service from 5 to 7 p. m. in (four times the accommodation we have), and as we have had a second expense of grading Piedmont avenue for car service I feel we are not asking too much in the above suggestions, as I believe they are in line with the public's welfare and general good of the street car service.

STRAP HOLDER.

Duluth, May 11.

"The Politics of American Business."

Sydney Brooks in the North American Review: The better business minds of the country are working round to the view that public control is not only inevitable, but may be as beneficial to the corporations as to the public; and the better legislative minds in the same way are within measurable distance of acknowledging the inadequacies and fatuity of laws that by setting themselves athwart the whole movement of modern commerce necessitate prosecutions which "dissolve" great corporations that are promptly reorganized, bring on recurrent periods of business uncertainty and depression, and change the forms of things while leaving their fundamental substance wholly unaffected.

As an example of the advance that has been made and that is still going on toward an understanding between the corporations and the public, the language used in the middle of March by Theodore Vail in submitting his annual report to the stockholders of the American Telephone & Telegraph company seems to me highly significant and auspicious. I have come across nothing, not even in the sane and luminous speeches and articles that one has grown used to expecting from James J. Hill, that struck me as more indicative of the growing enlightenment of the business world than this report of Mr. Vail's. It is a document such as a dozen years ago no American in his position, no "captain of industry" or "trust magnate," would or could have penned. The American politician with any sense of the complexities and character of modern commerce is still something of a rarity. The American business man with any gleam in him of real statesmanship is perhaps rarer still. But it is impossible to read Mr. Vail's report without perceiving it to be impregnated with the authentic spirit and vision of the broadest citizenship. For in it the head of one of the greatest corporations in the country accepts without demur the full doctrine of public control, while at the same time announcing his determination to make the enterprise under his management a "universal, interdependent and intercommunicating" system, "like the highway system of the country, extending from every door to every other door."

Mr. Vail indicates a clear and justifiable preference for permanent commissions of a quasi-judicial character over any kind of legislative body or committee. These commissions "can and should stop all abuses of capitalization, of extortion, or of overcharges, of unreasonable division of profits." They should also secure full publicity of accounts, insure to the public good service and fair rates, and to the investor a fair return on his outlay. Coming from a man of Mr. Vail's standing, this seems to me a very important declaration. It amounts to an indorsement of all or nearly all that its warmest advocates have claimed for the commission plan of dealing with public franchises; and there can, I think, be little doubt that it is in the utilization of such commissions to stand between the public authorities, on the one hand, and the corporations on the other, that the United States is destined to lead the world and to make the most valuable of all contributions to the problem of combining private initiative and enterprise with the due protection of public rights.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: When the sun shines lay aside a little of your enthusiasm for a rainy day.

Every man seems to think that he is warranted in doing unwarranted things.

Labor is the foundation of many a fortune—but not necessarily of the laborer's.

It is difficult to convince the head of the house that two heads are better than one.

And lots of people who think they have nothing but trouble don't know what trouble really is.

Anyway, the average woman knows as much about things political as the average man does about caring for a baby.

Remember, there is a limit to human endurance. The friend who stands up for you may tire in the course or time and proceed to sit down on you.

The Old Fireside.

'Tis sittin' by the stove I am, where all the fire in sight
Would never raise a blisther on a baby's arm tonight.
The wind goes howlin' down the street as though the imps below
Were out upon a picnic, playin' ball with sleet and snow;
But I am snug in my mind a hearth-stone broad and wide
And a pile of blazin' Irish turf on the old fireside.

Wan side my mother sits and knits a stockin' meant for me,
My father's in the corner seat, his paper on his knee.
A candle and his specs beside supply his nightly needs,
And granny's prayin', for I hear the rattle of her beads,
And there am I with naked shins, a happy boy beside
The blessed heat and comfort of the old fireside.

Sometimes the wind and rain come down the chimney with a shout
And mother signs the cross to see the ashes dance about,
And father laughs and says "Bedad, the pookha's out tonight."
But granny whispers "Hush, avic, some poor soul's on its flight."
And then we get to thinkin' of the lonesome wans denied
Forever more the comfort of their old fireside.

The latch keeps liftin' now and then as neighbors saunther in
With many a kind "God save all here" and "God save ye ag'in."
And soon from talkin' politics at fairy tales they'll be.
With stools dhrawn up around the blaze as close as close can be,
And no one wants to look behind, afraid a ghost might bide
Among the flickering shadows of the old fireside.

I wondher where they are tonight, for sure when all is told
'Tis feelin' out of place they'd be on shinin' sthreets of gold.
But in the many mansions of the Father's House above
There may be humble corners where the poor can feel His love.
So in some friendly place apart my Irish kin may bide,
Enjoying still the comforts of the old fireside.

A Fine Anniversary Edition.

From Bridgeport, Conn., comes an unusually handsome special issue of the Standard, celebrating its eightieth anniversary in a manner fitting the long and useful history of that newspaper. It contains 104 pages, making the largest newspaper ever issued in one edition by a Connecticut newspaper, and mechanically and otherwise it is a delight to look upon. It is liberally filled with well-written and well-printed advertisements, and its descriptive matter and illustrations are exceedingly well done.

The Wealth of Life.

John Ruskin: There is no wealth but life—life, including all its powers of love, of joy, and of admiration. That country is the richest which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings; that man is richest who, having perfected the functions of his own life to the outmost, has also the widest helpful influence, both personal and by means of his possessions, over the lives of others.

DULUTH, JUNE 1 AND 2.

Don't Forget.

Menagha Journal: While Northern Minnesota was not given reapportionment which it was justly entitled to, still the work of the Development association is clearly portrayed in the several measures which became law, that benefit and are of vital interest to the settlers of our Northland. Remember the next meeting to be held at Duluth, June 1 and 2.

Come One, Come All.

Bemidji Pioneer: They sure are going to move the lake farther from the shore in Duluth on June 1 and 2. Northern Minnesota with her ears pinned back and her hair in a braid, will there start the development association meeting.

The Biggest Ever.

Walker Pioneer: And now Northern Minnesota is preparing for another meeting of its development association to be held June 1 and 2.

This meeting will be held at Duluth, and according to all indications, will be the biggest gathering of its kind ever held in the northern part of our state. Duluth will be amply able to take care of the guests and invites as large an attendance as the part of the state concerned can furnish for the occasion. County associations are preparing to select delegates, and Cass county is not a bit behind in its part of the work.

Are You Coming?

Cass Lake Times: Bemidji, Crookston, Brainerd, Duluth. And the last shall be first.

Duluth Will Make Good.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Duluth will be host to the Northern Minnesota Development association on June 1 and 2, and it is a safe bet that the delegates that attend the meeting will have the best time they have had at any of the gatherings. When Duluth starts out to show an aggregation of visitors that Duluth is the right town to go to when they want a good time it generally makes good. And the meeting of the development association will be no exception. The two daily papers are making all kinds of promises for Duluth and you can bank on it that the people of Duluth will make good. Even if they have to "fix" the weather man.

The Boosters Will Be Here.

Menagha Journal: The different counties included in the Northern Minnesota Development association should see to it that good live boosters are sent to the Duluth meeting to be held the first week in June. The organization has accomplished splendid work for our Northland, and is worthy of your hearty support. Make your plans to attend the Duluth meeting.

Facing the Facts.

Kansas City Star: In one striking sentence in his address before the Knife and Fork club last night Governor Wilson summed up the whole political situation. It was in his definition of the progressive and the reactionary:

"The progressive looks facts in the face and meets them; the reactionary has no stomach for the facts."

There you have the clew to the great movements in America for the last quarter century—and the clew to the program that Governor Wilson himself has carried through with such remarkable success in New Jersey.

Looking facts in the face, Grover Cleveland asserted that the government could not give special tariff favors to privileged classes indefinitely without reaping the fruits of injustice. The reactionaries, shutting their eyes to all unpleasant facts, urged that the tariff be let alone.

Profoundly impressed with the swelling and universal discontent with the dominance of privileged business interests, Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed the gospel of the square deal as the only way to save the country from an explosion of popular anger. The reactionaries, satisfied with their dividends, and refusing to consider the real facts, denounced him as a "dangerous man."

Today men like Wilson, who actually see the facts, and who know that the only way to prevent Russian terrorism from developing in the United States is to prevent Russian injustice from growing up here, are called "unsettlers of business." In reality they are conservators of business.

The square deal program advocated by such men as Wilson and Roosevelt, to correct obvious wrongs, is the only program founded on a comprehension of the facts. The reactionaries who oppose it have simply stuck their heads in the sand.

"The progressive looks facts in the face and meets them; the reactionary has no stomach for the facts."

And the World Went On.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: They were cast away on a desert island, escaping from the sinking ship with their lives and little else.

"Tomorrow," said the man, "will be Sunday."

The woman sighed as she put up her luxuriant hair. Then she stared at her frock and her battered shoes.

"George," she said to the man, "I want your help. Show me the things that have been washed up from the wreck."

He led her to the little heap of wreckage and she gazed at it meditatively. Then she went to work. She picked up a waste basket from the captain's cabin, encircled it with the rim of a saucepan and trimmed it with six feathers from the cook's duster. Then she hung a square of hammock netting over it and garnished one side with a binnacle lamp reflector and a bit of knotted rope.

Carefully balancing this masterpiece she lowered it over her head and let it rest on her ears.

Then she smiled.

"Then let it be Sunday," she said.

Credit to the Cat.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Those who denounce the cat as a conveyer of germs forget that an industrious and business-like pussy is a regulator of the rat, who is a disseminator of the plague.

The Value of Time.

Washington Star: "When I started in life," said Mr. Booster, "I worked twelve hours a day."

"Yes," replied his son, "but in these rapid times any one who took twelve hours to do a day's work couldn't hold a job."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Woman's Home Companion: Frost—What's the difference between a debutante and a suffragette?

Snow—About twenty years.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "They say he's very philantropic."

"Yes, indeed. He provides his employes with everything except fire escapes."

Judge: "Isn't it strange the Scrapleys always have their house full of company?"

"Oh, I don't know; it's the only way they can get along together."

Houston Post: "I am going to ask your father tonight for your hand in marriage."

"How dreadfully old fashioned you are!"

"In what way?"

"Don't ask him; tell him."

Chicago News: Kalem—Duler seems to be looked upon as the most famous man in your town; what is the reason?

Sillig—He was the first inhabitant to mortgage his home to buy an airship.

Chicago Tribune: "Eventually," said the literary boarder, brightening up, "I believe it will be possible for G. Bernard Shaw to advance some commonplace idea or suggestion without starting everybody in discussing it as if it were something worth while."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Girls can exercise a lot of influence over men by not marrying them.

A woman can rule her husband without being able to do it to the children.

Telling the truth is not so difficult; it's not telling a lie instead that is so hard.

People will ask you to let them do you a favor when they wouldn't do it if you asked them to.

Lots of women are ashamed to have their husbands so unartistic they can't help being successful.

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Protone, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine," said a well known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: MAY 14. Isaiah vi: Isaiah's Vision and Call.

THE CONNECTION.

A new voice pierced the heart of the nation, like a bullet from a pistol, at the time of Uzziah's decline and the nation's delinquency. It was the voice of the rising young prophet, Isaiah, a star of the first magnitude.

Isaiah lived in Jerusalem, was highly connected, well educated, personally influential, lofty minded. He saw the political dangers from the three great powers that were then working out the secular issues of the world—Assyria, Babylon and Egypt—with Judah lying on the highway between them. He saw Judah threatened on all sides. He saw the northern kingdom hastening to its ruin. He saw idolatry, love of money, luxury, pride, sensuality debauching the manhood and womanhood of the city and the nation. God raised him up a statesman, poet, orator, patriot, seer, to check Judah in her march to ruin, by describing her sins and depicting her doom, and by centering her thought on the Leader who was to come, the Messiah.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Call: 1-4.

"In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord, sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above him stood the seraphim: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory. And the foundations of the thresholds were moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke."

1. VISION—He claimed that he saw God. It was not with the physical eye, for God told Moses that no man could see His face and live, and Jesus said, "No man hath seen God, at any time." It was while he was in a trance condition, perhaps. But, if he saw anything with the bodily eye, it was the external symbols of God and not God, in His essence. Yet there is a way to see God. It is with the eye of faith. Moses "endured, as seeing Him who is invisible." But the eye of faith is set, not in the head, but in the heart; "blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." The noble young man, Isaiah, met the requirement. His inner sense was quickened to see the invisible things of God and of the future.

2. CONTRASTS—It was at the right moment to contrast the pure and eternal God with the leprous and dying King, the unshaken throne of Jehovah with the trembling temple and the tottering throne of Judah, God's real nearness with Judah's conception of His absence, the splendor of His cherubic servants as contrasted with the horrors of those who are followed by all the attendant train of wrong. It was in the temple, the holiest place being alone suited to the manifestation of the holy God. It taught how unapproachably holy God is, in Himself, and how His holiness is so manifested as to constitute a glory, a halo, that we can see. The antiponal song of the creatures, whose wings veiled them so that they could not see nor be seen, was a message to the reverent young prophet.

II.

The Response of the Prophet: 5-8.

"Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone: because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts. Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: and he touched my mouth with it, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged. And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I; send me."

1. ABASEMENT—The right of God overwhelmed him with a sense of his sins, which he expresses very vividly. The light of God's nature was a search light on himself and his people. It was not sorrow at impending punishment, but shame at inner pollution. He felt "the blinding shock of a personal encounter with One whom he was utterly unfit to meet." One's lips are the blossom of one's life and how could he speak for God as the seraphim spoke of Him? That abasement was essential in his response to that call.

2. CLEANSING—The next step in his response is to receive cleansing, and it must begin right where the impurity comes into consciousness, at the lips. It must come entirely from God, from His altar, and with the great purifying agent, fire. The symbolism is matchless. Cleansing includes pardon of past sins as well as purification from present sinfulness.

3. CONSECRATION—That was the climax of his response. Concentration on that one thing is necessary, for it means set apart to it. The sense of sin would have driven him away from the task, but the cleansing from sin disclosed his duty. When the lips were cleansed the life was kindled. He was called but not coerced. His choice was left free and he was a volunteer. It was what God did for his uncleanness that gave him hope for the people.

III.

The Prophet Commissioned, 9-13.

"And he said, Go and tell this people, Hear ye indeed, but understand not; and see ye indeed, but perceive not. Make the heart of this people fat, and make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes; lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and turn again, and be healed. Then said I, Lord, how long? And he answered, Until cities be waste without inhabitant, and houses without man, and the land become utterly waste, and the Lord have removed men far away, and the forsaken places be many in the midst of the land. And if there be yet a tenth in it, it shall again be eaten up: as a terebinth, and as an oak, whose stock remaineth, when they are felled; so the holy seed is the stock thereof."

1. DEGENERATION—God did not allow the ardent young prophet to indulge a foolish hope, but permitted him to anticipate the actual results of his preaching on most of the people. The means God uses, to soften men, will often harden them and sometimes that fact is stated in such a way as to imply that His one purpose was to harden them, as the gospel is a savor of death unto death to those who will not hear. The fat, stupid heart, the dull ears and the smeared-over eyes are a result predicted, almost in the form of a command.

2. DESTRUCTION—The young man recoils, in horror, from such a vision as was presented to his gaze and asked how long the horror of moral degeneration would continue, especially how long he would have to do preaching that was going to have such results. But the moral surgery must be complete, before there can be reconstruction—cities destroyed, houses depopulated, land left uncultivated, men carried away captive, the land full of deserted places.

3. RECONSTRUCTION—There is a stock left alive, a "holy seed" to grow, a "remnant," that shall start a new nation. That was definitely fulfilled in Christ, as well as in the restoration of Judah after seventy years of captivity.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

"While Assyria thus hung like a war cloud over the northeast and Egypt heaved with revolution in the southeast, a child was born in Jerusalem, destined to leave a greater name than all the monarchs or warriors of his age. The birth year of Isaiah, the greatest of the prophets, seems to have been about B. C. 760, or perhaps earlier. He appears to have been a Benjamite, and was the son of one Amoz, of whom we know nothing beyond the name; for the various Jewish traditions, that he was no other than Amos, the prophet, or a brother of King Amaziah, are mere unfounded inventions. His great-grandson and his great-great-grandson are said to have been prophets; and the name of one of his great-grandchildren, Kalaiah, "the voice of Jehovah," appears to show that prophecy was a special endowment in the family through successive generations. It is noteworthy also that when Isaiah married he chose a wife who was herself a prophetess."—Geike.

"The first line of the seraph's song serves more than a temporary end. The Trisagion rings, and has need to ring, forever down the church. Everywhere and at all times these are the three besetting sins of religious people—callousness in worship, carelessness in life, and the temper which employs the forms of religion simply for self-indulgence or self-aggrandisement. These sins are induced by the same habit of contentment with mere form; they can be corrected only by the vision of the Personal Presence who is behind all form."—G. A. Smith.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Is it possible for an ordinary Christian to have very exalted views of God?
2. Why does the rare vision require rare service?
3. Why are people of today losing the sense of sinfulness?
4. What will be required to awaken our sense of sinfulness again?
5. Are we likely to have a revival of reverence once more?
6. Are men called to service in any such way today?

PASSING OF THE HORSE

Four City Departments Now Using Automobiles at a Saving.

Health Department Wants Auto Trucks for Garbage Collection.

The city is steadily but surely replacing horses with automobiles for use in the various departments.

The first to make the change was the police department, which was equipped with a large Franklin touring car for special calls. The police officials declare that it is worth its weight in gold, and that they cannot understand how they ever were able to get along without it.

There isn't the slightest doubt but that the Franklin has greatly increased the efficiency of the department. Many calls have been answered on short notice, some of them at long distances, which would otherwise have had to go with little attention. Often the very speed which has been possible with the machine has resulted in the arrest of criminals who would otherwise have gotten away. In addition to these calls there has been much other business of the department which has received attention because of its time saving ability.

The old horse patrol, which kept the headquarters station smelling like a livery stable, has been replaced with an auto patrol. At first it caused more or less trouble, but after it was once adjusted it has given general satisfaction. Figures have been produced to show that the cost of operation of both machines has been less than the cost of maintaining the horses, two teams of which were required, one being used days and the other nights.

At the council meeting Monday night the board of public works and the city engineering department were authorized to purchase an automobile at a cost of not to exceed $1,800. In the past both departments have used horses, but they were abandoned because it was impossible to cover enough ground with them to make them worth while. With the machine available the efficiency of these departments will be greatly increased. There will be no additional expense for a chauffeur as the driver will be made a deputy inspector and will be able to perform an inspector's duties as well as run the car.

The board of water and light commissioners will be the fourth city department to have an automobile. The members of the board have had the matter under consideration for some time and have advertised for bids.

The health department is asking for auto trucks for garbage collection and there is little reason to doubt but they will be installed as soon as the city can afford it. Municipal collection of garbage in the downtown section has passed the experimental stage, and the tendency is towards municipal collection throughout the city. When that time comes the collecting will likely be done by auto trucks.

Beware the Photograph.

The photographs of human thoughts, pictures of ideas that pass through the brain, may be taken on dry plates, developed and kept as records of mental processes, according to Dr. Max Baff, an eminent psychologist of Clark college, Worcester, Mass. Just what valuable use the discovery can be put to remains in doubt. It is certain, however, that if the minds of the public could be photographed now, a very large number of the plates would show a family bottle of golden grain belt beers first in the thoughts of the people. APPEAL HAS BEEN DISMISSED

Last Papers in Famous Rossi Case Have Been Filed.

The appeal to the supreme court in the case of the state against Michelo Rossi, who is now serving a life term at the Minnesota state prison for the murder of Antonio De Meo, has been dismissed by stipulation.

The last papers to be filed in the case were filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday.

Rossi was under sentence to be hanged for the crime of which he had been convicted when the state legislature, by an act passed at the recent session, abolished capital punishment. The sentence was commuted and Rossi was recently taken to Stillwater to serve a life sentence.

Rossi had been confined at the St. Louis county jail for about two years. Sentence had been passed for many months but the date of the execution was not set by the governor. The case dragged along until the legislature passed the bill which abolished capital punishment.

The crime was committed in August, 1909. Rossi awaited his victim in the Omaha railroad yards and both stabbed and shot his victim.

The two men had trouble in a saloon the evening previous to the murder. At that time Rossi was stabbed in the arm by De Meo and from this wound he says he has never recovered.

Mr. Bevis has had previous experience in the conduct of campaigns of this kind. Mr. and Mrs. Bevis will be gone about three weeks.

SAVED FROM NIAGARA.

Constable Rescues Buffalo Woman From Death.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 11.—Fighting with grim determination to end her life, Mrs. Elizabeth Hartley of Buffalo, 60 years old, was rescued from death at the very brink of the cataract yesterday by Constable Thomas Harrington, who faced constant danger of being carried over the falls with the struggling woman.

Mrs. Hartley, who came here yesterday, entered the water about sixty feet above the falls. Her dress caught on a jagged rock fifteen feet from the brink. There she was held until Harrington reached the brink with a pike pole and hooked it into her dress. Her arms pinioned by the terrific current, Mrs. Hartley tried to get free from the pole, but finally, weakened by her struggles, she became quiet and was dragged ashore. At the hospital where she was taken it is said she cannot live.

On the river bank was found a letter and a bunch of flowers. The letter read:

"No longer to be treated as a thing demented."

Word received later from Buffalo said that Mrs. Hartley was an inmate of the state hospital there. She had been on parole for several weeks and left the institution yesterday to take a position in a private family. She had shown no sign of mental trouble for three months.

FORMER SOCIETY BELLE DIES IN A POORHOUSE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 11.—Mrs. Clarissa Truesdale, aged 105, a society belle in the days when James Monroe was president, who at the time owned 300 acres of the present site of Chicago, died here Tuesday in the county poorhouse.

Mrs. Truesdale came west in 1825 with her sister. At Buffalo she met Mr. Truesdale and married him within two hours. Mr. Truesdale was on his way to Mackinac, but altered his plans to suit his bride.

Prostrated By Heat.

New York, May 11.—The season of heat prostrations began yesterday, when Jerry Watzell, a tinsmith, was overcome while at work on a steamship. The temperature at 3 o'clock p. m. was 83. Never has summer weather come so early since 1896, when there was a temperature of 91 deg. on May 9.

LAUDS WORK OF CHARITY

W. E. McEwen Says Associated Charities Has Had Wonderful Results.

Officers Report to Directors on Work of the Year.

In an address made after the reports from the different committees had been heard at the meeting of the board of directors of the Duluth Associated Charities held yesterday afternoon at the courthouse, W. E. McEwen stated that the Duluth society has accomplished more in the short time it has been organized than societies of a like nature in other towns have accomplished in years.

Mr. McEwen, who was recently elected a director, stated that the society is doing a good work and that it is moving along systematic and modern lines.

Reports which covered the entire work of the society since its beginning some months ago, were presented for the consideration of the board. In every instance the members of the board seemed to be greatly pleased.

Work at Rock Pile.

Secretary Courtenay Dinwiddie gave a full report of what had been done at the rock pile. The figures showed that 227 men had been given work there. Of this number 69 were given short jobs at better pay and 51 had been given permanent positions. Of those who had not been given work elsewhere, only 7 had returned to the quarry, showing that they had either found positions or had left the city.

The largest number of men at the rock pile in any one day was nineteen, who worked a total of ninety-eight hours. The average number of days worked by each of the men was three. Altogether the men, who represented twelve nationalities, worked 3,724 hours. The Associated Charities paid them in wages for this service $573.13, while the society will receive from the city $564.54. The rock which the men broke will be used by the city on the streets. It was estimated by R. E. Patterson, formerly of the board of public works, that the city was securing the crushed stone at as low a cost as it could in any other way.

Many Families Aided.

Miss Margaret Meeker, assistant secretary, in her report, showed that 228 families have been helped. She showed how duplication had been avoided and gave other details of the work of taking care of needy families.

Miss Mary Anderson, visiting nurse, reported a total of forty-six patients under her care. Of these thirty-two were adults, eight children and six babies under the age of 2 years. She made 166 visits and eighty-five friendly calls. Of the patients under her care thirteen recovered, twelve improved and three had died.

At the conclusion of the reports the directors passed resolutions indorsing the work of the different officers and committees. The report of the meeting will be printed in pamphlet form.

The following members of the board were present: Rev. A. W. Ryan, E. A. Paine, B. A. Silberstein, Miss Jean Poirier, A. B. Stewart, Mrs. O. C. Hartman, J. W. Lyder, Jr., J. J. Le Tourneau, L. Mendenhall and W. E. McEwen.

MONTANA MAN IS SHOT DOWN

Joseph Hamilton, Ex-Sheriff at Great Falls, Is Killed Near City.

Great Falls, Mont., May 11.—This community is excited over the killing of ex-Sheriff Joseph Hamilton of Cascade county, near here while he was assisting in the effort to capture the men who stole the body of the infant grandson of millionaire W. G. Conrad, from a local cemetery and offered to return it for $1,500.

Recently Hartield Conrad, father of the child, was notified his child's body would be returned to him if $1,500 was left beside a lantern he would find burning at a lonely spot on the Fort Benton road.

Making up a "dummy" package, Conrad and a brother went to the place in an automobile. Hamilton was to follow on horseback and take the grave robbers by surprise.

Coming to a point where a light was burning some distance from the road, they dropped their package and proceeded on their way. About a mile farther on they found the lantern burning by the roadside and realized they had made a mistake.

Returning to get the package again they saw stooping over it the figure of a man, who straightened up with a gun in his hand as they approached. Both Conrads immediately opened fire, the man dropping at the first shot. Investigation disclosed that they had killed their friend, Hamilton.

It is said later developments may prove that Hamilton was shot by bodysnatchers, prior to the time the Conrad brothers shot at Hamilton.

STATE IRON ORE MINES

Royalty on Two Million Tons May Be Received This Year.

Only Twenty State Leases Are Developed to Shipping Mines.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Facts and figures pertaining to Minnesota mines and their products have been compiled by J. P. Funk, of the mineral department, state auditor's office. In a bulletin issued today, he gives these estimates:

1. It is a question whether on the whole the Lake Superior district will ship as much ore this season as in 1910, the record year—43,440,000 tons—of which Minnesota shipped about 60 per cent, or approximately 30,000,000.

2. Of the more than 125 mines opened and operated on the Mesaba range, twenty are state mines. Of these twenty, several were opened during the past year, namely the Scranton, Morton, Woodbridge, Cavour, Helmer, Cavacona and Fay.

3. The Scranton is a promising mine containing an admitted tonnage of 19,000,000 tons, although the whole tract—120 acres—has not yet been thoroughly explored and a still greater tonnage is expected. The mine belongs to the swamp land fund.

4. The first shipments of ore will be made from the Cuyuna range this month and Minnesota can then boast of three shipping iron ranges—the Vermilion, Mesaba and Cuyuna. It is possible that one of the state's mines on the Cuyuna will enter the shipping list this season.

5. There was shipped, in 1910, from the state's own mines 1,100,000 tons of ore, from which the school, university and swamp lands funds were respectively enriched by $275,000, that is, a royalty of 25 cents per ton accrues to the state on the output. Aside from this the state receives annually as minimum royalty payments and in annual rentals on undeveloped mines about $100,000. There are at present —in force—232 state mineral leases, of which, as stated, only twenty have been developed to shipping mines.

6. One state mine—the Grant—so the state's mining inspectors have informed the state auditor, intends to ship out this season 500,000 tons—this mine is near Buhl. Another, the Pool, it is expected, will be not far behind in shipments. It is within the possibilities that the state will receive royalty on an output of 2,000,000 tons this season, netting a revenue of $500,000, all of which will go to enrich the permanent school and other funds of our commonwealth.

TORNADO WRECKS TOWN OF FELTON

Small Place North of Moorhead Hard Hit By Heavy Wind Storm.

Moorhead, Minn., May 11.—A great funnel-shaped cloud, bringing with it a terrific wind, bore down upon Felton, a small town twenty miles north of here, yesterday afternoon, tore down a dozen buildings, blew in every good-sized window in the town and tore up trees in large numbers.

The only one hurt, so far as could be learned, was Andrew Peterson, a farmer, living two and one-half miles west of Felton, who sustained serious injuries about the head. He was in his barn when it was overturned.

The buildings blown down were mostly machine sheds and barns.

At Fargo two dozen houses and barns were blown down and many carried far across the country, and many windows were shattered, telephone and electric service were demoralized and a farmer seriously hurt. The storm struck each side of Fargo in the afternoon.

At Marion, to the west of here, and the section in that neighborhood, people rushed for their cellars to escape the debris and flying timbers. Barns, machine sheds and some small houses were taken bodily from the ground and carried considerable distances.

NIGHT RUN FROM ST. PAUL.

Cashier of Eveleth Bank Is Trying His New Auto.

St. Paul, Minn., May 11.—(Special to the Herald.)—To see how fast and how well his new automobile would run at night, Charles B. Hoel, cashier of the Miners' National bank of Eveleth, left here soon after sundown last night for an overland spin to Duluth and Eveleth. Walter J. Smith, state treasurer; Norris Colvin, lumberman from Gilbert, and Representative Ribenack of Duluth were with him.

"I think this run should give the car a satisfactory work-out," Mr. Hoel said. "It's all inclosed so that a rain won't hurt us."

SENATE DEFEATS THE GREEVES BILL.

Columbus, Ohio, May 11.—Following an exciting day, marked by severe denunciation of the press, detectives and those pushing the criminal investigation of corruption in the legislature, the senate yesterday, by a vote of 22 to 2, defeated the Greeves bill, which would have annulled the immunity provision of the law for inquiries by committees of the assembly. This is the measure the house passed hurriedly after the members became aroused over the senate's action in appointing a committee of senators for what representatives considered whitewashing purposes.

WOULD PENSION WIDOWS OF TWO PRESIDENTS.

Washington, May 11.—Pensions of $5,000 a year each for Frances Folsom Cleveland, widow of President Cleveland, and Mary Lord Harrison, widow of President Harrison, are provided for in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Root of New York.

SUBURB LEFT IN DARKNESS

New Duluth People Retired By Candle Light as Result of Storm.

A severe wind storm blew down the electric light wires from the small power plant at the Becklinger furniture factory at New Duluth last evening, and left the suburb in darkness. The power was cut off shortly before 9 o'clock and the break was not fixed during the night.

The Duluth-Edison Electric company is now stringing wires from West Duluth to New Duluth on the poles of the Duluth Telephone company. The work has been delayed during the past few weeks, as it was planned to have the job finished before this.

From present indications, the equipment will not be in shape so that the electricity can be turned on much before June 1. Practically all of the new houses and most of the old ones have been wired in contemplation of the improvement.

A few New Duluth people have been getting electric power from the Becklinger plant. The new service however will be a welcome improvement.

There will be seven numbers on the program. Rev. Mr. Sievers, who is making arrangements for the affair today, stated that the concert was held mainly for the purpose of promoting the musical spirit at West Duluth. If the concert is a success financially and expenses are met, other affairs of this kind may be held and an effort to organize a West Duluth Musical club revived.

ODD WAYS OF TELLING TIME.

A watch or clock was about as rare in Turkey fifty years ago as an aeroplane is in America now. Even today in the smaller cities and villages a timepiece in the house is a convenience and luxury indulged in by a few of the wealthy class.

Nature is the clock of that land, a clock which never stops or fails to serve its purpose. The crow of the cock is the simplest, says Armenia, the sun the most dependable and convenient and the cat's eye the most difficult and to Occidentals the most humorous of timepieces.

The cock crows regularly morning, forenoon, noon, afternoon and evening, and serves the purpose of the striking clock of a belfry tower. Sometimes a cock crows at irregular periods. Woe unto him! for superstition demands that his head be chopped off, a demand which is complied with without delay, for to tolerate an ill crowing cock is to bring bad luck—so the natives believe.

It needs little experience to be able to tell whether it be morning, noon, afternoon or near evening by merely noting the position of the sun. The time is more accurately told by judging the shadows cast by the sun, which is the mode most popular with the shepherds in the fields.

Still another method, more accurate, is the following: They hold their thumbs touching each other horizontally, and extend the forefingers up perpendicularly. Then they divide the thumb and forefinger of each hand into six parts, nominal hour points, one hand representing the morning and the other the afternoon.

Where the thumbs join being twelve o'clock, the tip of one forefinger representing six o'clock in the morning and the tip of the other six o'clock in the afternoon. By holding the hands in the described position toward the sun the shadow cast by one forefinger upon the other will point to the correct time, as judged by the hours nominally marked in mind. The hour divisions may be divided into additional parts, as the quarter hours.

To tell the time by the cat's eye sounds at first humorous, but it can be done. The average person perhaps is not aware that the shape of the cat's eye undergoes changes during the day. In the morning the pupil is normally circular, but gradually it narrows until noon, when only a narrow streak is left. As the day progresses it resumes its normal shape, becoming oval about three o'clock in the afternoon. In Turkey it is common for the old folks to call the cat to their sides in order to ascertain the time.

As an illustration of how accurately time can be measured by the shadow cast by the sun can be cited a trial in the courts of Omaha, Neb., where a man was acquitted of the charge of attempted murder through the alibi established by the shadow of a church steeple cast upon a photograph, which contained the two accusing witnesses, who had testified seeing the man between two and three o'clock in the afternoon while returning from church, after the photograph was taken.

But from the angle formed by the shadow and the horizontal boards of the church in the photograph Father Riggs, astronomer at Creighton University, calculated the time the photograph must have been taken and testified that the exact moment was during the afternoon at 3:21:29, one hour later than the witnesses had testified they met the prisoner. The testimony given by the astronomer was so concise and clear and the impossibility of the witnesses having seen the accused man at the scene of the crime at the time it was alleged to have been committed was shown to be so absolute that the accused man was acquitted.

COMPLICATED FRENCH CLOCKS.

London Globe: The clock of Lyons cathedral is a wonderful piece of mechanism, and the legend describing it is as follows: The cock crows, the bell sounds the hours, the little bells the Sancte Spiritus; the angel opens the gate to salute the Virgin Mary. The two heads of the lions move the eyes and the tongue. The astrolable shows the hours in its degree, and the movement of the moon. Moreover, the perpetual calendar shows all the days of the year, the feast days and the bissextile. The hours at which the chimes are complete are 5 and 6 in the morning, midday and 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The chimes of the other hours are restricted so as not to interfere with the cathedral services.

Complicated indeed is the clock of Beauvais cathedral. It is said to be composed of 92,000 separate pieces, according to a French journal. One sees on the 52 dial plates the hour, the day, the week and the month; the rising and the setting of the sun, phases of the moon, the tides, the time in the principal capitals of the world, together with a series of terrestrial and astronomical evolutions. The frame-work is of carved oak 8 meters by 5 meters, or 26 by 16¼ feet. When the clock strikes all the "edifice" seems in movement. The designer wished to depict the Last Judgment. This wonderful work recalls the work of Strasburg, and is of modern construction. It is the work of a Beauvasian, M. Verite, who was in the engineering department of the Nord Railway. He died in 1887.

The cock crows, angels sound the trumpet at the four cardinal points, imitation flames appear from the openings of little steeples right and left.

DONKEY FOUND GOLD.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Norman Buck, who in 1885, while associate judge of the supreme court of Idaho assigned to the four northern counties, reversed the finding of a jury and decided that, as the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines, bonanza lead-silver producers in the Coeur d'Alenes, were discovered by a donkey, its owners, Cooper and Peck, were entitled to a half interest in the former and a quarter interest in the latter claim, now valued at more than $20,000,000, is dead at his home in Spokane, Wash.

These were the days when the court room was often filled with miners, and when "Teddy" Guthrie, former prize fighter and sheriff, stood by the judge and maintained order with drawn revolvers.

Cooper and Pack, who owned the burro which Kellogg and O'Rourke found while kicking up "pay dirt," instituted suit for a share of the "find." The case was tried before Judge Buck and a jury. The latter had decided against the plaintiffs when the court reversed the finding and handed down this opinion, which is part of the judicial record of Idaho:

"From the evidence of the witnesses, this court is of the opinion that the Bunker Hill mine was discovered by the jackass, Phil O'Rourke and N. S. Kellogg; and as the jackass is the property of the plaintiffs, Cooper and Peck, they are entitled to a half interest in the Bunker Hill and a quarter interest in the Sullivan claims."

The case was appealed to the supreme court, but compromised before it came to trial, Cooper and Peck receiving $76,000 for their share and many thousands of dollars were distributed among other principals, lawyers and middlemen.

FEW CONGRESS GAITERS WORN NOW.

Shoe Retailer: The production of congress shoes in men's factories has not been discontinued altogether, some being still made. The output is about one pair to a hundred at the time when congress gaiters were worn by nearly half the people.

It was said that the goring was the main thing that hurt the shoe, and by this it is meant that it did not wear as well as the leather; but the main reason why congress shoes went out was because they were uncomfortable around the ankle.

CHISHOLM GETTING READY FOR EAGLES

Planning to Give State Aerie of Order Big Time Next Month.

Chisholm, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee preparing for the state aerie of the Eagles here, June 19, 20 and 21 is working hard to insure the success of the meet. Funds are being raised and plans perfected for giving the delegates and others attending a fine time.

Governor Eberhart has been secured as one of the noted speakers.

The Eagles convention will make one of the biggest gatherings ever seen here and every effort will be put forth to make each day a red letter day long to be remembered by the visitors.

The arrangements committee of the Eagles is as follows:

Chairman, A. L. Bergeron; secretary, S. Greenthal; treasurer, Matt Roberts; Alec McDonald, Sam Murray and A. McDougal.

The arrangements for baseball games have been left entirely with Judge Freeman and since the above was put in type we learn that Conrad Mann, grand secretary of the Eagles, will be among the speakers, as will John Norton of Duluth, county attorney, who is also a member of the Eagles.

PIONEER HOUPT CITIZEN CALLED

Ira Dexter, First White to Locate in Northome Locality, Is Dead.

Northome, Minn., May 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has just been received here of the death of Ira L. Dexter, an aged and respected citizen of Houpt, which occured recently at Minneapolis. The deceased was about 80 years old and was probably the first white man to locate in this part of the country. He came north in 1862 and took up a homestead where the present townsite of Houpt is located. At that time Deer River was the nearest railroad point.

He packed most of his provisions form that place and sometimes from Grand Rapids, and like many others endured many hardships before the railroad was finally built through this way. There was no Bemidji or Blackduck when he first took his homestead. He leaves a widow, who since his death is making her home in Minneapolis.

WOMAN MAULS OFFICER.

Buhl Man Worsted in Effort to Enforce Sanitary Law.

Buhl, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officer Charles Hill got considerably the worst of it when he attempted to enforce the sanitary laws, getting mixed in a free-for-all fight, in which, he was struck over the head with a board and had his clothes nearly all torn off.

It is claimed when Hill took Theodore Mardunvich into custody for not obeying the law, the latter's wife hit him on the head and another woman pounced upon him. The officer landed Mardunovich in court where he was fined $15 and costs by Judge A. E. Barrett. Later a warrant was issued for Mardunovich on the charge of resisting arrest, which is a felony in Minnesota. He entered a plea of not guilty and will have a hearing tomorrow.

TACONITE BOYS LOST.

Get on Wrong Road Returning Home and Go to Bovey.

Taconite, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Rabishand and Dick Laramie, two Taconite boys, aged 14 and 16 years, walked out to Riley lake, five miles north of town, Tuesday, to spend the day fishing. When they started home in the evening they took the wrong road, were lost and wandered around until quite late and then, seeing light sahead, walked into Bovey, tired and hungry at 9 o'clock that night.

Fred Brown, who has been employed by the Oliver Mining company at Taconite for the last two years, has just finished building his new residence on Leroy avenue.

Alphonse Derry, who has been living on a homestead north of town for several months, has moved to the Garvey addition and opened the large boarding house there owned by the Oliver Mining company. Mr. Derry has had to turn away several on account of not having room.

Miss Margaret Byrnes, postmistress at Taconite, and her sister, Lucy Byrnes, left yesterday morning for Ishpeming, Mich., where they will remain until the first week in June. The Misses Byrnes are visiting relatives in Michigan.

Albert Brown arrived at Taconite last night from Michigan. He is going to be timekeeper for the Oliver Mining company.

I. Barkla and George Haines have been building an automobile during the past winter and have just finished it. They came through Taconite with it last night. Every one has been congratulating them on their good work. It is a five-passenger car and makes just as good time as the other autos in town.

FAKE INSURANCE SCHEME NIPPED

Eveleth, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many foreign miners employed here have been victimized by swindlers in the guise of insurance agents. Two gangs have been at work here. One of the gangs consisted of a fake doctor, an "agent" and a "witness."

In the arrest of Charles Loushi, well known here, it is believed by the police, they have nabbed one of the gang. They charged their victims $1 each, and in return the miners were given much worthless paper, supposed to be accident insurance policies. The papers were referred to the local banks and found to be fraudulent policies. It is believed the gangs have been operating in other range towns.

GREAT NORTHERN TO REPAIR DEPOT

Building at Hibbing Is Almost Entirely Remodeled and Fixed Up.

Hibbing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern railroad will start work on the passenger depot here in two days, according to Division Supt. T. S. Stewart, who was here last evening with other officials. The depot when finished will practically be a new one as the railroad will spend in the neighorhood of $20,000, on the proposed repairs, alterations, and improvements, to both the passenger and freight depots. The freight house will be 124 feet long, and the loading and unloading facilities will be improved accordingly. Among the improvements to be made to the passenger depot will be a brick platform eighteen feet wide between the streets, and the whole of the inside and outside of the building will be renovated and decorated. Sewer and water are being put into the passenger station, and adaquate toilet conveniences added. In reply to a query as to the possibility of the Great Northern moving their tracks entering Hibbing Mr. Stewart was unable to give any definite information.

With Mr. Stewart were Assistant General Manager George H. Emmerson of St. Paul, General Supt. of Motive Power W. D. Hawkins, Chief Dispatcher C. C. Ponsonby, of the terminal division; General Supt. W. D. Scott, of the Eastern division, and General Master Mechanic T. E. Cannon of St. Paul. The visitors are looking over the Iron range.

PUBLIC MARKET MATTER HANGS

Hibbing Has Not Definitely Decided What Will Be Done.

Hibbing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In spite of various efforts and much discussion concerning the proposed public market, so far nothing definite has been done. The matter received some consideration from the Commercial club. Supervisor J. B. Connors said he believed the old council chamber of the Stuntz township could be utilized for the purpose and that it would be even a better proposition than to use the old fire hall, as it would be cheaper. Mr. Connors said that the establishing of a market in Hibbing would be something of an experiment in any case, and that neither the township nor the village could afford at this time to spend a large sum of money on an experiment. It is probable that the matter will receive the further attention of the Commercial club at an early meeting, but no definite stand has so far been taken by that body with reference to the matter.

CLOSED FOR REPAIRS.

Big Mill of Virginia & Rainy Lake Company Shuts Down.

Virginia Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big mill of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, which has been running steadily night and day for the past year without breaks, shut down yesterday to make needed repairs. It is expected that these repairs will necessitate a shut down of about three weeks. Most of the men employed in the mill will be put on the job of repairing or in doing other work about the yards so that all employed will be given an opportunity to continue at some kind of labor until the mill is again ready for sawing.

The little mill will continue to saw lumber on both shifts, and when the big mill again starts up the company expects to continue its cut of nearly 1,000 000 feet per day as heretofore. About 1,200 men are employed by the company the year around.

VILLAGE CLERKS ON RANGE MAY ORGANIZE.

Hibbing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village clerks on the range may perfect an organization for mutual benefit and the better transaction of public business at a meeting to be held in Virginia May 20. A call for such a meeting has been issued.

New Hibbing 'Phone Manager.

Hibbing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. A. Day of the Duluth office of the Duluth Telephone company has taken the position of commercial manager here, succeeding George F. Beatty, who left yesterday for his home. No changes will be made in the staff or service so far as is given out by the local office.

Eveleth Memorial Day Plans.

Eveleth, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles McNamara and Burton O. Greening of the Commercial club are arranging for the observance of Memorial day. The program will be given at the high school.

As State Senator James P. Boyle will speak at Madelia, Minn., on that day, a Duluth speaker will probably be secured.

TWO ARE PAROLED BY JUDGE HUGHES

Zim School Treasurer and Eveleth Man Given Another Chance.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Lemoin was found not guilty by a jury in district court on a charge of selling liquor to Indians. The case occupied the better part of two days.

The indictment against Nat Nasdlund was dismissed by Judge Hughes upon the defendant pleading guilty on information. Nasdlund was charged with having misappropriated funds to the amount of $855.72 while acting as treasurer of School District No. 31 of Zim. The shortage having been made good, he is out on one year's parole.

Charles Hogan, indicted on a charge of having "tapped" the till for $15 in the saloon of Charles Winchester at Eveleth, pleaded guilty and was released on parole of one year by Judge Hughes. Hogan claimed that he was drunk when he committed the deed, and his claim was substantiated by the jailers because of the fact that Hogan has "seen things" since his incarceration in the jail here.

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Matilda Helminen, who was murdered near Orr by Werner Borlund last week, was postponed until yesterday, and the services were held at the Finnish Lutheran church here in the afternoon, interment following in Greenwood cemetery. The family being in poor circumstances a popular subscription was taken and $71.25 raised to defray the expenses of the funeral. PLAN FINE FAIR.

Pennington Agricultural Society to Offer Liberal Premiums.

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pennington County Agricultural society met in the Commercial club Monday evening and transacted business relative to the fair to be held in this city this summer. The resignation of C. C. Jackson, the president, was accepted. He has been connected with the society for many years and was one of the incorporators of it. W. W. Prichard was elected to succeed him. David Gustafson was also chosen as vice president and John Myrland was elected secretary. Committees were appointed to care for the various departments of the fair and to determine the premiums to be awarded.

The list this year will be greatly enlarged and greater attention will be given to the exhibits of farm products and less to amusements. It was also decided to hold the fair the first week in August. Another fair will take place later in the season when the school children of the county will hold a county contest for the prizes offered for the best corn and other grains grown by the students. Pure bred seed corn is being distributed among the rural schools by the county superintendent and it is hoped that this will give the raising of first-class corn an impetus in Pennington county.

How to Beautify Plainest Complexions

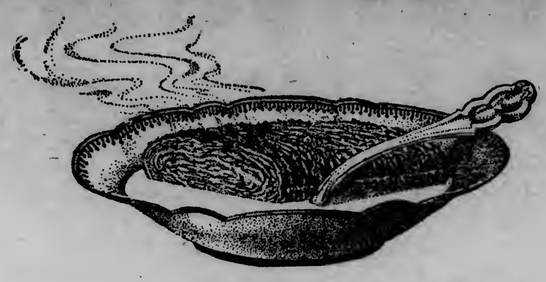
(Toilettes.)

"The growing popularity of face lotions is in keeping with our natural progress," says a well-known beauty writer, "and before long they will have supplanted powders and cosmetics.

"A very fine lotion can be prepared at little cost by dissolving a small original package of mayatone in eight ounces of witch-hazel. This, applied to the skin daily, frees it of pimples, blackheads or other blemishes, and will give to the 'muddy' or lifeless complexion a rich embellishment and natural health-tint impossible with powder or rouge.

"This mayatone lotion is greaseless and prevents the growth of hairs. Many women use it to prevent tan and it is employed to protect the skin from harsh winds and changing weather."

Lost—An Appetite



somewhere between Midnight and Dawn, between Lobster Lane and Crab Alley. No use looking for it in condiments or drugs—Nature will restore it in a natural way if you eat Shredded Wheat and live a simple life.

The delicate, porous shreds of cooked wheat, which are full of body-building nutriment, are easily digested by the most delicate stomach. Puts you on your feet when everything else fails.

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT

Also deliciously wholesome when eaten in combination with stewed or fresh fruits.

Try them for breakfast for ten days and you will eat no other cereal—they are so satisfying and strengthening. Your grocer sells them.

ELEMENTS ON RAMPAGE

Stiff Gale, Heavy Showers and Electrical Storm Sweep Duluth.

Snow or More Rain Predicted By the Weather Man.

The elements were on a rampage last night.

A equally northeast wind that attained a velocity of thirty miles an hour at times, blew dark thunder clouds across the sky and hats along the street. Lightning flashed and thunder boomed and J. Pluvius took a hand in the proceedings from time to time. An especially heavy shower about 11 o'clock last night was the most severe rain. Although only about one-tenth of an inch of rain fell on the level, the shower was squally and the fall was much heavier in spots.

The wind got around to the northwest during the night, and attained its greatest velocity, forty-four miles an hour, shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. The storm warnings at the weather bureau were shifted to northwest this morning, but they are still doing duty as a warning to mariners that Lake Superior will be uncomfortable for the next thirty-six hours.

The convention will be held in the Scandivanian society's hall, on Gold street.

A little more rain, or snow, may be expected tonight and tomorrow, with continued cool temperatures, and tomorrow will be clearing. The mercury dropped to 40 deg. last night.

Rheumatism Comes From Bad Kidneys

Once Your Kidneys Work Properly, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease and Bladder Trouble Disappear. How to Cure Yourself.

It is no longer necessary to spend months and months undergoing a complicated treatment for rheumatism, kidney or bladder trouble, or spend a good many dollars in doctors' bills.

A new treatment can now be obtained which seems to act more like a marvel than a medicine. This treatment has produced such satisfactory results in a short time that it is now guaranteed from first to last.

There should be no more doubt about the rapid cure of rheumatism, no fears of the fatal termination of treacherous kidney disease or dropsy.

Rheumatism means nothing more nor less than that your kidneys do not work properly. Your blood passes through the kidneys hundreds of times a day to be filtered and purified. When the kidneys are weak, the poisons are not taken out of the blood as they should be. This leads to various diseases, such as rheumatism, terrible Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy and bladder trouble.

The new guaranteed treatment is Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills. One day's use of them will prove their remarkable effect. M. T. Ridenour of Lima, Ohio, says: "When I feel bad in my back, I just take a couple of Derby's Kidney Pills and get immediate relief."

If you have rheumatism anywhere, back pains, cloudy, foul urine, pains in the bladder, Bright's disease or diabetes, put your whole confidence in Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and you will not be disappointed.

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are sold at all drug stores—25 and 50 cents, or we will send them direct from the laboratory of Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich., prepaid if you wish. If you want to try them first, just tell your druggist to give you a free sample package.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The statistical report concerning the young women who have lived in the Young Woman's Christian association home since it was ready for occupancy two years ago yesterday shows an interesting part of the work which was made possible by the generosity of the citizens of Duluth in providing the splendid building for the association.

The statistics of this department for the two years show that there have been 1,392 transients accommodated and of 189 young women who have lived in the house for one month or more, there have been 40 stenographers, 29 students, 21 teachers, 21 saleswomen, 15 dressmakers, 10 nurses, 11 telephone operators, 9 bookkeepers, 9 waitresses, 5 fitters, 3 laundresses, 3 cooks, 2 hairdressers, 2 demonstrators, 2 pianists, 1 reporter, 1 actress, 1 masseuse, 1 music teacher, 1 physician.

Of this number the church membership or attendance has been as follows: Thirty-five Methodist, 34 Catholic, 27 Lutheran, 23 Episcopalian, 19 Presbyterian, 11 Congregational, 8 Baptist, 5 Christian, 6 Christian Science, 2 Union church, 1 Unitarian, 1 Evangelical, 8 with no church preference.

Of 138 who have lived in the building more than six weeks the average length of stay has been nine and one-third months; ten have lived there between twelve and eighteen months, fourteen more than eighteen months, and five of those who moved in when the building opened are still living there. These are Misses Marie and Sophie Ceska, Dr. Stella Wilkenson, Miss Anna Foley and Miss Margaret Hannifin.

Eleven girls have left the home to be married, one to take up nurse's training and one to attend the Chicago Bible school.

Of the secretarial force the only ones who were in the work at the time of moving in are Mrs. Ethel D. Hardin, the matron, and Miss Millie Older, assistant secretary. Of the other secretaries at that time, Mrs. Wesley Feetham, the general secretary, is now living in St. Paul; Miss Frances Pullar, physical director, is general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at Camden, N. J.; Miss Margaret Stewart, the assistant secretary, is now Mrs. Cecil Hockin and is living in Duluth.

Kentucky Beauty Reconsiders Her Action for a Divorce

MRS. HUGH FOX.

Mrs. Hugh Corby Fox, whose suit for a divorce was recently withdrawn, was a noted Kentucky beauty. Her name was Marguerite Hitt. She separated from her husband in January and took with her her only son. Her husband is a millionaire, who formerly lived in St. Louis, but who is now residing in New York, where both he and his wife are well known socially. Mrs. Fox declined to give any details concerning her divorce suit, but described her matrimonial experiences as "wretched." It was rumored that the young couple may be reunited, but this has not yet been confirmed.

SUPERIOR CONCERTS.

Minneapolis Orchestra Will Lengthen Stay Here.

Interest in the spring concerts by the Minneapolis orchestra has proven so widespread that the Head of the Lakes tour has been extended to include two concerts to be presented at Superior.

The orchestra will appear at the Lyceum in this city Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3, and the advance subscriptions to date have been so large that it is anticipated that the concerts here will be given to capacity houses. The Duluth festival always attracts many visitors from the ranges and Superior, and it is probable that if the two Superior concerts had not been added that many would have been disappointed in securing seats.

The advance subscriptions now exceed all previous records. The list will be open for ten more days and then the sale of tickets will be open to subscribers and after that the sale for the general public will be held. There has been a slight misunderstanding in regard to advance subscriptions. One seat for a single concert or any number for the entire series may be subscribed for. Some have thought that it was necessary to subscribe for the series in advance. Single tickets may be subscribed for.

The Superior concerts will be given the afternoon and evening of the Monday following the Duluth concerts and the programs will be entirely different. Many Duluthians are planning to also attend the Superior concerts and as usual there will be a large number of Superior people in attendance at the Duluth concerts.

Every indication points to a brilliant week of music. The orchestra has just completed the most successful year of its history in Minneapolis and a group of splendid musicians has been engaged as soloists in addition to the members of the organization who will present solo numbers. In former years much individual work was done to interest the public in the spring festival concerts, but this year the response and interest has been most encouraging. The Minneapolis orchestra has established itself firmly in the affections of the Duluth public and the welcome extended to Mr. Oberhoffer and his men will be the most cordial and spontaneous this year than at any time during the years that this splendid symphony orchestra has been visiting this city.

THE EVENING STORY

ROSE-MAIDEN

By Jane Harris.

The young man on the wall leant comfortably against the crooked arm of a tree. Ever and anon he gently stroked the strings of a long suffering mandolin, and sang, although, he had no singing voice.

He had the air of one who awaits something as he cast furtive glances at the big white house, that stood proudly at the head of the rose garden, on that side of the wall to which he did not belong.

After wasting quite half an hour in that laborious manner, the man breathed an "Ah!" that betrayed relief, and something more, and he tinkled, tinkled softly on the mandolin.

A slim girl had stepped out from one of the low balconies of the big house, and entered the rose garden. She was all pink and white, except for two bonnie blue eyes, and golden hair the shade of ripe corn in autumn. The roses as she cut them nestled up lovingly against her arm, exciting envious feelings in the bosom of the watcher.

It must have been quite ten or fifteen minutes before she heard music. Then she elevated her dainty little nose in the air like an ancient war horse scenting battle. Upwards her gaze traveled till she found the disturber of her solitude, "the man on the wall."

For a moment, only a brief moment, she stared at him. He was singing a dainty little love song, something about "My Rose of Love," but his eyes could talk it better than his tongue, so from sheer shame he stopped, and only went on tinkling his mandolin.

But the pink and white maiden had turned and marched straight up through the rose garden to the house, and there burst into a shaded room, where an elderly lady, with a merry face, was reclining.

"Auntie! Who do you think has taken that cottage at the outskirts of the rose garden?" she demanded fiercely.

The elderly lady merely looked over the top of her glasses, and said: "I can't think."

"That hateful man that followed us over the whole of France and Switzerland," said the young person wrathfully. "That's who it is." The elderly lady put down her book, and screamed with laughter. But the young lady stamped her foot, and she was quite red now.

"I have never heard of such insolence!" she cried.

The elderly lady screamed again, and wiped her eyes. When she could speak, she said: "Fancy him following you to this remote spot. You might as well order your trousseau at once, my dear. That young man means to marry you. Truly his perseverance merits reward." The young person became speechless with rage, but after a time she said.

"Well, the fact is, I simply cannot walk in my own garden, and pick my own roses. I shall keep to the house, as that creature, I supplse, has a legal right to sit on the wall and stare me out of countenance. Thank goodness, I am going to the Bartletts at the end of the month!" And she left the room.

The next day the man on the wall sat for three hours in his usual spot and rang tinkly noises from his mandolin, but the rose garden had no sweet visitor. The big white house turned a blank and shuttered face to him, and he shook his fist at it.

At the end of three hours he laughed aloud, for one of the Venetian blinds was opened cautiously, and closed emphatically with a vicious snap.

"Never mind," said the young man. "I am young, and can wait."

The following day the same pantomime was acted. He started with a small degree of hopefulness, singing his one and only song.

"Don't you know only that one song?" She had turned and faced him in a whirl of fury.

"Oh, yes, I know lots of others just as good, only I sang that song over and over again so that you would inquire about it. You see if I had addressed you first it would not have been polite, but now you have spoken to me first, it is all right. Now we know each other."

Evidently this did not appeal to the pink and white young person, for with a look warranted to slay thousands she stamped on the ground and departed.

She was there again the next day though, and if she did not give him an actual smile, her look bore a distinct kind of greeting. He said "good-morning, Rose-maiden!" And a glimmer of a smile came to her face.

"I cannot forever growl at you," said she, "so I'll bid you good morning! Please understand though, that I do not any the more approve of your past insolence. I say good morning to you as I should say it to the butcher, baker, or the veriest tramp."

"Oh, I quite comprehend," he said, that you don't wish to convey any feeling of regard or affection towards me. I quite understand that."

Although he could not sing, his voice held certain caressing tones, for which people, in the exclusive circles in which he had moved, had loved him. Even the pink and white young person felt its subtle fascination, for she glanced up once quickly, and then down again, and her lovely face softened. But the man didn't see that.

"Do you intend asking me into your garden?" said he.

"Certainly not!" she cried. "I only ask my friends."

"Very well, Rose-maiden. I will not come into your garden until you ask me to come, but oh, I do envy your roses." His eyes were looking down into hers longingly, reproachfully, and to her profound chagrin, she found herself hopelessly blushing.

"There is something," she said eyeing him half fearfully, "that you ought to know. You have no right to any knowledge of my private affairs, but I think you should know I'm a ma-married woman." The change that came over the man's face caused her to glance quickly away.

"I thought it best to tell you," she went on breathlessly, "there seemed no other way to stop you from sitting up there and saying things."

"I don't believe it!" said the man very softly, as if to himself. "It can't be true!" His voice rose and began to tremble. "After all my—after everything. Oh, fate surely would not be so cruel. Tell me you are chaffing, Rose-maiden," he ended, in a voice fraught with agony. The girl nodded her head desperately:.

"It is quite true," said she. "That is why I disliked your attentions. My husband is away from home, and I have reasons for keeping my marriage secret. You see"—thrusting out a slim pink hand—"I do not even wear a ring, but I'm married. So now you will go away, won't you?"

"Yes; You're rid of me, Rose-maiden. I must go away," the man said wearily. "What a sorry figure I must have cut before you; but I cared so very, very much. Can you forgive me, Rose-maiden? Have you the heart to forgive?"

"You could not possibly have cared for me in so short a time," she answered, touched by the stricken look on his face. "People only do that in story books."

"Ah! You do not know, Rose-maiden. You do not know how I loved you the first time I saw you. Heaven, how I have longed and prayed ever since to make you care for me. And the lovely dreams—dreams of a golden future with just you and I walking together in the beautiful sunshine of love. Ah, Rose-maiden, you cannot understand such love," he said sadly. "Goodby, and God bless you!" Then he vanished from the wall out of sight.

With lagging steps the pink and white lady went back through her roses. "Well, he's gone, and I'm well rid of him!" she said, winking hard. "I shall get a little peace now, and I'm glad I said what I said—glad!"

She went in and practiced Chopin's "Marche Funebre", to show her gladness. The whole of the next morning she spent in her garden. She would not look at the wall, but she shuddered as it haunted her mind's eye, bleak and bare. The garden seemed desolate. Even the roses looked dilapidated, for a heavy shower in the night had drenched the blooms and scattered the petals. So the pink and white young person felt strangely forlorn as she went into the house and excused herself from appearing at luncheon, with the plea of a headache. She spent the rest of the day peering occasionally, from the vantage of her bedroom window, which overlooked the rose garden, to see if the weather was fine.

The next day passed in much the same manner. But, with the coming of dark, a white young person appeared in the moonlight beneath the high wall at the foot of the rose garden and tried hard not to cry.

"Man on the wall! Man on the wall!" she said piteously. "I do understand. Come back to me. I want you!"

He could not have been very far away, for, with a scrambling noise he appeared on the wall.

"Rose-malden!" he whispered softly, and she stared speechlessly at him for a long time. At last she said:

"I told you a lie, and I'm sorry now. I said I was married but I'm not. Oh, can you forgive me? Do you come down into my garden and tell me!" She wrung her hands piteously.

He vaulted down to where she stood in the moonlight.

"Oh!" she said. "If you had not heard me!"

"Rose-malden! Rose-malden, I should have heard if you had called from the other end of the world," said the man of the wall, triumphantly, as he folded her in his arms.

Married Folk Would Be Happier

If they tried to be as agreeable as in courtship days.

If they kissed and made up at once after every quarrel.

If each would try to be a real support and comfort to the other.

If household expenses were always proportioned to receipts.

If women were as kind to their husbands as they were to their lovers.

If each remembered the other was only a human being, not an angel.

If men were as thoughtful for their wives as they were for them when sweethearts.

If both parties remembered that they were married for worse as well as better.

If there were fewer "please darlings" in public, and more politeness in private.

If wives and husbands would take their pleasures as they go along, and not degenerate into mere toiling machines.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To rid the house of black ants brush thoroughly with a hot solution of alum and water all the cracks and crevices that are infested. Dissolve two pounds of alum in three quarts of water and apply boiling hot.

Another way to get rid of ants is to put slices of cucumber where the ants are found. It will surely drive them away.

To make the sticky fly paper, heat together three and one-half ounces of raw linseed, oil, one pound of resin and three and one-half ounces of molasses. Spread it while warm on wrapping paper.

To get rid of roaches, take equal portions of cornmeal and red lead, mix with molasses and spread on plates. At night set the plates on the floor, and leave them there several nights in succession. I have known this to clear out roaches when everything else had failed.

To remove grass stains from clothes give them an alcohol bath. Or you may try cream of tartar, wetting the stains and rubbing with the powder.

Mildew may be removed if you rub the spots with laundry soap, put salt and lemon on them and lay the goods in the hot sunshine. It may be necessary to repeat this process more than once, but it is sure to work in the end.

Salt and lemon juice rubbed on spots of iron rust will take out the stain. These, too, must be exposed to the hot sunshine.

Paint stains may be removed with turpentine, tar stains with lard. Pour boiling water from a height upon tea stains. Wash iodine stains with ammonia and water until the spots disappear.

Ammonia is good to take out most spots. Ammonia and whiting together are good for brightening nickel. Apply with a woolen cloth.

WHITE SOX LOSE FIRST

Well Played Game Goes to Red Wing By 2 to 1 Score.

Woodburn and Weidel Pitch Great Ball and Teams Field Well.

Red Wing, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a baseball game in Red Wing, the 1911 Minny league was officially ushered in yesterday with the game between the Duluth White Sox and the Red Wing Indians. Cook's team took the game by the score of 2 to 1, after one of the best games seen here since the inception of the league.

Before the contest a large crowd of fans, headed by the mayor, tooting horns and making the kind of noise that only an enthusiastic baseball crowd can make, paraded the streets of the town before marching out to the ball park.

The festivities at the park included the throwing of the first ball by the mayor, some rooting and singing upon the part of the "Knockers' club," and a speech by one of the city officials.

In the very first inning the Indians won the game, making the two runs that proved sufficient to place the stitches in the result.

In this frame the first hitter walked, Altermott made an error and a single followed that sent in the two runs. While they looked small at the time, they proved quite enough, for Weidel was pitching great ball and held the Sox almost helpless before his benders.

Duluth's one run came in the eighth. With two on him, Lanky Miller caught a shoot on the end of his bat and the pellet went sailing over the fence.

Woodburn started the game for the Sox and twirled a great game. He was relieved by Wornan in the seventh, not because he was being hit, but for the reason that O'Brien does not care to subject his star to any strains at the start of the season.

Both teams put up a great game in the field. The Sox made a very favorable impression, and the local fans are of the opinion that the Sox will be pennant contenders the present year.

DAHLGREN PITCHES SUPERIOR TO VICTORY.

Rochester, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dahlgren held the Surgeons to seven scattered hits yesterday afternoon, the Taylor Red Legs taking the opening game of the season by the score of 6 to 1. Rochester could not hit Dahlgren when hits meant runs, and as a result the Superior team had little difficulty in taking the opening game of the season.

It is estimated that 2,000 fans witnesed the contest, which in addition to being the opening game of the season also dedicated the new Mayo field, one of the finest baseball parks in the league. A half holiday was declared and a big parade preceded the calling of the game. Score: R. H. E.

WINONA TAKES OPENING GAME FROM EAU CLAIRE.

Winona, Minn., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eau Claire, the pennant winner of the Minny league last season, was defeated in the opening game of the season by the score of 7 to 6. "Tacks" De Lave, one of Schoonhoven's stars of last season, was on the mound for the champs, and McNeill started for Winona. In the fourth McNeill was derricked and George Dauss sent to the mound with the Buttermakers one run to the good. Not a run was made off the pitching of the former White Sox.

President Frank E. Force was present and caught the first ball heaved by the trusty arm of the mayor. It is estimated that 3,000 fans witnessed the game. The score: R. H. E.

WAUSAU JACKS TAKE OPENER AT LA CROSSE.

La Crosse, Wis., May 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a twelve-inning diamond battle here yesterday the Outcasts were finally conquered by the visiting Wausaulites, under the the command of General Biddy Dolan, the final score being 5 to 3.

With two men dead in the twelfth inning, Germany Klein missed a fly in right and two runs came over the plate. Up to the time of Klein's error neither team had shown any advantage.

Factories and stores closed for the game and one of the largest crowds that has witnessed a game in some years was present. Both teams played fast ball and the fans were satisfied that the local team is stronger than the aggregation that played last season under Silent Joe Safford. The score: R. H. E.

CENTRAL LOSES TO HATED RIVALS

Superior High School Wins Baseball Game By 10 to 3 Score.

Yesterday the Superior Central high school defeated the Duluth Central baseball team by the score of 10 to 3. Morry Harris was hit hard in spots and the fielding of the Duluth boys was not what it should have been.

Spencer played right field for the Duluth team and put up a great game. He made four hits out of five trips to the plate, one of the clouts being for three bases.

Superior showed all-around superiority to the Duluth team, both in the field and at the bat. The errors of the local team came at critical times and proved costly.

After the somewhat disappointing exhibition of yesterday it is very likely that a change will be made in the personnel of the team. The score: R. H. E.

CRACK SHOTS GATHER FOR GUN CLUB EVENTS

With the grand opening of the Northwestern Gun club for the 1911 season scheduled for next Sunday, and also a celebration at the Central Gun club set for Saturday afternoon, some of the expert shots of the country are in the city at the present time, ready to take part in the festivities.

Harry Stair of the Peter's Cartridge company, one of the best shots in the Northwest; Jim Wrinkle of the Winchester Arms company, another crack shot who is known over the country; Russ Barber, of the American Powder company, considered today as one of the very best wing shots in the country; and "Dony" Dockendorf, of the Dupont Powder company, another of the cracks, are here and will participate in the two openings.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the opening of the Northwestern Gun club. Open house will be held all day at the club grounds on the Pike lake road. Members of the club are requested to bring their families as special arrangements have been made for the entertainmnt of the ladies.

There will be some prize shoots, some special shoots, and the season will be inaugurated in fitting style.

Members of the Northwestern Gun club expect the season that will be formally opened Saturday to be the most successful ever held in the Northwest. Later in the season an interclub shoot will be held with the Central Gun club, and this event may be planned for the three days of the coming carnival.

With new members, added equipment, improved grounds and every facility for the enjoyment of one of the best of outdoor sports, there seems every reason to believe that starting with the shoot of Sunday, the weekly gatherings of the members of the Northwestern club will increase in interest.

The representatives of the powder companies will participate in the events of next Sunday, and the officials of the Northwestern Gun club promise some of the best sport of the entire season on the opening day.

WITH THE FIGHTERS

Curly Ulrich writes from International Falls that he has been matched with Young Flynn, the articles being signed yesterday. The battle has been set for June 7, the place Fort Frances, the boys coming in at catch weights.

Curly adds that he will leave this evening for Winnipeg where he may get hooked up in a battle. The fight game is going pretty good at the present time in the Western Canadian metropolis, some fairly good purses being offered the boys. American boxers are in demand and the Superior scrapper is after some of the money.

* * *

Burrell Smith has found a backer. Yesterday a certain gentleman called at The Herald office and offered to put up the money in the hands of the Herald sporting editor, the same to go for a side bet with Curly Ulrich or Art Godfrey, on condition that the latter come in at a weight somewhere near that of the colored fighter.

Duluth fans have seen Godfrey in two fights and in both instances he has outweighed his man from fifteen to twenty pounds. It might be considered very reasonable to ask that this young man meet some boy of his own weight, as it would command more respect for his prowess.

A good boy, carrying a healthy wallop, and giving him full credit, it is only fair that the Minneapolis man be fair in the matter of either making weight or meeting men his own poundage.

* * *

Kid Paul strolled into the office yesterday and declared that he is one of the "come backs." He declared that he was going to show some of the fans around the Head of the Lakes that it is quite possible for a man to be rehabilitated, so to speak, and is also plum anxious to show the fans that he can really fight when in shape. To this end he has answered the challenge of John Walton, the colored bantam weight scrapper of St. Paul and says he is willing to meet the Apostle at 120 pounds.

* * *

News from Chicago says there is a slight chance that Chuch Larsen, the little miller who fought Pal Brown here, may hook up with Packey McFarland. Just what business Larsen has in the same ring with the Irishman from the stockyards district is very hard to understand.

There is one meeting that the fans around this part of the country would like to see, however, and that is another meeting between Pal and Chuck. They put up a great battle on the occasion of the former meeting, and a return fight should be just as good, with the result in doubt.

NORTH DAKOTA RACING DATES

Attractive Purses Will Be Hung in Flickertail Circuit.

A notice that may be of interest to Duluth and Superior horsemen, is the announcement sent to The Herald sporting editor by M. C. Bacheller, secretary of the North Dakota State fair, in which the racing dates of other North Dakota towns are given.

The meet at Grand Forks will be held July 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29. The purses will amount to $6,150 and the prizes will be paid in cash on the grounds after the closing of the day's racing. The entries to the meet close July 17, and may be made with the secretary, M. C. Bacheller, Grand Forks, N. D.

The Bowbells meet will be held on June 27, 28 and 29; the meet at Minot on July 3, 4 and 5; the meet at Bottineau on July 13 and 14; and the meet at Fargo on July 18, 19, 20 and 21.

OLD CY YOUNG OUT OF GAME

Veteran Will Be of No Use for at Least a Month.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 11.—Cy Young will be of no use to the Cleveland club for a month at least. Such is the information tendered by Dr M. H. Castle, who is attending the famous pitcher. Cy contracted a severe cold a week ago and it developed into acute bronchitis, which has confined him to his bed for several days. He will be in bed fully a week longer and it will then be three weeks before he is able to pitch. It was reported last night that he was suffering from pneumonia, but such is not the case.

Dr. Castle does not consider the great pitcher dangerously ill. Neither does he believe that Cy's pitching ability will be impaired in the least by his illness. The damage will consist of being laid up at a time when it appears that Cleveland needs pitchers.

The other Nap invalids are doing nicely, and with a continuance of yesterday's weather will be all right in a few days. Capt. Stovall is still a victim of a bad cold, as is Turner, but Stovall broke into yesterday's game, while Turner is expected back today Manager McGuire is still ailing, but a few days will fix him all right. Harold Ladd, who was the victim of a slight attack of typhoid fever, is recovering rapidly and will be able to sit up in another week.

CAPTAIN OF FAMOUS YALE ELEVEN DEAD.

New York, May 11.—Francisco Gorden Brown, Jr., captain of the successful Yale football eleven in 1900 and an idol of old Eli, died yesterday at Glen Head, L. I. Death was due to diabetes. He was generally regarded as one of the best football men this country ever produced. As a guard and for his "tackles back" play he won the greatest note.

In 1900, the year of Brown's captaincy, Columbia was the only team to cross the Yale goal line, and Princeton the only eleven to score a field goal.

Though the son of wealthy parents and the nephew of J. P. Morgan, Brown was a hard worker in college. Among his honors was the Phi Kappa key.

FIELD FOR KENTUCKY DERBY NARROWED DOWN.

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—The field for the Kentucky derby was narrowed down today, Tay Pay and Starr O'Ryan, the McManus eligibles, withdrawing. Bell Horse will not carry the Bradley colors, being relegated to the rear in favor of his stable mate, Beach Sand. From present indications the field that will face Starter Mars Cassidy Saturday in the classic will be composed of Round the World, Governor Gray, Colston, Meridian, Col. Hogan, Beach Sand, Jack Denman, Sir Dawn and Mud Sill.

SEVENTEEN AUTOMOBILE CONTESTS ARRANGED.

New York, May 11.—A list of the meets to be comprised in the National Motor contest circuit, the first experiment in Grand Circuit automobile racing in this country, was announced last night by Samuel M. Butler, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association.

The dates assigned by the contest board include seventeen contests in nine different states.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Events in Prospect for the Fight Fans—A Great Baseball Machine Falling Apart—Glass Houses and Pebble Throwers—"They're Off in the Minny League Race"

(BY BRUCE.)

WAIT a minute now; let us see what we have on the fight program. The best thing in the future, right at the present time, is the coming contest that is booked between Ad Wolgast and Owen Moran. This fight should be worth going across the continent to witness.

Only a few weeks ago there would have been few of the real followers of the game who would not have been willing to take the Moran end of the betting. But you may have noticed of late that there is a very decided change in the sentiment toward the little German youth from the jubilant town of Cadillac, Mich.

His defeats of Memsic, La Greve and the famous "One Round" Hogan of San Francisco, has something to do with the different view that the fight critics are holding of the present champion.

One of the coast sharps of the fighting game advances a very original view upon the improvement of Wolgast as a fighter. He attributes Ad's ability to do execution with his left in the recent fights he has had to the fact that his right arm was injured and during the period it was on the mend the little champion learned to become more proficient with the other mitt.

But anyway in the recent fights of the youth from the hitherto unknown parts of Michigan he has shown that he is a demon and one of the very toughest kids who ever stepped into the ring. If he defeats Moran in the coming fight, it will be because he is so tough that the little Britisher will wear himself out in trying to hurt the title holder.

There is not very much doubt that Moran is the better boxer of the two. The other evening Moran made a boxing fool of Phil Brock, and that lad has been accounted very clever by a large following of the boxing game. Moran is fast and game and can deliver a lot of punishment. The fact remains to be seen whether he is the punisher that Wolgast has shown himself to be in his past few fights. If Moran should win this fight from Wolgast he will be considered the greatest simon pure lightweight of the age, taking that side of the argument, for the moment, that it is quite impossible for Packey McFarland to make the lightweight limit.

It also might be stated that in the event of a Wolgast win the critics of the little German will be silenced for some time to come, and it will only be a question of time before Wolgast and Packey McFarland will be brought together.

Wolgast may object to the stand McFarland has taken on the weight question, but friends, believe us when we say that there would be too much money in a meeting between the two boys to keep them apart over the matter of a few paltry pounds.

It is the money that many of us are after, the fighters most of all. Most of the smart boys in the fighting game will come right out in the middle of the corral and state that they are in the game for all the money they can get. They have made a business of the fighting game, and you can lay the coin that if Wolgast sees a great big chunk of the coin ahead for a meeting with the pride of the stockyards, he will tie up with him.

That is the only really great fight that is in sight at the present time. There is the prospect that Sam Langford may be given the chance to battle with Jack Johnson, but that contest might not prove a great fight.

Bill Papke may return and start to clean up the leading men in the middleweight ranks. But with Papke in the right kind of shape there is perhaps no one who can give what the fans would call a great fight, and this is not the least forgetting the decision that Cyclone Johnny Thompson won from the Kewaunee chap over on the far side of the universe.

The fight game is very quiet at the present time and some of the pugs are looking ahead to the point where their next meal will come from. It is to be expected that Jim Flynn will receive some flattering offers to meet some of the heavyweight brigade, following his victory over Al Kauffmann, and despite this victory the Italian cannot be taken seriously. When we stop to think what Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons or Tom Sharkey would have done to Flynn, had he battled during the time these men were at their best, we shudder to contemplate the result.

Carl Morris will be kept in the limelight just so long as it pays. It is said that they are arranging a Fourth of July battle for him. If Morris ever is sent into battle with even one of the live ones of the present mediocre class of heavies, there is very liable to be a sad day following in Oklahoma.

Is a Great Baseball Machine Failing?

HARD luck during even the years of the greatest success of the Chicago Cubs has seemed to pursue this team with relentless energy. In 1909 the Cubs lost the pennant, the first in four years of the greatest baseball ever seen in the National league, because of the injuries to the players. Last season injuries kept some of the players out of the game a good part of the season.

Now we read of the failing of Johnny Evers, one of the greatest players in the whole big world of baseball. Frank Chance is also out of the game. Cole has not worked in a game the present season and there are some of the other pitchers off their stride. The situation right at the present time is very discouraging to the admirers of the West side team, who look for the Cubs to repeat the present season.

The beating given the Cubs yesterday by the Glants must have been one of the blows that hurt. It looks like hard sledding for the Cubs, though there are quite a few of us who admire this great and game team and hope that the old dogged hard luck will lay off for a while and give this team a fair chance at the other teams in the race.

What About Your Old Team?

AGENT down La Crosse way, who hides his brightly shining light under the somewhat ambiguous name of "Jed," has taken us to task for predicting first division honors for the White Sox. That crack might have been a good one if the gent in question had come from a burg where they had produced anything like a ball team since the Pilgrim Fathers pounced upon the rock and proceeded to grab all the land in sight.

For two seasons past it has been our misfortune to witness the playing of the aggregation from the town that is gently ruled by John Elliott. One great ball player was produced in the town, and his glory threatens to endure even to the fourth generation, as the chances are that they will never produce another player who will get very far away from the home preserve.

This "Jed" person has more nerve than discretion. After carefully reviewing the record of the Outcasts, and the name is sure fitting, one is at a loss to know why this dweller in the very frailest of glass houses should be one to toss a pebble, even if the night be so exceedingly dark that an accurate return fire be difficult.

We have had poor teams at the Head of the Lakes, but when it comes to a mean level of dimmed diamond uselessness, we must hand it to the town the "Jed" gent is forced to walk in.

In a way the La Crosse team of the past reminds one of the Chicago Cubs, in that they have been so radically different.

They're Off in the Minny League.

IT WAS generally expected and hoped here that the White Sox would take the Cook Indians into camp. The opening defeat may be a good luck omen, however, as the Sox won the opening game at Winona last season and then won very few more, comparatively speaking during the rest of the season.

Then, in addition to all this, after the Red Wing fans had gone out and built part of the fence with their little hammers, and the mayor has requested that the factories and other places of business be closed for the afternoon, it might be expected that Red Wing deserved a win in return for all the gosh darn perking up.

The work of George Dauss in the few innings in which he worked for the Pirates, might be taken for small indication that the former Duluth favorite is going to have a good season. The closest friends of Georgie believed that it would be quite impossible for the pitcher to get in shape for the present season. That is one of the reasons why no strenuous efforts were made to land the pitcher. If he turns out to be one of the best pitchers in the league, there might be wailing and gnashing of teeth in this direction of the high wind district.

Superior had very little difficulty in winning from the Surgeons, and you may have noticed that Ted Corbett, leader of the Rochester bunch, was on the mound. While one game does not indicate anything, it had been stated here before that there is a lurking suspicion that the doctors dear are not any too strong.

Old Biddy Dolan defeated the Outcasts under the leadership of "Bumpus" Jones. At least three of the teams which have been classed as contenders, won their opening games. These teams are Winona, Superior and Wausau. Duluth has been picked as a much stronger team than Red Wing and the Sox lost.

However, the dropping of one game is not much, and if we take the other two of the series and then do things to Rochester the fans up here will be amply satisfied with the work of the team on the first trip.

SHORTS ARE WHIPSAWED

They Receive Severe Punishment—Foreign News Unfavorable.

Local Factors Bearish—Rains Continue—Trading Is Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 11.—The wheat market today bulged sharply. May gained 2¼c and July advanced 2⅛@2¼c. September was up 1½c. Cash wheat was ½c over July. Oats gained ⅞c, rye was unchanged and barley was unchanged. Durum was strong and went forward ¼c for the July delivery.

Linseed was unchanged in the May and July deliveries but September lost 2c. Cash was on a parity with May. Cables were higher. Plata seed at Antwerp for May-June delivery closed at $2.196 bu.

With local conditions bearish and foreign factors assuming a more bullish tinge, speculative sentiment is mixed. The professional speculators are afraid to oppose the bull clique which has been passing from the May into the July to a considerable extent. The shorts' efforts have been directed indiscriminately so that on every bulge eleventh hour shorts are buying from new shorts. This condition makes the activities of the shorts the most conspicuous bull factor.

The longs today, for instance, bought very little wheat except in the July and in that option their interest was not unusually active. On the bulge they permitted the short interest to continue to cover in the May while they confined their efforts at sustaining the market to their small operations in the July. The longs were not put to the necessity of applying much muscle to the July or to future deliveries because on the bulge yesterday a fairly large open interest developed. When trade came sharply higher this morning the eleventh hour shorts hustled to shelter. On the succeeding advance there was continuous short selling, but the effect was lost because of the large volume of short covering. The market was strongly oversold and the short side was demoralized.

European advices are not satisfactory and there is a prospect of export shipments in soft winter wheat later in the summer if the bulls do not repeat last year's error and keep prices above an export basis. Any strength in quotations hereafter is in itself a bearish factor, as American markets would be compelled to handle the surplus from this year's crop if an outlet cannot be found abroad.

The dry weather in Southern Russia is causing prices to firm and European buyers are again frightened as they are every little while. Reports from India are unfavorable but in Argentina and Roumania the crops seem to be materializing satisfactorily. American bulls are buying in Liverpool, probably for the effect of higher cables on American markets. The continent is a liberal bidder for available wheat. There is occasional export business in low grade Manitobas but American wheat is far out of line.

Rains fell copiously last night and today in Northern South Dakota, Minnesota and the three Canadian provinces. In the dominion and Northern North Dakota the rain turned to snow which melted as rapidly as it fell. The cold weather is ideal for the spring wheat. The crop, so far as The Herald can learn, could not be in a more advantageous condition. The reports of hot winds from Kansas are local and are of little significance. The weather is expected to become warmer and the skies clear in the Northwestern states tomorrow. On account of wire trouble, due to severe storms in the Northwest and the Canadian provinces last night, it was difficult today to learn the extent of last night's precipitation. Sufficient is learned, however, to indicate that the downfall of moisture was scattered over a wide territory. The rains can have little effect on the acreage put under wheat as most of the spring wheat sowing had been completed before the three days of precipitation.

Sales from the country continue fairly liberal. The cash markets in the Northwest today were a tower of strength for the speculative markets. The rapidly decreasing stores of wheat, especially stocks of choice wheat, indicate millers to buy liberally of spot wheat. The flour trade is moderate. The advance in flour prices may shut off the demand or it may stimulate buying from people whose stocks are small. The effect of higher flour prices may have an important bearing on the cash markets and in turn upon the speculative situation.

The prediction in this column yesterday that the bulls would make capital out of the absence of moisture in certain heated districts in Kansas and the bullish foreign news in order to iron out the shorts who were taking notice of the favorable crop conditions in this country, appears to have been fulfilled. Today's advance was purely technical. Until the expiration of the May option the market is liable to remain in a false position. If the deal is carried into the July the climax will be only deferred. Apparently the big cash holders are resolved to stand pat and take everything that is delivered to them on the current option which they practically control, at least at the present time.

Inglis wired from La Crosse, Kan.: "South through Ellis and Rush counties prospects for moderate crops depend on rain, but will require more than ordinary showers. Quite an acreage has gone to weeds. Plowing and planting corn. Southward crops more promising. Temperature today (May 10) over 90 with fierce dust storm. Temperature now falling rapidly."

Grand Forks, N. D., wired Baker: "Farmers are jubilant over the copious fall of moisture the past few days. Letters received from different stations of the state say that crop conditions have improved wonderfully during the past week and the plant will be in shape to make rapid growth when warm weather comes. Letter received from Larimore this morning states the outlook around there is very promising. The soil is sandy around there and they are usually the first ones to feel the effect of dry weather."

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Our Argentine agent estimates the wheat shipments this week, 2,800,000 bu; last week, 3,288,000 bu; last year, 1,312,000 bu. Corn, this week, none; last week, none; last year, 1,365,000 bu. The weather continues fine and plowing in the south is progressing favorable.

Liverpool—The wheat market was influenced at the opening by the firmness in America yesterday and values were ¼d to ½d higher with the principal strength in October. Following the opening there was further covering by shorts and renewed speculative buying and prices further advanced ⅜d to ½d. Support was attributed to the predictions of lighter Argentine shipments next week and firmness of Russian holders with the Continent still bidding freely for cargoes in all positions. There were many complaints received here of extreme heat and dryness in Southern Russia with insect damage and unfavorable reports from India. At 1:30 p. m. the market was strong with few sellers and prices ½d to 1d higher than yesterday. The corn market opened ¼d higher in sympathy with America and strength in wheat. Later the market was dull at the advance.

Our Indian agent cables that the plague in the Punjaub is interfering with the movement.

Price Current, Cincinnati, said: Rains past week caused slight delays in corn planting operations but favorable for other crops. Corn planting now progressing favorably. Ground in fairly good condition. Winter wheat as good if not better than any previous year at this season. Growing rapidly and some heading. Rains in Northwest very beneficial and prospect encouraging, but more rain needed. Oats, general good average promise.

Chicago Tribune: Chapin & Co.: "The imports of wheat and flour into Europe for thirty-eight weeks since Aug. 1 have been 142,200,000 bu, against 389,880,000 bu in the season preceding. This is taking 11,630,000 bu a week and fourteen weeks more to Aug. 1 means 162,820,000 bu. Why is Europe such a large buyer, when it was thought the large world's crop of 1909 filled all holes, met all requirements and had a good remainder? Looks as though there may be some demand for our surplus wheat. Demand situation is more favorable."

* * *

Wheat conditions abroad as summarized by Broomhall were: "United Kingdom, France and Germany—The general crop outlook shows some improvement. Offerings of native wheats are very small. Hungary and Italy—The crop outlook is generally favorable. Offerings of native wheats are small. Spain, North Africa and Asia Minor—The crop outlook is favorable. Roumania—The crop outlook is favorable. Arrivals from the interior are larger than expected. There have been beneficial rains. Russia—Good rains are confirmed in the southwest. Good arrivals at the ports are expected about May 20. The market at Odessa is firm. The recent rain in the southeast was not heavy and the weather is now fine and settled. More rain is badly needed. India—Harvesting is progressing slowly, being still hindered by the plague. The weather conditions are favorable."

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Shoots Upward on a Badly Oversold Market.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 11.—July was badly oversold and consequently wheat prices registered another sharp upturn today in spite of the continued heavy rains in the Northwest. September was relatively easier than the near months. May closed 2¼c higher than yesterday; July 1⅞@2c higher and September 1⅝@1½c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 330,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 148 cars of wheat against 138 a year ago; Duluth 14 against 21 and Winnipeg 109 against 106. May opened 97⅞c, high 98⅜c, low 97@97⅛c; closed 98⅜c; July opened 97⅞c, high $1.00@1.00⅛c, low 97⅞c, closed 99⅞c; September opened 91½@91⅝c, high 93⅛c, low 91⅜c, closed 92⅛c; December opened 91¼c, high 92⅛c, low 91⅛c, closed 92¼c.

Cash wheat was in excellent demand today, especially choice spring grades. Local country mills were active buyers. No. 1 northern sold for ⅛@2½c above July. Cotton Market.

New York, May 11.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3@7 points this morning, in response to better cables than expected, reports of some improvement in trade abroad and covering by some of yesterday's late sellers. There was a good deal of realizing on the initial bulge and some further selling for a turn, under which the market fluctuated irregularly during the early trading, but leading bull interests supported July on a setback of only 5 or 6 points, and with the trade fearful of lower temperatures in the northern part of the belt, the market during the middle of the morning was nervous, with prices of about 1@6 points net higher.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Upward Trend of Prices Is Maintained to the Close.

Activity and Strength Also Shown By the Bond Market.

New York, May 11.—The largest fluctuations at the opening of the stock market today were in the local traction issues. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred lost 1½ and Brooklyn Transit gained ⅝. There were few other changes of significance, the market developing an irregular tone soon after the opening. The Erie issue showed further strength. Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred lost ⅝.

Considerable amounts of United States Steel were supplied around the opening figures, but the offerings were well taken and the price advanced a fraction. Elsewhere the speculation displayed little feature, but there was a somewhat steadier undertone to the dealings.

Extensive purchases of United States Steel carried it up steadily to 75⅞, the highest figure of the week and 1¼ above yesterday's final price. Some strength also was manifested by other favorite stocks, including Reading, Union Pacific and American Smelting. American Beet Sugar, International Harvester and Union Pacific preferred, gained a point.

The market closed strong. The upward trend of prices was maintained to the close, with a broader inquiry for the dividend paying stocks. United States Steel closed 76, and gains of a point or more were established by St. Paul, Reading, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Chasapeake & Ohio. The activity and strength of the bond market furnished an effective back log for the confident buying of stocks.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS.

Council Chamber.
Duluth, Minn., May 8, 1911.
Regular meeting.
Roll call.
Present—Aldermen Barnes, Bergstrom, Bernard, Curren, Gibson, Hoar, Hogan, Jordan, Krueger, MacDonell, Makowski, Miller, President Shartel—13.
Absent—Aldermen Hector, Scott, Wharton—3.

Alderman Bergstrom stated that the minutes of the meeting of May 1st were erroneous in that they showed him as voting in the negative on the resolution citing Dunlop & Thatcher to show cause why their license to sell intoxicating liquors at No. 228 Lake avenue south should not be revoked, and asked that said minutes be corrected to show him voting for the resolution. It was so ordered and the resolution having received nine votes in the affirmative was declared adopted by the president of the council.

Alderman Barnes moved to correct the minutes of said meeting in the resolution directing the construction of sidewalk by striking out the words "Sixty-sixth" in the paragraph "A 5-foot cement walk on the south side of Green street from Sixty-third to Sixty-sixth avenue west," and by inserting in lieu thereof the word "Sixty-second," and that said minutes as so corrected and as published in pamphlet form be approved. The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Barnes moved to reconsider the resolution citing Dunlop & Thatcher to show cause why their license to sell intoxicating liquors at No. 228 Lake avenue south should not be revoked. The motion to reconsider was declared lost upon the following vote:
Yeas—Aldermen Barnes, Bergstrom, Bernard, Gibson, Krueger—5.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

By Aldermen Hogan, Scott and Gibson:

Whereas, The contract of the city of Duluth with the Duluth-Edison Electric company for municipal lighting expires by its terms September 1, 1911; and

Whereas, As an inducement and consideration to the city for making such contract, said company agreed to certain maximum rates for commercial electric light and power in the city; and

Whereas, The city is this year empowered for the first time to construct or acquire a plant to furnish the city and its inhabitants with electric light, heat and power; and

Whereas, This council is of the opinion either (1) that the city should install a plant of its own to furnish the city and its inhabitants with electric light, heat and power; or (2) that the city should undertake the acquisition of the plant of the Duluth-Edison Electric company, either by negotiation or condemnation; or (3) that the city should make a new contract with the Duluth-Edison Electric company on a basis of rates, terms and conditions to be agreed upon by the city and the company; and

Whereas, At the time the present contract with the Duluth-Edison Electric company was made, about five years ago, the president of said company told this council that if the commercial rates hereinabove referred to were insisted upon by the city it would bankrupt the company; and

Whereas, Such rates were insisted upon and were then established, but nevertheless the company has since had the most profitable and successful business career in the history of the present company or any of its four predecessors in interest in Duluth; and

Whereas, The public interest requires that a thorough investigation of the facts should be made in order to give this council information on which it may act intelligently with respect to the matters and things hereinabove referred to; and

SOME ABNORMAL APPETITES.

Hair, Glass, Matches and Sand Preferred Diet By Queer People.

London Daily News: Extraordinary eccentricities of diet were recorded by Mr. W. Soltau Fenwick, M. D., in an address delivered at the Institute of Hygiene yesterday to a select audience of doctors, nurses and other experts.

Various odd devices, he said, were resorted to in former days to stimulate a flagging appetite, such as the drinking of spiced wines, the dropping of coins of cold metal down the back, or sometimes a little exercise or gentle altercation was indulged in between the course to "settle the food in the stomach." It became the habit at a latter period to scratch or fondle the lobe of the right ear to stimulate the flow of gastric juice, as the nerve which supplies this part of the skin has a direct connection with the great nerve of the stomach.

Every one was said to possess the stomach he deserved, and there could be no doubt that, within certain limits, our digestions were of our own making. The stomach was the most educable organ of the body, and one could reduce its activities to a degree which was only just compatible with the preservation of life, or one could train it to perform twice the amount of work which nature ever intended it to do. An average man at the age of 50 had consumed about 25 tons of food, but some people easily consumed three times that amount. There was an authentic case of a little girl who had to have a keeper to prevent her from eating the household goods. One day she consumed a raw codfish, several pounds of candles and a quantity of butter before she was caught. A boy when placed under observation, got through 100 pounds of raw meat in twenty-four hours. Attempts to cure this insatiable hunger invariably failed. Another lad who was shut up and kept without food was found to have eaten practically all his clothing.

"Many people," continued Dr. Fenwick, "possess an extraordinary relish for common salt. This often has the curious effect of increasing a person's weight. One young lady who devoured immense quantities of salt would increase as much as ten pounds in twenty-four hours. If you can persuade these people not to take salt so much they get well if not they die of dropsy. Many girls will devour slate pencils, chalk and vinegar because nearly all of these have at some time or other beautifying properties."

Through eating meat on which flies or other insects had laid their eggs, or, similarly, green stuff, people often harbor larvae in their stomachs. A wire screen was no real protection for meat, as flies dropped their eggs through it. Early examples were recorded in which strange insects and animals had been eaten and lived afterward. These included beetles, frogs, snakes, salamanders, leeches and the common garden clug.

Young children often acquire abnormal tastes, and one of the most common of these is paper eating. Hari kari is confined to girls, and a number of instances are on record in which death resulted from the formation of a great ball of hair in the stomach. Balls of thread, flock, tow or matting fibre were sometimes found in the stomachs of those who worked with these materials.

Substances, too, which were often taken in the first instance, for amusement by frequent repetition led to insatiable desire. Thus sword-swallowers, knife-eaters, glass-chewers and the like not only continued their practices for years, but actually got to relish them. The speaker mentioned the case of a seaman who could not resist the temptation to chew up and swallow a tumbler after he had drunk its contents; and those of two boys, one of whom ate sand when he could get it, while the other begged, borrowed or stole watches in order to swallow them.

AN EDUCATIONAL BOOM.

The curves representing the number of students are astonishingly similar in the case of American institutions of higher education, whatever their character and location.

There is a normal increase in attendance corresponding to the growth in population until about 1885, when the curve takes a sudden leap upward, and in the case of the state universities assumes a parabolic form.

The curve for German universities shows the same peculiarity, with the sudden upward bend occurring at 1871. This is easily referable to the consolidation of the empire, but in the United States there was no such political revolution in 1885.

Where the authorities in different universities have been asked to explain this sudden increase of attendance in the early '80s they have attributed it to some local cause. "Oh, that was when our college got a new president," or "That was the year of the big corn crop," or "The new school law came into effect then," or "The legislature was unusually generous."

But there is a difference of only two or three years between Harvard and California in the date when the curve started upward, and it is obvious that when Eastern and Western institutions, private and public, high schools and universities, classical colleges and technological schools are affected almost simultaneously in the same way the fundamental cause must be a general not a local one. This cause, however, according to a writer in the Independent, remains to be discovered.

JOHN DIETZ MAKES ARGUMENT BEFORE JURY IN OWN BEHALF

Says It Is a Father's Highest Duty to Protect His Family.

Claims No Evidence Has Been Submitted Showing Harp to Be Dead.

Says He Has Never Been Given Chance to Resist Arrest.

Hayward, Wis., May 12.—Arguments in the Dietz murder trial are being heard today and the case will be submitted to the jury late this afternoon. District Attorney J. Williams opened the argument for the state and spoke for one hour. For the next three hours John Dietz and his wife and son, Leslie, the three co-defendants on trial, pleaded their innocence before the jury. Attorney L. M. Sturdevant, who has pinned the crude efforts of the defendants down to the technicalities of the law the last few days, closed for the state. Judge Reid will read his charge to the jury this afternoon.

It is understood that Judge A. H. Reid will submit separate charges to the jury, so that verdicts may be rendered individually.

Rebuttal of the state was that no deputy could have fired the shot that killed Harp.

District Attorney Williams' address was brief. He said the conspiracy charge of the defense was not sustained. He said the manner of Oscar Harp's death had been established beyond doubt.

Dietz immediately followed Mr. Williams. He said it was the highest duty of a father to protect his family. He then started to tell of what he called the beginning of the conspiracy against him, and on objection of the state Judge Reid told Dietz to confine himself to the evidence.

Dietz then stated that no evidence had been submitted except by the state's witnesses to show that Harp is dead. "No member of the coroner's jury nor the coroner has been put on the stand," he said.

Regarding the letter of Governor Davidson brought by Col. O. G. Munson, Dietz said the governor's emissaries did not present it until they were ready to leave his cabin.

Dietz assailed what he called the "blackmailing evidence," and said he had never been given a chance to resist arrest.

It was noticeable that Dietz in his argument did not at any time seem to consider the necessity of arguing for Mrs. Dietz and Leslie.

He argued that the bullet taken from Oscar Harp's body could not have come from one of the Dietz guns. Speaking of the state's alleged one-sided testimony, he said: "If you would have the public respect the law, the law should not be lawless."

SESSIONS SPASMODIC

Senate and House Seem to Be Playing Hide and Seek.

First One Is in Session and Other Not, Then Both Adjourn.

Washington, May 12.—The senate and house of representatives to all appearances are engaged in a game of hide and seek. The senate was in session yesterday and the house was not. The house was in session today and the senate was not. Tomorrow neither will be in session. The senate will meet again on Monday but the house will not. The house will meet Tuesday, but the senate will not.

In the house today the most important business promised was a report form the committee on territories recommending statehood for Arizona and New Mexico after the people of each territory shall have voted on proposed amendments. A minority report signed by the Republican members of the committee urged the immediate admission of New Mexico.

The house has decided to adjourn over Monday because the order for that day is the discharge of committees. One of the discharge motions would result in calling up for action a $40,000,000 service pension bill. The passage of this bill is not on the Democratic program for the extra session.

A parliamentary contest in the senate as exciting as the skirmishes that marked the attempt to elect a president pro tempore yesterday, was predicted for Monday, to which day the senate yesterday adjourned. Will the senate hear the promised report of the finance committee on Canadian reciprocity, consider some other legislative proposition or continue balloting? That question was variously answered. Some were of the opinion that nothing could be done until a president pro tempore had been selected. Others contended that the mere presence of Vice President Sherman at the capitol was all that was necessary to sweep away the question of who should occupy the chair in his absence.

EXHIBITION OF AVIATION

Fourteen Airmen Appear Before British Parliamentary Committee.

Fleet of Aeroplanes With Machine Guns Attacks Army Balloon.

London, May 12.—The most remarkable exhibition of aviation ever seen in England was given today under the auspices of the parliamentary aerial defense committee. Fourteen airmen, including Claude Grahame-White, Louis Bleriot, the French aviator, Robert Loraine, the actor, and Capt. F. S. Cody, performed. Four styles of biplanes were used.

The exhibition was witnessed by Premier Asquith, A. J. Balfour, War Secretary Haldane, Home Secretary Churchill, Chancellor Lloyd-George, 200 members of parliament, the army council, admiralty and many officers of the army and navy. J. Armstrong Drexel, who participated, had a mishap in which he was considerably bruised and cut and his machine smashed. He was starting a flight when he dropped from a height of a few feet. He rose from the wreckage and was able to walk from the field.

A fleet of aeroplanes armed with machine guns attacked an army dirigible balloon.

HOE PAID $20,000 TO PREVENT SUIT

Husband of Former Amanuensis of Press Builder Makes Deposition.

New York, May 12.—The late Robert Hoe paid $20,000 to Louis F. Brown of Covington, Ky., to persuade Brown to drop a suit against Hoe for the alienation of the affections of his wife, according to testimony of Brown filed yesterday in the county clerk's office. The executors of the Hoe estate have been sued by Margaret Johnson Brown Johns, who was Brown's former wife and Hoe's amanuensis for a $30,000 mortgage which she declares Mr. Hoe assigned to her.

The deposition of Brown was taken by the executors to substantiate their contention that such gifts as Mr. Hoe made to the woman were not for a legal consideration, it being alleged in the executor's answer to the suit that the woman used undue influence over Mr. Hoe.

Notwithstanding the dropping of the original suit which Mr. Brown testified he had done in consideration of $20,000, he secured a divorce in 1907 on the ground of abandonment.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Cause Gets Another Boost in House of Commons.

London, May 12.—The advocates of woman suffrage gave their cause another boost in the house of commons today, when Lord Mayor John J. Farrell, at the head of a deputation from the corporation of Dublin, presented at the bar of the house a petition urging the passage of a female suffrage bill at the present session of parliament. The members of the deputation appeared in the full regalia of their offices, and the ceremony was attended with picturesque details.

STEAMSHIP IS SUNK IN MID-OCEAN

Ward Liner Merida Rammed By the Admiral Farragut.

Two Hundred and Seven Passengers Taken Off Safely.

Many of Those on Board Lose Clothes and Baggage.

New York, May 12.—The steamship Merida of the Ward line with 207 passengers from Havana for this city, was rammed by the steamer Admiral Farragut from Philadelphia for Port Antonio, off Cape Charles, shortly after midnight. The Merida's passengers and crew were transferred to the Admiral Farragut. Water poured through the gaping wound in the Merida's side, and five hours after the collision the steamship settled beneath the waves.

Wireless distress signals were flashed in every direction and the United States battleship Iowa hurried to the Merida's assistance. The Admiral Farragut which had but one passenger on board, was somewhat damaged in the collision, but was able to return to Philadelphia. Officers of the Merida went among the passengers and assured them there was no danger.

The Merida, under the command of Capt. Robertson, left Vera Cruz on May 4, and Havana on May 9. The Admiral Farragut, commanded by Capt. Mader, left Philadelphia for Port Antonio yesterday. About 12:30 o'clock this morning about fifty-five miles east of Cape Charles lightship, the Admiral

POPE'S GOUT IS TROUBLESOME

Public Audiences Planned for the Pontiff Are Abandoned.

Rome, May 12.—Pope Plus X is still feeling the effects of his recent attack of gout, and the public audiences planned for this morning were suspended. Those who had obtained invitations were turned back when they arrived at the Vatican. The general condition of his holiness is, however, giving little alarm to his physicians, who permitted the private audiences set for today. At one of these the pontiff had a long conversation with Bishop Bianconi of Ferentino.

Report That Eberhart Will Take Summary Action Next Week.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Governor Eberhart will be "thoroughly angry" and that "the fur will fly" when he returns from his Western trip, because of the alleged inactivity of the board of control in attempting, at least, to cause the removal of F. A. Whittier, superintendent of the state training school at Red Wing, is being freely predicted at the capitol. Before the governor started on his swing around the circuit, he wrote the board that Whittier should be removed.

But the board has no power to summarily remove the superintendent except for cause, and he is entitled to a hearing upon formal charges being preferred. The investigation by the legislature resulted in Mr. Whittier being vindicated, and no charges

DIRE PREDICTIONS.

Tim Woodruff Says Democrats May Carry New York.

Washington, May 12.—Former State Republican Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff of New York brought some dire predictions to the White House today.

"If business conditions continue as bad as they are now," said Mr. Woodruff, "the Democratic party stands an excellent show to carry the state in the presidential campaign. That is due to the practice of business interests in blaming the party in power for famine, Grouths and all other natural and unnatural disturbances."

ENDS LIFE RATHER THAN JOIN A UNION

Philadelphia, May 12.—Driven to distraction over the efforts of fellow workmen to force him into joining a union, Ernest Hebich, 23 years old, an employe of the Baldwin Locomotive works, shot and killed himself today. The young man's reason for his act was given in a letter addressed to his wife, in substance as follows:

"I cannot longer endure the efforts of my fellow workmen to force me into joining the union. I do not believe in unionism and they are making life so miserable that I cannot bear it any longer."

HEAVY FROST KILLS LOCUSTS

Cold Weather Does Vast Amount of Good in Red River Valley.

Crookston, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heavy frost last night was of inestimable value in effectually eliminating all danger from locusts this year. Around Argyle and Stephen, grasshopper eggs had been sent State Entomologist F. W. Washburn, who pronounced them the real thing. They were in great abundance and last week locusts covered the prairies about Argyle by the millions and serious damage was feared. The frost last night killed every one of them, as they were all young and could not stand the cold. Ice formed last evening a quarter of an inch thick and a half inch of snow covered the ground, but all rapidly disappeared this morning under the hot sun.

Many Cities of South Are Surrounded By Insurrecto Troops.

Madero Ready for Peace, But His Demands Will Be Greater.

Chihuahua, May 10, via El Paso, May 12.—Two thousand insurrectos, part of the band operating in the districts south of here, are reported today to be marching on Chihuahua. Already the advance guards are encamped around the city.

An armed mob just before daylight today entered Nombre de Dios, a suburb, looted all the stores, and took all the horses, despite the presence of 1,500 federal troops in nearby barracks, and escaped. Santa Eulalia, an important mining camp twelve miles east of the city, has been abandoned by all the municipal officers because of the approach of the insurrectos. The place is now regulated wholly by Americans employed in the mines.

To conceal their movements the insurrectos destroyed all the remaining telegraph and railroad lines so that Chihuahua City with its 36,000 inhabitants, has been isolated for practically two weeks. This dispatch is sent 225 miles overland by automobile to El Paso, Tex.

The situation in the south is reported here as follows:

WILSON TO BE NOMINEE

Says Editor Josephus Daniels of Raleigh News and Observer.

Rumors That Hearst Will Effect Combine With Senator La Follette.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—A Washington special to the News says: In the opinion of Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, and Democratic national committeeman from North Carolina, Woodrow Wilson will be the Democratic nominee for the presidency next year.

Back from a trip to New York and points in the East, Mr. Daniels, who was manager of the publicity department for the Democratic national committee in the last presidential campaign, says that everywhere he went he found Democratic sentiment favorable to the nomination of the New Jersey executive for the presidency next year.

Indications Favor Wilson.

"All indications at this time point to the nomination of Governor Wileditor, "and should the national convention meet today it would be overwhelmingly in favor of the nomination of the New Jersey executive. This was the opinion frequently ex-

TAKES POISON AND SHOOTS HIMSELF

Mystery Surrounding Death of Doctor Cleared By His Pupil.

New York, May 12.—The mystery surrounding the death of Dr. W. R. C. Latson in his Riverside drive apartment last night, was explained today by Miss Alva Marhelka, student of mystic psychology, who had been the pupil and private secretary of Dr. Latson. The young woman told the coroner that when she called at Dr. Latson's apartment last night she found him dead, kneeling at a sofa, and with a note beside him, reading:

"Mother, I've done my best."

The note was signed "Death." Besides taking poison, Dr. Latson had shot himself.

After remaining several hours with the body of her friend, Miss Marhelka said she went home without notifying the police. Dr. Latson had family troubles.

PIONEERS MEET.

Members of Minnesota Association Elect Officers.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—All afternoon yesterday, well into dusk, members of the Minnesota Pioneers' association and of the Women's Pioneers sat in the house and senate chamber of the old capitol and listened to informal reminiscences from their own membership. It was the fifty-third anniversary of the admission of Minnesota to the union.

It took but a few minutes to elect officers. They chose E. F. Berrisford, St. Paul, president; Major Bohler, Minneapolis, first vice-president; I. H. Moutlton, La Crosse, second vice-president; George H. Hazzard, St. Paul, secretary; and John H. Steese, Minneapolis, treasurer.

Walter Duryea Finally Succumbs After Astounding Surgeons of World.

Montclair, N. J., May 12.—Walter E. Duryea, who astonished surgeons throughout the country by living twelve years with a broken neck, died at his home last night. He had been paralyzed from the head down ever since and the spinal cord has been held in position and his head supported by an elaborate system of traces.

GREAT POWER NOW WASTED

Sufficient Water in Minnesota to Run Every Industry in State.

All Falls Are Being Investigated, Estimated and Surveyed.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Water power enough to operate every industry in Minnesota, all at present going to waste, is being investigated, estimated, surveyed and reported on by the state of Minnesota and the United States government working together in Northern Minnesota, according to George A. Ralph, state drainage engineer, and Robert Follansbee, United States district engineer, with offices in the old capitol.

By the time the next legislature meets, according to Mr. Ralph, every water power and water power site, developed and undeveloped, in Minnesota, will have been investigated and the result embodied in a report to the legislature.

Mr. Ralph returned about a week ago from Washington, where he made arrangements between the state and the United States as to what share of the expenses of compiling this report each should pay. Mr. Follansbee returned yesterday from Northern Minnesota, where several parties of engineers are at working making the investigation.

"We found falls of water from 200 to 300 feet in the iron range country," said Mr. Follansbee. "We found streams that had a drop of from 100 to 400 feet in a thousand feet. And all this was within striking distance of Duluth. When these water power sites are developed they will supply 'juice' for every industry Duluth has or ever will have. Our report will be one of the most complete ever prepared in any state.

"We shall pick out the sites where reservoirs for storage purposes could be made."

MUST WALK OR TAKE BUS

Incline Road Will Be Closed for Next Two Weeks.

Bus From West Fourth Street During the Busy Hours.

To complete the improvements now under way, it will be necessary for the Duluth Street Railway company to shut down the incline railroad at Seventh avenue west for about two weeks, beginning next Monday. The work has progressed to such a stage that a complete shutdown will be necessary to make the required changes in the road.

To partially relieve the inconvenience which the suspension of service will cause, the street railway company will operate a 'bus from the end of the West Fourth street line to the top of the hill from 6 to 8 a. m., noon to 2 p. m., and 4 to 8 p. m. Outside of those hours the walking will be good.

It is expected that the new service on the incline will be inaugurated about June 1. The street railway company has set about making extensive improvements that will greatly improve the service to the top of the hill. Two cars will be operated instead of one, and the intervals between cars will be greatly cut down.

MARINE

SHIPMENTS WILL INCREASE SOON

Coal Shortage at Ports on Lower Lakes Is at an End.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 12.—The coal shortage is at an end, is the opinion of nearly all of the large coal shippers. Shippers and vessel agents say that within a few weeks the coal business will begin to show signs of great activity. While it may be some time before the shipments surpass those of last year, it is expected they will compare favorably with last season's.

Last season, the coal trade was at its height and vessel owners and agents took advantage of the increase and placed nearly all of the available tonnage in the coal-carrying trade. What decrease there was in the shipments out of Buffalo during last month will not be charged to shortage, but to the fact the season was seven days later in opening on account of the large amount of ice in the lower end of Lake Erie.

Another reason given by one of the vessel agents for the decrease in shipments during April is that several vessels were held up because of the inspection hitch. Masters and owners were afraid of letting their vessels clear without inspection from the federal steamboat inspectors. Just what caused the scare will never be known. Capt. Pope, federal steamboat inspector for the Buffalo district, says he heard of few vessels clearing from that port without inspection. He said all of the vessels do not have to be inspected in the spring of the year because their licenses do not all expire at the same time. Steamers which were inspected last summer will not have to be inspected again until this summer, or one year after the last inspection.

Shippers say there is always a coal shortage up until about this time of the year, and from now on it is expected there will be a rush of coal-carrying vessels from Buffalo for upper lake ports.

The first large consignment of copper arrived Wednesday on the steamer R. S. Warner from Lake Linden. The vessel carried 1,900 tons of copper mineral and 827 tons of copper anodes. The copper was shipped from the Calumet & Hecla Smelting works to the Buffalo Smelting works. The consignment was valued at more than $100,000.

CANADIAN STEAMSHIP LINES ARE MERGED.

A deal has been completed in Montreal whereby the Richelieu & Ontario, Northern & Inland Navigation companies are merged. The final understanding was arrived at after several months' negotiations. All that remains now is to procure the sanction of the Canadian government to increase the capitalization to $10,000,000. This will be accomplished at Ottawa.

The executive of the new organization will be in Montreal, with the divisional points at Toronto, Sarnia and perhaps another western point.

According to a director, the Furness people receive 125 for their holdings in the Northern Navigation company or the figure at which they acquired control. The inland stock held by these interests will be taken over at the valuation of the appraisers, plus the amount decided upon as due the company for contracts and as a "running concern."

NICHOLAS WAS BADLY DAMAGED.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Nicholas, which passed the canal upbound yesterday afternoon, is still lying at the north pier. The damage she sustained by grounding at Crab Island is more serious than was supposed, and the siphons placed aboard to overcome the leak after temporary repairs had been made, were insufficient. Wreckers were called to make further repairs in the middle of the night and the work is still under way.

SMITHIES IS CHAIRMAN

"Men and Religion Forward Movement" Is Launched in Duluth.

Committee of 100 to Direct Winning of Men to Religion.

A number of Duluth men met at lunch last evening at the Y. M. C. A. to further the interests of "The Men and Religion Forward Movement." W. L. Smithies was selected to act as temporary chairman, and the subject for discussion was stated to be "How to Enlist the Workers in the Protestant Churches in the Movement?"

After considerable informal discussion, it was decided that a special committee should be appointed to solicit members who would join the committee of 100 in active work along this line. A resolution was introduced and unanimously passed urging every Protestant church to join in the movement and to be represented by at least one delegate or member of the committee of 100. J. J. Moe was selected to act as publicity committee until the regular committee should be organized.

The following were present and have been appointed on the committee of 100: Rev. J. J. Daniels, Rev. A. W. Ryan, Rev. M. S. Rice, Rev. Edward Erickson, Rev. J. W. Hunt, W. L. Smithies, Henry Taylor, S. W. Matter, W. J. McCabe, W. G. Hegardt, Albert Baldwin, W. S. Moore, J. J. Moe, L. A. Barnes and B. N. Wheeler.

Active work will be carried on for a year, with the hope and expectation that a large number of men and young men will be definitely lined up for active work in the churches. "The Men and Religion Forward Movement" is a national movement in which men in many cities throughout the country are interested.

GOVERNOR CHASE'S LIBEL SUIT ON SOON.

Marquette, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The libel suit of Governor Chase S. Osborn against Francis L. Baldwin, editor of the Escanaba Journal, will be the first case to be called for trial when the court opens on Monday next.

CREW OF FIVE MEN DROWNED

Vessel Wrecked Off Florida Coast Was the Schooner Queen.

Pensacola, Fla., May 12.—It was established this morning that the vessel which was wrecked and washed ashore on St. Andrews beach, in the gulf storm two weeks ago, was the schooner Queen of the Standard Oil company. Her crew of five men undoubtedly were drowned. The boat is a total loss.

The identification was made by men who reached the wreck in small boats. The Queen, loaded with oil in barrels, was bound from Tampa to Panama City, Fla.

SENTENCE AGED MAN TO DEATH

Blind River, Ont., Murderer to Expiate Crime on July 26.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Carroll, 65 years old, was sentenced to be hanged on July 26 by Justice Britton here today for the murder of William Theland in a lumber camp near Blind river, Ont., last November. As he stood before the bar receiving the sentence the gray haired and feeble prisoner presented a pitiable sight. He appeared not to hear the sentence when it was pronounced and paid no heed when a few moments later two constables tapped him on the shoulder to take him back to jail. He was afterwards led tottering from the court room.

OLD FIGURES ARE NOT USED

Deputy City Assessors Must Act on Their Own Initiation.

Good Results Expected From New Money and Credit Tax Law.

"Put my property in at the same figure it was last year," is the statement which is commonly made to the deputy assessors who are now making the personal property assessment.

They state that many people fear that they will have to pay more taxes this year than they did last. The deputies are under strict instructions to make their own assessments, and not to go by any figures which may have been turned in before. In some cases they find people who were assessed entirely too low and in others they find assessments which were altogether too high.

Good results are being obtained from those to whom blanks for statements relative to money and credits are being submitted. The last legislature provided for a special tax of $3 per $1,000 on this class of property, the intention being to put more of it on the tax rolls. The rate is so low that it is believed that thousands of dollars in money and credits, which were concealed before, will be placed on the list after the blanks have been handed the owners by the assessors. No exemption is made for debts, and the reason assigned is that the tax rate is so low that no one can reasonably object to paying the amount called for under the new law.

ELKS IN CHARGE OF FUNERAL

Harry M. Mauseau Will Be Buried From Lodge Rooms.

The funeral of Harry M. Mauseau, 48 years of age, who died yesterday morning at his home, 315 South Fifteenth avenue east, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Elks' building near Third avenue west and First street.

Mr. Mauseau had been seriously ill for three weeks and his death was expected at any time. He was one of the prominent members of the Duluth lodge of Elks and had a host of friends and acquaintances throughout the city. He had lived in the city for twenty-two years and had been in the employ of the Bell Telephone company for sixteen years. His brother, C. M. Mauseau, now living at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, was local and Northwestern manager for the same company for a number of years.

The death of Mr. Mauseau occurred at 11 o'clock, May 11, 1911, which is a significant hour to the members of the Elks lodge. When his watch stopped it also recorded the hour of 11. It is said that this strange coincidence has never happened before to any member of the order.

Mr. Mauseau leaves a widow, but no children.

KEPT CHILDREN HERDING COWS

Andrew Kotlavich Fined for Breaking Compulsory Education Law.

Andrew Kotlavich was found guilty in police court this morning of keeping his children out of school.

F. N. Burrall, principal of the Franklin school, stated that when he asked why they did not attend, he was told that they had to herd cows. The father claimed that he told the children to go to school, but that his wife told them that they would have to take care of the cows.

A sentence of $25 and costs or thirty days was imposed. A stay of two weeks was granted to give him an opportunity to comply with the law.

OPEN BIDS FOR ROCK CRUSHER

Board Will Purchase Machine of Moderate Size for Point of Rocks.

The board of public works opened bids this morning for a gyratory rock crusher, which will be installed at the Point of Rocks, near Thirteenth avenue west and Superior street.

Two concerns submitted three different prices each, for separate propositions, depending upon the kind of a crusher the board desires to order. The Austin - Western company bid $1,047, 1,342 and $1,650, and G. E. Ingersoll bid $1,630, $1,825 and $2,037. The board will award the contract later.

The conference committee levied $10,000 for the purchase of a new, up-to-date crusher for this place, but it is not likely that it will be installed this year. The city officials state that there would be no market for the stone and that it would not be advisable to spend that sum this year for a new crusher, which would have an average capacity of 250 yards of rock a day.

USED MAIL TO DEFRAUD.

Officers of Correspondence School Fined $25 Each.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 12.—Lewis Conrad, president, and Conrad Lotz and W. M. Bingaman, officers of the Correspondence School of America of Scranton, Pa., were fined $25 each and one-third of costs after a plea of nolle contendere, in the United States court today. The men had been arraigned on a charge of using the mails to defraud, by representing that they could teach art and cartooning by mail.

The costs in the case will amount to about $3,000 as numerous witnesses were brought here from other states.

GAME WARDEN STILL ACTIVE

Continues Campaign Against Illegal Fishing on the River.

Game Warden T. J. Storey is continuing his campaign to clean the bay and the St. Louis river of illegal fishing devices and declares that before he is through it will be possible to get some fish in a sportsmanlike manner.

Wednesday night he caught four men a short distance from Fond du Lac who had two hoop nets and six set lines. All of them were arrested when they came around in the morning to haul in the night's catch. They were arrested and gave their names as C. W. Miller, R. C. Miller, Louis Miller and Charles Hatberg. As they had been living on the Wisconsin side they were arraigned in the Superior municipal court, where each of them paid fines of $10 and costs. Game Warden Storey was assisted by Warden Craig of Superior.

The first part of the week about 2,000 feet of net was destroyed by the game warden and a quantity of fish lines. He says that with the quantity of nets and set lines that have been set it is a wonder that the fish have been able to get up the river at all.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Triumph of Betty."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

Maude Leone will close her engagement in Duluth with three more performances of the charming comedy, "The Triumph of Betty,"—which is being played the present week. Tomorrow afternoon will be the big farewell reception that has been planned for Miss Leone. After the fall of the curtain the actress will receive the women of the audience and will say goodbye to her many friends—friends whom she has made through her several seasons of stock work here.

The big stage of the Lyceum will be thrown open and the women of the audience will walk on to the stage and meet Miss Leone. In this way the many friends of the popular actress will have the opportunity to meet her and to say goodbye to a woman who has made many friends by her acting and by her personal charm.

Playing an accordion weighing twenty-nine pounds and arranged so that it has two banks of keys for the right hand, like a pipe organ, and a set of sixty keys for the bass reeds, manipulated by the left hand, is the feat accomplished by Signore G. Oddone, who is with "The Three Vagrants" at the Orpheum this week.

"The Three Vagrants" are Italian musicians of some note in their own country and the accordion played by Signore Oddone is an Italian instrument of the most complicated nature. It is so constructed that it can be played as softly as the swell of the pipe organ or it can give forth almost the volume of sound produced by a large church organ.

It is an instrument entirely new to American vaudeville audiences and differs materially from the ordinary accordion seen in this country. Not only does it take a most expert performer to play it, but it requires a skilled mechanic to keep it in working order. The delicate parts are constantly breaking and Signore Oddone is compelled to keep his instrument in repair himself, as, traveling about the country as he does, he has no opportunity to have it repaired, even if he could find any person capable of tackling the job in the smaller cities. "The Three Vagrants" have been the big hit of this week's bill at the Orpheum.

Miss Marion Wilder, who is appearing at the Empress this week with Spenser Kelly, is a Southern girl, a first cousin of Jefferson Davis. Her father was colonel of a Tennessee regiment in the Civil war. After his death Miss Wilder went to Los Angeles and there took up her residence with her aunt and uncle and became prominent in Los Angeles society. After several years' residence in that city, accompanied by a maiden aunt, she moved to San Francisco, bought a home and promptly proceeded to establish "Sunday night," her informal receptions becoming quite the fad among society folk. The last person of note to be entertained by Miss Wilder was the late Sir Henry Irving. At various times her guests have included Paderewski, the late Joseph Jefferson, Mme. Modjeska, Emma Eames, Campanari, Melba, Calve, Richard Mansfield, Ellen Terry, Margaret Anglin, W. D. Howells, George Ade and others famed in the world of finer arts. The lure of the footlights was too strong, however, and Miss Wilder forsook society for the stage. Miss Wilder is gifted with a beautiful soprano voice, and in addition, is one of the most beautiful women who have ever appeared at the Empress. During the course of their act, Miss Wilder wears some gorgeous and very expensive costumes which set off her beauty. Miss Wilder's rendition of the beautiful ballad, "Songs My Mother Used to Sing," is one of the big hits at the Empress this week.

Special Saturday matinees for shoppers will be given at the Odeum and Lyric theaters tomorrow afternoon.

No better programs of photoplay have been shown in Duluth for many weeks than those given at these twin theaters during the last half of the present week, and their popularity is evidenced by the increased attendance. Each theater gives a program of three films, comedy, dramatic and descriptive, and an illustrated song, and the short entertainment is very popular with the Saturday afternoon shoppers, and the school children.

"LADY AUDLEY'S SECRET."

W. B. Maxwell, whose latest novel, "Mrs. Thompson," has just been published, is the son of Mrs. John Maxwell, better known as Miss M. E. Braddon, the novelist. When the late John Maxwell, the publisher, first determined to start a magazine to be called Robin Goodfellow, it happened that by an unfortunate accident the serial story promised for the first issue failed to appear at the appointed time.

Editors and publishers were at their wits' end, and when Miss Braddon, who had heard of the difficulty, went to see the editor there was only twenty-four hours' time between her visit and the definite announcement that the magazine could not appear on the appointed day. The editor explained this to her in declining to accept her offer to write a serial for the magazine.

"But what is the latest time you can give me?" she asked.

"If the manuscript of the opening chapters for the first number were to be on my breakfast table in the morning," replied the editor, "that would be in time."

When the editor came down to breakfast the next morning he found a package of manuscript among his letters. It was the opening chapters of "Lady Audrey's Secret," which Miss Braddon had written after leaving the editor's office.

The situation was saved, the magazine came out at the time appointed and Miss Braddon's name became famous. She is now 75 and is still working. Her three sons are all writers.

SOUTHERN REBELS, 2,000 STRONG, ARE TO ATTACK CHIHUAHUA

Lavin: condition chaos, looting and acts of violence.

Palacio Gomez, near Torreon, invaded by insurrectos without resistance.

Durango, 32,000 population, capital of state of same name, surrounded by insurrectos and in fear of attack.

Zacatecas, 33,000 population, capital of state, 250 miles south of Torreon, surrounded by insurrectos, possesses only small federal garrison.

Aguas Calientes, 56,000 population, capital of the state, described as a hot bed of revolutionists, who frequently make incursions into the town and receive encouragement from the inhabitants.

Parral, located on a branch line from Jiminez, just south of here, sent out a distress signal. Fifteen hundred insurrectos surrounded the town, and already have captured Minas Luevas, a suburb.

Guadulupe y Calro, was entered by 700 men who shot and killed the jefe politico, a lieutenant and several federal employes. Al. the stores were looted and the municipal records burned, August Beckman, an American of Luckenback, Gillespie county Texas, was pulled off a horse while trying to escape and ordered executed. Several shots were fired but he escaped after suffering a wound in the scalp and hand. He, with other Americans, appealed to the United States consul for protection.

Rosario, another town, has been cut off for some time and its fate at the hands of the insurrectos is unknown. An appeal from there before the wires closed said conditions of anarchy prevailed, many of the regularly constituted authorities having fled.

Indee, South of Rosario, was sacked and taken after twenty people were killed.

Armored Train Returns.

As soon as the appeal came from Parral an armored train was sent out from here as relief. The train went as far as Jiminez and was proceeding on the branch to Parral when it suddenly stopped and came back. The official report states that insurectos were seen ahead in such great numbers that it was deemed unsafe to proceed. The effort to extend aid to the besieged town therefore was abandoned. Americans at Parral are engaged chiefly in the mining and banking business.

Chihuahua City is in a poor way to withstand prolonged isolation as no reserve supply of provisions was taken in before the railroad was closed. Much criticism is made by citizens because of neglect shown by the federal government in not keeping the city informed of developments outside.

No reliable news concerning the peace negotiations has been allowed to reach the city.

In the territory adjacent to and south of Torreon towns have been invaded, stores looted, railways and telegraphs destroyed and the jefe politicos have been killed off with great and grewsome regularity, while in many instances the federal troops stand by utterly helpless.

Those in authority do not conceal their belief that the conditions about Torreon and the larger section of the interior, are becoming a geater menace to the federal government than Madero's forces.

Will Consider Peace.

Juarez, Mex., May 12.—Senors Obregon and Braniff, who have endeavored in an unofficial capacity for weeks to bring about peace in Mexico, will meet Francisco I. Madero, Jr., provisional president, at his headquarters in Juarez today.

Whether or not their efforts will result in a proposition, either from Madero or Judge Carbajal, the federal peace envoy, for a renewal of the peace negotiations will probably depend upon the meeting of Provisional President Madero's cabinet, scheduled to follow the first holding forth of the olive branch.

The revolutionists say they are ready to treat for peace, but their demands have been strengthened by their recent successes. Before the battle they asked only for four ministers in the cabinet, and now they demand that the entire cabinet of the provisional president, Senor de la Barra, shall be composed of their partisans.

The rebel chiefs, however, will consent to no terms at present until a definite understanding is reached regarding President Diaz's resignation. Should the government decline to accede, they are ready to pursue the war vigorously.

The detachments of federals under Gen. Luque and Gen. Rabago, they say, easily can be defeated. Then the insurrecto leaders want to march to Mexico City.

Have Much Ammunition.

The rebels now have a tremendous amount of ammunition and artillery and are believed to have sympathizers in Mexico City ready to assist them. That there is more than a threat in the talk of an attack on Mexico City, has been evidenced by the part it has taken in the discussion among the rebel military leaders.

The relations which the provisional government is beginning to have with foreign countries, it is believed, cannot but perplex the Diaz government.

Dr. Gomez's first statement as minister of foreign relations was issued last night. The statement follows:

"It is reported here that the Mexican government has closed the customs houses at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, Ojinaja and Agua Prieta on the northern frontier. I believe that in this way it desires to avoid complications with the United States, inasmuch as it does not possess sufficient military forces to maintain its positions, already beginning the movement of retreat. In consequence, the entire zone in the north will soon be in the hands of the revolutionists.

"To avoid great sacrifices to the country, the government of Gen. Diaz should yield immediately, in order that peace may be arranged. For already it is agreed that the revolution is strong and the whole nation desires the separation from it of Gen. Diaz and the men who for many years have been governing it with him.

"The good of the country demands the resignation of Gen. Diaz and his circle of government. If they really love their country, they ought to retire. If they do not do so, they will be responsible for all the serious consequences that can follow.

"The taking of Juarez, the best defended place of the government of Mexico, proves that the revolution is strong and that hereafter it will be much more so. The government of Gen. Diaz is surely destined to fall and its immediate abdication can and speedily will bring about peace."

May Courtmartial Navarro.

Mexico City, Mex., May 12.—Despite the rumors of a student uprising and a possible attack on the city by the rebels, which gave the more timid residents some uneasiness last night, nothing out of the ordinary had occurred at the capital this morning.

The students are said to have planned a political demonstration and precautionary measures have been taken by the government, the police guards on the streets having been increased and a reserve force is held in readiness on any eventuality.

The officials of the war department decline to comment on any action to be taken toward Gen. Navarro as a result of his surrender of Juarez, but it is said that the behavior of the officer did not receive the approval of his superiors. It is reported here that he will be tried by court martial for the surrender of Juarez and that the court will sit at Chihuahua within a few days.

Notwithstanding that the press and consular reports from El Paso regarding the defense of the city appeared to indicate that the federal commander had made a heroic stand, the fact that he displayed the white flag when apparently in good fighting condition is widely commented upon as remarkable.

It is believed that the evidence to be developed by the court martial may vindidate him, as it is understood here that a portion of his command fought two days without food or drink, and some reports have it that Navarro handed his sword to Col. Garibaldi only when the suffering of his men was such that he could no longer endure the sight, hardened campaigner though he is.

Railroad communication is maintained through Laredo and to Tampico, Vera Cruz and points on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Traffic is interrupted between Puebla annd Oaxaca on the Mexican Southern railway, the lines having been cut by rebels at Tehuacan.

Madero's Cabinet.

Juarez, Mex., May 12.—After a conference of rebel chieftains the appointment of the following members of the provisional cabinet was announced:

Minister of foreign relations—Dr. Vasquez Gomez.

Minister of finance—Gustavo A. Madero.

Minister of war—Venuistano Carranza.

Minister of interior—F. Gonzales Garza.

Minister of justice—Jose M. Pino Suarez.

Private secretary to President Madero—Juan Sanchas Azcona.

Is in No Hurry to Move.

Tijuana, Lower California, May 12.—Gen. Pryce and his insurrectionary army are making no preparations for an early movement on Ensenada. From indications here today they may not march for a month or more. Business conditions are approaching normal and the looting of stores has ceased. The attitude of the customs officers at the line is largely responsible for the suppression of the looters. Scouting parties were sent to the south of Tijuana today.

MASSIVE CEMENT CAP

On Chimney of Rockefeller Home Is Conquered By John D.

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 12.—John D. Rockefeller has decided to conquer the obstacle of a three-ton cement cap one one of the chimneys of his mansion at Pocantico Hills by going around it.

Mr. Rockefeller is adding ten rooms to his home, and the plans call for raising the sharp sloping roof. The massive cement cap presents such a difficult problem, however, that he will not disturb it, but will raise the eaves.

Although this will mean a flat roof, it will be less expensive and take less time.

RAILROADS ASSISTING

Duluth's Water Carnival Being Advertised Throughout the Country.

Business Houses Enclose Cards in All Letters Sent Out.

The railroads of the Northwest have taken hold of the advertising of Duluth's water carnival with a spirit that is exceedingly gratifying to the people in charge of the festival. Every road appealed to has responded, not with promises alone, but with concrete evidence of the carrying out of the promises.

The time-table and folder recently issued by the Soo Line to advertise its Duluth-Superior-Chicago line has a description of the plans for the water carnival and a promise of wholesome summer amusement in Duluth in July, besides other advertising very favorable to the city.

The new Northern Pacific folder gives Duluth's water carnival as much space as Minneapolis' civic celebration, which shows a spirit on the part of the Northern Pacific that is appreciated by Duluth people.

The publicity department of the Great Northern is working on descriptive matter for Duluth's carnival, and the advertising will be scattered all along the line of the road.

With the publicity committee of the Commercial club, the railroads and steamship lines working together in advertising the carnival, the people of the United States will know that Duluth has something in store for its visitors this year. The Duluth delegation to the development congress at Helena scattered advertising matter for the water carnival all along the route. Every station was placarded, and every man with whom the Duluth people came in touch was invited to come to Duluth July 20, 21 and 22.

Light cards to be enclosed in letters have been prepared by the publicity committee of the Commercial club, and many Duluth business houses have obtained supplies of them, so that thousands of letters going from Duluth to all parts of the country will carry advertising of the carnival. Duluth is going into the festival on a big scale, and the advertising campaign is laid out on a large scale also.

Farragut crashed into the Merida. Following the crash wireless calls were sent out and an examination of the Merida showed that she was taking water fast.

The shock brought the passengers of both steamships to the decks. The transfer of passengers to the Farragut was effected in life boats.

The Merida's passengers lost all their baggage and many reached the Farragut only partly dressed. A wireless dispatch stated that the Merida sank at 5:50.

The Merida was built in Philadelphia in 1906, and has a gross tonnage of 6,267. The Admiral Farragut, owned by the American Mail Steampship company, is in the service of the United Fruit company between Philadelphia and Port Antonio. The Admiral Farragut has a tonnage of 1,300.

Hamilton Takes Passengers

The Old Dominion line steamship Hamilton came alongside the Admiral Farragut, according to a wireless received here at 10 o'clock this morning, and took the Merida passengers and crew off the Farragut. The Hamilton will arrive at Norfolk today.

Whether the Admiral Farragut then returned to Philadelphia or proceeded on her course to Port Antonio is not known.

The Hamilton left New York for Norfolk yesterday afternoon.

A later wireless message from Capt. Mader of the Admiral Farragut, stated: "Farragut floating on fore collision bulkheads, U. S. S. Iowa and Hamilton coming to our assistance."

The wireless message led to the belief that the Farragut had been damaged, possibly seriously, in the collision with the Merida.

Iowa to the Rescue.

Washington, May 12.—Wireless messages from Commander B. F. Hutchinson of the battleship Iowa, received this morning direct at the Washington navy yard, and also from the yard at Norfolk, Va., stated that he was rushing the big battleship at full speed toward the scene of the collision. Captain Hutchinson said his wireless operators had picked up the wireless signals for assistance sent from the Merida and the Admiral Farragut when the Iowa was fifty-five miles northeast of Cape Charles. He ordered full speed on the battleship and directed her toward the scene of the disaster.

His last message received at the department stated that the Iowa was then twenty miles northeast of Cape Charles and rapidly approaching the disabled fruit steamer.

As soon as word of the collision reached the navy department, orders were rushed to Norfolk instructing the torpedo boat destroyers Bailey and Stringham to hasten to the scene and render all possible assistance.

Few Americans Aboard.

Havana, May 12.—The only Americans on the passenger list of the Ward line steamer Merida, which sailed from here Tuesday for New York and is reported in collision with the Admiral Farragut, are Philip Lynch, Robert Wright, Mrs. Wright, Anna Wright and William White, the latter a Canadian.

PLAN TO REMOVE THE DEMOCRATIC MEMBERS OF BOARD OF CONTROL

against him have been filed with the board. Consequently it is powerless to act, and Attorney General Simpson has furnished Chairman Ringdahl with the following opinion: "The duty of the board of control is to await the filing before it of specific charges by some person who may be so advised, other than a member of the board of control. That thereupon a copy thereof be furnished to Mr. Whittier, and he be given an opportunity to be heard at a time and place to be fixed by the board. Such complaint under the law must be limited to allegations of misconduct, incompetency, or neglect of official duty. Thereupon the board of control should take the testimony and determine the controversy thereon according to its merits, removing the officer complained of if the evidence warrants such action, otherwise dismissing the complaint."

After Ringdal and Vasaly.

There the matter rests, and the governor will return to find the condition unchanged. The governor is said to be vexed by Mr. Whittier's refusal to resign and is known to have once intimated that he believed one of the Democratic members of the board was advising the training school superintendent to not resign. In this intimation many persons see the real reason that is prompting the governor to take such an interest in the matter. Two members of the board, Charles E. Vasaly and P. M. Ringdal, are Democrats and were appointed by Former Governor Johnson. The Republican politicians who are among the governor's closest advisers would like to get rid of these two members. Ringdal's term of office does not expire until 1913 and Vasaly's term will expire in 1915. The governor's advisers would like to get them out now and put Republicans in their places, and the governor is credited with a desire to carry out this program. But it would hardly do to remove them without giving a plausible reason, and hence the governor's activity in demanding that the board remove Whittier. When he finds, on his return next Tuesday from the West, that the board has taken no action beyond getting the attorney general's written opinion, some say that he will, by virtue of his own authority, remove the training school superintendent by his own act. While there is no section of the statute that gives him the express authority to do this, he is not restrainable by the courts and in a similar case a number of years ago, the supreme court refused to review the action of a governor who had removed a state employe. Furthermore, it is claimed, the governor is custodian of the state's property and as such may put Supt. Whittier out of the school without further debate.

Looking for an Excuse.

Should the governor take this summary action it is expected that he will follow it up by taking steps to remove one or both Democratic members of the board of control. And this is the chief object of the Republican politicians who have been urging the governor to insist on Whittier's removal and thus get a good excuse for removing Ringdal and Vasaly in case they failed to obey his wishes. It was well known when the Whittier investigation was proceeding in the legislature that the main purpose of some of those back of the charges was to oust the Democratic members of the board of control. The statement by the governor's private secretary, Ralph Wheelock, that he expects that "on the governor's return some radical changes in administration will be made," is significant of what is going to happen.

Whittier is to be made the "scapegoat" for carrying out the Republican machine's plans.

In this connection it is said that one other department in the state capitol which has failed to carry out some of the wishes of the governor is known to be receiving attention from him and it is said that on his return from the West, some changes probably will be demanded. The head of this department was appointed by him, but is not inclined to run his office as part of the Eberhart political machine.

pressed by the editors and publishers from all parts of the country who attended the meeting of the Associated Press in New York, and I have heard the same sentiment re-echoed among Democrats during my visit to Washington.

"The party has strong men in Governors Harmon, Marshall and Speaker Clark, any one of whom would make a splendid candidate for the presidency, but it is plain that Woodrow Wilson is growing in popular favor among the Democrats throughout the country who are beginning to regard him as the most available man that can be selected to make the race for the presidency.

State Proud of Him.

"I was recently in New Jersey and was impressed with the fact that there is much state pride in the suggestion of Dr. Wilson's name for the presidency.

"The trend of sentiment which is unmistakably centering upon the New Jersey governor is due in large measure to the splendid record that he has made in the brief period that he has been in the executive office. No state executive has ever accomplished more in so short a period. Although progressive in his views on public questions, the people of the nation have every confidence in the conservatism of Woodrow Wilson."

La Follette-Hearst Combine?

The politicians are wondering whether Senator Robert M. La Follette and William Randolph Hearst are getting ready to work together in national politics. There has been any amount of speculation along this line since last Sunday, when Mr. Hearst entertained Senator La Follette and several other insurgent Republicans at his home in New York city. The company included, besides Senator La Follette, Senator Bourne of Oregon, the head of the Progressive Republican league; Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Poindexter of Washington.

Ever since the visit of these insurgents with the New York editor the politicians here have been wondering whether there is any possibility of a "La Follette and Hearst" ticket in the presidential campaign next year. Mr. Hearst's friends say that if, perchance, there should be an independent presidential ticket, or a third party ticket, they are certain the New Yorker would not consent to run as second man on the ticket.

Seeking National Conventions.

Members of congress who are also members of the national committee of one party or the other are receiving communications from several cities that desire to entertain one or both of the national conventions next year. The city of Denver is particularly active. The "literature" that is being received from that city points out that the Democratic national convention met there three years ago and was splendidly taken care of. Denver is after both the national conventions, but it will, of course, be satisfied with one of them.

Kansas City is also out after the conventions, and is boasting of its magnificent convention hall. St. Louis is telling the members of the national committees that no better city can be found and St. Paul is letting it be known that if either of the conventions will come to that city it will be well taken care of.

So far, Chicago has not made a move. The two national committees will not meet until December to fix the times and places of the conventions, but the cities that are out after the convention and desire to entertain the convention are proceeding on the theory that it is worth while to obtain pledges from the committeemen as early as possible.

BACK TO SANDRINGHAM.

Queen Mother Returns From Cruise on the Mediterranean.

London, May 12.—Queen Mother Alexandra, who returned a week ago from a cruise in the Mediterranean, has taken up a residence at Sandringham palace, where she will remain until after the coronation. During the cruise and since her return the queen mother has enjoyed good general health. She reached here just in time to be present at the memorial service on the anniversary of the death of King Edward, and her distress during the service was marked.

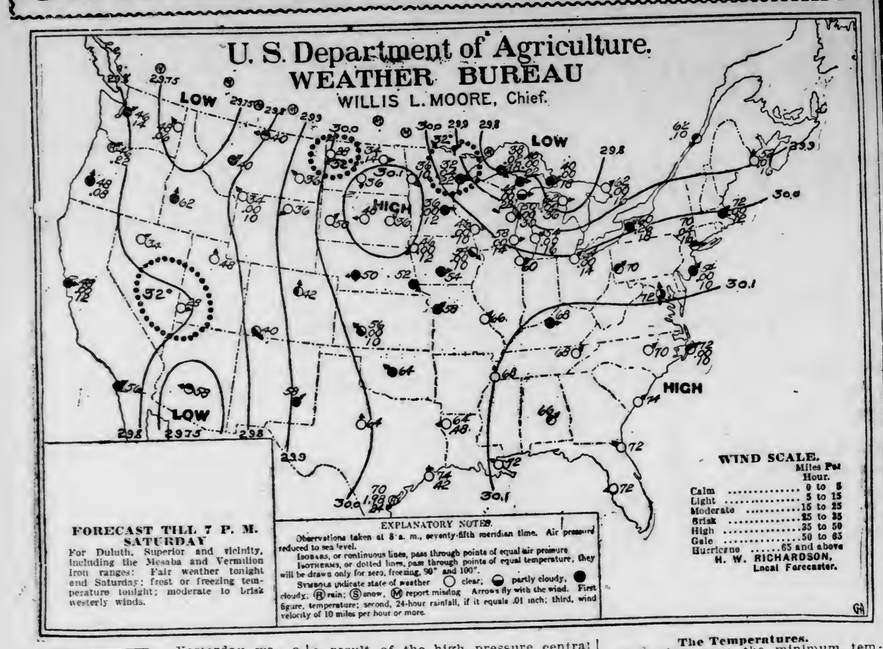
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



FAIR

Yesterday was a strenuous day for lightweights. The wind hit up a fifty-six-mile clip in the afternoon, and at no time during the day did it show any of the symptoms of gentle zephyr. The temperature dropped below the freezing point last night and there was a snowy-rain for a short time. Fair and continued cold weather, with a frost, is the prediction for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair, chilly weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:35 and it will set at 7:32 this evening, giving fourteen hours and fifty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours light to copious rains fell over North Atlantic districts, Northwestern Michigan, Northern Minnesota, Eastern North Dakota, North Pacific and Western Gulf states in connection with low pressure conditions centered respectively to the northward of Lake Superior and over British Columbia and Arizona. Somewhat cooler weather prevails throughout the Northwest as a result of the high pressure central over the Eastern Dakotas. Light to killing frosts or freezing temperature occurred this morning in Minnesota and the Dakotas. The western low pressure areas are also causing higher temperature throughout the Far West, and Southwest. At the Head of the Lakes the temperature will remain cool during the ensuing thirty-six hours.

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 12.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; probably frost tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Saturday; probably frost in lowlands tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Saturday; frost tonight; warmer in west portion tonight.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight and probably Saturday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Increasing cloudiness with rain in west portion tonight and Saturday; warmer in east portion tonight.

Upper Lakes: Brisk west winds except moderate over South Michigan and South Huron. Generally fair tonight and Saturday.

MILITIA MEN WILL DANCE

Officers of National Guard to Hold First Annual Ball.

Governor Eberhart and His Staff Will Be Invited to Attend.

Invitations have been sent out for the first annual ball to be given by the officers of the national guard at the Spalding hotel on Monday evening, May 22.

A full dress military ball by the officers of the different companies is said to be unique in the history of the city. All the officers will appear in full dress military uniform. Governor Eberhart and his staff will probably be present as will the officers of the St. Paul and Minneapolis militia companies.

About 1,000 invitations have been sent out to Duluth people. A large military orchestra will furnish the music and it is expected that a large number of people will attend the first ball which it is intended to make an annual affair hereafter.

These military balls have been a great success in other cities and in some places have been made the social event of the year. The Duluth officers hope to make their yearly affair very popular in Duluth.

Arrangements are being made by a committee composed of Capt. Walter O. Flodin, chairman; Col. F. E. Resche, Maj. H. V. Eva, Capt. George W. Stiles and Lieut. R. M. Weaver.

STOLE TO MAKE HIS WIFE HAPPY

Embezzler Ready for Punishment, Now She Has Died.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 12.—Julius W. Hopkins, confessed embezzler, sat in the county jail Tuesday gazing through barred windows at the open sky. He asserted that he stole from the First National bank, of which he was paying teller, to make his wife happy.

"I wanted my wife to be happy," he half whispered.

He had told, steadily and clearly, how he stole $114,850 from the bank. Then came the mention of his dead wife, whom he buried two brief months ago.

"That—that is the sore spot," he said, brushing his hand across his eyes. "While she lived I wanted her to be happy and comfortable. I was getting only $1,200 and $1,400 a year, eight years ago, when I began to—when it all started. I took a little at first. It went to $25,000, though, in three years.

"I wanted to see her well dressed and enjoying the little luxuries that other women have. Since she died I have lived in the simplest style.

"Then my old mother was living at Geneva. I sent her part of the money I took.

"I expected to pay back, as they all do, when I started. I soon found that I couldn't do it. My salary went up, and a short time ago it was increased to $2,500 a year. Then I was trying to make the Speed Indicator company, of which I was president, into a big concern. I wanted my children to have everything.

"My boy is down in Asheville now at school. He can bear it—Raymond has at least as much nerve as I.

"I want it settled quickly. It want an early trial. My property will be turned over to the bank. Anything that I can do to make good I shall do. I have not thought of suicide, for I am not a coward."

Mine Fire Extinguished.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 12.—The fire in the Boston mine of the Delaware & Hudson company at Larksville, where five men were suffocated by smoke, has been extinguished. The company officials say the damage to the workings will be small.

MOTOR BOAT OWNERS WARNED

Government Regulations Will Be Strictly Enforced This Year.

The government regulations applying to motor boats will be strictly enforced this year by the collector of customs. Last year the regulations were new and motor boat owners were given a little leeway on account of lack of time in which to familiarize themselves with the rules. This year, however, there is no excuse for violations of the law and strict compliance with its provisions will be required.

The customs launch will be put in commission in a few days and two inspectors will be stationed on the water front to watch for violations of the law. All boats, large and small, will be required to comply strictly with regulations, and violations will be punished.

HOBBLE SKIRT

Is Now Latest Fashion in Funeral Shrouds.

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—Hobble skirted gowns to be buried in are on exhibition at the Coates House this week, at the convention of the Missouri Funeral Directors' association. The fashions in ready-made shrouds keep pace with the fashions on petticoat lane, and now one may be buried in the finest of frocks without depleting a wardrobe, which may go to an appreciative friend.

Frocks of silk and tailored suits of broadcloth, as well as more simple things in challies, are shown in the latest styles, in long individual boxes in the showrooms of the agents, who come to attend the convention.

The men are not neglected, for in frock coat or in full dress, even if the poor soul never owned but one scraggled suit of tweed, he who pays may be buried along with all the rest of the glory of metal casket and carriages for all his friends and friends' friends.

WILLISTON FAIR PLANS HAVE BEEN PERFECTED.

Williston, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Organization of the Williams County Fair association for the purpose of holding a fair here, has been completed. The officers who have been named will pay especial attention to the task of creating a good exhibit of farm produce and of livestock, with especial reference to the grains and grasses grown under the irrigation projects. Champine; vice president, John Hefferman; treasurer, W. S. Davidson.

Feathered City Builder.

The African grosbeck lives in large communities, where they select a very large tree, and literally cover it with a grass roof, under which they build a little city of nests, in rows and streets like tenement houses. They are sociable also, and call one upon another, much like neighbors, where the females gossip over the latest grosbeck scandal. They only lack the serving of golden grain belt beers, for their company, to be quite in line with the human family in entertaining. LADY DECIES IN SURGEON'S HANDS

New York Bride Undergoes Operation for Appendicitis in London.

London, May 12.—Lady Decies, who before her marriage to Lord Decies was Miss Helen Vivien Gould, underwent an operation for appendicitis this morning. The surgery was done at the residence of her mother-in-law, Dowager Lady Decies, and according to subsequent announcement the result was most satisfactory.

It now appears that Lady Decies has been suffering from more or less severe attacks of appendicitis for some time, and among intimate friends of the family it had been frequently stated that she was about to submit to an operation. These statements were always denied, and only yesterday, in reply to inquiries concerning the condition of his wife, Lord Decies wrote that while she had experienced some trouble from the cause reported, an operation was unnecessary. It is now explained that a more acute attack occurred last evening and a resort to surgery was suddenly decided upon.

BUY MONTANA PROPERTY.

Minnesotans Are Investing in the Western State.

Great Falls, Mont., May 12.—Deeds filed for record in Madison and Gallatin counties show the purchase of ten sections of land by James Jensen of Albert Lea, Minn. The land in question lies along the boundary lines between Gallatin and Madison counties, in what is believed to be one of the best farming sections of the state. It is believed that Mr. Jensen and his associates have a big colonization scheme planned.

Matt Jensen, clerk of the district court of St. Paul, this week bought a valuable corner lot in Lewistown, the brisk little town in the Judith basin. The purchase price was $9,500. Associated with Matt Jensen of St. Paul is his brother, Andrew Jensen of Great Falls. The two are members of a large clothing house in Great Falls. The Jensen brothers stated that they intend to erect on the site of their purchase a substantial brick or stone business block this year, for a clothing store.

TWO BIG RAILROADS MAY FIGHT 2-CENT LAW.

Norway, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the passenger fare on the Northwestern and St. Paul lines in the upper peninsula may not be reduced to 2 cents Aug. 1, when the Michigan 2-cent fare law becomes effective, is the opinion of J. B. Knight of Norway, representative from Dickinson county. It appears that by counting in their sidetracks and spurs, these two roads can show that their passenger earnings are below the $1,200 per mile limit, the law providing that roads earning less than that amount may continue to charge 3 cents.

To Entertain State Jewelers.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local jewelers and opticians are planning for the entertainment of the North Dakota Opticians' society and the North Dakota Retail Jewelers' association at their annual meetings here June 13, 14 and 15.

St. Paul Firm's Assets.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—Tibbs, Hutchings & Co., whose assets were appraised by order of the trustees, has the credit side of its books, $44,730.68. The inventory and appraisement was filed Wednesday in the office of the referee in bankruptcy by the Minnesota Loan and Trust company, Charles M. Allen and Henry L. Moore.

ORATORS AND DECLAIMERS FROM FOUR HIGH SCHOOLS IN CONTEST

There is a great deal of speculation among high school students as to whether the Wallace cup for excellence in oratory and declamation, which is held at present by the Duluth Central high school, will be lifted by Superior Central, by Nelson Dewey, or by the Industrial high school.

The question will be decided at the Duluth Central high school this evening. At that time each school will be represented by an orator and a reader. The school that scores the highest number of points will hold the championship of the Twin Ports and the Wallace cup for the following year.

The cup and the conditions for its award are in themselves objects of interest. The former is beautiful in design. It is about twenty inches high and is of heavy silver, handsomely engraved. Before the cup can be permanently awarded to any school it will have to be contested for ten times. It will be awarded then to the school which has won it the greatest number of times. This cup was presented last year by Dr. C. J. Wallace, then of Superior, now of New Duluth, who is very much interested in the development of good readers and orators. Realizing that a little friendly rivalry would do much to promote interest in this line of work, Dr. Wallace has set up this trophy.

Last year the cup was brought to Duluth by Stanley Lamb and Roger Lerch, who represented Duluth Central high school in declamation and oratory, respectively. This year Duluth Central will be championed by Roger Lerch in oratory and by Julius Nolte in declamation.

Both of the Superior schools have some excellent representatives in these branches of public speaking.

The orators and declaimers from Superior Central and Nelson Dewey have carried everything before them in the preliminary contest for the state championship of Wisconsin and are now in the finals which will be held at Madison within a few days. It is therefore expected that Duluth Central will have no easy task in holding the cup for another year. Whatever the results, a very close and a very interesting contest is assured.

POLLY TALKED OVER TELEPHONE

Conversed With Mistress Over Wire Between Cincinnati and Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., May 12.—Overcome by desire to hear the notes of her parrot's voice, Mrs. W. H. Walt, a society leader at Atlanta, while on a visit in Cincinnati last week, employed the long distance telephone to converse with her feathered pet in Atlanta. When connection had been made between Cincannati and Atlanta, polly was perched near the mouthpiece while a servant held the receiver to its ear.

When Mrs. Walt spoke, polly responded. It talked quite freely, becoming garrulous, in fact, and no one seemed to enjoy the conversation more than polly.

The connection was just a little bad, however, and polly never seemed to catch the exact drift of the conversation. It punctuated its remarks fully with such expressions as "Hello!" "Well!" and other similar ejaculations.

Other members of the household could not get the other side of the conversation, but they think from the expression on polly's countenance it ran much to "doll baby" and other endearing terms.

Incidentally the conversation cost $30. It was worth it, according to Mrs. Walt and polly, but Mr. Walt expressed himself differently.

FOR BUTTER AND CHEESE MAKERS

Prizes in Contests to Be Conducted By State Commission.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gold watches, gold scarf pins and a grand prize will awarded buttermakers and cheesemakers in six monthly contests to be conducted by the state dairy and food commission. J. G. Winkjer has just issued the rules that will apply. Butter made from hand separator or gathered cream, will be given a handicap of 1½ points over butter made in creameries where whole milk is used. The state will be divided into six districts, and the buttermakers in each district scoring the highest will be awarded a gold scarf pin with state emblem and suitably engraved. If the same person makes the high score in each district twice in succession or oftener, the prize will go to the one making the next highest score.

A gold watch will be awarded the person making the highest score in each district during the six contests, and a grand prize will be awarded for the highest score made in the state. Diplomas will be issued to persons making a butter average of 93 points from whole milk and those making 91½ in the hand separator class. Diplomas will also be awarded those who score of 93 on cheese.

The first contest will be held in St. Paul and all entries of butter or cheese must be in the hands of the commission not later than May 26.

DEMONSTRATION BEING PLANNED

Duluth Unions to Protest Against Unfair Methods in McNamara Case.

The McNamara Defense league will have a demonstration by organized labor and its friends in this city as a protest against the alleged unfair and illegal treatment of James and John McNamara, who are charged with complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building.

The demonstration will not be held until after the hearing which has been set for June 1. This was decided at a meeting of the McNamara Defense league at the Kalamazoo hall last night.

The executive committee also took up the matter of financing the Duluth share of the expense of fighting the case at Los Angeles. It is expected that the Trades assembly and all the labor unions of the city will contribute, but it is not proposed to allow it to stop there, for there are said to be many individuals ready to contribute to the fund.

All the trades unions are to be represented on the executive committee. The committee as made up to date consists of the following:

Morris Kaplan, chairman and representative of the Socialist party; Henry Peresault, representing the Trades assembly; J. H. Baker, carpenters; J. A. Powers, painters; J. Lussand, cigarmakers; John Byron, Typographical union; W. T. Neff, Industrial Workers of the World; James Gerrie, horseshoers; D. M. Robertson, painters; H. L. Shannon and Frank Schmitz, Structural Iron Workers. The committee which meets each Thursday night has generally charge of the Duluth campaign. H. L. Shannon and Frank Schmitz, representing the Structural Iron Workers "union under fire," were present for the first time last evening.

Richard Jones, representing the Telegraphers' union, is the president of the defense league; William E. Towne of the Typographical union, secretary, and Elmer Oss, who represents no labor organization, is the treasurer.

Caterpillars Hungry.

Arkansas City, Ark., May 12. — Millions of caterpillars are devastating the valleys of Osage county, Okla., southeast of here, where they are devouring every kind of vegetation in their path. Great damage has been done to growing crops. The worms are closely following the lines of the Midland Valley and the St. Louis & San Francisco railroads.

TALKING DOG

Said to Have Added Third Word to His Vocabulary.

Allentown, Pa., May 12.—Diamond Dick, Allentown's talking dog, has learned a new word, and his vocabulary now consists of three. His owner, Tom Ford, young Allentown businessman, who is well known as a lover of animals, spent one and one-half years teaching the dog, a handsome bull terrier, two words, mamma and no.

A dog is by nature not constituted to pronounce consonants, but Diamond Dick seems to have mastered that difficulty. About two months ago, after Ford had demonstrated to doubters that his dog could say mamma and no, he said he hoped to teach him more words, and the terrier can now say good night. He will repeat the word again and again, the same as the other words he knows how to utter, when he once grasps what his master wants of him.

OFF TO ENGLAND.

Laurier, Borden and Brodeur to Attend Imperial Conference.

Ottawa, Ont., May 12 — Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier, Sir Frederick Borden, minister of militia, and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, minister of marine, Canada's representatives at the imperial conference in London, left Ottawa yesterday to sail on the steamer Virginian for Liverpool today.

At the depot Sir Wilfrid was given an enthusiastic send-off by his colleagues and many of his personal friends in the capital. He left in splendid health and spirits.

While the Canadian ministers will take part in the discussion of all the subjects at the conference, which opens on May 23, they will take the initiative in only two or three subjects.

Canada is anxious to secure the speedy realization of the allied steamship scheme and, with Premier Ward of New Zealand, Sir Wilfrid will urge upon the imperial and Australian governments the desirability of taking another forward step by coming to some definite agreement looking to the inauguration of a faster subsidized service between Great Britain and Canada on the Atlantic and between Canada and Australia and New Zealand on the Pacific.

Sir Wilfrid will also urge the adoption of a uniform naturalization law whereby naturalization papers secured in any part of the empire will be recognized as constituting British citizenship in any other part of the king's domains.

Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues expect to return to Ottawa the third week in July. Parliament will adjourn on May 22 or 23 and the recess will be for seven or eight weeks.

POLICEMAN NOT FOOLED

But All Others Bowed and Smiled to Bogus Court Lady.

He Knew That No Lady Ever Owned Ankles Like Those.

Berlin, May 12.—Spectators present in Potsdam's criminal court a few days ago noticed a smooth-faced young man looking down from the gallery. He kept his eyes on another smooth-faced young man who sat in the prisoner's dock. The smooth-faced young man in the gallery was the kaiser's fourth son, Prince August Wilhelm, who has just become a referendar, or full-fledged junior lawyer. The smooth-faced man in the dock was Francis Eichbaum, who was accused, with his friend, Mr. Klennt, of a highly reprehensible swindle. He had appeared as a lady-in-waiting at the kaiser's court, fooled Potsdam's sharp-eyed citizens quite like the captain of Koepenick, and was now sitting in court awaiting the decree of justice.

Mr. Eichbaum dined some months ago at the Hotel Adlon, and drank, he said, an unconscionable quantity of wine. As wine—so Bacon says—makes men ingenious, he naturally had an idea. He returned tipsily to an adoring mother and asked for the loan of her smartest dress. Being the widow of an official entitled a kanzleirat, Frau Eichbaum naturally had dresses. She lent one of glowing purple velvet. She lent also a silk and flowered mantle, and an umbrageous Paris hat. Herr Eichbaum seized them, whirled off to his bosom friend, Herr Klennt and whispered something. Herr Klennt smiled. So did the people of Potsdam next morning, for they love courtiers, princesses, handsome carriages, and lackeys with fat calves. A magnificent young lady whirled past its stucco houses and rococo palaces. Rosy cheeks, resplendent auburn hair, dignified attitude, and a dress of glowing purple made for their eyes as pretty a picture as ever was painted by Boucher or Lancret. There was nothing up-to-date, frivolous, or cheap about this young lady; but merely courly self-possession, a gracious smile and the slightly old-fashoned air of a young woman of too high birth to think of diurnal vanities and worldly mutations.

Prayed for Such Brides.

Potsdam stared. When the carriage stopped at a street corner, it was not surprised to learn that this was her excellency, lady-in-waiting of the Kaiserin, Manuela, Countess von Arnim. As the carriage whirled on again, smart guards officers glanced up at the pretty countess, and prayed for such brides, and grizzled old generals wished they were young again, and that their wives didn't so closely resemble sacks of flour.

In fact, all things smiled on the pretty court lady—the guardsmen, the flowers, and the sunshine. When her carriage stopped outside the marble palace of the crown prince, the fat lackeys bowed, and helped her obsequiously to alight. Their calves nearly burst their stockings. But as the countess asked to be shown into the crown princess's private rooms, they answered that the countess must first send a card. The pretty court lady blushed, said she would come another day and whirled away in a cloud of dust.

Meantime Herr Jeweler Baertge of Potsdam, who sometimes has the honor of selling rings to the court, received an agreeable message. The court marshal informed him by telephone that Manuela, Countess von Arnim, lady-in-waiting to the kaiserin, would pay him a visit, as she was commissioned by the kaiserin to buy some jewely for the Princess Victoria Louise. Herr Baertge is a solid personality who knows how to rise to such occasions. He donned a frock coat, spread a red carpet on his steps and spent the morning rubbing his hands. When his wife inquired what was the cause of the preparations, he smiled mysteriously and whispered: "A lady." Frau Baertge muttered indignantly: "After thirty years of marriage!" Herr Baertge sat at his entrance and watched.

Saw Her Ankles.

There was one other person in Potsdam watching for the countess. This was Policeman Heinrich Speyer, whose usual station is outside the marble palace. Her Speyer had watched the pretty aristocrat as she entered her carriage, and being aged under 30 he naturally saw her ankles. How much he saw is unknown; but it was certainly enough to make him think rather of counts than of countesses. So he borrowed a bicycle, followed the whirling carriage and saw it stop at Herr Baertge's door.

He hid behind the lintel and listened. Perspiring with obsequiousness, Herr Baertge was pulling out case after case of trinkets. Before him, seated nonchalantly in a chair, lolled the adorable countess and her purple velvet train stretched across the floor.

"Her majesty doesn't want much," she said to Herr Baertge. "You will send the bill to the palace." And she took up a nice little bracelet, a couple of rings, had them packed, smiled to blushing Herr Braetge and made for her carriage.

At that moment Herr Speyer opened his capacious arms, and the irresistible countess tumbled in.

Herr Baertge fainted. The brutal policeman dragged the countess to her carriage, hopped in beside her, and a minute later she was locked up in Potsdam jail. First she was put in the woman's department, but immediately afterwards in the men's, where Manuela, Countess von Arnim, was entered as plain Franz Eichbaum. She was given a bath, and her adorable blush melted and stained the water red.

Claimed It Was a Joke.

And now with his friend the court marshal, Herr Klennt, Herr Eichbaum was put on trial. He said it was all a joke, and that he intended to send the jewels to the kaiserin. Seven experts swore that he was mentally abnormal, and his mother swore that he'd spent his youth in Texas. The judges disbelieved the specialists, but when they heard he'd spent his youth in Texas, they said that he deserved indulgence.

He was sentenced to a month in jail, and Herr Klennt was sentenced to pay $50. Herr Eichbaum laughed when he heard the sentence, and when asked the reason he answered: "I was thinking of the thoughts of the Potsdam guardsmen."

Such was the first trial observed from the gallery of a court of justice by Referendar Prince August Wilhelm. May his second be as merry!

PEARY'S OLD CAPTAIN

With New York Sportsman Will Seek Dr. Cook's Records.

New York, May 12.—An attempt will be made incidental to a hunting trip to determine if the records which Dr. Cook alleges he left at Etah are there. The expedition is being organized under the auspices of Harry Payne Whitney, big game hunter, and under personal direction of Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, who commanded the Roosevelt, the ship in which the Peary expedition sailed in search of the North Pole.

This announcement was made by Capt. Bartlett in the office of A. L. Squires, 34 Nassau street. Then he started for Boston, where he will be quartered at the City club. The arrangements for the expedition are in an advanced state, and it will start in the middle or latter part of June. Capt. Bartlett commanded the Boethic, on which Whitney and Paul J. Rainey made their trip last summer.

Capt. Bartlett said he was sure so true a sportsman as Whitney would not let the fact that Peary had been finally stamped as the discoverer of the pole interfere with their doing justice to Dr. Cook, if records were found.

HEIRESSES GO HOME-HUNTING

Stallo Girls Return After Being Courted By French Nobility.

New York, May 12.—After having been courted by half the younger nobility of France, the Misses Laura and Helen Stallo, beautiful daughters of Edmund K. Stallo, who are soon to inherit the vast fortune of the late Standard Oil magnate, Alexander McDonald, their grandfather, have returned home from a long sojourn abroad.

Tired out from their voyage, which was marred by unpleasant weather, the heiresses remained secluded in the apartments of their father, Edmund K. Stallo, at the Waldorf. But they are to go home hunting.

"Where? Oh you will know soon enough if you are a close friend of the girls," Mrs. Stallo said. "The dear girls are too tired now to see anyone. But as soon as they find suitable apartments all of their friends will be notified.

"Pursued by young nobles looking for wives? Oh mercy, I am sure, at least, that there is no engagement now, or I would know about it. But wait until the Misses Stallo are ready to see you and they will answer all such questions. I am sure I can not."

They have planned to spend at least four months in this country. Usually they divide their time between New York, Cincinnati and Prince Edward island, where they own a beautiful place.

On Aug. 15 next Miss Laura Stallo will have arrived at the age of 21 and will come into direct possession of her share in the McDonald estate. It will be two more years before Miss Helen will receive control of her portion of the great fortune, which has been variously estimated at from $7,500,000 to $25,000,000.

STOLEN BY PET CROW.

Purse Which Contained $80 Found in a Tree.

Waterville, Pa., May 12.—Abram Kenter of Blockhouse is $80 better off and the name of a former hired man, who was discharged under suspicion of theft, has been cleared. Kenter has an old orchard of fifty or more trees on his place. He had been reading in the newspapers that old orchards pruned and sprayed and scraped could oftentimes be made to treble their production. He began the work of cutting out the dead and superfluous limbs.

While at work in one of the trees the other day, he saw something sticking out from underneath an old robin's nest that had been built in one of the lower forks of the tree. The thing looked like a little book of some kind, and when he had torn the bird's nest loose and picked up the article the mystery of his stolen money was solved. The article he found was an old pocketbook which he formerly owned, and upon opening he found in it, badly mussed and water-beaten, and yet perfectly redeemable, the eight $10 bills which he had accused his former hired man of stealing two summers ago. The money is believed to have been carried there by a tame crow which the Kenter children had around the house. The crow was a notorious thief. It once carried off a piece of sticky fly paper and one of the boys found the bird a helpless prisoner in the stuff in the corn crib, to which it had carried the paper, and there attempted to pick it to pieces, the result being that the sticky side adhered to its feathers and feet and the more it struggled the worse it got tangled up.

Wisconsin Crop Conditions.

Madison, Wis., May 12.—Crop conditions throughout Wisconsin are about normal, with slightly better prospects than in 1910, according to the spring farm crop report issued by the state board of agriculture through Secretary R. W. Rowlands. More favorable weather conditions than existed last year are forecasted for this spring and a corresponding good effect is expected on the summer produce.

RESPONDS TO NEW CALL

Y. M. C. A. Prepares to Meet Great Need of Trained Leaders.

Latest Problems Will Be Considered at Meeting in Columbus.

New York, May 12.—Almost daily applications are coming into the offices of the Young Men's Christian association for leaders in some department of activity. Secretaries are constantly wrestling with the problem of finding men capable of doing things. Frequently they are asked for recommendations concerning men who can do laymen's work in Sunday schools, brotherhoods and church boys' clubs. Both college and secondary schools are finding Y. M. C. A. trained men among their most efficient physical directors. Playground associations and school committees are asking for men of good character who have leadership and are capable of supervising the play of boys and girls. Now the Boy Scout movement is presenting a great opportunity to laymen for making an impress upon the lives of boys and the question is constantly arising as to where adequate trained leadership is coming from. Already a heavy draft has been made upon the association's personnel to fill these demands. But the tendency is not at all regretted by the broader-minded association leaders. Rather do they feel that the glory of the association work lies in its ability to contribute to the progress of all religious and social movements in its maximum amount of inspiration and service.

Vounteer Leaders.

Because of this great demand, however, and furthermore because of the high type of employed officers which the individual associations must have in order to train volunteer workers for such religious and social service, it seems to be most timely that the international conference of employed officers of the Young Men's Christian associations of North America, which will be held at Columbus, Ohio, on June 1-6, should devote itself to the theme of "Training for Leadership in Christian Service." The program will include the findings of four commissions previously appointed. The first has studied the problem of employed and volunteer leadership in organized religious agencies for men and boys. The second will report on "Employed and Volunteer Leadership in Educational Training for Industrial Workers." The third commission will deal with "Employed and Volunteer Leadership in Social Co-Operation and for the Physical Welfare of Men and Boys," and the fourth will discuss "Association Employed Leadership for Men and Boys." In addition to the discussion of these reports addresses on allied subjects will be given by Dr. C. A. Barbour, Dr. Washington Gladden, Dr. John R. Mott and Fred B. Smith.

There are at present several methods of training employed officers for the Young Men's Christian association. Many young men after serving on committees in local associations as volunteers obtain positions as assistants in the larger associations and gain a practical experience which supplements their general education.

The Summer Schools.

Some attend one of the summer schools or training conferences which are offering splendid technical courses as well as for summer recreation. Notably those at Silver Bay, Lake George and Lake Geneva are offering courses for the coming summer, both for employed officers and volunteer workers. An increasing number of men looking forward to the secretaryship and physical directorship in the associations of America and on the foreign field are taking the more thorough training offered by the two and three-year courses in one of the two association training schools. The one at Springfield, Mass., known as the International Y. M. C. A. Training school, and the other at Chicago, known as the International Y. M. C. A. Training School. Whether or not the commissioners mentioned will simply endorse the present training agencies and suggest ways and means of enlarging their capacity to turn out more men or whether they will recommend the establishment of additional agencies cannot now be ascertained. It is apparent that the demand for men with the right kind of training is greater than the supply and because the theme of the Columbus conference is a live one the conference will doubtless be largely attended by the representatives of the movement.

BLISTER RUST OF WHITE PINE

Department of Agriculture Wages War on European Disease.

Washington, May 12.—The dangerous European disease of white pine (Cronartium ribicola), which was recently introduced into America, was by the prompt and active co-operation of all parties concerned, eradicated, as far as found; but there is no evidence that all the cases have been found, nor is there any means of preventing the importation of more diseased white pine nursery stock.

The reforestation movement has created a market for a considerable amount of white pine stock, and the producing capacity of the American nurseries has not kept pace with the demand. The prices for American trees are higher than European prices for the same grade of stock, so that while white pine stock has been imported for years for ornamental grounds, it has been only during the last five years that the importations have been for reforestation. While the monetary first cost of imported stock is less than that of American stock, the various items of expense which necessarily are incurred bring the two nearer together than would at first be thought, and the risks of injury from the long trips, and the danger of importing destructive insects and fungous pests are so great that any but the most venturesome should be deterred from importing such stock.

There are many American nurserymen who regularly import their one-year-old coniferous seedlings, and it is safe to say that in the spring of 1909 10,000,000 coniferous seedlings were imported into this country from European nurseries, and that of these, several millions were white pine. A few foresters familiar with European conditions and appreciating the danger of importing the fungus, refuse to accept foreign white pine seedlings and transplants.

The United States department of agriculture investigated the outbreak in 1909 of this disease, and has just issued a report on the subject (Bureau of Plant Industry Bulletin 206), in which a full and detailed account of the fungus producing the disease is given, the public is assured that there need be no undue apprehension as the disease has been eradicated once, and can be again should it be imported, but advising that America should raise her own white pine seedlings, and that importations from affected countries be prohibited.

With the importation stopped, the methods of prevention are briefly: Watch the Ribes (currants and gooseberries), during the first and second seasons; keep five leaved pines at least 500 feet from Ribes; remove and burn all diseased pine trees, making inspections of the trees from the last of April to June 10, and of the Ribes from July 1 until late in the fall, removing diseased bushes and burning them; do this annually as long as any diseased trees or bushes are found.

The preference of this parasite (Cronartium ribicola) for the five-leaved pines is of special significance to America, since the species are naturally present through the western, Northern and Northeastern forests and are planted more or less commonly throughout the country. The chances of great losses if this fungus should even approximate its past record in Europe are very good. Estimates of possible damage show that such losses would very soon exceed the total value of all coniferous stock ever imported into the country.

The United States department of agriculture should be informed promptly and accurately of every importation of white pine and Ribes.

Good Tomorrow for This World's Most Famous Beauty Specialist

An opportunity is now offered every reader of this paper to consult the world's most famous beauty specialist, Harriett Meta of Paris, London and Syracuse, absolutely free.

A little over three years ago there was nothing known which, in our judgment, would actually remove wrinkles, but at that time Mlle. Meta made the important discovery which has since made her famous in two continents.

She demonstrated the great power of her new process by taking her own wrinkles out with it in three nights, after face massage, masks, straps, steaming pots, etc., had all failed, and today Mlle. Meta's face is still free from wrinkles, her cheeks full and plump and her skin and complexion is a delight to behold. In fact, by many she is considered the most beautiful woman in all Paris.

Her remarkable discovery was brought before the judges of the Paris International Exposition and the Rome Exposition Internationale for their investigation, and in both instances they quickly awarded her Gold Medals thereon. The French government also honored her with a patent on her new process, and patents are now pending before the U. S. government at Washington.

London journals sent their Beauty Editresses to investigate her methods, and their high indorsements of her discoveries made her famous almost overnight, so that she was eagerly sought after by French countesses and English ladies of high title and rank. The Beauty Editress of the London Onlooker wrote: "An interview with Mlle. Meta left me persuaded that here at last might be found the secret to restore youth and beauty."

Many of those who have used her process report most astonishing results. Mrs. Mary J. Davis, 24 So. 4th St., of East St. Louis, Ill., says: "My wrinkles were very deep and of long standing, so you can imagine my surprise when, after only two applications they entirely disappeared." Mrs. L. E. Haskell of San Francisco, Cal., writes: "I am 50 years old. Consequently my wrinkles were of long standing and I had not thought it possible to erase them, but now when I view my changed reflection in the mirror I can scarcely realize the transformation that has been wrought." Mrs. M. A. Edwards of Raleigh, N. C., says: "Since using the treatment I look younger than I did 25 years ago." Mrs. M. L. Lee, 221 East Virginia street, Evansville, Ind., writes: "I used the treatment one night and it succeeded in entirely removing my wrinkles leaving my face as soft and free from lines as a child's." Miss Henrietta Jackson of 6 Melville Bldg., Pittsfield, Mass., says: "Your treatment is a Godsend to womankind. I wish every woman could know as I know the wonderful results which are produced by your treatment."

Since Mlle. Meta made her remarkable discovery imitators have naturally sprung up all over the country. Some of them have copied Mlle. Meta's advertisements and literature to such an extent that the public is often at a loss to distinguish the imitation from the real. We are, therefore, authorized to announce the following remarkable offer, which cannot fail to convince you as to who is who:

Mlle. Meta will forfeit $1,000 in gold if she fails to prove that she holds nine Gold Medals and three Grand Prix on her discoveries from International Expositions. She will forfeit $1,000 in gold if anyone can prove that she did not take out her own wrinkles with it in three nights exactly as she claims. She will forfeit $1,000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement, which she publishes, is not absolutely genuine. She will forfeit $1,000 in gold if anyone can show advertisements similar to hers published in any newspaper or magazine in the United States or Europe prior to the publication of her advertisements.

Arrangements have been made with Mlle. Meta to furnish free information in regard to her marvelous process for removing wrinkles to all Duluth Herald readers. Merely cut out and send her the coupon below and you will receive free particulars by return mail in a plain sealed envelope. You can use this remarkable process in the privacy of your own home without the knowledge of even your most intimate friends. It often works astonishing wonders in a single treatment overnight.

HORSES AND DOGS

To Be Dispensed With in Shirase's Dash to Pole.

Tokio, May 12.—A Sydney telegram reports that Lieut. Shirase has resolved to dispense with horses and dogs on his next poleward dash, the members of the expedition themselves carrying the minimum of indispensable supplies.

The expedition will select a suitable spot and bivouac there for several months, or until the melting of the ice in the polar circle will permit further progress.

Australian authorities are extending the warmest hospitality to the explorer, and Count Okuma and the other supporters of the expedition are determined to finance the enterprise at all costs.

IN THE SPRING EVERYONE NEEDS S.S.S.

Spring is the season when the blood is weakest, and our systems least responsive to the demands of nature. It is the time of fickle appetites, poor digestion, lack of energy, bodily fatigue, and many other systemic disturbances which warn us that we need a tonic.

Everyone who needs a tonic needs a blood purifier, for it is the weakened and impure condition of the circulation that is responsible for the run-down constitution. A great many so called tonics are mere nerve stimulants, often producing instantaneous exhilarating effects, but acting with decided injury on the system later. If your system is weak and depleted you can only tone it up by supplying an increased amount of nourishment, and this can come only through pure, rich blood. Any tonic which does not purify the blood is dangerous, because it leaves the impurities in the circulation to constantly prey upon the health.

S. S. S. has been used extensively in our family as a Spring tonic, given to both young and old, and always with the best results. It thoroughly cleanses the blood of all impurities, at the same time it builds up the general health, gives appetite, strength and energy. We have given it to our children as intimated, and found it to be non-injurious to the system and always capable of purifying the blood and restoring health.
MRS. CLARA DAUBERT.
Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

My blood was weak and impure last Spring, and I was troubled with a general letting down of the system. Under the fine tonic and blood purifying effects of S. S. S. my appetite improved, I increased in strength and weight and my blood was restored to its normal healthy condition.
OREIN A. ROBINS.
230 W. Diamond Ave., Hazleton, Pa.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all tonics because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers; and it is the one medicine you can rely upon to supply the system with the best tonic effects and at the same time thoroughly purify the blood. Everyone needs S. S. S. in the Spring, because by building up the system now they may avoid serious illness later on. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened it could not resist disease, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of debilitating illness. S.S.S. is nature's ideal tonic; made entirely of healthful roots, herbs and barks. It tones up the stomach and digestion, and contributes to strong, robust health. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

FEW CHANGES IN PRICES

Fresh Vegetables Fluctuate But Little From Last Week's Levels.

Heavy Demand From Speculators Keeps Egg Prices Firm.

Wax beans that were 10 cents last week are now selling for 12½ cents a quart; new carrots are 15 cents a bunch, while beets remain the same, at 10 cents a bunch. Green peas too, are still 10 cents a quart, and asparagus is cheaper, selling at 10 cents a bunch or three bunches for 25 cents. Southern cucumbers are 10 cents apiece or three for 25 cents, while the fine large hothouse cucumbers are 18 cents apiece. Fresh mushrooms are still on the market at 75 cents a pound; new cabbage is 5 cents a pound; green onions are two bunches for 5 cents, and radishes, the small round ones, are 10 cents a bunch.

Minnesota spinach, the first which has been on the market this season, is now in and is selling for 15 cents a pound, the same price as the other varieties have been.

Pie plant is priced at three pounds for 25 cents and is more highly flavored now. The plants which have been offered up to now have been rather tasteless.

Ripe strawberries with a real strawberry flavor are selling for 15 cents a quart, and the other fruits on the market are about the same as they have been for some time. Grape fruit, lemons, oranges, and bananas are the same, while apples are a little higher. These latter are selling at 90 cents a peck or 5 cents apiece.

Eager to accumulate heavy supplies of eggs at current low values, speculators in Western markets in the last few days have continued to make unexpectedly heavy purchases with the result that looked for recessions did not materialize. The butter market was minus this support and unsatisfactory conditions prevailed with incoming supplies in excess of requirements of the trade.

Potato receipts fell far short of expectations and the firmer prices were a natural result. Chickens met with a broad inquiry at stiff prices and the movement of cheese, vegetables and fresh fruits was more satisfactory than the preceding week with low prices stimulating buying, although the colder weather placed a check on what otherwise might have been an extremely large volume of trading.

Eggs opened weak and buyers looked for further recessions, basing their hope on the belief that active speculative buying for storage purposes would cease with the opening days of the new month. There appeared to be no perceptible decrease, however, and the market developed stability and strength as the week progressed. The position of the egg market is firm, although receipts show a slight increase.

Butter also opened weak in a depressed condition, but Elgin creamery men held prices firm and the weakness in outside markets was overcome. Butter is accumulating on the market to some extent and buyers seem to have the advantage.

• • •

A fair movement of cheese into consumptive channels was reported. There were ample supplies on the market, however, and values were retained on a low basis with no prospects of anything better in the immediate future as production is expected to show a steady increase. American makes displayed some improvement, while foreign descriptions moved steadily without material change.

• • •

A slump in receipts helped potato prices. The small supply was attributed to muddy roads and unseasonable weather. Farm reserves are liberal and the firmer prices were put into effect partly to stimulate the movement of potatoes from country shippers.

• • •

Scarcity and demand have boosted No. 10 canned apples 50 cents a dozen in the last two weeks, both New York and Maine apples having been advanced to $3.50@3.75 to the retail trade in sympathy with the higher cost of spot goods in the primary markets. Cheap lots of apples have all been absorbed which accounts in a large degree for the firmness of the market.

• • •

Maryland standard tomatoes show a recovery of strength, nothing being now obtainable below 80 cents a dozen for No. 3, f. o. b. Baltimore. Absorption of all the seconds has taken the cheap tomatoes out of the market. Local prices are higher in sympathy with the prices of packers.

• • •

Advices from the Pacific coast indicate that dried apricots have advanced sharply from 12½ cents, f. o. b. coast, a price named for export, to 14¼@14½ cents within the last few days. The latest quotations named by packers, however, is 15⅝ cents. The rise is attributed to the prospects of an unusually short crop of fruit, predictions being made that there will not be to exceed 200 cars of apricots this season, compared with 800 cars last year. Early damage was done by the destruction of the apricot blossoms by heavy rains, after which frost inflicted further damage.

• • •

The Georgia peach orop this year is estimated at between 1,000 and 1,200 cars. It will begin to move in the latter part of this month. The season is ten days earlier than usual. All peach prospects north of Macon and Atlanta were frozen out at blooming time. Georgia's customary crop is 3,000 cars and last year's bumper crop was 6,200 cars. This season's yield will be small, but of extra quality and size.

POLLUTION OF WATERS.

National Association Wants Congress to Take Action.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the intention of inducing the federal government to provide some sort of a commission to protect interstate waters from pollution, the National Association for Preventing the Pollution of Rivers and Waterways met in the offices of Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins university, in Baltimore, May 6, and arranged for permanent organization. Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the Minnesota state board of health, was present at the meeting. Dr. Bracken returned to St. Paul yesterday.

"There is no way of dealing with this peculiar condition now," he said. "We want congress to take hold of the question."

Helena Man Electrocuted.

Helena, Mont., May 12.—Peter A. Liese, a lineman, who came here Saturday, was electrocuted Wednesday noon while working on the high voltage line of the Helena Light & Railway company, just west of the public library.

Liese was changing the wires leading into a transformer.

FINAL RESULT OF IMPURE BLOOD

The System Is Left Weak, Run Down and Helpless Against the Attacks of Disease.

If you need strength, if your blood is thin, your digestion disordered, it will pay you to investigate the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the remedy that has transformed so many weak, anæmic, dyspeptic, ambitionless people into strong, healthy, hungry men and women.

Mrs. Lena May Roberts, whose address is R. F. D. No. 3, Aberdeen, So. Dakota after several months of suffering finally found the right tonic in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For months after the birth of my baby, I suffered terribly from a general breakdown in health. I was in bed for three months and after that was able to be up only part of the time. I was sick all over, being pale, weak and thin. My appetite was gone and my head ached most of the time. Oftentimes there seemed to be a rush of blood to my head and I would faint away. I was very nervous and was not strong enough to do any work.

"As the treatment I was taking did not help me, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which a friend said had helped her. After taking a few boxes, I began to get well rapidly. I continued using them for a time and am now as well and strong as ever in my life."

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in general debility lies in their direct response to the needs of the blood. Their work is to make new blood. That they do this well is shown by the gradual disappearance of the symptoms and the return of color and health. They lay the foundation for permanent health in the future.

For the same reason these pills have cured anæmia, after-effects of the grip and fevers, rheumatism, indigestion, and nervousness, dizziness, neuralgia and St. Vitus' dance, and are recommended wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing fuller information about rheumatism and other diseases of the blood will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

BIGGER LAPORTE IS PREDICTION

Hubbard County Village, Stunned By Damaging Fire, Will Rebuild.

Laporte, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The owners of property ruined by yesterday morning's disastrous fire are not discouraged as some may think, but are already planning to rebuild better than ever. This announcement was greeted with universal approbation when made in an extra number of the Laporte News issued shortly after the fire had burned itself out after having destroyed all the business property in town excepting the News office. The editor of the News got busy as soon as the danger had passed and issued his extra, copies of which were sent broadcast to show the world that Laporte, although stunned by its loss, is not disheartened and will rise, Phoenix-like, from its ashes.

Prof. Deardorf Discovered Fire.

Prof. Deardorf discovered the fire about 2:30 a. m. leaping from the roof of the Gohres store and quickly gave the alarm. The guests in Brumund's hotel nearby were hastily aroused and all escaped. Seven business buildings on both sides of the main street were destroyed, but not a residence. The mail, money orders and stamps were saved and the postoffice will be at Postmaster Crandall's home until arrangements can be made for new postoffice fixtures. Cashier Roman saved practically everything from the bank excepting the fixtures. The creamery is outside the fire limits and Woodman hall was also saved, but the balance of the business section is gone, as told in The Duluth Herald Friday. The home of Mayor Gohres caught several times, but the sparks were extinguished and the home saved.

"There is not an article in town for sale," declared the News in its special edition of Friday, "but Laporte will rise again, bigger, brighter and better than ever."

Supplies Were Procured at Walker.

Harry Brumund, owner of the hotel, is the heaviest loser on his hotel, saloon and two store buildings. He estimates his loss at $8,000 to $10,000 above insurance. The total loss is about as stated in The Herald, $35,000 or $40,000.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and black-heads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets." Fred C. Witten, 76 Elm St., Newark, N. J.

HAD A HARD RIDE FROM ST. PAUL

Walter J. Smith and Range Men Have Trying Automobile Trip.

After a hard automobile trip from St. Paul, which was made through mud, rain and a diminutive cyclone, State Treasurer Walter J. Smith, S. B. Hoel of Eveleth and Norris Colvin of Gilbert, Minn., arrived in the city last night shortly after midnight.

The party left St. Paul Wednesday morning at 8:30 and has been on the road nearly all the time since. In addition to the mud, rain and cyclone, the party got off the road at Stacy, Minn., and ran 14 miles out and 14 miles back, making 28 miles in all that they went out of their way. To cap the climax the motor got peevish and some time was lost in coaxing it to run again.

When they reached this city, the car and its occupants were "sights." The machine was covered with a heavy coating of mud and the passengers had a fair sample of Minnesota farm lands clinging to their persons.

Yesterday while about twenty miles out of Duluth, the party ran into a small cyclone which brought with it both rain and snow. It was there that the motor became disgusted and a good deal of time was lost in getting it into good humor again.

The party resumed the journey to Eveleth this morning. Mr. Hoel is cashier of the Miner's National bank at Eveleth and Mr. Colvin is a prominent lumberman on the range.

SKELETON OF MASTODON

Found By Farmer When Plowing Near Brighton, Ohio.

Springfield, Ohio, May 12.—While plowing on the farm of W. M. Yeazell, near Brighton, Scott Yeazell struck the huge skeleton of a mastodon. At first he thought he had to contend with a boulder, but upon investigation he found that it was a bone of a large animal. Upon digging down further he discovered several huge bones, and came to the conclusion that they were those of a mastodon. The bones will be preserved and sold to some educational institution. Mr. Yeazell brought one of the teeth to the city for exhibition. It weighs more than three and a half pounds.

POETIC PROFESSOR

Sued for Divorce Because He Read Poems to Wife.

New York, May 12.—Mrs. Ada Anna Ruddy, wife of Professor of Languages Hans Christian Ruddy of the College of the City of New York, has filed suit for divorce, charging cruel and inhuman treatment. Some of the inhuman treatment, according to Mrs. Ruddy, consists of reading poems, principally his own, to her.

"My daughter, Zaidee was named after the professor's old sweetheart," Mrs. Ruddy said, "and, although she is now married, she is the cause of our family unpleasantness. She resides in Boston."

"My husband," continued Mrs. Ruddy, "is daft over poetry. Why, on the day we were married he was found in his home reading poetry, having forgotten about the ceremony. His affinity in Boston is also poetic. She sent him the following quotation:

"'Oh, for a touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still, the tender grace of a day that is dead, can never come back to me.' He would recite Tennyson to me when I was trying to sleep."

NORTH DAKOTA CROP CONDITIONS ARE FINE.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—With an accumulated excess of moisture of two and a half inches over the average fall of moisture between Jan. 1 and the present date over a period of sixteen years, and with the rainfall in the same period exceeding that of this year only on three occasions, the present crop situation in North Dakota is flattering. The heavy rains and snows that have prevailed this week, in which there has been a fall of over two inches, compares in a remarkable manner with conditions in other years also, according to records at the university weather observation station.

The unusual condition in which the soil has been found this year, due to the extreme dry conditions a year ago, has resulted in little raise in the lakes and streams, indicating that practically all of the moisture has been absorbed, spongelike.

The total fall of rain up to the night of May 10 this year was 7.03 inches. In 1896, the first year that perfect records are obtainable for at the university station, the fall was 8.69 inches, the highest that was had at any time during the period.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—George E. Ralph, state drainage engineer, left last night for a ten days' trip over the eastern part of the state, visiting Aitkin, St. Louis and Koochiching counties. Mr. Ralph will investigate field and construction work in these sections.

GEORGE CROSBY DRILLING.

Crosby, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—George H. Crosby, the mining man and promoter of Crosby, has three drills at work in Section 10-46-29; two drills in Section 16-46-29 and one drill at Carlson's point, boring a well to be used to furnish a temporary supply of water for the town and its system of tanks until the permanent water works can be installed.

BOYS ARE BRANDED

On Arm By Circus Man and Pittsburg Mothers Are Angry.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 12.—A circus which visited this city has left scores of small boys branded, and there are a troop of mothers using harsh language. When the circus came small boys swarmed about the tents. About fifty were put to work, and when they had finished went up to the boss for passes to the show. He said:

"Shove out your arms."

They did, and with a rubber stamp and indelible ink he branded on each boy's bare arm the legend, "I work." He told them to show their arm to the ticket seller and it would pass them through the flap. Now the ink won't come off.

Minneapolis Lineman Electrocuted.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 12.—Receiving the full force of a heavily charged wire while he was at work on the top of an electric light pole at Twenty-seventh street and Stevens avenue south, Wednesday night, George H. Hallman, an employe of the Minneapolis General Electric company, whose home is in Mankato, Minn., was instantly killed.

Several fingers on his right hand were burned off in the contact with the wire. He fell over in such a position that he was prevented from falling to the pavement. Members of No. 5 truck, fire department, took the body down. Life was then extinct.

For the Thin and Bloodless!

The thin and bloodless, with pale cheeks, white lips and frail angular physique, of this community have been much interested in the reports of physicians and others concerning the effectiveness of the treatment for increasing the red and white corpuscles of the blood, thus adding color and weight with its accompanying vigor to the depleted system. A gain of from ten to thirty pounds is not at all unusual where the treatment is regularly used for several months, while the color improves almost from the beginning. Most good apothecaries supply it in the form of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets put up in sealed packets, with directions for home use. Its action aids assimilation and aborption of the food eaten very promptly.

Valuable Item for Men

Health and strength hitherto unknown will be felt surging in rich red blood through the arteries and veins and life's greatest ambitions may be realized as never before, if the following special treatment is followed by those men, and women, too, who are stricken with that most dreaded of all afflictions, nervous exhaustion, accompanied with such symptoms as extreme nervousness, insomnia, cold extremities, melancholia, headaches, constipation and dyspepsia, kidney trouble, dreadful dreams of direful disasters, timidity in venturing and a general inability to act naturally at all times as other people do. Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health and all the happiness accompanying it, the following home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

The treatment is simple, thorough and correct. Leading druggists supply the main tinctures, extracts and essences in one-ounce bottles, ready to mix. Get three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound, mix with one ounce compound fluid balmwort, and stand two hours. Add one ounce compound essence cardiol, and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime.

The ingredients are used for various prescriptions.

DROPPING DIPLOMATS

How It Has Been Done During the Taft Administration.

Gossip About Man for Berlin---Several Candidates Mentioned.

Washington, May 12.—President Taft's willing acceptance of the resignation of Dr. David Jayne Hill, ambassador to Germany, for no reason apparently than that the place was wanted for some one else, has raised the question whether in his reorganization of the diplomatic service the president has more or less deliberately retired efficient men and replaced them with others of no diplomatic training. Indeed, there has been a slight disposition to criticize the president for making some changes, evidently on the theory that he is using his patronage more for the pleasure of his friends than the good of the service.

However, even the most cursory review of the diplomatic changes made by Mr. Taft will demonstrate that as a rule he has been exceedingly lenient —if that is a proper term—with most of our representatives abroad. It is the unwritten law that upon the accession of a new president, of whatever party, all United States ambassadors and ministers shall tender their resignations. The berths they fill are the most desirable political plums on the whole tree, and although most of the government civil service is protected by law or custom against displacement, these higher places are regarded as legitimate spoil.

The Dropping of Henry White.

As a matter of fact, President Taft has made few if any changes abroad for the express purpose of placing favorites of his own. The nearest to an indefensible act of his administration, the retirement from the diplomatic service of Henry White of Rhode Island, ambassador to France, was not due altogether to the initiative of President Taft himself nor was the vacancy created for the purpose of sending Robert Bacon abroad, admirable as was the selection. Mr. Bacon was serving contentedly as assistant secretary of state, and it is certain that he used no pressure in his own behalf. Mr. White was regarded as the ablest man in the American diplomatic service. He had been for twenty years secretary of the embassy at London and had served as ambassador to Rome before going to Paris. He was removed for reasons personal to Mr. Taft, and except that the president was clearly within his legal and moral rights in making the change, the action cannot be defended.

Changes Chiefly by Transfer.

When Mr. Taft entered the White House Charles S. Francis of Troy, N. Y., represented this country at Vienna. The place was promised to Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, but the appointment was not made for many months after the 4th of March. Early in the administration the story was circulated that the president contemplated a drastic reorganization of the diplomatic service and the chopping off of a great many heads at one clip, but as matters have developed it is seen that he has not followed this policy, if he ever entertained it.

Lloyd C. Griscom was ambassador at Rome and resigned because he preferred to live in the United States. Oscar S. Straus, like all others of the cabinet circle except James Wilson, could not remain as secretary of commerce and labor, and as he had been previously minister to Turkey, President Taft made him ambassador to Constantinople and transferred John G. A. Leishman from Constantinople to Rome. John W. Riddle, ambassador to the Russian court, was slated for retirement and the president sent the efficient W. W. Rockhill from Pekin to take his place. He tried to send Charles R. Crane of Chicago to Pekin and no doubt Mr. Crane would have continued on his journey had not Secretary Knox taken umbrage at certain remarks Crane claimed the president had told him to make and the president backed up Secretary Knox and substituted Mr. Calhoun. Thomas J. O'Brien was ambassador to Japan when President Taft came in and still remains, although he is said to wish to go to Berlin. If the transfer should be made, it would prove with fair conclusiveness that Dr. Hill was not retired to make a place in that brilliant capital for an administration favorite. Irving B Dudley of Ohio ambassador to Brazil, also is mentioned for the place.

Guild's Appointment Not Forced.

Ambassador Straus retired from the diplomatic service a few months ago and the president characteristically filled the place by transfer, sending Mr. Rockhill to Constantinople from St. Petersburg. The appointment of Curtis Guild to be ambassador to Russia came about naturally. Friends of ex-Governor Guild months ago, if not early in the Taft administration, had expressed the hope to the president that a place abroad might be offered this distinguished son of Massachusetts and for a long time the president had been keeping his eye open for an opportunity to confer the honor. He decided definitely upon inviting Gen. Guild to enter the diplomatic service after the latter's successful mission to Mexico in September but he was not requested to remove anyone to make a place for the Boston man and he did not do so.

Whitelaw Reid, ambassador to the court of St. James, tendered his resignation along with the rest and it would have been promptly accepted had Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, been willing to go to London, but Dr. Eliot declined the honor and Mr. Reid is still ambassador. Owing to the peculiar social obligations devolving upon the incumbent, especially in an English-speaking country, this place is difficult to fill, but it is a question whether its duties present the perplexities which Gen. Guild will have to face in St. Petersburg, or Mr. Rockhill in Constantinople.

Dr. Hill's Successor.

Gossip over the ambassadorship to Germany has had free rein and no doubt speculation will continue until the choice of the president is announced. The vacancy will not occur, however, until July, and from the fact that rumor has not yet fixed upon any one man as the likely successor of Dr. Hill, the belief that the president requested Dr. Hill's resignation that he might appoint some one he already had in mind would seem to have little foundation. That the vacancy was desired to enable the president to cut down his list of applicants, more than for any other reason, undoubtedly is true. It is to be presumed that before he leaves office President Taft will have filled most of the great foreign places with appointees of his own, but that he has shown any undue haste in reorganizing the diplomatic service cannot be said.

The state department, acting independently of the president, although of course with his sanction, has made a great many changes among consuls general and consuls and members of the various embassies and legations, often without apparent reason or the slightest word of warning to their friends and backers in congress. Some of these changes undoubtedly have been dictated by subordinates in the state department and have been as unjust as they have been unwise. The state department has been singularly unfortunate at keeping in congenial touch with the senate, not only with respect to appointments but to other administrative matters where the sympathy and co-operation of senators and representatives was essential to success.

HAMMOND GIVEN HOUSE RENT FREE

Hays Hammond Will Have Use of Burdett-Coutts House.

London, May 12.—In these degenerate days of much striving after the Almighty dollar there is a great pleasure in setting forth the particulars of a friendship that deserves to rank side by side with the immortal romance of Damon and Pythias. The chief actors are John Hays Hammond, famous mining engineer, friend of a president, almost-candidate for the vice presidency of the United States and the representative-to-be of the great republic at the coronation of King George, and William Lehman Ashmead Bartlett Burdett-Coutts, the American who married the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts and now owner of the great London mansion at the corner of Piccadilly and Stratton street.

You have probably heard how Hays Hammond, in his search for a London residence for the coronation festivities befitting his great wealth and the importance of his mission, arranged to lease the Burdett-Coutts mansion. Burdett-Coutts and Hammond are friends of many years' standing and the latter soon found that his London friend was willing to let him have his town mansion for the coronation period, even though it occupies one of the finest situations along the line of march. When it came down to a question of rent Hammond insisted upon arranging to pay what everybody declared to be an extraordinary price—somo $10,000 a month. The fact was made much of in the press and duly discussed in the clubs and in society here.

It seems, however, that Hays Hammond and the scribes and the chitterchatters in clubs and society were reckoning without a due appreciation of the Pythias like spirit of friendship that filled and overflowed from the bosom of Burdett-Coutts. In talking price with his American friend he was fooling with a purpose—drawing Hammond along until it was too late to make other arrangements. Now he has informed his friend that he could not under any circumstances charge him anything for the use of the beautiful mansion. It is his, rent free, for as long a time as he wants to use it. Nor is that all; it is to be repainted and re-decorated and repaired for his use and a full complement of servants with the real English hall-mark will be in attendance to do the utmost biddings of Hammond and his guests.

"Oh, impossible!" declared Hammond when informed of his friend's decision. "I must insist on paying the same as an utter stranger. I cannot let friendship prevent you getting a just price for the use of your house."

"Nonsense," answered Burdett-Coutts, "you are one of my oldest and dearest friends. The house is mine to do as I please with. If I choose to place it at your disposal, rent free, it is nobody's business, not even yours."

Not even a square-jawed mining engineer can prevail against a man reared in the school of obstinacy peculiar to John Bull's little isle and the end of the matter was that Hays Hammond capitulated with the proviso that he should pay for the servants. And so the matter rests at present.

QUOTES OMAR IN EXTENUATION

Impresses Magistrate By the Rubaiyat and Is Freed.

New York, May 12.—Now we understand fully why Omar Khayyam included his "jug of wine" along with the loaf, the book and his "thou" in his plentitude of paradise. This illumination has come from one Richard Ferris, who, when arraigned before Magistrate Freschi in the Essex Market court on a charge of intoxication, admitted having imbibed not wisely but too well, but recited from the Rubaiyat, in extenuation of his bibulous excesses, the following:

"Drink, for you know not whence you came, or why. Drink, for you know not whence you go or where."

Ferris, tall and distinguished looking despite his shabby raiment, nonchalantly swung a battered looking cane, but listened respectfully while Magistrate Freschi, in his most impressive court tones remarked.

"Richard Ferris, you are charged with intoxication.

To which Ferris made reply:

Made the Judge Sit up.

"Regretfully, I must plead guilty to that charc, your honor. It is a deplorable fact that I should allow my intellectual qualities to be overcome by such a low, degrading and common offense as becoming intoxicated. I feel my situation keenly."

At this point the magistrate began to sit up and take notice.

"I was educated in the best schools and colleges in this country," Ferris went on, "and later went abroad to finish my education. I spent every minute reading books, dealing with the question of life and death, and doctors say my mind became unbalanced. I took to drink and finally became separated from my family because I refused to stay in a sanitarium. Should I mention who my people were, you would recognize them at once. As for drink"——And at this juncture Ferris delivered himself of the quotation from the Rubaiyat, following it up with others from Shakespeare and Dante's Inferno.

He made a courtly bow, and impressively drew a volume from his coat pocket which he presented to the magistrate. It was "Rinaldo's Polygeneric Theory on the Beginning and End of Life."

And He Goes Free.

Silence, profound and thick, like an early morning sea-fog, settled down on the court room while Magistrate Freschi read a few marked passages in the book. With a sigh of relief he handed back the treatise.

"I am going to discharge you," he said, "but I would like to know who you are!"

"I'm afraid you might hold me and notify my people, and I am too happy the way I am," was the reply.

"True, I drink once in a while, but so did Poe, and scores of others."

The magistrate did'nt insist, and with one last, grateful bow, the man left the courtroom.

BEES HATCH DUCK EGGS.

Indiana Man Makes Use of Heat Generated By Hive.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., May 12.—Capt. C. C. Bryant of Versailles has an inventive and original turn of mind, and a thought occurred to him a few weeks ago that heat generated by a hive of bees might be used to hatch eggs.

The captain tacked a piece of linen across the inside of a bee hive immediately above the bees, and on this he placed raw cotton, depositing thereon nineteen Indian Runner duck eggs.

The eggs were covered with cotton and deerskin. Above all a board was placed in order to retain all the heat generated by the bees.

Ten ducklings were hatched. Capt. Bryant will run his bee incubator all summer.

OVERALLS TO BE WORN

By Women When They Take Striking Painters' Places.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 12.—"Wanted—Women painters; overalls furnished. Apply to V. C. Baldwin."

This advertisement, appearing in a local newspaper, has resulted in twenty-five applicants for the position, and all have been accepted.

Clad in new blue overalls they will commence house painting.

Baldwin, who is a contractor, had trouble with the union painters, and they refused to work for him. Having many contracts on hand, he offered the women $1.75 per day, which is more than they earn as clerks.

There is no hesitancy regarding the overalls, the women recognizing that they are necessary for such work. Some of the women are widows and some are still in their teens.

Away With Pills and Purgatives

The habit of taking salts or strong cathartic pills every time you want to loosen the bowels is a bad one, for in time you will destroy the activity of the digestive tract and you will have to rely entirely on medicines for action. This is not a pleasant thing to look forward to. From infancy to old age the use of strong purgatives should be avoided. This can be done by the use of a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. While it is mild enough for a baby to use yet it is strong enough to give action in the most robust constitution. The letters of endorsement the doctor gets are from no one class—mothers who take it, mothers who give it to babies and children, people in the prime of life, and old people. It is successful with them all. It is in truth the ideal remedy for constipation, indigestion, billousness, heartburn, gas on the stomach, sour stomach and all other manifestations of stomach, liver or bowel trouble. A bottle can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar, but you can make a free trial of it by writing Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. He will be glad to send it to you. You cannot do better than read the letters printed here, and then act on their suggestions.

Look for This Picture on Pkg.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

The following are some extracts from letters Dr. Caldwell has received:

"I received the sample of Syrup Pepsin, like it, and have bought a regular bottle of our druggist. It is an excellent medicine and very pleasant to take. I would not do without it again."—Robert J. Allison, Walnut Bottom, Pa.

"I haven't had a bad spell with my stomach since taking the first dose of Syrup Pepsin. I continued to take it for some time, as I had been afflicted for nearly twelve years and couldn't expect wonders overnight, but the fact is I can eat anything now and feel as if I had a new lease on life."—G. W. Selby, Brashear, Mo.

"Your Syrup Pepsin is unquestionably a fine remedy for stomach and bowel trouble, and should be in every home. While this is given voluntarily, and comes to you unsolicited, you may use it to promote the sale of your valuable remedy. May success attend you in the introduction of this fine and valuable medicine."—E. B. Gibson, Crystal Springs, Miss.

"I received your sample bottle of Syrup Pepsin and liked it so much that I bought a bottle from my druggist and have taken nearly all of that and will get another bottle soon. I like it better than anything of the kind I have ever tried."—Mrs. John L. Moore, Clinton, Ky.

"I received your sample bottle and have used two other bottles besides. I find it a very good medicine. I keep it in the house all the time. Would not do without it."—Mrs. Dollie Graves, Hamilton, Ohio.

"I have used your Syrup Pepsin for years and would not be without it."—W. L. Bryant, P. M., Sardis, Tenn.

WILL DISCARD CRUTCHES

Little Crippled Girl Is Aided By the Humane Society.

Delighted at Prospect of Being Able to Play for First Time.

Owing to the efforts of the Humane society, Tilly Daczik, 13 years old, of 410 East Seventh street, who has been a cripple all her life, will soon be able to walk about without her crutches.

The little girl was so pleased when Dr. Gillette of St. Paul told her that she would be soon able to walk that her delight knew no bounds. To play around, attend school like other children has been her dearest wish for many years. Now that it has been promised her, it would be hard to find a happier child.

An agent of the Humane society discovered the case some weeks ago and steps were taken to have her treated.

The parents are poor. The society bought the little girl a new outfit of clothes and took her to St. Paul to see Dr. Gillette, a noted physician and surgeon of that place, who gives poor people one day each week on which day he treats free of charge.

Tilly had a disease of the knees. She hasn't been able to put any weight on them for years. She had despaired of ever being able to walk.

The society agent inspired her with new confidence and enthusiasm. She was taken to St. Paul and while Dr. Gillette says it will be some time before she can walk, he promises that when she returns to Duluth she will use no crutches.

Tilly has been a cripple since her birth. She does not know what it is to walk and she is looking forward to that happy day.

She was taken to St. Paul to the state hospital for cripples some days ago and she will remain there until entirely cured.

THINK TREATY WAS MADE WITH JAPAN

Capt. Franklin Says That Is Belief of Army Men South.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officers engaging in the army maneuvers at San Antonio do not know why the United States troops have been mobilized according to Capt. K. A. Franklin of the Third infantry, who arrived in St. Paul on the way to his home in Duluth, this morning. But they are all of the opinion that a secret treaty was made between Mexico and Japan. Capt. Franklin declared whereby Japan is to get a coaling station and grounds for maneuvers on the American continent.

CAPT. K. A. FRANKLIN.

"Such information is not given out to army officers," the national guards captain said, "but it is our opinion."

Capt. Franklin declared that regular army officers showed a woeful inability to handle large bodies or troops during the maneuvers. He also commented on some of the horsemanship shown by cavalrymen from down East. "Passing in review before Gen. Schuler," he said, "there was a trail of hats, sabres and accoutrements left behind."

BIDS FOR NEW SANITARIUM

Duluth Contractors' Figures Being Considered By the Architects.

The contract for the administration building to be erected at the St. Louis County sanitarium site, near Midway, will be let in about ten days or as soon as the Saranac Lake architects have looked over the bids and have made their recommendations.

The administration building will include the medical and business offices, the kitchens and dining rooms, wards for advanced cases, and the quarters for nurses and help.

The building will be 107 feet long by about 35 feet wide, with two wings running back about seventy feet. Field stone will be used in the basement construction and up as high as the window sills.

Jacobson Brothers' bid included heating, plumbing and wiring as did the bid made by Smith & Vokes. The Jacobsen bid was $52,953, and the Smith & Vokes bid was $55,241.

The other bids did not include the heating, plumbing or wiring. They are: Emil Zauft, $34,622; L. D. Campbell, $35,450; Otto Johnson, $37,878; John Grandy, $42,637, and J. F. Schleunes, $48,500.

There were a number of separate bids on the plumbing, heating and electrical work.

SUPERIOR

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS.

Jenkin Lloyd-Jones of Chicago to Be Speaker at Normal School.

Jenkin Lloyd-Jones of Chicago will deliver the annual commencement address to the graduating class of the Superior normal school Thursday morning, June 22. Dr. Lloyd-Jones is one of the most prominent Unitarian ministers in the country. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached this year by Rev. H. F. Burns at Pilgrim Congregational church.

The normal class this year will be the largest in the history of the school. Rehearsals for the class play, "Pro Tem.," are now being held under the direction of Miss Grace Geary of the normal school faculty. The play portrays modern society life and is expected to score a hit. The cast is not a large one.

BIDS ON THEATER HIGHER THAN EXPECTED.

Bids were received yesterday for the construction of the new Broadway theater, but the contract was not let, owing to the necessity of either raising more money or changing the plans to cut down the price about $10,000. The lowest bid was about $56,000, submitted by the George J. Hoffman Theater Construction company of South Bend, Ind. It is expected that the contract will be let in about two weeks.

CONSTABLE ARRESTED ON LARCENY CHARGE.

C. E. Osborne, a constable at Hawthorne, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having stolen potatoes valued at $27 from the St. Croix Valley Produce company. The alleged offense took place Dec. 15 last year, when it is claimed that Osborne secured a load of potatoes from the company and never paid for them. He will be tried May 18. He is now out on bail.

FIRST WHITE CHILD BORN IN SUPERIOR.

John McIntyre, who, it is claimed, was the first white child born in Superior, is visiting in the city after many years' absence. He will spend his summer vacation in the region around the Amnicon river with the view of benefiting his health. Mr. McIntyre is known in religious life as Brother Paul, and is secretary of Notre Dame university in Indiana.

Secretary Bertrand is taking care of the donations.

Contract Awarded.

The Interstate Dredge & Dock company yesterday was awarded the contract for the rebuilding of the old Quebec pier at the foot of Becker avenue. The concern made a bid of $5,896.98. It is planned to have the work completed in August. About 11,800 cubic yards of filling will be used.

Honors for Superior Boy.

Chester Saxby of Superior won third place in the National Peace association oratorical contest held at Baltimore. Mr. Saxby was the only freshman in the contest, and he represented Beloit college. The first place went to Albion college of Michigan.

Inspection of Highways.

C. J. Morriset, county commissioner of highways, and the county development committee of the Superior Commercial club will soon make a trip of inspection along the range and over the proposed automobile boulevard. The committee will probably make certain recommendations to the county board in the matter.

CURIOUS JAPANESE FISH.

Zoologist: One of the most interesting of fish of Japanese waters is the Oriental sail fish (Histiophorus orientalis). The generic name, given by Dr. Gunther, means the sail bearer and refers to the huge dorsal fin possessed by the species.

The fin stands higher than the body above it and is used as a sail before the wind. It is a large fish ten feet in length and weighing 164 pounds. They swim about usually in pairs in rough and windy weather with the huge fins above the water.

It is a favorite food fish and the annual catch is nearly 2,000,000 pounds. The sail fish is caught by means of a harpoon.

Another food fish known as a dolphin or dorado is sometimes caught in a curious way. The fishes congregate under a decoy bush and raft made of bamboos, and are then caught by hooks baited with squids. Or the decoy bush is surrounded by a seine net and the dolphins are driven by beating the surface of the water with sticks. This fish is eaten both fresh and salt and is as great a favorite in Western Japan as the salmon is in the Northeast.

SUGAR TO PRESRVE CUT FLOWERS.

Gentlewoman: Flowers are being sent in numbers to us "spirits in prison" in London by country friends. How to preserve the cut blossoms, that is the question. There are those who pin their faith to clipping the stalks every day and giving them fresh water. Others vote for a pinch of salt in the water or a dash of ammonia or a piece of charcoal.

An eminent Esculapius whom I met the other day told me that, according to his experiences, nothing kept flowers so well as a lump of loaf sugar popped into their water.

MAN AND HIS MATE.

Linton Call: Among the questions to be discussed by a Bible class at a Brazil church yesterday, was: "How long ought a man to live with his wife?" That all depends upon circumstances. He is expected to live with her just as long as she saws and splits the wood, spades the garden, prepares good steaming hot meals on time, resigns from all the women's clubs, declines to discuss the suffrage question, keeps his clothing repaired, and asks no questions when he drops in home about 2 a. m., from the "lodge." When a wife does all these, there is no limit to the length of time a man would live with such a woman.

HARRIS WILL STAND TRIAL

First of Criminal Cases Will Be Heard Monday.

Three of Four Courtrooms Now Busy With Civil Suits.

The criminal term will begin before Judge J. D. Ensign Monday morning.

The first case to be tried will be that of the state against John H. Harris, accused of swindling John Runquist on a horse deal. He is said to have made away with $950 of Mr. Runquist's money.

Three of the four courtrooms were busy this morning. Judge Dibell returned yesterday from Carlton where he has been holding court and he at once got into the harness. Judge Dancer, it is expected, will be back from the range Monday and then the four courtrooms on the fourth floor will be busy.

This morning Judge Ensign directed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant in the case of Magnus Bergren against the Vermilion Lumber company. Bergren claimed that $418 was due him on a logging contract.

Before Judge Cant, Turle & Co., are suing the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad company for $1,366.75, which they claim is due them for the loss sustained by them, when on a contract to move 66,470 pounds of flax from a point in North Dakota, the company lost 56,050 pounds in transit.

Before Judge Dibell, Carl G. Gustafson is suing Higgins & McDonnell, railroad contractors, for $15,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained while he was working for the company last October. The work was being done on the Canadian Northern. He claims that a defective dump car on which he was working was thrown from the track. As a result he claims that it was necessary to have his right leg amputated.

TESTS FOR FRESH EGGS.

Replying to the assertion that "the fresh laid egg" can not be had, and no one need regret it, for the fresh laid egg is no better than the egg long stored, that even an epicure can not distinguish between them, a correspondent of the New York Sun writes:

It does not require a very discriminating palate to detect an old egg from a new one; the former has a musty flavor that the latter never has, and the mustiness may range from a slight taint to a very pronounced one. It is always noticeable in storage eggs.

If any one wishes to verify the judgment of his palate, the following tests may be used:

1. It is almost impossible to peel the shell from a fresh, hard boiled egg without having some of the white come away with it.

2. A stale egg can not be beaten to a froth.

3. When a fresh egg is broken into a dish the yolk stands up and the white does not spread, whereas in a stale egg the yolk lies flat and the white seems watery.

4. The shell of an egg after a certain length of time loses its chalky appearance and becomes shiny.

5. The air space in the large end of a newly laid egg is about half an inch in diameter; as the egg ages this space grows larger. In storage eggs it sometimes extends to one-fourth the length. An expert can very closely approximate the age of an egg by examining this space. This is known as candling and is done by holding the egg in a beam of light. A simpler test is to hard boil the egg and notice the relative size of the space.

The number of eggs that reach the consumer in a state of absolute freshness, in the summer not more than three days old, and in the winter twelve, is a very small part of the total supply and comes from one source only, the egg farm.

An egg farm is one that is devoted primarily to egg raising and only incidentally to poultry or fancy stock. On such farms the eggs are gathered and shipped daily. This can only be done when they are raised in sufficient numbers and the business is well organized.

There are a number of these farms within a day's shipping distance of the New York market, and some of their product is shipped to a few commission merchants who make a specialty of this class of eggs. These sell in turn to the limited number of retailers who really care about the quality of the eggs they sell.

But the average consumer's chance of getting a really fresh egg is very remote, and the Sun is quite right in saying that the fresh egg is unattainable.

A HAIRBREADTH ESCAPE.

Spokane Spokesman-Review: "I was pickin' huckleberries in the mountains below Boise one summer. One mornin' I was on a steep hillside an' just 'bout had my pail full an' was thinkin' 'bout makin' f'r camp, when I looked up and see two grizzlies comin' tearin' down th' mountain. They were after me, that was plain, so I dropped my pail and lit out. Droppin' that pail was what saved my life, f'r th' bears bein' fond of berries, stopped t' eat 'em, an' that give me a few yards th' start. Soon as they had finished th' berries they started after me ag'in.

"I was some runner in them days, an' th' way I covered groun' was a caution. Th' bears kept gainin' on me, though, 'till I come t' a big river an' run out on th' ice. Thin ice was thin an' he' me up all right, but th' bears broke through an' both of 'em drawnded. That's how I escaped."

There was a silence for a few minutes, then one asked. "Thought you said you were picking huckleberries. How is it possible for there to be ice in huckleberry time—"

"Huh! Who said anythin' 'bout there bein' ice in huckleberry time? Them durn bears run me 'till way after Christmas."

A New Long-Skirted
Warner Corset
Last week the factory sent us Duluth's first shipment of a new model Warner Corset for the average figure. Women who have been fortunate enough to see it, are enthusiastic over it. It is very long over the hips, curved over the thigh and not extreme in the back.
A newly devised rubber gore insures perfect fitting hips. The bust is medium low and is extra full across the shoulders. This model is $3, and is well worth it! -:- -:-

AFTER BIGGER GAME.

Any careful reader who follows the discussion of the Whittier case is bound to reach this conclusion: that there is something behind it all besides a patriotic purpose to bring about the right kind of management of the Red Wing boys' training school.

And in order to assist the careful reader it may be as well to state what is behind it. The purpose of those who are chiefly instrumental in keeping up the anti-Whittier agitation is to give Governor Eberhart a chance to remove the members of the state board of control, and to replace them with creatures of his political machine.

The board of control has the appointment of 1,500 state employes and the power of awarding large contracts. If used for political purposes, this is a mighty power; and as the Whittier case progresses it is becoming clearer every day that this power is coveted by the Republican machine.

Many—in fact most—of those who are joining in the hue and cry against Whittier are innocent and ignorant of this unholy scheme. It will stand these people in good stead if they will hold themselves in check while they examine carefully the motives of those who are inciting them. These motives are becoming very glaringly evident.

RECIPROCITY.

When the Northern Minnesota Development association was to be formed at Bemidji, Duluth boosted hard for it.

When it met again at Crookston, Duluth again boosted hard for it.

When the third meeting was held at Brainerd, Duluth continued to boost hard for it.

And now that the fourth meeting of the association is to be held in Duluth, June 1 and 2, the newspapers and the people of Bemidji, Crookston and Brainerd are boosting hard for the Duluth meeting.

That's reciprocity, and it's as it should be.

But the boosting is not confined to these newspapers and these communities. The newspapers and the communities throughout Northern Minnesota are working hard to make the Duluth meeting a success, and the present indications are that there will be a large and fully representative attendance.

And that's due to a wise appreciation of the common interests of all parts of Northern Minnesota, of the good that the Development association has already done, and of its large capacity for doing further good work.

We don't mind letting these folks in on the secret that Duluth is preparing entertainment that will make the June meeting worth the while of anybody, and that for the good of the association, for the good of Northern Minnesota, and for the good of the people who attend, everybody ought to be here June 1 and 2.

Meanwhile W. R. Mackenzie, the dynamo that keeps the association alive and active, is circulating through Northern Minnesota stirring up interest, and reports are that he is meeting with great success.

Come to Duluth June 1 and 2.

GOOD WORK—EXPAND IT.

When the Federal government went to Panama to build a canal, the canal zone was one of the vilest, most unwholesome and most unhealthy places on earth.

Dread diseases lurked in miasmatic swamps. Flies and mosquitoes carried deadly germs, sickening human beings with their bites. Death waited at every corner. The cities were places of filth and vileness, and man and nature combined to give hospitality to disease and to make the place totally unfit for human habitation.

That was some years ago. Since then the Federal government has been building a canal. In order to build a canal it had to have workmen. In order to have workmen it had to make the canal zone a fit place for human beings to live in. In order to do that it had to wipe out the conditions that made it a place of danger and dread.

Well, it had to be done, so Uncle Sam did it.

How well it has been done is shown by this little item from the Chicago News:

"'No flies, no mosquitoes, no dirt, no dangerous water—that is the achievement of Americans in a city that was known as the filthiest in the world.' This is what Miss Zonia Baber, teacher of geography in the University high school, who recently returned from a winter vacation in the canal zone, said of Panama at the college of education, University of Chicago. Miss Baber long has taken her vacations in the winter and she always goes to a tropical land. She recommends the canal zone, once the country of fever swamps, as a health resort. She doesn't see why Chicago could not be as safe a place to live in as Panama, but she says it is not."

That's a very striking example of American enterprise, isn't it?

It's all the more striking when you compare it with the lack of enterprise shown by Americans in their own home cities, where there still are conditions that offer wide hospitality to the germs of tuberculosis, typhoid fever and other diseases.

American enterprise, so successful at Panama, is waking up at last to the need of exertion at home, it is true; but it has done no such work in the United States as it has done in Panama, in Cuba and in Porto Rico. There is a vast work for it to do right here at home, and if Americans can clean up Panama, the filthiest city in the world, they can clean up Chicago and New York and Duluth.

In Panama the work simply had to be done. No canal could be built unless it was done. It has to be done here, too, though the need of it is not quite so plain as it was in Panama.

In Panama the work was done under the Federal government. In the United States it is done under state and city governments. Maybe that makes the difference. If it does, wouldn't it be a good idea to get the Federal government to work with the state and city governments?

A good way to do that would be to push through the bill before congress providing for a Federal health bureau.

THE ROAD SHOULD STAY.

When the railroad and warehouse commission meets in Duluth, May 26, to hear the application of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company for permission to abandon the Minnesota & North Wisconsin railroad, protest will be entered, as stated in a local article in The Herald last evening, in behalf of the settlers along the line of the railroad.

That protest cannot be too emphatic.

The road in question, which runs from Scanlon in Carlton county about forty miles northeast to the town of Duluth in St. Louis county, was built for a logging road, and its usefulness for that purpose is ended now that the timber is gone. Therefore, its owners wish to abandon it.

However, it is not so easy as that to stop running a railroad once it has been started. The fact that its owners wish to discontinue it is not the end of the matter. The question is not what its owners want, but what the public needs. Running a railroad is not, as some used to suppose, a private business. It is a public service, and the need of the public should be the first consideration.

The section through which the Minnesota & North Wisconsin road runs needs the service which it is capable of furnishing. An inquiry recently made by the Duluth Commercial club showed not only that there are a large number of settlers there, but that there is room for many more and that the soil is fertile and capable of producing food supplies for the city of Duluth.

Whether it is conducted by its present owners or by others, the Minnesota & North Wisconsin road should be maintained. The railroad and warehouse commission can hardly fail, after hearing the evidence, to hold that it must be maintained.

A COMING TEST.

The voting in the senate yesterday on the election of a president pro tem showed one very interesting thing: that the "insurgent" Republicans are in a position of mighty and peculiar power.

All but four of them refused to vote for Gallinger, the choice of the Republican caucus. The result was that while the Democratic candidate, Senator Bacon, got more votes than Gallinger, nobody was elected, and the prospects of electing anybody right away are not rosy.

This makes it clear that on party divisions the insurgents hold the balance of power. That's a strong strategic position, and it is going to be very beneficial or very hurtful to the cause of insurgency.

Occupying that position, if the insurgents are thinking of results rather than of party or personal advantage, they can join with either side and pass almost any measure they wish. If the Democrats vote for reciprocity, the insurgents can join with them and pass it. If the Democrats vote for the free list, the insurgents can join with them and pass it. If by any chance the Republican majority puts any progressive measure to a vote, the insurgents can go in with them and make it a law.

It's a great chance; but it is also a crucial test of the quality of progressiveness as represented by the insurgent Republicans in the senate.

THE WAY TO REGULATE.

The facts that have been brought out about the express companies by the Minnesota inquiry into their charges and profits are being used to enforce the need of stricter regulation of the express business.

It has been shown that the original investment in the express companies was very small, and that the present value of their physical property is slender indeed compared with the capitalization on which they are earning large dividends. They own some horses and wagons and office furniture, nearly all bought out of profits, and not much else; and based on that property they have many millions of capital. They pay stock and cash dividends of enormous size, and they constantly pile up surpluses to be turned into new capital on which they seek to earn dividends, so far with abundant success.

The burden of the comments upon these disclosures—none of which are particularly new—is about like this, from an exchange: "The express companies of the United States need regulation even more than the railroads."

All public service corporations, large and small, whether they serve the nation, a state or a community, need regulation. They should be regulated to the end that they shall give the best possible service at the lowest possible rates and at the same time earn reasonable dividends on their honest capitalization.

But the express companies stand on an entirely different footing from practically all other public service corporations.

There never should have been an express company. There is no excuse for an express company now.

They should be regulated, and the best way of regulating them is to provide competition for them. The best possible competition would be through the extension of the postal service by the expansion of the parcels post system.

The business of parcel-carrying has come into the hands of the express companies because the railroads have not seen fit to do it themselves and because the postoffice has kept parcel rates so high and the limit of weight of mail parcels so low that it offered no competition to the express companies. Either the postoffice or the railroads should have done all the parcel-carrying in the first place. The only reason they did not was because railroad officals profited by the enormously rich earnings of the express companies, and because the railroads and the express companies have been powerful enough to keep the government out of the parcel-carrying business.

Carrying parcels by mail is just as legitimate a public service as carrying letters by mail. If the express companies can make such enormous profits out of carrying parcels, the postoffice should be able to carry them much cheaper and come out even, if it does not make a profit.

And that's why there is need that the congress of the United States should speedily enact a reasonable and practicable parcels post law.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A LITTLE LIGHT FROM EVELETH ON THE FISH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have just finished the evening paper and of course saw the picture of the "strange marine animal caught in Lake Superior," and noted the query "What is it?" printed below.

From the picture, rather than from the description, I should say that it is what is commonly called a "mud-puppy" or "water dog." The natural histories classify it as follows: Class, amphibia or Batrachia; order, Urodela; family, Proteidae. Its habitat is "from Hudson to Mississippi rivers, and is very abundant in Great Lakes." It is sometimes called the necturus, feeds on small water animals, and is generally equipped with external gills—very large and red with blood flowing through.

The absence of nails or claws on the toes shows that it does not belong to reptilia (order Sauria), and is, therefore, no relative of the lizard. Very truly yours,

A. M. CANNON.

A STIFF JOLT FOR THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Occasionally there appears in our daily papers an article about the activity of our health department.

It has often come to our notice how diseases are stamped out right and left. Also how ordinances are enforced and how they are going to be enforced. And those that refuse to comply to rules and served notices how they are going to be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. Drastic measures are to be taken against the guilty ones, etc.

All that sounds good, as well as powerful and expressive. A person not acquainted with the real condition would be apt to believe a great part of it. It does not take long though, however, for an ordinary citizen, who has a complaint to make to the board of health to find out that our health officers are not as efficient as it sounds. It is now nearly a year since the clearing was done in the right-of-way of the new railroad coming in through West Duluth and Oneota. We then called the board's attention to several open toilet vaults that were left, contents and all, right close to our walls. Nothing was done to it then and we have continued to remind the board of it time from time ever since, but without result. The officers of the board claim that they cannot compel the corporation to comply with the requirements of the ordinances. Meanwhile we have to contend with this horrible condition, jeopardizing our health and lives, just because of the lack of power to enforce the health ordinances.

Now we would like to know whether the health office could not be given authority to enforce the law. If that is entirely impossible what use is it then to maintain an army of health commissioners and deputies if it proves to be only an expensive and useless ornament? Respectfully,

VICTOR JOHNSON,
4725 Magellan street.

Duluth, May 10.

Poons.

Westminster Gazette: A Poon is something perfectly intolerable which one tolerates because it is a Poon. It is better to be a Poon than to be good, just as it is better to be cleanly than godly; and if unborn children might wander and choose among the undelivered gifts of the gods the wisest of them would choose Poonism for the earthly journey.

You cannot achieve it, and it cannot be thrust upon you; you can only be born a Poon once and for all, and it is perhaps the only thing in the whole world which buys more money instead of money buying it. Poons spring up anywhere; Putney is as congenian to them as Paris, for they flourish in the most unsympathetic soil. A cement merchant may have ten wholesome children with principles, and in their midst the heavens may have dropped a Poon. Its brothers and sisters will detest and torment it; its bewildered parents and teachers will attempt to stamp upon it, but, in the end, it will make no difference whatsoever, and the only one that will have any time at all, that will extract anything worth having out of life, that will be the Poon.

There have been queens who have been Poons—like Cleopatra; there are queens who have not been Poons—like Queen Charlotte; there are cabinet ministers who have been Poons—like Disraeli, just as there are cabinet ministers who have not been Poons—like Mr. Gladstone.

Even poets need not necessarily be Poons like Byron, Shelley and Sir Phillip Sidney, for Cowper, Mrs. Hemans and Sir Alfred Austin have written verse.

Happily there are millions of persons living who are not Poons, and who live in blissful and utter ignorance of the fact, but the most miserable of restless souls is that one which craves to be a Poon and is not one.

Queen Elizabeth spent all her days in bitterness, craning her thin neck across the purple border, hissing poison at that enthroned and Empress of Poons, Mary Queen of Scots.

But it is unnecessary to seek history and literature for Poons, let each man look into each life, for surely there is not one among them so abandoned that he has not at some time of his existence loved or hated a Poon.

The female Poon never answers notes and always turns up at least half an hour late for meals. Other people—the people who arrive punctually—if they do not happen to have vehicles of their own, walk or come in cabs and tubes; but you send your motor for the Poon, and then she keeps it waiting at the door.

Nobody.

I'm thinking just now of Nobody,
And all that Nobody's done,
For I've a passion for Nobody,
That Nobody else would own;
I bear the name of Nobody,
For from Nobody I sprung,
And I sing the praise of Nobody,
And Nobody mine has sung.

In life's young morning Nobody
To me was tender and dear,
And my cradle was rocked by Nobody,
And Nobody was ever near;
I recounted my tale to Nobody,
For Nobody was willing to hear;
And my heart has clug to Nobody
When Nobody shed a tear.

And when I grew old, Nobody
Gave me a helping turn;
And by the good aid of Nobody
I began my living to earn;
And hence I courted Nobody,
And said Nobody's I'd be;
And asked to marry Nobody,
And Nobody married me.

Thus I trudged along with Nobody,
And Nobody cheers my life,
And I have a love for Nobody
Which Nobody has for his wife;
So here's a health to Nobody,
For Nobody's now "in town,"
And I've a passion for Nobody
That Nobody else would own.

Nice Boquet for Sam.

How many of the carping critics of the legislature have taken the trouble to examine, even glance over the twenty-three pages of laws enacted? "Bob" did better than them all; but he was one of them. It is a case of "Old Dog Tray"—found in bad company.

The Only Crime.

Indianapolis News: We gather from the Duluth resolutions presented in congress last Saturday that the only crime that ever ought to be punished is that of holding union men to answer to indictments, and that the only criminals are the private detectives that unearth crime. These extraordinary resolutions ought to be repudiated by every union man in the United States. In them there is no condemnation of the crimes with which the indicted men are charged, and no expression of regret over the awful loss of life. Instead of that we have an echo of the silly theory that the discovered dynamite was "planted" in a half dozen places wholly under control of the defendants, one of those places being the personal baggage of one of the McNamaras.

Of course, the appeal to congress demanding the impeachment of the governor of Indiana, the governor of California and Judge Collins is ridiculous. Congress has no power to impeach any one of these men. As far as Governor Marshall is concerned, he did nothing except issue an order to arrest in proceedings that were entirely regular. He would have been greatly to blame had he not done so. There is a doubt of the legality of the subsequent proceedings, which, by the way, are being inquired into. Such wild resolutions as those adopted by the Duluth people can do nothing but harm to organized labor. In this city, one of the centers of disturbance, we are glad to say that the whole transaction is being considered in a very sober way. There have been few violent expressions. The labor people here have done and said nothing to countenance the theory that there ought to be in this country any class privileged to commit crime. This seems to be the theory of the Duluth men. It will never be accepted by the American people.

It will not, in our opinion, be accepted by the members of labor unions. We have been at great pains to establish the principle that crime is none the less crime because committed by men of wealth and influence. The court records of the last few years testify eloquently to the success of our efforts in that direction. And we have all accepted the conclusion that the personality or the connections of a man charged with crime are wholly irrelevant. The question in all such cases is not whether the man is rich or poor, but whether he is a criminal. And that is the issue on which the California courts are about to pass. Such language as that used by the Duluth unionists can only have the effect of prejudicing public opinion against the indicted men. That is why the language is so unwise and vicious.

Like Old Wine.

Kansas City Star: The Pittsburg Chronicle prints the following antique joke, which is just as good today as it was twenty-five years ago. A dressmaker had sent her servant to post a letter and was anxiously waiting her return.

"Did you post my letter all right, Mary?" she asked, as the maid of all work entered.

"Oh, yes, ma'am!" replied Mary, holding a penny out to her mistress.

"What is this for?" again asked the fair employer. "I gave it to you for the stamp."

"I didn't have to use it, ma'am. I put the letter in the box when nobody was looking," explained the innocent Mary.

NEWSPAPERS.

Editor and Publisher: It seems hardly possible that 207 years have passed since John Campbell launched the Boston News Letter, America's first regularly issued newspaper. On April 24, 1704, he published the initial copy of his pioneer journal, an event of such great importance that Boston became known ever after as a literary center.

Campbell, who was postmaster of the town, retained a monopoly of the field until 1719, when the Boston Gazette made its appearance. The rivalry between the News Letter and the Gazette was hot and bitter, but in the end the Gazette was driven out of business. Although within the next few years other newspapers were founded, the News Letter kept on the even tenor of its way for seventy-two years, when it came to its end with the British evacuation of Boston.

The first number of the News Letter, which was a weekly, consisted of a single half-sheet printed on both sides, two columns to the page. Three quarters of the space was taken up with British politics and an account of the opening of parliament. The local news consisted of three short paragraphs. New York was represented by two items, Providence by two, New London by one and Philadelphia by two. In the lower corner of the last page appeared the first advertisement printed on American soil.

Circulations in those early newspaper days did not count for much. The News Letter had been in existence twenty years before it had secured 300 subscribers. The newspaper was a new thing, and as the thrifty Bostonians were, as a rule, opposed to innovations, it took many years of patient work to convince them that they ought to buy and read their local paper.

Although the spread of journalism was slow, when the News Letter suspended publication in 1776, there were in Massachusetts seven newspapers: in New Hampshire, one; in Rhode Island, one; in Connecticut, three; in Pennsylvania, eight; in New York, three; in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, two each; in South Carolina, three; in Georgia, one; or a total of thirty-three, all weeklies.

According to Ayer's Newspaper Annual of 1911 there are in the United States at the present tim 24,236 periodicals, of which 2,614 are dailies and 17,200 are weeklies.

If John Campbell could return from across the Styx and visit the office of a metropolitan newspaper he would look with awe at the mighty presses pouring forth from masses of whirling cylinedrs steady streams of 24-page papers, all printed, cut, pasted, and counted at the rate of from 30,000 to 150,000 an hour.

In the composing room he would find that the cases from which the old-fashioned printer set the type had been discarded for the linotype and monotype machines; marvelous creations of the inventors' skill, by whose aid columns of copy are turned into type in a few minutes.

Should he visit the editorial department he would behold the impossible—men taking messages by telegraph from the most distant cities and countries over copper wires, and others actually talking with people they cannot see hundreds and even thousands of miles away.

So swiftly are changes made in the equipment of the modern newspaper that within half a century every type of machine now in use will have been discarded for better, swifter and more economical inventions.

Circus Days.

Ho, those days of summer, when the circus came to town—
When slowly through the mists of morn, the caravan came down
'Cross the fields of Burgettstown, and scarce the day had dawned
When wonder followed wonder, and a fairy's magic wand
Built a tented city, that behind its painted flys,
Held worlds and worlds of myst'ries for a youngster, wonderwise!
Ho, but we were happy when
The caravan came down
'Cross the fields of bloom and then
To us in Burgettstown!

It was such a wonder day when
'round the sawdust loops
Our boyhearts went cavorting through the fiery paper hoops;
Here we looked and there we looked and each a fresh surprise
Until it seemed a boy should have a hundred pairs of eyes!
Here we strayed and there we strayed and lacked the silver fees,
'Twould break the painted doors that held the jungle's mysteries!
Ah, but those days were days we dreamed—
Those honest days of old,
When all the world was what it seemed
And spangles all were gold.

Alas, those joys all had to end and so did circus day!
The caravan it took our hearts and all our hopes away
Across the fields, from Burgettstown, beyond our lives again,
And left us only empty dreams of glories that had been!—
Left us here in Burgettstown, ambitions fired hot
To emulate the bareback king in some one's pasture lot!
Yes, we had ambitions then,
From bareback king to clown—
There was wondrous talent when
The circus left the town!

Phonograph Calls Cows.

Chicago Tribune: The phonograph, through the ingenuity of a couple of boys in this neighborhood, has become a thing of usefulness as well as amusement and ornamentation.

After the novelty had worn off the boys in question had cast aside the canned songs and funny talks and gone back to checkers. But they found that doing the chores seriously interfered with the game. One of them remembered they could talk into the records and have the talk come out just like it went in.

So between moves each called into the machine. "Come, Boss; comp, Boss." Then they put the phonograph cut facing the pasture and turned it loose. The cows came home.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Harper's Bazar: Mrs. Jones—Does your husband remember your wedding anniversary?

Mrs. Smith—No; so I remind him of it in January and June, and get two presents.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "There is no use giving you a check, my dear. My bank account is overdrawn."

"Well, give it to me, anyway, George. And say, make it for $500. I want to pull it out of my shopping bag with my handkerchief at the bridge game this afternoon."

Buffalo Express: "You appear to be studying very hard, my boy," said the kind old man.

"Yes, sir," said the child.

"Is it a spelling book you have, my boy?"

"No, sir; it's the baseball guide."

Boston Transcript: Telegrapher—The message must not exceed ten words.

Fair Sender—I can add a postscript, can't I?

Detroit Free Press: Frightful—They say she looked daggers at him."

"Worse than that. She looked long hatpins."

Judge: Mrs. Crawford—It's an awful job to move.

Mrs. Crabshaw—But look at the advantages, my dead. I'm never so happy as when I'm picking out a new style of wall paper.

A Matter of Judicial Knowledge.

Law Notes: Judges may not be able to own automobiles, but Judge Powell of the Georgia court of appeals has certainly more than a bowing acquaintance with them. He must have done a good deal of joy riding with his friends in order to be able to write in this manner: "It is insisted, in the argument, that automobiles are classed with ferocious animals, and that the law relating to the duty of the owners of such animals is to be applied. It is not the ferocity of automobiles that is to be feared, but the ferocity of those who drive them. Until human agency intervenes, they are usually harmless. While, by reason of the rate of pay allotted to judges in this state, few, if any, of them have ever owned one of these machines, yet some of them have occasionally ridden in them, thereby acquiring some knowledge of them; and we have, therefore, found out that there are times when these machines not only lack ferocity, but assume such an indisposition to go that it taxes the limits of human ingenuity to make them move at all. They are not to be classed with bad dogs, vicious bulls, evil-disposed mules and the like." See Lewis vs. Amorous, 3 Ga., App. 50.

CHURCH WAR IN PROSPECT

But the Battle Will Be Confined to Baseball Diamond.

Presbyterians Will Try to "Come Back" Against Methodists.

The Presbyterians are after the scalps of the Methodists for this is the time of the year when even the churchmen catch the baseball fever.

The baseball team of Westminister Presbyterian church of West Duluth is looking for revenge and has challenged the squad of Merritt Memorial M. E. church. The challenge has been accepted and the game will be played Tuesday, May 30, Memorial Day, at 6 p. m. on the Fifty-second avenue west grounds.

Last year, the Methodists were victorious, 11 to 9. The game was fast and furious. It was exciting even up to the last inning when the deciding runs were made. The Methodists say that the Presbyterians will not have a shadow of a chance this year and have no fears about their "coming back."

The Westminister crew, however, charge that the Oncotas won the game by a "ringer" and that the work of one of the Fitwell players featured the game. The rule this year, with reference to "ringers" will be strictly observed and both teams will be comprised of bona fide members only.

Bert N. Wheeler and Harry Merritt and two "dark horses" comprise the pitching staff of the Methodists this year. The team will get together tomorrow and Monday and will organize for practice. Alec Anderson and William Ritchie are mentioned as being the possible twirlers for the Westminister bunch, but a surprise in this department of the game may also be sprung.

DRIVE PILES IN UNUSED STREET

West Duluth Property Owners Do Not Want Avenue Blocked.

Injunction proceedings may be brought by the city against the Canadian Northern road contractors, to prevent the company from driving piles in Fifty-fourth avenue west near its intersection with Grand avenue. At this point, Fifty-fourth avenue has never been opened.

Property owners will take the matter up with the council. Alderman Gibson and Bernard of the Seventh ward will call a hearing in a few days on the matter.

West Duluth people will probably insist that the street be spanned and left in such a condition that it can be graded, as the thoroughfare may become an important one in the growth of West Duluth. It is for this reason that they do not want it closed with a railroad trestle.

SHOCKED THE CHIEF OF POLICE

Woman Insisted on Disrobing Herself—Her Sanity Is Questioned.

Anna Terlep of Eveleth will be examined as to her sanity in probate court before Judge S. W. Gilpin tomorrow. A deputy sheriff was sent after the woman today. The authorities at the range town believe it unsafe to allow her her freedom. She has been locked up for several days.

She will be brought to Duluth and examined on information furnished by J. J. Farley, chief of police at that place.

She insists on undressing herself and she continually calls for Divine aid, according to the complaint. It is thought that close devotion to religious duties was the cause of her mental disease.

But little is known of the woman. She has been in custody for some time and in spite of the fact that much inquiry has been made the range authorities have been unable to find out much about her.

MEASURE IS INTRODUCED

Providing for Relief of Innocent Purchasers of Indian Lands.

Provides Grantees May Keep Them on Payment of Fair Values.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Steenerson today introduced a bill for the relief of innocent purchasers of land on White Earth reservation in Minnesota. It will be recalled that about seven hundred suits have been brought by the United States to set aside as many conveyances made by alleged full blooded Indians on White Earth reservation, and that in most cases it is claim d that these Indians when they sold their land claimed to be mixed blood Indians and therefore authorized to convey under the so-called Clapp amendment to the Indian appropriation bill of 1906.

The present bill provides that the defendant in such suit may by way of supplemental pleading set up that the Indian under the pretense that he was mixed blood induced the purchaser to buy and pay him a valuable consideration for the land which he still retains; ask what's the fair value of the land and that the court shall upon the evidence submitted, or stipulation of counsel, find such value and the amount actually paid to the Indian and upon payment of the difference, if any, into court for the use of the Indian, the court shall enter judgment confirming the sale and adjudging the title to be in the grantee.

The bill in Section 2 further provides that where any Indian who appears upon the so-called Hinton roll as a full blood has heretofore conveyed his land under pretense of being a mixed blood to an innocent person who has taken actual possession of the land and made valuable improvements thereon the secretary of the interior shall ascertain the actual value of the land at the time of sale and the amount paid by such purchaser, and if such purchaser offers to pay and does pay the difference, the secretary of the interior shall confirm the sale and place the money to the credit of the Indian.

The design of the bill is to clear up titles on White Earth reservation and to bring relief to all honest and innocent purchasers of Indian allotments. It is understood that the bill was tentatively submitted to the Indian affairs office before it was finally drafted and introduced.

PROFESSIONALS SELL COPPERS

Values Opened Firm But Decline—Support Is Lacking.

Professionals put stocks up at the opening, but when they failed to support the market, values declined. There was little trading of consequence although one or two specialties were moderately active. The probability of supreme court decisions on Monday and the many investigations which will be carried on by the house of representatives discouraged buyers. The copper metal market is not showing the strength that was expected of it.

Denn sold at $6 to $5.75, Summit at 49c and 50c, Keating at $3.25 and Cliff at 92c.

Amalgamated sold at $63, $63.25 and $62.75 North Butte at $27.75 to $27.50, Butte-Ballaklava at $5, $5.12½ and $5, Butte Coalition at $17.50 to $17, Calumet & Arizona at $50 to $49.50, Superior & Pittsburg at $14 to $14.12½.

C. H. Jones, manager of the Duluth-Moctezuma Mining company, is returning to Duluth to confer with the local officers and directors. He probably will not go back to Mexico until peace has been declared. Mr. Jones has shut down the Monte Cristo silver mine, owned by the company. Thieves whom he had prosecuted were released from jail to join the insurrecto army, and Mr. Jones thought he might as well leave before they visited him in the capacity of armed soldiers.

Dr. Walter Harvey Weed, the well-known mining engineer and geologist, is here conferring with officials of the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company. Dr. Weed said the defense of the Butte-Ballaklava in the suit against it of the Anaconda Copper company will undoubtedly establish the former company's rights to the vein in dispute. The shaft is being retimbered so that production may be resumed July 1. Ore will be taken from ground on the lower levels not in dispute.

The drift on the 1,200-foot level of the Giroux shaft is going forward at the rate of five feet a day. The drift has about 150 feet yet to go before connecting with the old workings of the Alpha. On the 1,400-foot level better progress is being made, as the face of the drift is still in hard rock. Sixty-five feet advance was made in this drift last week, and the drift has yet 450 feet to go before it reaches a point opposite the bottom of the old Alpha shaft, which was never sunk below the 1,200-foot level.

"MOTHERS' DAY."

Programs in Schools and Churches.

Programs in celebration of "Mother's day" were given in many of the public schools this afternoon by the students, and the day will again be celebrated Sunday in many of the churches in response to a proclamation issued by Governor Eberhart.

"Live this day as your mother would have you live it," is the motto for the day and its emblem is the white carnation. On this day the plan is to do some act of kindness such as a gift, a letter, or a visit, and if one cannot give this pleasure to one's own mother to show the courtesy to some one else's mother.

Special music and sermons have been prepared on this subject for the Sunday services in the churches.

The following program will be given in the Lakeside Presbyterian church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, under the direction of the Christian Endeavor society of that church:

Devotional exercises .....
"Origin, Object and Observance of Mother's Day" .....
"Our American Fore-Mothers" .....
"Mothers in Israel" .....

"Lord MacAulay and His Mother" ...
Bible txts .....
"The Praise Men of Influence in the United States Have Accorded Their Mothers" .....
Recitation .....
Solo—"My Mother's Prayer" .....
Pastor's talk .....
Benediction .....

Talks of Missionary Work in British East Africa

The social, spiritual, educational, and medical help needed in the field of missionary work was presented in an interesting manner last evening by Miss Alma Doering, a missionary from British East Africa, in a talk which she gave on her work at the First Baptist church. She said the services of the missionaries are most productive of good, but the needs of the field are far greater than the present force can fill.

"The fact that the people are absolutely illiterate," she said, "and have no written language, no schools or institutions of any kind, make the problem in Africa a very hard one."

She gave interesting experiences in her own work, illustrating her ideas and told of their mode of living, their fear of sickness which they believe is due to evil spirits, and the barbaric manner in which they carry the sick persons into the jungles and leave them there to die.

"The chief object of the missionaries," she said, "is to establish centers where the natives may be trained to teach their fellow men. They appreciate what is being done for them and are asking for more teachers and more books."

Miss Doering talked this afternoon to the members of the Kings Daughters and Sunday she will speak at the Glen Avon Presbyterian church at the morning services at 12:30 and at the evening service at 7:45.

Miss Doering is the guest of Mrs. F. H. Rogers, 1108½ East First street.

Date for Alumni Night.

June 9 is the day set for "Alumni night" at the graduation exercises of the Duluth Central High school. This date falls on the Friday previous to commencement Friday, and offers a good opportunity for the reunion of all graduates of the high school. Many students who are away at schools and colleges will be home by that date and the committee decided that it was a most opportune time for the new addition to the graduation program.

A vaudeville program will be given on that night by members of the alumni and the proceeds will be added to the amount already raised toward the Charles Alden Smith Memorial scholarship fund. The object of this fund will be to send at least one college student from the local schools. At present there is not one scholarship available for the students here, and the college people of the city are heartily in favor of the plan.

The new "Alumni night" will not only help to raise this fund, but will also help to foster and keep alive the school spirit among all the old students at the Central high school here.

THE DOCTOR

Nerves and Their Cure.

People who always have a tired feeling, and who suffer from their nerves, can, to a great extent, avoid this, if they will be careful about getting plenty of sleep, and of what they eat.

It is well known that a nervous breakdown can be largely prevented by self-control and a determination not to worry and not to overdo things. No matter what you are doing, if you begin to feel nervous, leave it for a short time and then go back and try again.

Keep one part of the day for yourself, and on no account be disturbed by visitors, children, servants, or anyone. No matter if it is only for one hour, insist that you be let alone for that length of time, and try to have a thorough rest, forgetting everything.

For the "tired feeling" eat only light, easily digested foods, plenty of fruit and vegetables, and take a daily bath with sea salt added. Avoid excitement of all kinds, live plainly, eat at regular intervals, and have at least eight hours' sleep out of the twenty-four.

A Cold.

A cold should be attended to in its earliest stages. Take half a teaspoonful of Epsom salts in a little water before breakfast, followed by small doses of quinine every few hours. This with the persistent use of an inhaler, filled with menthol crystals, will check nearly any case of cold in its incipient stage.

If the cold has made much progress before receiving any treatment, take doses of quinine before each meal, and three drops of oil of sassafras in a little water, taken internally, after eating, three times daily.

Ten drops of camphor on a half teaspoonful of sugar, swallowed several times a day when the cough is troublesome, will be found soothing, and a small piece of borax held in the mouth until it dissolves will stop the tickling sensation in the throat.

Latest Coiffure Modes

(By Jane Brayton.)

DO YOU remember those awful days when every woman in Christendom, from the debutante to the dowager, wore her hair as near like every other woman's as her tortured crown of glory permitted? Everybody was wearing pompadours—the fashionable woman would as soon have thought of adopting dress reform as parting her tresses; lo, in comes the part, and the pompadour is seen no more.

But nowadays, praise be, when the woman of fashion visits the hairdresser she is pretty sure to say to him: "Oh, no, I don't care to have my hair dressed like that—or that—or that. Why, everybody is wearing their hair that way!" And she usually departs with a coiffure that is individual and becoming, because she has insisted that it emphasize her good points and modify her poor ones. Besides she is quite a la mode, since that is practically the sole demand of present coiffure styles—individuality and becomingness.

For those to whom the fluffy, somewhat elaborate hair dress is suited the Empress style is most bewitching, with its suggestion of the picturesque days of the last empire. The front hair is waived loosely, parted far to the side and brought low across the forehead and ears to the back of the head. A flat braid is laid across the top of the head, whose ends are hidden by the perfect shower of short curls that cover the entire back of the head and hang in soft ringlets over the ears, with two or three on each side in front of the ears, close to the face.

In spite of our emancipation from hard and fast coiffure fashions there is one Simon-says-thumbs-up in present hairdressing that is widely followed. You may look and look, but you won't see a sign of a feminine ear. Sometimes just the pink tips of one is visible, but "Cover up your ears" is the mandate, and covered they are, with the hair simply fluffed down over them or loose puffs or curls quite covering them. One simple, parted hairdress has the hair full and soft about the face, while the ends of the thick braid which is worn low across the back of the head are twisted into what we used to call "washerwoman" knots, right over each ear. The effect is very charming and girlish.

The wide braid worn across the back of the head, which may be worn low in the neck or spread to the crown of the head is almost universally becoming. For evening wear clusters of curls may be tucked into the strands just over the ears. This style of hairdressing is very easy to attain if one has what is called the ringlet braid—a thick braid of fine hair, both ends of which are curled into a dozen or so ringlets—that may be clapped onto one's head at any becoming angle.

Have you ever noticed that Mrs. Up-to-date's beautifully coiffed head appears to be several shades lighter and brighter in the ballroom or at the theater than it does in the day time—and are you at a loss to account for it? The reason is simple. She realizes that with her complexion enhanced by the soft lights, and artful aids that are possible in the evening, a brighter shade of hair adds much to her charms. So she adopts a chignon that includes perhaps a wavy bang, a braid and a cluster of puffs under which may be quite hidden all of her own hair. Oh, if Gabriel should appear in our midst and demand that we render up all the tresses that nature originally gave to somebody else—well, most of our poor heads would look like hazel nuts, I'm afraid.

THE EVENING STORY

A SNAPSHOT

By Sybil Richards.

The day was extremely sultry—I went to call on Olive. She was ensconced at the remote end of the garden under a palish green parasol.

"Sh! Sh!" said she, absently offering me two fingers and a pencil. "Don't begin to talk yet, if you don't mind—it's coming."

"What?" said I, sending a glance skywards. "The thunder?"

"Oh!" she protested, "now you've spoilt it—you've broken the thread."

I moved my feet hastily and gazed apprehensively on the ground. Some misty notion that Olive might be smarming birds with cotton entered by head.

"It was an inspiration I meant, of course," she explained, with a sigh.

Then I noticed that she had several sheets of foolscap paper on her lap, and that the paper was more or less scribbled upon.

"Listen!" she commanded.

"Love to my door came tripping,
Smiling and debonair;
Awhile he stayed for a serenade,
But——"

She paused, frowned, put the long-suffering pencil between her pretty teeth, and stared at me vacantly.

"But——" she repeated.

"Somebody else was there," I suggested, but that seemed to annoy her.

"Don't be silly," she said, irritably. Then she collected the sheets and laid them, together with the pencil, on the grass beside her. "And I quite thought I had it," she remarked, reproachfully.

"I'm frightfully sorry," I apologized. "But how was I to know that the er—poetry stop was on this afternoon? Last time I came it was gold, you know."

Olive lay back and surveyed me sorrowfully.

"I'm afraid you've no subtle appreciation, Harry," she remarked—" no intuitive sympathy with moods. Your soul must be elemental, and oh! your tie is frightfully crude."

She shut her eyes.

"You chose it yourself," I reminded her, defiantly.

"That must have been in my philistinic days," she made calm reply. "We've got a neighbor next door at last," she added, irrelevantly.

"Only one? I hope she's nice."

"Nice would scarcely describe Mr. Charles Raymond," she answered, dreamily. "He's not a man who lends himself to positives."

It struck me that whether he lent himself or not, the new neighbor was extensively borrowed from. I mentally thanked Mr. Charles Raymond for the fact that my tie was crude, my soul elemental, and my subtle appreciation and intuitive sympathy nil. And I began to understand the situation.

"Did Mr. Charles Raymond make up that rhyme?" I asked bluntly.

"Yes."

"Is he often taken like that?"

"He writes beautiful poetry, if that's what you mean?" said Olive, with dignity. "He's begun several verses in different rhythms, and he wants me to finish them; he says it's good for my scanning."

"Do you see much of him?"

Olive cast a careless glace at the low garden wall which divided her domain from that of the next door neighbor, but she said nothing.

"Perhaps I'm de trop?" I said, breaking bitterly into the silence. "Perhaps he habitually pops up about this time in the evening."

"Pops up!" Olive closed her eyes for the second time that day. "If you knew Charles Raymond," she said, "you'd realize that he couldn't possibly 'pop.'"

"I beg his pardon," I said, and my tone was grim. "I was merely going to remark that if this is the hour at which he usually—um—materializes, I'd better get my business done and go."

Olive looked mildly interested.

"Have you any business?" she asked.

"Yes," I said severely, and I leant back and crossed my legs. "Do you recollect writing to me a year ago, when I was stationed at Bombay, and begging me to go and see that pretty, happy-go-lucky little friend of yours who'd married an under-secretary of government, and was in a horrible fix?"

"Elizabeth Angrave? Why, of course I do!" Olive sat up and looked more like herself than I had seen her. She is as true as steel to her friends, and she and Elizabeth had been at school together. I drew a letter from my pocket.

"I always like to be exact," I observed; "this is what you said:

"'Dear Harry—You can do everything when you put your mind into it. There's a dear fellow a man trying to blackmail poor, dear little Elizabeth Northam (Elizabeth Angrave as was), because once at a picnic she let him kiss her. (It was idiotic of her, of course, and I'm excusing her for it.) A wretched boy snapped them, and the man—the appalling thing is she didn't even know his name—bought the negative, and keeps sending her copies, and is always threatening to post one to her husband if she doesn't give him money every time he asks. The wretch knows she's rich! Elizabeth adores her husband, and he's quite peculiarly prudish, as it happens, about that sort of thing. She says he would never forgive her.'"

I stopped. Olive's eyes shone—she bent forward.

"Harry," she interrupted, and her breath came short and fast, "you didn't find him—you didn't, really?"

"I ran across him at a club in Chicago," said I, "the other day. Mrs. Northam's photograph of him enabled me to identify him easily. The club was very empty; every one had gone to see a parade. He was writing in a room alone."

"I hope you told him—what a brute—what a cad you thought him? Oh, what did you do?"

"I haven't got the gift of eloquence," I reminded her. "You see, with only an elemental soul—"

"Please don't! Go on—go on!"

"That's what I did—with a hunting crop. No one heard, and—he didn't summon me."

"Harry, how absolutely splendid of you! Have you got the negative? Of course you have, or you wouldn't have come. We'll break it up and cable to Elizabeth."

"Yes," I said; "I've got it. He crumpled up completely and went and fetched it, like a child."

I took from my breast pocket a cardboard box, and from the cardboard box a gray glass with various dark smudgees upon it.

Just as I was about to hold it up to the light that Olive might be sure I had made no mistake, there came from the other side of the garden wall the sound of a rather throaty but extremely soulful baritone chanting "Wel Einst in Mai."

"Hush!" Olive lifted a reverent finger and the rapt expression which my narrative had disturbed came back into her eyes. "It's my Raymond," she whispered. "He's got an exquisite voice."

I felt my brow contract and my tone when I answered her was rasping. "I must go," I said. "Do you wish to see this or not?" I held up the negative.

Now, some negatives are more clean-cut than others, and in them faces are easily discernible. This particular negative had been taken under an Eastern sky. The dominating figure was a tall man—a willowy man—if such an adjective can be applied to anything masculine. His hair was a trifle longer and his tie a trifle looser than the hair and ties of other men.

He was a handsome man of a type extremely attractive to very young women. He bent his face towards a big-eyed girl with quite a shock of curls. It was rather of the serpent and rabbit order of blandishment. If one looked at it closely. I didn't suppose it would take any inordinate effect upon Olive; I thought she would just repeat "The brute!" or something like that. But instead she gave a cry, and when I looked at her, her face had gone exceedingly white.

I do not know what intuition compelled me to turn my head towards the garden wall at that moment, but turn my head I did. The singing had ceased abruptly, and a crunching of gravel told me that Mr. Raymond was about to shed the effulgence of his presence upon us. My intuition was right. Turning suddenly I confronted a head and shoulders and a pair of arms ending in delicate hands which clasped the top of the wall. We stared at one another whilst a deliberate counter might perhaps have enumerated five; but in that space of time I saw that Mr. Charles Raymond's hair was a trifle longer than the hair of an average man; that Mr. Raymond's undoubtedly handsome face was of the pervading unstable kind dear to the heart of very young women. I fancy something in my attitude—I was holding the negative high in my hand—must have recalled to him some unpleasant episode in his past, or perhaps my tie was crude. At any rate he disappeared with an abruptness that was quite bewildering.

When Olive and I came to—so to speak—she made three efforts to address me and failed. Then she began to sob.

"Jerry," I cried—the name of our childhood sprang to my lips—"don't, please don't."

"But you must think—" Olive began and broke down.

"I think as I have always thought," said I, "that you're the dearest girl in the world. Everyone's liable to make mistakes. Come and let's grind this one to powder."

We did—viciously. We laid the negative on a broad flat stone and hammered it to fragments with another stone. Then we carried the fragments to a swift flowing river which rattled and spun through the meadows at some little distance from the house.

"I wonder if he makes a practice of —of—this kind of thing?" Olive murmured, as she stood looking down at the eddying water.

"We could easily find out," said I, artfully.

"How very silly you are, Harry!" Olive remonstrated, but a wan smile broke over her face. "Besides, it would be blackmail—I've no husband."

"True!" said I. "That ought to be remedied."

And so it was, but by the time a smart marquee was erected on the lawn of Olive's house the next door neighbor had sublet.

Olive still chooses my ties.

SPRING STYLES FOR BOYS

SPRING STYLES for boys consist of neat, quiet effects, in plain and novelty fabrics in grays, browns and blues. Black and white check effects are being shown with such profusion that they must insinuate themselves upon the favor of discriminating mothers, as they are really very attractive and refined.

Of the styles prescribed for boys this spring the Norfolk coat suit with knickerbocker pants is still in the lead. Brown, navy and cadet blues are the predominant color novelties, while grays are still as popular as they were last spring. Herringbone stripes and invisible crossbar and overplaid effects manifest themselves in a manner that must command response. In reference to young men's styles it is evident that the correct length of the coat is to be from 32¼ to 34 inches, which indicates that the shorter style of coat favored for men has not, as yet, arrived in the junior fashions. Both the single and double-breasted styles are making a strong bid for predominance, but during the early weeks of trading there is no indication as to which style will prove the most popular, as both have been received with high favor. The lapels are of mannish type, long and comparatively narrow. For the little fellows the sailor blouse is proving exceptionally popular. Eton shapes will also be strong favorites, and Norfolks have many staunch adherents. An Eton style suit with white will be quite popular for boys from three to 10 years of age. Wash suits are shown chiefly in novelty conceptions of the sailor and Russian blouse styles. One sailor blouse style that is attracting considerable attention is trimmed on the collar with black narrow braid and an etching of white silk cord. Worsted materials are going to be more popular in all juvenile garments than they have been for several seasons. In the higher priced garments cassimeres, cheviots, tweeds and homespuns are shown in exquisite pattern and color effects.

There is not much of note to be chronicled in the furnishing fashions.

The little fellows will wear large straw hats of inverted saucepan shape, and the school boys still stick to the soft telescope shapes with the brims turned down on one side and up on the other. Fancy bands of blue, gray and red shades will be very fashionable this season. Two styles of shoes are receiving special attention for boys this season with equal popularity. These are the patent pumps for dress wear and the tan button oxfords for school and recreation wear. In ties, the narrow four-in-hands in Scotch plaids and Roman stripes are especially noticeable and polka-dot and plaid Windsors are also high in favor. In the shirts and blouses the white and black effects are preferred, these either in very narrow stripes or in small floral or conventional figures.

"TUG TRUST" PROBE TRANSFERRED TO DULUTH

Investigators Again Here to Take Testimony in the Case.

Duluth Men Subpoenaed—Four Superior Men Give Testimony.

The investigators into the composition and methods of business of the Great Lakes Towing company are back in Duluth to take testimony in the action brought by the government, which is seeking to dissolve the company on the ground that it is a trust in violation of the anti-trust law.

A brief hearing was held in Superior this morning, four witnesses being examined. No sensational testimony was brought out. Nine witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify at the hearing here. The investigators were able to adjourn to Duluth earlier than they expected and, though the witnesses were subpoenaed to appear tomorrow, an effort was being made early this afternoon to round them up.

Among the witnesses subpoenaed to appear here was A. B. Wolvin, former president of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, a subsidiary of the Great Lakes Towing company. Mr. Wolvin is ill at the present time and his testimony can very likely not be obtained at this time. Martin Cole, former president of the Tugmen's union, who was out of the city when the investigators were in Duluth before, is expected to testify at the hearing today or tomorrow.

At the hearing in Superior this morning, John Nevaugh, H. J. Wacksmuth and John Pasque of Bayfield and W. A. Whitney of Superior, were examined. Their testimony merely tended to show that while they owned tugs, they were not in the vessel towing business and that the Great Lakes Towing company has a monopoly on that branch of towing work.

B. C. Miller, special examiner, is presiding at the hearing. The government is represented by Joseph G. Fogg, assistant United States district attorney; T. P. Chamberlin, who was assigned to the case by the department of justice, and M. J. Lenz, special investigator. Harvey G. Goulder and Herman Kelley are the attorneys for the Great Lakes company, which is also represented here by its secretary, M. H. Wardwell.

Pleads Not Guilty.
Alexander Shacdock, who, while he was testifying in the Brookston election case in district court, was arrested on a charge of perjury, was arraigned in court this afternoon on the indictment returned by the grand jury. He pleaded not guilty.

Stricken On the Street.
Edward J. Van, 45 years of age, was taken to St. Luke's hospital last night after he had a hemorrhage in front of his place of business on the Bowery. He was stricken in the afternoon and was attended by Police Surgeon Murphy. At that time his friends promised that they would see that he got to his home, but they evidently failed to do so, for another call for a doctor came from the same place last night. Dr. Graham was called and ordered him to the hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

TWO DECISIONS ARE AFFIRMED

Opinions in St. Louis County Cases By the Supreme Court.

St. Paul, May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court today filed opinions in the following St. Louis county cases:

D. T. Collins, respondent, vs. School District No. 30, St. Louis county, appellant.

A complaint as against an objection first made after judgment is sufficient to sustain the judgment if from the allegations contained in the complaint facts constituting a cause of action can reasonably be inferred. Affirmed. Opinion by Justice Simpson.

Helen M. Cook, respondent, vs. Modern Brotherhood of America, appellant.

Action upon a certificate issued by the defendant, a fraternal order. Its by-laws provided that persons engaged in the occupation of a railway freight brakeman or switchman should not be eligible to beneficial membership, and that a person should be held to be engaged in such prohibited occupations when the duties incident to his employment required him to perform any of the duties belonging to the prohibited occupation. The occupation of the insured was that of a mining brakeman in an open pit mine in the operation of stripping cars. Held, construing the by-laws, that the insured was not a railway freight brakeman or switchman within their meaning. Order affirmed. Opinion by Chief Justice Start.

ANTI-TRADING STAMP BILL.

One Is Passed By the Illinois House.

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—The Illinois house of representatives today passed the Hagan anti-trading stamp bill, which prohibits the giving of trading stamps or their sale to merchants. A penalty of a fine of $100 or thirty days in jail may be imposed for violation of the act.

The house also passed the Lyon anti-cigarette bill, which prevents the sale or the giving away of cigarettes.

Station Agent Attacked.
Janesville, Wis., May 12. — Station Agent Rudolph Tegan of Browntown, near here, was attacked and robbed early today by an unknown man. Tegan was knocked unconscious by a blow from the man, who, then looted the station, took the agent's valuables and escaped. Tegan is in a serious condition.

PLEA REJECTED.

Newark Man Must Stand Trial on Charge of Lynching.

Newark, Ohio, May 12.—Art Dover, in jail here awaiting trial in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherington last July, came into court today and voluntarily offered to plead guilty to manslaughter. Prosecutor Smythe explained to the court that Dover was the man who made a speech on the night of the lynching in which he urged the crowd to avenge the death of a "brother Eagle."

Dover, who is in very poor condition physically, collapsed utterly upon hearing the judge's refusal to accept his plea. His trial is set for May 29.

Primary Bill Passes.

WEST END NEWS

OPPOSITION WITHDRAWN

Wood Dealers Will Not Protest Against Alderman Bernard's Ordinance.

West End Lots Will Be Cleared By Owners of Wood.

The wood dealers of the West end will not fight the Bernard ordinance, which prohibits the piling of wood in large quantities in close proximity of the residence districts.

When the ordinance was introduced, the woodmen rose up in protest, circulated a petition against the ordinance, but after considering the matter, decided to withdraw their opposition.

As a result of an agreement between Alderman Bernard and several of the wood owners, no more wood will be piled in such quantities as it is now stacked between First and Second streets on Twenty-fourth avenue west. The wood that is now piled there will be taken away.

Owing to the fact that several hundred cords of mill wood was piled in vacant lots in the heart of the residence district of the West end, there has been much agitation to have the wood removed on account of the danger of fire. This agitation took definite form in an ordinance introduced by Alderman Bernard of the Seventh ward.

L. Jentoft, owner of the most of the wood, was active in opposing the measure, but has withdrawn his opposition. The passage of the Bernard ordinance will prevent any repetition of the practice.

Will Improve Street.

The board of public works will soon award the contract for the improvement of West Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues west. The work was ordered at the last meeting of the council. The engineer's estimate of the cost of grading and guttering the thoroughfare, is $3,222.

West End Briefs.

Miss Sophie Ege of 2322 West Fourth street will leave soon for a trip to Norway. She was recently tendered a farewell party at her home. Among the guests were the Misses Helen Carlson, Signe Anderson, Hannah Held, Elizabeth Hobbrestad and Bergliet Solum.

Peter A. Stenberg has purchased the business formerly conducted by J. E. Smedberg at 2728 West First street, a dealer in painters' and paperhangers' supplies.

The Adams Athletic association last evening entertained at a dancing party at Lincoln park pavilion in honor of the Fairmont association. The decorations were in the Fairmont colors and Flaaten's orchestra furnished the music.

J. C. Peterson has returned to his home at Cloquet, after a visit with friends in the West end.

A. C. Erickson of Albert Lea, Minn., is the guest of friends and relatives in the West end.

Walter Hanson has returned from a visit at St. Paul.

W. C. Johnson of Fort Huron, Mich., is a West end visitor.

A welcome reception was held last evening at Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, for the new pastor, Rev. M. B. Fish, who came here recently from Pueblo, Colo. Several Baptist pastors of the city were present and made addresses.

O. O. Kolstad has started the erection of a frame dwelling house on the north side of Devonshire street between Michigan and Pacific avenues, to cost, $1,000.

PATCHES ON PAVEMENT

Board of Public Works Will Pay for Resurfacing Street.

Experiment With New Surface Will Be Made on One Block.

The comparatively new, yet worn-out pavement on West Superior street is to be patched up again.

Property owners are unwilling to stand the assessment for a new pavement and it is up to the board of public works, they say, to fill the holes in the street.

The street will be resurfaced between Garfield and Twenty-first avenues and the work, which will cost the board about $12,000 will be begun in a few days. About two inches of crushed rock will be laid on top of the present pavement and surfaced off with a tar composition.

This is an experiment and although it is believed that a smooth substantial pavement will result, the board has decided to take no chances and improve at first only one block. The new pavement will be watched for a few weeks and if satisfactory, the work will proceed.

The paving of the street four years ago was a "botch" job from the start, the property owners say. In the first place, the property owners attach some blame to themselves for wanting an inexpensive pavement. Contractor Steele therefore laid the pavement without any foundation and within two years, the street was full of sink holes and the pavement worthless. It has been patched up several times since.

"YOUNG OLD SETTLERS" WILL HAVE AN OUTING.

At a meeting last evening of the Young Old Settlers' association of the West end, preliminary plans for an outing will be made. The affair will take on the form of a picnic at one of the suburbs or parks.

The details will be arranged at the next meeting of the association, May 18, at the West hotel, 1915 West Superior street. Fred Lindbeck is president of the association and Joseph Miller, secretary. The club was recently organized with fifty members.

Any one who has lived in the city west of the Point of Rocks for more than twenty years is eligible.

Haines, treasurer; and Miss Olga Jensen, organist.

LIGHT SNOWFALL AT HEAD OF LAKES

Tenth of an Inch of Snow Breaks No Records in Duluth.

About a tenth of an inch of snow fell in Duluth early this morning.

Snow at this season of the year is unusual in Duluth, but not unprecedented, as the weather records show many instances of snow falling in June.

The weather man looks for freezing temperatures tonight with fair weather and the owners of gardens are advised to cover them.

RED CROSS BUILT MANY BUILDINGS

Much Lumber Has Been Used in Baudette Region Since Great Fire.

Baudette, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 900,000 feet of lumber have been so far used in rebuilding Baudette and this locality since the great fire. The Red Cross society has been largely instrumental in furnishing the material for rebuilding this section.

The number of dwellings built was 265. Two hundred and twenty-five of these were one-story 14 by 16, and the remaining forty were one-story and a half, 12 by 16. Fifty thousand feet of lumber were used for miscellaneous purposes. Thirty of the houses were built by the society. These figures cover a territory about seventy by forty miles, from Wanaska in Roseau county to Birchdale in Koochiching county and from Zipple to the Rapid river.

The new Riverside hotel is nearly completed. The lower floors are already being occupied and carpenters and painters are busily employed in getting the upper stories in readiness. The new hotel is a three-story structure, 80 by 50 feet fronting on Henderson avenue and overlooking Baudette bay.

FINDING BONES STARTS GUESSES

Theories in Bemidji as to Identity of Skeleton Found Near There.

Bemidji, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Something of a sensation was caused by the discovery of a man's skeleton by F. M. Pendergast, on his farm, three miles south of Bemidji. Some think that the mystery of the escape of the robber who shot ex-Deputy Sheriff Johnson has been cleared, or the strange disappearance of Peter Lamire is accounted for.

The skull of the skeleton is in a fair state of preservation with the exception of one small hole, as were also the other bones of the body, which were of a man of more than the average height.

Dr. Smith and Dr. Stanton, the latter a dentist, have examined the bones, but there is absolutely nothing on which to base identification. In the opinion of Dr. Smith, the skeleton must have lain in at the edge of the swamp where it was found for the past four years. No marks of violence, other than the possible mutilation of the skull were found, the skull was found with face downward, as if the man had fallen. Pieces of a dark coat, a slouch hat, a jackknife, a folding yard rule, a razor hone, a piece of tobacco sack and most significant of all a metal checkmarked "French Hotel, 65, Bemidji," were found beside the body.

HARRISON'S CLUB'S ORDER UNPOPULAR

Upper Michigan Club of Which Chicago Mayor Is Member Bars Public Fishing.

Marquette, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of this portion of Upper Michigan are not well pleased at the action of the Huron Mountain club in serving notice that fishing by the public on the Salmon Trout river hereafter will not be permitted. The club is composed of wealthy residents of Detroit, Chicago and other cities. One prominent member is Mayor Carter H. Harrison of Chicago. It is stated by the club that it now owns all the land on both sides of the stream for nine miles from its mouth, and that patrolmen have been engaged to keep people away. It is intended to make the river a fish preserve for the exclusive use of the club members. Three-quarters of a million trout have recently been planted in the stream.

VALLEY CITY IN 1912.

North Dakota Doctors Decide to Meet There Next Time.

Fargo, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Medical society in session here elected these officers: President, Dr. E. C. Spicer, Litchville; first vice president, Dr. A. J. McCannal, Minot; second vice president, Dr. Murdock McGregor, Fargo; third vice president, Dr. K. H. Beek, Lakota; secretary, Dr. H. J. Rowe, Casselton; treasurer, Dr. F. J. King, St. Thomas; counselors, Drs. H. M. Wheeler, Grand Forks; A. Carr, Minot, and F. R. Smyth, Bismarck.

Valley City was chosen as the next place of meeting for 1912.

RED LAKE INDIANS ARE GETTING MONEY.

Bemidji, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red Lake Indians are receiving a payment of part of moneys due them for sale of lands on their reservation, and each member of the band, both adults and minors, are being paid.

Agent Bishop, in charge of the agency, stated that each Indian will receive $40.70. There are some 1,400 Indian members of the Red Lake band, and as many of the families number five or more, the total sum the heads of families will have in custody will amount to a neat sum.

The payment has been conducted in a very quiet and businesslike manner, there being no disturbances of any kind, and nothing but the best of good feeling has prevailed at the agency.

Much of the money received by the reds will be devoted to liquidating accounts with local merchants at the agency and buying supplies and other necessaries.

MIXED MARRIAGES.

Once Made They Are Indissoluble By Church of Rome.

St. John, N. B., May 13.—On May 21 there will be read in all Anglican churches in Canada a pastoral letter signed by Archbishop Matheson of Winnipeg, primate of all Canada, and Archbishop Hamilton of Ottawa, metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Canada, on the question of mixed marriages.

It will deprecate such marriages but will say that when once performed they are indissoluble by the church of Rome. The disbelief of the Anglican church in divorce is so strongly brought out and the clergy are prohibited from re-marrying divorced persons during the life of either party to the first marriage.

The pastoral is issued as a result of recent decisions by Quebec judges that marriages of Roman Catholics by clergy of other denominations in that province are null.

That Secret Recipe

The recipe for Van Camp's Spaghetti is a secret of our kitchens.

We can't reveal it to you.

Only three men know it. It has never been written down.

The dish is so popular—so amazingly liked—that the recipe for it has become an asset, almost beyond a price.

But you can always get it ready-cooked for less than it would cost you to make it.

You can have it on hand, always ready to serve simply by heating or baking.

Let our chefs make it, for there are 17 ingredients. And they have spent two years in getting this harmony of taste.

The main materials are:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

Italy, whose chefs are famed for spaghetti, has never produced a recipe like this.

Nobody who comes to your table will ever have tasted any other spaghetti comparable with this.

You'll want to serve it three times a week, and your folks will want to have you.

STEEL MEN ON CUYUNA

Officials of Inland Steel Company Look Over Properties at Crosby.

Travel By Special on Soo Line and Are Not Disposed to Talk.

Brainerd, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of officials and stockholders of the Inland Steel company of Chicago, arrived at Crosby, in a special train over the Soo line yesterday. The train was composed of a diner, sleeper and engine. In the party were P. D. Block, the vice president and general manager of the Inland Steel company; Capt. William Wearne of Hibbing, the local superintendent of the company;; S. Deutsch, D. Thompson and L. E. Block.

On the special train was also J. R. Michaels, the Soo line superintendent of the Duluth-Superior division. The party spent all day at Crosby and its vicinity visiting the active mining operations of the company and the drifting being done near by.

Thompson Shaft Work.

The Thompson shaft in section 11-46-29 has been dredged to a depth of forty-six and one-half feet and the caission work will soon be commenced. It is expected to reach a ledge at about ninety feet. The officials would venture but little information regarding their visit, which is the third one they have made to their properties. They indulged in a few facetious remarks to the effect that Mr. Deutsch, a serious minded member of the party, had lately patented a new method of making sash weights, but from the smiles apparent on all sides it seemed evident that the gentleman's sash appendages did not carry much weight with his friends.

The Soo train crew was composed of Engineer Arthur Fisher, Fireman C. S. Gerdtson, Conductor H. A. Smith, and Brakeman J. Mayfield. In the evening a launch was charactered and the steel men enjoyed a ride on the lake. Later the party left for Chicago.

The local inventors have been working on their machine the last year and a half, and claim to have gained such results in their construction work as will absolutely insure success when the trial fly comes.

Frederick, Wis., May 12.—Dr. L. B. Bell and his chauffeur, Charles Gross, were killed in an automobile accident yesterday near Trade Lake, Wis., just west of this village.

Dr. Bell and his driver were returning from some professional calls about midnight when the auto overturned down a thirty-five-foot embankment, pinning the two unfortunates under it. The men remained conscious nine hours, when they were discovered by a farmer passing. A dozen farmers raised the auto from the men and six physicians were called, but of no avail. Dr. Bell was removed, with his driver, to his new hospital built at Cushing. Death resulted at noon yesterday to both parties. Dr. Bell was internally injured and Gross' back was broken.

Devils Lake, N. D., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marked coins were used by C. M. Later, after the purchase had been made, the marked coins were found on William Jones, colored, but through the fact that marked coins had been used on previous occasions, the defendant was discharged from custody by Justice Hinck.

SOMNAMBULIST HAS FALL.

Houghton Young Man, Walking in Sleep, Falls From Window.

Houghton, Mich., May 12.—Delor Ruelle, while sound asleep, walked out of a fourth story window at his home on Montezuma street about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning and fell to the ground below, a distance of about forty feet. It is feared he was injured internally and may die.

Young Ruelle is a son of Peter Ruelle, Sr. He is 20 years of age and is an employe of the Houghton County Electric Light company. His somnambulistic tendency had never been noticed before by his family. When he fell out of the window he first struck on a porch roof and the sound of his body striking this drum-like structure awakened his mother. She thought that an air blast had occurred, but was startled a moment later by hearing the front door bell ring. She aroused the family and one of the sons noticed that Delor was not in his bed. Mrs. Ruelle ran to the front porch and opened it, finding the unconscious Delor on the porch.

The shock of striking the ground awakened him and he managed to get to the door bell before unconsciousness overcame him. He was brought into the house and an effort made to restore him to consciousness, but this failed and it was feared he would die before a physician could reach the house.

MANY BOND ISSUES

Will Be Voted Upon in Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Republic, Mich., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—More bond issues have been authorized by the electors of various districts in the Upper Peninsula this spring than in any year for a long period past. The aggregate amount involved runs well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Still other elections for a similar purpose are to be held shortly. June 15 the people of Alger county will vote on the proposition of raising $50,000 for the construction and maintenance of highways. Ten thousand dollars is desired for similar work in Ontonagon township, Ontonagon county, and to authorize a loan of that amount a special election will be held June 5.

Last week the people of Marquette voted four to one in favor of issuing bonds in the sum of $75,000, with which to extend the waterworks intake pipe into Lake Superior an additional 3,000 feet. Schoolcraft county has just sold $40,000 of bonds to E. H. Rollins & Co. of Chicago for a premium of $1,020 and accrued interest. This is a portion of a $90,000 issue authorized for the purpose of building good roads. Leon county has $150,000 of bonds to sell and the city of Iron Mountain $100,000 worth. The latter will be a popular loan, placed with the people. Dickinson county has just liquidated the last installment of a bond issue floated fifteen years ago and is now not only entirely out of debt but has a snug balance in its treasury. It is believed that Dickinson is the only county in the state with no bonds outstanding.

KEEP HER GRAVE GREEN.

Woodstock, Ont., Is Proud of Late Cassie Chadwick.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 12.—W. L. Gray, who hails from the town of Woodstock, Ont., and is in the city to dispose of a North Milwaukee farm for a client, visited the office of the county register of deeds on Wednesday to look up certain titles and incidentally remarked that his home town's one claim to notoriety is the fact that it is the birthplace and the burial place of Cassie L. Chadwick, whose daring swindles created excitement several years ago and who died in the Columbus penitentiary about four years ago.

"Her grave in the little Woodstock cemetery is the show place of the town," said Mr. Gray, "and few strangers visit the city without being conducted to the cemetery to view the last resting place of the most famous female 'wizard of finance' of recent times.

"Notwithstanding the varied and checkered career of Cassie Chadwick her grave is kept in excellent condition by the women of the town, it being a matter of local pride to see that everything is done to make the place as beautiful as possible. It is surrounded by maple trees and firs and during the summer months is decorated with various kinds of flowers. The monument contains the simple inscription, 'Elizabeth Bigley, wife of L. S. Chadwick, M. D.,' together with the dates 1859 and 1907, covering the span of her earthly existence.

COMPLEXION LOTION MAKES ROSY CHEEKS

In writing for the Philadelphia Press, Mae Martyn, the famous writer on health and beauty topics says: "Any woman who desires rosy cheeks does the worst thing imaginable by trying to color them with powder or rouge. Everyone notices that painted look and it is only a question of time when her face will be rough, sallow looking and beset with large, dirt-collecting pores.

"An inexpensive lotion made by dissolving four ounces spurmax in one-half pint hot water with two teaspoonfuls glycerine added, is far better than powder or any other complexion beautifier. This lotion does not show like powder and gives the skin a clear, clean, wholesome look that lasts much longer than when powder is used. It removes the shiny, oily, sallow look and leaves the skin smooth, rosy and fresh looking."

Have Beautiful Hair; Dry Shampoo Method.

The beauty editors of many of the prominent ladies' journals are advocating the use of the "dry shampoo" in preference to any and all methods for beautifying the hair. It is claimed that this method is superior to washing the hair and creates a clean, lustrous, wavy head of hair in a short time. No matter how dull and lifeless the hair, the following dry shampoo will soon work wonders if regularly used: With 6 ounces of powdered orris root, mix 2 ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Keep in a tight jar or box and at night apply a tablespoonful, distributing it through the hair with the fingers. In the morning use comb and brush to remove, and all excess oil, dirt, dandruff, etc., will be removed with it. Men and women both use it with the utmost satisfaction. Obtain the ingredients of any well stocked druggist.

Duluth Defeats Red Wing in Second Game By 7 to 6 Score.

Red Worman Hit Hard But Is Steady With Men on the Bags.

Red Wing, Minn., May 12.—Duluth defeated Red Wing here yesterday by the score of 7 to 6. Worman was in the box for the Sox and Johnson and Pearl occupied the mound for the Indians. Red Wing outhit the Sox and also played a better fielding game, but luck was with Darby O'Brien's crew and the tide of battle was in favor of the visitors.

Worman kept the ten hits garnered off his delivery fairly well scattered, and was hard to hit with men on bases. The veteran has a game ankle which bothered him some during the contest.

The weather was raw and but few fans were out to the game. Score:

SUPERIOR TAKES SECOND GAME FROM ROCHESTER.

Rochester, Minn., May 12.—Superior took the second game from Rochester by the score of 6 to 5. In the seventh inning the Red Sox drove two runs over the plate, which gave them the game. After the seventh Dunlap was hard to hit and the locals could not shove a run over the plate.

Weather conditions were abominable and playing was made difficult by the cold and high wind. The game was marked by hard hitting and good fielding, considering the difficulty of handling the ball. Score:

Hill kept the hits scattered and the Outcasts could do little with him until the last two innings. A very small crowd witnessed the game.

BROWN WINS BY KNOCKOUT

Range Fighter Disposes of Willie Driscoll in the Third Round.

Hibbing Man Shows Superiority at Every Angle of the Game.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pal Brown last night knocked out Willie Driscoll of New York in the third round of a scheduled 15-round bout. The battle was one-sided from the gong. At no time did the New Yorker have a chance with the hard hitting boy of the range. With stinging lefts and terrific rights Brown beat down his opponent, the knockout resulting from a hard swing to the point of the jaw.

Driscoll came to the range with the reputation of being one of the best boys in his class. His showing against Brown disproved the stories that preceded his arrival. He failed to put up the battle that Garry or Greenwald did, and the range fight fans are now clamoring for the coming of some champion, or at least some man who is in the first flight, in order that they may see a real battle.

Right from the opening round Brown showed his superiority over the Eastern boy. After the first preliminary sparring, the iron range youngster began to sting Driscoll with lefts and rights. When Driscoll would clinch to avoid punishment he was met with fierce uppercuts that jolted head and body. As early as the first round Driscoll was rocked with a hard right to the head.

In the second round Brown fought his man all over the ring. Brown short-arm polted Driscoll repeatedly, and coming out of the clinches would catch Driscoll with wicked hooks.

In the last minutes of the third round Brown hooked a wicked right flush to the point of Driscoll's jaw. The little Eastern boy dropped like a log, slowly half turned in a dazen effort to get up and then lay completely out. It required something like fifteen minutes to bring Driscoll back to consciousness.

While the little boy from the East had a wonderful left hand and in the first two rounds kept stabbing Brown in the face, he was completely outfought and never had a chance with the pride of the range.

HACKETT AND TEN EYCK MAY SCULL AT DULUTH

If Old Warhorse Hackett, the famous Canadian sculler, is really serious in his oft repeated assertion that he can "come back" and again take a high position in the rowing world, he can get a race with young Jim Ten Eyck, the coach of the Duluth Boat club carsmen and today one of the greatest scullers in America.

Last year, coming down from Kenora to Rainy River, Hackett informed a number of the D. B. C. oarsmen that he was going to start training and would seek a race with some of the best men in this country. Ten Eyck has been declared a professional through coaching, and there is no reason why he should not be the one to try out the speed of the once famous sculler.

At one time Hackett was accounted one of the fastest single shell men in the world. He was a famous double also, Hackett and De Braisse being one of the greatest doubles that the world has ever seen. They beat everything worth beating in North America. Hackett was also in a famous professional four.

Ten Eyck is willing to meet the lanky and powerful Canadian, and if Hackett is in the shape that he is reported to be in, for it is said that he has been faithfully training for several months, the race between the two well known scullers may be arranged for St. Louis bay.

THE DEAR OLD MAJORS ARE PLAYING BUSH BALL

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

The Death of Gordon Brown Brings Genuine Grief—Pugilists and Fighters—They Didn't Like Jim's Brother Across the Pond—Some Batters Have No Weaknesses.

(BY BRUCE.)

YALE men throughout the length and breadth of the country will be deeply grieved when they read of the death of Gordon Brown, one of the greatest and also one of the finest football players who went out from the famous New Haven institution.

It has been the invariable custom of Yale men, since a certain season when the famous team captained by the gallant Brown swept the other teams of the East off their feet, to refer to that team as Gordon Brown's team. It might be stated that it also has been the custom of the Harvard students to refer to a certain famous Harvard team as Jack Campbell's team, and yet this team, nor perhaps any other team that has ever played in the East, has held the reputation or has been so widely discussed as the team that literally swept the East.

Ralph Bloomer and Glass and Jim Hogan were some of the famous players on this sterling gridiron aggregation. Since the day of the great and only Pudge Heffelfinger, Brown and Glass have been considered perhaps the two greatest guards of modern football, and remember they were on the same team.

Ask any Yale man about Gordon Brown, and he will say that he was one of the finest of men; a chap conscientious, true blue, a democrat in spirit and a gentleman by breeding and cultivation. He was a man who was an honor to Yale and an athlete whose name will stand for years among those great athletes whose deeds have gained for them a place in Yale's hall of fame.

Not so long ago readers of the daily press were apprised of the death of Jim Hogan, one of the most popular men who ever went to Yale. And now comes the death of Gordon Brown, captain of the team that honest Jim Hogan was to lead later on.

Two deaths close together, and men who played on the same great team. Hogan and Brown—a contrast in college men. Brown, the son of wealthy parents, and Hogan, a man who worked his way through Exeter and then Yale, and one of the most beloved and most respected men who ever graduated from the old New Haven school. With more money than most college men, with a commanding position among his classmates. Brown, too, was one of the most popular men who ever went to the Eli institution.

Money, or football fame, or college political influence did not secure this standing for Gordon Brown. It was the fine texture of his wholesome and clean character. Gordon Brown might be called a high ideal of the American college man. Big in his physical power, he was big, too, in brain and character, and his record at Yale will stand in the history of that famous school as a monument of worth to a man who now lies cold in death.

There are those who are wont to decry athletics upon the least provocation. Like the pack of hungry wolves that pounce upon a single victim to their fiendish rapacity, a certain class of individuals seize every occasion to lampoon and call for the abolition of the more strenuous forms of sport.

To those men who delight in whole souled sport, that calls for vigor of body and strength of brain, it is well to remember that Gordon Brown, a man high in principle, big of mind and gentle of heart, was one of the greatest of all football players, and a man who played the game because he was a man.

Through the length and breadth of the country, men will stop from their work for the minute and give a sad moment to the memory of Gordon Brown, whose deeds and memory will ever be hallowed by the Yale student body.

Is the Fighter a Coward?

TRACING back into the tome of history you may find that some of the greatest fighters of the past have been accused of being cowards. There was Young David, the same chap who put Goliath out in a few rounds. If you remember, Saul chased him over the country trying to get a meeting, and David dodged the issue. But in the heat of battle none of 'em had anything on Young David.

There was Richard III. His conscience used to win a decision over him every now and then. He used to see things without drinking, which is much more economical than some people accomplish the trick, and shiver and shake in his tent before the bugle call of battle. But once the soiree started little Richard was there with all the bells.

Alexander the Great, who covered a multitude of ground, much more than James McAleer ever did, was a very nervous chap, so history says, and used to fidget and squirm before the clarion call to arms. But once the boys got to mixing right merry Alex was there stronger than a German cheese that has been kept in captivity for years.

Though General Robert Fitzsimmons never led an army, like Alexander, he has covered a lot of territory, and again like Alexander, some times he was nervous and fidgety when net engaged in the heat of battle.

In Green's hotel which is located in Philadelphia and which is famous for its cat and many other things, James J. Corbett met General Fitzsimmons and pulled his nose severely, not to mention other things. Mister Corbett was real het up, but if all reports of the meeting are correct in their little detail, the knock-kneed and red-thatched fighter showed not the least desire to fight.

Don't imagine from the above little incident that James J. was a man anxious to do battle out of the ring. Far from such was the case.

Fiery little Charley Mitchell offered to fight Corbett rough and tumble and insulted the pompadour man to the fullest extent of his cockney vocabulary, which was some. Corbett refused to fight and Mitchell went away with the impression that the champion was a man with a white liver.

When Corbett got poor Mitchell in the ring at Jacksonville, he made up for the odium the little Englishman had cast upon him, buffeting the English boxer around the ring like chaff seized in the teeth of such a wind that we were troubled with yesterday.

When we see a man in the ring taking any kind of punishment without flinching, we admire that man and say that he is game as the proverbial pebble. He is in there to fight, for fighting is his business and he can get money that way quicker and easier than in any other way. Lots of times he is a very peaceable chap outside of the ring, never looking for trouble and often going out of his way to avoid it.

Some of our greatest fighters in battle and in the modern warfare of ring fighting, have been accused of being cowards with their citizen's clothes on.

So we come right back to the old question that we started with—are some fighters cowards?

Don't Love Jim's Brother.

NED TEN EYCK, a brother of Jim, the coach of the Duluth Boat club crew was, as many people are aware of, the winner of the famous diamond sculls, a trophy that is annually contested for by the best of old England oarsmen.

Ned Ten Eyck was the first and only American to win the great event, and to show just what the Englishmen thought of this very presumptious feat upon the part of the young American, Ten Eyck was barred the next season from competing for the event.

Young Jim might have gone across the briny deep and tried to lift the big race, had they not taken the action they did against brother Ned. Jim is a true son of his dad, and like his brother and his father, is one of the greatest oarsmen in this country today.

This story of the way the English ruled against his brother, because he was an American, and more particularly because he won the famous trophy that is supposed to be for the English, always makes Jim laugh, for it plainly shows one of the striking characteristics of the Englishmen, who have been at times accused of being fair sportsmen.

They Had No Weaknesses.

SOME of the best of our pitchers, both past and present, have made a specialty of figuring the weakness of the opposing batter. Outguessing the hitters is often the leading characteristic of a great pitcher. Christy Mathewson is one of the pitchers possessing this acumen.

Well, anyway, the late Ed Delehanty was one of the terrors to pitchers. They tried in vain to solve his weakness at bat. They always failed for the simple reason that the big fellow had no weakness.

One time a young pitcher was facing the late Delehanty. The situation was a trying one. The young flinger motioned for the catcher, and when the receiver walked out to the mound, whispered that he had Delehanty's weakness.

Upon the catcher asking what it was, the pitcher replied that it was a base on balls.

Only recently a young pitcher has been reported as asking Jimmy McAleer what was the best ball to serve Nap Lajoie.

"Toss him anything you have, then duck your head and mutter a prayer," was the answer of the astute James.

Pitchers have about given up the idea of trying to find any weakness that Hans Wagner may possess. Most of the team plays signals on the other batters and the outfield shifts according to the ball that is to be pitched. With Wagner at the bat the fielders, both in and outfield, play deep and pray that the Dutchman will hit some place where a player is stationed.

Ty Cobbb hasn't any particular weakness at the bat. He can hit most anything and the pitchers trust to luck with the young man from Georgia at the plate.

PACKY AND MORAN MAY CLASH SOON

Chicago, May 12.—Packey McFarland and Owen Moran are to fight at Milwaukee in the near future. Frank Mulkern of the National Athletic club has given up trying to sign Wolgast with Packey. He is dickering with Charlie Harvey, manager of Moran, and Harvey has agreed to let his boy box before he takes him to the coast for the July 4 fight with Wolgast.

McFarland already has signed an agreement whereby he is to box Wolgast, Moran and "Knockout" Brown before Mulkern's club, so there is sure to be no hitch on the McFarland end.

Harvey yesterday wired Mulkern and accepted the weight conditions named by McFarland. The little Briton gets all the worst of the poundage, of course, but is not averse to picking up some good ten-round money. Then he probably figures a tilt with Packey will be a grand workout for the supreme test with Wolgast. Harvey and Mulkern have not yet agreed on the financial end of the deal, but the difference is small, and there is little chance the match will fall through.

Moran and Harvey must leave for the coast early in June to train for the Wolgast encounter, so Mulkern will have to stage this mill within the next three weeks.

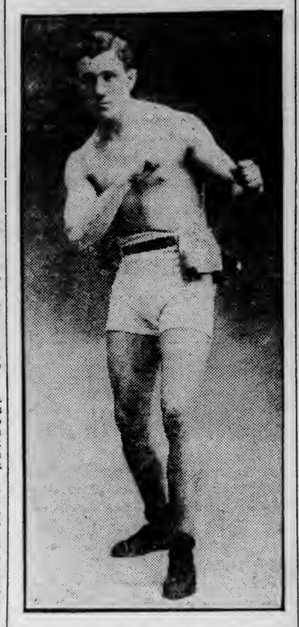
'KNOCKOUT' BROWN IS GIVEN THE POPULAR DECISION

Tommy Murphy Outclassed By New Yorker in Ten-Round Bout.

Brooklyn Boy Streng at Times But Pace Tells on Him.

New York, May 12.—In a rushing ten-round bout, "Knockout" Brown of New York outfought and easily won the popular decision over Tommy Murphy of Brooklyn at the Whirlwind A. C., of Brooklyn last night. The tow-headed little fighting Dutchman, as Brown is called, was the aggressor from the start, and while Murphy fought a heady fight, he had not the strength to carry his skill to advantage. One of the biggest crowds that ever attended a fight in Brooklyn witnessed th ebout.

"KNOCKOUT" BROWN.



TOMMY MURPHY.

Brown Is Aggressor.

The fight by rounds:

Round 1—Brown at once took the aggressive and forced Tommy to the ropes with a left to the body. Murphy worked to the center and in the clinch uppercut with his right to the jaw. Brown continued boring in, taking Tommy's rights and battering away with both hands to the body. Murphy sent in several straight rights to the face, but it was Brown's round.

Rounds 2—Brown rushed and Murphy met him with a right to the body. A left swing bled Murphy's nose and the two exchanged swings to the head. Brown rushed again and Murphy uppercut his right to the jaw, almost putting Brown through the ropes. Brown was back quickly and fighting fast at the bell. Murphy's round.

Round 3—Brown rushed Tommy to the ropes and ripped his left to the body. Murphy came back with a nasty right to the face, cutting Brown's mouth, but Brown whipped a right to the jaw that sent Murphy to the ropes. Brown was fighting like a wildcat and smashed a hard one to the chin at the bell. Brown's round.

Round 4—They met in the center of the ring and Murphy drove three clean rights to Brown's chin. Brown rushed and smashed his left to the body. Murphy rushed Brown to the ropes but did no damage. The pace seemed to be telling on Murphy.

Brown Does Forcing.

Round 5—They opened with a clinch in which Tommy uppercut his right to the face. Brown forced him to the ropes and reached the body with his right. Murphy tried to hold, but Brown was too strong for him. Brown was still doing the forcing and had a shade the better of the round.

Round 6—Brown continued to work to the body getting home hard lefts. Murphy used his uppercut in clinches, but Brown's swings to the head forced Tommy to break ground. Brown followed fast, taking Murphy's short punches and tearing away at the body.

Round 7—They met in the center, and a right on the mouth sent Brown to the ropes. Brown rushed and swung wild. Murphy drove a straight right to the mouth and hooked his left to the face. Brown was at sea, and Murphy sent left and right to the face, again drawing blood from Brown's nose. It was easily Murphy's round.

Hard Punch Lauded.

Round 8—A heavy right shook Murphy's head, but he covered it up by staggering Brown with a left and a right to the jaw, sending him to the ropes. Murphy seemed to have regained his speed but a hard left to the body almost doubled him up. It was the hardest punch of the fight and it hurt.

Round 9—Brown reached the head with his left and Murphy retaliated with a right uppercut to the chin. A left swing sent Tommy's head back and a right to the body sent him to the ropes. Murphy sent a nice uppercut to the face and ducked a left swing. Murphy was fighting carefully and had a shade the better of the round.

SPORTING NOTES

Outfielder Noojin is the latest player to be secured by Chattanooga from Cincinnati.

* * *

Scranton, Pa., will spend $12,000 for a new park outside the city limits, so that it may play Sunday ball without offending the morals of the pastors.

* * *

Kansas City has been dubbed the "base on balls team." The players are said to make more fuss over drawing a pass than they do over getting a hit.

* * *

Manager Bill Schwartz of Nashville is said to be so much like Napoleon Lajole in his movements that hundreds of fans have remarked upon the amazing likeness.

* * *

Dubuque, in the Three-I league, has decided that its ball team shall be called the "Hustlers." Something so unusual and distinctive in the name, you know, that it caught on at once.

* * *

In a game between Toledo and Kansas City recently ten pitchers were used, each team putting five in the game. The final score was 17 to 13. Must have been all due to the cork center ball.

* * *

In every game played in the Carolina association on May 1, a home run was hit with the bases full. The hits were made by Lavel of Spartanburg, O'Halloran at Winston-Salem and Coutts at Anderson.

* * *

In the Southwest Texas league recently in a game between Beeville and Laredo, the two teams made twenty-two runs, twenty-five hits for thirty-four bases and twenty errors. A local paper called it a "ghastly victory for Beeville."

* * *

Pitcher Ambrose Puttmann, formerly with the New York Americans and Louisville Colonels, has applied for a trial with the Atlanta Southern league club, and may be taken on to see if he has any of his old cunning.

* * *

Mike Kahoe, Washington scout, is back from looking over the Southern league teams, and says there isn't a promising player in Dixieland. Kahoe looked the second time at McBride, Birmingham outfielder, but found Connie Mack has a string on him.

* * *

Ed Abbatichio, the former Pirate, who refused to join the Louisville Colonels this spring, is already sorry that he put his earnings into a hotel in Pittsburg and wishes that he had stuck with the grand old game.

* * *

There are three twirlers holding berths with American league clubs this year by the name of Mitchell. Roy is with the St. Louis Browns, Charlie is working for the Detroit Tigers and Bill is one of the Naps' best prospects.

* * *

A lady over in Chicago got so excited during a ball game the other day that she threw her opera glasses into the crowd. She was unable to find them after the excitement, and now she's never going to another ball game. Of course, Comiskey is to blame.

* * *

Outfielder Noojin, sold by Cincinnati to Chattanooga, had never reported to the Reds. It is not known whether he was afraid they would make fun of his name or he took a look at Griffith's outfield lineup and that it would be no use. But Noojin with the Noogans should fit in nicely.

* * *

The fact that D. J. Mahoney, the newest addition to the Cincinnati Reds, comes from Holy Cross, seems to be a great recommendation, as Holy Cross has been turning out some great ball players. Sockalexis, Andy Coakley and Jack Barry are three Holy Cross performers who made the fans talk.

* * *

"Wait until July before passing on the merits of the Philadelphia trade," requests Manager Griffith. Yet most fans are making up their minds already that "Red" Doolin got the better of the deal. Didn't the fans give him an automobile, and hasn't he had his salary raised? All this has happened the first ten days of the season.

* * *

Amby McConnell and Harry Lord of the White Sox team are the Siamese twins in modern baseball. For five consecutive years these two players have been together on three different clubs, and by a peculiar freak of fate inexplainable, have batted first and second respectively on each team, McConnell leading off, followed by Lord.

* * *

The other members of the famous Detroit team of 1887 whose great record was recalled by the death of Jack Rowe were Pete Conway, Ned Hanlon, Ed Beatin, "Deacon" White, Cy Sutcliffe, Dan Brothers, George Gruber, Sam Thompson, Charlie Ganzel, "Lady" Baldwin, Charlie Getzein, Larry Twitchell, Hardie Richardson and Charlie Bennett.

* * *

Manager Charles Wagner of the Kalamazoo club of the Southern Michigan league has invented a protected spike, and a patent is now pending in Washington. The Wagner spike plate carries double spikes, the edges of which are decidedly sharp, but protected from possible injury to a player covering a base into which the runner slides.

* * *

Pitcher Wilhelm of Birmingham, in a recent extra-inning game with New Orleans, deliberately passed two men, with one on, filling the bases, to get Jack Kirke, who had not been able to get a ball past the box. He guessed right, for Kirke hit right into his hand for the sixth time up, but Wilhelm spoiled it all by making a bad throw and lost his game.

* * *

Most players enthusiastically approve Ban Johnson's stand that the season should start no earlier than May 1. They declare that the Southern trips, as now arranged, are spoiled and rendered useless by the exposure of the players to the winds and rains of April, and that the athletes, in most cases, are in poorer condition by May 1 than they were when they started South in March.

GOTCH WILL TRAIN HARD FOR RUSSIAN

Chicago, May 12.—"Satisfied in every particular" was the way Frank Gotch, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, spoke today of the clinching of what will be the greatest mat battle in the history of the game.

"Now that I have signed articles for Labor day with Hackenschmidt I will lose no time in beginning a careful routine of training. Nothing can make me believe the Russian Lion showed anything like his real ability in his matches this winter. Perhaps he wasn't in condition and perhaps he was playing to the home favorites. At any rate I am not going to take any chances."

Gotch faced a handful of Chicago wrestling promoters Wednesday night, and flatly refused to budge from the terms he had previously laid down. The promoters represented the Empire Athletic club of this city. Seeing the Humboldt farmer would not come over to them, they gave way and agreed to allow his demands. The articles were signed after a few moments of deliberation and $5,000 was posted on each side to protect the other party to the contract.

HALF HOLIDAY IS DISCUSSED

Butchers Talk Matter Over With Their Employers at Annual Banquet.

Plans for the shortening of the working hours of the butchers were talked over informally by the butchers and their employers at the banquet and meeting held by the local union, No. 12, at Rowley's hall last night.

The butchers claim that they are working sixty-nine hours each week and several made short talks in which they advocated an early closing hour on Saturdays. The employers, who were present at the meeting, did not seem to favor an early closing hour on Saturdays, but many of them were willing to give the men a half holiday on some other day during the week.

B. J. Toben, proprietor of one of the Superior street shops, stated to the men that he would be willing to give his men a half holiday on Thursday of each week, but that it could not, in his opinion, be worked out on Saturday as that is always the biggest day of the week. Others seemed to favor this plan but it was not definitely settled upon. J. A. Grochowski, Walter Van Orton and John Huber were among those to speak on the need of a half holiday.

After the banquet, which was most successful in every way, the business meeting was held. Louis Schneider acted as chairman. Mayor Cullum was present and delivered a short address.

Richard Jones, president of the trades assembly, gave an address on "Unionism." John D. Chubbick, special organizer for the State Federation of Labor, also gave a short talk.

The annual banquet was one of the most successful ever held by the local butchers.

ANOTHER KNOT IN WEIRD TANGLE

Curran-Postley Alliances Are Certainly Becoming Very Complicated.

New York, May 12.—Another knot was added to the tangled skein of Curran-Postley matrimonial alliances here Tuesday when Rev. Dr. Abbott E. Kittridge united in marriage Mrs. Marie Harmon Curran, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Harmon, and former wife of Guernsey Curran, to Walworth Pierce of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace T. Pierce.

The tangled Curran-Postley marriage and divorce web may be best explained by the following brief of the knots tied, untied and yet to be tied in the family:

Ross Ambler Curran married Elsie Postley.

Sterling Postley, her brother, married Ethel Cook.

Guernsey Curran, brother of Ross, married Marie Harmon.

Elsie Postley Curran divorced Ross Ambler Curran.

Marie Harmon Curran divorced Guernsey Curran.

Ross Ambler Curran married Ethel Cook Postley, divorced wife of his former wife's brother.

Marie Harmon Curran Tuesday married Walworth Pierce.

Guernsey Curran has announced his engagement to Elsie Postley Curran, divorced wife of his own brother.

Ross Ambler Curran and Elsie Postley Curran were divorced in Paris last November. Shortly afterward Mrs Ethel Cook Postley obtained a decree from Sterling Postley. In spite of this fact, when Mrs. Postley returned from Paris, where she was divorced, her ex-husband greeted her warmly at the pier in New York.

Guernsey Curran was divorced by Marie Harmon Curran Pierce at Patchogue, L. I., April 10 last.

Mrs. Guernsey Curran hastened to become Mrs. Walforth Pierce, and from Paris only a few days ago came the announcement of the wedding banns of Guernsey Curran and Mrs. Elsie Postley Curran, divorced wife of Guernsey's brother Ross.

Directly after the Pierce-Curran wedding Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce prepared to sail for Europe. They will spend two or three months motoring through different countries, and upon their return make their home in Boston.

WAGES INCREASED.

Trainmen of United States and Canada Get Raise of $37,000,000.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 12.—The wages of the trainmen in the United States and Canada have been increased $37,000,000 in a year, according to a report made to the international convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen by W. G. Lee, president of the brotherhood. This is the first statement to be made of the great wage increasing movement in 1910 and covered every section of the country.

President Lee's statement was one of the reports of grand lodge officers presented by Peter O'Hearn. It reviewed various matters occurring last year, including the trouble with the Pennsylvania railroad and advocated more safety devices. Attention also was called to the importance of workmen's compensation acts and the progress of legislation in various states was reviewed.

INVESTORS WERE EASY.

Took Kindly to Glowing Tales of United Wireless.

New York, May 12.—In the trial of officers of the United States Wireless Telegraph company, charged with the misuse of the mails, the government yesterday through expert accountants, traced the history of 714,534 shares of stock which the defendants are alleged to have issued to themselves.

The Pacific coast took kindly to the glowing descriptions of what United Wireless was about to do, John P. Feonsler, an accountant testified. Investors there, he said, had purchased 82,754 shares of preferred stock for $1,782,514.

Of this Colonel Christopher Columbus Wilson, the company's president, received $1,713,156, Feonsler said less commissions he paid George H. Parker, a western sales agent.

Albert T. Johnson, another accountant testified that of $793,375 received for the sale of 89,000 shares of treasury stock, $690,920 had gone for selling commissions. The net loss of the company's operation of its various stations, he said, was $176,540, in three years.

BACK FROM CONVENTION

Duluth Music Teachers Return From State Meeting in Minneapolis.

Teachers May Be Forced to Take Examinations in Future.

Miss Mabel Fulton and Gustave Flaaten, who returned today from Minneapolis where they attended the annual Minnesota State Music Teachers' convention, which was held there this week, are both enthusiastic over the success of the convention. They say it is one of the best and most interesting conventions ever held by the organization and that a great deal of interest in the association was aroused through the meetings.

The addresses were of exceptional merit they say, and the social gatherings of the most delightful nature.

"The amendments to the constitution which was proposed," said Miss Fulton, "were the most important matters which came up. In these amendments it is proposed to work the basis of the association down to certain fixed rules and standards and musicians will probably be required to pass certain examinations in order to get into the association. These matters were left with a committee to be worked out and presented at the next annual convention which will be held in St. Paul. It will probably be passed then."

Miss Fulton was appointed to assist on the reception committee during the convention, and the entertainments given for the delegates were of the highest order.

A departure from the regular program which added much to the enjoyment of the program, and which did much to foster a freer spirit, was a program which followed the buffet dinner given Tuesday evening, of which a Minneapolis paper wrote: "After a buffet supper tendered by the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, the musicians unbent and frolicked. Sundry otherwise grave and dignified persons, arrayed in fantastic garbs, appeared and did amazing stunts, with a German band, led by Herr Hal Woodroughouse; a lecture recital on 'Modern Tin-Panniness in Music,' by Herr Storrski; Signor Blissini at the piano gave some specialties straight from Scandinavia, and last the Choir Unspeakable, all of which left the assemblage in rare good humor."

MILITARY WILL NOT INTERFERE

All Kinds of Supplies Can Be Cleared By El Paso Custom House.

Washington, May 12.—After the cabinet meeting today, Col. Steever in El Paso, Tex., was instructed by the secretary of war to permit all regular shipments passing the customs house to enter Juarez. This means that the military will not interfere with any supplies cleared by the customs house, whether they be arms, ammunition or food.

DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE BIG MEETING

Committee to Meet in St. Paul Saturday to Make Final Arrangements.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Democrats from different parts of the state will gather in St. Paul tomorrow afternoon to put on the finishing touches to the arrangements for the big love feast on June 1. Minnesota Democrats will be hosts of Northwestern Democrats, and it is planned to give the representatives of the party a rousing reception. At this meeting the various committees will be selected and other details of the big function arranged.

While the affair is arranged chiefly to celebrate the successes of the Democrats in recent state and national elections, something may be gained in bringing together the factions in Minnesota Democracy. Under the leadership of P. B. Lynch, national Democratic committeeman and chairman pro tem of the state central committee, it is believed that all soreness resulting from the last campaign will be healed.

Miners in Federation.

Washington, May 12.—The Western Federation of Miners has been granted full affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. News of the issuance of a charter was made public by the headquarters of the latter organization today.

STORM-BOUND MARINER MADE THE WRONG HARBOR

It was a dark and stormy night and the wild winds blew up a choppy sea.

A young man labored up Second avenue west. The sea was running wildly and the breakers were splashing disconcertedly. They were some breakers, take it from us.

Being assured by a passerby that the Y. M. C. A. haven of refuge was in the vicinity, the craft put his nose into the wind and made slow but steady headway. The course was winding and tortuous. Although three sheets in the wind the helmsman held hard a'lee, whatever that is, and when a big building loomed up on the corner of Second avenue and Second street the craft threw the rudder hard over, reefed in the sails, and swept into port.

The lobby of the Y. W. C. A. did not seem familiar but the mariner reckoned that the log book of other trips might have been on the blink. In such a cataclysm of the elemts, too, it was not improbable that some of the fixed stars had been blown out of their positions. It was a bad night on which to steer a steady course on the high seas.

Storm battered, the mariner paused to take soundings and get his bearings. In one corner he noticed two girls giggling while back of the secretary's desk he dimly glimpsed a form in petticoats. "Towel rack gosh new secretarish," mumbled the mariner as he seized the newel post and held it firmly down. One flight and then three were essayed and on the fourth floor the mariner paused, wondering at muffled screams and the sound of swishing skirts as doors closed noisily.

Then the mariner ran into a baffling mystery. Steering into all corners and cruising up and down the halls he made the horrendous discovery that somebody had swiped the stairway leading to the fifth floor. And he had yet to go to the fifth floor. Somebody came up the stairs and he glimpsed another skirt. The monotony palled on him. He longed for a pair of trousers or some shirt sleeves. Putting his hand to his brow he peered into the vague distances but all he saw was a red light over the fire escape. It seemed in the opposite direction from where it ought to be.

"Turnsh around," he exclaimed blithely. It was simple. He had ascended to the first floor. The fifth must be five flights the other way. The fancy that he was really walking on his head but didn't know it tickled him. He descended merrily to the lobby. Everything seemed as it should be except that all sorts of descriptions of hair bobbed at him from behind corners. He became alarmed. He had never had such symptoms before and then somebody had made off with the fifth floor. He fled into the night and made his way to the Y. M. C. A., where his friend, whose bed he sought for the night, roomed.

MORE ROADS FILE SUITS

Six Others Want the Benefit of Decision on Rate Cases.

Action Merely Formal to Allow Them to Enjoy Final Decision.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of the findings of Judge Sanborn in the now famous Minnesota rate cases, stockholders of six more roads served notice on the state this morning that they, too, would begin action to prevent their officers and the state officials from enforcing the rate enjoined in the other suits. For the first time in the history of the state, the gorernor is made a defendant in cases involving the regulation of railroad rates. With him, Attorney General Simpson and members of the railroad and warehouse commission are included.

The action today, while only formal in procedure, places the railway systems of the state in a position to enjoy—if enjoyment is to be had—the rulings of the United States supreme court, when decision by that body is rendered. The Chicago & Northwestern, Omaha, St. Paul, Rock Island, Great Western annd Minnesota & International railways are the roads that today brought action. Notice was served on the state officials that they would apply to the United States circuit court at 10 o'clock May 19, for an injunction to restrain the enforcement of rates promulgated by the railroad and warehouse commission. Subpoenas were also issued by the Minnesota & International railway company and the Big Forks & International railway company, on the officials, for individual cases to be instituted by them.

The law firm of How, Butler & Mitchell appear as attorney for all the roads except the Great Western. Judge C. W. Bunn is included as an attorney in the Minnesota & International case, and Stiles W. Burr is given as attorney for the Great Western.

"These suits are mere formal procedures," Attorney General Simpson said, "and their filing has been anticipated. They will not have to be tried as the old rate cases were, and the decision in the others will apply in these."

As a stockholder in the Chicago & Northwestern line, Crawford Livingston institutes the suit for that road. George S. Brewster appears as the complainant in the Omaha suit; William Woodward in the St. Paul suit; John J. Carle in the Rock Island suit, and John A. Humbird in the Great Western. The Minnesota & International case is directed against state officials only—officers of the road not being included.

OPPOSES RECIPROCITY.

Minnesota Farmer Addresses the Senate Committee.

Washington, May 12.—Canadian reciprocity would cost the farmers of the Northwest $40,000,000 annually, according to A. H. Wilkinson, a Minnesota farmer who addressed the senate committee today. The price of United States farm products would shrink that much, he declared. A vital grievance of the farmers, the speaker said, was that they were not consulted as to how they would be affected by the proposed reciprocity.

"Do you believe that a trade agreement would have been entered into that would have injured the steel trust or the shoe industry $40,000,000 a year without consulting them?" he inquired.

John R. Morley, for the Minnesota dairymen, and Thomas J. Meighen, T. B. Currier, A. S. Rustadd, I. Y. Winning and O. M. Larson, Minnesota farmers, opposed the bill.

DEMURRERS OF CHICAGO PACKERS ARE OVERRULED.

Chicago, May 12.—The demurrers of the Chicago packers in the "beef trust" case were overruled today by Judge Carpenter in the United States district court.

In his ruling, Judge Carpenter declared that the Sherman anti-trust law, which had been attacked by the packers, is constitutional. He also held that the indictment charging J. Ogden Armour and other packers with violating its provisions is valid.

REJECTED SUITOR KILLS HIS SUCCESSFUL RIVAL.

Brownsville, Pa., May 12.—Mosi Fillangan, a rejected suitor for the hand of Miss Santi Petioni, is charged with firing a shot which killed John Bosso, a successful rival, and slightly wounding the girl, at Dearth last night. Fillangan, it is alleged, fired at a silhouette of his victims in fond embrace on the window blind. Fillangan escaped after the shooting.

THIS SEASON'S HABERDASHERY

What the Stores Are Showing for Men's Furnishings.

FEW men realize the amount of forethought and consideration that is expended by the haberdashery designers each season to put nothing in their hands that will sound an inharmonious note in their entire ensemble appearance. Your haberdashery designer first informs himself as to what are the decreed colors and patterns in your clothing for the season. If he finds it is to be a brown season or a gray season, he follows along the lines of making your cravat, shirts, hose and gloves harmonize or contrast in good taste as to color scheme. Or if the edicts ordain that plaids or checks or stripes are the thing, he designs your cravat or shirt so that, even if you are unschooled as to what goes best with the predominant pattern effect, he regulates his productions so that the good shops have nothing to offer you except what you can wear in perfect accord with artistic effect.

You probably have never realized this, nevertheless it is true, and if you but go to the competent shops you will find that the clever salesman will size up your garments and offer you the things that blend so that your refinement and good taste in dress is assured.

But why not know these things yourself as an additional safeguard? Why not be as as sure from your own knowledge that you are right as your lady is about her fixings? For instance:

Neckwear.

At the present time it can hardly be said that any one color will predominate, but it is assured that browns are going to have a prominent position in the color scheme of the season, and not at all unlikely the most prominent place. Next to these come the black and white combinations and then the grays. Then there will be a bewildering array of what are called the "off shades," such as mauve, wisteria, burgundy and dozens of such never tones. Panel and striped effects are the pattern notes where patterns are at all employed. We make this reservation, as there is a strong tendency in favor of plain effects for this season. Then there are cross bars, Scotch plaids and checks to be considered, for they are well placed in the edicts. Narrow stripes are preferred over the wider varieties, as the shapes of the spring ties adapt themselves better to the narrow effects, for the width of the majority of ties will be such as fit comfortably with the close-fitting collar.

Many of the high-class furnishers show some very attractive lines of Persian brocades and diagonal stripe effects. In the brocaded lines the floral and vine patterns are beautiful. Among the higher grade cravats the knit varieties are exceptionally handsome and these ties are stronger than ever with the man who is willing to indulge himself with the expenditure of the price that real good effects command. The cheaper grades of knit ties are passe, as it has been found impossible to put good quality or distinctive patterning in a knit tie to sell at less than $2, and for those that are really smart you must pay from $3 to $5. The shaped ties that will be most in demand this season are the four-in-hands that run from one and three-quarters to two inches in width. A promising novelty of the season is a combination set consisting of a panel striped four-in-hand with a soft outing collar to match.

Shirts and Collars.

An inspection of the patterns shown for spring reveals a great variety of stripes and bars. Some of these have a skip stitch, or broken instead of a solid effect. Blue and white, green and white, helio and white and gray and white stripes are shown most generally. Black and white has also an exceptionally good place in the decrees. Raised self stripes of the hairline type, and wider, are also considered good style. Stripes form the chief make-up of this spring's styles, the stripes being not only in solids but also in the broken varieties. The wide striped effects on fancy grounds are very fashionable, and raised effects in stripes on the cord variety are also in vogue. Cluster stripes are shown in many of the high priced grades. The styles which are the most popular in the pleated shirts are those with white grounds and fancy colored stripes. French flannel shirts will be even more popular than last season, when they came very strong during the outing days. The majority of these have French cuffs and soft collars detached. There will be more collar novelties launched this season than has been our fortune for some time. There will be soft negligee collars of various kinds of materials and a profusion of patterned and color effects. The close-fitting starched collar will, of course, be the leader, and some wing effects are making strong bid for popularity, but look out during the mid-summer months for a prominence of the patterned soft collar, for few smart dressers will resist the temptation to make their necks comfortable and dressy where such excellence of opportunity is offered.

Gloves and Belts.

In gloves, the chamois and gray suede will be the two most popular styles, and in belts all styles of neat, quiet effects in black, brown and grays are safest and in best taste. There are also a number of green novelties shown, but their destiny is speculative. The narrow tubular belt promises to be the feature of the season, and the plain black buckle the preferred trimming.

Jewelry.

In cuff links, plain, oval-shaped styles with flat tops and monograms cut into them are as fashionable as ever. Semi-precious stones in odd shapes and arrangements are preferred as jeweled decorations with the most refined dressers. The cravat pin is well chosen if matched with the links in jewel treatment, this tasty tendency even extending to studs when worn with the stiff bosom shirts. Pobs for the time being have lost popularity, for during the waistcoat period your fashionable dresser wears a light gold chain stretched across his vest with his watch in one upper vest pocket and his knife or match safe in the other, to hold the chain taut. During the outing days when the waistcoat is discarded, the lapel button chain is the thing.

Hosiery.

There is nothing of great novelty to be chronicled in the hosiery fashions. The hose are best chosen when matched with the cravat, so what has been said regarding the fashionable colors for ties also goes for hosiery. Modest patterns and quiet colors are noted in the popular-priced lines and in the silk or lisle goods the solid colors or the plain with quiet contrasting or self-clocks or figures are the preferred effects. In the finest hosiery goods the accordion effects are splendid, and if these are matched in scheme with the knitted cravat the effect is exquisite.

Waistcoats.

The waistcoat this spring will assume a prominent place in the scheme of man's dress. For several years, since coats were worn buttoned up, the waistcoat has taken a secondary place, but more of it will be seen this season and more attention will be paid to it. With most coats, especially the sack and the business cutaway, the waistcoat will be cut unusually high, with a small opening, and will show at least an inch, and frequently considerably more, above the opening of the coat, even when the latter is closed to the top button. The favored design will be without a collar, and the opening will be edged with a white strip or demi-vest.

From the prominence given to the waistcoat, it is extremely probable that the fancy waistcoat will begin to return to some extent to its old popularity, though this cannot be foreseen, and, if it does come, it will be one of the developments of the season.

HERE ARE SOME REAL GIANTS.

Tid Bits: The distinction of being the tallest man in the British army belongs to Private H. Barter, who has just joined the First Batallion Grenadier guards. Barter, who is only 18 years of age, stands 6 feet 8¼ inches in his stockings and is still growing. Barter thus beats Major Oswald Ames, of the Second Life Guards, who reaches the height of 6 feet 7¼ inches, and who formerly had the record for the British army by ¾ inch.

They are both dwarfs, however, compared with Loushkin, the Russian giant, was no less than 8 feet 5 inches in height, and who at one time was a drum major of the Imperial regiment of the Russian Guards, and served in the wars of Circassia with such distinction as to obtain three medals. A model of Loushkin was exhibited for a number of years at Mme. Tussaud's exhibition.

Mention of Machnow recalls Miss Mariedl, the Tyrolese giantess, who appeared at the Hippodrome in 1907, and who stood 8 feet 3 inches high. She was 23 years of age, and her physical attractions were such that, while appearing at the Hippodrome, she received a proposal of marriage from a Mr. Darral, the son of a wealthy Australian farmer, who stood no less than 8 feet 8 inches high in his boots, and was broad in proportion. Mr. Darral was reported to have two sisters in Australia each of whom was 7 feet 6 inches in height, while his father, one of the tallest men in Australia, stood 8 feet 3 inches in his socks.

Another giant whom London had an opportunity of seeing a few years ago was Constantin the Great, a giant standing 8 feet 1 inch in his stockings, with a chest girth of 63 inches. "Nineteen years of age, and still growing" was the remarkable information supplied to the writer regarding Constantin, who, to satisfy the needs of the inner man, partook of five or six meals a day on an average, consisting chiefly of stewed fruit, apples, prunes and milk, except at lunch time, when the menu consisted of about one and one half pounds of roast meat and a couple of pints of beer.

A few years ago the American giant, Lewis Wilkins, who stood 8 feet 2 inches in height, went 66 inches round the chest, weighed 26 stone, wore 21-inch collars and could span two octaves on the piano, was to be seen in London, while in 1907 Marie Fassnauer, who stood 8 feet high, arrived in the metropolis. Chang, the Chinese giant who ended his days at Bournemouth not many years ago, was a man of enormous size, standing over 8 feet in his socks and turning the scale at 26 stone.

A KENTUCKY MAIL CARRIER'S ADVENTURE.

Elizabethtown News: One of the greatest adventures made by Frank Forbes, the Cub Run mail carrier, was with a consignment of pills. Charlie Richardson, the postmaster, got a large supply of pills directed to people on Frank's route. There were 25,000 pills, which required an extra mail sack to hold them.

Going over a rough place in the road his horse heard the pills rattling in the boxes, took fright and ran a long distance. The people along the line were apprehensive that Frank was in danger of great bodily injury. Paul Revere never made so fast a run. The faithful horse finally fell from exhaustion. Frank never moved in his saddle and never lost a pill.

THE ROMPS.

English Lady's Pictorial: Descriptive terms for entertainments grow in number and begin to create confusion rather than definiteness in the minds of guests. There are dinner dances, dance dinners, theater dinners, "parties" diversified in endless number and becoming confounded with "at homes" and more formal functions. Some of these innovations are useful, but others have lost any significance they may ever have possessed. It is impossible to understand why the "girl and boy dance" survives. It has long become anomalous; it rather undermines dignity, and it leads to invidious comparisons. But, worst of all, it justifies the "romps," which, we have lately been told, "would have shocked our fathers and mothers," and would be "sternly suppressed at a dance in the servants' hall."

MEN'S NEW HAT STYLES

THERE should be a strong bond of sympathy between those whose vocation it is to evolve new hat styles for men for each season, and those who have to chronicle the changes. Inasmuch as both are sadly put to it by the meager limitations that the subject offers. We must have new styles in headwear for men each season just as we must have new fashions for women, otherwise some of you provident men would dig up last seasons' chapeau, spend a half a dollar or so to get it rejuvenated and cheat the hatter out of his all too modest profit. It is to counteract this contingency that something has to be done to draw down that crown a little lower than it was last season or pull those brims out a little further. Anything to make last fall's hat look passe and prevent you from "getting away" with such atrocious economies. Russell Sage's great boast was that he saved $3 or $4 a year by buying his hats at the end of the season when they were almost giving them away, and putting the hat carefully away for the next year. But Russell was never finicky about being right in style, so your hatter had no chance with him—but for you—young man—who demand just the correct "kelly" of the season, the proportions and contours have to show change to save you from any temptation to make "last year's do."

And "believe us," it is some task, because for the last fifty years men have never stood for any radical changes in either shape, fabric or color in their hats, which makes the scope for change a mighty perplexing problem. This spring, they tell us, your crown must be lower and brim wider, and as the limitations bring the proportions down to fractional inches you must not trespass this season beyond the boundaries. The bowlers or derby hat crowns must not—in peril of ostracism—be more than 5¾ inches high or lower than 4¾ inches, and the brims must be at the narrowest 2 inches and the extreme in width 2¾. Can you imagine anyone having the temerity to tell your wife or your sister that her headwear must keep within a range of a half inch in any proportion and that she has to stick to two or three materials and at most a half dozen colors? That is what we men are up against. And our brims must be flat with only a slight curve from front to back, and only one color is considered good form this season, and that is somber black.

In the soft hats we are given a trifle more latitude, for we may wear either Alpines or Telescopes, and we can twist the brims almost any way we choose according to our inclination for conservatism or dash. The older men will wear a high full crown in these hats and the fashionable textures are mixed grays and brownish grays.

The young men will, for the most part, wear the pencil curl telescopes in colors of pearl, smoke, steel and tans. Then there will be a lot of hybrid colored and patterned cloth hats worn, especially for traveling, and these are all of the gray and brown tones, or combinations of these shades.

Caps are becoming more and more popular each year, and swagger young fellows take to them kindly because they offer great opportunity for a touch of smart color and pattern effect that hitherto has been denied men above the chin.

In the hard straw hats the sennits and split straws are the things, with the former having a slight preference. These hats will have a very square appearance in that the width of the brims and the height of the crowns are about equal. The dimensions quoted are 2¾x2¾, 2⅝x2⅝ and 2½x2¾. In the soft straws the Milan and Mackinaw braids are favored, these in the pencil curl effect.

A comparatively new hat is bidding for favor with so much response that the Panamas are being crowded into the background. This hat is called the Bankok. It is very light, therefore a very comfortable hat for the hot summer months. These hats come from Japan and are even lighter in weight than the Panamas, though not lighter in cost. They are more economical, however, in that they are very easily cleaned and preserved.

POLITICS.

Life: Politics is the art of separating one set of politicians from the public treasury and installing another set without disturbing the status quo of the public.

The best thing about politics is the opportunity it affords otherwise modest, grasping and commonplace individuals to come forward and proclaim their safeness, sanity and resnectability, their love of the people, their penetrating insight into public affairs, their lifelong adherence to the broad principles of liberty, justice, equity and so forth.

Hardly less important is the opportunity it affords the plain man to show how much noise he can make over a matter he doesn't understand, to exercise his prerogative by kicking out Tammany and putting in something else just as bad, to take a couple of days off from business and congratulate himself that if everybody was as patriotic as he the price of everything would be low except what he sells himself.

There is also that beautiful opportunity for the magnate, in a kindly, but firm, way, to urge everybody to do his duty, meaning to leave him and his children and his children's children in control of all those commodities which we need in daily use.

VIRGINIA IS TO DO OWN BUILDING

Bids for Repairing Fire Hall Too High—Auto Truck Is Bought.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bids submitted to the police and fire commission for the remodeling of Fire Hall No. 1 were rejected and it is the intention of the commission to have the work done by day labor, it being claimed that by so doing several hundred dollars will be saved. Concrete floors will be placed in the hall and a fire hall tower erected to be used in drying hose. The bids received for this work were as follows:

H. L. Bartlett company, $8 per cubic yard for concrete floor, or $2 per square yard for asphalt floor.

James Sampson, for erecting fire hall tower and concrete floor, $3,700.15.

Andrew Grande, same contract, $2,-895.

Buy Auto Fire Truck.

The Waterous Engine Works company of St. Paul, was awarded the contract to furnish an automobile fire truck at $5,500. The acquisition of this truck with a capacity of 101-horse power, will obviate the necessity of erecting and maintaining additional north and south side fire halls for a long time to come, placing the department in shape to make quick time to any part of the city.

With its present equipment and apparatus the department is in good shape to cope with most any ordinary fire, but the city is growing so rapidly that additional apparatus is made necessary. The department is one of the best equipped in the state and with the addition of the auto truck, which is to be delivered by Aug. 1, will place it among the best in the country.

DEER BREAK FROM PARK IN VIRGINIA

One of Animals Put Up Fight Before Being Returned to the Inclosure.

Virginia, Minn., May 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the past week several animals and birds have been added to the zoo at Olcott park. A pair of raccoons, one pair of silver pheasants, one coti-mundi, or Abyssinian bear, one owl and two pairs of ringdoves have been added. These, in addition to the two elk and the animals and birds that have been at the park for the past several months, make a very interesting collection. Other additions to the zoo will be made during the summer.

Park Supt. Arthur Beischold and a crew of men were given a merry time of it yesterday morning when the three deer at the zoo broke from their holdings and escaped. Two of them remained in the park and were easily taken, but the third got out of the park and wandered around the Alpena mine location for several hours before being caught.

Deer Puts Up Fight.

The fun started when the men attempted to lead the deer back to the park. It fought and struggled to escape and during the fracas one of the men was quite badly injured by being struck on the leg with the deer's feet.

The 3,000 trees recently ordered by the park board from Lake City have arrived and are being set out at the parks and upon the boulevards of the streets and avenues of the city. When the work of setting out these trees is completed and the trees begin to leaf out, they will add much to the natural beauty of the city.

Work on the new park in the southern part of the city will begin soon. At this place a playground and baseball grounds will be constructed for the use of the children, and the park will otherwise be made comfortable and beautiful for the pleasure of the public.

Finish Good Road Job.

A splendid job has been completed on the other end of the Grand Rapids-Bovey road by County Commissioner Andy Neldon and Art Mitchell. After the winter's use of the highway, it had been left in more or less bad shape, with sticks and stones and bumps, etc., on the roadway. The men raked off the small stones and other obstructions and smoothed off the road until now it is as fine an automobile boulevard as is to be found anywhere.

Charles Brock of this city, who had the contract for the moving of the Cohasset school house from the site which will be occupied by a new $35,-000 building, completed his task Wednesday. The building has been moved to one corner of the school block, and after the new building is completed it will be sold to the highest bidder. Dr. M. M. Hursh of Cohasset, is thinking of buying the building and transforming it into a hospital for Cohasset.

The road beyond that point is to be graveled by the county, it being on the line of the county road to Cohasset.

The recorder's salary was fixed at $400 per year. Village Attorney Price was instructed to draw up an ordinance regulating the speed of automobiles within the village limits.

The matter of buying land for use as a ball ground and park was discussed, but no action was taken.

Pennies Stolen From Rochester, Minn., Bank Years Ago, Unearthed.

Rochester, Minn., May 12.—Workmen engaged in excavating for an addition to the Ramsey block, unearthed a spot that was completely filled with pennies, believed to have been stolen from a local bank in 1866.

Investigation revealed the fact that the pennies had never been in circulation and bore the date of 1865.

In 1866 the First National bank safe was blown open by robbers and about $2,000 in gold and other money taken. Among the booty were a number of sacks of pennies, which the robbers probably buried in the alley back of the bank.

Assurance was given him that a large delegation from this city and Pennington county will attend the meeting of the development association in June at Duluth and that in all probability all of this corner of the state will send representatives.

MARKET UP; TRADE SMALL

Foreign Factors Bullish—Eastern Demand Strongly in Evidence.

Rain Needed in Southwest—Shorts Timorous—Cash Bull Factor.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 12.—Wheat advanced today, the bulge at the close being sharp after values had moved within a narrow plane in the early hours. May wheat gained ¾c, July ⅝c and September ½c. The screws were applied to shorts in May which was responsible for the predominance of strength in that delivery. Cash wheat was on a parity with July. Oats gained ¾c. The buying in oats in the leading markets was good. Reports from France said the oats crop has been seriously hurt and reports from Russia were unfavorable. Rye was unchanged and barley was not quoted. Durum wheat walked forward ½c for July.

Linseed was slightly higher. May went up 1c and July advanced similarly. September was unchanged. Cash was on a parity with May. Trading was light and featureless. There was no response to bids. Plata seed for May-June delivery at Antwerp was quoted at $2.209 a bushel, an advance of ½ franc per quarter since yesterday. Cables said that American crushers were bidding freely for Indian seed. Shipments to continental ports are getting larger and the premium for parcels afloat has been practically wiped out. Resellers of seed are holding their material more firmly.

Values declined slightly following the opening on account of profit taking from bull scalpers, cloudy weather in the Southwest and continued scattered moisture in the Northwest. On the reaction buying began that carried the market upward. Sentiment was generally bullish, chiefly because nothing succeeds like success and professionals have been impressed with the manner in which the bulls have put up wheat prices.

The firmness around noon was induced by the Modern Miller's report which was bullish. That publication said that winter wheat shows a poor condition in places affected by drouth last year and promises a small yield. The Kansas promise, said the Modern Miller, does not indicate more than 75,000,000 bu of wheat. Elsewhere conditions are favorable for an average yield.

Reports from Great Bend, Kan., to Dodge City said that wheat is making a fair stand. Recent rains have helped but there will be considerable loss in acreage. From Kinsley west through Ford county wheat is a failure. A good fall of rain, said a message, would make some wheat. Messages from Western Oklahoma said rain is needed and that if moisture does not come the wheat crop will be seriously curtailed.

Foreign reports are uniformly bullish and cables are higher. The foreign demand is good and some low grade Manitoba wheat was worked today for export but there was no activity in the better grades. Roumanian reports were unfavorable, damage to wheat from drouth being estimated at from 15 to 20 per cent. Recent rains were insufficient. Drouth reports are numerous from Southwestern Russia, but reserves are large and that country is offering wheat more freely. The tendency of the market is downward. Rains have fallen in Australia and have been of great benefit to the wheat. Australian shipments this week will be smaller than last week.

The cash situation in the Northwest became a factor for strength after the early weakness in the Northwestern markets. Very little wheat, was offered for sale. The Eastern demand showed a sudden spurt. Millers were buyers not only of spot wheat but of the July delivery. Flour sales, however, do not show much betterment. The leading milling interest has reduced prices in the face of an advancing wheat market in order to stimulate business. Duluth was a buyer at Minneapolis.

The May deal is still the leading speculative factor and indications point to higher prices for wheat, despite the bearishness of crop conditions. After the culmination of the May deal an enormous corpse must be liquidated. The cash situation differs widely from that existing two years ago in the Patten May deal. At that time cash wheat houses and shorts could bid almost any price without bringing out any wheat of consequence. Now each advance brings out an increasing quantity of wheat for sale not only from the interior, but from the competitive markets of Chicago.

A fair part of the short interest consists of hedge sales against cash holdings, which probably will be shipped to Chicago if prices are held around the present level. There is also a short speculative interest well financed which probably will be kept open until the last of the month. It is difficult to see where there is a short interest of sufficient size to make it worth while for the bull leaders to keep prices up and make a target of themselves.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market was very firm at the opening in sympathy with the sharp advance in American markets yesterday and values were ¾d to ⅞d higher. There was further good outside speculative support with offers nervous. Reports from Russia regarding the weather continue bullish and La Plata offers are firmly held with lighter Argentine shipments this week and firmer Australian offers with the continent still bidding freely for cargoes in all positions. There is a general tightening up of offers here due to the change in weather conditions in Southern Europe, following the opening the distant months advanced a further ¼d to ⅜d from the opening. Later and just before midday there was a reaction and prices declined from the high closing ½d. This decline was due to realizing on talk here of heavy Russian shipments this week which brought a smaller demand for Australian cargoes. At 1:30 p. m. the market was steady ½d to ¾d higher than yesterday. Corn: Opened ¼d higher in sympathy with America and the strength in wheat. Later the market was dull at the advance. Argentine shipments for the week, 2,480,000 bu, last week, 3,288,000 bu; last year, 1,312,000 bu. this week, nil, last week, nil, last year, 365,000 bu. Visible supply of wheat in chief ports, wheat now, 3,344,000 bu; last week, 3,568,000 bu; last year, 1,-840,000 bu. Corn now, 391,000 bu; last week, 196,000 bu; last year, 1,020,000. The wheat market is firm on the good foreign demand. Arrivals from the interior are fair with the quantity satisfactory. The corn market is firm with more buying with trade small. Arrivals from the interior are increasing with the quality showing improvement.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Talk of Heavy Russian Shipments Bears Down Wheat.

Chicago, May 12.—Talk of heavy Russian shipments to be made this week brought about a downturn here today in wheat. The bearish feeling was increased by Liverpool sending word of realizing sales and of a smaller demand for Australian cargoes. Reports were also received telling of excellent crop prospects in the Argentine. Bullish dispatches from Southeastern Europe where the weather continues hot and dry, served to give the market a firm tone at the outset, but later had an offset in the shape of abundant rains in Canada. Opening prices were the same as last night to ⅛@¼c up. July started at 89¼c to 89⅜c, a shade off to a shade advance, touched 89⅜c, and then fell to 88⅞@89c.

Optimistic crop reports from the Dakotas and Minnesota led to further weakness, bullish reports, however, to millers in regard to winter wheat southwest, causing a sharp rally. The close was firm with July 1@1⅛c higher at 90¼c.

With the weather generally favorable, corn showed a tendency to ease off. Sentiment was influenced too, by the backset in wheat. July opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 52⅜@52¾c, and for a considerable time kept within that range.

Selling by a large elevator company carried prices yet lower, but the market rebounded with wheat. The close was firm at 52¾@53c for July, a net gain of a shade.

Profit-taking on the part of longs made oats rather weak. July started a sixteenth cheaper to a like amount up at 33¾c to 33⅞c, and declined to 33½c.

Except May pork which was more easily obtainable than yesterday, the provision market had a tinge of strength due to an advance in hogs. First sales were at last night's level to 7½c higher, with July delivery $8.22½ to $8.25 for lard and $8.07½ to $8.10 for ribs. May pork declined 10c to $17.35.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Reactionary Tone Develops After Showing of Moderate Strength.

No Pressure to Sell and Business Slackens With Decline.

New York, May 12.—Quotations held steady at about the level of yesterday's close when trading was begun today on the stock exchange. Business was somewhat more active and a good inquiry for several of the railroad issues gave the market an appearance of strength. Western Maryland advanced 1, Louisville & Nashville ½ and Reading ⅝.

Small additions were made to the initial gains, particularly in the Eastern stocks, such as New York Central, Erie and Reading. The general movement, however, was of a commonplace character. Reading subsequently reacted a half and other stocks also shaded off. Evansville and Terre Haute and Detroit United Railways improved 2 points and Wells-Fargo Express 1¼.

A reactionary tone developed in the stock market this morning, after a showing of moderate strength in the first hour. Part of the gains made yesterday were cancelled, as were the small advances of today's early trading. There was no pressure to sell, however, and business fell off as prices declined. Bear traders were unwilling to increase their holdings at this time, in view of the uncertainty as to whether decisions in the anti-trust cases will be announced on Monday. Pennsylvania was conspicuously heavy, selling down to 121¼. Canadian Southern jumped 6 points on one transaction. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. Some disappointment was shown over the abandonment of yesterday's pronounced demonstration against the short interest, and small amounts of stocks were marketed here and there, driving Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel back to the lowest figures of the day.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 12.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of six points in sympathy with disappointing cables, but quickly rallied on a renewal of old crop bull support and covering which was partly inspired by expectations of bullish week end figures. May and August made new high records for the season on this advance, while July sold up to the highest point of yesterday, or to a net gain of about 4 points on old crop positions, while the new crop sold 5 to 6 points above the closing figures of last night. Weather conditions, however, were considered generally favorable, and after the first rush of covering the market turned easier under realizing and local selling with prices working off to about the closing figures of last night.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 15.90; middling gulf, 16.15; sales, 200 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: May, 15.66; June, 15.70; July, 15.77; August, 15.45; September, 13.70; October, 13.09; November, 12.99; December, 12.98; January, 12.96; March, 13.04.

THE HOMECROFT MOVEMENT STRIKES THE COURTHOUSE

It was poultry day at the courthouse.

From Orr, Minn., came a box of ducks for County Attorney John H. Norton, who being something of a farmer, is starting a produce garden down near the Brule river.

He talked farm so long and earnestly to a farmer from Orr, Minn., the other day that on arriving home the farmer packed a box with three full grown ducks and shipped them to Mr. Norton.

This morning amid many quacks, the expressman brought them to Mr. Norton's office and that gentleman being out of the building, he left them in care of a stenographer, who, being afraid of all wild animals, more particularly ducks, had them placed in a spare room where their quacks would be less noticeable.

They were a very noisy trio of ducks and if their language meant anything it meant that they wanted some water to paddle in and something to eat. Some of the clerks from the other offices came around and shared their luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Duck, but instead of being satisfied and keeping still, they insisted on showing their delight by throwing long and loud, but certainly not musical, quacks.

Finally, in some way, they broke out of the box in which they had made the journey from Orr. They were roaming around Mr. Norton's office and greeted him with many merry quacks when he returned. They will be sent to the Brule farm where their lusty throats will not disturb the county employes.

On the fifth floor on one of the windows a pigeon has made her nest and is caring for two youthful "squablets." The squablets are rather playful but old Mrs. Pigeon was not at all amiable when visited this morning. All the employes of the county are much interested in the family and a visit is paid them each day.

COURTHOUSE "CENTRAL" HAS REPUTATION FOR READY WIT

"Hello! Hello!"

"Is this the court house?"

"Yes."

"I'd like to talk to Mr. Halden."

"Busy just now."

"Oh, the devil."

"He hasn't an office in this building; call the Zenith Furnace company. He is fireman there."

For her ready and good natured wit, Miss Grace Coleman, handles the courthouse telephone business from the exchange in that building is rapidly acquiring a reputation among the lawyers and real estate dealers, who use the courthouse telephones frequently.

Many queer things happen in the course of a day and Miss Coleman has a way of making the impatient ones smile.

The telephone business at the courthouse has increased to at least twice the number of calls of a few months ago and because the telephones are busy a greater part of the time it is sometimes hard to get the party on the minute.

Everybody who has telephone business to do with the courthouse knows Miss Coleman and many impatient ones have learned courtesy from her ready wit and unfailing good nature.

RAILROADS

FULL RATE IMPOSSIBLE

Duluth-Twin City Lines Will Not Charge Three Cents.

Omaha's Large Wisconsin Mileage Will Cause a Reduction.

Through the passenger fare to the Twin Cities under the rate of 3 cents would be $4.50, when the Minnesota railroads place the old rates back in operation, it is very likely that the fare will not amount to more than $3.80 and very likely will not amount to over $3.60.

This cut in the full charge of 3 cents a mile is expected to result, in the event that the old fare is restored, through the fact that the Omaha railroad has 153 miles of its Twin City-Duluth road in the state of Wisconsin.

The distance from here to Superior is in Minnesota, and there is twenty miles of the road at the other end of the line in Minnesota. That would make the fare to St. Paul about $3.80, though it is probable that that the fare would be cut to $3.60 on the ticket through to the Twin Cities.

The very fact that the Omaha could not charge what the other roads would charge under the 3-cent fare, because the roads of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern lie in this state, will have the effect of making the other two Duluth-Twin City roads meet the competing rate.

If the Great Northern and Northern Pacific should fail to meet the rate made by the Omaha between here and the Twin Cities, one in the least acquainted with the ways of travel can easily see what would become of the passenger business of the two roads that maintained a higher rate.

One of the officials of the Northern Pacific today stated that the Northern Pacific would naturally meet the rate that was made by the Omaha. Nothing definite has been received here in regard to any action that may be taken by either the Great Northern or the Northern Pacific in the matter of putting in force the 3-cent rate, but in the event that it does, it will not be strictly speaking a 3-cent rate, but a combination between the present rate and the one that was in force formerly.

Many other similar instances will arise, where part of a competing line extends into Wisconsin, so that in any event the 3-cent fare will not cover the entire state.

The fact that the Duluth roads will not be able to return to the old full rate that existed in the days of the 3-cent fare between Duluth and the Twin Cities, serves to show the complications that will result should Minnesota roads charge a 3-cent fare, and the adjoining states enforce a rate a cent a mile lower.

Freight Crews Reduced.

A dispatch from Houghton says that the Copper Range railroad has reduced its main line freight crews by one-half, owing to the small volume of business handled, and the Mineral Range railroad is cutting expenses in other directions. The report that the Copper range train, operated jointly with Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul between Mass City and Calumet, would also be shortly pulled off is denied.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Announces Important Change of Time, Effective May 14.

Train No. 8—The Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York Special will leave Chicago at 10 a. m. No. 14—Night Express, at 9:30 p. m., to Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Pittsburgh, Washington, Mansfield, Newark, Columbus, Zanesville and Wheeling. No. 5—New York and Chicago Limited, will arrive Chicago at 9 a. m. Under this arrangement important connections will be made with trains of Western lines.

GOODS MAY NOT BE DISPLAYED ON SIDEWALK.

The police are starting to enforce the orders given out last week prohibiting the obstruction of the sidewalks. Those who have show cases over the building line or the persons who have been in the habit of keeping displays on the walks are being told to remove them.

Several days ago a store keeper rented a sidewalk privilege to a fruit vendor for $25 a month. The vendor erected his stand, but when he applied for the building permit it was refused. He was told that under no circumstances could he rent city property in that manner. The ordinance governing the situation is specific and it is stated that no violations will be tolerated.

FOOL TALK.

Chicago News: "I see," said the man who was putting in the window screens, "that Carl Morris has been signed up for a fight on July 4 with some dub from the East. The fellows who are backing Morris seem to have lots of confidence in him, but I believe he's a cheese. The fact that he is big and strong—"

"It does beat all," interrupted Mrs. Griggs, "how you men like to talk about prize fighters. My husband is always hiring men to come out here to do some chores, and half the time it's money wasted, and the men always want to talk to me about sporting matters instead of doing the work. There is an old superstition that women talk too much, but I'm sure they can't compete with men, and when women do talk they choose sensible subjects.

"I was at a club meeting yesterday and I was quite surprised at the papers read by some of the ladies. Mrs. Camperdown had prepared a splendid essay on the future of the Philippines under American government, and it impressed me deeply, although I've forgotten what the arguments in it were. Then Miss Kippershaw, who is rather elderly and wears her hair in funny little curls, read a paper on the proper management of the nursery, and all the women profited by it, I have no doubt. After the papers were read there was a general discussion and the ladies talked of things of real interest, but not a word was said about prize fighters.

"I don't think I ever heard of anything finer than Mrs. Tinklepaw's paper on the life and works of William Morris—"

"His name isn't William—it's Carl," remarked the man with the window screens, "if you'll pardon me for saying it, I think it's funny that women never can get sporting matters in their heads straight. The Oklahoma man may be a skate, but his first name isn't Willie, and it isn't a fair deal to give him such a name."

"The idea! I wasn't talking about an Oklahoma man at all, and I think you are very insolent to interrupt a lady when she's giving you useful information. I was speaking of William Morris, who is an Englishman, or at least was before he died, but I'm not sure that he's dead. He used to write beautiful poems and make tiles and translate things from the Icelandic language, or something like that, and Mrs. Tinklepaw explained how he formed a new taste in art.

"I don't know about his ring career, and I'm pretty sure that he never fought a battle in his life, and if he ever was in Oklahoma I never heard of it. But what I was trying to get at is that women occupy their minds with useful and helpful things, while men always are interested in foolish things, and their talk has no significance."

"Well, ma'am, it all depends on how you look at things. That English hatter may seem important to you, but he looks like a plugged nickel to me."

"Who in the world are you talking of? I didn't mention any English hatter. I spoke of William Morris."

"Well, you said he made tiles, didn't you?"

"Oh, mercy me! What's the use of talking to such a man? If you'd read something besides the pink newspapers you'd know that there are other tiles than the ones people wear on their heads. But you go ahead with those window screens and don't waste your time talking. My husband will be expected to pay you for the time you use up talking about prize fighters, and he's as crazy over sporting matters as the rest of the men.

"I wish he would hire, just for once, a man who would come to the house here and do his work without talking. Or, if a hired man must talk, it would be a relief if he would discuss something or somebody not connected with the prize ring. I could endure a man who would talk of Mozart or Richard Wagner—"

"You mean Hans Wagner," corrected the man who was putting in the window screens.

FISH FROM THE CLOUDS.

Campbelltown Courier: On Friday last a number of townspeople taking a walk on the slopes of Knockscalbert hill were surprised to see on the grass near Summerhill a large number of very small fishes, varying in length from one and one-half to two inches. The fish appeared to be the young of the herring and their presence on the hill in considerable numbers created much speculation.

In August, 1904, a shower of herring fry was experienced at the head of Longrow, but there was no doubt as to whence the miniature fish had come, for they fell from above on the hats and clothing of several men, and at the time a small black cloud of remarkable density was directly overhead.

The phenomenon of fish falling from the clouds is, says our contemporary, of more commmon occurrence than is generally supposed. It is undoubtedly due to some small fry of fishes having been lifted from the water and carried over dry land by what is popularly known as a waterspout.

Many cases are reported from abroad and they are common in India. Last year Caithness reported a shower of small fishes, which were identified as herring fry, and there was also a similar occurrence in Rosshire.

Frogs, insects and other living creatures have also been known to be thus transported through the air.

STATE OF SONORA IN IMMINENT DANGER OF CAPTURE BY REBELS

COMMANDANT OF FORT BLISS, NEAR EL PASO

COL. FRED C. SHARPE, Who Commands the Forces at Fort Bliss, Which Is a Little Over Three Miles Outside El Paso. At Present a Part of His Command Is Doing Patrol Duty Through the Town of El Paso Itself.

Garrison at Hermosillo Is Facing Most Critical Situation.

Unless Reinforcements Arrive It Is Believed It Must Fall.

Insurrectos at Juarez Are Busy Establishing New Government.

Magdalena, State of Sonora, Mex., May 13.—Unless reinforcements, hastening to his relief, arrive soon, Col. Pedro Ojeda, commanding the garrison of Hermosilla, consisting of about two hundred men, must face a most critical situation. Only the most desperate resistance can prevent the capture of Sonora and the largest city in Northwestern Mexico from falling into the hands of the insurrectos.

To add to the difficulties of his situation, the city is poorly fortified. There are no sourrounding trenches. To the southwest there is a hill at the base of which are the barracks, in which the garrison is quartered. Up the hill from the barracks is the penitentiary and beyond it the city waterworks. The hill is defended only by two Colt rapid fire guns.

If the hill is captured by the rebels the control of the water supply would fall into their hands.

As far as known the federal force nearest the city is the command of Gen. Lorenzo Torres, consisting of five troops of cavalry numbering about 500 men, last reported at La Colorado mining camp, about eighty miles to the southeast of Hermosillo. It is probable that this command is now on the way to reinforce Ojeda.

The only other body of federals upon which he can rely is the force under Col. Diaz and Maj. Barron, which evacuated Agua Prieta and is making its way toward the capital on a special train. The progress of the train is greatly delayed by the necessity of rebuilding bridges and it is in constant danger of attack by the bands of rebels.

If both of these commands are suc-

LOSSES IN THE JUAREZ FIGHT

One Hundred Federals and Fifteen Insurrectos Are Killed.

Federal Wounded Given as 137; the Rebels Injured as Fifty.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—Something near definite figures of the casualties of the three days' fighting in Juarez this week have been reached by a careful checking of the burials and of the hospitals, both here and in El Paso, by Provisional Governor Abraham Gonzales. This includes not only the insurrectos and federals, but the volunteers who fought with the federals in Juarez and a number of citizens shot in the streets or in their own homes during the battle.

The insurrecto loss is reported at 15 killed and about 50 wounded. The federal loss is given at 100 killed and 137 wounded.

According to Governor Gonzales, eight-one bodies were picked up and buried after the fighting in the streets of Juarez had ceased. The federals themselves had buried about a dozen previous to the surrender. Since that time eight or ten bodies have been found in the little adobe buildings that served as temporary forts for small parties of federals and insurrectos during the gradual advance of the rebel forces into the city.

WALL FALLS ON TWENTY PERSONS

Part of Old Hunt Hotel in Chicago Tumbles to Street.

Chicago, May 13.—By the collapse of a portion of the front wall of the old Hunt hotel in Dearborn street, six persons were hurt today, one woman fatally. The building was being demolished to make room for the new home of the Hamilton club, and there had been a heavy wooden canopy erected to protect passers by.

About twenty people were under this shield when the top part of the wall above crashed down.

Three men and three women were knocked down senseless and buried under the wreckage. All were quickly rescued, and will recover except one, Mrs. Meta Belchor.

KILLS SELF AT TABLE.

Crosby, N. D., Man Swallows Poison While Eating Breakfast.

Crosby, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hans Engh, aged 39, selected breakfast table as a suitable place to commit suicide, using strychnine which he dropped into a cup of coffee and drinking it without warning to members of his family present. Financial troubles were responsible for the act.

TWO NORTH DAKOTANS INJURED BY BLAST.

Lamoure, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—John and William Gumpke, residing ten miles from Jude, were seriously injured by accidental blasting. The former may die. John Gumpke was tamping dirt about a charge of dynamite when he accidentally struck the charge exploding it.

EVIDENTLY A SUICIDE PACT

Companion of Late Dr. Latson Attempts to End Life With Gas.

New York, May 13.—As a sequel to the suicide two days ago of Dr. T. R. C. Latson, physician and magazine writer, Miss Alta Marhovka, his student and aide, attempted to kill herself in her apartments early today. She was taken unconscious from a gas-filled room to a nearby hospital, where it was said that her recovery is unlikely.

The police declare that the young woman's act was undoubtedly part of a suicide pact with her friend and teacher.

The girl told the police yesterday of the studies which she and the doctor had pursued in Indian mysticism, Eastern theosophy and mystic psychology, declaring hysterically that to neither of them did suicide seem a crime.

"Only his body is dead," she said; "his astral body still lives and my soul beats in unison with his. We shall meet again ere long!"

POPULAR PASTOR LEAVES HIS HOME

Rev. Walter E. Price of McKeesport, Pa., Missing; Wife Finds Love Letters.

McKeesport, Pa., May 13.—The Rev. Dr. Walter E. Price, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the most fashionable in the city, is missing. His wife, it is alleged, discovered love letters in his pockets from women of his flock, some of them Sunday school teachers, and laid them before the board of elders. One of the letter read: "Don't spurn my love. Don't desert me now. Keep your promises."

It was announced on Sunday, April 30, that Price had been given a leave of absence. Officials of the church said they did not believe he would return.

The elders, according to W. W. Hunter, president of the board of trustees, received a petition from some of the members, April 25, asking that Price be required to resign.

At the same time, it is said, the letters from the women members of the congregation were presented. President Hunter said that on April 28 the trustees were asked to sign papers to depose Price, and all complied. This action was to be announced to the congregation on the following Sunday, but Price called a sesion of the board of elders the night previous and handed in his resignation.

President Hunter said: "When his wife asked that we act and gave us those letters, purporting to come from women members of the congregation, we just had to ask him to leave. I saw some of the papers and heard some of the evidence, and it was awful."

The missing parson is about 45. He came to McKeesport two years ago.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK TWICE

Taft Leaves Washington on Short Trip to New York and Newark.

Will See New Secretary of War While in the Metropolis.

Washington, May 13.—President Taft left Washington for Newark and New York shortly after noon today, accompanied by Senator Briggs of New Jersey, Representative McCall of Massachusetts, Secretary Hilles and Maj. A. W. Butt.

The president is scheduled for two speeches tonight, one at the 150th anniversary banquet of St. John's lodge of Masons in Newark, the other in the conference on reform of the criminal law and procedure in New York. He will spend the night in the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft. Either tonight or tomorrow he expects to see his new secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson of New York.

Tomorrow morning the president is to leave New York for Harrisburg, Pa., and in the afternoon will address the tenth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. In Harrisburg he will be the guest of Representative Olmsted of Pennsylvania and will take dinner with Governor John Tener. He returns to Washington Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Taft left Washington early today for New York. She will accompany the president to Harrisburg and back to Washington.

REBELLION IN THE RANKS OF INSURRECTOS

Great Excitement Prevails About the Headquarters of President Madero.

Said Soldiers Demanded the Life of Federal General Navarro.

Provisional Ruler Ordered Under Arrest During the Trouble.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—Rebellion within the ranks of the Maderoist army this morning resulted in the declaring under arrest of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., provisional president, the demand and acceptance of the demand that Madero's cabinet resign, and for two hours threatening the destruction of the Juarez army as a concrete fighting force.

Excitement about the Madero headquarters was observed at about 11 o'clock. Gen. Orozco and other officers were seen in vehement discussion with Provisional President Madero, which gave rise to a report that the insurrecto had demanded the life of Gen. Navarro.

The latter is said to be in disfavor with many insurrectos for alleged acts of cruelty occurring in previous battles in Northern Mexico, particularly at Cierro Prieto, where Gen. Navarro is said to have ordered that the wounded be bayonetted.

EXPENSES OF STATE INCREASING FAST

Disbursements of Nine Months Exceed the Whole Preceding Year.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state of Minnesota has spent more money in the nine months and eleven days of the present fiscal year than in the whole preceding year, according to the books of State Treasurer Smith. The total disbursements from all funds in the state treasury during the fiscal year ended July 31, 1910, were $13,322,963. For the first nine months of the present fiscal year the disbursements were $12,954,-879 and from Aug. 1 to May 11 they were $13,461,751.

In other words, the state has been spending money at the rate of $1,079,-563 a month during the present fiscal year. If this rate is kept up until July 31 next the expenditures for the year will be $16,193,569, an increase of $3,000,000 over the preceding year.

The expenditures of the state have increased every year since the state was born, but this is the largest increase in any single year.

JOHN DIETZ FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE; MRS. DIETZ AND LESLIE ACQUITTED

LOREDO, MEX., IN HANDS OF THE REBELS

LOREDO AND THE RIO GRANDE. This Beautiful Little Town, Three Miles From Torreon, Is in the Hands of the Insurrectos, Under Pablo Lavin, and Has Been the Scene of Murder, Looting and Acts of Violence.

Sentenced to Pass Remainder of His Life in Prison at Waupun.

Prisoner Says He Expected Trust Would Get Him Sooner or Later.

Tells Judge That the State Has Done Him a Great Wrong.

Hayward, Wis., May 13.—John F. Dietz will spend the rest of his natural life at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Waupun for the murder in the first degree of Deputy Oscar Harp in the battle of Cameron Dam on Oct. 8 last.

The jury at 8:54 o'clock this morning brought in the following verdict:

"John Dietz, guilty of murder in the first degree.

"Hattie E. Dietz, his wife, not guilty of murder in the first degree.

"Leslie Dietz, not guilty of murder in the first degree."

The old smile with which "the old man" has always faced the things that have happened to him, did not desert him. He smiled as the judge read the verdict handed up by the foreman of the jury. He made no demonstration.

His name was the first read. As the words came out a frown came over the face of Mrs. Dietz and she glared at the jury.

Leslie took the staggering news with a sickly grin and waves of color swept across his face.

The announcement that the jury had arrived at a verdict was made at 8:45 o'clock. Judge Reid was immediately notified and Sheriff Fred Clark received a telephone message from the clerk of the court to bring John Dietz into the courtroom.

Mrs. Dietz had been with her husband through the night and Leslie had called this morning. The three defendants came to the courthouse walking side by side, accompanied by three special deputies.

On account of the unexpectedly early verdict, the court room was occupied only by the "stand-bys" who have followed every move in the trial from the beginning.

There was a moment's silence following the reading of the verdict and

ELEVATOR MAN IS REPORTED SHORT

L. J. Newett of Finley, N. D., Disappears and Books Show Shortage.

Finley, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald—An alleged shortage of several thousand dollars is claimed in the accounts of L. J. Newett, agent for the farmers' elevator here. He left April 4 on a leave of absence for ten days. He is known to have arrived in Moorhead on that date, but absolutely no trace of him has since been found. His long absence led to an investigation which disclosed the shortage. His heart-broken wife is preparing to return to her former home at Elbow Lake, Minn.

JAIL-BREAKERS CAUGHT.

Pair Who Got Away at Soo Have Been Retaken.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.) — Louis Pineau Jack Arnold, who escaped from the county jail Wednesday morning, were captured by deputies last night at Strongs, about thirty miles from here and are again locked up. Arnold was in bad shape from exposure and hunger.

Pineau is an escaped prisoner from Canada and will be returned to Montreal at the expiration of his term here.

MAY RETURN ALL INMATES

Of Reformatory Sent There From Red Wing Training School.

Arguments Made in Habeas Corpus Proceedings for Boy.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the theory that transferring boys from the state training school at Red Wing to the reformatory at St. Cloud is the infliction of a prison sentence without due conviction of crime, Attorney Frank Healy and Representative Ledyard of Minneapolis, argued habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Giddings of Anoka yesterday, which may result in the return of all former inmates of the Red Wing school to that institution, or their release outright. The matter is before Judge Giddings for decision and an opinion will probably be rendered next week.

The action was brought in the case of Raymond Lynch, a boy ordered to the training school Feb. 7, 1907, and transferred to the reformatory April 19, 1911, after many whippings had been administered.

Training School Not a Prison.

The Minnesota supreme court has held that the state training school is not a prison. "It is not a place of punishment," Justice Start said in an opinion handed down in 1898. "In the usual acceptance of the term, but a public industrial school where children who have made a wrong start in life are educated, trained and afforded an opportunity to become honest, self-reliant, industrious and useful citizens. The necessary restraint imposed upon them is not punitory, but parental in its nature."

On the other hand, it is claimed that the reformatory at St. Cloud is a prison, and while the courts have not thus directly construed it, they have prescribed that young men convicted of felony, shall be sentenced there for indeterminate periods, and furthermore have held that such conviction shall be sufficient grounds for divorce.

PREPARING TO LEAVE CABINET

Secretary of War Dickinson Is Closing Up His Administration.

Washington, May 13.—Secretary Dickinson was engaged today in closing out his administration of the war department, preparatory to his relinquishment of the office to Henry L. Stimson, defeated candidate for governor of New York in the recent campaign.

Mr. Dickinson said he did not know when his successor would qualify, but it is generally accepted that the change will occur during the first part of next week.

The retiring secretary was besieged today by officers of the army and officials of the war department who expressed their genuine regret at his departure.

LUMBER PLANT BURNS.

G. H. Wehrnberg's Mill Near Cumberland, Wis., Is Destroyed.

Cumberland, Wis., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire destroyed the sawmill, logs and lumber stock of G. H. Wehrnberg, seven miles southeast of this city, yesterday, entailing a total loss with no insurance. Mr. Wehrnberg will purchase another sawmill outfit.

New Food Inspector.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. J. Smesik of Lonsdale has been appointed food inspctor by G. J. Winkler, state dairy and food commissioner. He will work from the commissioner's office.

WILL EXTEND THE HEARINGS

Senate Committee Cannot Finish Reciprocity Matter This Week.

Washington, May 13.—All hope of the senate finance committee concluding this week its hearings on the Canadian reciprocity bill was abandoned today. So prolonged have been the arguments of the objecting farmers' representatives that Chairman Penrose was planning when the session of the committee began today, to extend the hearing for a few days. He intends however, to finish at the earliest moment possible without cutting off any who may desire to be heard.

The house having adjourned yesterday until next Tuesday, many members took advantage of the opportunity to go to their homes. The senate having adjourned until Monday there was very little legislative activity at the capitol.

There will be a fight on the statehood bill when it is called up Tuesday and Representative Flood, chairman of the committee on territories, expects the debate to continue for three or four days.

LETTER CHAIN IN ARNOLD CASE

Classmates of Missing Dorothy Devise New Plan to Locate Her.

New York, May 13.—Search for the missing Dorothy Arnold has taken a new turn.

The country is to be flooded with an endless chain of letters asking information concerning the young woman. Miss Arnold's classmates at Bryn Mawr are promoting this latest endeavor to obtain trace of her whereabouts, believing that she is alive.

Within the last week several of the young women who were graduated from Bryn Mawr with Miss Arnold held a meeting and decided to request each of the fifty-odd members of their class to address ten letters to friends directing attention sharply to the case of the missing girl and requesting their cooperation in the search that is being made for her.

No set form of letter was provided for. Classmates of Miss Arnold were merely requested to furnish a description of the girl and ask persons communicated with to notify members of the class or Miss Arnold's parents of any clew they might discover.

Approximately 500 letters were sent out. The recipient of every letter was requested to address ten additional letters to friends, in turn asking these ten persons to follow the plan for creating an endless chain of missives.

Miss Arnold's classmates hope that by this method interest will be stimulated in the search, which at present has practically been abandoned by the police and private detectives.

EXCEEDED TIME LIMIT

Fifty Seconds' Talk Cost Duluth High School Wallace Cup.

Local Students Score Most Points But Lose on Technicality.

Because Roger Lerch spoke fifty seconds too long, the Duluth Central high school team lost the Wallace cup last evening.

The oratorical and declamation contest was won by the Superior Central high school in the assembly hall of the Duluth high school.

Although the Superior high school won the decision of the judges, the Duluth orators gained the largest number of points only losing on an error in time, the judges claiming that Roger Lerch spoke about fifty seconds over the appointed time.

Lerch's oration was by far the best of the evening and if the unfortunate error had not been made the Duluth high school would undoubtedly have won the cup a second time.

The declamation by Julius Nolte was also of a high order and he undoubtedly contributed many points to Duluth's total.

The speakers on the winning side were Laura Cote and Fred Monaghan. Miss Cote's declamation was the second best number of the evening, she being second only to Roger Lerch.

In announcing the decision and awarding the cup, Dr. C. J. Wallace in speaking for the judges, said that the speeches of all the contestants were remarkably well delivered and it was very difficult for the judges to decide which team was the best.

The musical numbers of the program furnished by the students of the different schools in the contest, and were very well received by the large audience which witnessed the contest.

The program of the evening was as follows:

Duet—"Roses de Boheme" .....
Florence and Mabel Melin.
Orations.
"The Veteran Soldiers" .....
Fred Monaghan.
"The Death of Lafayette" .....
John Davis.
"The Wandering Jew" .....

RAIN

Last evening was beautiful, though chilly. The sky was clear, the moon shone down through fresh, clear air and one could almost forgive the weather man for sending low temperatures in May. The mercury dropped to 36 deg. during the night, and this morning was decidedly chilly. Rain is the cheerful prediction for tonight and tomorrow.

Fair, chilly weather also prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:33 and it will set at 7:34, giving fifteen hours and one minute of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Southwestern and Northwestern low pressures have consolidated into a disturbance now central over Utah, Wyoming and Southern Montana. During the last twenty-four hours this condition caused warmer weather throughout the Rocky mountains and Northwest, and showers also resulted in Missouri, Kansas, New Mexico, Southeastern Montana, Western Alberta, British Columbia, Washington and Oregon. The high pressure centered over Michigan has caused somewhat cooler temperature over the Southern and Eastern Lake region, Upper Ohio valley, St. Lawrence valley and Northern New England. At the Head of the Lakes the conditions favor occasional showers and a continuance of cool weather during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, May 13.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Sunday; rising temperature, frost in east and central portions tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Sunday, probably becoming unsettled Sunday night; rising temperature.

Minnesota — Increasing cloudiness with probably showers late tonight or Sunday; warmer in southeast portion tonight.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness with probably showers late tonight or Sunday; warmer tonight.

North and South Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Sunday; cooler in west portions Sunday.

Montana—Cloudy tonight with colder in west and north portions; Sunday generally fair with colder in southeast portion; frost in west portion tonight.

Upper lakes—Light variable winds, becoming moderate southeast and south; generally fair, except unsettled on Michigan Sunday.

JOHN DIETZ FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

then Judge Reid asked Mrs. Dietz and Leslie to stand up.

Mother and Son Discharged.

He informed them that they were discharged from allegation of the pending complaint.

The court then asked John Dietz to stand up. "Mr. Dietz," said the judge, "have you anything to say before sentence is passed?"

With a calm manner Dietz faced the judge.

"Do you suppose," he asked, looking straight at Judge Reid, "I haven't known that sooner or later the trust, because I is big and I am little, would kill me or put me out of the way? I have fought my fight and defended my home and family. I have done nothing wrong, and this conviction does not alter the fact. The trust has no creed, one law, one purpose. That is rule or ruin. They could not rule John Dietz. So they tried for six years to ruin him. This morning it looks as if they have got what they were after.

"I have done nothing wrong and the state has. And yet it is the state that sends me to jail. It is the state that has come in here, in a court of law, and told the jury I was a bad man, when I was not allowed and have never been allowed to tell what started this whole trouble.

"It is the state that waylaid my children, and shot into them, and took one away to jail, and put a bullet through the other—a young girl."

"I cannot see, Mr. Dietz, that that has anything to do with the killing of Oscar Harp," said Judge Reid.

The judge then sentenced Dietz to prison for life.

John Dietz made the usual motion for a new trial, although the motion probably has never been followed by an argument like the one heard this morning in the county courtroom. V. W. James, of Eau Claire, special attorney for the state, suggested to the convicted man that he get an attorney, draw up the motion in proper legal form, and ask the court for a ten days' stay in which to file the exception.

Dietz ignored the suggestion and plunged headlong into his denunciation of the "lumber trust." The court also advised Dietz to get an attorney. Judge Reid overruled the motion for a new trial, but gave Dietz ten days in which to file exceptions.

History of Cases.

The trouble between John F. Dietz and the lumber companies operating in Sawyer county, Wis., began in February, 1904, through Dietz's refusal to allow the companies to float logs over the Cameron dam on a quarter section bought by Mrs. Dietz, without paying him the toll he demanded.

In the ten principal attempts to capture him on various charges and legal processes, Oscar Harp, a deputy sheriff, was killed Oct. 8 last, several men were wounded, Myra Dietz was shot through the body, Clarence was wounded in the forehead and John Dietz was shot through the hand. In addition, the shooting of Bert Horel at Winter, Wis., by Dietz, Sept. 6 last, is more or less closely traceable to the original fracas.

The tenth armed effort to take Dietz was successful, and he became a prisoner of the law Oct. 8 last. He was charged with various offenses ranging from destruction of property and assault and battery, through the more serious accusation of assault with intent to kill, to murder in the first degree. Mrs. Dietz and Leslie were codefendants in the murder charge. They, Myra and Clarence and John Dietz are codefendants in other actions pending against the Dietz family.

STATE OF SONORA IN IMMINENT DANGER OF CAPTURE BY REBELS

cessful in reaching Hermosillo, the defending force will number about 1,200. The lowest estimate of the rebels mustering for the assault is 2,000 and as the surrounding country is in revolt the force which will confront the federals may be double that number.

Col. Ojeda took a conspicuous part in the federal success at Ures San Rafael and Sahuaripa.

Cananea in Danger.

Naco, Sonora, Mex., May 13.—All last night a score of automobiles sent from Arizona border points carried workmen and children out of Cananea in anticipation of a rebel attack on that camp.

An Associated Press correspondent, who made the 60-mile journey by motor car from Naco to Cananea, found the citizens of Cananea calm and the large number of Americans there prepared for any eventuality. The men refused to utilize the automobiles to make their way to the border, leaving the vehicles for the women and children.

Juan Cabral demanded the surrender of Cananea at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. The federal garrison, consisting of 200 men under Mayor Arnold, and 200 under Col. Chiapas, who had just arrived from Agua Prieta, refused to surrender. Cabral then sent a courier to American Consul George Wiswall advising that the Americans in the camp be removed to a safe place.

The rebel expressed solicitude for the safety of the women and children and said that he would grant time for their safe removal. An appeal immediately was sent to the American border towns for automobiles, the railroad having been destroyed between Cananea and Naco, as well as the line from Del Rio to Nogales.

No excitement attended the exodus, the women appearing to enjoy the adventure.

Last night negotiations were begun to prevent a battle. Mayor Arnold headed a oommission that went to the rebel camp under a flag of truce for a conference with Cabral, which lasted until midnight. Gabral was urged to forego an attack because the principal sufferers would be Americans who control the mines in the vicinity. When the conference ended it was thought Cananea would be spared for the present. However, should Col. Chiapas, the executioner of Col. Talamantes and his two sons attempt to escape from the city, the rebel leader said it would be the signal for an immediate attack.

The insurrectos are determined to take Chiapas and wreck vengeance on him for the execution of the Talamantes.

Establishing Government.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—Provisional President Francisco I. Madero, Jr., today moved his capital from the municipal building to the customs house, the same structure in which the international handshake of President Taft and President Diaz was celebrated last year. It is a red brick edifice, much more commodious than the low frame municipal building used in the last few days, and in the opinion of the insurrectos an ideal building for the transaction of the business of the provisional government.

The status quo in both peace and war prevailed today, little progress being made in either direction. Senors Branhilft and Obregon, go-betweens for any peace negotiations that may be had, were expected to confer with Provisional President Madero before the day was over in an effort to lay before him a method for renewing the peace negotiations.

The officers of the provisional government have appointed officials, getting their governmental machinery organized that both peace and war parleys have been neglected. On the side of war, it is probable that tonight or tomorrow many of the troops here will be sent south over the Mexican Northwestern, which the rebels have allowed to be repaired since they took Juarez.

At Casas Grandes, the terminus of the repaired part of the line, there are 1,000 horses awaiting for insurrectos. The revolutionists will be able, from there, to reach Chihuahua in a short time should orders to that effect be given. The city of Chihuahua is reported to be defended by numerous field guns and rapid firers and the insurrectos, it is certain, will not attempt to attack the city before the arrival of the consignments of artillery and ammunition, which have been ordered since Washington announced that the free shipments of arms had been made possible.

Greenway to the Rescue.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 13.—In response to an urgent message from Dr. L. D. Ricketts of Cananea, to Capt. John C. Greenway of Bisbee, a dozen automobiles left here for Cananea to bring the American women and children there into the United States.

Five more automobiles left Douglas for Cananea last night. An attack by the rebels is imminent the message said.

Diaz Will Not Resign Now.

Mexico City, May 13.—Gen. Diaz will not leave the presidency while the country is in its present state of unrest. He stands ready to state in more explicit terms, than those contained in his recent manifesto, if necessary, his attitude with reference to his retirement. He has demanded to know from his opponents the terms in which they expected him to announce his willingness to resign, and is waiting a reply from them.

The president's declaration of last Sunday was made in good faith and with the desire to serve the interests of his country. He meant what he said—that he would lay down the reins of government when he could do so without danger of anarchy or chaos, following his action.

Minister of Finance Limantour made the above explanation to a representative of the Associated Press.

He declared that following the issuance of the president's manifesto and its rejection by the revolutionists the message was sent to Judge Carbajal, asking that Madero and his followers state in exactly what terms they desired the announcement that the president was willing to resign, be made.

Gen. Diaz would explain, Mr. Limantour said, precisely what he meant by his expression "when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy," and the explanation would show that no hidden meaning was intended.

The message should have been in Madero's hands for at least three days past and up to last night no reply had been returned.

What was to be the next step taken by the government appeared to hinge upon the receipt or non-receipt of a further proposal from the revolutionists. Nothing further was to be inaugurated by the officials in the direction of peace conferences.

The importance of the decision of the American government to permit arms and ammunition to cross the border into Mexico through the regular channels of trade, is fully appreciated.

The decision greatly simplified Madero's task of arming the recruits whom he expected to flock by thousands to his standard on his projected march to the capital.

Holleran Funeral.

The funeral of the late John Holleran, who died in Battle Creek, Mich., took place from the residence of his sister, Mrs. John Stark, 719 Lake avenue south Thursday morning to the Sacred Heart cathedral, where solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Lemere, assisted by Rev. Fathers Floyd and Lydon.

The funeral was in charge of the fraternal Order of Eagles and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, who marched in a body.

The pall bearers were old friends. The remains were laid at rest at Calvary cemetery.

Hankinson Postmaster To Go.

Hankinson, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hans A. Abm of this city, postmaster for the last few years, is due to retire. It is understood that the word has gone out to that effect, but up to the present time candidates for appointment to fill the vacancy have not been plentiful.

Jamestown Road Meet.

Jamestown, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jamestown will entertain the next state good roads meeting, conducted under the direction of the North Dakota Good Roads association which for the last two years has met in Larimore. President J. C. Sheppard of Fargo, head of the association, is engaged at the present time in sounding the most acceptable date, and when that is determined upon, will take up the task of arranging the program.

Lighting Talks

NUMBER 10 DULUTH, MAY 13, 1911

WHAT OTHER CITIES PAY FOR LIGHTS

In view of the fact that the present contract for City Lighting is about to expire, The Duluth-Edison Electric Company offers the City a new contract, for ten years (or for three years, if Council prefers), to light the streets at the EXTREMELY LOW price of $45 a year for each arc light (and for its equivalent in incandescent "bunch" lights).

Now we do not ask you to take only our word for it that this is an extremely low price. We invite you to make your own comparisons with the prices paid today by other American cities for this service.

The following figures, showing the present prices for arc lights in the cities named, have come to us within the last few days and are officially certified. Moreover, anybody who can send letters through the mail can get them, just as we did.

Columbia, S. C.	35,000	65.00
Columbus, Ga.	22,000	60.00

A few cities from which we requested this information have not responded; but for very one that has answered we shall show you the figures, listing the cities in alphabetical order. So, you see, this table is only a starter. It will be continued in the next "Lighting Talk," in next Tuesday's Herald.

Meanwhile, remember that while other cities as a rule do not get any free lighting, we offer Duluth $1,500 worth of light each year, FREE for ten years, for public buildings and parks. Also we offer FREE renewals of all carbon and gem filament lamps (up to 32-c. p.) to all customers.

Remember this company is in the Electric Lighting business HERE TO STAY, and that we GUARANTEE a Square Deal on all the business we transact.

ANNUAL ART EXHIBIT BY SCHOOLS OF CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual art exhibit of the city schools took place yesterday afternoon, and the buildings were well filled until the closing at 5:30 with parents and others interested in the school work. The exhibit has been a feature of the school work for several years and it is generally conceded that teh one just held surpassed those of the past. The art work for two years has been under the supervision of Miss Clara G. Draper, who will hold the same position next year. Under her instruction this department of study has been greatly enlarged. The exhibit of manual training at the Lincoln school continued today, and was unusually good. The boys have been making mission chairs and other pieces of furniture and the work is wonderfully well done. Many of the pieces are sold, as it is the privilege of the boys after they have paid for the actual cost of the material, to sell their handcraft productions. William Todd, the manual training teacher, has been here two years and has made a splendid showing. He will not return next year.

Old Settler Follows Wife.

St. Cloud, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nicholas Scheuer, one of the oldest settlers of Stearns county, died here yesterday morning. The deceased was 83 years of age and the infirmities of old age are given as the cause of death. Mr. Scheuer has been ill for the past three years. His wife died Feb. 8 of this year and was buried three months ago today.

No More Wrinkles
BEAUTIFUL BUST
Superfluous Haly Vanishes Like Magic by a New Discovery

Pimples and Blackheads Removed Forever
Let this woman send you free, everything she agrees, and beautify your face and form quickly.

SHE LOOKS LIKE A GIRL OF 18

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has perfected a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is today and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well developed form. She had thin, scrawny eye-lashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods and removed every blackhead and pimple from her face in a single night.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery, she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no common massage, no harmful plasters, no worthless creams.

By her new process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt, of Wisconsin, writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkles gone. Mrs. Markham writes, her wrinkles vanished over night.

Miss Alice Day writes, every blackhead and pimple has vanished forever.

The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cuningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free all she agrees, and will show our readers how to remove wrinkles in 8 hours; how to develop the bust; how to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows; how to remove superfluous hair; how to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles; how to remove dark circles under the eyes; how to quickly remove double chin; how to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body; how to darken gray hair and stop hair falling; how to stop forever perspiration odor.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cuningham, Suite A491 New No. 82 E. Randolph street, Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovlier in every way.

MOTHER IS HIS THEME

Rabbi Lefkovits Preaches Sermon Appropriate to White Carnation Day.

Mother Love the Holiest Affection That the World Knows.

Tomorrow being "Mother's Day," Rabbi Lefkovits spoke last evening at Temple Emanuel on "The Loving Mother." He started out with a description of Joseph Irsael's famous painting called "The Mother and the Child," pointing out the striking contrast between the care worn face of the mother and the happy, smiling face of her babe. Continuing, he said in part:

"It is a tribute to the loving mother that Joseph Israel has here placed upon the canvas, just as is every Madonna that has ever left the easel of the world's greatest artists. Every Madonna, every 'Mother and Child' that the church has consecrated for its various altars, signifies to me no miraculous birth, no supernatural story, no magical relations, but a tribute to loving motherhood. I care not what be the artist's conception or presentation of the Madonna, in each and very case the master has desired to express earnest appreciation of motherhood by placing the revered figure upon the glowing canvas or by carving it in gleaming stone.

Deserved Tribute.

"And well has man done when he thus seeks to pay an enduring tribute to the loving mother. For of all God's creatures, of all those to whom He in His mercy and wisdom has given life, none can be compared to the woman who, from the hour of the child's birth, when she offered her own life to bring it into existence, until her eyes are closed in death, finds her heart and soul, her whole being bound up in that of her child and continues to live for it, to watch over it, to rejoice in it, to share its sorrows and delight in its joys as none other can or will.

"Mother is the sweetest name that human lips can utter. Mother is the saintliest relationship of which human tongue can speak. Mother is the most hallowed personage in all the earth, the holiest being alive. Mother, O what worlds of sacrifice thy name tokens! Mother! What world of strength this name means! Mother! How graceful, how sweet, how inspiring, how uplifting, how spiritualizing its influence!

"There is no friend in all the world like a loving mother. You cannot unfold your heart to any other earthly creature as you can to her, who nourished you from her own dear body. As you speak to hear of your hopes and aspiration, you will never be met with one word of scorn. As you tell her of your plans and prospects, though to others they seem utterly absurd, they will not produce a single sign on her face that will make you hold back your words. As you look into her soulful, loving eyes and tell her of your trials and failures, of your difficulties and hardships, you feel that though all the world may deceive, she never will—though the trusted boon companion may forsake you, she never can.

Sees No Defects.

"The loving mother cannot see that her child is homely. You cannot make her believe that her child is weak, mentally or morally. Every mother normally thinks that the tiny babe she bears in her arms may develop into another Apollo or Venus. The magic wand she carries, the transforming power of love, operates after the manner of the magic wand of which we read in fairy stories. With it she converts the homeliest and most stupid of children into the most graceful and beautiful and the most talented. For the loving mother possesses alike the retouching power of the photographer and the magnifying power of the convex lens. Providence has wisely endowed her with these gifts. They are the source of the later strength of the child. Reared under the influences of its loving mother, inspired by the encouragement that comes from her faith in it the little one grows to have confidence in itself and seeks to reach the heights indicated by her wise and inspiring counsel.

"It were foolish, however, to imagine that all mothers are entitled to such consideration. Some there are who do not respect their duties as they should, who seem to be unconscious of the influence for ill they are exerting over their children. She is not the loving mother who imagines that to pet and spoil a child is evidence of deep affection. Neither is she the loving mother who indulges every whim and fancy of her little one, failing to evoke that energetic resistance to obstacles which is the source of moral power. She is not the loving mother who becomes the mother, the indulger in all sorts of scandalous small talk, in all kinds of indiscriminate criticism of others, in the hearing of her child. Neither is she the loving mother who takes her daughter to a habit-maker instead of developing noble traits of character in the child. Love mist be discriminating to be worthy of the name. It must respect what it loves, and not all mothers really respect their children.

"If mothers would be entitled to be called loving they must make of their homes minature sanctuaries. The primary sphere of woman is still the home. The mother's holiest task is still to be the personal moulder of the character of those entrusted to her charge. She must teach her children to love the truth, to prize honor more than wealth, to place conscience above convenience. She must teach her children by precept and example, to consecrate themselves unto the higher thing of life, to walk in the path of virtue, purity and uprightness. If such be her teaching, re-inforced by personal example, then, indeed, will her children rise up and call her blessed, saying: 'Thrice blessed be ye, mothers of the race! What we are, ye made us; what we love, ye planted within us; what we hope for, ye gave us eyes to see; what we worship next to God, is your honored selves, O loving mothers."

Hypnotizing Over Telephone.

The champion long distance hypnotizer is Fernauto Q. Loutzenhiser of Canton, Ohio. On March 6 he operated from a booth in Pittsburg, Pa., in the Fort Pitt hotel, to the lobby of the Courtland hotel in Canton, a distance of 101 miles. Four men were hypnotized, who were sitting in the presence of physicians. This is becoming dangerous, and the safest protection against the long distance hypnotizer is to strengthen the nerves with golden grain belt beers at meal time. Try a case today for the table. COPPERS DECLINE IN DULL MARKET

In Face of Holiday and Blue Monday Professionals Realize.

The copper market opened steady and then eased off when professionals evinced a disposition to even up trades. This led to some realizing. The expected decisions of importance to the market on Monday caused the selling. Politics is one of the chief features on the bear side, as the many investigations scheduled by this congress is making traders cautious. The market withstands the shocks easily, however, because the volume of trading is small and professionals are not disposed to put the market up or down so long as the public does not follow it.

Amalgamated sold at $62.75 to $62.50, Butte Coalition at $17.75, Calumet & Arizona at $49.87½, Giroux at $5.81¼, Greene at $6.12½ to $6.18¾, Ojibway at $6.25, Superior & Pittsburg at $14.12½ to $14.25.

A telegram was received here today from Tower, which said that the shaft of the Vermilion Iron Development company, which operates the Pine Island property, is bottomed in Bessemer ore. Indications point to an extensive deposit.

Boston wired—A postponement of the meeting of the Laurium Mining company until July 11, when the question of consolidating with the Calumet & Hecla company will be again taken up, has started another campaign for proxies, according to a dispatch received here today from Houghton, Mich.

The July meeting will require another adjournment, should Judge Swan of the United States circuit court of Michigan fail to render a decision on the main question of the merger of the nine subsidiary companies with the big corporation.

Thompson, Towle & Co. say: Of the total production of copper in the United States, Mexico and Canada, of about 1,300,000,000 pounds per annum, it is easily conceivable how under liberal laws, the construction of which will soon be determined by the decisions of the United States supreme court, the copper industry of the United States can be controlled with a view of the producing mines of the country getting not only an adequate return on the capital invested, but that the reserves of the mines can be conserved as well.

There are fifty-seven producing mines in the United States, Canada and Mexico, twenty-six of them contributing three-quarters of the total copper production, or about 950,000,000 pounds—fifteen other properties produce practically 35 per cent of the balance of the production, or 320,000,000 pounds, while sixteen other properties contribute only a few million pounds apiece and do not count much in the total output. Three-quarters of this country's production is controlled by five different groups as follows:

	Pounds
Amalgamated	275,000,000
Guggenheim	200,000,000
Phelps-Dodge	175,000,000
Cole-Ryan	160,000,000
Calumet & Hecla	140,000,000
Total	950,000,000

CURES OF MEN

Wrought Scientifically By Progressive Medical Specialists—Most Complicated Diseases Give Way to Their Methods.

If you want to see the revelations of science used in the service of suffering humanity you must see the Duluth Specialists. Among citizens of Duluth and Superior the reporter today found in the crowded offices men from Bergland, Mich., Cloquet, Calumet, Mich., Ballard, Wash., Chicago, Bemidji and Aurelia, Iowa, with Tumors and festering Cancers, Gall Stones, crippled from Rheumatism, ulcers of legs and the most rare diseases. Their fame has reached far beyond the borders of our state and crowds their offices almost daily.

There are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering from disease of long standing, and, asked why so many men suffer, they explained that constipation and stomach troubles cause self-poisoning. To relieve this trouble, men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, although they know very well relief is only temporary, and their condition is worse than before. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fullness in your abdomen, you may know that your intestines are diseased and they cannot perform the work of digestion.

You are getting pale and losing flesh and your feeling tells you that you are a sick man. You have started the process of self-poisoning, your blood is diseased and your blood vessels harden, which slowly but surely prepares your grave and your suffering is a long one.

Rectal Piles cause cancer and many other diseases. The bad and stagnaht blood is forming piles, and these in turn result in a train of other diseases, as cancer, constipation, rheumatism, sciatica, pain in the back, kidney trouble, heart and liver diseases and nervousness. These specialists are most wonderful in curing all these diseases, and also Bright's disease, catarrh and lung trouble, bronchitis, blood poison, rupture, pelvic and bladder trouble, eczema and all skin diseases. If you have any ailment and you want to know all about it you are invited to consult the Progressive Doctors. Consultation is free. These doctors can cure your disease for they have studied in the best universities here and in the old country. They are will professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. Offices are corner Superior street and Lake avenue, Duluth.

CUT RATES ON TOWING

Great Lakes Company Slashed Prices When Independents Were Active.

H. G. Vroman Tells of the Rate War in Buffalo Harbor.

When the independent tug company was formed in Duluth harbor at the time of the tugmen's strike in 1902, A. B. Wolvin, vice president of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, wrote President Newton of the Great Lakes Towing company advising a cut in towing rates to meet the competition, according to a letter introduced at the hearing of the government's "tug trust" case in United States court this morning.

Mr. Wolvin is ill in St. Luke's hospital and could not answer the subpoena for him. J. B. Beecher, his secretary, was called to identify Mr. Wolvin's signature to a number of letters. The letters were dated in 1900, 1901 and 1902, and Mr. Beecher, who has been with Mr. Wolvin four years, would not positively identify the signatures. The letters were introduced over the protests of the defendant's attorneys.

Five witnesses were examined this morning. E. C. Noble and William Nicholson were called to show that they owned tugs, but did no vesssel towing in the Duluth harbor. Mr. Noble said that his tug, the Mayflower, is too small to do any vessel towing.

O. W. Blodgett, who said he lives in Duluth in the summer and Bay City in the winter, said that he owns ten or twelve lumber vessels. He said that he has a contract with the Great Lakes Towing company to do all his towing on the lakes. When asked if he was allowed to tow with tugs owned by others than the Great Lakes company, he said: "I don't know whether I am allowed or not, but I do it." Mr. Blodgett said that, although towing charges are higher now than they were before the Great Lakes company was formed, the service is so much better that the higher charges are offset.

H. G. Inman, cashier of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, was called to identify letters mailed by him to the general office. Some of the letters were introduced in evidence and Mr. Inman was asked to search for others.

Rate War in Buffalo.

At the hearing yesterday afternoon, H. G. Vroman, manager of the local tug office, told of the rate war in the harbor of Buffalo in 1902 and 1903. He was manager of the Buffalo office of the Great Lakes company at the time. He said that the independent line made the first cut, rates being slashed to $7. The Great Lakes company then cut to $5, he said, and on being asked if any money could be made at those rates, he described them as "ruinous."

Mr. Vroman said that 23 per cent of the boats going to the Missabe ore docks require tugs and that tugs of the Union Towing & Wrecking company do all of the towing except what is done by the McGonagle, the tug owned by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. The McGonagle is a fire tug, he said, and does not leave the docks which it protects.

Mr. Vroman said that 8 per cent of the boats visiting other docks require tows and the Union company does all of that towing. No towing is done by the company at Two Harbors, he said, all towing there being done by the fire tug Edna G., owned by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

An effort was made again yesterday afternoon to establish that the Union company does an interstate business. Mr. Vroman said, on examination by E. P. Chamberlin for the government, that boats are towed from Duluth to Superior and vice versa, but on cross-examination he said that in no case do the boats so served carry freight from Duluth for discharge at Superior or the other way around.

The hearing is again in session this afternoon and the investigators hope to conclude with today's session. The next hearing will be held in Cleveland and another trip must be made to Chicago.

MORE ACTIVITY IN THE HARBOR

Coal and Lumber Business Show a Slight Improvement.

During the past twenty-four hours the legthergy that has been hanging over the harbor for the past week, was broken, in a measure, by a heavier movement of vessels. Several lumber cargoes were cleared and there were also heavier coal receipts than has been the case during any day for the past week. The ore movement remains about the same.

Lumber at the present time is being moved on last season's rate, that of $2.25. The coal movement has been showing a slow but steady increase, with the bulk of the big movement not even started as yet.

ALL NIGHT WAIT IS REWARDED

Game Wardens Make Arrests at Early Hour on St. Louis River.

Game Wardens T. J. Storey of Duluth and Craig of Superior are showing no cessation in their campaign to stop illegal fishing in the St. Louis river and bay.

Early this morning they arrested E. Johnson and G. Nelson at Fond du Lac after an all night wait. They located half a dozen set lines a short distance below the city and then secreted themselves at a point of vantage a short distance away. Early in the morning they caught the two hauling in their lines, which were well filled with fish.

Both entered pleas of guilty when arraigned in municipal court this morning on charges of taking fish unlawfully. Nelson was fined $50 and costs and Johnson $10 and costs. Both paid their fines.

TELLS HOW TO RAISE CHICKENS

Judge Windom Gives Lakesiders Pointers on the Care of Poultry.

Judge W. L. Windom delivered an interesting address on poultry raising last evening before the Lakeside club meeting at the town hall.

The judge has been in the business for years and his talk showed his auditors that he was well versed in poultry lore. He stated that many amateurs become discouraged because they take too much stock in what they read and do not do enough hard work. He asserted that it takes as much effort and requires as much labor to make a success of poultry raising as it does to successfully conduct any other business.

The club passed a resolution protesting against the granting of a license to Condon & Culver to operate a merry-go-round at Lester Park. A. G. McKnight and James A. Wharton were elected delegates to represent the club at the coming meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association.

NOTICE!

Beginning Monday, May 15th, the Seventh Avenue Incline Railway will be shut down for alterations. We expect to get the new cars in operation on or about June 1st.

While the line is shut down a bus will be run between the upper end of the West Fourth street line and the hill top from 6:00 to 8:00 a. m., and from 12 m. to 2 p. m., and from 4 to 8 p. m., to accommodate our patrons.

DULUTH STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

RAILROADS

RAILROADS WILL STILL LIMIT SIZE OF TRUNKS.

Railroads running east and west of Chicago between the Buffalo-Pittsburg line and the Rocky mountains have decided not to accede to the request of the trunk manufacturers and wholesale houses that they reconsider their action limiting the size of trunks to be carried free as baggage after Jan. 1, 1912.

Action taken yesterday by a committee representing the Western lines and on Wednesday by the passenger officials of the Eastern roads indicates that practically all of the roads in the country will adhere to the provision originally adopted in the new uniform baggage rules. It imposes an excess charge for all trunks over forty inches in length, as the roads now charge for excess weight over 150 pounds.

At a meeting recently in New York the roads in the trunk line association decided to increase their limit to forty-five inches. The same question is yet to be submitted to the Transcontinental and Southeastern Passenger associations, but it is expected they will also decline to change their rules, and it is understood that the trunk lines running east of Buffalo and Pittsburg will also reconsider their extension of the limit, in order to secure uniformity between Chicago and New York. A joint committee representing both merchants and railroads in St. Louis reported in favor of the forty inch limitation.

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY FAIRY TALES.

ALL THE BIG CANADIAN CHICKENS WILL SWOOP DOWN ON US, LAY EGGS ALL OVER THE FRONT YARDS AND EAT UP ALL OF OUR BIRD SEED AND CARRY OFF ALL OUR LITTLE CHICKENS AS SLAVES—

AND THOSE CANADIAN COWS WILL INVADE US, GOBBLE UP ALL OUR MILK MAIDS, DROWN ALL THE LITTLE BABIES IN MILK AND SMOTHER THE REST OF US IN RECIPROCITY BUTTER—

AND THEN CANADA WILL BACK UP A BIG WAGON LOAD OF WHEAT AND DUMP IT ALL OVER THE U. S. AND FILL UP THE GREAT LAKES AND STOP UP THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER, SINK ALL THE BIG BOATS—

AND THERE WILL BE NOTHING LEFT FOR THE COUNTRY BUT TO STARVE TO DEATH—THAT IS, TO HEAR THE ANTI-RECIPROCITY ADVOCATE TELL IT.

WORTH LESS THAN CATTLE

Lives of Human Beings Given Less Attention, Says Bulletin.

Health Department Report Contains Plain Talk on City Health.

The bulletin of the health department for April, which has just been issued, severely criticises the attitude of legislative bodies towards measures affecting public health. It states that big sums are set aside to conserve the health of cattle, while but paltry amounts are devoted towards conserving the health of the people.

"This is due to the fact," says the bulletin, "that animals have a value which can be computed in dollars, while there is at present no market value for the human being." It goes on to state that 600,000 people die annually in the United States from preventable diseases, or at the rate of about one life in every 50 seconds.

The summary shows that there were thirty-three more deaths in Duluth in April than in March. Special attention is called to those from tuberculosis, from which cause there were twenty deaths, or eight more deaths than from all the other infectious diseases combined. "It certainly is time to do something to control in a more effective manner the tuberculosis situation," it reads. "Supposing each of the other so-called contagious diseases caused a similar number of deaths, what would our death rate be?"

During the month there were 141 births as compared with 118 deaths. Eight of the deaths were of an accidental nature. Attention is also called to the fact that there is a small group of physicians who neglect to report contagious diseases to the health department.

Garbage Collection.

"That the city is in need of a modern garbage collection is a fact well known to all. The evidence is only too conspicuous in most of our backyards and in many vacant lots. At present the city has no funds with which to install a municipal collection. However, we could begin in a small way, purchasing one or two wagons a year, and gradually extending the service until the whole city can be accommodated. The one little cart which the city has been operating has been very satisfactory, and instead of being an expense to the city, the fees collected have, besides paying for the original cost of the outfit, more than paid the running expenses.

"Wherever any one sees a rubbish heap one should call the owner's attention to the fact that it is simply a hotbed for flies. Certainly you should kill the fly if it once gains access to your home. However, you will have a very busy time killing all of them unless you rid your premises of the breeding places.

"There were thirty-three more deaths this month than there were last month. Diphtheria which showed an increase of eight cases did not claim a single fatality. Measles, although responsible for no deaths shows an increase of twenty-one cases. The principals of the schools reported sending home several cases of measles. Pneumonia with an increase of nine cases was the cause of five deaths. This, although quite an increase over last month, is not surprising for this time of the year. Again we wish to emphasize the instructions given in the January bulletin; avoid badly ventilated or crowded places; eat and drink lightly; keep in the fresh air; do not neglect a bad cold and treat pneumonia as a contagious disease. There were only three cases of puerperal septicaemia reported; they were reported by death certificates. Scarlet fever shows an increase of three cases with only one death. Tuberculosis, with an increase of ten cases, was responsible for twenty deaths. It alone caused eight more deaths than all the other easily transmissable diseases combined. Supposing each of the other, so-called contagious diseases caused an equal number of deaths, what would our death rate be? It certainly is time to do something to control in a more effective manner the tuberculosis situation. Have you thought out or given your influence toward the development of plans that will be effective? We were reminded that there was some typhoid fever in our midst by the presentation of two death certificates. We are keeping a list at the office which gives full information concerning each reportable disease which has not been reported; we find it is the same small group of physicians each time who neglect the important duty of reporting contagious diseases."

Duluth Music Company Turns Business Over to French & Bassett.

Deal Includes Agency of Steinway and Other Leading Pianos.

During the past week the entire stock of the Duluth Music company was bought by French & Bassett and transferred to their store at Third avenue west and First street, including about 150 instruments. This event marks an important mercantile change in Duluth's business circles.

The Duluth Music company has conducted a large piano business in Duluth for more than twenty years, and during that time has represented many of the leading piano manunfacturers such as Steinway, Weber, Ivers & Pond, Kranich & Bash, the Pianola and pianos and many other makes. These agencies have been transferred to French & Bassett, who will continue them in the future on a scale befitting their importance. When a Herald reporter called at French & Bassett's to verify this news, he found this stock being moved in and arranged on the first floors of the store, making an array of pianos and instruments of all kinds, the like and extent of which has seldom been seen anywhere.

The courts will be thrown open for the first time this season and it is expected that a large crowd of tennis enthusiasts will be on hand to start what is supposed to be the banner season at the Head of the Lakes.

The state tournament will be held here this year and with the splendid start obtained by the Duluth players last season, it is expected that this year the interest in the sport will pass all high-water marks of the past.

Work is progressing on the courts at Oatka, where the matches of the state tennis tournament will be played, and these courts will be ready for play within a very short time. When completed the courts at Oatka will be among the very finest in the West.

Officials of the Duluth Boat club have decided to enter a track team in the big indoor field meet that will be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on the evening of May 23.

There are some former college stars on the membership list of the Boat club. Tate of the University of Minnesota is a very well known high jumper, and Cy Forgette is another high jumper, who has medals and trophies to prove that he "was there" once, anyway.

There are some other men in the club who can do some stunts that should be productive of points in the meet. Hamilton, Thompson, Thorburn and some of the others of the crew are former track athletes, and with the seamen and some of the other material that is being rounded up at the present time, it is expected that a very strong track team will be placed in the meet.

The place is ideally situated on the top of a hill overlooking the lake, amidst some of the finest outdoor scenery in the country tributary to Duluth. For years the lake has been a popular resort of fishermen. It is about eighteen miles from the city on the Rice Lake road and is easily accessible.

AEROPLANES AND WHISKERS.

Los Angeles Times: Aviator Glenn H. Curtiss, at a dinner in New York, said of an aeroplane that had not flown:

"It isn't enough to call this contrivance an aeroplane. Calling it an aeroplane, you know, won't make it fly.

"Once, in the days of the free-silver furore, I heard an orator with long whiskers make a free-silver speech.

"'Gents,' said he, 'our country's welfare demands that silver be kept at its face value. If the government marks a dollar a dollar, it follows that it must be worth 100 cents.'

"'Excuse me—may I ask one question?' shouted a man in the rear of the hall.

"'Certainly, sir,' said the orator.

"'Then,' said the man in the rear, 'if the government marked your whiskers hay, would a mule eat them?'"

CLASS PLAY FROWNED ON

Faculty Feared "William Wilson" Would Not Do in High School.

Poker Game and a "Drunk" Unsuited to Assembly Hall Stage.

Problem plays won't pass the censors of high school dramatics.

Also poker games, even on the stage and impersonations of inebriated persons are "off color" and shouldn't be tolerated in the high school students' ventures into the dramatic field.

This has been learned at the cost of considerable loss of time and disappointment for the seniors at the Central high school.

Even the innocent pastime of make believe card games and drunks in the program for class night is strictly prohibited by the faculty.

In arranging the program for class night, Stanley Lamb, one of the members of the class, had as a feature a short problem play. But, according to the high school teachers, it would shock the innocent minds of the lower classmen and lower the moral standing of the seniors themselves.

In denouncing the play, one of the faculty was heard to say: "Think of it! A drunk in a card game on the stage of our assembly hall." So the carefully prepared play went into the waste paper basket.

The name of the play was "William Wilson."

Undismayed the amateur dramatist has arranged another program which he is sure will not shock the innocent members of the lower classes and will pass the cruel censorship of the faculty.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

SUFFRAGE PROBLEM MAY CONFRONT LUTHERAN SYNOD

Likely to Cause Discussion at Big Meeting in June.

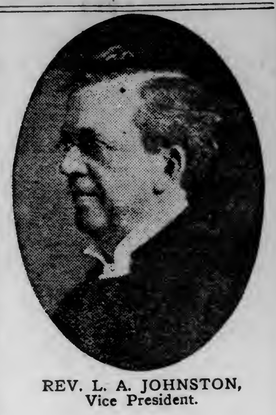
Attempt Will Be Made to Prevent Women Casting Votes.

Women may be deprived of their voting power in Swedish Lutheran churches throughout the country, if the movement on foot to revise the constitution of the synod is carried at the synodical meeting of the nine conferences of the United States and Canada in Duluth in June.

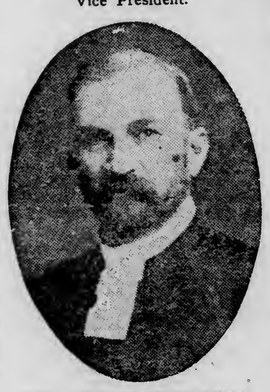
"Will the suffragists prevail?" is the question that the delegates to the big convention to be held here next month are asking themselves. Pastors and laymen from all parts of the United States and Canada will be here in connection with the annual meeting of the synod and some interesting discussions on this question may be expected.

In the Minnesota conference, of which Rev. Dr. J. A. Krantz, pastor of Elim Swedish Lutheran church of this city, is president, women have no voice in church affairs. In the New York, Illinois, Columbia and California conferences it has been a practice that the congregations could do as they pleased in this matter, and in many of the churches in these conferences women have exercised their voting powers in church matters.

The "anti-suffragists" in the synod will attempt to have a new constitution adopted by the synod and one of the provisions of the new constitution will be the withholding of the voting power in church matters from the women members of any Swedish Lutheran church in the jurisdiction of the synod. The "suffragists" are said to be equally strong in numbers and there is some doubt, it is claimed, as to whether the proposition will ever go through. In order to adopt a new constitution, it will be necessary to secure a two-thirds vote at the business meeting of the synod.



REV. L. A. JOHNSTON, Vice President.



REV. CARL J. BENGSTON, Treasurer.

REV. E. NORELIUS, President.

REV. JOHN G. DAHLBERG, Secretary.

In addition to the question of allowing women the right of suffrage in church affairs, a number of other matters will be discussed and probably acted upon at the business sessions. The conference will be held in Duluth from June 13 to 20, inclusive. The business sessions will take place daily at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

The program is a lengthy one, the aim being to hold separate services simultaneously in the four Swedish Lutheran churches in the city in the evenings in addition to the business sessions which will be held in Bethany church. Besides services at Bethany church, services will be held at the First Swedish Lutheran church, Elim Swedish Lutheran church, West Duluth, and the Swedish-Finnish Lutheran church West Duluth.

PROF. GUSTAV ANDREEN, President of Augustana College.

Many Pastors Coming.

Prominent Lutheran pastors from all over the country will be here to participate in the affair. The program committee has assigned the speakers to the various churches. Rev. E. Norelius, president of the synod, a resident of Vasa, Minn., will preside at all of the business session and will make the opening address at the first official session, which will be held Wednesday, June 14.

Other synod officers who will be here in connection and will take part on the program will be Rev. L. A. Johnston, D. D., of St. Paul, vice-president; Rev. John A. Dahlberg, A. M., of Winnipeg, Man., secretary; and Rev. Carl J. Bengstrom of Missoula, Mont., treasurer. Among other speakers at the June meetings will be: Prof. Gustav Andreen, Ph. D., president of Augustana college and the presidents of the nine conferences in Augustana synod who are as follows: Rev. G. A. Brandelle, D. D., of Kansas; Rev. J. A. Anderson, A. M., of Iowa; Rev. C. E. Frisk, of Columbia; Rev. F. N. Swanberg, of Nebraska; Rev. J. A. Krantz, of Minnesota; Rev. F. A. Lindor, of Illinois; Rev. Phillip Andreen, of California and Rev. F. Jacobson, Ph. D., of New York.

About 350 delegates will attend from all parts of the synod and it is expected that the visitors will number 2,000.

The preliminaries for the convention will be held on June 9, when the council, consisting of the nine presidents of the various conferences in Augustana synod, a layman from each conference, a representative from the English conference, recently organized in the synod and President Erick Norelius, D. D., of the synod will meet to arrange for the details of the convention. Such business as is deemed important will be brought before the convention business meetings by the council.

On June 13, about twenty graduates of Augustana college of Rock Island, Ill., one of the largest educational institutions conducted under the auspices of the synod, will be examined as candidates for the ministry and if passed will be ordained. This ceremony will take place in Bethany church. On some day during the convention it is planned to hold a celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of Henry Mulchoir Muhlenberg, founder of the first Lutheran church in America. Muhlenberg was born in Germany in 1711 and established the first church in Pennsylvania in 1740.

At the convention reports will be read from the various educational and charitable institutions of the synod. Among the educational institutions are the Augusana College and Theological seminary, Rock Island, Ill.; Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn.; Bethany college, Lindsborg, Kan.; Upsala college, Kenilworth, N. J.; Luther college, Wahoo, Neb.; Northwestern college, Fergus Falls, Minn.; Minnesota college, Minneapolis; Trinity college, Round Rock, Tex.; Coeur d'Alene college, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and North Star college of Warren, Minn.

Among the charitable institutions of the conference are eight orphanages at Vasa, Minn.; Andover, Ill.; Mariadahl, Kan.; Stanton, Iowa; Jamestown, N. Y.; Joliet, Ill.; Omaha, Neb., and Avon, Mass. There are seven hospitals in the synod at St. Paul, Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, Des Moines and two on the Western coast. There are also two deaconness houses, one in Omaha and the other in St. Paul; five homes for the aged at Chisago City, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Joliet, Ill.; Madrid, Iowa, and Brooklyn, N. Y.

The local committee on arrangements for the convention and entertainment of the delegates and visitors consists of the following: Rev. J. A. Krantz, Rev. Carl Solmonson, Rev. C. G. Olson, Rev. Gustav Oberg, Dr. D. E. Seashore, Hans B. Haroldson and Gust Bergquist. It is planned to arrange for boulevard sight-seeing trips about the city and an excursion on the lake and river.

The program for the convention is as follows:

AUTO VICTIM IS BURIED HERE

Body of William C. Ross Brought to Duluth for Interment.

The funeral of William C. Ross, 17 years of age, who, with Dr. L. B. Bell of Cushing, Wis., met a tragic death in an automobile accident at Trade Lake, Wis., Wednesday night, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the undertaking rooms of C. J. Stewart. Rev. J. W. Powell conducted the services and interment was at Forest Hill cemetery.

Ross was riding with Dr. Bell, who had been making professional calls. Running past an embankment thirty-five feet high the machine skidded and went over, carrying the two passengers with it. From midnight until the middle of the forenoon they were pinned helpless under the car. Although fatally injured, both remained conscious and carried on a conversation. They were discovered by a farmer who was passing the next morning. Assistance was summoned and both were hurried to Dr. Bell's hospital, where they died in less than three hours.

The boy's father, who was also William C. Ross, was killed in 1893 when the boiler of the locomotive he was running blew up between here and Two Harbors. Several years ago Mrs. Ross, her son and daughter, Ada, removed to St. Paul, where the unfortunate young man graduated from high school. Recently the family has been residing at Cushing, Wis. The young man was planning to take up the study of medicine shortly.

Among his relatives in Duluth and vicinity are his uncle, John G. Ross, clerk of the municipal court; his grandmother, Mrs. Christina Ross; his aunt, Miss Margaret Ross, of 1016 East Sixth street, and another aunt, Mrs. H. K. Gilion of Two Harbors.

Dr. Bell is survived by a widow and a child only a few weeks old. He was 28 years of age.

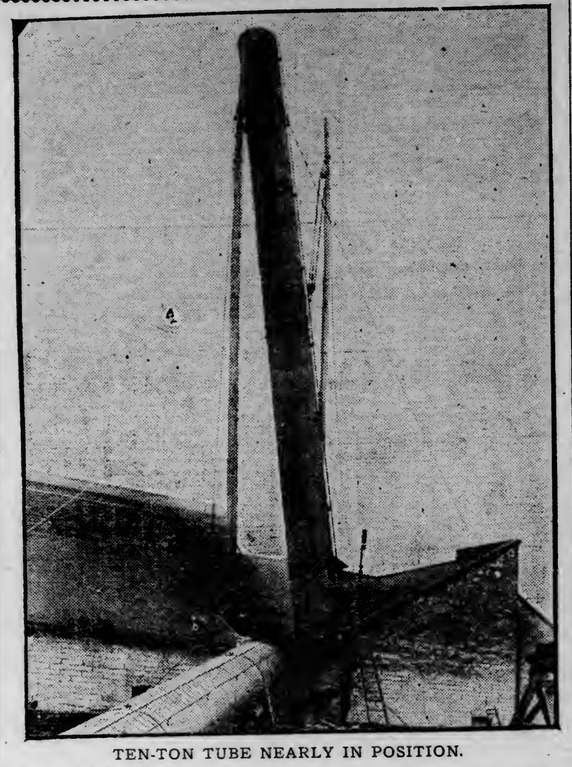
RAISING HIBBING'S BIG STACK



TEN-TON TUBE NEARLY IN POSITION.

Hibbing, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crowds of people have flocked about the municipal power plant here this week to watch the task of raising the huge ten-ton smoke-stack into position. It is eighty-five feet long and five and one-half feet in diameter, and one of the largest smoke-stacks in this section. The rising of this huge stack was the final chapter in the plan for the extensive improvement of the power plant by increasing the plant's voltage from 1,100 to 2,200 volts. New pumps have been installed, and 130 pounds pressure can be put on the street hydrants without overworking the pumping station. Boilers have been repaired and replaced by new ones where needed, and many other improvements made.

The new stack is a handsome piece of work, and is a credit to the city. It is built of steel plates, and is lined with fire brick. It is guyed with steel cables, and is anchored to a solid concrete foundation. The stack is the highest in the city, and is visible for many miles around.

The stack was raised by means of a derrick, and the work was done by the Hibbing Machine company. The work was completed in a little more than a week, and was done without accident.

VIRGINIA ELKS TO ERECT BUILDING

Plans for Home Started Last Fall to Be Carried Out This Year.

Virginia, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former Alderman Conrad Mattson has begun the excavating for a two-story building on West Chestnut street, opposite the Fay hotel. The new structure will be 25 by 73 feet, solid brick, with full basement. The first floor will be used for store purposes and the second for office and living rooms. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000.

The building committee of the Elks' lodge will soon have all arrangements made for the erection of their new home in the same block. Ground was broken for the structure last fall, but the excavation has not as yet been completed. The building will be two stories with full basement, 50 by 80 feet. The lower floor will be divided into two store rooms and the upper floor will be the lodge and club rooms of the order. The building will cost about $35,000 and will be one of the finest of its kind in the Northwest.

PURCHASE OF PLANT MAY FALL THROUGH

Virginia Commitee Dissolves Without Taking Definite Action.

Virginia, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—It begins to look as though municipal ownership of the light and power plant here was dead for the present. The committee of thirty appointed to act with the council last night voted down the proposition to buy the plant for $500,000 and then decided to go out of business, leaving the matter with the council.

Manager Griggs of the light and water plant told the meeting the agitation was damaging to the company's interests, as well as to that of the city's, for the reason that his company had contemplated many improvements for this year, and he suggested that the matter be settled one way or the other as soon as possible. He further stated that his company had met the committee half way in everything they asked; had allowed its experts to go through its books and aided them in every way to make an appraisal of the property of the company; that his company wanted to be fair in every way with the citizens of Virginia, and that when the city was ready to buy the plant, he thought his company would ask a price which was only just and fair.

OLIVER CLUB ENTERTAINS.

Members of Hibbing Organization Have Some Athletic Sport.

Hibbing, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very enjoyable entertainment was held last night in the Oliver club, in the form of various athletic exhibitions. One of the most entertaining of the items was a boxing display between Pal Brown and his training partner Nelson. The event went four rounds, each of which were fast and furious. The bout was strictly "friendly," and no serious attempt was made for a knockout, but some fast work was done and although Brown naturally out-classed his partner, yet Jasper got in some good quick work, and the lookers-on had plenty of amusement. The "kids'" boxing bout, starred as Jeffries and Johnson, put on a very amusing number and tried very hard to get in some good hard blows. The kids are great mixers, and the audience were kept in one roar of laughter from the first to the third and last round. Quayel and Simonds gave a good boxing exhibition of three rounds, and Brown and Nelson did some good wrestling. The whole entertainment was very enjoyable and the big auditorium of the Oliver club was packed.

HARMONY PREVAILS

Dove of Peace Returns to West End Hillside Club.

President Olson Resigns and "Insurgent" Candidate Is Elected.

The dove of peace hovers over the West End Hillside Improvement club once more.

The so-called "regulars" and "insurgents" got together at a meeting at the Ensign school last night, patching up all differences and deciding to act in harmony in all ways possible for the benefit of their part of the city.

President Peter Olson tendered his resignation and it was accepted by the club. Ole Kinn was elected to succeed him. Mr. Kinn was the man selected by the insurgent faction at a recent meeting. The other officers are: Ole Swenson, vice president, and Henry Webber, secretary and treasurer.

The meeting last evening was well attended, being one of the largest which has been held for many weeks. Many of those present signed the petition for the water extension, which the hillsiders want run up to their part of the city. The proposed extension will run from the boulevard, around the upper part of what is known as the "Knob," near Thirteenth avenue west, and down to Piedmont avenue. Branches will be run east and west from Twenty-third avenue on Tenth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets. Alderman Bergstrom is working on the petition, and states that there will be no difficulty in getting the requisite number of signers for the petition. The guarantee necessary is estimated at $1,048.

R. E. Patterson, a former member of the board of public works, attended the meeting. He delivered a strong address on the water question and wanted to interest the club with the others which are now questioning the justice of the water rates. According to President Kinn, the club will not mix in this matter. He states that the residents along the hillside haven't got any water and so have no particular interest in the rates. He says that they are more interested just now in getting their much-needed extension.

CONRADS NOT BLAMED.

Millionaire's Sons Are Not Charged With Killing Ex-Sheriff.

Great Falls, Mont., May 13.—The responsibility for the killing of Joseph Hamilton, former sheriff, who was shot during the chase of the Conrad grave robbers on Tuesday, was not fixed by the coroner's jury. The jury found that Hamilton came to his death from bullets fired by persons unknown to the jury.

At the inquest, the Conrad boys, sons of the Great Falls millionaire banker, told the story of the night adventure, how they had shot at a man standing beside the road, who, they believed, was raising his gun to fire at them. They went past the place about a mile south, then turned around and went back, and found their friend Hamilton dead at the place where they had opened fire.

The evidence on which the jury based its verdict was given by the physician who performed the autopsy. His report showed that Hamilton could have been shot from either behind or in front. There was no evidence to show certainly that the Conrads fired the fatal shot. The bullet found in the body was steel-jacketed, the kind that Arthur Conrad used in his revolver.

CROWDS FLOCK TO ROLLER SKATING RINK.

Society folk continue to throng the large and handsome Auditorium. Roller skating has come to stay and hundreds of Duluth's most prominent citizens have taken to this old-time exercise and every afternoon and evening the Auditorium is crowded with enthusiastic lovers of this healthful form of amusement, while hundreds of spectators enjoy the military band organ concert of popular airs.

Lightning Fires Barn.

Lisbon, N. D., May 13.—The large barn of E. B. Knapp, located six miles southwest of Lisbon, was struck by lightning Tuesday night and burned to the ground. They succeeded in saving twelve horses, but eight were burned, and also all harnesses. Loss about $4,000. The property was partly covered by insurance.

"Fifty years reputation behind Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is good enough for me."

"So say we all of us."

The greatest endorsement that can be enjoyed by any product is that it has continued to bring health and happiness to millions of souls for more than fifty years, and has enabled the old to enjoy their vigor and activity up to and past the century mark. Five generations have used and endorsed it.

A SHAMEFUL POLITICAL PLOT.

Reports from St. Paul are that Governor Eberhart is going to return from his Western trip in high dudgeon because Whittier, superintendent of the boys' training school at Red Wing, has not been discharged in his absence, and determined to get him if he has to discharge the whole board of control to do it.

The plan back of the anti-Whittier agitation is thus laid bare, that he who runs may read.

At the very beginning of the Whittier case there were rumors in St. Paul that its object was the removal of the men appointed by the late Governor Johnson to the board of control, which has full charge of all state institutions except those pertaining to education. These rumors grew more tangible and more definite as the agitation progressed, and that they were based on fact has become clearer every day since.

Mr. Whittier has been in charge of the Red Wing school for many years. Boys have been whipped there for evil-doing during all that time. The board of control has had full knowledge of conditions prevailing there throughout. There was as much whipping at Red Wing when Republicans dominated the board of control as there has been since Democrats dominated it. And there always will be whipping at Red Wing, or the inmates will run the school.

It was not until last winter, however, that there was any public outcry about it. The famous "whipping machine," which figured largely in the clamor, was destroyed several years ago and is no longer in use; yet there was no scandal about it while it was being used, with the full knowledge of the board of control.

S. W. Leavitt, a Republican and a former member of the board of control, wrote the other day to the St. Paul Dispatch in regard to the Whittier case, and his testimony is valuable. Said he: "The majority of both houses of the legislature had full knowledge of the facts and law and, as well, the motives referred to and the character of the testimony admitted. This knowledge undoubtedly had its influence with the members in determining their action on the report of the committee and in refusing to be carried off their feet by the clamors of a few self-constituted guardians of public morals and the urgent solicitations of back-number politicians, and so perpetrate a great wrong upon a conscientious and faithful official. No more than 1 per cent of those who had been inmates of the school were called before the committee as witnesses by the parties pushing the investigation, and that 1 per cent was, as a rule, the siftings by the police of the three large cities from the worst elements in those cities. Had the prosecution been after the truth, they would also have called the other and better classes of former inmates of the institution. Mr. Whittier was urged to call a hundred or two boys, many of them now adults occupying positions of trust and responsibility, honored and respected by their fellows and who served their 'time' at the institution without 'spanking' and owe all they have and are to the good accomplished for them at the institution under Mr. Whittier's supervision. Mr. Whittier refused to call them because they are making good and he refused to make public their past history to save himself. * * *

"I was a member of the board of control during most of the time covered by the investigation. I acted in many investigations of complaints made personally and through the daily press, and know of my own knowledge that no such state of affairs existed there during the eight years of my service as is claimed by the report of the investigating committee."

The whole atmosphere of this case reeks with suspicion. Every detail of it harmonizes with the theory that it is a plan to jerk the board of control into politics, out of which it was kept most religiously during the Johnson administrations.

Whittier should stand pat.

The board of control should stand pat.

Let the schemers do their worst, and then we shall see whether it is possible to fool the people of this state into letting the control of this highly important board, with its power of making appointments and letting fat contracts, get into the cluches of a hungry political machine.

For that, stripping the case of all its hypocrisy and pretense, is the naked truth about it.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Tomorrow is "Mother's Day," and you are expected to give a thought to your mother and to wear a white carnation in her honor. It's a very pretty custom, too, and deserves to become crystalized as a permanent and widely observed institution. It is doing little enough for your mother to set apart one day in the year for her and to wear a flower on that day to show that you have her in mind.

Better still, if your mother is living, would be to give her some personal attention. If she lives in the old home, write her a letter. If, as the case very likely is, you have been a little negligent about writing, tell her that hereafter you are going to write regularly and often—and keep the promise. Boys—they are always boys to her, even after the gray begins to creep over their heads—are apt not to realize how much those letters home mean to mother.

Mother's day is a good day to begin thinking more about mother, and to form a resolution that hereafter every day shall be mother's day, and not just one day a year.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

You haven't forgotten about that, have you?

About giving preference in your buying to goods made and handled in Duluth, so that your money, so far as possible, will stay here where it will help build up the community and so come back to you eventually, instead of going to build up some other community so that it never can come back to you?

During the winter the eyes of many Duluth people were opened to a new conception of their city when they took in the shop excursions and found out how many things are made in Duluth that they never knew about.

Those excursions will do little good unless, besides informing the public about what is made here, they induce the public to buy those things in preference to things made elsewhere.

By a systematic buying of Duluth-made goods, you can accomplish exactly the same thing the Commercial club is aiming for when it tries to induce manufacturers to start business here. The reason the Commercial club does that is that it knows that every new manufacturing enterprise established in Duluth means a new payroll and a new set of producing and wage-earning people who will patronize Duluth merchants and doctors and newspapers and lawyers and the rest.

Yet if Duluth could transfer its entire patronage, now going to manufacturers living in other cities, to manufacturers living and doing business here, it would expand the payrolls now existing here so as to add more wage-earners than the Commercial club could add by bringing a hundred new manufacturing plants to Duluth.

Des Moines is using an idea along this line that is worth copying. And it is only fair to say that it is not the first thing Des Moines has done that is worth copying. There is the commission plan of city government, for one thing, which Des Moines worked out and which this city, some time soon it is to be hoped, is going to copy.

Des Moines has had printed and circulated a lot of documents which are called "Made in Des Moines Loyalty Certificates," and which are in form as follows:

.....MADE IN DES MOINES.....

CERTIFICATE OF LOYALTY TO HOME INDUSTRIES.

This certifies that..... has purchased.....manufactured by.....

Signed.....

.....CITY OF CERTAINTIES.....

Every purchaser of goods made in Des Moines is given one of these certificates, properly filled out by the merchant making the sale. A prize list has been arranged, and when the contest ends June 30 the winners—those having the largest number of certificates—will get handsome prizes of cash and of articles made in Des Moines.

It is related by the Des Moines newspapers that the plan has taken well, that the people are showing marked interest in the contest, that there is a large and growing demand among customers of local merchants for the certificates, and that as a result the local sale of goods made in Des Moines is steadily increasing.

The good of that contest will not cease with the awards of prizes. The people of Des Moines will have learned that it is just as easy to buy home-made goods as to buy goods made in other cities, and in a large degree they will keep on buying goods made in Des Moines.

May The Herald suggest this plan to the Commercial club of Duluth?

DO IT FOR DULUTH!

MAKING THE IMPOSSIBLE EASIER.

Attention is called to the article on another page by the Minnesota tax commission, explaining the law passed at the recent session of the legislature substituting a nominal tax on credits for the old absurd system of attempting to tax them at full value.

As the commission says, the law providing for a flat tax of $3 per $1,000 on money and credits "is simply a recognition on the part of the legislature of the fact that it is impossible to tax such property with any degree of uniformity or fairness on the same basis as other property."

If the expectations of the commission are realized, more money and credits will be taxed under the new system than under the old, so that the gross revenue will be greater under the very small tax proposed than the old system ever yielded.

The only question is whether the owners of money and credits have not grown so accustomed to lying about their possessions that the habit will be hard to break.

"Lying" is possibly a strong term, but it is accurate. Nevertheless, owners of money and credits were justified in lying, and that fact is a strong commentary on a system of taxation which makes lying justifiable and hypocrisy necessary.

Under the old system, if you had $1,000 in the bank or loaned on a note you were supposed to list it for taxation. If you listed it at actual value and paid the normal tax rate on it, you would pay, in Duluth this year, $39.30 in taxes. If your $1,000 were drawing 3 per cent interest in a savings bank, you would get $30 a year for it, or $9.30 less than the taxes. If it was loaned at 5 per cent you would get $50 a year, or a little more than 1 per cent net. In view of these facts, of course, you swore you had no money or credits when the assessor came around.

Under the new law if you list your money or credits you will pay a flat tax of $3 per $1,000, which isn't bad at all.

This undoubtedly will make it easier to get something out of credits, and it may be that the expectations of the commission will be realized. At any rate it is an interesting experiment, and very illuminating as to the absurdities of the old personal property tax system. When Minnesota gets down to brass tacks in taxation, very likely it will exempt credits from taxation altogether. Taxing credits serves no useful purpose except to get revenue, and so far it hasn't produced much revenue. Wherever it yields revenue it is the borrower who pays, and that means putting a tax on thrift and enterprise. The man who borrows puts his money into active use, either in buildings which are fully taxed, and taxed no less because there is a tax on the borrowed money that built them, or into a business which gives employment and pays its due tax.

In 1910, it appears from the commission's statement, the total amount of money and credits found in this state was $16,000,000, which isn't 5 per cent of the money actually on deposit in Minnesota banks. That shows clearly that the old system was a failure. By the new system the state says to the owner of money or credits: "Be honest, and we'll let you off with a light tax." Under the old system the state said: "Be honest, and we'll confiscate practically all the revenue from your credits and bank deposits." Clearly the new system is an improvement.

THE HONOR OF THE PRESS.

Under the above caption Don C. Seitz of the New York World contributes to Harper's Weekly an able article in which he pays his respects to the confidently positive citizens who go about proclaiming that the press is "controlled," that it is "yellow," that it is unreliable, and that it is various other evil things. The article is not a defense of the newspapers. It is a calm and dignified statement of the facts.

The newspaper carries all of its goods in the main show window. There is no opportunity for deception. The things of which it treats are things of which people—some people always—know. If it lies, there is always somebody who knows it lies, and who will tell on it. If it seeks to deceive, its attempts to do so must be carried on in the broad light of day, with the world as its witness. If it pretends to be what it is not, it becomes ridiculous, for it is surrounded by thousands who know it for what it is. The controlled newspaper will not and can not succeed, either as a newspaper or as an organ. Its first attempt to serve the purpose of those who control it brands it as a boughten serf, and the people will have none of it.

Says Mr. Seitz: "I think I can assert without the possibility of contradiction that the successful newspapers of America are those owned by their proprictors. There are a good many tombstones in the journalistic cemetery that mark the efforts of some rich man or interest to run a newspaper. Such a sheet never yet ran anywhere than into the ground. The same statement can be made concerning party organs. There does not exist in America today a single successful hard and fast loyal party newspaper, while the journals enjoying the widest circulation and greatest financial success are independent, with Democratic leanings. A misleading newspaper would quickly lose its readers, and without readers all is vain. How can a newspaper deceive or mislead the public by what it openly prints or advocates? There is no secrecy in type or ink! The story is right there, right or wrong, true or false, and the paper is responsible to the reader and the law! In no occupation is there such fierce rivalry as in the newspaper profession and business. The first attempt at wrongdoing or deception would be savagely attacked or surely revealed. The truth is that nothing of the sort is deliberately resorted to in any newspaper that depends on the public at large for its circulation."

There is much talk these days about the recall for public officials, so that the people may yank out of his office a man who is unfaithful to them.

Did you ever stop to think that the newspaper is, in a way, a public servant, and that ever since there was a newspaper the people have had the power of recall over its influence and that they have used it wherever it has been needed?

The success of a newspaper is founded on its circulation. A rich man or a rich interest might easily subsidize a newspaper, but they couldn't subsidize the public to read it or believe in it. The public wouldn't read, even if it were free or if they were paid to do it, a newspaper which represented the selfish aims of an individual or an interest. A newspaper MUST draw its success from its readers, and it MUST have the confidence of its readers. Without readers it is nothing; and if a newspaper which had gained the confidence of its readers by serving those from whom its success must come were to be bought over and turned to the service of a special interest the recall would be promptly exerted. Its readers would leave it in a body, and without readers it would die.

A "controlled" press is an impossibility in these days of public intelligence.

A TICKLISH POSITION.

President Diaz of Mexico again makes it clear that he will not leave the presidency while the country is in its present state of unrest.

As the revolutionists are making it equally clear that there can be no rest in Mexico until Diaz and his autocratic powers are cleared away, the Diaz statement comes pretty near amounting to a statement that he will not quit until he is whipped out of his boots.

And judging from the way the insurrectos are progressing and the way their forces are growing, that event won't be long in coming.

ENTERPRISE.

The thriving little town of Laporte, in Hubbard county, burned down the other day, the entire business section being consumed except the building in which the local paper, the News, is published. The News, though a weekly and though publication day was not at hand, promptly got out an extra telling the story of the fire and of the intention to rebuild the town.

Laporte and the Laporte News are to be congratulated on this enterprise, and on the spirit shown in the following quotation from the News extra: "There is not an article for sale in town, but Laporte will rise again bigger, brighter and better than ever." That's the spirit that is making Northern Minnesota.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TREAT ALL ALIKE.

To the Editor of the Herald:

As I am very much interested in your Open Court column would ask for space for a few words I have noticed a number of times lately in the papers about merchants who occupy a small space on the sidewalk. I also notice that they are all ordered to remove everything even to the stands in front of the fruit stores. Now I always try to be a law-abiding citizen, but this seems to me foolishness, if not oppression. Why should our law makers and law officers jump onto the little fish and let the big ones alone? Is not there an ordinance against obstructing the street as well as the sidewalk? Look along First street any time of the day and most every night and see how many wagons are standing in front of the livery stables. Look on First avenue west between Superior and First street. Why not order them removed as the ordinance says it is unlawful to leave them there? Also compel contractors to remove all rubbish as soon as the building is completed. If the law is to be enforced use everyone alike. Give the small dealers a chance as well as the capitalist. One man has no more right to steal than another and I do not see why one has any more right to obstruct the street or sidewalk than another. Thanking you for the space, I remain, FAIR PLAY.

Duluth, May 12.

CARTOONIST TOO GAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I view with much chagrin the flippant manner in which your cartoonist treats my well meant suggestions to the street railway company.

I should grieve to think that the time had come when the solicitude of a public spirited citizen for the public health and welfare would be held up to ridicule.

Are we to run the risk of having our children acquire a taste for tobacco, snuff or mayhap acquire it, though inadvertently putting their transfers in their mouths after receiving them from the conductor? Perish the thought.

In a conversation the other day with a conductor, that gentleman asked me if in my judgment, it would be proper for him to accept five pennies for a fare from a colored man who had been holding them in his mouth to avoid possible loss. I told him to notify the board of health in such cases.

Would it be too much to ask, Mr. Editor, to request you to muzzle your cartoonist, so that he may leave this measure alone, as I believe my suggestions are bearing fruit.

One who watches the conductors closely when they are giving out transfers will notice that the majority refrain from the habit of irrigating their thumbs. SANITARY.

Duluth, May 12.

A Word to Rich Men.

Chicago Tribune: Judge Petit probably does not read the Daily Socialist. We do as a matter of routine journalism. If Judge Petit did he would have noted a few days ago an editorial upon the arrest and alleged kidnaping of McNamara and McManigal. It contrasted the summary and effective measure by which these men were brought before the bar of justice in Los Angeles with the manner in which Edward Tilden has been treated.

The Tribune does not agree with the Daily Socialist as to the method used in apprehending the men charged with destroying the Los Angeles Times building, and has no fear that they will not be given a full and fair trial. But it does not forget there is a widespread opinion that in our courts there is one law for the poor man and one for the rich, which opinion the episode of Mr. Edward Tilden will by no means weaken.

Furthermore, this opinion has altogether too much foundation. The good fortune of Mr. Tilden, though conspicuous, is not unique, and the Tribune invites not merely Judge Petit but also, and chiefly, those men in the banking and business world whose sympathies seem to have been entirely on the side of Mr. Tilden, to consider just what the growth of this opinion will bring about.

The fight of Mr. Tilden against the Helm investigation and the breakdown of the senate's process in court are sinking deep into the consciousness of the American people. The defense of Lorimer, which is really the defense of the powers behind Lorimer, has shocked and aroused the whole people. It has stirred the nation to a profound sense of danger, not merely to its welfare but to the very existence of its institutions.

Is it to be said of the great moneyed interests of the country that whom the gods would destroy they first make mad?

Swatting the Fly.

Baby-bye, here's a fly;
Let us swat him, you and I.

See him crawl on the wall
Whack! He wasn't there at all!

Dear me suz! Hear him buzz!
There! I swatted where he was.

Ah, see there—on the chair.
Humph, at least he got a scare.

Easy. Wait! Let's aim straight.
Goodness me, we broke a plate!

Drat the thing! Now, by jing,
We will swat him on the wing.

Wait right here till he's near—
There! We broke the chandelier.

Huh! We'll see if he'll be
Half as smart as you and me.

Cautious, now. He'll see how
We will nail him quickly. Wow!

Bless my soul! Broke that bowl—
Only see the pieces roll.

Hush, my pet. Don't forget
We will land his flyship yet.

See him scout roundabout;
We will soon have him worn out.

Bang and smash! Swing and crash!
Cut glass shattered in that dash!

There, now, look—window nook!
See me swat him with this book.

Woe, alas! Go to grass,
Fly! You made me break the glass.

Cease the fray—he won't stay,
But we scared him, anyway.

Reciprocal Toryism.

New York World: When the trade agreement with Canada was negotiated there was no serious opposition to it in that country. The hostility, the talk of annexation, and, above all, the unnecessary delay at Washington have had their effect at Ottawa, and the prospect now is that if the Dominion acts favorably at all it will not be until autumn.

Thus Toryism in the United States and Toryism in Canada give each other aid and comfort. For every standpatter of privilege rooted in favoring laws produced by ourselves, our neighbors can present a counterpart. Their aims being alike, it is natural that they should operate along the same lines.

Chief of these is delay. Vested wrongs are never in a hurry. If our reciprocal Toryism can postpone action long enough something may happen that will defeat reciprocal trade altogether. The do-nothing policy of our senate fits in perfectly with the plans of the Tories in the Canadian parliament.

There ought to be in the United States senate a Democrat or a Republican courageous enough to denounce this combination.

WHO SHALL CONTROL?

Chicago Daily Socialist: The demand for radical changes in our economic and political systems is making itself felt everywhere. Governor Woodrow Wilson, possible Democratic presidential candidate, in a late public address said:

"There is the notorious operation of the bi-partisan political machine, willing to enter into any combination to control the offices of localities and of states and of the nation itself in order to maintain the power of those who who direct it. Among the remedies proposed in recent years for this sinister condition have been the initiative and referendum in the field of legislation and the recall in the field of administration."

Governor Wilson fully approves of these measures. In fact he regards them as the only way in which the people can regain the control of government.

The Socialist party has always stood for the initiative, referendum and the recall. They are the fundamentals of Socialism.

The people, if they are to secure to themselves the benefits of industrial achievement, must manage and direct industrial forces. This cannot be done by an exclusively representative government. Such a government necessarily and inherently breeds corruption. To put into the hands of representatives who are not directly subject to the people the power which goes with government is to put a premium upon chicanery, graft and corruption. It breeds Lorimers as inevitably as flies breed maggots.

Under direct government the people propose the laws. They will study and discuss them. They will get away from the befogging personalities that now debase practical politics. They will discover the laws that govern human actions, just the laws that govern mechanics, have been discovered by those who have studied mechanics. Government will cease to be arbitrary and unscientific, often tyrannical and reactionary, and will become the executive instrument of the knowledge of the people. Passion will give way to study and consideration. There will be less heat but more light.

In regard to the privileges of corporations Governor Wilson said:

"What is necessary in order to rectify the whole mass of business of this kind is that those who control it should entirely change their point of view. They are trustees, not masters, of private property."

This is significant. It almost concedes the central contention of Socialism. Socialism will make productive property public and will appoint or elect trustees to manage it for the benefit of the owners—the public, everybody.

Governor Wilson is almost a Socialist. At a banquet last fall in Chicago he said: "There is no longer any private business." By this he meant that business affects the public welfare and that it must be conducted with regard to the public well-being. This principle is making itself felt more and more as the intimate economic relations by the modern system of production Production has become social and must logically be controlled by society collectively.

Once the Poet Won.

Tit-Bits: "I understand that Kipling is paid a dollar a word for his poetry," said the soulful poet to the hard-headed editor. "Now you don't pay me any such price for my poetry."

"I can hardly afford to pay you a dollar a word for your poetry," the editor said; "but will pay you a dollar a line for a short poem."

The poet departed, to return next day, with the following poem:

The New Boarder "Got On."

The Mirror: When the new boarder went into the dining room and sat down, there was only one other person at the table. The new boarder had a kind heart and thought he would be affable.

"I suppose you've boarded here for some time?" he said to the other man.

"Yes, quite a while."

"How is it? Any good?"

"Yes, pretty fair. I have no complaint to make."

"Landlady treat you decent?"

"Well, perhaps I ought to"—and then he hesitated.

"Oh, never mind, old man," the new boarder said, "That's all right. I'm on. But, say, mebbe you never tried chucking her under the chin once in a while. That's the way to get on with 'em. I never had a landlady that didn't treat me A-1 yet. It's all in the way you handle 'em. See! I'll bet I can live here for a month on end without being asked for a shilling. Watch me banter her when she comes in. Before this time tomorrow she'll be telling me her family history. Poor old girl! She looks as if she'd had her troubles. Probably got tied to some John Henry, who was about man enough to shoo chickens out of the yard, and that's all. My name's Smith. Let's see, I haven't heard yours, have I?"

"No—no, I believe not. But it doesn't matter. I'm just the landlady's husband."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Reputations don't thrive with very much light on them.

Every good thing a man could do if he only had the money he wouldn't do if he had it.

The man who never makes a fool of himself wouldn't think so if it was somebody else doing it.

The only people who don't think they can take care of themselves in any situation are those who really can.

If a man could make his wife comprehend how much it helps his business for him to go to baseball games he'd almost be willing to go to a reception with her once a year.

"Valueless."

New York World: The Dutch have taken possession of one of the Philippine Islands called Palmas.

Washington dispatches announce that our government "does not intend to protest, regarding the island as valueless." It was stated "that aside from sentiment it made no difference whose flag floated there."

Can we believe our ears? What has become of all those lofty ideals which we garlanded about the Philippines? What has become of that noble duty which prevented our leaving those islands to their islanders for fear they would be seized by some other nation less benevolent than ourselves? What has become of those inspired motives which impelled us to rule the Filipinos against their will for their own good, denying them the right of habeas corpus in order to teach them the art of self government, inflicting the water cure to lure them into the sweetness of civilization? Where now is the white man's burden?

Are we to abandon our sacred wards on the island of Palmas to the sordid mercies of the Dutch because they are "valueless." Are we to surrender these pupils of our democracy to the influences of a monarchy because they are "valueless?"

Has it all from the very beginning been nothing but cant? Is the white man's burden nothing but the brown man's purse?

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Making Goodness Interesting.

We are fortunate in living in a day when virtue tends more and more to array itself in beauteous garments. It used to be said concerning New York journalism that a certain morning daily made vice so attractive and a certain evening daily made virtue so repellent, that the lot of anyone who would follow the straight path in New York city was indeed a hard one. One has to admit that custodians of goodness throughout the centuries have now and again made it appear before the world in most unattractive guises. Deacons are usually represented in fiction as with long faces and they have often been that in real life. Sunday to many minds is associated chiefly with restrictions; the "good" boy is thought in many quarters to be a prig and even a bright college girl once honestly declared that she never knew but one really good fellow that she really liked.

But a change is coming over the situation. We no longer think that hard, uncushioned pews in themselves promote the spirit of reverence, or that it is an inducement for outsiders to attend church when they see the edifice itself in need of paint and repairs and the grounds about it in an unkempt condition. So a multitude of improvements in the way of teaching religion in the home and the Sunday school, a vast and constantly increasing number of beautifully printed and illustrated books relating to the Bible and the religious life, the employment of the stereopticon and even of motion pictures, and numerous other devices make goodness more interesting to people, old and young. They witness, also, an altogether desirable change in the attitude of supposed custodians of goodness. The boy scout movement, for example, is only one of the several recently inaugurated movements designed to connect high moral ideals with the every day interests and pleasures of mankind.

Rightly conceived, the virtuous life is the most interesting that anyone can live, and the agencies that minister to it can be made attractive. What book, for example, compares with the Bible as an inexhaustible storehouse of human interest? Its stories, narrations, incidents, poetry, dramatic scenes, parables, prophecies and character sketches all may be made to appeal and fascinate the mind. Only we must get at the Bible in the right way. Few people realize how really interesting it is.

But someone will say, "It does not pay to make goodness too attractive. It takes all the heroic element out of it, when we sugarcoat every righteous message and allure men into the Kingdom by offering them free seats in a parlor car." But that is by no menas what we are doing. On the contrary the appeal to the heroic is the very thing that interests young men and women with any red blood in their veins. The call to do something for others, to invest their lives in behalf of the things that count and last quickens the pulses and challenges the manly impulses as no tame proposition could ever do.

Anyhow, each one of us had no business to foster any other than an attractive type of personal goodness. We ought to be winsome as well as honest, gracious and magnetic as well as pure and diligent. The next time you hear the minister pronounce the benediction, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you," think what that means in its bearing upon your daily behavior.

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Pittsburg Post: "Plague take that woman!"

"My friend, she is the most beautiful girl in this town."

"That may be. But she obstructs my view of second base."

Woman's Home Companion: Willie—What's the most ferocious animal in the circus, papa?

Pa—The calliope, my son.

London Opinion: "You never had measles at your school—did you?"

"And you never had a fit in the street—I did!"

Washington Star: "What you ought to do," said the sage adviser, "is to meet every man and boy in your community face to face."

"There's only one way to manage that," replied the young man who is learning politics. "I'll have to get a position as ticket taker at the ball grounds."

Life: Bitter (at servant's agency)—Have you got a cook who will go to the country?

Manager (calling out to girls in next room)—Is there any one here who would like to spend a day in the country?

The Housekeeper: "I'm quite a near neighbor of yours now," said Mrs. Bore; "I'm living just across the bay."

"Indeed," replied Miss Smart, "I hope you'll drop in some day."

New York Sun: Aesop was writing his fables.

"Why don't you get one about it being cheaper to own your own home than to pay rent?" sneered a suburbanite.

Herewith he saw a lost opportunity.

Puck: Old Party—Ah! Playing London bridge is falling down?

Gwendolyn Richdad—Oh, no. We're playing papa's 10-story building is being razed to make room for a 40-story skyscraper.

Chicago Journal: Moralist—Ah, kind friend, it is deeds, not words, that count!

Friend—Oh, I don't know. Did you ever send a telegram?

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: You can't destroy courage by plucking it up.

A signal failure has wrecked many a train of thought.

There are more good women in this world than great ones.

Every man should master the art of concealing his ignorance.

The man who praises the baby always wins the mother's smile.

People should enjoy cool receptions in warm weather—but they don't.

It doesn't take the average man long to get used to making a fool of himself.

Hypocrisy is pardonable in those who appear to be cheerful when they are sad.

The average man would rather be a captain of industry than an army general.

Many a man's education consists of being loaded to the muzzle with worthless ammunition.

A great many pictures are overdrawn and a great many bank accounts would be were it not for the watchful cashier.

Is It a Home Paper?

Portland Oregonian: "Put your advertisement in newspapers that are fit to go into the home," was the advice of W. F. Lipman in talking to ad men and members of the Portland Ad club recently. He said:

"Today 90 per cent of the advertising is accomplished through newspapers. It is the most successful and the only correct medium when results are to be obtained. Today, no matter what the business, the first question to be determined is the advertising. Second comes the medium, and it is of the medium which I wish to talk. Marshall Field, I believe, was said to have laid down the rule: 'First show me that the paper is the paper of the home and I will take up the question of the size of my advertising.'

"In other words, Mr. Field held to the theory that the newspaper must be a home paper, and to be a home paper you must first print the news that is fit to print. He always said that he never cared to advertise in a paper whose circulation was on the street and in the byways."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

Lazarus Silverman, who has been prominent among the bankers of Chicago for the past fifty years, is at the Spalding, having returned from a two days' visit to Mesaba Heights. He stated that the object of his visit was to make arrangements for again quarrying granite at Hinsdale. Mr. Silverman years ago purchased 4,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Hinsdale from the government. He formed the Oriental Granite & Iron company, which leased the Hinsdale quarry to the Minnesota Granite company. It worked the quarry for some time, furnishing the stone for the Chicago Auditorium. Later it ceased operating and the lease has been cancelled. Mr. Silverman is now organizing a new company to work it. Several Chicago capitalists will be in it, and also Quimby & Omeis of this city, who will handle the stone.

W. B. Fuller, who recently resigned as city engineer, has received the offer of an excellent position on the Pacific coast and will leave tomorrow for the West. He is a near relative of President Oakes of the Northern Pacific and has secured this position through his influence. Mr. Fuller was connected with the Northern Pacific for years before coming to Duluth.

John W. Roche, for twenty years city comptroller of St. Paul, is dead.

The Labor party made almost a clean sweep in the village election at West Duluth yesterday. J. M. Martin was elected president by 208 majority over A. Lockwell. F. T. Green had 186 majority over W. H. Short for recorder. A. Poirier was successful for treasurer, defeating H. W. Wheeler by 264 majority. For assessor, R. N. Moody won by 261 majority over M. T. Kennedy, and T. C. Himebaugh was elected judge by 197 majority over M. C. Burnside.

The Y. M. C. A. yesterday made arrangements for athletic grounds, securing the use of four acres on R. M. Hunter's farm on the motor line, just around the curve from Macfarlane's farm.

S. De La Vergne has gone to Troy, N. Y., on account of sickness in his family, and will be absent two weeks.

Capt. George H. Young, customs inspector for Canada, arrived in the city yesterday.

C. S. Dabney, William Wrong, R. D. and B. Selden and Arthur McGuire started for Pike Lake this morning for a few days of fishing and hunting.

Ex-President Miron Bunnell of the board of public works returned today from a six weeks' trip to Michigan, bringing with him a bride, who was a resident of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Walter Ayers, W. D. Edson and P. C. Schmidt were admitted this morning to practice in the United States courts.

A TEMPERANCE LECTURE

BY HENRY WATTERSON IN THE LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL.

Writing from Munich, Bavaria, to Louisville, Ky., is much like writing from Louisville, Ky., to Munich, Bavaria.

Touching Bavarian Beer.

because the essential difference between the two, like that between politics and parties in the United States, is of condition and kind; the idiosyncrasy of Kentucky, whisky, of Bavaria, beer.

I don't know much about whisky, have never drunk enough of it to learn —they tell me the Kentucky brands are the best ever and I can well believe it, taking the Kentucky women and the Kentucky horses as the world's standard of excellence—but I am an expert on beer, and I do say that there is nowhere on earth equal to the Bavarian Hofbrau; howbeit, the especial brew which Adolphus Busch makes for Tony Faust, comes near to it, whilst there is good beer to be had in Milwaukee, in Louisville and even in Cincinnati, bless her poor old soul!

I hope I shall not too greatly offend the Kentucky distillers, when I declare that, if I had the power, I would translate every distillery into a brewery. The cure for drunkenness, if there be any cure, is light wines and lager. The case-hardened prohibitionist who confesses himself unable to distinguish between a glass of grog and a stein of beer—nay, who still further discredits his judgment by admitting that he is unable to realize the amazing contrarieties betwixt a bottle of whisky and a hole in the ground—is as much opposed to the one as to the other. He makes no discrimination. All drinks look alike to him, each hell-bent and got-breeding, the most innocent tipple along with the strongest spirits. The experience of continental Europe is proof of my contention. Here in Bavaria, the beer consumption is universal and enormous, and there is no drunkenness of the sort so common with us. I am indebted to Consul General Thomas Willing Peters for a valuable collation of facts bearing upon the drink question from this point of view.

The laws governing the sale of beer, wines and liquors in Munich are in the nature of the people and the case extremely liberal. According to the census of 1905, there were in Munich 538,-938 inhabitants, all, or at least a very high percentage, requiring liquid nourishment, principally in the form of beer. To meet this need the authorities granted permission to 1,480 saloons, in which beer may be sold; 120 wine restaurants, eighty-one cafes and eight teahouses, making an average of one establishment for the sale of such refreshments to about 319 persons, exclusive of the floating population. Considering that beer is both food and drink and of universal consumption, this is not a high percentage.

Any respectable person making application to the proper authorities and securing permission can open a saloon for the sale of beer; but a bar where other liquors as well as beer are sold is subject to the restriction that it must be 400 meters distant from any other bar of the same description, nor will permission be granted by the authorities unless they are satisfied that the pubic require such additional saloons for its convenience. Besides the regular income tax, a license tax has to be paid according to the rent which the saloon keeper has to pay. The proprietor must keep an accurate account and return a certain percentage on the profits of his business. The hour for opening the beer saloons and winehouses are ordinarily from 5 a. m., closing at 11 p. m., including Sundays and holidays, the tearooms and coffee rooms closing at 7 o'clock p. m.

The question of prohibition is unknown. The moral sealot would be considered a crank. Beer is not only drink, but food, for a large proportion of the population. The manufacturer of beer is under the strict supervision of the law, which is rigidly enforced, and nothing but malt and hops can be used.

The consumption of concentrated alcoholic drinks in proportion to that of beer is exceeding small. Beer and light wines constitute the national beverage equally for the wealthy and the lowly, the rich and the poor. The many beautiful gardens where drinks are dispensed, having comfortable tables and chairs and good attendants, are crowded during pleasant weather with the most respectable classes of society, ranging from the highest in rank to the peasantry, all joining together in a republic of pleasure, drinking in moderation while enjoying the best of music. This is furnished as a rule by some one of the numerous military bands. It is the same during the winter months with the indoor places.

Upon many journeys through Germany I have never seen one single case of drunkenness in any of these halls or gardens. Cheating, with its concomitant evils, is practically unknown. Each man pays for what he requires, drinking no more than he wishes. Sometimes the general thirst on a warm summer day is titanic in its capacity for consumption. But, notwithstanding the vast quantities consumed, beer does not seem to engender the combative element aroused by alcoholic drink; it has rather the reverse effect, for it does not destroy the thirst, but contains a food quality, which resists the small percentage of alcohol, rendering the recipient contented with himself and his surroundings; a kindly beverage, in short, one might fancy, to smooth away the cares of life and the workaday world, satisfying at once the spirit and the man.

II.

I have never doubted that the relation of strong drink to crime and of the light wines and beer to crime would, as indicated by the police statisticsin every land, show much to the advantage of the latter as against the former. That the brewers of our country have to answer for an overplus of low dives set up by them where liquors as well as beer are sold, is true enough. At this point Adolphus himself spoke in no uncertain terms less than a year ago. But this is an incident which does not affect the argument in favor of the vinous and malt fluids.

The Criminal Record.

Washington, himself a distiller, was of this opinion. Jefferson, who had seen more of the world—assuredly more of the European world—than Washington, went the length of making a strenuous effort to introduce wine and beer to Virginia by offering a bonus to the vintners and brewers who would come and try the experiment. Not until the Germans arrived in great numbers, however, did the beer industry prosper.

Touching this relation of drink to crime, as revealed by the police records, I am permitted by Consul General Peters to make the following quotation from the latest data compiled by him:

The statistics of arrests for all causes will give some idea of the effect of beer on crime, although it does not necessarily follow that the crime was directly the result of beer. On the contrary the percentage of intoxication which intuenced crime possibly was very small indeed, the percentage of arrests for all causes in comparison with the population was very small and decreasing in a remarkable manner from 1901 when there were 9,334 arrests with a population of 413,255 to 1907 with a population of 538,983 and only 3,883 arrests for all causes.

Inebriety is not a crime in Munich nor will one be arrested for it unless connected with some other cause which may have been the result of inebriety.

There are times, the present is one of them, when a beer called "Salvator" is brewed; this beer is double the strength of ordinary beer and much desired by the people. Only a certain amount of this is brewed and generally consumed in two or three weeks. During this time there is a certain amount of intoxication among the people, but not of a violent character as that produced by alcoholic drink.

The following table of arrests will show the decrease of crime since 1901:

1901 there were	9,334 arrests
1902 there were	9,336 arrests
1903 there were	9,015 arrests
1904 there were	8,801 arrests
1905 there were	6,917 arrests
1906 there were	5,572 arrests
1907 there were	3,883 arrests

In 1901 Munich had a population of 413,255, in 1907 538,983, while in 1910 595,053. The statistics of arrests for that year, I regret to say, I have not as yet received. But it will, I dare say, maintain the average of the above figures.

These figures are tolerably conclusive in telling their own story. They completely refute the pleas of the American prohibitionists, who, as I said, make no discrimination and allow no distinctions. One and all, they are intemperate in what they call their temperance, a single glass, according to their philosophy, being the first mile-post on the road to perdition, a glass of beer, or a glass of wine, and a glass of grog, one and the same.

They take their stand upon total abstinence, which is their right. But, not content with adopting it for themselves, they seek to force it by law upon their neighbors. It is impossible to reason with such a spirit. It is of the very essence of despotism. Gratified with respect to intoxicants, it would next address itself to tobacco; then to such food as might fall beneath its ban; and finally, to religious opinion, wearing apparel and personal behavior. Tyranny accepted knows no bounds. Fanaticism is relentless. Over here the masses of the people know this but too well, and the rulers dare not run counter to it.

The moderate use of drink has brought as much happiness into the world as its immoderate use has brought wretchedness. Even in Kentucky, in any of the states of America, there is not percapita in any community one sot to a hundred moderate drinkers. Both in England and in the United States drunkenness has steadily abated under the ministrations of an intelligent morality. In these European beer-brewing and wine-making countries drunkenness of the kind common to us is unknown; their standards of production undiminished, their domestic happiness unclouded; their racial and personal worth untainted by their national beverage, whether it be the varied vintage of the grape, or the homely offspring of hops and malt, they go their way, and laugh at "despotism in America."

III.

Of course there are other breweries besides the Hofbrau in Munich. The Hofbrau is merely a crown property, an inheritance of the Wittelbachs, the reigning family, which dates into the ages so far that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Though beer is the national beverage, the government claims and has no monopoly. Nevertheless, the Hofbrauhaus is still by odds the most popular resort of the city.

The Moral of the Story.

This Hofbrauhaus was built in 1644. Ludwig the Severe (1255 to 1294), we are told, already possessed a brewery in Munich and under him regulations for the brewers were first drawn up. In the sixteenth century the white wheaten-beer came from Bohemia to Munich and took the place of the brown barley-beer. The brewing of this beer was, however, stopped by the police authorities because it was held to be injurious to health. Whereupon the duke monopolized the right of brewing, and so originated the ducal white brew-house, when, in 1589, "in the interest of the royal purse," a "brown" or "Hofbrauhaus" beer was again brewed in the Hof, which was enlarged in 1631.

In 1708 brown beer was also brewed in the "white brew-house," but since 1807 only brown beer has been brewed.

As early as the fifteenth century the brewers assumed an important position among the tradespeople of the town. In the year 1500 there were already twelve beer breweries in Munich. In 1800 a consumption of 50,000 kilderkins was calculated for the summer months alone, and for the year 150,000 kilderkins, according to which it averaged three kilderkins a head, for the population at that time of 40,500. The "Einbeck" beer, called later "Bock" and brewed only by the Hof, was sold for two months, beginning on Ascension day 300 years ago. The Hofbrauhaus, as I said, is the most frequented beer house in Munich, and the best is regarded as the best. But the old primitive place has been renewed and looks most respectable, the Hofbrauhaus rebuilt and brought somewhat to date. The rooms, however, are still furnished in the style of the time of its foundation, and are decorated with paintings. Over the head of the antechamber in the first story. Passing through the room we come to the large hall with a vaulted roof and Gothic windows, allegories and mottoes on the walls between the windows and at the ends symbolical mural paintings. From the roof are suspended chandeliers with electric light. In the entresol there is a richly decorated "Prunkstube," and everywhere one meets an air of medieval grace with modern comfort.

The throngs that gather here are a sight to see. It is perpetually crowded. The nobleman and the workman rub elbows. Women and children come and go of their own sweet will. Disorder of any sort is undreamed of. The can of beer served for twenty-four pfennigs (six cents) and double the size of a stein known in America. When his can is empty the habitue takes it himself to the cask and has it refilled. Cheese and sausage are the food adjunct. This has been going on duly in and day out for hundreds of years, and furnishes a complete answer to the dogma of the American prohibitionists "that we can no more conduct the liquor traffic without wilfully making drunkards than we can run rattlesnake ranches without raising poison." One might as well say that we cannot run banks without raising embezzlers; or railways without encountering accidents; or cucumbers and cabbage without the risk of cholera morbus, the thief, the wreck, the bellyache, like the drunkard, being the exception. Shall we have no more fiscal institutions, no more lines of transportation, no more truck gardens and no more cakes and ale? Perish the thought, for what has worked so well in Bavaria can be in Kentucky or anywhere else where the rule of sanity and moderation is observed.

We think we are a free people. We agree that the world is too much governed. Yet nowhere is individual liberty so assaulted as in the United States. The prohibition wave, now happily subsiding, was a menace to free institutions, a step too much governed. Yet nowhere is individual liberty so assaulted as in the United States. The prohibition wave, now happily subsiding, was a menace to free institutions, a step too much governed. It needs but a beginning to see that there are worse evils than the drink evil; evils more subversive of the character of a nation, because more general and pervasive, less obvious and immediate. The drunkard is usually in evidence. He may be dealt with. It is otherwise with the varying forms of personal and and political corruption. Virtue is self-enforcing, vice not enforced obedience to drastic regulation. Morality is relative. That may be moral in one country which is immoral in another country. Circumstances alter cases. Time and place must be regarded. This is strictly exemplified by the Hofbrauhaus of Munich.

The "common good," about which we hear so much, like the "general welfare" and "the constitution," has been worked to death. The "common good" is the veriest abstraction. It is not everywhere the same as one sees here in Bavaria. It has its variants. Who is to decide what is the "common good?" Time was when the church, or rather its close corporation of ruling prelates, alone decided. The "common good" was their belief, or pretended belief, as prescribed religious dogma. The "common good" embraced certain customs, manners and clothing decreed by canon law as orthodox. The penalties assessed against the delinquent varied from hanging to burning, from the rack to the thumbscrew. They were applied by whichever church party found itself in the ascendant.

After many centuries of strenuous trial in the effort to make men good by force of arms and tortues, both a costly and a ghastly failure, the self-ordained agents of God sowing the world in blood and flame, were sent to the rear and the doctrine of toleration —the bedrock of all freedom, of all enlightenment, of all good government—was established measurably throughout Christendom, but absolutely as the founders thought in the United States.

This the prohibitionists would set aside and nullify. To do so they fly in the face of Heaven itself. Treading the cloisters of the past here in Europe, or traveling the thoroughfares of the present at home, I know but one torch to light the way, and that is the Spirit of the Man of Galilee, whose teaching from first to last was at war with force, appealing to the better nature and the reason of man, not his brutal passions and combative parts, and, taking this for my guide, I cannot help thinking the American prohibitionist impious and irreligious in his dogmatism and at the same time as unwise and undiscriminating in his worldly methods.

I might as well rail at God for bringing sin and disease and death into the world and seek to encompass them by sumptuary legislation. Men may be made hypocrites by law, but never saints. Religious truth has been rather obscured and retarded than accelerated by theologic controversy.

Repressive agencies culminate in reactions. Radical puritanism in England was succeeded by the debaucheries of the Restoration; and prohibition laws in the United States have not only not diminished drunkenness, but they have brought in their train scandals and evils quite as hurtful to the community at large as drink has brought to that limited section of the community given over to the excessive use of intoxicants; that is, contempt for law, evasions of law, extortion and adulteration, the corruption alike of the officials and the drink, lawful and needful revenues extinguished in favor of lawless indulgences; the fanatical preacher and the grafting politician uniting to work the spy system each for his own ends, but against the mass and body of society. THE CABIN. By Stewart Edward White, author of "The Rules of the Game," "The Blazed Trail," etc. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. Fixed price, $1.50.

Mr. White has given us a very engrossing, very delightful and very satisfying book in this simple tale of the building of a cabin home in the forest-girdled meadow, 6,500 feet up in the Sierras. The fresh breezes blow through it, a love and understanding of nature animate it and a quaint and wholesome philosophy, not unmixed with gentle humor, enliven it.

THE VERY LITTLE PERSON. By Mary Heaton Vorse, author of "The Breaking in of a Yachtsman's Wife," etc. Boston: Houghton-Mifflin company. $1 net.

Mrs. Vorse writes charmingly and entertainingly of the early history of a girl baby, of the experiences and impressions of her father and mother when parenthood was new and grand and solemn, and of the little tragedies and humors of babyhood. The book, which will provide rich entertainment for fathers and mothers, is illustrated by Rose O'Neill, as all books about children should be.

A YEAR IN A COAL MINE. By Joseph Husband. New York: Houghton Mifflin company. $1.10 net.

"Begin at the bottom" is the stereotyped form of advice given to young men about to enter any line of business, but not many of them find that the instruction means that they are to begin at the bottom of a coal mine. In the case of Joseph Husband that is exactly what it meant, and in the early chapters of his book we find him working deep underground, side by side with a Greek who could make little or nothing out of the form of the language his companion had learned at Harvard. Mr. Husband tells vividly and interestingly of the life in the Illinois mine, and relates experiences in every sort of peril that comes to the men who work underground. His writing is free from efforts at literary flourish. He gives just a plain, unvarnished narrative, that holds the attention from its very simple humanness, and throws new light on the means by which the country is given its coal supply.

It always is interesting to know what any prominent woman thinks of the woman suffrage movement, and when the woman in question possesses the ability to express her belief and give the reasons for it plainly, the expression and the arguments are bound to attract attention. Miss Seawell does not believe in votes for women, and says so very earnestly in this book. The value of her arguments will of course appeal differently to different persons, according to their own preconceived notions, but she certainly gives the impression that she is deeply in earnest in what she says and that she has looked into the matter with unusual thoroughness.

Miss Seawell maintains that those of her sex who are struggling so mightily for the ballot do not realize what they are asking. She declares, too, that "they hopelessly confuse political, philanthropic, social and economic questions" and do not seem able to "discriminate between objects of national and those of state or municipal regulation." Seeking still further to discredit the position of the suffragists, she suggests that few of them, "perhaps, could explain, offhand, why the house of representatives has a committee on foreign affairs, and the senate a committee on foreign relations. Fewer, still, probably, understand the connection between the first parliament of Henry IV. and the absence of a census committee in the United States senate." She admits that "the ordinary voter may not understand these things; but suffragists, proposing a great, fundamental change in government, a change greater, perhaps, than they really contemplate, ought to understand such points, which are among the alphabet of representative government."

Among the most striking points Miss Seawell seeks to make are: That the ballot is not, as the suffrage advocates claim, a natural or a moral right, but a privilege, in support of which contention she quotes Senator Elihu Root and Chief Justice Marshall; that women voters would inevitably become a privileged class of voters, "their mere exemption from military and naval duty making them such," and this she declares to be contrary to the "first fundamental of our present form of government;" that women would be unable to enforce the laws they themselves made, since enforcement involves physical force, and that belongs to the other sex; that women, when they gain the ballot, lose certain property privileges that have come to be regarded as vested rights and that are necessary for the welfare of the children of the nation, such as control over the sale of property held by the husband; that to give women the ballot would mean that one class of voters would be dependent on another class for maintenance—the married woman must be supported by her husband—and this she holds to be all wrong, and in violation of the principles of good government.

Miss Seawell indulges in severe criticism of the militant methods of suffrage advocates in both this country and England, and goes at some length into the question of wages of women in suffrage and non-suffrage localities. In conclusion she says:

"It is my earnest hope and belief that the sound good sense of American women will defend them from suffrage.

• • •

I believe that the most important factors in the state are wives and mothers who make of men good citizens to govern and protect the state, and I believe woman suffrage to be an unmixed evil."

THE LAND CLAIMERS. By John Fleming Wilson. Boston: Little, Brown & Co: $1.50.

When a man, once proud of his physical and mental strength, breaks down, what can he do? The most obvious thing, of course, is to get away from the life that broke him down. That leads naturally to the homesteaders' paths, if the man has not accumulated enough wealth to keep himself in comfort. But in every line of work there are men who are constantly preying on the inexperience or the weakness of others. Suppose this man falls into the hands of such a one? He may yet live to make his name blessed in the memories of others, and at the same time accomplish some of his own ends.

Such is the story of "The Land Claimers." The characters are located in the Oregon forests where timber claims are to be had at comparatively low figures. None of the characters is strongly enough drawn to take a powerful hold on either the memory or the imagination. Still, they are all strong enough to answer every purpose of the average novelist and his readers, and the situations are enough out of the ordinary to hold the interest. The love story is so divided as to keep one rather wondering just who are to constitute the happy couple, and the sentiment in the story is nowhere allowed to run into sentimentality. "The Land Claimers" is a really good story of the far Northwest.

Of Books and Writers.

Ellery H. Clark, author of "Reminiscences of an Athlete" (Houghton Mifflin Co.), is probably one of the best known amateur athletes in America. He has been twice, at an interval of six years, the all round athletic champion of America, and thrice the all round athletic champion of New England. As one of the American team at the Olympic games in 1906, his work was largely responsible for the brilliant American victory. His records cover all the incidents on track and field for twenty years, and the achievements of all the well known athletes of this period will be found recorded in narrative and picture.

Stewart Edward White, who is at present making an expedition through Africa for hunting, adventure and fun, and incidentally the acquiring of literary material, writes to his publishers, Doubleday, Page & Co., that he is having the time of his life. Already he has shot thirty-nine different species of big game, including seven specimens of the king of beasts. He has been with a couple of really tight squeaks, has been around Kenia, has devoted some time to a study of the natives, and rejoices to learn that "The Rules of the Game" is among the best sellers.

In his Atlantic Monthly essay on "The Provincial American," Meredith Nicholson covers ground that he expects to use in several forthcoming novels, dealing with Indiana life from several angles. While these will be stories in every sense, they will discuss sober life and problems of the people of the Midwest of the past twenty-five years. The first of these books he has had under way for more than a year, having put it aside to write "The Siege of the Seven Suitors"; but he is now going on with it, though without giving any date for its completion. While these novels will all have Indiana for their habitat, they will connect the life of the Hoosier commonwealth with general currents of thought and aspiration in the period covered. Mr. Nicholson has been getting ready for this work for a number of years, and it was the program he had in mind in writing his Atlantic paper, "The Confessions of a Best Seller." What he is attempting is a close scrutiny of his own people, as a part of the American democracy. No one is more qualified than Mr. Nicholson for such a literary undertaking, and the results will be awaited with great interest.

In John Fleming Wilson, the author of "The Land Claimers," another Princeton graduate has come to the forefront in literature. Graduating from Princeton, Mr. Wilson spent several years in newspaper work, largely on the Pacific coast, where he accumulated some of the local color that pervades his novel and also his short stories.

Quitting the newspaper world, Mr. Wilson turned his attention to magazine work exclusively, and his stories may be found frequently in the Saturday Evening Post, the American Magazine, McClure's, Hampton's, Harper's, etc.

The scenes of his first novel, "The Land Claimers," just published by Little, Brown & Co., Boston, are located in the now famous Siletz region of Oregon, and the story pictures life in the great forests of this vicinity, and the struggles of those who "took up" the great timber claims.

Letters received from Zane Grey indicate that the author of "The Heritage of the Desert" (Harper's) has some interesting experiences ahead of him. His last letter was dated Flagstaff, Arizona, and is as follows: "I leave here tomorrow for Navajo Mountain. There is only one man who knows the trail and his name is Wetherall. He lives in the Painted Desert about 200 miles out and his place is the last trading post. I have an old timer—in fact a 'forty-niner'—to take me out to Tuba, Orathi, Red Lake, and then on to Wetherall's. From there the country is exceedingly barren and wild. In fact, my guide says it is the wildest country left in the United States. Two years ago a geological survey man got a Navajo to take him to this mountain, and this trip resulted in the discovery of the wonderful natural bridge that the Navajos worship. Since then only two or three travelers have undertaken the journey. So I expect a hard but wonderful trip. I hope to get out in a month or six weeks."

The announcement that "The Legacy" Mary S. Watt's forthcoming novel is primarily the story of a woman, is occasioning no little surprise among the many admirers of this author's previous book, "Nathan Burke." When "Nathan Burke" was published the critics expressed astonishment that a woman should have been able to interpret a man's character so masterfully and to see life from his point of view with such indisputable reality. And yet besides this master delineation there were in "Nathan Burke" two women who, as was so often pointed out, were wonderfully drawn—Nance and Mrs. Ducey. It is not at all a surprising fact, therefore, that Mrs. Watts should have chosen to depict feminine nature in considerable detail in "The Legacy" as she has shown she is as much of an artist in this field as in the bolder drawing of male characters.

A. C. McClurg & Co. announce that they have just received the manuscript of a new book of fairy tales by Edith Ogden Harrison. Mrs. Harrison is the wife of Carter H. Harrison, who has just taken his chair for the fifth time as mayor of Chicago, and it is interesting to note that in the political whirl of her husband's campaign, Mrs. Harrison has found time to continue her literary work. The new story strongly suggests "Prince Silverwings," which was Mrs. Harrison's first success, and will be issued uniform with that volume. Mrs. Harrison now has five books of fairy tales to her credit, besides the romance which Messrs. McClurg published last fall, "Princess Sayrane," and her place as a writer is a pretty substantial one.

In the new novel upon which he is now at work, H. G. Wells has turned from business and politics to the field of household economy. "Just now I'm all for the domestic novel," he writes, a rather striking statement from the author of "Tono-Bungay" and "The New Machiavelli." In "The History of Mr. Polly," it is true, Mr. Wells left the world of affairs and confined himself to the fortunes of a very obscure individual. The new novel, however—"Marjorie" will probably be its title—is set in a very different social atmosphere from that in which Mr. Polly moved. Marjorie is said, is a charming girl with a disposition—not uncommon with charming girls—to spend money freely. So strong is the tendency in her case that it brings disaster, temporary but complete enough while it lasts. This theme, it is clear, allows Mr. Wells a splendid opportunity to contrast the old sober, possibly trifle mean-spirited tradition of the nineteenth century with the more extravagant and adventurous phase into which we are now going. Those who have followed Mr. Wells in his exploitation of "Tono-Bungay," and of fundamental problems in "The New Machiavelli," should enjoy his treatment of a theme of universal appeal—spending. The book will be published by Duffield & Co.

Among the Magazines.

The title page of the May number of the North American Review at once compels attention and interest. The leading article is by Rear-Admiral A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., on "Arbitration and Armaments," and outlines with brilliant strategist's view of the interrelation of these two factors in world politics. "President Taft and His Program" is a thoughtful presentation by Richard Hooker of the various situations of national concerns and the policies the executive is pursuing in order to meet each in the best way. Hon. George E. Foster, M. P., ex-minister of Finance of Canada, contributes an able paper on "The Reciprocity Agreement" from a Canadian standpoint. He is strongly in opposition to the proposal and substantiates his argument with skill. "The Recall of Judges," by Albert Fink, is a closely analyzed brief for the government against the adoption of the measure. Medill McCormick, in "Republican Embarrassments," makes an appeal to the Republican party to compose their differences and choose a compelling leader for the next campaign.

One of Hutchins' best three-color cover designs is an airship such as at the present time play a prominent part in the war maneuvers on the Mexican border. These army maneuvers are skilfully woven into a story by Wilbur Daniel Steele in the May National Magazine. The third instalment of William Hodge's serial, "The Guest of Honor," continues to increase the reader's interest. "Affairs at Washington" contains more than usually interesting sketches of prominent men and vital topics. "A New Industrial Leader" draws a lively pen picture of James A. Farrell, the new president of the United States Steel corporation, with whom the author, Robert J. Thompson, has the advantage of a personal acquaintance. A timely monograph, "Remember the Maine," gives a resume of the cause and details of that tragic destruction of a great warship and her crew, of interest now that that iron coffin is being raised in Havana harbor.

Baseball is the cleanest professional sport in the world. A crooked baseball player is so rare a bird as to be almost unknown—not quite unknown, however, for Charles E. The first number of the National Post, a new fortnightly magazine, has made its appearance this month, and it certainly has made good. Its avowed purpose of being a magazine with a character and purpose—alive, alert, sober, progressive, for the people. Will Irwin, Judson C. Welliver, Frederick G. Howe, Charles Edward Russell, Mary Heaton Vorse, the Rev. Newman Smyth, D. D. Richard, Lloyd Jones, and Walter Pritchard Eaton make up a contributing staff of reporters, each an authority on a chosen subject—domestic or foreign politics, the progress and problems of women, religion, education, science, literature, the drama, or the general news of the world. With the other associate writers they form the strongest group ever assembled on a single publication. "La Follette Today," "The Awakening of a College Professor," a study of Woodrow Wilson, by Herman Walker, "The Protection of Nursing Mothers in Industry" by Mary Heaton Vorse," The Crumbling House of Lords," and "Switzerland, the Laboratory of Democracy," both by Walter Weyl, and "Checking up the New Zealand Experiment" ((two articles) by Charles Edward Russel, are among the important contributions planned for early issues of The National Post. The fiction for these numbers will include "A Piccolo in a Garden," by Walter Pritchard Eaton, "On the Barren," by James Oliver Curwood, "Bobby Willard Passes By," by Mary Heaton Vorse, and a series of five baseball stories by Zane Grey (author of "The Rube" and "Old Well-Well"). The titles of the Rube stories are "The Rube's Nutty Nine," "The Rube's Waterloo," "The Rube's Honeymoon," "The Rube's Pennant," and "The Rube Breaks Into Fast Company.

The principal features of the May number of the American Review of Reviews are an elaborately illustrated article on "European Waterways,—Their Lesson for America," by Hubert Bruce Fuller an authoritative statement by Homer Folks, of the New York State Charities Aid association, on the prevalence of insanity in this country and the vigorous campaign now under way for its prevention; an account of the work of the cavalry arm of the service in the Civil war, by Gen. T. F. Rodenbough, with reproductions of many war-time photographs from the Review of Reviews collection; a summary of the late Tom L. Johnson's achievements as mayor of Cleveland, by Dr. Edward Bemis; and timely special articles on "Three Centuries of the English Bible," by J. Paterson Smyth; "Why Fire Insurance Rates Are High," by Charles Frederick Carter; "The Federal Regulation of American Railroads," by Charles H. Marshall; and "John Galsworthy: An Interpreter of Modernity," by Edwin Bjorkman. In "The Progress of the World," the editorial department of the magazine, there is a discussion of the pending reciprocity and tariff-revision bill in congress, together with a full exposition of our relations to Mexico and the recent developments in that country.

The infinite variety of the reading matter offered in the May issue of the Atlantic must impress every one who glances at the table of contents of this number of the magazine. J. N. Larned, under the rather startling title, "Prepare for Socialism," sets forth facts which bear out its full significance. James O. Fagan's 'Socialism and National Efficiency" is a stirring defence of individualism and present-day progress. In "Animal Intelligence" Prof. M. E. Haggerty has much that is convincing to say about the workings of the animal mind, obtained from a large number of highly ingenious experiments, while William S. Rossiter's consideration of "Federal Expenditures Under Modern Conditions" is a timely analysis of the futile attempts to curtail expenditures which both political parties preach but never practice. Among articles of a more literary tone Ellen Duvall's paper on "The Persistence and Integrity of Plots" proves that there is verily no new plot under the sun, while N. P. Dunn contributes a diverting paper on the orphaned heroines of the Waverly novels. An article sacred to Memorial day is Gen. Schaff's fervent description of "A Dream-March to the Wilderness." "German and American Methods of Production" are contrasted by W. H. Dooley in a manner that casts new light on the meaning of "made in Germany," and a paper by Charles T. Rogers on "American Unthrift" gives some facts concerning the borrowing habit of the average American householder which, without the testimony adduced, would hardly be believed.

The Smart Set magazine for June appears with a brand new cover design, the work of James Montgomery Flagg. It is noticed that the new cover embodies the same idea expressed in the old one, worked out, however, along much more attractive and up-to-date lines. It is evident that Mr. Thayer, the new owner, who has already to his credit a large share in the upbuilding of one great periodical, Everybody's Magazine, as well as the Delineator and the Ladies' Home Journal, is going slowly in the changes he is introducing here. He has, however, it is apparent, taken the first steps toward fulfilling his promise to make the magazine "smart from cover to cover" by introducing a tinted frontispiece, new type effects, and a censorship, both ethical and artistic, of advertisements, which lend the publication an appearance of complete renovation. And further steps toward artistic attractiveness and literary excellence are hinted at in following issues. Mr. Thayer, on his "Something Personal" page, refers to numerous letters received from readers deploring any radical change in the basic idea of the cover—showing an overwhelming sentiment in favor of a fixed and permanent cover design rather than a change of idea from month to month. The frontispiece this month is a reproduction of a drawing by Rose Cecil O'Neill illustrating Keats's poem "La Belle Dame Sans Merci."

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for May is given to a profusely illustrated description, by C. Van Langendonck, of the recently completed railway between Bergen and Kristiania in the Scandinavian peninsula. The line is one of the northernmost for general traffic in the world, and offers unusual difficulties of construction. Of these difficulties, and of the power applications and installations by which the work was carried out, Mr. Van Langendonck gives a very clear, though brief, review.

Another illustrated feature of importance is the second article of R. W. Hutchinson's series on the modification of mining methods by electrical machinery, which takes up electric distribution, the construction and erection of cables, and electric haulage by locomotives and auxiliaries. J. Koeppel continues his papers on systematic foundry operation and foundry costs with a discussion of the efficient management of details. Harrington Emerson's twelfth paper on efficiency principles, dealing with the tenth principle—standardized operations, presents an argument for the necessity and comparative simplicity of reducing the operations and the complex business to definite, prescribed standards.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for May 6 contains two articles of interest to automobile owners and manufacturers: "Where Woman Runs Her Car," and "The Passing of the Truck-Horse." Lowry; "The Honor of the Press," by Don C. Seitz; one of John Kendrick Bangs's "Table d'Hote Talks," "Yarb's "Ever Victorious Army," by James Barnes; "On the Trail of the Jaguar," by Zane Grey. This issue contains the usual fiction, editorial, humor, and other features.

TAXATION OF CREDITS

Explanation of Three-Mill Tax on Money and Credits.

Minnesota Tax Commission Believes It Should Prove a Success.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota tax commission has issued the following explanation of the new law providing for a three-mill tax on money and credits:

Chapter 285 of the Laws of 1911 known as the "three mill tax on money and credits" is simply a recognition on the part of the legislature of the fact that it is impossible to tax such property with any degree of uniformity or fairness on the same basis as other property.

Briefly stated the law in question provides that "money and credits" shall be taxed at a flat rate of $3 on $1,000 (3-10 of 1 per cent) instead of at the variable and higher rates imposed upon nearly all other kinds of property.

To attempt to tax money and credits at the same rate imposed upon tangible property has everywhere and always proved a failure. The reason, we believe, is not hard to find. Tax rates in Minnesota range all the way from 1 to 10.9 per cent, the average rate for the state being approximately 2.7 per cent. At these rates the owners of income-producing credits, like certificates of deposit and non-secured promissory notes, if their property has been properly listed and assessed, have been compelled to pay all the way from 20 to 100 per cent of their income in taxes. This is more than men made of common clay will pay if they can escape, and the records conclusively show that most of them have had little trouble in finding a way to escape.

Law Was Ignored.

Outside of our American states, no civilized government in the world attempts to levy such heavy taxes on property that can as be easily concealed as money and credits. Widows and orphans and people ignorant of the methods used to evade the tax have usually been caught; but the vast majority of taxpayers have simply ignored the law and refused to list such property, and the assessors with rare exceptions have been utterly unable to find it. Experience throughout the world is universal that when tax rates exceed ten per cent of the income of money and credits such property goes into hiding and cannot be successfully reached by any means that would long be tolerated by a free and enlightened people.

The total amount of money and credits returned by assessors in Minnesota in 1910 was less than $16,000,000. While this amount includes money on hand and on deposit, book accounts, notes, bonds and demands of every kind not secured by real estate mortgages, it does not equal all told 5 per cent of the money actually on deposit in Minnesota banks at the time the assessment was made, and is probably less than 3 per cent of the amount of such property actually owned in the state. This is not a very flattering showing for the men who made the assessment, but we believe that the fault was not so much with the assessors as it was with the law.

The law was designed not only to make it possible for honest taxpayers to return a true list of their money and credits without being compelled to surrender from 20 to 100 per cent of their incomes from such property in taxes, but also to place money and unsecured credits more nearly on an even footing with mortgages so far as taxes are concerned. Laws similar to the one in question have been in successful operation in Pennsylvania and Maryland for many years, and there is no reason in the world why chapter 285 should not prove a pronounced success in Minnesota.

Is Very Low Tax.

A tax of $3 on $1,000 (3-10 of 1 per cent) is a very low tax and no good citizen will seek to avoid it. Of course, there are in every community some men so miserly and lacking in public spirit that they are unwilling to pay anything they can escape in the way of taxes, but we believe that the average citizen is willing to do his duty as a taxpayer and that when he fully understands the effect and purpose of this law he will cheerfully make and furnish the assessor with a true list of his money and credits.

"Money" as defined in the law means money owned by the party making the list, whether in his possession or on deposit, or wherever it may be; and "credits" cover all book accounts, bills receivable, promissory notes, bonds, annuities, and all other claims and demands for money or other valuable things. The law, however, does not cover money, notes and bonds owned by incorporated banks in this state, or notes and bonds secured by real estate mortgages recorded in this state on which the registry tax has been paid; nor does it cover municipal bonds issued since April 18 of the present year.

The law provides that the assessment shall be made at the fair cash value of the property and not at a percentage of such value, and under this law "debts" owing by the party making the list cannot be deducted from the "money and credits" owned by him.

GO RIGHT AT IT

Friends and Neighbors in Duluth Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble.
Rubbing an aching back may relieve it,
But it won't cure it.
You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it;
Reach the cause; relieve the pain.
They cure, too, so Duluth people say.

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 W. Second St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I do not wish to withdraw anything from the statement I gave some years ago in which I told how effectively Doan's Kidney Pills had rid me of kidney complaint. For months I was bothered by pain and soreness in my back. I had other troubles and they all showed that there was much uric acid in my system. When I was feeling poorly, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately got a box and they were just what I required. In a short time they cured me and about a year ago they quickly drove away a spell of backache that had come on me. My high opinion of this remedy has been formed by the way in which it has helped me."

MRS. ROY PIERCE DEFIES OIL KING

Says Henry Clay Pierce Is Heartless, Cruel and Tyrannical.

New York, May 13.—Mrs. Roy E. Pierce has returned from Lakewood, where with her lawyers she has been preparing an answer to be made next Wednesday to the suit for annulment of marriage brought by the 28-year-old son of Henry Clay Pierce, "oil king," of Mexico, Texas and New York.

Dressed in a handsome sapphire blue embroidered negligee gown, Mrs. Pierce was curled up comfortably on a divan in her apartment, No. 220 West Fifty-ninth street, when she received a reporter for the World.

"I've come back from a few days of seclusion," she sighed, "to fight for my husband. For the first time in many weeks I have managed to elude the espionage of detectives—men who, while I remained in New York, trailed me everywhere I went.

"They followed me to dinner at the Waldorf, to the Plaza and the Ritz-Carlton. Detectives in taxicabs trailed me whenever I went to the theater or even to the shopping district to make a few purchases. I've grown heartily sick of this method of persecution and I'm prepared to fight.

"Henry Clay Pierce, Roy's father, is at the bottom of this conspiracy against me," exclaimed Mrs. Pierce, approaching a discussion of the charge that she had practiced blackmail and led a riotous life, made in the affidavits on which the suit for annulment is based.

The bluish-green eyes of Mrs. Pierce, so much admired by Baron "Jimmy" Rothschild in the days when Mrs. Pierce was "Lady Betty" Chapman, flashed indignantly as she continued:

"All his life Henry Clay Pierce has compelled people to bend themselves to his will. He has been tyrannical, heartless, cruel and unjust in his treatment of me. But he is going to meet his match in a woman. That woman is his daughter-in-law, who will establish her claim to his son's love and protection in spite of Mr. Pierce's vast influence.

"If Mr. Pierce wishes to play the part of Napoleon, I'll interpret the role of the Duke of Wellington. This suit will be the battle of Waterloo and I shall triumph."

Saved by Pug Nose.

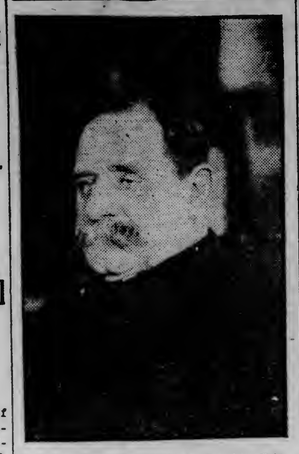
Werlman was seized by officers as answering the description of a man wanted at Alliane who had broken jail. His description tallied with that of the missing man except for the nose. He was allowed to proceed.

DICKINSON RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF WAR; H. L. STIMSON TO SUCCEED HIM

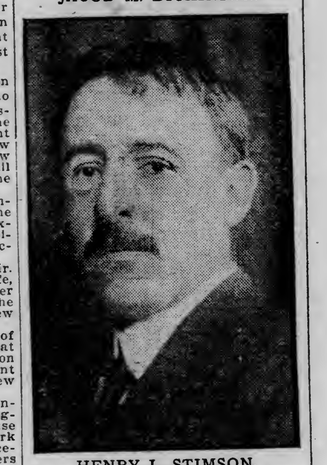
Second Change in President Taft's Cabinet Causes Great Surprise.

Successor Roosevelt's Candidate for the Governorship of New York.

Retiring Secretary of War Will Return to His Tennessee Home.



—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.
JACOB M. DICKINSON.



HENRY L. STIMSON.

Washington, May 13.—Secretary of War James M. Dickinson of Tennessee, the Democratic member of President Taft's cabinet has resigned. Henry L. Stimson of New York, recently defeated Republican candidate for governor of that state, has been given the war portfolio. This announcement was made from the White House last night and occasioned great surprise.

In the letters exchanged between the president and Mr. Dickinson, no other reason, other than that of pressing private business is given as the secretary's retirement. The president will confer with Mr. Stimson in New York today or Sunday, but the new secretary will not be sworn in until the return of the president to the capitol on Monday.

Mr. Dickinson will go to his Tennesee home immediately upon the qualification of his successor. He expects to devote his attention to business and will not return to the practice of law.

He is the second member of Mr. Taft's cabinet to retire to private life, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger having severed his connection with the president's official family only a few months ago.

Coincident with the announcement of Mr. Dickinson's retirement came that of the appointment of C. S. Millington of Herkimer, N. Y., to be assistant treasurer of the United States at New York.

Mr. Stimson was the Roosevelt candidate for governor, while Mr. Millington was a former member of the house from the Twenty-seventh New York district and is a close friend of Vice-President Sherman and other leaders of the old guard in the state, having succeeded Mr. Sherman in the house when the latter became vice-president.

Find Food for Speculation.

In the two appointments offical Washington found food for speculation and many politicians thought they saw therein a step of the administration towards straightening out the tangle of the New York political situation.

No effort was made by the president to conceal the satisfaction with which he viewed the appointment of Mr. Stimson. Not only has he the highest personal regard for the incoming member of his cabinet, but he is well aware that the appointment will be acceptable to a large faction of the Republican party in New York.

While the selection of Mr. Stimson was made after only a few days' consideration, Root and other members were consulted and gave it their unqualified approval. Former President Roosevelt was not called into the conference, but there is no question but that he must approve the naming to such an important post of a man for whom he worked tooth and nail in the recent governorship campaign.

The position of assistant treasurer in New York which has been given to the Sherman-Barnes-Woodruff faction, while not so important as that given to the Roosevelt-Parsons faction, is believed here to be a move in the direction of peace that will count for much in the future. Friends of the president were pleased over the political outlook.

Unofficially Washington discussed with relish the resignation of the secretary of war. Unofficially also there were those who found other reasons than that given in his letter. Mr. Dickinson is a Democrat. His presence in the cabinet of a Republican president has not been looked upon with favor by some of Mr. Taft's political advisers who were of the opinion that the office of secretary of war should be held by one of the president's party and who pointed out that Mr. Dickinson might prove a source of embarrassment when the 1912 presidential campaign begins. Naturally Mr. Dickinson also found the discussion in the cabinet of party measures often a personal embarrassment.

Reports of Friction.

There were others who thought that Mr. Dickinson had incurred some criticisms by his conduct of the war office. As was pointed out recently, there have been reports of friction over the Mexican situation between the state department and the war department. In some cases it was asserted that Secretary of State Knox was being overshadowed by Mr. Dickinson and there were reports that the former contemplated resigning, but these met with official denials. There had been no hint that Mr. Dickinson contemplated retirement.

The president moved swiftly when he found that he had to select a new secretary of war. On Wednesday night Secretary Hilles was dispatched to New York post haste. He met Mr. Stimson the next day, but the latter wished to consult with his father, who was then on the Atlantic bound for Europe. Mr. Hilles came back to Washington and Mr. Stimson resorted to the wireless. His father's answer, advising him to accept, came yesterday and late in the afternoon he called up the White House on the long distance telephone and said he would be glad to become Mr. Taft's second secretary of war. The deal was closed right then and the president, who was waiting to go to a garden party in the White House grounds, gave a sigh of genuine relief.

The appointment of Mr. Stimson will give New York two members of the cabinet, Attorney General Wickersham being a resident of that state. Mr. Stimson has had no special military training, but, in talking to friends, the president expressed the belief that he was the sort of man who could come into the war department and easily and quickly get the swing of affairs.

Following is the correspondence between President Taft and Secretary Dickinson:

Secretary Dickinson's Letter.

Washington, April 8, 1911.—Dear Mr. President: As my affairs have recently so changed as to require my personal attention in Tennessee, I hereby tender my resignation as secretary of war, to take effect as soon as may be compatible with the public interest. I cannot express to you how much I appreciate the honor and confidence which you have bestowed upon me and the uniform kindness with which you have always treated me. The memory of having enjoyed the privilege of being associated with you and my colleagues of the cabinet in the discussion of so many great questions affecting the welfare of our country, will always be cherished by me as inestimable.

With all good wishes for you and with the hope that one so able, patriotic and devoted may long be spared for the service of his country, I am, very sincerely, (Signed)

J. M. DICKINSON.

President's Answer.

The president replied:

The White House, Washington, May 8, 1911—My Dear Secretary Dickinson: I have your letter of resignation and am very sorry that personal conditions, as you have explained them at length, leave me no alternative and require me to accept it. Since you wrote, you have signified to me that if I thought your leaving the war department would embarrass me in view of conditions in Mexico, you would request to be allowed to sacrifice your personal interests and continue in office. While I fully appreciate the duty that prompts your offer, am glad to say that recent developments indicate that no crisis is likely to arise, making your withdrawal now any more of an embarrassment than at a later date, or justifying my asking from you such a sacrifice.

In consenting to a severance of our official relations I wish to tell you how satisfactory your administration of your great department has been. It involves the care and control of the army, the government of the Philippines and Porto Rico, the construction of the Panama canal and incidentally the government of the canal zone. In every way your work has been admirable and entitles you to the gratitude of your countrymen.

Personally I wish to thank you for what you have done and for your invariable sense of loyalty to the administration and to express my deep regret that our delightful intimacy growing out of our official family relation is to end. I sincerely hope that you may be able to achieve success in the personal business that now claims your earnest effort.

Believe me that you carry with you into private life my high respect and affectionate regard. Sincerely yours, (Signed) William H. Taft.

P. S. I make this acceptance to take effect as of the time of qualification of your successor, which at your request, I hope to secure May 15, 1911.

Mr. Stimson was born in New York, Sept. 21, 1867. He graduated from Yale in 1887 and from Harvard law school in 1890. He was associated with Senator Root in New York in the practice of law and in 1906 was appointed United States attorney for the southern district of New York. He resigned that position after three years' service but became special counsel for the government in the prosecution of the sugar trust. As counsel in that case he won the admiration of Attorney General Wickersham and Mr. Taft.

Stimson Pleased.

Huntington, L. I., May 13.—"I am very much gratified by the mark of confidence in me which President Taft has displayed," said Henry L. Stimson last night.

Mr. Stimson would not comment further on his appointment. He said he expected to assume his new duties as soon as he could adjust his private affairs. How soon that would be he did not indicate. He expects to see President Taft during the visit to this city which the president will make tomorrow or Sunday.

PILOT-BUTTE BOOKS OPEN MONDAY
FOR YOUR STOCK SUBSCRIPTIONS

Balance of 20,000 Shares Offered the Public

Books Close May 30—Stock Issued June 15.

Tuolumne stockholders were given the privilege of buying in advance of this advertisement such stock as they wanted. Their allotments will be made in full. Their purchases have left only 11,000 shares of the 20,000 offering. These 11,000 shares have been set aside for Butte, Mont., and for several Eastern cities. Allotments will be made pro rata if these 11,000 shares are oversubscribed. A small allotment has been set aside for this city.

The Pilot-Butte Claim Is on the World's Richest Hill

The Pilot-Butte claim is located on the famous Anaconda hill, Butte, Mont., in the heart of the copper zone. Mines on this hill have paid to stockholders upwards of $180,000,000. The same veins from which the richest ore in Butte is mined traverse the Pilot. Three immense copper veins are traceable across the entire length of the claim.

The title of Pilot-Butte rests upon patents from the United States government and has been determined by competent attorneys to be absolute. The claim covers ten and nineteen-one hundredths acres.

Standing at the Pilot-Butte shaft, now 530 feet deep, you can hear the dumping of a dozen ore skips from as many producing mines. Looking north and west, one sees the Poser and Elm Orlu mines, owned by ex-United States Senator W. A. Clark. The Badger State, Jessie, Berlin, Speculator and all heavy producers in close proximity. The Tuolumne is a little south and east.

A Word About Tuolumne

The personell of the Pilot-Butte Mining company and Tuolumne are essentially the same. The Tuolumne stock was sold by advertising as the same people who sold it are selling the stock of the Pilot-Butte. The Tuolumne stock is now five times its par value, at which it was first sold, and is a heavy dividend payer. It is confidently expected that Pilot will duplicate the success of Tuolumne. The possibilities for large profits are reasonably certain.

Investors will buy Pilot-Butte stock for the same good reason that they bought Tuolumne—its splendid location, and because they have confidence in its management.

Ed Hickey, the president and principal promoter, occupies a like position for the Tuolumne Copper Mining company, and was the discoverer of the famous Anaconda mine—the richest copper mine in the world. The entire company is in the hands of practical mining men who have never been identified with a failure, but who have made millions for their stockholders.

THE TERMS OF SELLING

The Pilot-Butte Mining company is incorporated for 100,000 shares of stock at a par value of $10 a share. Only 20,000 shares of the stock are offered for sale for development purposes. Pilot-Butte stock is non-assessable.

The stock will be sold in five-share lots and in multiples of five—the smallest purchase that can be made being five shares. Each subscription must be accompanied by a certified check for $2 a share on the amount subscribed, the balance of $8 being due and payable upon issue of the stock.

Leave Your Subscriptions With O. A. Hoffman, Palladio Building

Those living out of the city may forward subscriptions to the office of the Pilot-Butte Mining company, State Savings Bank building, Butte, Mont.

Canadian Securities in Cement Merger Improperly Held.

Ottawa, Ont., May 13.—That over $13,000,000 par value of securities improperly passed into the hands of one man and his associates in the creation of the Canadian cement merger, was the extraordinary charge made to the private bills committee yesterday in a letter written by Sir Sanford Fleming, one of the most prominent men in Canada. He is president of the International Portland Cement company of Hull, and until recently was honorary president of the Canadian Cement company, which is the title under which eleven of the leading cement companies of Canada were merged two years ago with a capital of $30,000.

The letter was addressed to the chairman of the private bills committee and was a protest against proposed legislation authorizing the merger to substitute $11,000,000 debenture 7 per cent stock for $11,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preference stock.

The cement merger was put through by Max Aitken, a young Canadian financier, who is the head of the bond and share company of Montreal, which contracted for the securities of the companies in the merger.

PLAYGROUNDS FOR ALL AMERICA

Millions Spent to Give the Chance to Play—The New Gospel of Wholesome Public Recreation—Work Accomplished in Five Years.

By HOWARD BRAUCHER,
Secretary, Playground Association of America.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

Are the people of the United States interested in playgrounds? In three weeks in December, 1910, our office received over 1,000 letters from all parts of the country asking about playground problems. Last June, when the Playground Association of America held its congress at Rochester, over 4,000 people were present at some of the sessions, yet the association was not organized until 1906.

Its purpose is to promote normal wholesome play and public recreation. At first all the strength of the association was concentrated on securing playgrounds for children. In 1907 ninety cities had playgrounds. In 1909 the number had risen to 336. This year the roster of cities will be about 500.

The success of the playgrounds for children created a demand for recreation centers for grown people. Cities found that the most effective means of fighting low dives, bad dance halls and other vicious pleasure resorts is in opening the public school building, or some other suitable place and providing a chance for pleasure and amusement in decent surroundings. Already school buildings are used for recreation centers in seventeen cities.

When the Playground Association of America was organized, no one imagined that in the year 1909-10 eight American cities alone would authorize bond issues for play centers to the total amount of $2,000,000, or that Cincinnati would this year spend $1,000,000 for public recreation and Grand Rapids $200,000. That 4,000 people would now be employed in the work of directing play in the United States, or that rural communities would be establishing playgrounds as at Tamalpais Center, Cal., would have been thought impossible then.

During the last two years 246 American cities have established playgrounds for the first time and other communities to the number of 195 are now conducting campaigns for them. What the 195 cities now anxious to have facilities for play are to spend in the next few years can only be estimated. Orphan asylums, hospitals for the insane, institutions for the feeble minded have made special provision for the recreation of their wards. The children in schools for the blind are almost as happy in their play as seeing children. Churches are giving the use of their grounds and county fairs have had playground exhibits. In some cities both political parties in their platforms have declared for outdoor recreation centers. In Stockton and Fresno, Cal; Camden, N. J.; Philadelphia, Baltimore and Dallas thousands of children have marched in monster parades asking for playgrounds.

The playground propaganda in a few years has attained a development which many causes have reached only after half a century. Its greatest danger has been its rapid growth. All persons familiar with a certain $100,000 playground building in an Eastern city know that if the bricks used in its construction had been left loose upon the ground the children would have played with the bricks more than they use this costly structure. In another place a $10,000 playground has been as much used as another which cost ten times as much. Thousands of dollars have been wasted because cities have planned their playgrounds without knowledge of what other municipalities have done. The Playground Association of America tries to help cities avoid such squandering of money, so that every dollar may be made to bring the largest possible amount of happiness.

Besides the annual meeting which is now being held in Washington the association this year has held playground institutes for New England in Holyoke, Mass.; in Baltimore for the Middle Atlantic states, in Detroit for the North Central, and for the Northwest in Minneapolis. Another will probably be held for the South. These conferences have been for the discussion of practical playground problems.

The association helps the different cities to secure capable playground workers. A special committee has prepared a normal course in play, which is now being used in seventeen educational institutions. Several universities have professors of play. A representative of the association is giving the greater part of his time to visiting normal schools for conferences and lectures.

A 36-page monthly magazine—The Playground—is published by the association. It is read in China and Japan as well as in America and Europe. A Playground Year Book is published annually, giving a detailed summary of the developments of the play movement during each preceding twelve months. Special studies of equipment and other playground problems are circulated so that the entire country may avoid costly experiments. Lantern slides, cuts and photographs are loaned for special campaigns.

The association has three playground efficiency engineers or experts giving their entire time to visiting different cities, studying their needs and possibilities and helping each to work out its own problems. There are 400 cities just beginning playgrounds, or in the early stages of their work, and only three field secretaries for all America.

The budget of the association for this year is $50,000. There is no endowment or guarantee fund. Every dollar for its work is secured in voluntary contributions. At a meeting of the board of directors at Hull House, Chicago, Jan. 23, representatives from many cities came long distances to confer with Joseph Lee, Jane Addams and others regarding plans for an energetic campaign which should equip the association for meeting the growing demands upon it. The need was so obvious to those most familiar with the work that several playground workers on small salaries have raised their own contributions form $5 to $100. One school principal who could not give money arranged to give ten lectures, the proceeds of which shall go to the association. Two New York men raised their pledges from $100 each to $1,000 each. The president of the association increased his pledge from $250 to $3,500. If the whole country responds as enthusiastically as the leading workers have, the Playground Association of America will be able to keep pace with the growth of the playground movement.

The Season's Showing of Floor Coverings

N injudiciously selected rug or carpet may quite ruin a room otherwise furnished in the best of taste. We enter rooms sometimes in which the insistent pattern of the rug or its gaudy colors makes the furniture seem insignificant and the draperies and other decorations quite characterless. The floor covering should be a suitable background for the furnishings, as the wall covering should be for the pictures. It must not violate one of the most important laws of decoration that the color tone of the room should shade downward from the ceiling, since if the rug or carpet is lighter than the walls an effect of top-heaviness is produced.

It is necessary to preserve a certain balance of values in regard to patterns, to obtain an artistic result. With plain walls and simple furniture, rugs or carpets of considerable warmth and character may be selected, but if the walls have been treated freely, or the draperies have much figure the unobtrusive designs in soft colorings will be found most satisfactory.

If one's purse does not prohibit Oriental rugs the matter of selection is greatly simplified, because, though they are often intricate in design, the colors are so wonderfully blended that their effect is subdued and neutral. Each year sees the domestic rugs approaching nearer to this ideal, however. At first, though the imitations were accurate in design, the colors were too vivid and gaudy, but now it is possible to obtain velvet rugs in Oriental patterns that are most grateful in coloring.

The Wilton rugs have the preference in domestic weaves, and this season's showing includes a great variety of new designs in well-balanced patterns and refined colorings. Those having the plain centers with two-tone borders of conventional design are especially favored.

Scotch art rugs are particularly durable and the manufacturers have given especial attention this season to meeting the demand for designs that will harmonize with the latest ideas in wall papers and draperies.

Inexpensive rugs for the summer home are in great demand just now. Grass rugs and fiber rugs are largely used, and the revival of the rag rug furnishes most attractive possibilities for quaint and durable floor coverings. These woven rag rugs are not a riot of color as the old-fashioned kind used to be, but are made from selected materials and colors to harmonize with other furnishings. If one wishes to furnish the filling for these rugs any weaver will make them up at a very reasonable price. Partly worn sheets, denim, unbleached muslin or old curtains are suitable for the filling of the heavier rugs, while for small rugs to be used in the bath room lighter weight material, such as lawn and gingham, are desirable.

It is not possible to produce the variety of effects in the braided rag rug, but nothing is more picturesque in the colonial bedroom than one of these hand-made rugs. They may be braided of strips of outing flannel or calico and simple designs introduced by employing selected colors.

ART WARE AND LAMPS

ONE of the most hopeful signs of the times, artistically, is that much of the so-called bric-a-brac with which, not so long ago, we were wont to clutter up our homes, has fallen into merited disrepute. We no longer feel that the mantle shelf is the abiding place for a motley array of ornaments; rather we select a single article of artistic worth that is in keeping with the general character of the room. Even in the most inexpensive wares we insist upon a simplicity of line and integrity of material.

Pottery and brass and copper lend themselves particularly well to the decorative schemes that the prevailing interiors seem to call for. There is the Newcomb pottery, with its deeply incised design and its soft blending of green and blue and gray; there is the hammered brass and the spun brass in unlimited forms — baskets, vases, jardiniers, smoking sets; and there is the copper, toned to various finishes and used in as many ways as brass.

Every season brings out new and attractive designs in candlesticks. Besides those in copper and brass more elaborate ones in Italian carved wood are being shown. These are tinted or gilded, and are carved in a manner suggesting the Renaissance. Charming for table use are those of Austrian ware that have a raised empire design of festooned wreaths, in dull gold and pink, against the cream white of the china. Pressed glass and etched glass are also much used. The Colonial candlestick with the etched wind shield, which may be bought for $3, is very popular, and is a most effective as well as sometimes useful ornament for the guest room.

A novel decoration and flower receptacle for the table, of Wedgewood ware, is in the form of curved and straight sections of a tiny fence. The posts are hollow to hold small flowers, and when the whole structure is set up in a circle or oval in the center of the table the effect is of a minature garden.

Very timely is the appearance of the new wicker lamp shades which will harmonize so well with the wicker furniture of the summer home. The wicker framework is usually lined with a green, red or yellow silk, but if the wicker is enameled white fancy cretonnes are used most effectively.

Some of the most beautiful glass shades are in striking landscape effects. One of these had its six panels painted in glowing sunset colors against which was silhoutted the outline of a single stone pine which had been fashioned from metal and applied to the glass.

Shades of woven wistaria fiber, having colored linings of silk or grass cloth are inexpensive and artistic. Embroidered linen is happily employed in some of the simpler shades. One of ecru linen embroidered in a conventional design in soft greens, dull yellow, orange and old blue was most attractive. Hand painted shades are also being much used, the empire styles being greatly favored. A very dainty effect was secured in one of these hand-painted shades by the use of white silk upon which was painted a conventionalized landscape in delicate shades of brown with just a faint line of black outlining the tree trunks.

A CENTRAL AFRICAN TREE.

London Globe: A remarkable tree has been discovered about the region of Lake Chad. Its power of increase in every way is remarkable. In a few months an extensive tract of land, we read, became an impenetrable forest. In one season it is said to grow to the height of from four to five meters; in other words, from thirteen to over sixteen feet. Its foliage is said to resemble the mimosa and its branches are thorny. The wood can be cut into planks and the natives work it up into canoes. The Tilho mission has utilized the wood for making tables and doors.

COBB'S BASE RUNNING GIVES TIGERS VICTORY.

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—Tyrus Cobb, running wild on the bases, made it possible for Detroit to defeat New York, 6 to 5. He scored from first base on Crawford's short single to right; from second on a wild pitch, and in the seventh stole home with the winning run while Sweeney was arguing with Umpire Egan. Harstell was spiked in the knee by Cobb in the third and had to retire. The score: R. H. E.

Game Called at 3 o'Clock Sunday

WARD WINS SUIT.

Jury Returns $1,000 Verdict in Action for Libel Against Johnson.

New York, May 13.—John M. Ward, a former captain of the New York National league baseball team, won his suit for libel against "Ban" Johnson, president of the American league. The jury which has been hearing the case in the United States circuit court brought in a verdict for $1,000 damages after deliberating an hour, and Johnson's counsel immediately moved for a new trial. The motion was denied but the court finally agreed to hear a motion to this effect this morning. Although Ward sued for $50,000, he appeared satisfied with the verdict.

"I didn't want Johnson's money," he said, "all I wanted was to clear my name."

KILBANE EASY FOR McFARLAND

Chicago Stock Yard Fighter Shows Buffalo Fans Real Speed.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 13.—Packy McFarland of Chicago outpointed and outfought Tommy Kilbane of Cleveland in a ten-round bout before the Buffalo Athletic association here last night. Kilbane was weak and clinched at every opportunity to save himself.

Kilbane proved to be a good two-fisted boxer, capable of taking a lot of punishment, but his swings always found McFarland either inside or out of reach. There was much vicious infighting in the first and second rounds.

In the third and fourth rounds McFarland kept forcing his man around the ring, but Kilbane fought back gamely, occasionally landing a good left punch. It was in the latter part of the fourth round that McFarland began to display some of his real speed. He side-stepped a rush, and upper-cut hard with the right, starting the blood from Kilbane's nose and mouth.

Kilbane was still fighting hard in the three succeeding rounds, but McFarland blocked his leads and usually put cross rights and lefts to the face without a return.

At the opening of the eighth Kilbane began to show signs of distress and McFarland twice sent him through the ropes. Packy hooked repeatedly with right and left to the face and tried with straight lefts for a knockout.

From then until the close of the bout Kilbane clinched at every opportunity.

KNOCKOUT PUNCH TAKES AWAY NERVE

Fighters Sent to Dreamland Lack Confidence in Future Battles.

Fight devotees some times wonder, as they near the fatal one-sixth of a minute tolled off by the referee's finger over the still form of a young and game little fighter, whether the punch that sent him to the canvas into a state of insensibility, will mar that boy's future career. Does it? Not always, but many times. One thing is sure, he is under a handicap for a long time afterward.

A knockout punch is inclined to inject timidity into the constitution of the most intrepid battler that ever saw a glove. The memory of that clout on the jaw rankles in his brain for months. Ever after, until he regains confidence in himself, there is the ominbus picture of that occasion when he lay helpless on the floor.

There is one case in which a knockout inflicted by an opponent did not spoil a fighter. Eddie Hanlon, the once great little coast lightweight, was not feazed when Abe Attell poked his right into his facial framework in Frisco in 1900. A month afterward Eddie stepped inside the ropes and delivered the same kind of a dose to Joe Davidson in three rounds. The following month he won from Frankie Neil, and after that pushed himself through the portals of the hall of fame by the splendor of his performing until Bat Nelson copped him at Frisco in 1904.

The knockout which Hanlon sent over on Davidson probably restored his faith in himself after Attell took it away. Perhaps that is the reason of his later successes. Davidson was not in Hanlon's class, but the victory drove away the vision of his previous defeat.

Young Corbett was a notable glove manipulator whose equanimity was not disturbed by knockouts. Jack Dempsey (not the Nonpareil) put the quietus on him in two rounds in 1900, and in July, 1901, Kid Broad of Cleveland, banged him to sleep in four rounds. Corbett fought George Dixon the next month and beat him. In November the Denverite took a train to Hartford, Conn., and stopped the terrible Terry McGovern, winning the featherweight and lightweight championships. Corbett must have possessed a world of faith in himself.

A knockout any time in a man's career some time ruins him for life. Frank Erne was never much good after Terry McGovern stretched him in three rounds and took his title away from him. Rube Ferns came along soon afterward and put him away. So did Joe Gans. So did Jimmy Britt.

When George McFadden caught Joe Gans in the right spot in 1899 the Baltimore negro did not stay on the carpet. He was out fighting in a short time and went against the best men in his class. McGovern knocked him out in 1900, but this misfortune did not prevent Gans from later winning the championship.

Another instance of where a knockout didn't impair a man's goodness was Ketchel in twelve rounds in 1908. The next battle between the two, two months following, resulted in Papke's knockout, proving conclusively that the first sleep did not scare the wonderful middleweight champion.

LI'L ARTHA GOING SOME

Dusky Champion Spends $3,000 for a Coronation Wardrobe.

Johnson Will Be One of the Sights When George Is Crowned.

Heavyweight Champion Jack Johnson has given his tailor a commission to provide him with an appropriate coronation wardrobe. Jack is not to be crowned himself as the wardrobe might suggest, but the elaborate raiment is to be worn at the coronation festivities of King George V in June. The order to date includes the following and the estimated price is $3,000, but the tailor men have been ordered to spare no expense to have everything right:

Three dress suits.
Ten vests, fancy.
Three overcoats.
Five extra pairs of trousers, divers designs.
Three Tuxedo suits.
Two Prince Albert coats.

References to the lilies and other fair yieldings of the field, and to Solomon, who was not a flower, but a biblical winner with the ladies, therefore, are now awaiting service. The widely celebrated pugilistic leader has become numerous and widespread on the boulevards, beginning his search among the tailormen of the city for his coronation glad rags.

The fighting man has broken the news to the world at large that, his habitual sanity not deserting him and all other things being equal, he will attend the coronation of King George V., which is to take place in Johnson's presence, has been bulletined throughout the king's native land as the primal social party of the decade. Accordingly, the champion, forewarned and willing, went shopping.

The selection of a suitable and sufficiently imposing set of state robes in which the large fighting person may parade before the king and his merry subjects has become the champion's greatest present life interest.

"Yes," said Johnson, "I shall attend all possible functions attired in appropriate costume and no expense shall be spared."

The pervading popularity of ring demons and champs in England, which history informs is, at best, a bloody country, has been shown in the past. John L. Sullivan and Peter Jackson were once under due surveillance, exhibited at court and introduced to the reigning monarch, the late King Edward VII.

By the same token the marquis of Queensbury voiced opinions concerning the nature and portent of the fighting game which has become monumental in the world's annals, and the good marquis was, as his name discloses, an Englishman, and one of high standing.

Assured, therefore, of a happy ovation, Johnson is not going to stint on expense or imagination. The first acquisition to his trousseau, a shining and serious looking silk hat, has been purchased. Rehearsals, during which the pug deposits himself before the family mirrow and, wearing the "stove pipe," admires himself, take place daily at the champion's home. Worry occasioned by the indisposition of a made-to-order monocle has increased the number of intellectual wrinkles upon his ebony brow.

Picks English Styles.

"I am," said Jack in an unassuming intonation, "not guilty for a beauty exhibit, that is facially, but, you may doubt my word if you wish, I sure have some very peculiar and original curve effects to my person and I will display them like a true Englishman, which I ain't, and a heathery Scotchman, which I never hope to be."

For the mentioned display Jack is investing coin in quantities upon clothes under construction at the present reference. A swallow tail, to outdo anything worn by even the most prominent and distinguished Beau Brummels of the period, is the first garment to be delivered.

"I am going to get at least three full-dress suits with all the trimmings," said Johnson. "There ain't very much chance for 'riginality or genius in the selection of a full-dress suit. Full-dress suits 'pears to be full-dress suits disregardless of latitude or longitude. Then, there will be a bunch of extras, tuxedos, vests and everything that a gentleman needs and desires."

Referring to his lighter moments, when the strain of conventionality will give place to a mere observance of the rules and demands of the country governing the modest displacement of the male figure, Jasper J. J. falteringly confessed as follows:

Horse Show Fixings.

"I am going to wear my legs in leather fixings, like I was a trained equistarian. Pardon me for the use of that long word, but it grieves me to refer to horses in person."

A grin played about the champion's lips and mouth. He shook his head and gave way to murmurs of glee. "Vests"—the secret was out—"vests are going to be my biggest extravagance."

Words failing the pugilistic wonder of the world and America in his eager desire to disclose the various plots and symphonies attending the completion of his vests, he resorted to free-hand illustrations and appeals to the imagination. What was gathered will take the reader back to his conception of the 1,000 Arabian nights. Scenic effects showing the clash of the elemental forces, thunder and lightning versus the bag of the winds and Neptune run amuck, and a detailed pictorial affair which from Jack's description should be entitled "A Crises in Hades" will be accorded first honors.

Will Show Jewelry.

"The reason I am so fond of vests is that they permit me to show the world my collection of precious jewelry," said Johnson. "And I just dote on letting my jewelry be looked at.

"I have had to restrain myself in my selection of socks and shirts, but not much, not much."

The name of the tailor to whose lot and imagination have fallen the tasks of providing and improvising Johnson's court costumes is Luck, which is not fiction, but pure holiday truth.

Jack's expenditures are minor matters compared to the money spent to provide Mrs. Johnson with a coronation wardrobe. The pugilist asserts that his wife shall not be outdone in fashionable abandon by any one lady in England. "And believe me," he adds, "when the missis and me gets together, all lit up, we will be a powerful-looking combination."

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

"Bill" Delivers Himself of Some Philosophy on 'Every Man to His Own Trade'—A Former Champion Here—One of the Veterans.

(BY BRUCE.)

MEETING Bill the other day and noticing that the old boy had a genial smile on that broad and wrinkled countenance, we edged up to Bill and inquired if there was any chance for a Saturday afternoon talk.

There was a swinging door conveniently near, and as the broad back of the grizzled vet disappeared through the winding welcome to our best brand, there was a feeling that Bill's dope was forthcoming and that another story from the collection of the old boy was near at hand.

After Bill had been seated and three fingers of his favorite brand was in front of him, he looked across the table with those little peering eyes of his, orbs that seemed to take in everything, and half cocking that old brown derby over his right eye, observed by way of introduction that every man should know his business better than the other fellow.

"Johnny Rockefeller ain't a goin' to let you or me tell him anything about this oil business, be he?" inquired Bill. "I might add, though it is generally pretty well known, that Andy Carnegie, a smart little chap with an extra sized head, got his start by knowing more about the price of steel than the rest of the boys.

"I seen Mister Carnegie once and I've a whole lot of respect for him. He is the champeen of them steel fellows, and they is some awfully good boys amongst them fellers. I only mentioned Andy to call to your mind what in this world fellows that make a success achieve the same by havin' more dope on their particular line in this world.

"Back in Boston in the early days of John Sullivan's career, when the Boston strong boy was a winning street fights and cleaning up the husky kids in his neighborhood, they brought John Flood out to subdue Sullivan. That was one of the very first professional fights the big fellow had ever had. Well, sir, he licked Flood with that great old right of his, and they went a searching for some other man to take the measure of this Sullivan lad.

"They rounded up some rowing chap, who was carrying muscle from his toes to the top of his head. This chap looked big enough to kick down the side of a brick veneered smoke house. Some Englishmen were around there, and they being great on rowing men anyway, opined as how this rowing chap was just the man to take the measure of Young Sullivan.

"Here's where your grandpap Bill strengthens his original and standing statement, that every man should stick to his own particular business. On a lake or up the river with or against the tide, this rowing man could have made John L. Sullivan look as foolish as some sport who is supposed to be let in on the ground floor and then finds that he is the only one in the pot with any cold cash. But at the fight game it was a filly of another shade.

"Well, they fought, and me and a lot of others thought the rowing chap had sure quit rowing until he would come to cross the river Styx. Sullivan swung one of those terrible rights on the side of this fellow's head, and he shot clear across the ring, bounced back and slid on his nose, the side of his phiz taking a post graduate course at the Woodbury institute. You see this rowing fellow was leaving his own business and mingling in a game where he hadn't been put in right.

"But them is just examples on the side to boost my assertion along. The real story is the one we are coming to, and proves beyond any shady decision that any guy who goes a meddlin' in a business he doesn't know much about, is a rummy, and I opine as how Hetty Green will say the same, following the experience of trying to make a financial sharp out of that boy of hers.

"I was down Cleveland way to attend one of the grand old races they had down that away, back in the old days when the gang used to convene when hoss races, prize fights and doings of such nature were billed up on the sport program. There was many of the big sports of the country huddled down Cleveland way, among them being Jake Kilrain, at that time a hankerin' and a seekin' for a match with old John L.

"Charley Mitchell was also there, as was Pony Moore, father-in-law to the Mitchell man, one of the greatest fighters that old England has ever produced. In the Ocean Oyster house one evening was gathered Mitchell and Pony Moore, who was dead stuck on his husky son-in-law, Kilrain, and some of the other sports of the first standing.

"Kilrain turned loose this talk about a hankerin' to meet Sullivan. They was a talking that a way when I hikes for bed, not a feelin' good for some reason that evenin'. In my room was one of the biggest lobs I hev ever seen. He would have made Jim Jeffries look like Tom Thumb, all bent up with the rheumatiz. The hotel was crowded and there was no way to get out of packing people in the rooms. This fellow snored like a charge of artillery, and after fidgetin' around and tossing like a piece of cork on the sparkling surface of bubbling wealth water, I gets and beats it for the refreshment hall.

"That argument was going on, and all parties was more or less lit up. There was an Irishman by the name of Costello, who was so tough that any one he wanted to get, generally left town for his health. He was perhaps the greatest rough and tumble fighter in the country, and he licked everything that he had ever fought. Kickin' and bitin' and other little tricks learned by the force of self protection, was a part of the repertory of this Costello guy.

"Well, sir, the argument was a goin' fine and when I blows in, and before I had a chance to tip my nomination to the barkeep, what does I see but a free-for-all fight started between Mitchell, Kilrain and old Pony Moore a buttin' in.

"This Costello had been a tellin' Kilrain all the time what Sullivan would do to him, and he became more insistent with each flirtation with the brand. Finally he got to Kilrain's nerve, for, my boy, fighters and race horses both have them, and the battle was on.

"This is one of the events that early in my education of the ways of the world taught me to keep my own specialty. There was a fountain out in the center of the lobby, a sort of rude come before on the swell layout they have at the Chicago annex. My boy, will you believe me when I tell you that this tough Costello guy run Charley Mitchell, Jake Kilrain and old Pony Moore, who was more of a follow-up party, out in the lobby and right through the center of this fountain, seriously disturbing the slumber of the gold fish.

"Yes, sir, my boy, just as true as the gospel. Here was Mitchell, a great fighter, and Kilrain, one of the greatest of the old school, not to mention Pony Moore, peace rest his soul, all chased out of the drinking emporium and forced to mingle with the gold fishes pro tem, so to speak.

"It was a sight that made me think that it is every guy to his own business. That's why when I once read how Kid McCoy was going to turn broker and was going down and demand a business interview with J. Pierpont Morgan, a saying how he would brave that icy stare, I jest laugh, gentle like, and hark back to the night that Costello beat up Mitchell and Jake Kilrain.

"I've seen sharps of Wall street around the old track at Sheepshead bay acting defferential like to some dirty and greasy little tout, who they would kick out of their office, a taking his tip, and then losing their money. They didn't know the game, and the wise guys always stopped a playing it. That frowsy tout, a pikin' for pie money, knew more about the way things was run down there than this fellow who had his name in Mister Bradstreet's directory.

"It's all the same the world over; you know your business, know more about it than the other fellow, and you will be a wearin' sparklers and will be havin' automobiles a waitin' at the curbstone for you."

A Former Champion With Us.

A. C. MERTENS, Northwestern professional bicycle racing champion at one time, and a rider who won a great name on the national racing circuit by victories over Sanger, Bald, the Butlers and others of the famous riders of ten years ago, is in Duluth on business.

At the present time Mertens is making his home in Seattle. He is a former St. Paul boy and is perhaps the greatest rider the Apostle city has ever produced, and some of the fastest riders in the West, including Birney Bird, Charley Hofer, Bob McCleary, Dan Carmichael and the Stuhlmeiner brothers have been reared in the old Saintly City.

Mertens was a great road rider before he went on the national circuit. He was one of the most powerful riders who ever threw his leg over a wheel, not forgetting the giant, Walter Sanger. His endurance and power made him one of the few stars on the national circuit the first year he went out.

The big fellow is simply looking around for a few days, and will leave for the West shortly.

A Grand Old Sport Is He.

JAMES DALTON, who over fifty years ago played in the first theater in this city, and can tell some interesting stories of the early history of this city, is visiting Dr. McNulty. Dalton has seen every great fight in this country. He saw the first fight John L. Sullivan ever had, and today declares that in his prime the big man from Boston was the greatest fighter this country ever produced. He also declares that no man who ever lived possessed the terrific punch that was packed in the mighty right of the Boston strong boy.

Mr. Dalton classes Jim Corbett as the greatest boxer that the ring ever developed, and also comes through with the opinion that George Dixon, Little Chocolate, was the greatest featherweight that ever stepped into the ring. He also classed Jack McAuliffe as the greatest of all lightweights.

Dalton is visiting here a few days. He is in the theatrical business and has played over every circuit in the country.

RACING DAYS ARE NUMBERED

Baltimore, Md., May 13.—It would be hard to find a more striking proof of the fact that racing palmy days are over than the fact that Fitz Herbert is entered at the present Pimlico meet. Fitz Herbert has won three races in succession, for which Hildreth has received a trifle more than $1,200. This is in sad contrast with the great winnings pulled down on the Eastern racing circuit.

Hildreth has changed his mind again about shipping his string to England. He is afraid it would be impossible to get them in condition to make anything on them this year, so he will try the Canuck game, shipping to Toronto, when they close here. He has a half-way promise from R. T. Wilson, Jr., that the Saratoga track will be opened for an August meet and possibly for a two months' session, and if that turns out good, he would, with his big string, annex most of the first money offered.

PAL BROWN AND HARRY FORBES MAY MEET SOON

Harry Forbes, known in the vicinity of Chicago as the "comeback" champion, will be the next opponent of Pal Brown, according to the announcement that has come from Hibbing.

Forbes is very anxious for a meeting with the range fighter, and it is said arrangements are being made at the present time for the meeting.

Following his victory over Willie Driscoll, the challenge is again issued upon the part of Pal Brown to meet any 128-pound man in the world, barring for the time being Owen Moran.

Those who saw the fight Thursday night between Brown and Driscoll returned to Duluth with the statement that Brown today is better than at any time in his career. These same men say that in their opinion there is no 128-pound man in the world who can stand before the little Hibbing fighter, let alone defeat him.

It is further reported from Hibbing that in the not so far distant future Plapper and Brown will leave for a tour of the East. Already an invitation has been received to appear before one of the Philadelphia fight clubs in a six-round bout. The opponent the Philadelphia promoters want Brown to meet has not been named as yet.

Walter Little, the fast Chicago boy, has pritten to the sporting editor of The Herald, asking for a match with Brown. As Little is one of the very best of the fighters in and around Chicago, a ten-round mix-up between the Chicago pole vaulter, who was declared ineligible on the eve of the meet by the faculty, weakens the track squad, and chances for an Illinois victory were declared even today.

WRESTLING CENTURIES OLD; ANCIENT EGYPTIANS KNEW GAME

Wrestling is as onld as the hills. In the days when men lived in caves, clothed themselves with fig leaves in summer, girded their loins and limbs with skins of fur in winter, wrestling was part of their mode of fighting, when hands were the only weapons used in warfare or the chase, when physical strength was the dominant destructive force. Its birth as an art was in the days of antiquity handed down to us in poetry and legend by the bards of those hoary days.

That the sport brought in the mode of life during the long cycle of years to the present day have not injured the art; that it exists practically as it was in the dim, uncertain ages of the past, softened and mellowed since, perhaps in some of the rude essentials, is made manifest by the records which have stood all these years mocking the attempts of the old millstone of time's handicraft, Father Time, to efface them.

Egyptians Knew Wrestling.

In the temple tombs of Beni Hasan, located near the banks of the Nile, hewn in stone, wrestlers are depicted in various positions, exemplifying all the holds and falls that the modern exponents of wrestling now use in their bouts. In tombs No. 16 and 17 the figures of the wrestlers represent nearly 400 positions. It would seem from this that the Egyptions were masters of the art of wrestling and that the present day athlete scarcely deviates from the methods employed by men in this sport when the earth was young and Egypt was the head, legs and torso of civilization.

It was from the Egyptians that the Greeks obtained their knowledge of wrestling. The figures in the Beni Hasan tombs prove this. The Greeks were the greatest fighters of those days, and it was but natural that they adopted sports as a means to develop their physical condition. Hence it was that at their games, held at Olympia and elsewhere at stated intervals, wrestling was part of the program. At these games the champions of the friendly nations met in rivalry. There was great glory attached to a victory. The successful competitor was treated like a hero. His return to his native land and his entry into his home city was made the occasion for a triumphant procession. He was the hero of the day—of the hour.

The Olympic games—their revival dates from 776 B. C.—were held every four years at Olympia, in Ells. They were started as a religious festival in honor of Jupiter, but the games, like the play, soon became the thing, and the people soon lost sight of the solemnity and sanctity attached to the meetings and assembled there just to see the sport.

PRIESTS ARE SCOUTING FOR MACK'S ATHLETICS

Philadelphia, May 13.—Far flung, from rugged Maine to California of sunshine and roses, is the system whereby Manager Connie Mack recruits his young players, the crude matericulates who in a few years develop into recognized stars in the baseball firmament.

Scouts are recognized as an institution in baseball. Salaries that would make the judges of the august supreme court a trifle jealous are annually paid to men whose ability to appraise a baseball player is the best asset that they own.

One day during the winter season, when the stove circuit hears the tales of how these players are secured, a Western manager, in a burst of confidential information, told a writer in St. Louis that the greatest scouting system in the world was the one held by Connie Mack.

Bresnahan Knows Mack's Tricks.

To prove how Manager Mack obtains the stars whom he secures, Manager Bresnahan said: "Why, there is hardly a priest from coast to coast who does not recommend a good player whom they observe to Connie."

One day last week a player arrived in Philadelphia who is a living proof that Roger was not amiss in his statement as to the intense interest which the clergy takes in the fortunes of Cornelius McGillicuddy. This living, breathing proof is a great big chap named Elmer Leonard, 6 feet 3½ inches of pitcher, who already looks as if he might prove a splendid addition to the best staff of twirlers in either league.

Leonard Hails From St. Mary's.

Leonard comes from California, and he came to the Mackmen through the influence of the president of the college he attended, Brother Joseph. St. Mary's the same college where Harry Krause was a sensation, is the alma mater of Leonard.

The big fellow was a student at the institution for three years, and he shone so resplendently as a pitcher that he was easily recognized as a coming major star. When Leonard was graduated, and he felt that he would like to take up major league baseball, he conferred with the president and asked him to whom he should apply.

"Go to Connie Mack, if he will take you," was the instant response. Brother Joseph wrote of the prowess of the young twirler to Connie, and the latter immediately said the wanted him.

Donovan Sought Mack Recruit.

Leonard took ill early in this month and was a trifle distrait. For this reason he postponed his trip overland to join the champions until last week. Upon his arrival he looked every inch a twirler. Standing above the tallest men in the club, he has a tremendous swing to his arm. He is but 23 years old and looks the picture of perfect manhood.

In connection with Leonard there is an amusing tale. When the Red Sox made the journey to the coast for the benefit of the Redondo hotel and a few way stations, the Bostons tackled St. Mary's college, Elmer was in the box. He shut the Sox out, a splendid feat, as his teammates were able only to give him a single run.

Manager Donovan, of course, was instantly stuck on the chap. He went to Leonard and endeavored to sign him. When Pat heard that Connie Mack had the boy he was dumbfounded to believe that the silent one could reach out to St. Mary's college and nab a prize twirler who had never been interviewed by a scout.

Michigan vs. Syracuse.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 13.—The track teams of Syracuse and Michigan universities will clash here this afternoon. There is a feeling among the students that the dashes may decide the meet. Trainer Kraenzlin of Michigan has refused to announce whether Craig will be pitted against Reidpath of Syracuse in the sprints. If these two stars meet in the quarter mile, the chances of a new record for the Michigan track are considered good.

BENDER AND COOMBS ARE MACK'S STANDBYS

Before the first gun was fired the Athletics were almost proinbitive favorites for the Ban Johnson stakes. Their grand finish last year put them in a class by themselves, so to speak. Such was the consensus of public opinion before the inaugural gun was shot off. After two weeks' play, the Athletics are no longer the red-hot favorites. The New York writers now say that Hal Chase has the grand chance to slip the rollers under one C. Mark. They have gone dippy over the Highlanders, who are putting up a dandy game. They say that in the event of Coombs and Bender blowing up, it is curtains for the champions. Bender and Coombs were given credit for putting the Athletics on top last year, and their services are needed this year as much as ever. One New York writer picks all sorts of flaws in the Philadelphia club. Going down the line, same writer says:

"Harry Davis looks like a selling-plater in a stake race. The hero of a million—more or less—battles has slowed up to a walk. Collins at the midway is a pip. Barry at short is only fair to middling. Baker, over on the difficult cushion, is there.

"But Mr. McGillicuddy of North Brookfield, Mass., it a little shy on the garden stuff. Rube Oldring is the only real man outside the inner works, and he is suffering from an incapacitated pedal. On a wet yard he will not perform, but warms the pine boards of the bench.

"Daniel Murphy, like Davis, is beginning to outgrow his usefulness. Let him smite the pellet and it will travel to unknown regions, but his optic is fast fading, and if he clouts the spheroid for .250 or better it will surprise the wise owls.

"Blunderbus William Hogan, old and ancient Hartsel and Mr. Strunk are battling for the left-field berth. Not one of the trio class.

"Behind the bat I. Thomas and the wild-pegging Lapp are supposed to be the mainstays. Both are cast-offs. Thomas looked immense against the Cubs, but he was not a bearcat in the American league race last season."

"PENNSY" IS PICKED TO WIN

Annual Boat Race Brings Out Large Crowds at Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., May 13.—There was a goodly number of visitors here today to witness the first of the 'varsity boat races of the season, the crews representing Yale and the University of Pennsylvania.

The forenoon conditions for the race indicated ideal weather and water for the afternoon event, which was fixed at 5 o'clock.

Pennsylvania, because of her veteran crew, was favorite over the green crew from New Haven in what little betting was done.

COLLEGE TRACK MEET AT CHICAGO

Maroons and Illinois Will Clash at Baseball After Field Events.

Chicago, May 13.—Chicago and Illinois will meet on diamond and field track this afternoon on Marshall field, the baseball game following the meet. While Illinois leads the "big eight" in baseball without a defeat this season, the recent tight game in which Chicago forced the down-state team to go ten innings to win and reported improvement in batting by Stagg's men, give the supporters of the Midway line hope of a victory. On the other hand, the elimination of Frank Coyle, the Chicago pole vaulter, who was declared ineligible on the eve of the meet by the faculty, weakens the track squad, and chances for an Illinois victory were declared even today.

GOVERNOR GRAY IS THE FAVORITE

Weather and Track Conditions Extremely Favorable for Kentucky Derby.

Louisville, Ky., May 13.—The Kentucky Derby, one of the greatest turf classics of America, will be run this afternoon before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed the race, and under circumstances most favorable. The weather is clear and the track has not been marred by adverse elements for several days and is in fine condition.

Probably greater horses have faced the starter in the Kentucky Derby than will this afternoon, but not for years has so evenly a matched field been entered. Ten horses are on the program but not more than eight will start. Favorites for the race have shifted from day to day, so well balanced are the merits of the several thoroughbreds. The last pick of local turfmen is Governor Gray, and Capt. Jim Williams' gelding will go to the post favorite.

Round-the-World ruled the choice for several weeks but recent performances have put her out of the money in the eyes of most handicappers. Meridian is picked by many, and Colston is conceded to have a good chance. With this field, however, speculation on the winner is useless.

The derby is the fourth event on the first day of a twenty-three day meeting, in which some rich stakes are offered.

WELSH TELLS OF GREATEST BATTLE

English Lightweight Names Ketchel-Papke Battle as Best Ever.

New York, May 13.—Freddie Welsh, the great little English lightweight, is the second big man in the world at fisticuffs to tell us of the greatest fight he ever saw, and he insists that this one is the curly wolf of battles.

"I don't have to think hard when you ask me what I consider the best fight I ever saw," said Freddie.

"The greatest battle I think that ever took place was when Billy Papke won the middleweight championship from Stanley Ketchel at Los Angeles a little over two years ago.

"Papke at that time was considered the toughest man in the world, excepting Ketchel, and was runner up for the title. Ketchel had beaten every one in his class and was defending his title against the Illinois thunderbolt.

"The fight took place in the open air and Jim Jeffries was referee.

"They hadn't gone more than twenty seconds in the first round that day before Papke dropped his man like a log with a left-handed punch to the point of the chin. Ketchel never moved an inch when he was hit.

"I remember that I put on my hat and coat the moment I saw him fall, for I never dreamed that he would get up. At the count of six I saw Ketchel drag up one foot a bit, then he wriggled the other and got to his knees. He reached for the rope and just made it in time to save himself.

"His face was covered with blood, the punch having cut his lips. Jeffries was standing between the men and Ketchel pushed him away with his right as though he had Papke in bad and wanted to finish him. He did lunge forward like a tiger, but a right-hander between the eyes dropped him again.

"Once more he got up and rubbed the swollen left eye. He sort of groped his way around and when Papke rushed in he traded punches with him as thought he had never been hurt at all.

"A man hurt usually covers up, but not Ketchel. He was just going nicely again when another right put him on his back. We thought sure that he was dead, but he rolled over on his chest and finally got to his feet, just in time to save himself again.

"Along about the ninth round his eyes were so swollen that his seconds led him to the center of the ring as the gong sounded each time.

"There he stood and felt for his man. He couldn't see any more than a stone. He simply waited for a punch and when he felt his man near at hand whaled away like mad. Papke knew that he had him, but try as he would he couldn't put him away. The crowd howled at Jeff to stop the go.

"In the tenth round Papke hit Ketchel and knocked him head first out of the ring. Weak and defenseless, he was an easy mark for Papke, who dropped him on his hands and knees with a right to the mouth.

"Ketchel lay there a second or two, shook his head, wiped his bruised and bloody face and got to his feet once more. He had just straightened when a terrific left-hand uppercut caught him under the chin and he went over, dead to the world.

"If there ever was a man who fought with such courage and desperation under those odds I want to see him. I'll bet right now that if you ask Jeff what was the greatest fight he ever saw, he'll say that Papke-Ketchel fight when Papke won the title from the Michigan assassin."

MURPHY IN ROLE OF BOSS SCOUT

Chubby Charles Claims Credit for the Discovery of Pitcher Weaver.

Chicago, May 13.—There are a lot of people in addition to the Chicago fans who are watching Hank Weaver mighty closely. In the first instance there is Charley Murphy, the owner of the Cubs. If Hank keeps up his record and remains one of the phenomenons of the National league, the president of the West Side club will be there with the claim that he is the only scout with a batting average of 1.000.

President Murphy claims that he is the real discoverer of Weaver. Also Weaver is the only man on the Cub team that he picked up. So if Weaver makes good, and everything points that way just now, Murphy will be there with the claim that he picked one star and no lemons. Quite a record, for a scout.

Del Howard also will be there with the claim that as a prophet he is without a rival. For Del, who is the manager of the Louisville team of the American association, prophesied last fall that Weaver will develop into another Walter Johnson. And if Weaver makes good then Del will pose not only as the manager of the Louisville ball club, but also as the man who said that "Weaver would be a second Johnson."

Having put these two on record let's discuss this young Weaver for a few lines.

Of course the fans know that he went thirty-two innings without allowing a run. He might have gone inning after inning without allowing all of the enemy to step across had not the Pirates done things to him on the ninth session of the Sunday game. But thirty-two innings is pretty good when you come to consider that there are some pitchers who consider themselves lucky if they get by with much less.

Weaver knows he can put that ball over the plate for Wagner just as well as for anybody. More than that, he isn't afraid to put it there. And even more than that, he does put it there. And feeling that way about it, he pitches as if he would win every game.

It was supposed that this caused Del Howard to say that he was a second Johnson. Although there is similarity in their manner of delivery, there is no preliminary windup to Weaver. He draws back his arm, he shoots it forward and the ball is on its way. And the batters say that it is one of the most effective deliveries that they ever faced. It may sound strange, but here is the answer. Weaver does not give any indication of the power he is putting behind the sphere. He draws his arm back leisurely, lets go of the ball quickly and it is sailing at the batter before he scarcely has time to make up his mind that a fast one is on the way.

Now because nerve control and speed have been mentioned as the assets of this pitcher is should not be assumed he is without a curve. Any batter working upon this theory is likely to find himself in a hole when he faces Weaver.

Something was remarked about President Murphy being the discoverer of Weaver. Here are his claims for the title. Joe Schoell, the old-time outfielder, became a bit too slow and was let out. He found a job with the Chattanooga team of the South Atlantic league. He was a bit slow for that company, too, and was let out. President Murphy met him in the South.

"Any good ball players down here?" queried the president.

"The Jacksonville, Fla., team has a great pitcher," answered Shoell.

"Who is he?" queried Murphy.

"Weaver," was the answer.

Now, Schoell may have been too old to play baseball, but he wasn't too old to convince Murphy that he knew a ball player when he saw one and that Weaver was one. So Murphy grabbed him at the first opportunity. That was in the fall of 1909. He went south with the Cubs in 1910 and then was sent to Louisville. He had a string attached that a yoke of oxen could not have broken. That fall saw him back in Chicago. And if he continues to travel his present gait he'll probably report there again next year.

Meaning, he'll stay around there for a long time.

FARMERS WIN AT BASEBALL

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—By a sudden rally in the eighth inning of a close game, the University of Iowa team defeated the University of Minnesota 5 to 2. The game was a pitchers' battle between Pickering and Baird until Minnesota's unlucky round. Up to that time Pickering allowed only two scratch hits. The Iowa men made up for lost time in that frame and by bunching five hits brought in four runs. Score: R. H. E.

Minnesota .....0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 2 2

Following are the managers for the various teams: K. M. Woleben, F. A. Patricks; A. C. Peters, Marshall-Wells; Fred Wolf, Wolvins; Sam Staples, Board of Trade; G. L. Hargreaves, Northern Shoe company; and the Rust-Parker-Martin company, R. S. Tredeau.

BEAVERS WILL MEET SUPERIOR TEAM.

At Billings park tomorrow afternoon the Beavers and the Power Clothing company's baseball team will meet. The two teams are leaders in the new Clover Leaf league and a very fast and interesting contest is expected. Fisher and Campbell will work for the Beavers.

The Gustafson Hardware company team and the Lincolns will meet tomorrow afternoon at the fair grounds.

BOYS' TEAMS WILL FORM A LEAGUE.

The managers of all amateur baseball teams in the city will meet at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. this evening to form two amateur leagues.

One league will be for boys between the ages of 19 and 15 years and the others for those under 15 years. It is expected that each league will have at least ten teams.

This is in furtherance of the idea that to be successful and beneficial athletics should be under one general management. The methods of the professional leagues will be followed as far as possible. A board of managers will have charge of the affairs of the league and players will be signed in regular form. A regular schedule will be framed and adopted as soon as possible.

THEATER TEAMS WILL MEET ON DIAMOND.

Baseball teams from the Lyceum and Orpheum theaters will meet at Athletic park next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Lyceum team has not yet been announced, but the Orpheum team will line up as follows: "Scotty," pitcher; Bradbury, catcher; Quandt, shortstop; Harvey Coleman, third base; H. W. Pierong, second base; Ed Furni, first base; "Amos," center field; John Gurtin, right field; Hathaway, left field.

Drivers Tuning Cars.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13.—Three famous racing drivers and their mechanicians today joined the crews at the Indianapolis speedway that are tuning their cars for the 500-mile race on May 30, in which forty-six are entered. The newcomers were David Bruce Brown, Flat, winner of the grand prize race at Savannah last year; Harry Grant, Alco, twice winner of the Vanderbilt cup race, and Louis Disbrough, Pope-Hartford.

Brewers Get "Lefty" Davis.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—The Milwaukee baseball club signed "Lefty" Davis, the former National league player.

Moha Toys With Terry Martin.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 13.—Bob Moha of Milwaukee toyed with Terry Martin of Boston, in a scheduled 10-round no-decision bout last night when in the sixth round Martin's seconds threw a towel in the ring, saving the Boston man from a knockout, after he had been floored several times. Martin substituted for Jimmy Gardner, who was originally matchel to meet the Milwaukee man.

Play at Moose Lake.

This evening the Twin Ports Clothing company's baseball team will leave for Moose Lake to meet the team of that town.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

Critics throughout the land have tried to define the wonderful charm of "Madame Sherry," and after exhausting their supply of flattering adjectives have ended up by saying that it is simply one of those irresistible productions that an audience cannot help but thoroughly enjoy—one of those rarely perfect performances contrived to grasp the interest and attention at the rise of the curtain and keep it satisfied till the final echo of the closing strain.

This seems to be the secret—if there is any—of the great success of this novel gaiety, which has pleased Paris, Berlin and Vienna, and which has taken America by storm from New York to San Francisco. Playgoers of this city will have their first view of "Madam Sherry" at the Lyceum on May 26, 27 and 28, and it will remain here for four performances.

This is the first instance of a tremendous success like "Madame Sherry" coming to the West within the first year of its American production, and the public everywhere has shown its appreciation of this early visit. "Madame Sherry" has played to overflowing audiences in every city visited, and from the interest already displayed in the local engagement, the same conditions will exist here. It is doubtful if as good a cast has ever been seen here as that appearing in "Madame Sherry," and whose list of principals includes such people as Oscar Figman, Ann Tasker, Lottie Kendall, Cheridah Simpson, Mary Quive, Harry Benham, William Cameron, Harold Rehill, Edward Elkas and many others, and whose dainty feminine talking chorus has captured the hearts of all the first nighters. A special orchestra is also carried by the company.

Seats for "Madame Sherry" will be on sale Friday, May 19, seven days in advance.

Sarah Bernhardt is unquestionably one of the great and commanding figures in the drama of this age. She is still the foremost member of her profession, though approaching her 70th year. Out of her wide experience, she has evolved what she calls "The Ten Commandments of Youth." They are in reality ten paragraphs of wise advice. Here they are:

1—Have one child, absorbing interest in life.

2—Have other interests, "little interests" of life, to keep you from becoming one-sided.

3—Decide what are the essentials of your life and concentrate upon them.

4—Decide what are the non-essentials and disregard them.

5—Be interested in everything that happens, for the moment, but do not let the interest become too deep.

6—Eat what you like when you like, but not as much as you like.

7—Drink much water and lemonade.

8—Sleep whenever, wherever, you are sleepy.

9—Stop to rest for a minute, many times a day. These little rests prolong life.

10—Find your work. Then regard that work as a pleasure, not a penalty.

"It is safe to say that any young man or young woman who has the will power to live up to these suggestions, will go far and accomplish much," she says. "These rules are one road to greatness—if greatness is in the soul of the youth that follows the road."

Sarah Bernhardt comes to the Lyceum on Monday, May 29, in "Madame X."

Barnum, the hypnotist, who opens at the Lyceum, Wednesday, May 17, for eight days, just closed a very successful engagement at the Grand opera house, St. Paul. The dramatic critic of the Pioneer Press comments on him as follows:

"If that man who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is worthy of honor at the hands of his fellow citizens, then 'Barnum,' a hypnotist, who raises many laughs where there were none before, is entitled to recognition. 'Barnum,' whose name indicates an ambition to participate in world fame, is doing a week's engagement at the Grand opera house and last night entertained a large audience by directing his pliant subjects to perform in roles quite foreign to their every day experience and habit.

"Their quite unconscious antics directed by their hypnotic master set the audience in roars of laughter.

"One of the events of interest was the awakening of the young man who was 'put to sleep' Friday afternoon in a Seventh street store window, where he slumbered peacefully until last evening. This afternoon a bicycle rider begins his ride in the same window to be awakened in the same way this evening."

AT THE ORPHEUM

For several weeks past dramatic or comedy sketches have featured the Orpheum bills, but next week the more summery type of amusement will hold the board and the biggest musical comedy act on the circuit at the present time will feature the bill.

There hasn't been a big "girl" act at the Orpheum since early in the winter, and "The Photo Shop," which will feature the bill next week, should be welcomed by Orpheum patrons.

It is one of Jesse L. Lasky's acts. Mr. Lasky has several big musical acts on the circuit, and was the producer of "The Love Waltz," which was seen here early in the winter.

"The Photo Shop" is one of his later acts, and is said to be his best. It contains twenty people, presenting a musical comedy boiled down to the proportions of one act. The lyrics and music are by Otto Hueerbach and Carl Hoschna, who wrote the lyrics andn music for "Madam Sherry," "The Three Twins," and "Doctor De Luxe." Among the song hits of the act are "It's a Very Busy Day," "I Want You In My Picture," "It's Enough To Get the Girls," and "The Belle of Manhattan Isle."

Heading the company will be Charles J. Stein, Eugene Redding, and Mamie Fleming, who have won their spurs in musical comedy companies in the East.

The act is said to be elaborately staged, as all of Mr. Lasky's productions are, and according to criticisms in other cities, the girls are pretty and clever in the singing and dancing numbers, and the costumes new and bright. In fact the act is claimed to be a first-class musical comedy in every respect but its length.

Gene Greene comes with the record of having been forced to lengthen his engagement at the Majestic theater in Chicago to three weeks, after being booked for one week only. Mr. Greene scored one of the biggest individual hits of any performer seen at the Majestic this season. He gives an act which he calls "A Study in Songs," one of the popular singing acts that are so common at the present time in vaudeville, and yet so popular. He is said to have an original manner of singing a character song that draws many laughs. Charles Straight assists him at the piano, playing the accompaniments, and introducing a specialty of his own which adds materially to the act, it is said.

Miss Rowena Stewart and Miss Gladys Murray are two good looking, talented young women who have an act which they call "Broadway Love." The act depicts the home life of two chorus girls in New York city, and it is said to be replete with witty dialogue and ludicrous situations, with a little pathos.

The Duluth Orpheum hasn't had a roller skating act this season, with the exception of one turn in which the rollers were introduced as a side issue. Next week the Rexos will be on the bill with what is claimed to be the best roller skating act on the circuit and one of the best in vaudeville. Their act is a combination of roller skating and acrobatics. The act is described as follows: "With the whirr of the skates, the sound of an approaching train is produced in the wings and as it draws near, there is seen the athletic figure of Rexo coming at high speed. The train passes through a tunnel that is but sixteen inches high, and then whirls away down the grade at the other end. To do this requires acrobatic skill as well as skill on the rollers. The performer must 'do the split' and fold himself down to the sixteen inches and keep rolling all the time. Among their other feats is the corkscrew spin of 125 revolutions, roller skating on the hands and a graceful exhibition of dancing on roller skates. The act is elegantly and tastefully costumed. Miss Rexo is a very pretty and winsome girl. They are an American team, who have but recently returned from a long and successful tour of Europe."

John Birch, known as "The Man With the Hats" will be next in importance on the bill. Jugglers have at times gotten a great deal of fun out of hats, but Mr. Birch has evolved a complete story—a melodrama in fact—out of a collection of various styles of hats. It is not difficult to follow the ludicrous story of the playlet, as each character is portrayed by a different kind of hat. The act is said to be a big comedy hit.

An act which is expected to prove fully as big a hit as other more important acts on the bill, is that presented by the Black brothers. There is no more popular instrument with a vaudeville audience than a banjo when it is well played. The Black brothers play banjos and dance. They use popular selections only on their banjos, and they are said to be very clever entertainers. Down in Minneapolis last week, their act was the biggest hit on a very strong bill.

Mlle. Minnie Emerle, a woman gymnast, will be the seventh act on the bill. She has an act similar in type to that of Mlle. Alcide Capitaine, who was seen at the Duluth theater several weeks ago.

The Kinidrome and the overture by the Orpheum Concert orchestra will complete the bill, which will open with the Sunday matinee, and continue all week with a daily matinee.

MISS ROWENA STEWART
Of Stewart and Murray, at the Orpheum Next Week.

AT THE EMPRESS

The show which will come to the Empress commencing Sunday matinee will bring to Duluth as the headline attraction Miss Josephine Sabel.

The success of this talented woman has been nothing short of phenomenal, and few vaudeville artists have such a record. Miss Sabel has just returned from a tour of the world and her appearance over the Sullivan & Considine circuit is her first engagement since her return to this country. She has sung in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Australia and South Africa, and her success in all of these countries has been exceptional. Miss Sabel became a great favorite during her engagement in Paris. In fact, she is one of the few, the very few, American artists who have achieved fame on the native heath of Yvette Guilbert and Anna Held, singing French songs in such a way as to win the applause of French audiences. During her engagement at the Olympic theater, Paris, she was selected by the management of the Follies Bergere to create the title role of a new French pantomime. She was to portray the character of a Parisian soubrette, using the French language. Miss Sabel successfully mastered the French language and appeared in the piece for eight months and at every performance she was tendered an ovation. Everywhere her name was a symbol of popularity.

During her engagement at the Empress, Miss Sabel will wear a gown which won the Grand Prix in Paris last summer in the annual competition to decide the best dressed artist. All the great actresses and professional beauties strived to win this much coveted honor, and so did the costumers who designed the costumes. Miss Sabel did her own designing and had the gown made by one of the famous men costumers of the Rue de la Paix, and was easily declared the winner. Miss Sabel is bringing to Duluth an entirely new repertoire of songs which it is claimed she sings with a snap and ginger that she alone knows how to inject into her numbers.

This talented woman has a voice that is operatic in its range and richness, as a matter of fact, she has sung prima donna roles, and in her early teens was considered the finest church soprano in New England.

Miss Sabel is very well known in Duluth, having several relatives who reside in this city, and while appearing in Paris two seasons ago as a star in one of the celebrated French pantomimes, she tendered a reception to some Duluth people who were traveling in France at that time.

As a special imported attraction, the Vindobonas, "the mad musicians," will delight the patrons of the Empress with their musical spectacle. These artists come to Duluth direct from the Wintergarden, Berlin, where they have been appearing for several months. They are claimed to be artists upon all of the ordinary and conventional musical instruments and dozens of novelty instruments. They produce music from every possible source, intermingling a vein of comedy. They create melody from the most weird instruments. The following is a recent notice from the Milwaukee Sentinel. "The Vindobonas have a musical act that is entirely different from anything ever seen at the Empress. Both are artists on the various standard instruments and they introduce some novelty instruments that have never been heard in this city. Running through their entire act is a pleasing vein of comedy which combined with their excellent music, makes their act one of the best of its kind seen this season."

The Ferrell Brothers have a cycling act that, it is claimed, is sure to please. If it were only for speed alone which characterizes the work of these two boys, they would be bound to achieve popularity. According to the advance notices their comedy riding is funny and impossible though it may seem for a bicycle act to be different from the rest, they introduce some tricks that have never been seen in this city, it is claimed. All of their feats which include many that are extremely thrilling and sensational are performed with neatness and dispatch. These boys were pronounced favorites at the New York Hippodrome last season and upon the completion of their dime circuit is her first engagement since her return to this country. She has sung in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Australia and South Africa, and her success in all of these countries has been exceptional. Miss Sabel became a great favorite during her engagement in Paris. These artists come to Duluth direct from the Wintergarden, Berlin, where they have been appearing for several months. They are claimed to be artists upon all of the ordinary and conventional musical instruments and dozens of novelty instruments. They produce music from every possible source, intermingling a vein of comedy. They create melody from the most weird instruments. The following is a recent notice from the Milwaukee Sentinel. "The Vindobonas have a musical act that is entirely different from anything ever seen at the Empress. Both are artists on the various standard instruments and they introduce some novelty instruments that have never been heard in this city. Running through their entire act is a pleasing vein of comedy which combined with their excellent music, makes their act one of the best of its kind seen this season."

The Ferrell Brothers have a cycling act that, it is claimed, is sure to please. If it were only for speed alone which characterizes the work of these two boys, they would be bound to achieve popularity. According to the advance notices their comedy riding is funny and impossible though it may

AT THE PICTURE THEATERS

New programs of photoplay are offered for the Odeum and Lyric theaters for next week.

The Lyric program includes "Aida," a dramatic film; "A Fascinating Bachelor," a comedy; "The Derelict Reporter," a drama; and the illustrated song, "The Alamo Rag," sung by I. S. Mistachkin.

At the Odeum the program includes: "In the Days of 49," a drama; "The Two Heroes," a comedy; "The Fiddler's Requiem," a drama; and the illustrated song by Mlle. Du Franc.

The story of "The Two Heroes" follows:

"At a skirmish in the second battle of Bull Run two young privates, "Bud" Heiser and "Bull" Hall, race to recapture a flag which had been taken by the enemy. They each the flag at the same time and quarrel over the honor of reaching it first. The incident makes them bitter enemies, their hatred of each other being in no wise diminished years later when a juggle of fate finds them political rivals.

"The only son of William Hall falls in love with Ethel Heiser, daughter of Hamilton Heiser, formerly "Bud" Heiser. Ethel reciprocates young Hall's affection and to overcome the difficulties strewn in their path by their parents, they decide to elope. The old veterans quickly follow, but are compelled to abandon the chase at the depot where they arrive just as the train pulls out with the young couple aboard. Again the old rivals snap their fingers in each other's face and argue as to who reached there first, taking leave of each other in a rage.

"Later we find Heiser in an inn, where he is grossly insulted by a ruffian, who is about to throttle him. Hall, who happens to pass the inn at the critical moment, runs to Heiser's rescue, after which the two veterans forget their little differences and become fast friends. They forthwith go to the telegraph office and wire the elopers forgiveness."

The story of "The Fiddler's Requiem" follows: "The old musician playing his fiddle in his garret home dreams of his youth and his first love. As the past unfolds itself he sees his sweetheart, Dolores, forced by her parents to sign a contract of marriage with Don Carlos, and he again reads over in memory her message of farewell: 'My Only Love: This is my marriage eve—the death day of my soul. I cannot go without one last farewell to you, whom I will never see again. Wait for me by the lake until you hear the bells chime. Yours in spirit until death. Dolores.'

"Meeting her at the lake, as requested, she gives him her old violin, saying: 'I have breathed my soul into this violin. Whenever it plays it is my soul that speaks.' A few days later the tragedy takes place that causes her bereaved parents to withdraw from society and the musician to live in a dream until his work is finished."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Will Deming, who has been a prominent member of W. A. Brady's companies in "The Man of the Hour" and "A Gentleman from Mississippi," has been engaged to play the title role of "The Fortune Hunter" next season.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will appear in a play by Elizabeth Jordan called "The Lady from Oklahoma." Their tour will be under the direction of A. G. Delameter.

• • •

Owen Davis has written a serious play called "Driftwood," which is being produced by a stock company in Mount Vernon, N. Y., with such success that it will probably be given a regular production.

• • •

• • •

During her stock engagement in St. Louis, Marie Doro will produce a new play. Productions of new plays is one changes in the stock companies which formerly would have none but tried and successful dramas.

• • •

The children's performance in New York last week of "Pomander Walk" proved a big success. The heroine was played by Jean Ford, daughter of Hugh Ford, general manager of the Liebler company. William Collier, jr., was also in the cast. Something like $4,000 was realized for charity.

• • •

Henri Bernstein is to write a new play, in which Mme. Simone, who is to make an American tour, will appear. Mme. Simone will play in English, having done so with great success in London. It was for her that "The Thief" was originally written. She will be accompanied by her husband, M. Casimer-Perier, a son of the ex-president of France.

• • •

Lena Abarbanell, who has been so very successful at the head of the first "Madame Sherry" company, will have a new play. It is to be called "The Girl and the Canary," and was suggested by the celebrated painting of that name. The book is by "Frederick de Gresac" and Harry B. Smith, the former being the nom de plume of Mme. Victor Maurel. The score is to be composed by Victor Hollander, a German musician of high rank, who comes to America for this purpose. The new work will not be brought out until some time next January, as Miss Abarbanell is to participate in the Boston run of "Madame Sherry," which begins in October and is expected to last until the holidays.

• • •

Charles Frohman has arranged that Hattie Williams, whose last New York appearance was in the comedy, "Decorating Clementine," will have a new play for next season by Porter Emerson Browne. work, and that will be used as Miss Williams' next starring vehicle. The scenes of Mr. Browne's newest work will be laid in New York.

• • •

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new play, "Judy O'Hara," a romantic comedy drama in four acts, is being rehearsed daily by Aphie James (Mrs. Louis James) and her company at the Astor theater. • • •

And now it develops that in acquiring the rights of the English musical comedy, "The Quaker Girl," Frank McKee was acting upon behalf of William and Henry B. Harris. • • •

Francis Wilson will return to New York tomorrow for a supplementary season in his own play "The Bachelor's Baby." • • •

Frank Gersten, manager of the Prospect theater, Bronx, is presenting Mildred Holland at his theater in a tabloid version of her dramatic success, "The Power Behind the Throne." The engagement begins tomorrow. Miss Holland is supported by a company of six, all of them members of the company which supported her in her season at the Garden Theater.

• • •

Rehearsals have begun for "The Lady From Oklahoma," in which Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will be starred by A. G. Delameter. • • •

• • •

"The Confession," now being presented at the Bijou theater, has done so well that all arrangements have been made with Samuel French, play agent in New York City, whereby this play will be produced in London next year. Negotiations are also pending through Samuel French for Australia, Germany, France and Italy. The manuscript of this great play was seen by His Grace, Archbishop Farley, previous to its production and received his cordial approval. Since then the attendants have crowded the theater to its capacity.

• • •

Lillian Russell has been secured for an exclusive vaudeville appearance, directly after the close of her successful tour in a repertoire of her popular plays, and previous to her 'round-the-world tour, which begins in September, in Australia.

WARM WEATHER STIMULATES TRADE

New York, May 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Warmer weather has stimulated increased activity in retail trade in most of the large centers of the country; but the business situation as a whole is otherwise very unsatisfactory, so far as the immediate volume of transactions is concerned, although the outlook for the future is by no means unfavorable. Consumption is much below producing capacity and curtailment is the order of industry, particularly in the iron and steel trade in which there has been a further blowing out of furnaces and a reduction in the sum of unfilled orders.

Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation shows a falling off for the first time this year. Concessions are noted in sales of Southern iron for prompt delivery, although prices on distant shipments are generally maintained. Somewhat more encouraging prospects appear in the rail division, two railroads being in the market for a considerable tonnage, while other negotiations are pending.

Activity was stimulated in the cotton goods market by large purchases made for the account of printers and converters, the total being in excess of 500,000 pieces. Jobbers are still careful purchasers of domestics. Merchants regard trade conditions as improving slowly. Adverse weather has held back retail trade but with every sign of higher temperature, demand increases considerably. Yarns are firmer, more as a consequence of high cotton than an increased demand.

The export trade in cotton is well above that of a year ago, about 50 per cent of the loomage available for worsted and woolen dress goods is employed. The trend in men's wear toward woolens is pronounced and novelty fabrics are being sought.

Trading in footwear does not show the activity usual at this season, although conditions of late have improved and manufacturers are working on a fairly satisfactory volume of supplementary orders, especially for seasonable lines. Leather is in slightly better demand with larger trading noted in the East as some shoe manufacturers have placed fair-sized contracts. The domestic hide markets developed material activity and as an outcome of liberal buying on the part of a leading tanner in the packer markets, both East and West prices are higher all around. The principal movement was in native steers and coming trading is estimated as involving from 100,000 to 150,000 hides.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Dr. Seymour Lectures in Chapel — Seniors Choose Baseball Captain — Final Tests Appearing — Mr. Bates Gives Annual Talk—Class Debating Teams Picked—Class Night Program Rearranged by Stanley Lamb—Dr. Vincent May Speak on Commencement Night—Miss Florence Olson Heads Honor Roll.

During the regular chapel exercises this morning Dr. Seymour lectured to the students of Central high school. Dr. Seymour's lecture was on Frederick the Great and was very interesting to the students, especially those who are at present studying the history of the time of Frederick the Great.

Principal Young and Supt. Denfeld have arranged for several other lectures by Dr. Seymour to be given during the morning exercises before June.

• • •

At their meeting Monday the seniors selected Ralph Waldron as the captain of the class baseball team. Ralph Waldron has been on more athletic teams during his high school career than any other student in the Central high school. During his first and second years he was a member of the class football, baseball, basket ball and track teams and was always a star on each. He has represented the high school in football in 1909; basket ball and baseball in 1910-11. On account of an unfortunate injury in the early part of the past football season, Waldron did not win a letter for football in 1910 although he starred in several of the early season games.

The seniors will soon issue a challenge to the faculty and lower classes in baseball and then Capt. Waldron will begin to select a senior team to trim up all opponents.

• • •

Only five more weeks of school and already some of the final tests are appearing. The seniors have finished one final test in trigonometry and are now having regular weekly tests in French which will count as the finals. Most of the senior English work is also completed. The juniors are having final tests in physics and French.

• • •

A great deal of lively spirit has been the program during the past week. The baseball team had two games scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday and the declamation and oratorical contest took place Friday evening. A large crowd attended the contest Friday evening.

• • •

On Wednesday morning Mr. Bates of the G. A. R. spoke to the students in his annual effort to arouse patriotism among the high school students on Memorial day. A flag is to be given every student of the high school on that day and the class presidents are making heroic efforts to muster a party from each class to march on Memorial day.

• • •

The class debating teams were picked during the past week. The seniors are represented by Violet Flaaten, Frances and Mortimer Bondy and Clarence Johnson, alternate. The junior debaters are Ed O'Brien, Caldwell Harris and Andrew Johnson. The sophomores are Laurence Dow, Clifford Marvin and Ralph Bogen. The freshmen team is Seward Kempton, Edson Miller and Irving Grover. The freshmen will meet the sophomores and the juniors will meet the seniors. The winners of these two contests will meet for the championship of the school.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

President Vincent and Faculty Are to Welcome Queen Elizabeth.

Many Radical Changes Made By the Board of Regents.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Vincent has promised to participate in the reception of Queen Elizabeth in the May fete. The parade will start from the entrance to the campus and, with Governor Eberhart as lord mayor at the head of the procession, will proceed to the law building where Mrs. Vincent, as Queen Elizabeth, surrounded by a court of honor, consisting of forty faculty people, will await his coming. The lord mayor will dismount at the foot of the steps and will welcome Queen Elizabeth to the city, at the same time kneeling and handing to her the golden key. The queen will respond to the greeting, accepting the key. The procession will then go to the library, where President Vincent will be stationed, surrounded by a large court of costumed attendants. Dr. Vincent, dressed in the flowing scarlet robes of the lord chancellor of Oxford, will welcome Queen Elizabeth and her court, speaking in Latin. The procession then will go to Northrop field, where the May pole dances are to be held.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the famous Labrador missionary, addressed a large audience, speaking of his work in Labrador. Dr. Grenfell has been for a long period of years a medical missionary to the inhabitants of the Labrador coast. He is now known in every part of the civilized world as a man who has accomplished great things in his chosen line of work. He was but recently knighted by the king of England for his wonderful work among the Labrador Indians.

Many radical changes were made by the board of regents at their last session. The regents approved the action of the faculty of the college of education in granting sixty hours credit to graduates of the Minnesota state normal schools. These credits will count only toward candidacy for the degree of bachelor of arts in education. Normal school graduates will continue to receive one year's credit toward the other bachelor degrees of the university. The regents voted to discontinue the two chairs of homeopathic materia medica and the chair of homeopathis theratpeutics. They also voted to establish the office of university comptroller with a salary of $3,500. George Tayes, at present the purchasing agent of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, was elected to the new office.

• • •

The president of the National Association of State Universities has sent a communication to the effect that the association will hold its yearly meeting next October at the University of Minnesota. Doubtless the inauguration of President Vincent will take place on the day preceeding and this event will bring to the university representatives from nearly all the universities and colleges in the country and from many learned societies as well. The association of the agricultural college will also hold a meeting at the same time.

• • •

Several new courses in English, carrying a total of fifteen credits, will be offered at the coming summer session. An introductory course in Shakespeare by Charles Holt, the later plays of Shakespeare, and Nineteenth century poetry by George N. Northrop. The general survey of English literature, the equivalent of both semesters of English, will be offered by Miss Alta Churchill.

• • •

The Minnesota songs books are out. This book will be left as a class memorial and has a predominant Minnesota air. The cover is maroon with gold printing and a conventional design of the moccasin flower. Of the sixty-five songs, forty per cent will be strictly Minnesota, the others being the popular songs of colleges all over the country.

Dean Wesbrook announces that the patients under the charge of the university clinic will be moved into the new Elliott Memorial hospital on June 15. The department has been greatly handicapped in its work by having to use several dwelling houses for hospitals in the past, and will be in a position to appreciate the new building with its latest and most modern equipment. The nurses will continue to live in the houses owned by the university until everything is completed in running order.

The alumni of the university have again united to do honor to the first president of the institution, Dr. Folwell. A large bronze tablet bearing the following inscription will be placed at the entrance to Folwell hall:

"This building was named Folwell hall in honor of William Watts Folwell, the first president of the university."

Recent investigations by the university program committee have resulted in a new ruling which will prevent future freshman from choosing instructors. The plan provides that a separate program be furnished to all new students from which the names of instructors are to be omitted. This departure is expected to eliminate the confusion of registration week. Another ruling of the faculty which will take effect next fall, is that all freshmen and sophomore students must take at least one subject in the afternoon.

• • •

If the program committees of two more colleges approve, classes will commence next year at 8 o'clock, as the committees from all the colleges except two have already accepted the proposed change. A long chapel hour is the object of the change. Under the new schedule first hour is to begin at 8 o'clock. No subject will be given first hour which is not given some other hour of the day. It was said yesterday that this will prevent any opposition from the students who live thirty to forty minutes' ride from college.

The university classes were dismissed on Friday on account of government inspection and sham battle. The inspection was made in the forenoon and the regiment met the St. Thomas cadets in the annual sham battle at Fort Snelling in the afternoon. An imaginary bridge across the river was the prize for which the cadets contended this year. Majors Butts and Rice left the whole struggle in the hands of the cadet officers.

There are in the university students representing twenty-four states and four foreign countries, according to a record just completed by the registrar. North Dakota leads the states except Minnesota, Japan, South Africa, Russia and Switzerland are represented here.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"Something Just as Good"

A discovery can be made but once. After that all similar acts become emulation, imitation or an attempt at substitution.

Newbro's Herpicide is a discovery. It was the first remedy ever given to science to kill the dandruff germ. Other preparations have since been offered to the public, some similar in appearance, some in odor, but all bringing the daring promise of doing the same things that Herpicide has been doing for years.

Every article of this kind is merely one more instance of vicious emulation, vile imitation or a base attempt at substitution.

The "something just as good" story is old, why give it a thought? Herpicide is the Original Remedy. It kills the dandruff germ and prevents the hair from falling. Itching of the scalp stops almost with the first application.

Don't be deceived by "Something just as good." If your own druggist does not keep the genuine dandruff germ destroyer, Newbro's Herpicide, go to one who does.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops.

THE PAIN AND DISEASE TIME HAS WROUGHT MAY BE CURED

United Doctors' System of Treatment Cures Many Thought to Be Hopeless.

Some one aptly remarked that a man of 20 envies the man with wealth—but that the man of 50 envies the man with health. That this is true in many, far too many cases, nearly every man or woman who has passed the meridian of life can testify of their own experience.

People who are afflicted with chronic diseases have more than one thing to worry them. Besides the suffering, pain and inconvenience occasioned by the malady or weakness that weighs them down, they are wondering day and night if there is not a skillful physician somewhere who can apply a remedy which will drive away disease and return in part, at least, the health and strength that once was theirs.

'Tis then, perhaps, at set of sun, they live again in retrospect, the long happy days of childhood. And, as they wander in imagination up and down the dusty corridors of time, from memory's great storehouse will come this sad refrain:

"Backward, turn backward, Oh, Time in thy flight,
Make me a child again, just for tonight."

Not only does the longing come, but the heartache, and the silent tear will steal down the wrinkled cheek, as thoughts of youthful days and scenes come trooping back to haunt the weary vision. Then, we were strong and vigorous, life flowed in every vein. The blooming cheek, the sparkling eye, the steady, strong vigorous nerves and muscles of steel, all told the tale of youthful health and strength and happiness.

But now; Ah! cruel time, what ruin hast thou wrought? The silvered hair, the weakened vision, the tottering, aching frame, all are thy heartless, ruthless work. With thy bony fingers thou hast fastened misery and pain, stiffened joints, palsied limbs, and slow and creeping death upon uncounted millions who today are breathing prayers for succor and relief.

But the days of life are not all light, nor are the nights all dark. To some of earth's afflicted, hope holds out a kindly hand and says: "There is both relief and cure for you" To such, the United Doctors offer an avenue of escape. If your case is hopeless, they will tell you so. Can a cure possibly be effected, their sure knowledge and unerring skill in diagnosis will plainly indicat the fact, as well as point the remedy which will effect the cure.

The United Doctors' permanent institute in Duluth is located on the third floor of the Columbia building and is by far the best medical institute in the state. At this institute you are freely welcomed to call and receive the priceless benefit of their free examination and consultation. If they cannot cure you they will tell you so frankly and not accept a penny of your money.

Thousands of people, many of them your friends and neighbors, have been cured of disease by the United Doctors after all others had failed to relieve, and their testimonials are on file in the office and can be seen by anyone. These friends and neighbors of yours, these home people, live right here in Duluth and Minnesota and Wisconsin, they would not testify to these cures were they not true. While you may have been disappointed by others, still there is hope. You may be cured by nature's remedies as used only by the United Doctors.

to support Frank McIntyre in George Bronson Howard's play, "The Snobs."

E. M. Holland has fully recovered from his recent illness.

Valerie Bergere will have six sketches out next season.

Eleanor Kent is appearing in a one-act operetta called "Love via Aeroplane."

"The Fortune Hunter" has just ended a run of three months in Philadelphia.

"Baby Mine" has celebrated its three hundredth performance in New York.

Pauline Perry has become the leading lady of a stock company in New Haven.

A number of stars are preparing to go into vaudeville when their regular season closes.

"The Seven Sisters" has made a hit in Chicago, people being turned away nightly.

"The Life Guardsman" is to be produced in London by Charles Frohman and Cecil Edwardes.

Following "Madame Butterfly," the last opera of the season at the New Amsterdam theater will be "Lohengrin."

Max Rabson will make another trip to the Pacific coast and may not have any vacation at all this summer.

Margaret Townsend is adapting a play from Frederick Townsend Martin's book "The Passing of the Idle Rich."

Cecil De Mille has written a play called "The Stampede," in which Lillian Buckingham will appear next season.

Madren Holland will go into vaudeville with a condensed version of "The Power Behind the Throne."

Porter Emerson Browne, author of "The Spendthrift," will write a play for Hattie Williams to be used next season.

King Alfonso of Spain has offered a purse of $4,000 to be competed for by all the orchestras of the kingdom.

Maria Wainwright, who has been playing with William Gillette, is to retire to vaudeville.

The Russian dancers, Pavlowa and Mordkin, are appreciated in London and will not dance together.

Sir Herbert Tree is out with the announcement that he will confine himself to Shakespearian plays for the future.

Edwin Burkhart's new vaudeville sketch, "What Every Woman Wants," is the work of two women, Madge Carey and Luella Conly.

The return of Emma Eames to the Metropolitan Opera company is regarded as a possibility. She is now in Paris.

Blanche Walsh has succumbed to the results of overwork and has brought her tour in "The Other Woman" to a close.

"Seven Days" is to be produced in Vienna, the farce being of the sort that it is thought will please the Austrians.

Henrietta Crossman has produced a play called "The Peacock and the Goose," which will be her principal play next season.

Julia Dean is recovering from her nervous prostration and expects soon to rejoin the company playing in "The Lily."

It is said that Maud Lillian Berri, who has been so successful in musical comedy, has aspirations toward the legitimate stage.

Ivan Caryll, the English composer, is at work on an operetta, "Sweet Pansy," which will be produced next season by Klaw & Erlanger.

One of George Edwardes' London successes, "The Quaker Girl," may be seen in this country under the management of Frank McKee.

Margaret Illington appeared in Bridgeport, Conn., last week in the play by Eugene Walter, produced as "Homeward Bound," but rechristened "Mrs. Maxwell's Mistake."

Charlotte Walker is to appear as a stock star in Minneapolis, and will in this engagement probably be seen in a dramatization of John Fox's novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

The members of the New theater organization, who are now scattered, will be gathered together next season for a road tour, and will go as far west as San Francisco.

Charles Dillingham will produce, next season, a play by Eugene Walter called "The Assassin," based upon the murder of the New York detective, Petrosino, some time ago in Italy.

Marie Tempest is to change the name of her new play from "The Bill Toppers" to "The Star Turn," which means the same thing and pleases the London publicist better.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will appear in a play by Elizabeth Jordan called "The Lady from Oklahoma." Their tour will be under the direction of A. H. Belasco.

Owen Davis has written a serious play called "Driftwood," which is being produced by a stock company in Mount Vernon, N. Y., with such success that it will probably be given a regular production.

In "The Kiss Waltz," the Viennese operetta, the company will include Charles Dingley, Christine Nelson, Eva Davenport, Eva Ryan, Edith Decker and Lew Fulleton. The music is by the composer of "Mlle. Mischief."

During her stock engagement in St. Louis, Marie Doro will produce a new play. Productions of new plays is one change in the stock companies which, formerly would have none but tried and successful dramas.

The children's performance in New York last week of "Pomander Walk" proved a big success. The heroine was played by Jean Ford, daughter of Hugh Ford, general manager of the Belasco company. William Collier, jr., was also in the cast. Something like $4,000 was realized for charity.

Henri Bernstein is to write a new play in which Mme. Simone, who is to make an American tour, will appear. Mme. Simone will play in English, having done so with great success in London. It was for her that "The Thief" was originally written. She will be accompanied by her husband, M. Casimer-Perier, a son of the ex-president of France.

Lina Abarbanell, who has been so very successful at the head of the first "Madame Sherry" company, will have a new play. It is to be called "The Girl and the Canary," and was suggested by the celebrated painting of that name. The book is by "Frederick de Gresac" and Harry B. Smith, the former being the nom de plume of Mme. Victor Maurel. The score is to be composed by Victor Hollander, a German musician of high rank, who comes to America for this purpose. The new work will not be brought out until some time next January, as Miss Abarbanell is to participate in the Boston run of "Madame Sherry," which begins in October and is expected to last until the holidays.

Charles Frohman has arranged that Hattie Williams, whose last New York appearance was in the comedy, "Decorating Clementine," will have a new play for next season by Porter Emerson Browne. Mr. Browne, who is now in London, has exchanged contracts with Charles Frohman for a play upon which Mr. Browne is already hard at work, and that will be used as Miss Williams' next starring vehicle. The scenes of Mr. Browne's newest work will be laid in New York.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new play, "Cindy O'Hara," a romantic comedy drama in four acts, is being rehearsed daily by Aphie James (Mrs. Louis James) and her company at the Astor theater. The play will be presented at the Hollis street theater, Boston, May 15. In Miss James's company are Paul McAllister, Lynn Pratt, Ann Warrington, Frank Currier, Alfred Moore, Frank Kilday, Julia Hanchett, Frank Dekum, Isabelle Lee, Jerome Edwards, Helen Langford, Marcus Moriarity, Henry Douglas and Caroline Olen.

Next season Henry W. Savage will have two "Everywoman" companies on tour. The first important engagement for the new organization was made yesterday when he placed Marie Wainwright under contract for the role of Truth. Miss Wainwright is at present a member of William Gillette's company.

And now it develops that in acquiring the rights of the English musical comedy, "The Quaker Girl," Frank McKee was acting upon behalf of Williams and Henry B. Harris. It is quite likely, however, that Mr. McKee will be given an opportunity to retain an interest in the piece when it is produced in America.

Charles Ross is to write the libretto to Claire Kummer's musical comedy, "The Yogi Man." Ross will also play the title role.

Booth Tarkington has released the stage rights of "The Conquest of Canaan" to Edwin Arden, and the latter is now engaged in making a dramatization of the novel. He expects to appear in the resultant play next season.

"The Red Rose," a new musical comedy in three acts by Harry B. Smith and Robert B. Smith, with music by Robert Hood Bowers, had its premiere at the Garrick theater, Philadelphia, Tuesday night. Valeska Suratt was the star of the production.

One of Henry Savage's early productions next season, according to his announcement, will be "Le Million," a four-act farce now running at the Palais Royal, in Paris. The play is the work of M. G. Berr and Guillemaud. Leo Ditrichstein is engaged upon the American adaptation. In general the plot follows the lines of Sardou's "A Scrap of Paper."

Francis Wilson will return to New York tomorrow for a supplementary season in his own play "The Bachelor's Baby." Mr. Wilson has had a long and successful tour in the play, which earlier had enjoyed a long run at the Criterion. He now comes back to the same house, and will remain there until warm weather closes the theater.

Frank Gersten, manager of the Prospect theater, Bronx, is presenting Mildred Holland at his theater in a tabloid version of her dramatic success, "The Power Behind the Throne." The engagement begins tomorrow. Miss Holland is supported by a company of six, all of them members of the company which supported her in her season at the Garden Theater.

Rehearsals have begun for "The Lady From Oklahoma," in which Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will be starred by A. H. Belasco. The cast comprises, in addition to Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon, Anne Meredith, Marion Abbott, Alida Cortelyou, Nina Herbert, Frances Hemric, Elizabeth Wyatt, Lelia Owen, Clarence Heritage and Ben Benton.

Al. H. Woods is scouring Europe for Novelties for next season. His first acquisition is "Das Manoverkind" ("The Wartime Child"), which has had success in Berlin in its original German form. In its American adaptation it will be called "The Child of the Regiment."

"The Confession," now being presented at the Bijou theater, has done so well that all arrangements have been made with Samuel French, play agent in New York City, whereby this play will be produced in London next year. Negotiations are also pending through Samuel French for Australia, Germany, France and Italy. The manuscript of this great play was seen by His Grace, Archbishop Farley, previous to its production and received his cordial approval. Since then the attendants have crowded the theater to its capacity.

Lillian Russell has been secured for an exclusive vaudeville appearance, directly after the close of her successful tour in a repertoire of her popular plays, and previous to her 'round-the-world tour, which begins in September, in Australia.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Dr. Seymour Lectures in Chapel — Seniors Choose Baseball Captain — Final Tests Appearing — Mr. Bates Gives Annual Talk—Class Debating Teams Picked—Class Night Program Rearranged by Stanley Lamb—Dr. Vincent May Speak on Commencement Night—Miss Florence Olson Heads Honor Roll.

During the regular chapel exercises this morning Dr. Seymour lectured to the students of Central high school. Dr. Seymour's lecture was on Frederick the Great and was very interesting to the students, especially those who are at present studying the history of the time of Frederick the Great.

Principal Young and Supt. Denfeld have arranged for several other lectures by Dr. Seymour to be given during the morning exercises before June.

At their meeting Monday the seniors selected Ralph Waldron as the captain of the class baseball team. Ralph Waldron has been on more athletic teams during his high school career than any other student in the Central high school. During his first and second years he was a member of the class football, baseball, basket ball and track teams and was always a star on each. He has represented the high school in football in 1909; basket ball and baseball in 1910-11. On account of an unfortunate injury in the early part of the past football season, Waldron did not win a letter for football in 1910 although he starred in several of the early season games.

The seniors will soon issue a challenge to the faculty and lower classes in baseball and then Capt. Waldron will begin to select a senior team to trim up all opponents.

Only five more weeks of school and already some of the final tests are appearing. The seniors have finished one final test in trigonometry and are now having regular weekly tests in French which will count as the finals. Most of the senior English work is also completed. The juniors are having final tests in physics and French.

A great deal of lively spirit has been the program during the past week. The baseball team had two games scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday and the declamation and oratorical contest took place Friday evening. A large crowd attended the contest Friday evening.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Bates of the G. A. R. spoke to the students in his annual effort to arouse patriotism among the high school students on Memorial day. A flag is to be given every student of the high school on that day and the class presidents are making heroic efforts to muster a party from each class to march on Memorial day.

The class debating teams were picked during the past week. The seniors are represented by Violet Flaaten, Frances and Mortimer Bondy and Clarence Johnson, alternate. The junior debaters are Ed O'Brien, Caldwell Harris and Andrew Johnson. The sophomores are Laurence Dow, Clifford Marvin and Ralph Bogen. The freshmen team is Seward Kempton, Edson Miller and Irving Grover. The freshmen will meet the sophomores and the juniors will meet the seniors. The winners of these two contests will meet for the championship of the school.

The class night program arranged by Stanley Lamb, is a short sketch divided into three dreams of a senior. The program follows:

Musical sketch—"A Senior's Dream" ..... Stanley Lamb.
Scene—A Senior's study ..... George King.
Scene—His First Dream ..... Kindergarten.
Dance—Nathalie Craig, Chelsie Final, Maude Holman, Louise Hartz, Nora Jacobson, Ethel Smith, Gladys Lenning, Marion Mooney, Evangeline Stephenson, Stanley Lamb, Harold Matheson, Phillip Olin, Delmer Johnson, Oswald Ringsred, Morrison Harris, Maurice Johnson, Griffith McConaughey.
Song—"Bird's Rights Bird" ..... Alice Farrel and Oswald Ringsred.
Recitation—"Eyes Black" ..... Chelsie Final.
Song—"Say You Will Be a Friend of Mine" ..... Stanley Lamb and Ethel Smith.
Second Dream: Eighth Grade exercises—
Song ..... The Class.
Recitation ..... Ruth Bjorge.
Recitation ..... Raymond Hancock.
Dumb-bell Drill ..... The Class.
Recitation ..... Irene Wardell.
Song ..... The Class.
Third Dream: Class night, 1911—
Song ..... The Class.
Violin solo ..... Ludwig Melander.
Class prophecy ..... Marie Watkins.
Quartet ..... Lamb, Wanless, Gilleland and Solheim.
Class oration ..... Roger Lerch.
Song ..... Classes 1911 and 1912.

All the music will be furnished by high school orchestra.

The sale of the 1911 Zeniths will take place between the second and third dreams.

The school board has granted the request of the senior class and if Dr. Vincent of Minnesota university can make the arrangements he will be the principal speaker at the commencement exercises of the 1911 class.

Miss Florence Olson heads the honor roll of the class of 1911, for the four years of its high school course.

WARM WEATHER STIMULATES TRADE

New York, May 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Warmer weather has stimulated increased activity in retail trade in most of the large centers of the country; but the business situation as a whole is otherwise very unsatisfactory, so far as the immediate volume of transactions is concerned, although the outlook for the future is by no means unfavorable. Consumption is much below producing capacity and curtailment is the order of industry, particularly in the iron and steel trade in which there has been a further blowing out of furnaces and a reduction in the sum of unfilled orders.

Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation shows a falling off for the first time this year. Concessions are noted in sales of Southern iron for prompt delivery, although prices on distant shipments are generally maintained. Somewhat more encouraging prospects appear in the rail division, two railroads being in the market for a considerable tonnage, while other negotiations are pending.

Activity was stimulated in the cotton goods market by large purchases made for the account of printers and converters, the total being in excess of 500,000 pieces. Jobbers are still careful purchasers of domestics. Merchants regard trade conditions as improving slowly. Adverse weather has held back retail trade but with every sign of higher temperature, demand increases considerably. Yarns are firmer, more as a consequence of high cotton than an increased demand.

The export trade in cotton is well above that of a year ago. About 50 per cent of the loomage available for worsted and woolen dress goods is employed. The trend in men's wear toward woolens is pronounced and novelty fabrics are being sought.

Trading in footwear does not show the activity usual at this season, although conditions of late have improved and manufacturers are working on a fairly satisfactory volume of supplementary orders, especially for seasonable lines. Leather is in slightly better demand with larger trading noted in the East as some shoe manufacturers have placed fair-sized contracts. The domestic hide markets developed material activity and as an outcome of liberal buying on the part of a leading tanner in the packer markets, both East and West prices are higher all around. The principal movement was in native steers and coming trading is estimated as involving from 100,000 to 150,000 hides.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

President Vincent and Faculty Are to Welcome Queen Elizabeth.

Many Radical Changes Made By the Board of Regents.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Vincent has promised to participate in the reception of Queen Elizabeth in the May fete. The parade will start from the entrance to the campus and, with Governor Eberhart as lord mayor at the head of the procession, will proceed to the law building where Mrs. Vincent, as Queen Elizabeth, surrounded by a court of honor, consisting of forty faculty people, will await his coming. The lord mayor will dismount at the foot of the steps and will welcome Queen Elizabeth to the city, at the same time kneeling and handing to her the golden key. The queen will respond to the greeting, accepting the key. The procession will then go to the library, where President Vincent will be stationed, surrounded by a large court of costumed attendants. Dr. Vincent, dressed in the flowing scarlet robes of the lord chancellor of Oxford, will welcome Queen Elizabeth and her court, speaking in Latin. The procession then will go to Northrop field, where the May pole dances are to be held.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the famous Labrador missionary, addressed a large audience, speaking of his work in Labrador. Dr. Grenfell has been for a long period of years a medical missionary to the inhabitants of the Labrador coast. He is now known in every part of the civilized world as a man who has accomplished great things in his chosen line of work. He was but recently knighted by the king of England for his wonderful work among the Labrador Indians.

W. Marc Frazer will represent Minnesota at the Northern Oratorical league contest at Ann Arbor. Representatives from the Northwestern, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Oberlin universities will compete with Mr. Frazer for the honors of the evening.

Many radical changes were made by the board of regents at their last session. The regents approved the action of the faculty of the college of education in granting sixty hours credit to graduates of the Minnesota state normal schools. These credits will count only toward candidacy for the degree of bachelor of arts in education. Normal school graduates will continue to receive one year's credit toward the other bachelor degrees of the university. The regents voted to discontinue the two chairs of homeopathic materia medica and the chair of homeopathis theratpeutics. They also voted to establish the office of university comptroller with a salary of $3,500. George Tayes, at present the purchasing agent of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, was elected to the new office.

The president of the National Association of State Universities has sent a communication to the effect that the association will hold its yearly meeting next October at the University of Minnesota. Doubtless the inauguration of President Vincent will take place on the day preceding and this event will bring to the university representatives from nearly all the universities and colleges in the country and from many learned societies as well. The association of the agricultural college will also hold a meeting at the same time.

Several new courses in English, carrying a total of fifteen credits, will be offered at the coming summer session. An introductory course in Shakespeare by Charles Holt, the later plays of Shakespeare, and Nineteenth century poetry, by George Northrop. The survey of English literature, the equivalent of both semesters of English, will be offered by Miss Alta Churchill.

The Minnesota songs books are out. This book will be left as a class memorial and has a predominant Minnesota air. The cover is maroon with gold printing and a conventional design in the moccasin flower. Of the sixty-five songs, forty per cent will be strictly Minnesota, the others being the popular songs of colleges all over the country.

Dean Wesbrook announces that the patients under the charge of the university clinic will be moved into the new Elliott Memorial hospital on June 15. The department has been greatly handicapped in its work by having to use several dwelling houses for hospitals in the past, and will be in a position to appreciate the new building with its latest and most modern equipment. The nurses will continue to live in the houses owned by the university until everything is completed in running order.

The alumni of the university have again united to do honor to the first president of the institution, Dr. Folwell. A large bronze tablet bearing the following inscription will be placed at the entrance to Folwell hall:

"This building was named Folwell hall in honor of William Watts Folwell, the first president of the university."

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"Something Just as Good"

A discovery can be made but once. After that all similar acts become emulation, imitation or an attempt at substitution.

Newbro's Herpicide is a discovery. It was the first remedy ever given to science to kill the dandruff germ. Other preparations have since been offered to the public, some similar in appearance, some in odor, but all bringing the daring promise of doing the same things that Herpicide has been doing for years.

Every article of this kind is merely one more instance of vicous emulation, vile imitation or a base attempt at substitution.

The "something just as good" story is old, why give it a thought? Herpicide is the Original Remedy. It kills the dandruff germ and prevents the hair from falling. Itching of the scalp stops almost with the first application.

Don't be deceived by "Something just as good." If your own druggist does not keep the genuine dandruff germ destroyer, Newbro's Herpicide, go to one who does.

One dollar size bottles are sold under and absolute guarantee.

THE PAIN AND DISEASE TIME HAS WROUGHT MAY BE CURED

United Doctors' System of Treatment Cures Many Thought to Be Hopeless.

Some one aptly remarked that a man of 20 envies the man with wealth—but that the man of 50 envies the man with health. That this is true in many, far too many cases, nearly every man or woman who has passed the meridian of life can testify of their own experience.

People who are afflicted with chronic diseases have more than one thing to worry them. Besides the suffering, pain and inconvenience occasioned by the malady or weakness that weighs them down, they are wondering day and night if there is not a skillful physician somewhere who can apply a remedy which will drive away disease and return in part, at least, the health and strength that once was theirs.

'Tis then, perhaps, at set of sun, they live again in retrospect, the long happy days of childhood. And, as they wander in imagination up and down the dusty corridors of time, from memory's great storehouse will come this sad refrain:

"Backward, turn backward, Oh, Time in thy flight,
Make me a child again, just for tonight."

Not only does the longing come, but the heartache, and the silent tear will steal down the wrinkled cheek, as thoughts of youthful days and scenes come trooping back to haunt the weary vision. Then, we were strong and vigorous, life flowed in every vein. The blooming cheek, the sparkling eye, the steady, strong vigorous nerves and muscles of steel, all told the tale of youthful health and strength and happiness.

But now; Ah! cruel time, what ruin hast thou wrought? The silvered hair, the weakened vision, the tottering, aching frame, all are thy heartless, ruthless work. With thy bony fingers thou hast fastened misery and pain, stiffened joints, paisied limbs, and slow and creeping death upon uncounted millions who today are breathing prayers for succor and relief.

But the days of life are not all light, nor are the nights all dark. To some of earth's afflicted, hope holds out a kindly hand and says: "There is both relief and cure for you." To such, the United Doctors offer an avenue of escape. If your case is hopeless, they will tell you so. Can a cure possibly be effected, their sure knowledge and unerring skill in diagnosis will plainly indicat the fact, as well as point the remedy which will effect the cure.

The United Doctors' permanent institute in Duluth is located on the third floor of the Columbia building and is by far the best medical institute in the state. At this institute you are freely welcomed to call and receive the priceless benefit of their free examination and consultation. If they cannot cure you they will tell you so frankly and not accept a penny of your money.

Thousands of people, many of them your friends and neighbors, have been cured of disease by the United Doctors after all others had failed to relieve, and their testimonials are on file in the office and can be seen by anyone. These friends and neighbors of yours, these home people, live right here in Duluth and Minnesota and Wisconsin, they would not testify to these cures were they not true. While you may have been disappointed by others, still there is hope. You may be cured by nature's remedies as used only by the United Doctors.

FINE PROGRESS IS MADE AT MINE ON PINE ISLAND

Shaft Bottomed in Ore Practically of Commercial Grade.

Sinking Proceeding Day and Night at North American Mine.

Tower, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big working shaft on Pine Island has reached a depth of 170 feet. It is bottomed in ore practically of commercial grade.

The Vermilion Iron Development company started this shaft for permanent use in working the mine in the future, rather than for immediate exploration purposes. As a result, it was commenced in solid country rock. After going only a short distance, ore commenced to come in. It kept up until the entire shaft was bottomed in solid, but low-grade ore. As depth was attained, the quality of ore steadily improved until it now ranges around 55 to 60 per cent. Picked samples certainly will assay 66 per cent in iron.

Fine progress is being made at the mine since I. J. Cramichael was installed as superintendent. Ten men are being worked now and conditions will require an increase before long. If the ore in the shaft keeps as clean and solid down to 200 feet, as it now is cross-cutting probably will be started at that level. A pumping station will be required at that depth and the management of the mine now contemplates at least some cross-cutting on that level, instead of waiting until the 250-foot level is reached.

The new machinery plant, which embraces everything required to furnish electricity for the camp and to operate six powerful electrical drills, was shipped from Madison, Wis., last Monday by the Fort Wayne Electrical Works of Indiana. This new and important equipment will be received soon and fully installed by May 20. After that, a second power drill will be put into commission and greater speed made in the work.

The new boat of the Vermilion Iron Development company, the Pine Island, will meet the morning train at Tower on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week, as well as make special trips when required. This boat is 36 feet long, has a 24-horse power engine and runs very smoothly.

There is quite a village on Pine Island now. Fine fire protection has been arranged. The new office for the superintendent and the clubhouse for visitors have been completed. Visitors are many and frequent. President Carlile has been there most of the week with a party and the fee owners now are up there on an inspection trip.

Those responsible for this enterprise are in high spirits over the showing on Pine Island and are very sanguine that a big, permanent, paying mine will be the result of their efforts.

North American.

At Tower Junction, sinking is progressing at the North American shaft. Mr. Walsh declares that work now will proceed at the rate of fifty feet a month. Sinking goes on night and day, seven days a week. Twenty-four men now are employed.

It is stated that trouble from water has been overcome entirely. The big shaft makes about a foot a day and this is easily handled by a No. 7 Cameron pump. But, for some weeks, there was work, worry and trouble without end.

At the present time, for thirty feet on all sides of the North American shaft, from the top to a depth of 109 feet, there is solid cement. It took several carloads of cement to accomplish this but it was done successfully and thoroughly.

Some time ago Mr. Walsh announced that fifty-one feet of very good ore was cut by a diamond drill on the Minnesota Steel & Iron company's property east of the North American. The hole was drilled at an angle of 60 deg. and went to a depth of over 300 feet. The drill then was pulled back about fifty feet and now a vertical hole is being drilled. The surface is about thirty feet deep there and the drills has just passed through that into bedrock.

Last Monday a crew was started on surface work on this property. A trench uncovered twenty feet of ore at a depth of seven feet. This showing causes much hope and enthusiasm.

Besides the test-pit crew of six men, one diamond drill is working on the Minnesota Steel & Iron company's property.

White Iron Lake.

Under the management of James Le Bree, drilling is going smoothly on the La Chance mine, under the patronage of the White Iron Lake company. The drill in the present hole has reached a depth of 740 feet and has cut soaprock, paintrock and is bottomed in jasper. Mr. La Bree is confident than an ore-body is not far distant. He is drilling for the purpose of cutting an extension of a body of ore that shows up on the Minnesota Steel & Iron property.

It is rumored that a deal for this property is pending but if it falls through, the White Iron Lake Iron company proposes to install a Jones step process furnace if that invention proves to be a commercial success.

The White Iron Lake Iron company has a shipping mine on the Mesaba range, the Euclid at Chisholm. This property pays a profitable income and, also, enables the company to explore elsewhere without asking the public to buy its stock to provide working funds.

On east of here, in section 15, 62-14, the Almar Iron Mining company is making good progress with its finely organized force. The working shaft now is down ninety feet and bottomed in kaolin and bunches of ore. Good authorities say that no one need be surprised if this shaft breaks through the present material into a fine ore-body.

The new four-drill Franklin air-compressor is working most smoothly at the Almar property. Last week, about ten feet in depth was gained, a great increase over the old steam drills. Two air drills are in use. Fifteen men are employed and great efficiency is being attained.

Several new buildings have been completed, including a tool house, blacksmith shop with a new forge. Whenever tools are taken out they are charged to the one receiving them and the charge is not checked off until the tool is returned. The camp has been cleaned up and made very attractive. The stream running through the property is filled with fish and a bridge has been built across it.

A large number of visitors shows up constantly at the Almar. Among those recently there were L. L. Culbertson, Edward Lynch, Stephen Treverton, Dr. Patton and J. A. Monger.

Mr. McGraw, formerly a chief engineer on the lakes, has taken the position of master mechanic at the Almar.

Vermilion Steel & Iron.

Over on the northerly side of 62-14, shaft sinking is going smoothly on the Vermilion Steel & Iron company's property. The shaft is down 230 feet. No water has been struck. The bottom shows mixed greenstone, jasper and iron ore. Unless ore is struck soon, cross-cutting towards the ore-body will be started at a depth of 280 feet.

Forty acres, the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of this property, never was considered of value for iron. Last summer the fires burned off all vegetation and a formation over 200 feet wide, showing mixed ore and jasper, was exposed. A cross-cut will be driven from the shaft to that mineralized zone. Twenty-three men now are employed on the Vermilion Steel & Iron.

On Vermilion Steel & Iron Extension a test-pit crew and a diamond drill are being worked at present.

It is stated that favorable results are being secured on the Irons property, west and north of the Walsh properties of sections 4 and 5.

The third hole on the McCue mine in section 10, 62-14, is down over 600 feet. It is understood that some very favorable results have been secured here and Mr. Kennedy states that this hole will be followed by a working shaft.

Duluth Vermilion.

The Duluth Vermilion iron company owns the John Bisbee, in section 7, 62-13, about 170 acres, including riparian rights on Robinson lake. One drill has been working there for some time now and several hundred feet of work has been done. No definite and authoritative information as to results is available. Among those interested in this company are L. B. Manley, Dr. Holden, Elmer Whyte and C. D. Brewer, all of Duluth.

The Tower Mining & Development company is exploring the "John Smith property" in section 9, 62-13. Some reports have been heard that the result of exploration work have been very satisfactory, but no complete official report has been given out lately. Among those interested in this company are J. C. Campbell, John Long and Fred Vibert of Cloquet, Minn.

Ely is a great storm center these days. Exploration work is steadily increasing around there. It now looks as if two or three proven propositions soon would be announced. Options are being eagerly sought and it is a dull week when a new deal is not announced.

Capt. Kent keeps busily engaged in piling up the ore at the old Chandler mine. Over 40,000 tons now are on the dump and there is a lot more underground.

Lucky Boy Group.

The Kennedy interests keep marching along steadily. The North shaft on the Lucky Boy Group now is down sixty-three feet, still in ore. The ore body is getting more regular and the future looks bright for that shaft. A new hoisting engine has been installed at the North shaft and there are two complete power plants now on the group. Drilling by hand or with steam drills at the depths now attained is becoming burdensome and the arrival of the new air compressor ordered some weeks ago is being awaited anxiously.

The South shaft of the Lucky Boy group has attained a depth of seventy-five feet. Mr. Kennedy expects to decide next week at what depth cross-cutting will be started from this shaft. He has been planning on commencing lateral work at a depth of 145 feet.

The Lucky Boy group has much interest for visitors and large numbers of them have been there since spring opened. Among those there recently were G. M. Carter, Thomas J. Doty, C. R. Blackburn, and M. M. Van Giesen of Minneapolis; Eugene McIntyre and Dr. J. E. Bowers of Duluth; Henry I. Cohen of Brainerd.

Osterberg & Johnson have been working three drills on the "Dave Adams Homestead," now under exploration by Section 30 Development company. It is believed that a big body of rich ore has been found on this property. A working shaft is down thirty feet and it is strongly hinted that ore shipments from this mine will be a matter of short time. A hoisting plant has been installed and a four-drill air compressor is nearly ready for duty.

A couple of heavy drills are working on the Lazarus Silverman property in section 25, right west of section 50, Capt. Bradt has charge of this work and, recently, the property was inspected by Mr. Fargo of Chicago, one of the men interested in the promotion.

At Section 30.

Everything is running smoothly at Section 30. The company plans to strip off the surface for a distance of 1,000 feet west of the big shaft and to mine out the superficial ores with a steam shovel. The overburden is supposed to range from six to fifteen feet in thickness.

Capt. Wood, one of the earliest of Section 30 explorers, recently visited Ely. He was very much impressed with the activity on the Vermillion. For some time past he has been in California.

Prof C. K. Keith, accompanied by a party of mining students from the University of Wisconsin, visited Ely a few days ago and made a study of the Ely group of mines.

At the White Iron Lake company's property in section 2, 62-12, a cross-cut was started from the shaft at a denth of 155 feet and driven 125 feet. Drifting on the vein then followed and that drift has been driven about thirty feet in mixed ore that ranges from 45 to 50 per cent in iron. Joseph Trudel, treasurer of the company, visited the property a few days ago and was greatly pleased with conditions.

RICH COPPER GROUND IS FOUND BY THE ALGOMAH

New Lode Shows Heavy Native Copper for Its Entire Width.

Tamarack Apparently Getting Ready to Suspend Operations Entirely.

Houghton, Mich., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Algomah Mining company has encountered rich copper ground at a depth of 1,742 feet, in the No. 9 drill hole. The lode has not been identified and may be either one of the South Lake lodes or the southerly extension of the famous Lake bed or both, if these several formations are proven to be one and the same, as is now generally believed. The Algomah new lode shows heavy native copper for its entire width of sixteen feet. The hole in which this discovery was made is sinking to the westward and a little north of the Algomah shaft sunk in the Algomah ore body. Developments in the ore body show a continuation of commercial values for a distance of more than 1,200 feet on the 104-foot level, just below which depth the shaft has been temporarily bottomed.

Indiana.

The Indiana Mining company is again prepared to continue shaft sinking, after several weeks' idleness, during which a steel headframe was erected over the shaft and the necessary surface plant was provided. The shaft is down around 120 feet, and bottomed in a feisitic similar to that cut in the drill holes, but thus far is showing no copper. The shaft will be sunk to greater depth and it is likely that some cross-cutting may be necessary to bring a showing of copper like that which was cut in No. 9 bore hole. The property is equipped with a small steam hoist, and will for the time being depend upon the boiler plant for power to actuate the machine drills usually operated by compressed air.

Lake.

The Lake Copper company has holed through to surface from the second level in the new shaft that is being opened to replace the old exploratory shaft. The new shaft is being opened by upraises from the several levels and a small amount of work yet to be done will, upon completion, give a direct opening from the seventh level to the surface. The section of the shaft between the seventh and eighth levels, present bottom of the mine, will be opened in a like manner. Development work continues without interruption and at a greater rate than any time in the past. Ground reserves are being added to with every foot of new openings made, and there is now a stage of commercial ore available and openings are now sufficiently ahead of immediate requirements to yield a steady output of 500 tons rock daily. There is, if anything, an improvement in copper content with depth, and the lower levels, particularly the fourth level, discloses runs of copper ground the equal of which is seldom seen elsewhere in this district. The single stretch of ground in the north lateral at this level, approximately 250 feet long, is excelled nowhere in this district, excepting possibly certain copper measures in the Calumet conglomerate. The foundation for the new hoisting plant is being laid and following its completion, work will begin upon the engine foundations. This plant is expected to be in commission in ninety days, and a production from the mine is promised for the first of the new year. The new steel and concrete boiler house and the compressor house of like construction have been in service for some time.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company is shipping steadily at the rate of 250 tons rock daily with an occasional shipment of mass copper, the former going to the Centennial-Allouez stamp mill and the mass copper direct to the Calumet smelter. No official statement concerning the yield has been issued. Reports from the mill state that the total yield during the first fifteen days was fifty barrels mineral which would indicate that a recovery of about twenty pounds mineral per ton of rock stamped was being had at the mill, exclusive of the mass copper. The best estimate, though nowise official, puts the average yield at twenty-five pounds mineral per ton of rock, this figure including mass copper, stamp copper and mineral of every description produced during that period.

Tamarack.

The Tamarack Mining company is gradually curtailing production, reducing forces and apparently getting ready to suspend operations entirely. A few miners are leaving each week and their places are not being filled by new men. Mining operations are confined to productive ground and little or no work is being done towards increasing ground reserves. The Tamarack mine is opened on the Calumet conglomerate and Osceola amygaloid beds underlying the Calumet & Hecla mine and is the deepest mine in the world, not excepting the deep mines in the South African Rand which until a few years ago held that record. The great depth to which the Tamarack has been opened, some of the workings being just short of one mile from surface and one of its shafts over one mile deep, is not conducive to low mining costs, and the further decline in copper values at depth is proving too severe a handicap and for several years past has not resulted in profitable operations. The management has not announced a suspension of operations, but for reasons shown and the general policy of the Calumet & Hecla management now in control of this property, a shut down is anticipated.

Atlantic.

The Atlantic Mining company has suspended operations in the Section 16 mine on the Baltic formation in which all activity for several years has been centered following the loss of the old mine on the Ashbed lode in 1906. Operations in Section 16 have been entirely of an exploratory nature, the work being accomplished by means of shaft and drifts supplemented by drill borings. Nothing of value was disclosed in this work, though the showings had from time to time were frequently good. The announcement is now made by the management that the Copper Range Consolidated, operating the adjoining properties, offers to exchange 10,000 shares of its treasury stock for the 100,000 shares of the Atlantic company, or any amount sufficient to give the Copper Range company control. The larger shareholders of Atlantic are said to have pledged their shares to the Copper Range company, and upon the assurance that a majority of the Atlantic stock will be surrendered for its stock on the basis proposed, it will assume the management of the Atlantic property. This step has been advised by the Atlantic directors.

NEW CAPITAL IN THE RADERSBURG

Reports From Keating Improve With Drifting on Lower Levels.

Helena, Mont., May 13.—As the spring advances interest increases in the Radersburg mining district, and new capital is entering into the development of the more prominent properties. Locations are being held at high figures, and there is scarcely a piece of ground in the entire district, or for many miles in either direction, that is not being examined for its mineral value.

Reports from the Keating mine grow better as drifting on the lower levels goes on, and in the Black Friday, at a depth of 700 feet, richer values than ever before found are being encountered. The profits on the upper levels are being developed. The old theories of the camp, that the richer values were to be found only in the oxidized zone, above the 200-foot level, has been exploded by later developments, and it has been proved conclusively that the sulphide ore increases in value as depth is attained. The richest values thus far have been found on the 600-foot level of the Keating and on the 700-foot level of the Black Friday. Where $20 and $30 ore was found on the 300 and 400-foot levels, large quantities of ore averaging from $40 to $50 to the ton are being mined on the 600-foot level, and in some portions of the veins the values are increasing to $75 and $100 to the ton.

CONSTRUCTION WORK FINISHED

The Greene-Cananea Smelter Turned Out 4,000,000 Pounds in April.

Cananea, Mex., May 13.—Practically all the new construction work at the Greene-Cananea's plant is completed. All that remains unfinished at present is the dust chamber for the converters at the smelter. This will be completed some time this month.

During the month of April the company's smelter turned out approximately 4,000,000 pounds of copper, which includes some of the Miami metal. Since the first part of April concentrates from Miami have been arriving steadily from the property in the Globe district of Arizona, and at the present time they are arriving in Cananea at the rate of about fifty tons daily.

A peculiar scene is to be noted when a visit is made to the rear of the smelter where the dust chamber is being constructed. Here the steel workers are forced to work attired in helmets to protect them from the strong fumes. The helmet is connected by a rubber tube with a compressed air pipe and the air enters the lower portion of the helmet, driving the fumes away from the wearer by means of a small hole at the top of the helmet and also furnishes the wearers with fresh air. The wearers of these peculiar helmets are known about the plant as the "Four C's Smoke Divers."

The McDougal furnaces have all been completed and will soon be in operation, the total number now being ten, six of which are new.

The spreading bed for handling the concentrates which are calcined by the McDougals was placed in operation last week.

MINES' PROFITS IN COEUR D'ALENE

Increase of Half Million Is Shown By Eight Properties.

Wallace, Idaho, May 13.—Eight of the biggest producing mines of the Coeur d'Alene district, all of which are located in Shoshone county and within a few miles of Wallace, gave a return of net profits amounting to $2,652,570.07 for the fiscal year ended May 1, 1911. In round numbers this sum exceeds the net profits of previous year by more than $500,000, showing an increase in the total net profits as a result of their operations for the fiscal year mentioned, as compared with the preceding year of $500,000 in round numbers.

The reports of the profit-paying mines of the district have been filed with the county assessor, as required by the state law.

Every one of the large producers in the district shows a gratifying condition and very satisfactory for the year, with the exception of the Morning, which is one of the units of the Federal Smelting & Mining company's holdings. Taken for the entire year the Morning shows a loss of $40,979.55. The year has been a trying one for this property located at Mullan. With but one or two exceptions no mine in the district has a more promising future than this mine. Since the first of January, 1911, it has been yielding a net profit which has increased each month. Previous to that time the changing character of the ore in which the principal work was carried on and the many changes in methods treating it in order to save the values, resulted in unavoidable loss.

CUTS DOWN ITS FORCE

Big Newport Mine at Ironwood Reduces Force 25 Per Cent.

The Wickwire Steel Company Takes Option On Iron River Property.

The big Newport mine at Ironwood, Gogebic range, operated by Ferdinand Schlesinger of Milwaukee, has cut its working force 25 per cent. The depressed state of the iron market is largely responsible for this action. But there are other factors also. The mine has been operated under high pressure the past few years, in each of the last two seasons having shipped in excess of 1,000,000 tons of ore, all of which has come from workings 2,000 feet or more beneath the surface. There has been little time for rehabilitation or for various contemplated works of improvement. Now that ore sales are rather slow and as the operator has no intention of slashing prices in order to book business, knowing that if his high grade product is not needed now it will be next year, advantage is to be taken of the opportunity to put the property in first-class condition and to accomplish betterments both below and above ground. With 1,500 men employed the past two or three years, the working force really has been abnormal. It has been reduced to 1,100, at which figure it will remain throughout the season if, indeed, it is not subsequently increased. While less ground will be stoped, development work will proceed without interruption and rehabilitation in general will keep it company. On the surface, operations on an important building program have been started. Five substantial structures of brick, steel and concrete are to be erected—a hospital, a storehouse, a blacksmith shop, a laboratory and a carpenter shop. These will all be built under contract with the Foster Construction company of Milwaukee, which will employ its own men in the work. There have been rumors that the Steel corporation and other operators on the Gogebic contemplated the adoption of a retrenchment policy, but as far as the district officials are advised, such is not to be the case. It is still the expectation that rather more than 4,000,000 tons of ore will be forwarded from the range this season and that the close of navigation will find practically all stockpiles cleared away. The Gogebic produces high grade ore as a rule and in periods of depression it less affected than are some of the other districts of the Lake Superior iron region.

Enters Iron River Field.

The Iron River field at the western end of the Menominee range has been entered by still another company, a New York corporation with furnaces in the Buffalo region. With it added to the list, no less than sixteen operators of similar kind are now interested in the Iron River country. The Wickwire company has taken an option on an 80-acre tract in section 14, 43-35, known as the Purcell property, and has already given a contract to the Cole & McDonald Development company to explore the land with diamond drills. The Purcell lies in the same locality as the Mineral Mining company's James mine and the New York State Steel company's Goodman and Gleason tracts, all of which have been proved to be valuable. There is little question that the land contains ore. The Wickwire company is understood to be contemplating the exploration of still other properties in the Iron River district. Deals are pending, also, involving the entry of the field by other new interests. Options on a number of well-located tracts have been procured by John B. Weimer, a Menominee range pioneer mining man, and arrangements are now being made whereby it is expected the various properties will be taken over by one or more concerns which will thoroughly test the mineral possibilities.

With the addition of the Volunteer Ore company, which is opening a mine at Palmer lake, there will be three shippers in the Cascade district of the Marquette range this season. The two others are Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Empire property and the Richmond mine of the M. A. Hanna interests. Not a great deal of ore has been produced in the field in the past, but now that the Volunteer people are finding material of Bessemer grade and other Duluth interests have instituted exploratory operations the district is attracting increased attention. The only other mines yet developed in the Cascade country are the Steel corporation's Moore and Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Star West, both of which have been idle a number of years past. The district is distant from Negaunee some five miles. It is especially noted for its large bodies of silicious ores. It is the belief of well-posted mining men that eventually important deposits of high-grade mineral will be found in the valley extending from the east Negaunee field to Palmer lake, but it will be necessary to penetrate to greater depth than has yet been attained in the Cascade workings. This means that the diamond drill must be employed.

The North Lake.

During the past three years the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company has located at least two mines in the country west of Ishpeming, Marquette range, through liberal use of the diamond drill. The North Lake, one of these, is now getting into its ore deposit in its first shaft. The sinking of a second shaft is well along, and ground recently has been broken for a third opening of the kind. The North Lake will be an important producer, but as yet it has sent out no ore and it already has cost a very large sum of money. The Barnes, the second new property in the field, also is in course of development. The Cleveland Cliffs company has been engaged in making extensive improvements at its Cliff Shafts mine at Ishpeming a number of months past, and it will be two or three months yet before the work is complete. A new ore-crushing plant has been erected, and improved electric surface haulage system has been installed and both shafthouses are being repaired and remodelled. An air compressor has been ordered for the North Lake mine.

So convinced is it of the practicability of the John T. Jones step process furnace system, and so satisfied is it with the amount of ore in sight, that the Kloman Mining company has decided to install at its property in the Republic district of the Marquette range not only one but three furnaces of the type of which Mr. Jones is the inventor. The equipment for the plants is now arriving from the shops of the Allis-Chalmers company. The construction of the furnaces will differ somewhat from that employed in the experimental plant at Iron Mountain, Mich., Mr. Jones' home city. The most noticeable radical change will be in the big rotary tube or cylindrical kiln, the position of which will be horizontal instead of inclined. The capacity of the furnaces will range from 200 to 400 tons of metallized ore each twenty-four hours. A market for the entire output is assured.

NORTH BUTTE LOOKS GOOD

In Better Condition Than at Any Time in Mine's History.

Ore in Tuolumne Maintaining High Grade When First Opened.

Butte, Mont., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to all reports, the North Butte company property is in a better condition than at any time in the history of the mine. Although maintaining an output of about 2,000,000 pounds a month, there is no doubt that this could be very easily increased to nearly double, as a vast quantity of high-grade ore is blocked out and only awaits improved conditions and a release of the curtailment agreement to be sent to the smelter. The shaft sinking to a depth of about 2,900 feet will be completed in about three weeks. The 2,800-foot mark has now been passed. A station is being cut at the 2,800-foot level and the remaining 100 feet will be used as a sump. As soon as the 2,900-foot mark is reached, crosscutting from the 2,800-foot level will be started.

Tuolumne.

The Tuolumne is now engaged drifting from the 1,600-foot level on the north ledge, and the ore is still maintaining the high grade reported when first opened on the vein two weeks ago. The vein is fully twelve feet wide and the ore is averaging a little better than 12 per cent copper. The miners are now in about twenty-five feet drifting on the vein, and the management is greatly elated over the fact that the high grade of ore is being maintained. About all the ore going to the surface just now comes from the 1,000 and 1,200-foot levels, and it runs from 9 to 9 per cent. The Tuolumne is shipping 150 tons to the Washoe smelter every day, and shipments to this amount will be continued until after the new equipment is installed in August, when the company expects to double its output. The annual meeting of the company is to be held in this city on June 20.

District Production.

The copper production of the district for the month of April was 22,600,000 pounds. Of this amount the Anaconda company turned out 21,500,000 pounds, as follows: Great Falls smelter, 7,300,000 pounds; Washoe plant at Anaconda, 14,200,000 pounds, making a total of 21,500,000 pounds. Included in the Anaconda production is 2,000,000 pounds belonging to the North Butte company and 500,000 pounds belonging to the Tuolumne company, which reduces the actual Anaconda production to 19,000,000 pounds. The East Butte company smelter is credited with 1,100,000 pounds, which makes the total, as stated, 22,600,000 pounds.

Clark's Properties.

W. A. Clark has been in the city recently looking after some of his interests. He has returned to New York in order to see his wife before she leaves for Europe, after which he will return here and devote a great deal of his time in the next few months to his Western interests. The senator is a very keen observer of conditions and his opinion is always sought out, especially in regard to the copper market. "The outlook for good crops are favorable," he remarked when asked his view of business conditions, "and there is nothing to prevent the return of prosperity except too much politics and legislation of an undesirable character. There is no doubt the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases have been hanging over the country like a pall and greatly upsetting the financial and industrial situation. The effect on the copper market has undoubtedly been very depressing and this together with over production has kept the price of copper down." In a general way the senator said that just as soon as business conditions improved he looked for an advance in the price of the red metal consequent upon an increased demand. Mr. Clark holds very little interest in the copper properties of this district, but he is quite extensively interested in the zinc industry, and has a mine in the Elm Orlu which he believes is going to prove a good money maker. He says that at the present time it is making some money, and when he makes some improvements in the concentrator he expects that a considerable saving will be brought about and admit of shipping much more zinc than he has since he took hold of the industry.

Georgetown District.

Although conditions are not so very favorable at the present to the opening up of comparatively new properties, it is quite evident that when something pretty good makes its appearance, there is money ready for investment. This seems quite evident from the boom being experienced in the Georgetown district, just southwest of Anaconda where the Silver Lake Mining company has started operations on an extensive scale, where several other smaller companies have started to operate mines and prospects which had been abandoned for several years. Mining experts from Denver and Eastern cities have appeared quietly on the scene, made examinations of properties and in some cases are known to have endeavored to secure options on promising properties. It looks as if the Anaconda company smelter will have an unusually large amount of custom ore offered for treatment this season from the Georgetown district.

Big Dredge in Operation.

"The big dredge, the largest in the world, the property of the Conrey Placer company, was successfully put in operation the other day on the company's ground in the Ruby valley, in Madison county. Hennen Jennings, the consulting engineeer of the company, who is practically at the head of all the development work of the company, came on expressly from his home in Washington, D. C., to inspect this dredge just before it was set in motion. There are now four dredges working, but the new one is considerably larger than the other three. Some idea of the immenseness of the boat may be gained from the statement that it is 80 feet in length, 58 feet in width and 13 feet in depth. In the construction of the hull 569,000 feet of lumber was consumed. It is provided with 86 buckets, each lifting 16 cubic feet of earth, operated on an endless chain. Each bucket weighs 4,200 pounds. The dredge will dig 55 feet below the water line and carry 25 feet of bank ahead of the boat, making a total depth of 80 feet in the face of the dredge in every operation of the buckets. The dredge is operated by electricity. The buckets are operated by a 50-horse power motor and in all 900-horse power is required. The dredge is known as the stacker type and the gold is saved by riffles. The saving is within ½ cent of the total amount of gold contained in the ground. The boat cost $270,000. The dredges are all working in the Ruby valley in the famous Alder Gulch territory from which millions of gold were extracted in the early days of placer mining. The company has altogether about seven miles of workable property, and it is figured that with the four dredges in operation handling 500,000 cubic yards per month, the company has enough ground to work at least nine years. At this rate, for it is stated that the ground now being dredged will average about 20 cents per cubic yard and the gold will run $18 per ounce, there will be earnings of $100,000 per month, or $1,200,000 per year for nine years, giving the company a gross output of $10,800,000.

Mr. Jennings is very enthusiastic over the outlook and expects wonderful things from the new dredge. The Conrey Placer company is largely controlled by Eastern capital.

Pilot Butte.

While the Pilot Butte company will not be in a position to start operations until early next month, all the machinery with the exception of the boilers, have been secured and are now at the mine. The company, through the sale of stock, expects to have sufficient money in the treasury next month to carry on development work during the entire summer and fall. The mine is down 530 feet and it is proposed to sink the shaft to a depth of 1,000 feet before any extensive development work is carried on. In consequence of the rich adjoining properties, which are proving among the best producing properties in the district, the Pilot Butte people are of the opinion that the same high-grade ore will be encountered at depth.

The Gold Coin.

Some time ago Denver capitalists sent an expert to the Georgetown district to make an examination and report on the Gold Coin property. According to all reports at the time the report of the expert was considered a favorable one and an option was given on the mine. Now word comes from the owners of the mine that the option has expired and that the Denver people will not be given an opportunity to renew it on the same terms. Chris Yegen, president of Yegen Bros. bank, who is the principal owner of the Gold Coin, was in the city a few days ago, after a visit to the property, and he said that he had an offer for the mine, but declined to give any information as to who the parties are who are after the property or what part of the country they hail from.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work Resumed on the Property of the Bismarck Company.

Keystone, S. D., May 13.—Work has been resumed on the property of the Bismarck company near here by T. R. Griffith, Ernest Engle and Fred Sierth. The mine adjoins the Holy Terror and Keystone mines and has been developed by means of a 450-foot double compartment shaft, large ore reserves being blocked out averaging $4 per ton gold. The mine will be worked on a small scale for a time. There is a forty stamp mill on the property with cyanide annex and twenty-five stamps are now dropping.

The Hymalulu Mining company, operating at Mystic, will put its new mill into commission this month. The plant will handle both free milling and refractory rock. Tests show that it can save from 80 to 90 per cent of values. The average value of the ore is about $13 per ton gold. The principal vein has been cross-cut sixty-five feet without finding the hanging wall.

The Echo Mining company has completed cutting a station in the main tunnel where it has been prospecting. As soon as the electric hoist arrives sinking from the tunnel will be started. It is proposed to sink the shaft 200 feet on the vein, when this will be cross-cut to the opened up. Now is the point in the tunnel where the sinking is to be done is 300 feet below the surface.

A new shoot of ore has been located on the Rebsamen ground in the Maitland district by its owners, Julius Rebsamen and Sol Burns. They have been running a tunnel in which the new shoot was encountered. It is found to carry good value. The property was at one time a shipper.

Robert Bunce, president and general manager of the Black Hills Development and Financial Corporation, is organizing a home company to operate the Seabury-Calkins, Home Run and Iron Hill mines in the Carbonate section.

A circular to stockholders of the Titanic Mining company, whose ground is in the Carbonate district, calls a meeting for June 28 at this place. A proposition to issue $100,000 in bonds to pay some back indebtedness and finance future operations will come up. The ground is patented and contains good timber and quite a little development. It is in the section of the hills now receiving most attention in local mining circles.

PLATINUM FIND IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Rich Possibilities of Olivine Mountain—Diamonds of Small Size.

Seattle, Wash., May 13.—In searching for platinum in the Similkameen, Charles Camsell of the Dominion geological survey has attracted a lot of attention to Olivine mountain by discovering diamonds there. For two years he has worked on the platinum occurrence in that district. He says there is gold as well. The diamonds are very small, not larger than a pin's head, but are said to be fine. So far the find is of no commercial importance. That platinum has been found in places is of the utmost importance, as Olivine mountain is the first place in America where this mineral has been found in the rock. This location of it will lead to activity during the coming season. The falling off of the Russian supply of platinum and the increase in price will aid to make this a great mining venture.

Twenty-five years ago there was a gold excitement on Tulameen river, Champion creek and Granite creek, all of which are fed by streams that flow from Olivine mountain. At that time platinum was found also, but the miners of those days threw away the "white gold," as it was called. Since that time platinum has been mined in the Similkameen with varying success. The old channel that holds the deposits is very deep, and no outfits have yet made a success in reaching bedrock, which is about 200 feet down. Several concerns in which coast people and others are interested hold leases to work on the creeks.

The Nickel Plate mine at Hedley has found platinum on its plates from time to time, but the company was never able to locate the rock from which it came.

Olivine mountain is twenty-five miles west of Princeton as the crow flies.

Both of these young people are newcomers to the island, the bridegroom having arrived here several weeks ago to enter the business field here and the bride was an arrival yesterday by the Wilhelmina.

Well Known Actress Will Spend Summer in Duluth

MISS VIRGINIA KEATING.

Miss Virginia Keating of Chicago, who is spending the summer here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Madden, of the St. Elmo flats, will be remembered her by all who saw the production of "Parsifal" two years ago, as she played the role of Kundra with that company.

The Duluth audience was delightful to play to, according to Miss Keating, and there was a warmth and cordiality perceptible as soon as she stepped on to the stage. "I can always detect the feeling of the audience immediately, and in some places there seems to be a barrier between us and the audience, which, try as we may, we cannot break through. But here in Duluth I felt the same feeling of friendliness when I stepped on to the stage as I felt in my sister's drawing room at a little affair which she gave for me.

"I really think that one has more advantage in dramatic work," said Miss Keating, "if one has had no training before going on to the stage. I studied dramatic art for many years with the intention of teaching it, graduating from the Emerson School of Oratory in Boston and taking a post graduate course there, and while I know, of course, that I gained much which I might otherwise not have ever gathered from actual experience, still I feel that I could have done more and gained more if I had gone directly on the stage."

Miss Keating was immensely interested in Dr. Rubinkam's lectures, which he gave here last week, and she said she thought she had never heard a more delightful speaker. "I saw Maeterlinck's 'Blue Bird' played in New York," she said, "and it didn't seem possible to me that anyone could give so absolutely perfect an explanation of so mythical a play, especially in such a material age, as did Dr. Rubinkam in his lecture on this subject. I thought he was most careful in every detail and his portrayal of each character seemed to be exactly right. The rest of his lectures were equally as interesting to me, and I am sorry more people did not have the pleasure of hearing him."

Miss Keating will be here all summer.

NORMAL NOTES

The students and teachers at the normal had the pleasure yesterday morning of listening to the orations which were given by Julius Nolte and Roger Lerch at the Duluth-Superior oratorical contest last evening. They were both very well received and besides their orations being instructive they showed the normal students what splendid work is being done in the high school along oratorical lines. The speakers were introduced by President Bohannon.

• • •

Prof. Rankin of the college of education at the state university and former graded school inspector of the state, visited the school Friday. He spoke to the students in chapel and showed them the connection between the university and the state normal schools. He said that the people connected with the university are beginning to recognize their sisterhood to the normals and he believes that normal graduates should consider themselves equal to graduates of the university. He praised the scholastic training of normal schools and said that university students have much to learn from normal graduates along practical lines.

• • •

The senior glee club entertained the school in chapel Friday morning by singing "Fleeting Days." For an encore they sang "The Elephant and the Chimpanzee."

• • •

It is expected that Prof. Seymour who is at present lecturing in Duluth, will give two or three of his historical lectures to the normal students. Mr. Seymour usually visits the normal when he is in Duluth and all the students are hoping he will do so this time.

• • •

President Bohannon announced to the school Friday morning that Miss Millicent Strange will take classes in manual training during the summer months in Duluth. Design, leather and wood carving, weaving, basketry, and metal work will be taken up and as so many of the normal students are interested in this sort of work, several of them are already thinking seriously of taking up the work during the summer.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

HAPPENINGS IN CLUBDOM AND THE MUSICAL CIRCLES

May Festival Subscriptions Show Growth of Duluth's Musical Taste—The Choral Club Concert—Women's Clubs' Convention at Hibbing—Apple Trees and Rose Bushes—Other Events of the Week.

THAT a very few years can make a remarkable change in the feelings of a community towards the arts has been evidenced in the Duluth experience with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

Four years ago when the Minneapolis organization under the direction of Emil Oberhoffer made its first appearance in Duluth the local committee consisting of Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Horace W. Reyner heaved a sigh of relief when the festival was over and the guarantee necessary was met. The public was coaxed and persuaded to attend. The festival was patronized from several motives. Some went for the pleasure in anticipation, some to support a worthy movement in the city, some because some one else was going and for various other reasons. This year for the fourth annual visit of the orchestra the preliminary arrangements for the appearance June 2 and 3 are simply a matter of accommodating those who desire to send in their subscriptions. To date the advance subscriptions have exceeded all former years and it is expected that when the list is closed that more Duluthians than ever before will be represented on the subscription list and for more concerts.

This year the orchestra will be accompanied by a group of soloists well known in the field of concert and oratorio. In Lucille Tewksbury the Duluth public will welcome an artist who has endeared herself to the music lovers in former appearances here, before the Matinee Musicale and last year with the orchestra. Mr. Oberhoffer plays a children's matinee in Duluth with particular pleasure and he has announced Mrs. Tewksbury as one of the soloists for the children's matinee which will be presented Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The other artists who will assist are Mme. Staberg-Hall, soprano; Genevieve Wheat, contralto, Charles Hargraves, tenor, and Marcus Kellerman, basso.

The concerts will be arranged as in previous years. Friday evening the first concert open to the public will be given when Beethoven's third symphony will be the feature. Saturday afternoon the popular matinee will be given and Saturday evening a concert of selections from German, French and Italian opera.

The children's matinee will be given Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and is arranged for the school children of the city only. Advance subscriptions for any or all of the formal concerts will be received until May 22. The advance subscribers will have the privilege of selecting their seats in advance of the sale for the general public and in the order in which the subscriptions are received.

The programs in detail for the concerts are as follows:

Swedish Minstrel Coming.

SUNDAY afternoon the Swedish people of Duluth and vicinity will be given an opportunity to hear the celebrated lute player, singer and declamer, Torkel Scholander, the Swedish Troubadour, who will appear at 3 o'clock in the new auditorium under Svea Glee club's and Orpheus Singing society's auspices.

Mr. Scholander, who has toured this country during the last months, comes of a well known family of artists. His father was, in his day, one of the leading spirits in the Swedish Royal Academy of Fine Arts, a painter, etcher, architect, author, poet and composer. An older brother, Sven Scholander, was one of the first men to revive the singing of lyrics and humorous songs to the lute, and is a great personal favorite of Emperor William, to whose court he is called at least once a year for the rendition of his songs.

Mr. Scholander will spend several months in this country and has already appeared at many places where he was met with great success.

The Minneapolis Morning Tribune of May 8 has the following to say about his appearance at the Schubert theater there:

"A wandering minstrel from Stockholm trolled many a stave and eke a blithesome roundelay or two yesterday afternoon at the Shubert theater, thereby delighting an audience of his countrymen and the few appreciative hearers of all kinds of good music who were lucky enough to hear him. Torkel Scholander is, in truth, a minstrel; oarrying the same simple message of joy to men and women as did his thousands of predecessors in ye olden tyme. His songs, merry, sad, heroic and romantic, are sung to the pleasing tone of a lute, and he suits his fine voice and his wonderful skill at pantomimic expression to the burden of his song. All in all, Torkel Scholander gives a unique and artistic entertainment, carrying, in addition to its own high value as an entertainment, romantic suggestions of the minnesingers, harpists, jongleurs, and others of the vocal craft that once made the castle hall, the soldiers' camp and the village green gay with melody.

"The minstrel sings in several tongues, and equally well in all. His songs are given in Swedish, in French and in English. Their range in style and subject is oven wider than in language, while in interpretative skill he rivals Ludwig Wullner, whom he greatly excels in voice."

Elect Officers.

THE Silver Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church met last evening for its first annual business session. The officers who have served during the past year were re-elected as follows: Mrs. Josef Lonegren, president; Miss Susan House, secreary, and Miss Bertha Cleworth, treasurer. The reports of work accomplished during the year were very encouraging for the first year's work.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

THE Vesper service at the Young Woman's Christian association Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock will be a special service celebrating the second anniversary of the new building. Miss Nettie E. On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. at which Miss Trimble will speak. Some of the subjects of general interest which were discussed at the recent bi-annial convention will be presented. All women are invited to attend these meetings.

The different departments, gymnasium Bible, educational, extension and dormitory will have different tables and each department is working for a good representation.

There will be no other supper served Monday evening except this supper at 7 o'clock.

Choral Club Concert.

THE leading event of the week in social and musical circles will be the concert to be given by the Duluth Choral club on Tuesday evening at the Lyceum theater. This is the initial appearance of this club, formed during the winter, and the advance sale of seats for the affair has been very gratifying and a large audience is assured.

The club has been rehearsing "The Erl King's Daughter," by Gade, the Danish composer, and will give this as the foundation of the concert. The mythical foundation of the opera is interesting and in the construction of the piece the noticeable feature is the ensemble parts instead of the long recitative or aria.

GEORGE SUFFEL.

The solo parts will be sung by Miss Clara Williams of Minneapolis, Miss Mary Syer Bradshaw and George Suffel of this city and the chorus has been ably trained by Alfred Wiley, director of the club.

The program for the concert follows:

Music for Children.

The program numbers have been selected with much care and Mrs. Ostergren has given informal talks at the little musicales.

Assisting her were many pupils from the classes of the Flaaten conservatory. The afternoons have been most popular with the children and have proved entertaining and instructive. Such programs do much to cultivate the real appreciation of music in a city and to add to the pleasure of the children in music, and the children at the Adams school have most cordially shown their appreciation of the music provided them by Mrs. Ostergren and her assistants.

Exhibit and Tea.

AN interesting exhibit, entertainment and tea was held at the Bryant school yesterday afternoon.

Mountings of excellent work in writing, drawing and lesson work and some fine articles made by the manual training boys were on display, and in the latter exhibit were a mission couch, upholstered with leather, chairs, sewing screens, stools, taborettes and smaller articles.

The program was well planned and contained many pleasing numbers. Edward Thorstad, Phillip Thorstad and Miss Mabel Thorstad played some string numbers and Mrs. A. M. Gow and Miss Ciara Stocker played the second movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Mrs. Gow played "The Dance of the Dwarfs" by Grieg, both of which numbers will be played by the Minneapolis orchestra in the children's matinee. The latter number delighted the children especially and Mrs. Gow responded with a second Grieg selection from "Peer Gynt."

After the program tea was served in the domestic science room by Miss Walker assisted by Mrs. Blood and Miss Voris, who poured the tea and the Misses Amy Taylor, Mabel Hagen, Ida Rumbeck, Pearl Hunt and Bessie Richwell. The color scheme here was in yellow and white bowls of cowslips being the flowers used.

Plans will be taken up at the executive committee meeting to bring the state convention to this city next year.

The next quarterly rally of the Duluth union will be held in the Lakeside Presbyterian church, June 20th, the Lakeside society being hosts of the union.

The Westminster Presbyterian society has organized its ball team, which achieved much exercise and a doubtful amount of glory on the field last year and is out with their annual challenge to any team of like size and weight in the city. They prefer games with other C. E. societies, Epworth Leagues, Luther Leagues and Sunday school teams. Interested societies should call up the manager of the Westminster aggregation on the new 'phone, Cole 3207-A.

WORKING FOR BETTER ROADS

Touring Club of America Affiliated With National Good Roads Movement.

An important step in the national good roads movement has just been effected as a result of conferences in Washington and New York between representatives of the Touring Club of America and the American Association for Highway Improvement whereby these two organizations have become closely affiliated. One result of the working agreement will be a division of interests, the American Association for Highway Improvement taking over all of the good roads efforts suggested by its members and through its various branches.

By this affiliation the Touring Club of America proposes to play a more important part in the good roads movement than heretofore as the organization which has been perfected within the past year by the American association permeates into practically every state of the Union. The association has also gained the hearty co-operation of the big railroads of the country and other large interests and through these kindred affiliations, more practical results in state aid and actual road improvement have been achieved in the past year than ever before.

The association had its origin a year ago as the result of the widespread interest in the international road congress at Brussels, at which the touring club was represented by several delegates. The benefits of such a congress were so clearly revealed that the touring club last fall agitated the necessity of establishing a national organization on virtually the same lines in this country.

Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads, department of agriculture, was quick to see the national significance of such an organization and the American Association for Highway Improvement was formed with Mr. Page as president.

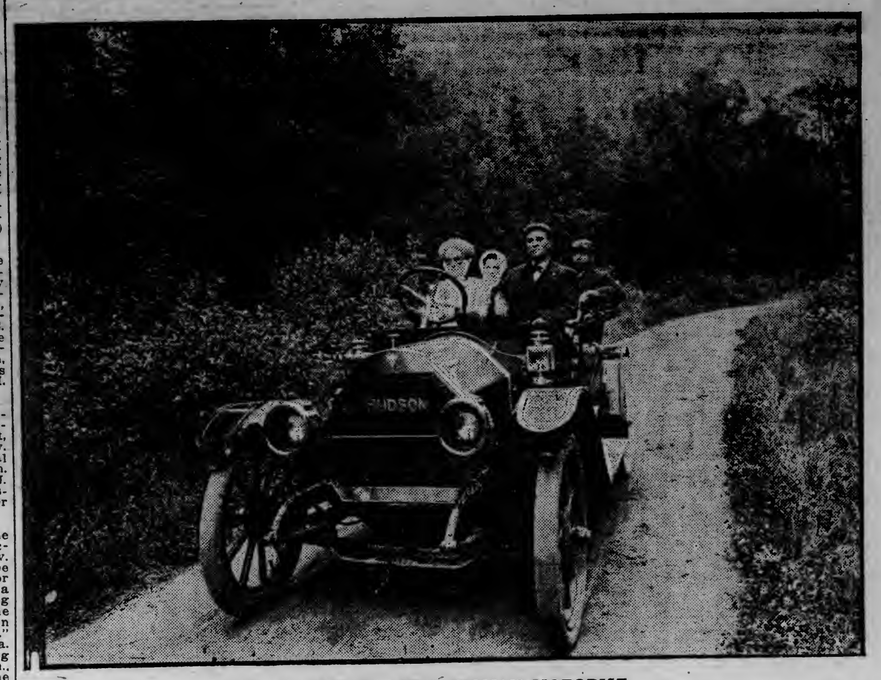
The great object of the association in addition to its efforts in stimulating public interest in the necessity for better roads and highway improvement is the establishment through its numerous local agencies and highway commissioners, of a uniform system of road building throughout the United States somewhat on the general plan as adopted abroad. The conference of highway officials, representing a dozen states, held a year ago at the office of the Touring Club of America, Broadway and Seventy-sixth street, New York, was a marked illustration of the keen interest taken in the subject of improved highway, their maintenance and regulation.

Pathfinder Proceeds.

Fargo, N. D., May 13.—Road conditions had improved sufficiently to allow the pathfinding car of the Minnesota Automobile association to proceed on its journey from St. Paul to Helena, Mont.

The car left here for Crookston, Minn., and Grand Forks, N. D., at 8:30 a. m.

IN THE MOTOR WORLD



AN ENTHUSIASTIC WOMAN MOTORIST.

Mrs. R. W. Hyde of this city is an enthusiastic motorist. She is seen in the picture at the wheel of a Hudson "33." The picture was taken on the Pike Lake road, one of the most beautiful of the wooded drives about the city. The other occupants of the car are: Mr. Hyde and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Filiatrault. Mrs. Hyde insists on driving her own car. She says that is is but little pleasure for her to ride when some one else is driving. She handles the car well, it is said, and can make fast time over a country road.

FORTY-SIX IN BIG RACE

Every Prominent Driver in America Entered in Memorial Day Event.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13.—Bob Burman, world's speed king, the man who has driven a motor car faster than any other human being ever dared, will pit his daring and skill against a field of forty-five other starters in the 500-mile International Sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis Motor speedway next Memorial day, May 30. This announcement was made by the management of the Speedway upon advice from New York that E. A. Moross, Burman's manager, had made good his promise to bring the motor monarch to Indianapolis for the long grind. Bob will be seen at the wheel of a newly imported Benz car, which is one of the two entered by Moross. The driver of the other Benz has not been named.

Moross closed the deal for the two cars and immediately gave in the entry of both. They are the same creations of the German factory which won many victories in Europe and were sent here upon the solicitation of Jesse Froelich, managing director of the Benz Import Company of New York. The big Teutonic motors have 521 inches piston displacement and are of the two-mile-a-minute type for which the Benz factory has been noted.

The American promoter cornered the importation of this type of car as soon as the machines had reached this country and they will make their first American appearance in the Indianapolis race. They will be shipped onto Indianapolis at once and Burman and his team-mate will start the monster motors for the contest on Memorial day.

The entries for the long race are closed and Moross got in just under the wire along with the Simplex Motor Car company of Mishawaka, Ind., which entered a second Amplex car to be driven by Walter Jones. This brings the total list of cars to start in the 500-mile race up to forty-six, twenty more than the greatest number ever before entered in one event in the history of automobile racing.

The giant Benz cars, which Burman and his fellow pilot will drive through the 500-mile grind, are said by the foreign makers to be the fastest cars of their size ever constructed. For more than a year the skilled German mechanics worked on these masterpieces, and with all of the care and cunning which these autons have they made motors which have proved their capabilities in many astounding performances abroad. This is the first appearance of the cars outside of the European courses, where they have been conquerors of every competitor.

The Indianapolis race will be the first appearance of Burman at the wheel since he made his time-annihilating flights across the wave-washed sands of the Florida Beach, and shattered the world's record for the kilometer, the mile and the two-mile distances. This Michigan boy, 27 years old, took the sound car in which Barney Oldfield made his records, and set the world agape by opening the throttle as far as it would go and setting back the work of the former speed king.

Burman said before he gained possession of the Oldfield cars that he dared to drive faster than Oldfield ever had dared and Rob proved his assertion, as the records tell. Unafraid, skilful, brainy and untiring in his work, Burman will be one of the most feared men in the 500-mile event. He has the car now which he has sought as a fitting mount for the speed monarch, and what he will do can only be judged by what he did on the ocean beach in sunny Florida.

Backed by the energy of Moross and the skill of his mechanics, together with his own prowess, the famous driver will be watched the world over in the first race he will ride since becoming the peer of pilots. From the days when he won the first race in which he ever started—a 50-mile event at Detroit in 1906—Burman has been a favorite in American motor racing circles. His ability to nose out victory when it semed almost impossible, and even against the greatest odds, made his the reputation of a game driver as well as a fearless man.

One of the greatest proofs of his stability and endurance powers was offered in the 24-hour race in St. Louis in 1906, when he drove twenty-two and one-half hours out of the twenty-four, and brought his car in a winner by eighty-two miles. From that time until now. Bob has left behind him a trail of broken records and decisive victories.

During the 1910 season he gained even greater prominence than before by piloting a Buick through the grand prize race at Savanah into first place for American cars and third place in the race. Fifteen fatal tire changes ruined his chance for the first money, but despite this handicap he gave the winners a merry chase and took his car through without a mechanical repair. The performance he made in this race alone against tire changes and the grueling task of stopping fifteen times and working to replace the wornout rubber shoes won him the title with many as "the greatest driver in the world." Since then he has proved his right to the name and the fame.

Unlike the former holders of that title, Burman will enter actual racing conflict with others. He will not retire to the milder form of motor driving—exhibition work—but will give others a chance to prove their superiority, wheel to wheel in open fray. Racing experts assert that his entry in the Indianapolis race will do more than any one other to make the long event a record breaker from start to finish. Burman has more than the $25,000 gold prize at stake—he must protect his title. Although it cannot be taken from him through the loss of this race in so large a field, still he knows that the motor world will have its eyes centered on his first performance since he snatched another second away from Father Time on the beach.

Burman's entry completes the list of great American drivers in the 500-mile race. There is not a famous motor race driver in America today but will be seen in the long race, and Bob offered the finishing touch to make this possible.

CENTRAL GARAGE.

Mutual Auto Company Has One of Finest Homes in Northwest.

The Central garage is one of the largest and most beautifully appointed garages on a single floor in the state of Minnesota. The rapid growth of the Mutual Auto company during the past ten years in the automobile business, has succeeded in placing this progressive firm in a class by itself. The new Central garage, owned and operated by the Mutual Auto company, at 313-319 West First street, covers a space of 100 by 140 feet. It has a steel truss roof, is clear of posts, has a concrete floor, a strictly first-class machine shop, a showroom, and repair department.

When the automobiles were few in Duluth, E. J. Filiatrault saw the necessity of opening up in a small way for the care and maintenance of the one or two cars which were here in 1901. Coupling his efforts with careful business methods, he has won for his company a sound established confidence in the hearts of the automobile owners in Duluth.

Mr. Filiatrault tends to the mechanical and business end of this progressive firm. His brother, L. H. Filiatrault is also connected with the firm. This firm represents the E. R. Thomas Motor Car company, which build the Thomas Flyer. The Chalmers Detroit cars are also sold by this firm. In addition to the two above lines, they handle the Hudson, built and sold for $1,000 and $1,250. The three lines of cars represented by the Mutual Auto company, represents all the styles of bodies used by the various automobile purchasers.

A great many cars of the 1911 type sold by this firm, may be seen on the streets of Duluth. The Thomas Flyers have been sold to some of the most prominent persons in Duluth—These cars are all of the six-cylinder type, forty-horse power. A few of the purchasers are: Julius H. Barnes, S. H. Jones, N. F. Russell, M. F. Bates, J. H. Cartwright, Louis Ramstad, Howard T. Abbott, Murdoch McDonald, A. B. Coates and a number of others.

The favored little Hudson and Chalmers cars, the owners of which are too numerous to mention, may be seen daily, purring along in a smooth and quiet way.

An inspection of this new garage is worth the while of any one interested in automobiles.

Motorcycle Notes.

A motorcycle club is being formed in St. John, N. B.

The Cleveland, Ohio, Motorcycle club has gained forty new members in the last three weeks.

The Federation of American Motorcyclists, through G. H. Hamilton, chairman of the legal action committee, is assisting the motorcyclists of New York state to defeat a proposed tax of $5 per annum on motorcyclists. A bill proposing this tax has been introduced into the state legislature.

It is likely that Detroit will soon have a motorcycle "saucer."

The Akron, Ohio, Motorcycle club will have three summer meets—May 27, July 1 and Sept. 2.

Only two of fifteen siarters in the Worcester Motorcycle club's Worcester-Providence-Boston triangle run were compelled to withdraw on the road. All of the others covered the 130-mile course.

The Cedar Rapids Motorcycle club will hold race meets each Thursday and Sunday, having leased the Marion race track.

A race meet on the Fourth of July is being planned by the members of the Jacksonville, Fla., Motorcycle club—most of whom are well-known Jacksonville business men.

An endurance run will be held by the Springfield, Ohio, Motorcycle club June 11. A race meet is planned for July 4.

IDEAL TRIP FOR AUTOS

Miller Trunk Road Is in Fine Condition This Spring.

One of the prettiest automobile runs out of the city is that one over the Pike Lake and Miller trunk highway to the Whiteface river, which is about forty miles from Duluth.

The roads are in god shape all along the way and for a variety of scenes from the well cultivated field to the wild forest in its primitive state, no road out of the city has more to offer.

The good roads make the trip most enjoyable. The holes and bridges have been or are being repaired and there are many straight stretches on which the motor can be opened up. When the patches of repair work have been finished this will be one of the smoothest roads about the city.

At the present time many are taking the drive. The Whiteface is forty miles from the city. The distance is about right for an afternoon ride.

The Whiteface is one of the prettiest of the rivers about the city and good catches of wall-eyed pike are often made. There is plenty of opportunity to picnic on beautiful spots on its bank.

It is on this road that many are anxious that the Duluth Automobile club establish a clubhouse. At the point where the river crosses the Miller trunk, there are many large trees, the underbrush has been cut away, making a fine location for a small clubhouse where the members of the club could spend the week end.

At this point the river winds in and out, cutting away the land and leaving a large number of little points, every one of which would make a good building spot.

The Filiatrault Cabin.

A number of Duluth people already have summer residences on the river. One of the most enthusiastic cottagers at the river is E. J. Filiatrault, who owns a number of acres and who has one of the most unique summer places around the city.

Mr. Filiatrault is located about a mile from the Miller trunk. He has a log cabin made out of upright cedar logs that would do credit to the other buildings of a city suburb.

He is on the opposite side of the river and to reach his place it is necessary to use his aerial bridge. This bridge travels on cables swung over the river and attached to four giant pine trees, two on either side. The car is suspended from the cables and travels by means of a third cable, which runs through the car. It has a carrying capacity of several hundred pounds. It is labeled "The Jungle F---ry," the Jungle Lodge being the name of the Filiatrault place.

A number of other Duluthians are considering buying and building summer places in the vicinity of the Whiteface. The country is coming to the front as a farming community. There are stores, schools and churches and there may soon be telephones. The farmers are a mighty happy, prosperous lot and it is due to their energy and enterprise that the country is being settled so fast.

Commissioner Overton deserves a good deal of credit for the work that is being put on the road. A large amount of money is being spent on the Miller trunk and it is not being wasted. After a time section men are to be put in charge of it and prizes are to be given the men keeping the best road by the automobile club.

Much of the country is as wild as it was years ago and it is seldom possible to walk in any direction in early morning or in the evening without seeing a deer. The partridge hunting is said to be good in the fall and the fishing is said to be excellent.

There are two schools and each of them are attended by about fifty pupils. The country is being fast settled up and the farmers lay it to the excellent soil formation and the good roads.

"What was the most embarrassing moment you have ever known?"

"It was in 1867," replied Maj.-Gen. Frederick D. Grant, in command of the Department of the East, "and I was about 17 and a cadet at the Military academy. The holidays were close at hand and my people invited me to come home to the family reunion. The folks were in Washington, for father had been filling the position of secretary of war during the interim after President Johnson had removed Secretary Stanton. It was my first visit home since I had entered West Point and I looked forward to the satisfaction I should feel in exhibiting myself to my friends in my military attire, from which the novelty had not yet worn off.

"In order to make a thorough business of the exhibition, I stopped over in New York on the way. Everything went off swimmingly at the metropolis and I was highly gratified with the impression I made in my new clothes. I remained only a day and on the following evening, escorted by two of my young friends, I boarded the sleeper, undressed carefully, being especially thoughtful in the matter of arranging my clothes so that they should not wrinkle or muss, and retired to my berth.

"I woke early with the intention of making a careful toilet and joining the family circle at breakfast. Everything went well until I reached my boots—where were they? I searched high and low before I roused the porter, then he joined me in the search and finally everybody in the car took a hand in the hunt. They were missing and in their place I found the most unattractive pair of army cowhides on which I had ever set my eyes. Without a quiver the porter vowed solemnly that he knew nothing whatever of the exchange and seemed disposed to insist that I had worn the disreputable footgear on board the evening before. All in vain I pointed out the difference between my feet and the enormous boots, which must have been worn by a giant. He looked sympathetic, but apparently unconvinced.

"When I reached up to the rack for my cap, that trim piece of headgear in which I took special pride, I brought down an old felt hat of the vintage of the first year of the war and dilapidated at that. My neat, well-fitting cadet's cap had gone to keep company with my equally faultless footgear. Now it was evident that I was the victim of a practical joke, engineered by my New York friends in collusion with the porter, and one that left me in a particularly embarrassing situation. Not only were all my pet schemes to make a big impression on my family and friends completely disarranged, but there I was practically barefooted and barcheaded, with half a mile of Washington pavement between me and my destination.

"Why didn't I call a cab? Well, the fact is, I was dead broke and in my agitation it didn't occur to me that I could settle with the driver at the other end of the route. Besides, I had made up my mind after the first shock was over to brave it out. So I got into the cowhides, hung the remnant of a sombrero on the back of my head, chirped a nonchalant au revoir to my fellow passengers and the grinning porter, alighted from the sleeper and proceeded to shuffle homeward. Fortunately it was rather early in the day and official Washington was not yet astir. Most of those I met turned to take a second look at me and a milkman halted his horse long enough to call out, 'Hello, Cap'n Jinks.' When I reached our block a policeman I knew stood on the corner. He looked surprised to see me and said something about the masquerade keeping very late. I didn't stop to explain then, but hurried straight home. It didn't take me long to recover from my embarrassment, but you see I haven't forgotten it."

J. Pierpont Morgan's Difficult Problem.

"Although it was really but a trivial matter," replied J. Pierpont Morgan to the question concerning his most embarrassing experience, "I am of the opinion that my attempt to call on two very important personages at practically the same hour involved about as much mental perturbation as usually falls to the lot of the ordinary man of business. Some years ago, while on a visit to Rome, with my daughter as my traveling companion, it occurred to us that it would add greatly to the pleasure of our trip to make the personal acquaintance of the pope and also of the Italian royal family. Before we had an opportunity to make our ambition known, the American representative took the initiative in the matter and volunteered to make all the arrangements for our reception at the Vatican and at the Quirinal.

"Now it is the privilege of those who manage these presentation affairs at courts to suit their own convenience as to the hour specified for the visit and it would be highly presumptuous to ask for a change in the arrangements after they are once made. As you know, also, there is no form of social understanding between the Vatican and the Quirinal whereby the accident of conflicting dates may be avoided. In our instance, this proved to be a cause of great embarrassment, for we were bidden to appear before Queen Helena at the Quirinal and the pope at the Vatican on the same day. Her majesty expressed a desire to see us at 10:45 a. m. and His Holiness named 11:15 a. m. as the time of our reception by him.

"Here was a real predicament and there appeared to be no way to escape creditably. Failure to appear promptly at either of these greatly coveted opportunities would stamp us as social renegades and could not be thought of for a moment. Yet how could it be accomplished without the aid of a miracle? Even should the queen admit us promptly at the minute specified, how could we know that she might not detain us in conversation until it would be too late to keep our appointment with His Holiness? We knew of her proverbial courtesy toward Americans and for once we regretted it. What was to be done? The very thought of what was likely to occur was maddening.

"Nor was that the worst of it. It added not a little to our embarrassment to recall that the prescribed dress, both for males and females, at a Vatican presentation was wholly unlike that which was required at the Quirinal. It was court etiquette that when I went to see the queen I should wear a Prince Albert coat and fancy scarf and my daughter a light-colored walking gown and appropriate hat. The Vatican rule calls for strict full dress on the part of a man visitor not an ecclesiastic and black gown, black veil, ungloved hands and no jewels on the part of a woman.

"Talk about diplomacy! Here was a situation which demanded something more than mental acumen. Nimble fingers were what saved us that time. Queen Helena chatted amiably with us for nearly twenty mines and then—then the speediest motor car in the Eternal City, within which we made lightning changes in our clothing as it sped to the vatican, did the rest. We arrived in time for our audience, but I shouldn't care to repeat the experience."

Dr. Collyer's Remedy for Embarrassment.

Dr. Robert Collyer's best-remembered moment of embarrassment came to him when he was being honored publicly by the University of Leeds with an honorary degree.

"It was a great day for Leeds," quaintly relates the dean of the country's Unitarian ministers, "but it was a bigger one for me. The great platform was filled with college dignitaries in their flowing gown and bright hoods, and I felt like a chickweed in a tulip bed when I heard my name read out and stood up to receive my degree from the hands of the gorgeously-robed provost.

"First the learned dignitary read a rather long address in a foreign tongue. I listened bravely and really enjoyed it all. When he had finished his speech he stood looking earnestly at me, and then it was that I realized for the first time that I was expected to do a little talking myself. It would have been proper, no doubt, for me to have replied to him in the language which he had employed, but beyond the fact that I had a strong suspicion that it was the Latin I had no knowledge of it. For a moment I was a trifle shaky, but I resolved to make the best of it and to throw myself on the mercy of the assembly.

"So I broke the expectant silence by stating in the vernacular that it was a matter of deep regret to me that I had not been able to make out what the provost was saying, but that probably it was just as well that I couldn't, for if it were anything complimentary to me it might have added to my self-conceit, which was already quite large enough for one man to bear. My confession that I knew no Latin brought out such a look of amazement on the faces of the scholars all about me that I felt in duty bound to give some account of my ignorance. So I proceeded to tell of my early life as a blacksmith in Yorkshire and of my trick of keeping the bellows in motion with one hand while in the other I held a book.

"All this seemed to please them very well, and when I had come to the end of my story the provost rose again to his feet and addressed me—this time in English—with words that made me blush, but not with shame."

An Actor's Trying Moment.

"Among all the embarrassing moments I have experienced—I have had my share of them, mind you—I give the palm to an incident that occurred last winter while I was playing an engagement in a Western city," said Edward H. Sothern. "As you probably do not know, I dress the part of Romeo in a fashion entirely original with me and decidedly at variance with the accepted stage tradition. I have spent so much time and study in what I regard as the proper costuming of the role that the clothes I wear in the part have become an essential feature of my performance—without them I should feel like a cat in a strange garret and I should not be able to get en rapport with the character. In fact, I have become so dependent on these needful accessories that in order to feel certain of them I have made it a rule to treat them as a part of my private wardrobe, never leaving them over night at the theater and always having my man pack them carefully at the close of each performance and convey them to my hotel.

"Well, one night last winter, in spite of all my precaution, my 'Romeos' as my man calls them, were missing from me as a consequence Shakespeare's lovelorn hero made his first stage appearance in a twentieth-century sack coat. I arrived at the theatre rather late and was told on entering my dressing room that my man had not yet shown up, a most unusual occurrence, for he was famous for punctuality: Eight o'clock struck, but no man with my 'Romeos.' I was extremely nervous and the stage manager was in a genuine funk. When I suggested that the play be changed he showed signs of collapse. The only thing to be done was for me to go on in my everyday garb and begin the business, for I declined absolutely to get into the antiquated and historically incorrect costume which he fished out of the theatre junkshop.

"So he had to go out in front and square himself with the audience and when the time came I went on sans everything that recalled Romeo. I was so rattled that I am sure I shouldn't have remembered a word of the part had it not been for the consciousness that I had in my coat pocket a small volume of the text to which I could refer in case of total loss of memory. Fortunately, it wasn't so bad as that, and at my first exit I was overjoyed to find that my man had materialized. A block in the river and an open draw-bridge had caused the delay which had played such havoc with my nervous system. Since then my man, my 'Romeos' and myself have traveled in company on Romeo nights."

How a Senator Secured a Dress Suit.

Still another instance of the embarrassment due to the tyranny of dress is contributed by ex-Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan. "Late one afternoon, at an important committee meeting, the business of which had completely monopolized my attention the sudden turning on of the electric lights reminded me that I had an engagement to dine at the White House in rather less than an hour. Although I was startled to find how little time I had to prepare for this not-to-be-neglected function my attention was diverted just that moment by a turn in the business before the committee, and I lost another quarter of an hour.

"Then all at once the imminence of my social peril struck me with such force that I jumped from my chair with an exclamation that must have startled my associates, rushed to the telephone and ordered my dress suit case and hatbox sent to the capitol by the swiftest messenger to be procured. Then I proceeded to the cloakroom, divested myself of my coat and vest, rolled up my shirt sleeves and began to make a hasty toilet, intending to be all ready to slip into my dress suit when it made its appearance.

"Just ten minutes before the appointed hour the boy with my suit case and hatbox put in an appearance. Breathing a long sigh of relief, I opened the case and found it empty! Then I tore the cover off the hatbox, and that, too, was empty! Somebody at home had taken me literally and had sent precisely what I had specified.

"Here was a situation—due to dine with the president in rather less than ten minutes and nothing to wear but an ordinary business suit of black cheviot. Should I risk it? Just as I was hesitating there entered a department clerk with whom I was well acquainted, a fellow who always dressed for dinner even at his boarding house. As luck would have it, he had made his toilet and looked as spick and span as a new dollar. As I saw him a sudden inspiration seized me. 'Jimmie,' I called peremptorily, " off with that coat and vest! I need them more than you do. I'll explain later. Put on my coat and vest and ask no questions."

"My friend obeyed without a murmur. 'Will you need my shirt, senator?' he asked as he handed me the garments and I whipped into them. 'No,' I returned, but I'll have to have that lawn tie.' Fortunately we were the same build and his coat fitted me fairly well. His hat was attrite and but that didn't matter. When he had put himself into my clothes I sent him to secure the fleetest taxicab within immediate reach, and a $5 note and a command to the driver to disregard the speed limit saved the day for me."

What Forgetfulness Did For Senator Newlands.

Embarrassments arising from lapses of memory are specially the lot of men of deep mental concentration. Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada has been the victim of more than one of these tricks of memory. The one he is least likely to forget has become one of the cherished traditions of his home city and the Reno version of it is as follows:

A few years ago the social camp in the Nevada capital was divided into two well-defined factions. Ordinarily there would have been no division where the community of interest was so identical, but it happened that at that time two women of extraordinary ability in social management were rivals for the leadership and neither would yield, with the result that society was cleft in twain, and the parts, each under its own leader, were balanced so evenly that the struggle for supremacy was constant and aggressive. Finally both factions organized regularly into rival clubs and the contest became livelier than ever.

Both clubs announced public meetings of a similar character—part literary, part musical and part many other things—to be held on the same night and at the same hour. There was a lively scramble by the promoters in both clubs to secure available attractions. Senator Newlands was always a drawing card, and he accepted an invitation to address one club just as the invitation committee from the other reached his office. It was a notable triumph for the successful faction and a blow for the losers.

By the night of the meetings the senator had forgotten everything save the fact that he had promised to address a gathering somewhere in town. With that indefinite understanding to guide him, he left his home about 7:45 p. m., and made his way leisurely to the business section of the city. As he reached the main street a transparency on the front of the opera house informed him that the Woman's Social Improvement club was holding forth therein, and he came instantly to the conclusion that he had reached his destination, entered the building and was received by the lady managers with the utmost cordiality.

"This is perfectly charming of you, senator!" declared the president enthusiastically. "I knew you couldn't resist us."

"Well," said the unsuspicious victim, "I promised—and here I am."

At this the keen witted leader turned to her assistants and—yes, positively winked. "We were expecting to have you address the club and our visitors a little later in the evening," she cooed insinuatingly, "but now that you are here, why not do so at once?"

The senator agreed amiably, the meeting was called to order and there followed one of the most entertaining little discourses ever made in Reno. Everybody was delighted and at the conclusion everybody was trying to tell the senator how delighted she was when a message reached him that he was wanted outside, and it was intimated that the call was urgent.

Just without the main entrance he was confronted by his wife and two other ladies, with anxiety written all over their countenances. "How about that speech, senator?" one of them demanded huskily.

"You are little late; I've just made it," replied the senator affably.

"Yes, Francis, and you have made it to the wrong crowd," groaned his wife.

The President's Embarrasing Experience.

In common with most men of abnormal proportions, President Taft is somewhat sensitive in regard to his excess of avoirdupois. Those who know him well have learned that he likes to have the assurance from those whom he has not seen for some time that he is "falling off" a little. An amusing incident apropos of this weakness of the president occurred last spring during his visit to his home at Cincinnati. He made a call one morning on an old friend and neighbor, a lady who has a passion for Chippendale and other furniture of like rococo build and whose house contained no other sort less fragile. During the brief interval which elapsed between the arrival of the president and the appearance of his friend in the reception room, he did not trust himself to occupy one of the delicate looking chairs, but was standing with his hands on the back of one when she entered.

"Why, Mr. President," she exclaimed, with the intention to make herself as agreeable as possible, "how unusually well you are looking—but considerably thinner, don't you think?"

"Well, perhaps so—just a little, that is," he replied, evidently not displeased. "It's enough to make anybody fall off to run this government.

Then he lowered himself rather gingerly into the precious Chippendale, which promptly resented the intrusion by casting a leg and landing the president on the highly polished floor.

"I see that I haven't fallen off enough to associate with your furniture," laughed the chief magistrate, picking himself up as gracefully as he could.

Some Unusual Sources of Embarrassment.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles confessed that there was at least one moment, once upon a time, when embarrassment was a prime ingredient in the mixture which he served him in North Carolina. He was visiting at New Berne, arriving in the night and going immediately to his friend's house. Early next morning he awoke to become an unwilling listener to the following enlightening dialogue which took place just underneath his open window:

"Why didn't you get out the militia last night and go down to the station to welcome my friend, Gen. Miles, to New Berne, I gave you notice that he was coming."

"I know you did, colonel, and I reported what you said to the men down at the armory last evening. What do you suppose they said?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"Well, Maj. Bartow got up and made one of the best speeches I ever heard anywhere. He said that when he so forgot himself to turn out and hurrah over the man that put the handcuffs on President Jefferson Davis he might be considered a fit subject for the lunatic asylum. They all agreed with him and what could I do under the circumstances but go home and crawl into bed?"

Although Admiral Dewey is master of a manner which affords small scope for embarrassment, he admits that his cheeks tingled on a certain occasion which he finds it difficult to forget. It was in Manila when the resident Americans were straining every nerve to do him honor and to exploit him publicly. The members of the Army and Navy club resolved that he should have a team with a suitable driver. The horses were procured readily from the cavalry and a carriage was obtained from a wealthy merchant who had imported it from England. Finally a member of the club secured a silk hat, an opera cloak and a rubber cape for the driver, a native Filipino of unusual swarthiness and shine.

All would have been well had it not been for the hot sun of the tropics and the tendency of the Filipino skin to remain uncovered. On the very first day the admiral, in his big closed carriage, was driven up to the entrance of the Army and Navy club; his driver sat perfectly upright on his seat clad only in a shining silk tile. The remainder of his attire had proved to be burdensome and he had discarded it, and the admiral and his turnout had been the observed of all Manila as they moved through the public thoroughfares.

It is a peculiar fact that in certain instances individuals who are not easily flustrated succumb to the most trivial provocation. Illustrative of this is the statement of Uncle Joe Cannon that never in his career as congressman or speaker has anything occurred to disturb his equipoise and that the only amount of downright embarrassment that ever came to him was in his early manhood, when he was a candidate for public prosecutor in his native country. He always prefaces the story with the frank admission that he was a candidato not because he was qualified, but because he needed the money.

"I soon found I had a rival," relates Mr. Cannon. "He knew just about as much law as I did, and the less said about that the better. In a crowd of lawyers and court hangers-on one day the judge of the district took a notion to have a little fun with us.

"'What are you two boys making such a noise about?' he asked, with a wicked grin.

"'Both of us are after the same office,' I answered.

"'Well,' he said, meditatively, 'I don't know as I care a continental which of you gets it. No matter how it goes, the penitentiary is sure to be empty for a while.'

"Darned if that didn't make me feel like crawling into a hole somewhere," admits Uncle Joe, "and I never got over feeling that way till I won the election."

THE SMALLEST ENGINE.

Answers: Tiny Tim is the name of the smallest engine in the world. It is made of gold and steel, and is so small that a common house fly seems large in comparison. It weighs just four grains complete, which is the weight of an ordinary match. It takes over 100 such engines to weigh one ounce, almost 3,000,000 to weigh a ton.

The engine bed and stand are of gold. The shaft runs in hardened and ground steel bearings inserted in the gold bed. These bearings are counterbored from the inside to form a self-oiling bearing. The fly wheel has a steel center and arms, with a gold rim, and the complete wheel weighs one grain. The cylinder is of steel, with octagonal base, highly polished. The stroke is 1-32 of an inch; bore, 3-100 of an inch. Seventeen pieces are used in the construction of this engine.

The speed of the engine is 6,000 revolutions per minute. When running 100 per second no motion is visible to the eye, but it makes a noise like the noise of a mosquito. The horse power is 1-489,000 of one horse power. Compressed air is used to run it; and it may be of interest to note that the amount required to make it hum can easily be borne on the eyeball without winking.

RETURN FROM HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Former West Duluthians Back After Twelve Years in Honolulu.

Christopher H. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, formerly Miss Alice Brady of West Duluth, have returned from the Hawaiian islands, where they have been living for the past twelve years. Both were former residents of the city and are well known to many Duluthians. They are guests at the home of the former's brother, D. A. Fitzpatrick, at the Hotel Cody.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick made their home in Honolulu, where Mr. Fitzpatrick was engineer for a string of plantations owned by a syndicate engaged in the tobacco industry. He also has some property there.

Another brother, Thomas Fitzpatrick, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Maxim, have extensive holdings on the island and have been engaged in the tobacco business on a wholesale scale ever since the Spanish-American war.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fitzpatrick brought their children with them and as yet have not decided as to whether they will return or not. On account of the superior educational facilities afforded in the states as compared with the schools on the island, the Fitzpatricks may remain in Duluth until after their children finish their schooling.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, formerly Miss Brady, was a former assistant postmaster at West Duluth under S. Caples.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER ADDRESSES CLUB.

County Commissioner J. W. Cummings will be asked to address the West Duluth Commercial club at its next meeting. Last evening County Commissioner Overton was present and talked on the new Getchell road with the club.

The club urged as many as possible to attend the hearing on the Soo depot question this afternoon at the West Duluth fire hall. Permission was given to the West Duluth Fourth of July association to hold meetings in the clubrooms.

SUPERIOR IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE COSTLY

Superior Water, Light & Power Company Will Spend $100,000.

The Superior Water, Light & Power company will spend $100,000 for improvements in Superior within the next six months. This was decided upon last evening at a meeting of the board of directors at the Hotel Superior.

Five miles of new mater mains will be laid and the gas pipe lines will also be extended, according to Thomas B. Scott, president. All transformers in the city will be replaced by new ones, which will give the consumer more power for less money.

At the East end a new pump is being installed and a pump house built. Two new reservoirs will be constructed nearby. The new pump which is being installed will have a capacity of 5,000,000.

This is the second appropriation of $100,000 in two years.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN PRODUCING RESULTS.

Superior is having a thorough clean-up this year, as a result of an energetic campaign which has been inaugurated by the health department under the instruction and supervision of Mayor Crumpton.

During the past few weeks about 1,500 loads of rubbish, ashes and other waste material have been hauled to the dumping grounds in the vicinity of Grand avenue and Twenty-first street.

STREET PAVING ON NEW BRIDGE TO BE STARTED.

Doffor & Riches, contractors, will start work on the laying of the creosoted block paving on the completed portion of the East Fourth street bridge over the Nemadji river early next week. The eastern half of the bridge has been ready for some time. Indications now are that the bridge will be ready for traffic much earlier than expected.

First Mounted Officer.

The first mounted patrolman to be placed regularly on the Superior police force is Policeman Zimmerman, who has been assigned to duty at Central park. He will do patrol duty and will cover the wide stretch of territory between the East and West ends.

GOPHER ON WAY HOME

Is Now a Better Boat Than When She Was Launched.

Equipped with new engines, the Gopher, the training ship of the Minnesota naval militia, will be back in the local harbor Monday. Commander Guy A. Eaton and Lieut. Commander Ben F. Howard, with a crew of members of the militia, left Toledo with the ship light Thursday.

New boilers were installed in the Gopher last year and the new engines complete the equipment. The Gopher will be faster and better than ever, and is now considered a better boat than she was when she was launched. The members of the militia are delighted with the prospect of having the ship for week-end cruises this year, and a number of target-practice cruises will be made. A four-inch gun will be mounted on the ship soon.

COMPLAINTS TO BE HEARD

Straphangers Should Attend Council Hearing Monday in a Body.

Hillsiders Say Ninth Street Extension Would Greatly Improve Conditions.

The council committee on railroads, telegraph and telephone lines will hold a public hearing at the council chambers Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock to hear any complaints against the alleged insufficiency of the street car service.

The indications are that the council chambers will be crowded, as many different people have stated that they would like to express their opinion of existing conditions. They say that at certain hours of the day it is impossible for any one, except those boarding cars near the ends of the lines, to get a seat. It is also claimed by others that they are so crowded that they can't even get a strap with which to maintain their balance.

Members of the hillside clubs and residents of the Second ward are expected to be out in force. They are greatly interested in the proposed Second ward extension, and wish assurances that it will be completed this season. They feel that if the line is added the present season it will do much to relieve the crowded condition of the cars.

The proposed extension will start at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street, running up Fifth avenue to Fifth street, on Fifth street to Sixth avenue east, on Sixth avenue to Seventh street, on Seventh street to Seventh avenue, up the avenue to Ninth street and on Ninth street to Fourteenth avenue east. A petition is now being circulaed for the grading of Ninth street and it is stated that enough signatures have been secured or promised to insure the improvement this season. A committee is also working on petitions for the improvement of the avenues affected by the proposed extension. The residents are extremely anxious that the street car extension be made this year and are doing all in their power to put the streets in shape for the laying of the rails.

The council last Monday night authorized the board of public works to build a concrete culvert in Sixth avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets, after which the avenue will be graded. The building of the culvert will remove the last serious obstacle to the construction of the culvert, as there is little doubt but that there will be no trouble in getting the fill made. Most of it can be made from excavations from property in the vicinity.

BACK FROM THE BORDER

Capt. K. A Franklin Says Mexican Maneuvers Are Great School.

Thinks Secret Treaty With Japan Caused Massing of Troops.

Capt. K. A. Franklin of this city, who has been at San Antonio, Tex., attending the army maneuvers, returned to Duluth today. He declares that he was greatly benefitted by the experience he had while there and that army officers from all over the country are learning much from the visits which they are making to the manouvers.

He said that he was attached to the Fort Snelling regiment, which was selected for trying out new army tactics, which were conducted under the supervision of Maj. Morrison, Capt. Bjornstad and Capt. Stewart of the tactical board.

"The health of the troops is remarkable," he said this morning. "There has been but one case of typhoid fever, and that was a mule driver, who contracted the disease elsewhere. He was promptly isolated, and all danger of a spread of the disease eliminated."

Capt. Franklin states that the general belief of the men near the border is that they were sent there because the government learned that a secret treaty had been entered into between Mexico and Japan, whereby the latter country was to get a coaling station and a footing on this continent from the Mexicans. But he explained that there is nothing definitely known as to that and that it is only a supposition. He said that army men generally were gaining a most valuable experience at San Antonio. He explained that many regular army officers have never had an opportunity to see large bodies of troops handled and that they are now learning the methods that are used in doing so.

Bodies Will Be Placed in Individual Waterproof Crypts.

James L. Crawford and A. C. Barthe of Duluth are given as two of the incorporators of the Minnesota Mausoleum company of Minneapolis, the articles of incorporation of which were filed at St. Paul this morning.

The other incorporators are: W. C. Johnson, C. M. Herteg and Guy C. Landis of Minneapolis. The capital stock is given at $350,000.

The company is introducing a new method in the interment of bodies. Instead of putting them in the ground, they are placed in individual crypts in a large mausoleum, large enough to hold several hundred or as big as desired. Each body is placed in a separate place, absolutely waterproof and protected. Private compartments may be secured for families, along the same plan that is now followed in family lots in the cemeteries. The idea is a new departure and has met with general approval wherever it has been introduced. The cost is also said to be moderate.

The company has secured all the state rights, except for the city of Mankato, were the plan is now in use with much success.

ASKED FOOD FOR HIS MEN

Orozco Started Revolt Against Madero When Request Was Refused.

Matter Finally Settled By President Promising to Aid Soldiers.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—The incipient rebellion arose in the ranks of the forces under Gen. Pascual Orozco, one of the fighting leaders of the Madero army, and was headed by Orozco, himself.

A demand was made upon Provisional President Madero for food and money for his ragged, hungry soldiers. Madero was unable to satisfy these demands at the time, but his explanations were peremptorily thrown aside by the belligerent leader, Orozco, and his soldiers, and Madero was declared under arrest.

Finally the matter was settled by Madero promising that the immediate needs of the soldiers would be attended to and the insurrectos, who had gathered in bands about the house, dispersed.

Peace Prospects Brighter.

Juarez, Mex., May 13.—Prospects for restoring peace in Mexico became noticeably brighter here today, when the explanation given by Minister Limantour in an Associated Press dispatch from Mexico City last night concerning President Diaz's real intention about continuing in power was read by the officials of the provisional government. Most of the leaders were surprised to read that Judge Carbajal, the federal envoy, had been sent a message by Minister Limantour after the Diaz manifesto was issued, and dissatisfaction with its contents was apparent, asking the rebels to state in what terms they wished the announcement to be made.

If such a message was received by Carbajal he was very secret about divulging that fact even to the federal go-betweens who have been in the confidence of the government on its other moves in the peace conference.

Rebel leaders declared that had such a message reached their ears negotiations probably would long ago have been resumed.

Speculation as to the result was extensive today and it was considered likely in some quarters that the message may have been privately conveyed to Provisional President Madero without the knowledge of the other rebel peace commissioners.

LINDSAY RECOMMENDS A MAN FOR SUPERINTENDENT.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports which have reached Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, the noted juvenile judge, caused him to decry in a letter to Governor Eberhart the conditions existing in the Red Wing training school for boys. His communication received this morning said:

"Of course, I know very little concerning the merits of that controversy except what I have read in the papers, but I should say, generally speaking, that while the days of force have passed and there may be some extreme cases where corporal punishment is necessary and that its possibility may be held in reserve as a sort of deterrent, I believe that a man who relies upon corporal punishment to the extent claimed at Red Wing, could hardly be the right man for the place."

Judge Lindsey recommends to Governor Eberhart that Charles O. Merica, now president of the state university at Laramie, Wyo., be employed to take charge of the Red Wing school. Mr. Merica, formerly was superintendent of a similar institution at Waukesha, Wis., and knows how to handle boys.

Numerous applications for the position now held by Supt. Whittier are reaching the governor's desk, and many recommendations are being forwarded him.

Mining Company Censured.

Marquette, Mich., May 13.—After examining many witnesses, the coroner's jury which has been investigating the recent disaster at the Hartford mine at Negaunee, returned a verdict censuring the Republic Iron & Steel company, operators of the property, for not having a ladderway in No. 1 shaft. The absence of ladders preventing the men from making their escape through that part of the mine.

For the Motorist.

When fitting the tire, if the tube is pinched between the bead of the envelope and the rim, the invariable result is the explosion of the tube.

Such explosion usually forces the bead out of the clinch of the rim at the point where the rupture occurs. The inference is then drawn immediately, that the envelope did not fit properly in the first place, but this is probably not true. It is more than likely that two thicknesses of inner tube have become pinched under the toe of the bead, and that this trouble prevents the bead from fitting properly at that point. The inevitable rupture of the tube will naturally occur at the sharp fold in its surface just below the toe of the bead. This rupture will permit the air to escape with explosive force between the outside of the bead and the inner surface of the clinch, and this explosion will drive the bead out of the rim at that point. The trouble was not that the envelope was off size, which is seldom the case, but with the careless way in which the tube was fitted. Explosions as described will sometimes occur when the car is standing in the garage. In order to avoid pinching the inner tube between the rim and the band, the tube should be powdered well with soapstone powder before placing it inside the envelope, and it should be pushed inside the envelope carefully, after mounting the first bead, but before fitting the second bead.

After the second bead is fitted turn wheel slowly. If any projection or unevenness of the envelope is noted, take hold of the envelope with the left hand, the palm near the bead, pushing the outer side of the envelope towards the car. Then with the thin edge of a spur lever lift the outer bead and push it slightly toward the center of the rim. If any of the inner tube is visible, it is not in proper position. In this event push the thin part of the lever under the bead and force the free end of the lever downward to release the bead at that point. Then let the bead settle back in position, being sure that the pinched tube has released itself. If the tube cannot be seen at that point, continue the examination all around the wheel. Be particularly careful in examining that portion of the bead fitted last.

The proper care of tires and tubes is fully discussed in the instruction book sent free on request by the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, New Jersey.

LOST FORTUNE BY A SPREE.

National Banner: Robert Womack, who died recently at Colorado Springs a pauper and a paralytic, lost what might have been a gigantic fortune by getting on a drunken spree in 1891 as a prospector he discovered that there were gold deposits at Cripple Creek. He was so elated over his good fortune he went to Colorado Springs to celebrate his success, intending to keep his secret until he had perfected his arrangements to take full advantage of his discovery. But, like many other man, Womack's idea of celebrating his good luck was to drink to the "Goddness of Fortune" and have a "high old time." Accordingly, he called in his supposed friends and clinked glasses with them. As they showered their congratulations he "set 'em up" again and again, until he became so far under the influence of liquor he forgot his cunning and lost his head. It was then that he let the cat of fortune out of his bag, so to speak. In his maudlin moments the curious and covetous crowd about him learned the location of his remarkable discovery of gold. A few days later, when Womack had recovered from the effects of his drunken orgie, he hastened to Cripple Creek to discover, to his discomfiture and grief, that there had been a rush to the spot of miners, who had staked all of the most available claims. He succeeded only in marking out a few claims, which were practically valueless. Since that time Cripple Creek mines have yielded something like $240,000,000 in gold.

International Falls, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson conducted a land sale at the courthouse on Monday, at which time he disposed of 1,103 acres at an average price of approximately $5 per acre. The timber on the land sold amounted to $450, and the cash receipts of the day were $1,492.72. Mr. Iverson was accompanied by Theodore Nelson, manager of the land sales department, and both expressed themselves as well pleased with the result of the sale, inasmuch as less than 5,000 acres were offered and all of the same had been offered at previous sales. The June sale is now being advertised and will comprise no new offerings, as it will be impossible for appraisers to complete the work of listing new lands by June.

The Power company having appealed from its taxation because of the state tax commission having valued the plant at a higher amount than is considered fair by the company, the case will come up for hearing at the July term of court. The city has thought it wise to aid the county attorney in a defense of the case, so has sent Mayor Colburn and City Attorney Palmer down to confer with the tax commission and the attorney general, as the state, as well as the county and city, will be affected by the court's decision in the matter. The latter will establish a precedent for the taxation of future additions to the plant, as well as for the basis of what the present mills shall pay, so is of extreme importance to both the company and the commonwealth, and the case will therefore result in one of the greatest legal battles in the history of the state. No matter what the district court's decision may be, the case will undoubtedly finish in the supreme court, so the city's general fund of a possible $20,000 will be reduced to about $5,000 until the case is ended, as the Power company's assessment is about three-fourths of that of our city. A heavy discount on city warrants or a bond issue to cover the shortage will result from the company's appeal of its taxes.

RED RIVER VALLEY HAD GREAT SOAKING.

Crookston, Minn., May 13. — The total precipitation for three days here was 2.75 inches, more than fell during the entire growing season last summer. The frost of Thursday night cannot do any damage to the grain sown and as the wheat is all up, practically, the ground will be so covered before the surface is dried off that the grain will thrive if there was not another drop of rain till late in June. Because of the main and lateral ditches there is no fear of too much moisture.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

DULUTH CONCERN TO BUILD HOTEL

Brewing Company to Erect $50,000 Structure in International Falls.

International Falls, Minn., May 13. —(Special to The Herald.)—S. G. Byerly of Duluth, auditor of the Duluth Brewing & Malting company, while in the city this week, saw that the plans had been prepared for the hotel building which his company will erect on the Third street corner property recently acquired by them, and stated that the contract would be let and the work started at any early date.

It is hoped to have the structure ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. When completed it will be the finest business structure of its size, 63 by 90, in these parts. The company has decided to build three stories in height, but the upper story will not be completed until needed, when it will have a capacity of sixty-five rooms. Light colored brick will be used with darker brick for trimming, while the inside will be finished in the most up-to-date manner, tiling, stucco and marble predominating. All of the work on the building will be contracted with the exception of the decorating, which artists will do under the direction of the company's superintendent.

The Third street frontage of sixty-three feet will be divided into three parts, with a buffet on the corner, the lobby next and then a storeroom, the latter to be for rent. The cafe will occupy the rear end of the building and face the avenue. The building throughout will be modern and sanitary, with many baths and every known convenience in a hotel way. The basement is to be fitted up for a barber shop, sample rooms and heating plant, and the total cost of the structure when completed will be $50,000. FORT FRANCES BOY DROWNS IN RAINY

Working on Boat When Cable Breaks and He Is Hurled Into Water.

Fort Frances, Ont., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Roy, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mills of Fort Frances, was drowned Tuesday near Bear's pass on Rainy lake. The body was recovered an hour later and brought to Fort Frances for burial. Young Mills was working as a fireman on an alligator towboat for the Shevlin-Clarke company. The cable of the boat broke, causing it to lurch, and being at that time on deck he was precipitated into the water and drowned before his companions could help him.

A. Dowker of Fort Frances has sold his brickyard to Fort William parties who will operate it on a larger scale.

The committee from Fort Frances, which went to Ottawa two weeks ago to work for the passage of a bill which is expected to remedy some of that town's water power troubles, has not returned. No word having been reported from Ottawa, it is thought in some quarters that there will probably be another adjournment until after the return of Premier Laurier from the coronation of King George, which would leave Mr. Backus unmolested until, perhaps, September.

A. Dowker and family of Fort Frances have removed to Victoria, B. C., where they will make their future home.

Reducing the Waist Line in Both Sexes

Men and women with heavy, pendulous abdomens who wish to reduce them quickly and safely are usually advised to go in for certain tiresome twisting and bending exercises that, as a matter of fact, they should carefully avoid as being dangerous rather than beneficial.

A far better plan is to use the following three simple household remedies which can be obtained of any druggist at small cost, viz: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ ozs. Peppermint Water. These are mixed together at home and taken a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These three make a mixture that is not only perfectly harmless, but actually quite beneficial to the system, regulating the digestion, purifying the blood, and clearing the complexion of pimples and blotches. Its chief and surprising benefit is in the rapid, natural manner in which it reduces the fat person to the normal, beautiful lines of a fine physique, it having been known to cause the reabsorption of as much as a pound of fat a day. Moreover, it does it symmetrically, so that no wrinkles or flabby skin are left behind. Strange to say neither dieting nor exercise are advised when this simple home recipe is being used, for it will produce results independently of either and so the patient is instructed to eat whatever he or she fancies and is also permitted to take things easy.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT

Rush Getting Under Way in the Duluth Market—Speculative Interest in Steel Plant Lots — Suburban Property Values — Holding Tenants By Right Methods.

THE Duluth real estate situation is slightly mixed. Plenty of inquiry, a strong tone and a disposition to buy are readily discernable in the market, but few sales are made in investment property and the largest amounts involved are those given as consideration in residence deals. It may be that there is a scarcity of money for real estate transactions, but there is plenty of money to loan on improved real estate.

The pring has been backward, not only as to weather, but in a business way, and business has only begun to assume its normal spring proportions since the first of May. Since the opening of this month, the increased inquiry in the real estate has been noticeable and this month is expected to be much better than May in a business way.

There really hasn't been a lull, for considerable business was done during April. Rather the market has been going along slowly, gathering "wind," so to speak, for the summer's rush. There's nothing the matter with the Duluth real estate market. The values are here, the prospective purchasers are here and the values and prospective purchasers will get together in the natural course of events.

* * *

THE speculative interest in the real estate market will center this year on the steel plant district. Many lots were sold in that district last year, but the people were hardly ready for the greatest activity in steel plant lots. The speculative demand for Duluth property, which will prove a feature of the market this year, had not developed last year and comparatively few people were in the market for steel plant lots.

It is different this year. There is a well-defined speculative interest in the market and that interest will turn to the steel plant site for the best speculative propositions.

Several companies have lots in the vicinity of the steel plant are preparing for a season of activity. The New Duluth Land company has let a contract for the grading of streets and is preparing to get into the market actively. A. C. Volk & Co., who have large holdings and have plotted the townsite of Gary, are also preparing to throw it on the market. Considerable improvement work has been done.

Richardson, Day & Harrison, who launched Norton's Steel Plant division a short time ago, have met with success in disposing of the lots and will conduct an active campaign to close out the remainder.

* * *

ALONG with the progress of modern commercial advancement there has come a decided tendency to improve and cultivate to the highest point of perfection or art the outlying districts of the greater cities, with a view to transforming them into residence sections, which shall offer to jaded business men places of recreation and pleasure. The migration of thousands annually from the cities to the suburbs has had an effect upon the suburbs that may be compared fitly with a well known law of political economy, which deals with supply and demand.

The law reads somewhat in this wise: "If a commodity, marketed to the public at large, be much sought after, it is assured that the price of the commodity will increase proportionately as its demand."

This is just what has happened with suburban real estate. The demand for it has been so great for the past ten years that pieces are no longer to be obtained at a low figure. So widespread has been the demand that, of necessity, prices must soar. No longer will it be possible for any one to pick up bargains in suburban real estate. They must pay for what they receive and in a few more years it will be next to impossible for the average salaried man to think of maintaining a suburban home unless the higher cost of living, of which we hear a great deal nowadays, is considerably lessened. The advice of the most conservative business men is "Do it now. Buy. Buy now, while the market is low, while you have a chance. Yet a little while, and there will be no chance, and you will go home hungry all of your days. Do it now." The advice is good. There could be none better.

* * *

"I once heard an advertising man say the times for a merchant to advertise were, first, when business was good, and, second, when it was bad," said a prominent real estate dealer in another city recently, "and the advertising man added that the time when he should spend most money for advertising was when business was poorest.

"That made a deep impression on me, and I have adopted it in my business, coupled with one other rule. That is: 'Look prosperous, even if you are not. Only the rich man can afford to look poor.' Those two rules followed logically, will do for any one what they did for me, and for me they filled my houses and kept them filled.

"Several years ago I bought a row of two-story houses on one of the better streets. Opposite them is a similar row of six, built by the same man at the same time, five years ago, from the same plans. In the three years I have had my houses I have lost less than three per cent of my rent through idle houses. The owner of the houses opposite told me he has lot nearly thirty per cent., and I can believe him, for there never has been a time when he has not had bills in the windows. He asked me to explain my luck, and told him my rule. He shook his head and said it was simply luck.

"Following my rule to look prosperous, never put a 'to let' sign in a window. As soon as a house is empty I have it thoroughly cleaned and put it into good condition. No one would know the place was not occupied.

"Many a time have I seen people look up at my neighbor's property across the street, shake their heads at its many vacancies, which they take to indicate something intrinsically wrong, and come to me. The chances are I have nothing to offer, for I often have a list of persons waiting to get in, but if I have a place I am sure of getting it filled at once. With one exception, and that was due to an accident, I have never lost more than one month's rent in a year on any house. Most of my tenants stay three or four.

"Besides 'looking prosperous' I advertise as soon as I hear that a tenant is to go, and often have a new one to go in as soon as the place is ready. Any one can do it, or if he can't it is because his rents are too high or something else is wrong with the property."

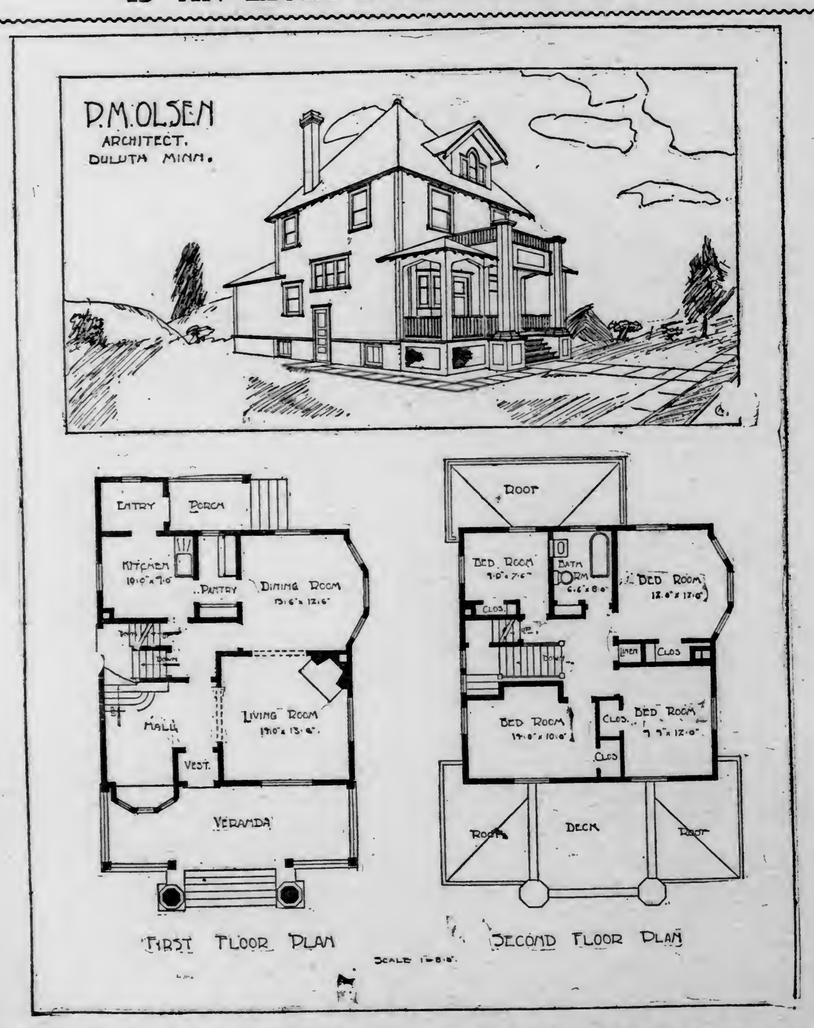
BEST CONTRACT—LEAST COST

ARE YOU PLANNING TO BUILD? HERE IS AN EIGHT-ROOM HOME COSTING $4,200



The above sketch will be an interesting study for anyone interested in home building.

The plans call for an eight-room frame residence building with stone foundation.

One enters off the large veranda into a vestibule and then into a medium sized reception hall, which has a cozy window seat built out.

The stairway is a very attractive as well as convenient feature. It is a combination front and rear hall stairway. The butler's pantry is another feature worthy of note. The second floor has four large bedrooms with a closet for each bedroom. Also a bath room with a towel cabinet. In the hall upstairs is located a linen closet, as well as the entrance to the stairway leading to the attic. It might also be mentioned that two large rooms could be finished in the attic.

The finish in the main rooms first floor is oak; kitchen and second floor southern pine.

The outside dimensions are 28 feet square not including rear entry nor porch.

This residence can be built in Duluth or vicinity, including hot water heating plant and electrical wiring, for $4,200.

Contract Is Let for Twelve-Family Flat Building.

Mr. Wangenstein is now preparing plans for a one-story and basement brick building, 27 by 100 feet, on Grand avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth avenues west. The building will be owned by William H. Given of New York. Provision will be made for two stores.

REALTY MARKET SHOWING SEASONABLE ACTIVITY

Many Sales of Improved Residence Property Reported By Dealers.

Stryker, Manley & Buck Handle Large Volume of Business.

The number of sales of improved residence property during the past week was unusually large and the market is getting into the seasonable spring activity. At the steel plant site, streets are being graded and preparations being made for an aggressive campaign of lot-selling, which bids fair to be highly successful.

The residence of Maurice Scroggins at 220 Sixteenth avenue east was sold yesterday to W. T. Wright, the consideration being announced as $11,400. The property has a frontage of 80 feet on the avenue and extends back 150 feet. The home was built within the past two years at a cost of about $10,000. The deal was made through E. D. Field & Co.

* * *

Stryker, Manley & Buck report today sales aggregating over $100,000 made during the past month. The volume of business is a remarkable one considering the condition of the market and the members of the firm are proud of it.

"We naturally feel proud of the list when present conditions in the Duluth market are considered," said J. D. Stryker of the firm yesterday. "We will soon celebrate our twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the firm in the real estate and loan business in Duluth and the amount of business done during the last month is a cause for celebration in itself. We have been in our present offices in the Torrey building eighteen years and have been very successful in our field. We have given careful personal attention to the business and try to conduct it in such a way that when a person does business with us once, he is so well satisfied that he continues to come to us for advice in regard to real estate matters or to make purchases. To that policy we attribute our success."

Why are railroads spending millions of dollars building into Duluth?

Why is the United States Steel Company spending millions of dollars building a plant in Duluth?

Why are other industries looking for locations in Duluth?

Not to spend money, but because Duluth is the natural distributing center for one-third of the entire United States, and they know it.

Duluth is bound to grow and centrally located low priced residence property is bound to increase in value at a greater rate than any other class of property.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

PARK TERRACE IS SOLD TO EMILE PETERSON

Price Paid for Well-Known Property Is Not Made Public.

Building Was Erected Twenty Years Ago But Is Substantial.

Park terrace, on the northwest corner of Eighth avenue west and Park place, was sold yesterday by the Newark Investment company to Emile Peterson. The consideration was withheld, $1 being named in the deed.

Park terrace is one of the best known pieces of investment property outside of the business district of the city. It was built before the days of the modern flat building and is in the separate-house apartment style. There are accommodations for nine families —seven houses and two apartments.

The building was built by Myers Brothers in 1891 at a cost of $54,000. The property was sold about four years ago to the Newark Investment company.

The lot is 90 by 120 feet and the building, though erected twenty years ago, is substantial and in good repair. Improvements have been made of late years, so that the terrace takes a place with modern apartment buildings today.

The deal was made through the office of J. D. Howard & Co., 211-212 Providence building.

REAL ESTATE MAN SAYS FLATS ARE AID TO RACE SUICIDE

"What do you think of the man who would put his wife in a flat to live? What do you think of a women who would ask to be housed in a flat?"

The questions were put by a member of a Duluth real estate firm. It was not a real estate talk at all which the real estate man made in answer to his own questions. It was one of the broadest discussions of the fundamentals of permanent city prosperity which could be indulged. Incidentally, there was justification for the man who tugs to draw population into the suburbs, and to country acreage adjacent to the urban centers, but in its essentials and purpose he spoke in behalf of vitalizing influences for the community, country and race.

"What has the family in a flat?" said he. "What are the inspirations of the place and the environment? What are the apartment house tendencies?

"Certainly all are away from the home. The apartment house takes the road away from families of healthy, rollicking children. The movement is from fresh air and sunshine to stone walls and artificial heat. Packing men and women together in these great elegant structures is the process that leads from Nature to the superficialities of vain society, and the tenement is only the natural drag end of the process.

"For the man, what has he in the apartment house? He goes from work in the evening to call, as it were, upon the restful lady of a caged residence. He finds there nothing which suggests the system by which Nature endears struggle and suffering, and by which alone permanent, wholesome success is possible for the race. He sees nothing of the creative process spreading from lawn to shrub, from fecund soil to vivifying rain. A man-made den is his, in which the superficial things of the race are absorbed, and the fatuous conceits of scholars poison his soul.

Mockery for Women.

"For the woman, the apartment house is a deeper mockery. She learns there to do little useful, to spend heavy time in vain entertainment. There is not enough work to make her feel the duty of existence. All the burdens of maternity which give to woman the rich consciousness of having done a full part in life are shunned. In the apartment house, the richer and grander it is the more truly so the family spirit is lost, the strongest bond of affection is little known, and the restless generation finding such lodgment weakens the generation to follow.

"How differently is the cottage home of the suburb or rural district near. Go to our large suburban districts and see what the homebuilders are doing these early spring days. Listen to their talk morning and evening on the cars. See the young hope of the nation romping across streets, on lawns, or delving in gardens. The whole face of life is different there. The emptiness of the apartment house game is nowhere to be seen. In its stead is a sturdy spirit of hope, willing to place strong shoulders to the wheel of progress, and bear a full share in the necessary drudgery of conquering inherent difficulties with which man is surrounded. A portion of every evening is spent in a garden, mowing grass, tending shrubs or cultivating fruit trees. Chickens, a dog, cat, birds and other things of the animal kingdom are being reared. The man is getting nearer the day when he will own his home, which gives the satisfaction of feeling that every dollar spent and every lick of work done is for the loved ones who will inherit the proceeds of his thrift and energy.

"If we concede that the race has any mission, that life has any aim, children are the crowning duty and pleasure of existence. Giving those children healthy, sunburned bodies, and tolerant, considerate minds, and inspiring their young lives with wholesome, creative, constructive purposes is the highest mission in procreation. Isn't it better for childhood that the mysteries of nature, her problems and rewards, should be the first study, rather than the task of avoiding scratches to pollshed furniture in apartment houses?

Duluth a Home City.

"Duluth is a superb home city. It was surely intended to lead the world in this wholesome development. There is no place where nature will do more for small coaxing in the suburban yard and garden than here. My greatest pride in showing the visitor about the city is not the office buildings and apartment houses, but the multiplying small homes, filled with happy looking people. When I point those out, I argue that we are building there on a foundation which no tide of fortune can shake. Those men that come to own their little homes love their families and their city. They study municipal welfare closest, act with the greatest deliberation in municipal questions, repress by their very lives and counsel radical digressions, and constitute that great, certain, unfailing resource of energy and intelligence which must be had in guilding the ship of state in all democracies.

"I am interested in a factory. We encourage the workmen there to get homes and aid them when necessary. We take the keenest pleasure in encouraging them to improve and beautify those homes. And we find among those men, the happiest, most prosperous and faithful class of employes that can be secured. These are the men that make and save money. Small savings at first on strict economies make the process easier as increased earnings and returns upon savings begin to be felt. And it is this trend in Duluth development which pleases me most: the drift away from apartment houses and sterility, to the cottage home and happy families. The people of Duluth will find no surer index to permanent prosperity than following this line. Duluth wealth then cannot be monopolized by the few, and the bitter strifes arising between landlord and renting classes will not be known here."

Many of the most prominent realty men of the city believe that Duluth in due time will become famed the world over as a home city, on which panics and booms will have slight effect.

NOTE OF INDIVIDUALITY IN AMERICAN ARCHITECTURE

At last we are beginning to feel that we have come into our own, architecturally, in home-building. We have borne with the accusation that the architecture of our houses is borrowed from every quarter of the globe, often presenting a hopeless conglomeration of borrowings under the self-same roof-tree; we have had to, because there they were scattered all over the country—Queen Anne cottages, Swiss chalets, Italian villas, Indian bungalows and art nouveau monstrosities, some of them at peace with their environment, more of them unfortunate aliens. But from this indiscriminate adoption there have evolved certain styles in American architecture, bearing still suggestions of their source, but so modified and adapted to our needs and ideals that they are now recognized as striking the note of individuality so long denied to us.

There is a directness of design and a sincerity of treatment in these twentieth century homes that is most satisfying. It has been said that "There is a subtle relation existing between home architecture and the human heart, and the expression of that relation should be the ideal of domestic architecture." At least we may be said to be approaching that ideal, because primarily we are insisting that our homes express simple beauty and hospitable comfort and livableness.

The increasing use of plaster has been a great incentive to composition, since it frees the architect to a certain extent from strict adherence to rules. Although this application of cement to the exteriors of buildings is really many hundreds of years old it has been used only for brick or stone buildings, so that its use on those of frame construction is practically new and experimental. Since it promises great durability, if protected by a good waterproof, wash, and is proof against cold and damp, besides lending itself to many attractive finishes, its popularity is not likely to wane.

The picturesque qualities of the combination of cement with brick or timber seem especially adapted to the requirements of our western and northwestern countries where, indeed, one will find the greatest number of these stucco exteriors. Quite new is the use of tiles as a decorative feature. The faience tiles, some made from the formula of the ancient Babylonian tile, are used to great advantage in the moldings, architraves of doors and windows, friezes, and so on. They form a pleasant contrast to the cement, and are sometimes also used for the roofing.

The interior arrangement of the medium sized home usually follows one of three simple plans: the living room may extend across the entire front of the house with a den and dining room opening from it and the kitchen back of the den; there may be a good sized entrance hall with a rectangular living room on one side and the dining room and kitchen on the other; or there may be the square entrance hall with the kitchen behind it and the dining room behind the living room. Any of these arrangements are cosy and convenient, but the preference may be said to rest with the first, which allows for the long, spacious living room. The living room of a western home of this type was made most livable by the use of many little built-in nooks and corners, and was divided by girders instead of the usual columns or posts. The fireplace of olive-green tile had built-in bookcases on either side, with two windows above it, and the dull red walls harmonized with the woodwork of dressed redwood left in its natural color. Sliding glass doors between the living room and the den were a unique feature that further gave the impression of spaciousness.

It is surely the day of the built-in furniture. It owes its vogue not only to the artistic demands which it meets so gratifyingly, but to the practical demands for compact utility. There is the hall-tree in the hall and perhaps the built-in seat with its hinger top; the bookshelves in the living room, the fireplace, the ingle nook, and the window seat, all component parts of the room; the sideboard and the cupboard in the dining room, the kitchen cabinet and refrigerator and medicine chest and linen shelves—all adding to the beauty and convenience of the house.

In nothing so much as in the new fireplaces does the creditable tendency to express ourselves in the materials themselves rather than in ornamentation show itself. They are well designed and, in a reaction from the overelaboration of a few years ago, are along colonial or mission lines. Great care is given to the selection of tiling, when used. Among the Grueby, Rookwood and Moravian tiles it is possible to obtain effects that will harmonize with any room. A fireplace in which was dull green tiles, with touches of red in the carving, carried out successfully the prevailing tones in a delightful living room that was recently furnished by a bride. The walls were papered with a soft hued paper with a tan ground covered with a blur of old rose flowers and dull green leaves, with just a touch of brown which was accented by the flat moulding inciosing each wall space. The portieres were of dull green arras cloth with a motif suggested with the wall paper and carried out in the same low tones in applique. An interesting idea was the installing of small electric lamps on each post of the built-in bookshelves.

In place of wainscoting for the dining room, which is, of course, most desirable but also most expensive, strip divisions of grained woods stained dark rich colors, are much used. In an upstairs living room a charming effect was obtained by the use of silver grey maple with silver grass cloth and rose color velour hangings. For a small room the panels inclosed by black lacquered strips are sometimes stenciled in a conservative pattern.

The fresh air crusaders may point to many of the new homes with triumph, because not a few of them have not only a sun room but often one or two out-door sleeping balconies on the second floor. A home just erected by an enthusiast of the fresh air presuasion has two, of generous dimensions, one on the north side of the house and one on the south. These balconies have convas decked floors and are covered by roofs. Banister railings of redwood poles extend along the unenclosed sides, and porch shades are provided which can be lowered in sections to regular draughts.

RAINY LAKE FISHING INDUSTRY GROWING

Fishermen Own Much Land Along Stream and Maintain Large Plants.

International Falls, Minn, May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fishing season on Rainy lake opens on May 20, and the fishermen are all busy getting their nets and boats in shape. That the industry has come to be an important one is shown by the fact that the entire lake frontage, comprising almost 100 miles, is occupied by fishermen, each one having rights in certain well defined districts.

Many of them have built homes along the shore, with ice houses and other necessary buildings, and the greater number of them have power boats with which to bring their catch to market.

A good season is anticipated, and for this reason the buyers at Ranier are enlarging the capacity of their plants, the Lakeside Fish company in particular having made substantial additions to their cold storage and other buildings.

KEEPING POOR CHEAPLY.

Cass County Board Declines to Change Present Method.

Walker, Minn., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 2 and 3 the county commissioners decided not to speculate on a county poor farm proposition for the present at least. Commissioner Forbes, who was one of the committee named to look up poor farm data made a volumnious report, and letters from over fifty counties in the state showed a majority of them against the poor farm project. These letters contain real instructive information and have been filed away by Auditor Bthre for future reference. Incidentally they show that the county poor of Cass county today are being cared for as cheaply and far better than the average.

The contract for laying cement sidewalks at the court house grounds was let to a Brainerd firm.

ALLEGED FORGER LAST HEARD OF IN MONTANA.

Casselton, N. D., May 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three forgeries are charged to C. B. Howard, formerly of this city and last heard of at Glasgow, Mont., where he is accused of having secured the indorsement of a friend to a $60 check drawn on Lorenze Jones of this city. In Casselton, Howard is accused of having passed two forged checks, both drawn on Jones' account. The accused man, who is being searched for by the officials, cleaned up $85 in all according to the complaints on file against him.

HEAVY RAIN IN KANSAS

Dry Area in West Soaked—Crop Prospects Improved—Wheat Off.

East Buys Spring and Durum—Manitobas of All Grades Are Worked.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 13.—The wheat market opened weak and declined, rallied and then advanced. On the bulge there was moderate selling and realizing in the face of the holiday and values closed lower. May wheat lost ½c and July declined a similar distance. September advanced ¼c. There was some strength in this option because of reports that moisture in many places in the Northwest has not been sufficient. Millers in Minneapolis evinced a mild interest in the September delivery. Cash wheat was on a parity with July. Oats lost ⅜c on account of realizing. Rye was unchanged and barley was not quoted. Durum wheat was strong, July advancing ⅜c. Scattered sales of durum wheat were made today in the East.

Linseed was mixed. There were a few offers in the september delivery and one sale was made. The trading was dull and insignificant. May was unchanged and July advanced ½c. September lost 2c. Plata seed at Antwerp for May-June delivery closed at $2.20.2. The weakness was caused by the approach of parcels and offerings of Indian seed.

The opening weakness was caused by the softness in most of the continental markets. Paris was an exception, that market closed higher on account of covering in the near month and light supplies. Hot, dry weather in Russia continues, according to Broomhall, and a cable to Slaughter of Chicago confirmed the report. American markets advanced on bullish Russian news, but the weakness toward the close was caused partly by reports that the Russian rumors were exaggerated. Russian shipments do not bear out the bullish reports as shippers do not seem to fear for the outcome of the spring wheat crop. Shipments are heavy and indications point to an increase next week. The continental demand for wheat was somewhat quieter, although fair sales of Manitobas of all grades were reported, wherein this column was in error yesterday when it said that only low grade Manitobas were being exported.

The weather map everywhere was favorable. There were rains in France which broke the drouth there, and from three-fourths to an inch of rain fell in the dry region in Western Kansas. Reports from that territory indicate a great improvement in the crop. The market was visibly affected by the favorable news which came from Western Kansas, where it was supposed only a small yield per acre would be made under the most favorable conditions. In the Northwest the weather continues cool, which is helpful to wheat. A few reports of needed moisture came from the territory around Minot, N. D., and Southeastern South Dakota. Otherwise reports were favorable. In the Northwest wheat and coarse grains have been sown and farmers are now planting corn and linseed.

The cash demand today was rather slow. Sales to arrive continued fairly liberal in the Northwest and at Chicago.

Flour Situation.

"The flour trade has been noticeably better the past week both as regards new business and shipping directions on old. The stronger markets have inspired more confidence and there has been a better feeling all around." This is the report received from a leading miller in the Northwest and it agrees with reports received from other sources. But notwithstanding the fact that several such reports have come to hand they do not reflect the general situation among flour producers, most of whom say that new business is of limited volume and confined to small lots for quick shipment, buyers showing no disposition to operate beyond their immediate requirements. The general situation, however, as regards old orders has improved materially during the past fortnight and in this respect conditions are much better than for some time previous.

With some business is as dull and unsatisfactory as it was earlier in the year. Others on the contrary have had a better business during the last fortnight and, while making no large single transactions, they have booked a fair volume of small orders. During the past week trading was disturbed by the unsettled wheat markets, but demand as a whole has continued fair and there is evidence that the number of buyers who need flour is increasing. Scattering small sales for quick shipment are fairly numerous and make up practically all the new business coming forward.

Trading is not general, however, some buyers refusing to enter the market, preferring to draw on their reserve supplies rather than to make fresh purchases. Stocks with distributors, while not large, are in many cases ample to meet all requirements, this being especially true of those whose business in flour shows considerable falling off, as with a small retail grocer outside the city who finds that on the present wheat crop his sales have dropped 50 per cent from the record of the previous year. He accounts for this in a considerable reduction in the consumption of flour in favor of other staple articles, the cost of which is very much less than last year. He mentions beef, eggs, several kinds of fruit and other things as being consumed more freely owing to their comparative cheapness.

The highest prices quoted for winter wheat flour is $4.80, at which figure sales of choice Pensylvania patent have been made during the week, but not to any extent. Other mill quote patent at $4.25 to 4.60, and a limited volume of business has been closed at prices within that range. Good straights and fancy clears are selling steadily in a limited way at $4 to $4.20 per barrel, buyers operating as they need the flour and not anticipating requirements.

MARKET GOSSIP

Lewis of Minneapolis wired Baker: North Dakota to the Missouri river has had good rains this week and is in fine shape, especially the Red River valley. West of t ehMissouri more rain would be welcomed, and if it does not materialize next week we are likely to hear complaints. South Dakota also will need more moisture in order to allay all basis for apprehension.

(Written by the office boy of the Baker Commission company, and published with apologies.)

O, where are the bulls of yesterday,
What are they doing today.
Why are they silent while prices go down
And profits are melting away?

Fondly we hoped for another rise
And stubbornly held to our long
Visions we had of a golden prize
When everything closed up strong.

But rudely the bears shatter our hope
The world greets our smile with a frown,
Vainly we scan o'er the morning's dope
While prices go down, down.

O, where are the bulls, etc.

Oh, where are the bears of yesterday,
What are they doing today.
Why are they silent while prices go up
And profits are melting away?

Fondly we hoped for a further break
And stubbornly held to our short.
Visions we had of a golden stake,
When we read the weather report.

But rudely the bulls now shatter our hope,
With sorrow we're doomed to sup,
Vainly we search through the morning's dope
While prices go steadily up.

Oh, where are the bears, etc.

Crop reports: Tyndale, S. D.—"The ground was never in better shape for crops than this year. We have had plenty of rain all through this part of South Dakota." Vermillion, S. D.—"While the general impression prevails that rain would be beneficial, as yet nothing has suffered for want of same. Winter wheat sown in limited tracts averages well in looks and spring wheat and oats promise well. Much corn is being planted under favorable conditions." Pipestone, Minn.—"Reports indicating that the condition will become critical if rains do not come soon, are entirely unwarranted. We have plenty of moisture to start the crops in fine shape and we consider conditions very favorable. Wheat, oats and barley seeding all done and grain coming up fine. Farmers are starting to seed flax and corn." Parker, S. D.—"No apparent worry here about conditions of the crops. Small grain is nicely up and doing fine; good color and growth. Corn planting is going on full tilt, with plenty of moisture. Tame grass pastures are all that could be criticised and that is the result of winter weather. Summed up there is nothing wanted but corn weather now."

The world's wheat exports since July 1, a year ago, have reached 545,000,000 bu, against 482,000,000 the year before and 400,000,000 bu in 1908-9. There has been a cumulative increase in export totals for three years, and with nearly eight weeks more to run till July, 1911, present prospects are that exports from leading countries this season will be among the largest of record. Participants in this heavy movement rank in the following order. Russia, North America, Argentina, Australia and India. Below are the latest yearly totals prior to the current season's exports, showing very decided improvement in all leading countries except Argentina and North America.

	1909-10.	1908-09.
Russia's exports	218,792,000	91,864,000
North America's exports	143,072,000	166,767,000
Argentina's exports	73,645,000	95,000,000
Australia's exports	54,274,000	35,296,000
India's exports	46,720,000	39,100,000

Russia's position entitles her to special mention as a contributor of breadstuffs. Even if the current season's exports be not so large as those of 1909-10, Russia will have at least 200,000,000 bu to her credit by July 1.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: There was a steady opening this morning with prices ¼d to ⅝d higher with offerings light and some disposition shown toward further support on the strength in America yesterday and the continued hot dry weather in Russia. Later and just before the close, realizing developed and the market turned easy, losing ½d from the opening, selling at this time was attributed to favorable reports from Argentine and predictions of heavy Russian shipments this week together with liberal American shipments as shown by Bradstreet. There was a limited inquiry for cargoes and the demand for the continent was quiet. The market was largely under the influence of week end realizing. At the close the tone was easy with May unquoted and otherwise ⅛d to ¼d lower than yesterday. After opening ½d lower corn further declined ¼d with the undertone easy. There was a poor spot demand and predictions of liberal American shipments this week to Liverpool together with predictions of fair shipments from the Danube. These offset the firmness in America yesterday.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Takes Downward Plunge Under Heavy Selling.

Chicago, May 13.—With cables lower and no help expected from shorts covering wheat today headed downward under heavy commission selling. Liverpool led the way, influenced by large Russian and American shipments. The fact that cash demand continued to drag here and at other cities, barring only Minneapolis, had quite a little to do with the turning sentiment for the time being in favor of the bears. The opening was ⅞@⅞c lower to ⅛c up. July started at 89½c to 89⅜c, a loss of ½c to ⅝c, fell to 89¼c and then recovered to 89½c.

Urgent need of rain in Russia led to a decided rally. The effect, however, gradually wore off, and the close was steady at 89⅜c, a net loss of ½c.

Belief that receipts would soon become larger tended to weaken corn. The setback in wheat was also against the bulls. July opened ⅛@¼c, but steadied at 52⅜@52½c.

The market rallied later with wheat, but slipped back again. The close was steady with July at 52½c, a net loss of ⅜@½c.

Oats were depressed by selling on the part of local longs. Incentive came from the break in other cereals. July started ⅛c to ⅜c easier at 33¾c to 34c, and appeared inclined to keep within that range.

In provisions the liquidation of May pork continued, and somewhat affected the July option. Other products were firm in sympathy with hogs. First sales were 2½c to 37½c lower for pork, with May at $15.62½. Lard and ribs were 5c to 7½c up at $8.30½ for September lard and $8.02½ for September ribs.

STOCKS ARE SLUGGISH

Trading Diminishes Until the Market Has Scarcely Semblance of Life.

Active Issues Under Pressure and Close Is Heavy and Dull.

New York, May 13.—The drooping tendency was apparent in the early trading on the stock market today, although changes were small. The heaviest loser was Sloss-Sheffield Steel, which receded ¾. Union Pacific fell back ½ and Western Maryland advanced the same amount.

Trading dimished steadily until there was scarcely a semblance of life to the market. Fluctuations were in keeping with the sluggishness of the list, none of the speculative favorites varying more than a small fraction. The tendency was upward, with United States Steel and St. Paul rising to above yesterday's closing. Minneapolis & St. Louis gained 3 points, the preferred 1½ and Philadelphia company 1¼.

The market closed heavy and dull. Business was quite featureless in the final hour, the only noteworthy exception being Philadelphia company, which gained 2½, and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, which was up 1½. The more active issues, such as Union Pacific and Reading, continued under pressure.

REBELLION.

Chicago News: "We ought to have a sleeping porch, and there's no room for argument about it," said Mrs. Jamesworthy, with emphasis. "It isn't a luxury. It's a necessity, and every doctor in the country indorses it."

"I don't give a whoop what the doctors indorse," said Jamesworthy, indignantly. "You find a doctor who'll pay the carpenters and painters for doing the work and you may have your confounded sleeping porch. The doctors give me a pain in my sideboards. They go around indorsing things that cost a lot of money and then the women insist upon having those things, and that's why husbands are chasing themselves over the poor farm night and day. What chance do I have to salt down a few rocks for my declining years? Every time I get 75 cents in the Building & Loan association you spring some new scheme that'll cost a million bones and say the blamed doctors indorsed it, as though that settled it. I'm going to whip the first doctor I meet, even if I go to the pen for it.

"A married man doesn't have any show nowadays. He works like a swaybacked horse and provides his family with every luxury, and his wife just sits around on the upholstered furniture and thinks up new ways to blow his money. It's just one fool fad after another and each one costs more than the others. Now it's sleeping porches, and when that's played out it will be Chinese pagodas or Arabian mosques. It's a pity if you can't sleep in a comfortable bedroom with three windows facing the south and two facing the east. If you can't get enough fresh air in such a room you ought to sleep on the lawn and hold a funnel in your mouth. If you were the right sort of a wife you would study up ways to save money rather than way to burn it."

"It's really refreshing to hear you talking about economy," exclaimed Mrs. Jamesworthy. "You ought to be on the Chautauqua circuit, where your sentiments would do much for the uplift. You call it sinful extravagance to build a sleeping porch, which would cost $100 and contribute to the health and happiness of your family, but you didn't even frown when you contributed $100 to the Frog Lake Clam Bake association for a big jamboree. When you paid that money were you providing for your declining years?"

"There you go! You think a man should have no relaxation after years of grinding toil. You would have him bear the heat and burden of the day and never spend a cent for his own amusement. The thing for a husband to do is to carry on his own earnings and hand them over to his wife to build sleeping porches and dog kennels with, and when he wants to mail a letter he can borrow the price of a stamp from her."

"I'm glad to know that you grudge me the trifle I spend at the annual clam bake. It's a great encouragement to a man who works until his joints creak like an old gate hinge. I suppose you think we men should work like government mules all day and then come home and play leap frog on the village green. Well, I didn't agree to sacrifice everything when I got married and when the time comes that I can't afford an occasional diversion I'll take an ax and blow my brains out with it."

"Mrs. Quigbacker has a new sleeping porch and she says it's the greatest comfort and convenience she ever saw. Her husband enjoys it as much as she does. In the evenings he can take his newspaper and sit there and smoke and read and the flies and mosquitoes can't bother him. Mr. Quigbacker doesn't earn half as much as you do, yet he made no fuss about building the porch. But, of course, he isn't such a man as you are. He lacks your energy and genius, and he hasn't your faculty of making and keeping friends. He is—"

"Oh, go ahead and order your old sleeping porch. There'll be no peace till you get it."

EAGER FOR AN EDUCATION.

Jewish Chronicle: A Poltava, South Russia, paper recently published an advertisement from a Jew who offered to pay the fees at a local gymnasium of three Christian children. The reason for the offer is obvious.

By the admission of the three Christians an extra place, under the percentage norm, would be provided for a Jew, and the advertiser hoped by this desperate means to secure the admission of his son.
